The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be clearly documented and verified. The second part details the various methods used to collect and analyze data, including interviews, surveys, and focus groups. The third part presents the findings of the study, highlighting the key trends and insights. The final part concludes with recommendations for future research and practical applications of the findings.

The data collected from the various sources shows a clear trend towards digitalization and automation. This is particularly evident in the manufacturing and service sectors. The findings suggest that organizations that embrace these technologies are more likely to succeed in the long run. However, it is also noted that there are significant challenges associated with the implementation of these technologies, such as the need for skilled personnel and robust infrastructure.

In conclusion, the study has provided valuable insights into the current state of the industry and the challenges it faces. The findings are expected to be useful for policymakers, industry leaders, and researchers alike. Further research is needed to explore the long-term implications of these trends and to develop effective strategies to address the associated challenges.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

VOTES No. 4. FRIDAY, 28 SEPTEMBER, 1860.

3. Committee of Elections and Qualifications:—The Speaker, pursuant to the requirement of the Electoral Act of 1858, laid upon the Table his Warrant appointing the Committee of Elections and Qualifications for the present Session, of which the following is a Copy:—

“ By the Honorable the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly “ of New South Wales.

“ Pursuant to the power in that behalf vested in me, as Speaker of the Legislative “ Assembly of New South Wales, by the Electoral Act of 1858, I do hereby appoint “ William Macleay, Esquire, “ John Hubert Plunkett, Esquire, “ Alexander Walker Scott, Esquire, “ Samuel Deane Gordon, Esquire, “ James Dickson, Esquire, “ Saul Samuel, Esquire, “ John Garrett, Esquire,

“ being Members of the said Assembly, to be Members of the Committee of Elections
“ and Qualifications in the said Act referred to, during the present Session of the “ Assembly aforesaid.

“ Given under my Hand, at the Legislative Assembly Chambers, “ Macquarie-street, Sydney, this twenty-eighth day of September,
“ in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty.

“ T. A. MURRAY,
“ Speaker.”

VOTES No. 8. FRIDAY, 5 OCTOBER, 1860.

Members of Committee of Elections and Qualifications, sworn:—William Macleay, John Hubert Plunkett, Alexander Walker Scott, Samuel Deane Gordon, James Dickson, Saul Samuel, and John Garrett, Esquires, sworn at the Table by the Clerk as the Members of the Committee of Elections and Qualifications for the present Session, pursuant to the requirement of the 70th Section of the Electoral Act of 1858.

2. Question of Privilege.—Member returned for two Electorates:—The Speaker,—adverting to the request addressed by him to Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, on the 27th September last (as recorded in the Votes and Proceedings of that date, No. 3, Entry 14) to make his Election for which of the two Constituencies by whom he had been returned he would thenceforth serve, by addressing to him a letter resigning his Seat for the other, in accordance with the 25th Section of the Constitution Act,—stated to the House, that the period of seven days, allowed by the usage of Parliament for declaring a choice in such cases, had now elapsed without his having received the required communication from the said Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire.

Whereupon, Mr. Deniehy, having, in his place, addressed the House on the subject, moved, “ That ” the Question as to the validity of the recent Election for The Tumut, and the return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, as Member for the said Electorate, be referred to the Committee of Elections and Qualifications, for their consideration and report.

Debate ensued.

Mr. Martin moved, That the Question be amended by the omission of all the words following the word “ That ” at the commencement, with a view to the insertion in their place of the words “ Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, who was, on the 15th “ May, 1860, returned as one of the Members for the Electoral District of East “ Macquarie, and who took his Seat as such Member on the 22nd of the same month, “ having been afterwards, on 11th June, 1860, and while he was such Member for “ East Macquarie, returned as Member for the Electoral District of The Tumut, to “ fill the vacancy created by the resignation of George Dunmore Lang, Esquire, the “ late Member for such Electoral District,—this House resolves that the said Return “ of 11th June, 1860, is void, and that the Seat for the Electoral District of The “ Tumut is still vacant.”

Debate

Debate continued,—in the course of which the Speaker, being called upon by certain Honorable Members to express his opinion upon the two courses proposed, stated that his view of the subject led him to prefer that indicated by the original motion.

Question—That the words proposed to be omitted stand part of the Question—put and passed.

Whereupon Original Question put and passed.

- 3. First Meeting of Elections and Qualifications Committee :—Pursuant to the requirement of the 70th Section of the Electoral Act of 1858, the Speaker appointed the first Meeting of the Committee of Elections and Qualifications to take place at noon, on Tuesday next, the 9th instant, in Committee Room No. 2.

VOTES NO. 9. TUESDAY, 9 OCTOBER, 1860.

- 2. Member of Legislative Council as Witness (before Election Committee) :—Mr. Plunkett, on behalf of Mr. Scott, the Chairman of the Committee of Elections and Qualifications, moved, That the following Message be carried to the Legislative Council :—

MR. PRESIDENT,

The Committee of Elections and Qualifications of the Legislative Assembly, appointed pursuant to the requirement of the Electoral Act of 1858, being desirous to examine the Honorable John Fletcher Hargrave, Esquire, in reference to the subject referred to them, viz.,—“ the question as to the validity of the recent Election “ for The Tumut, and the return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, for the said “ Electorate,”—The Assembly requests that the Legislative Council will give leave to its said Member to attend accordingly, on such day and days as shall be arranged between him and the said Committee.

Sydney, 9 October, 1860.*

Speaker.

Question put and passed.

VOTES NO. 10. WEDNESDAY, 10 OCTOBER, 1860.

- 3. Member of Legislative Council as Witness (before Election Committee) :— The Speaker reported that, during the Debate just adjourned, the following Message had been received from the Legislative Council :—

MR. SPEAKER,

In answer to the Message from the Legislative Assembly, dated the 9th instant, requesting leave for the Honorable John Fletcher Hargrave, a Member of the Legislative Council, to attend and be examined before the Committee of Elections and Qualifications of the Legislative Assembly, the Council acquaints the Assembly that leave has been granted to its said Member to attend and be examined by the said Committee, if he think fit.

MEMBER RETURNED FOR TWO ELECTORATES.

REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE
OF
ELECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

THE Committee of Elections and Qualifications, duly appointed on the 5th day of October, 1860, under the provisions of the Electoral Act of 1858, to whom was referred, on the same day, by a Resolution of the Assembly, the question as to the validity of the recent Election for "The Tumut," and the Return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, as Member for the said Electorate, have determined, and do hereby accordingly declare the said Election to have been and to be wholly void.

A. W. SCOTT,
Chairman.

Sydney, 18 October, 1860.*

MINUTES OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE OF ELECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

In the matter of the Return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, as Member for two Electoral Districts, viz.—“ East Macquarie ” and “ The Tumut.”

TUESDAY, 9 OCTOBER, 1860.

MEMBERS PRESENT :—

Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Scott,
Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Samuel,
	Mr. Gordon.

In attendance upon the Committee :—
The 2nd Clerk Assistant.

Present :—

Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, the Member certified to as having been returned for the Electoral Districts of “ East Macquarie ” and “ The Tumut.”

1. On motion of Mr. Plunkett, seconded by Mr. Gordon, Mr. Scott was elected Chairman.
2. The Clerk, by direction of the Chairman, read the Resolution adopted by the House, and referred to the Committee on the 5th instant, for consideration and report.
3. The Committee resolved (after deliberation) to adjourn all further proceedings in the matter to a future day, and instructed the Clerk to request the attendance of the Honorable the Attorney General as a Witness on the next day of meeting. Committee then adjourned till to-morrow, the 10th instant, at 11½ o'clock, A.M.

O. F. KELLY,
2nd Clerk Assistant.

WEDNESDAY, 10 OCTOBER, 1860.

MEMBERS PRESENT :—

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Garrett,
Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Gordon,
	Mr. Samuel.

In attendance upon the Committee :—
The 2nd Clerk Assistant.

Present :—

Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire.

1. The Minutes of Proceedings at the last meeting, having been read by the Clerk, were confirmed.
2. Charles Tompson, Esquire, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, having been sworn, was examined.
The witness produced the Writ certifying to the return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, as Member for the Electoral District of “ The Tumut,” as well as all documents and correspondence in reference thereto in his custody.
3. The Hon. John Fletcher Hargrave, M.L.C., Attorney General, having been called in, for the purpose of being examined, raised an objection to giving any Evidence this day, on two grounds,—first, that he had not received any notice requiring his presence before the Committee; and secondly, that, as a Member of the Legislative Council, he did not feel justified in giving Evidence without first obtaining the leave of that body.
The Chairman informed the witness that a notice requesting his attendance had been duly forwarded to his office on the 9th instant; and in reference to the second ground of objection, produced precedents to justify the course of anticipating the consent of the Legislative Council in pressing emergencies,—but, however, the Committee would, in consequence of the objections raised, postpone the examination until to-morrow.—The witness then withdrew.
4. The Committee deliberated, and adjourned till to-morrow, at 10½ o'clock, A.M.

O. F. KELLY,
2nd Clerk Assistant.

THURSDAY,

THURSDAY, 11 OCTOBER, 1860.

MEMBERS PRESENT :—

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Gordon,
Mr. Samuel,		Mr. Garrett.
	Mr. Dickson.

In attendance on the Committee :—
The 2nd Clerk Assistant.

Present :—
Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire.

1. The Minutes of Proceedings at the last meeting, having been read by the Clerk, were confirmed.
2. Charles Tompson, Esquire, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, having been called in, produced, and handed in the Ballot Papers of The Tumut Election, and was further examined.
3. The Hon. John Fletcher Hargrave, M.L.C., Attorney General, being in attendance by permission of the Legislative Council, was called in, and being sworn, was examined. The witness proceeding to read from a written document, and exception being taken by Mr. Deniehy to such a course, as being irregular—
Discussion ensued, and,—
The Committee being of opinion that the witness should give his Evidence "viva voce," Examination resumed.
And the witness having withdrawn,—
Mr. Deniehy expressed a desire to address the Committee, and leave being given, that gentleman proceeded to address the Committee, and having concluded, withdrew.
4. The Committee resolved, on motion of Mr. Garrett, that the deliberation of the Committee on the question referred to them, be postponed till Wednesday next. Committee then adjourned till Wednesday the 17th instant, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

O. F. KELLY,
2nd Clerk Assistant.

WEDNESDAY, 17 OCTOBER, 1860.

MEMBERS PRESENT :—

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Gordon,
Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Samuel.

In attendance upon the Committee—
The 2nd Clerk Assistant.

1. The Minutes of Proceedings at the last meeting, having been read by the Clerk, were confirmed.
2. Mr. Gordon having called attention to the fact of the Attorney General having handed to the short-hand writer a MS. document, which does not appear printed with his Evidence—and the short-hand writer having explained that he did not consider the document as having been handed to him for publication, but merely with a view to his reference in transcribing the authorities quoted therefrom, and having produced the document,—
Mr. Gordon moved that the document just produced be printed as an Appendix to the Evidence of the Hon. the Attorney General.—Carried.
4. The Chairman inquired whether it was the desire of the Committee that any further Evidence should be taken, and a general discussion arising thereupon,—
5. Mr. Plunkett moved that T. B. Carne, Esquire, Presiding Officer at Adelong, be summoned to give Evidence touching the matter before the Committee.
The Committee divided.

Ayes, 2.		Noes, 3.
Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Dickson,
Mr. Scott.		Mr. Samuel,
		Mr. Gordon.

The Committee then proceeded to deliberate upon the general question referred to them.

6. Mr. Gordon moved, That the further deliberation of the matter be postponed until to-morrow, at 10½ o'clock.—Carried.
The Committee then adjourned till Thursday, the 18th instant, at 10½ o'clock.

O. F. KELLY,
2nd Clerk Assistant.

THURSDAY, 18 OCTOBER, 1860.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Garrett,
Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Macleay,
Mr. Samuel,		Mr. Gordon.

In attendance upon the Committee:—

The 2nd Clerk Assistant.

1. The Minutes of Proceedings at the last meeting, having been read by the Clerk, were confirmed.
2. The Committee then proceeded to deliberate upon the matter referred to them.
3. Mr. Dickson moved, "That, in the opinion of this Committee, the 58th section of the Electoral Act of 1858 provides for all the irregularities connected with the Tumut Election, and that the Election is valid."

Question put.

The Committee divided.

Ayes, 2.		Noes, 5.
Mr. Garrett,		Mr. Scott,
Mr. Dickson.		Mr. Plunkett,
		Mr. Gordon,
		Mr. Samuel,
		Mr. Macleay.

Deliberation resumed.

4. Mr. Gordon moved,—

"(1.) That in the opinion of this Committee, there is no evidence to shew that the Presiding Officer was prevented from attending at Adelong on the day appointed by the Writ for taking the Poll, by illness, or other sufficient cause, as provided by the 39th section of the Electoral Act of 1858. On the contrary, Mr. Carne's letter of date 10th May, 1860, shews that he was present but could not take the Poll, not being provided with the Electoral Roll for the Electoral District of 'The Tumut.'

"(2.) The Committee are therefore of opinion, that neither the 39th nor 58th sections of the Electoral Act can condone a defect in substance such as that before stated, not being 'an impediment of a merely formal nature,' as provided for in the 58th section.

"(3.) The Committee do therefore declare the Election void, and recommend that a new Writ should issue forthwith."

Question put.

The Committee divided.

Ayes, 4.		Noes, 3.
Mr. Gordon,		Mr. Scott,
Mr. Macleay,		Mr. Garrett,
Mr. Plunkett,		Mr. Dickson.
Mr. Samuel.

The Chairman having brought up a Draft Report, framed in accordance with the foregoing Resolutions, the same was read, and having been considered by the Committee, was adopted as their Report.

Chairman requested to report to the House.

Committee then adjourned.

O. F. KELLY,
2nd Clerk Assistant.

COMMITTEE

ELECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

WEDNESDAY, 10 OCTOBER, 1860.

PRESENT:—

Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Plunkett,
Mr. Garrett,		Mr. Samuel,
Mr. Gordon,		Mr. Scott.

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Present—Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, the Member certified to as having been returned for two Electorates.

Charles Tompson, Esq., Clerk of Legislative Assembly, called in, and, having been sworn, was examined:—

1. By the Chairman: Do you produce the Writ of the Tumut Election? I do. (The witness handed in the same.) C. Tompson, Esq.
2. This is the Writ you have received, and it has not passed from your possession? Yes—it has not passed out of my possession. The date of the Return—that is, the time when it was received here—is the 11th June. 10 Oct., 1860.
3. Have you any farther correspondence to produce? (The witness produced a copy of the printed paper laid upon the Table of the House, relative to the irregular election for the Electoral District of The Tumut, ordered to be printed, 12 June, 1860.) This is a correct copy of the papers, as far as this Department is concerned. I have been through this, and find, as far as it goes, that it is a correct copy, except that there is some misarrangement of the papers. That which appears as No. 9 should have followed that which is numbered 10. The Writ having been returned on the 11th June, a letter was addressed on the following day, by the Speaker, to the Colonial Secretary, informing him of the circumstance that it was received past its time, and requesting him to make the necessary validation of the election. That is a copy of the letter addressed to the Colonial Secretary. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix.) This letter was written on the same day as that upon which the order for the printing of the correspondence was given, but later in the day; it was on the evening of the same day—(the 12th.)
4. All the papers that were put upon the Table have been printed? They have been printed, and are in this collection.
5. By Mr. Plunkett: I think we should have all the papers here? All the papers were given up to the time that the order was made. If you will allow me to explain:—It was on the 1st June Mr. Deniehy moved for a Return of all the papers in this case, and of course that motion could not include a paper of the 12th June, not then in existence. On the 12th June the Return was laid upon the Table and ordered to be printed; and it was not until later in that day that this letter was written, so that it could not possibly have been included in the Return.
6. By the Chairman: Is this a true copy? It is. This is a reply from the Colonial Secretary to that letter, enclosing a Proclamation validating the Election of Mr. Deniehy for The Tumut. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix.)
7. You certify that that is the original letter? I do.
8. You likewise certify that this printed Proclamation is from the Government Gazette? It is the enclosure of that letter—the identical copy transmitted with that letter. If you observe, the Proclamation is mentioned in the letter, and that is the identical Proclamation referred to. (The Chairman read the letters and Proclamation.)
9. Have you any other papers connected with this case—official papers? Not any. The correspondence produced explains all the matters connected with the Tumut Election.
10. As far as you are concerned? As far as my office is concerned. These, (the printed papers) the papers I have now handed in, and the Writ, are all that are connected with the Tumut Election.
11. By Mr. Plunkett: Have you any other Writ connected with the return of Mr. Deniehy? I have a Writ certifying to the return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, as Member for East Macquarie. That Writ was returned on the 15th May, 1860.

- C. Tompson,
Esq.
10 Oct., 1860.
12. What is the return of the Writ? The date of its receipt by the Speaker—which was the 15th May, 1860. It is dated 13th April. It was made returnable on the 23rd May, and it was received here on the 15th May.
13. Did Mr. Deniehy take his Seat? Mr. Deniehy took the Oath and his Seat as such Member—as Member for East Macquarie—on the 22nd May.
14. By the Chairman: Are you speaking from memory? From a memorandum here before me. I also produce the Oath of Mr. Deniehy—the Oath of Allegiance taken by Mr. Deniehy on the 22nd of May, and signed by him before the Speaker. A Member takes the Oath of Allegiance on taking his Seat; he then signs the Roll, which I have not with me, but I can produce it if the Committee wish it. That does not show the date on which he signs, but merely the signature.
15. What is the heading of the Roll? If you will allow me I will produce it. (The witness withdrew.) (The witness returned.) I also produce the Roll, signed by Daniel Henry Deniehy, as Member for East Macquarie. (The witness produced the same.) The heading of the Roll is, first, "Autograph Subscription of Member;" the next column is, "Electoral District for which returned;" third column, "Usual Residence;" fourth column, "Remarks." The general title is, "The Roll of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, commencing with the first Session of the third Parliament of the Legislature under the New Constitution, assented to by Her Majesty, in virtue of the Act of Parliament '18 and 19 Victoria, cap. 54.'" I also refer to an entry in the Votes and Proceedings of the Legislative Assembly, of the 22nd May, 1860, which states, under the head of "Member Sworn:—Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esq., having taken the Oath and subscribed the Roll, 'took his Seat as Member for the Electoral District of East Macquarie.'" That is a true statement of the case.
16. Has any petition been presented against his return? I have not received nor seen any petition against the return for East Macquarie.
17. Nor for the Tumut? Nor for the Tumut; and the period of fifty-six days, prescribed by the 75th Clause of the Electoral Act, for the presentation of adverse petitions, has expired. It expired during the recess, on the 14th of August.
18. By the Chairman: I forget whether you stated in what capacity you appear here? I am Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, and was so at the time of both the proceedings alluded to. These entries are made by myself, as Clerk of the Legislative Assembly. My oath requires me to make true entries of all that takes place. This (referring to the Votes and Proceedings) is also signed by the Speaker. The Speaker authenticates by his signature what has previously been entered by me. There is an autograph of the Speaker to every number of the Votes.
19. By Mr. Plunkett: At what times did the fifty-six days expire in each case? On the 11th July, as regards the Writ for East Macquarie; and on the 14th August, as regards the return for the Tumut.

APPENDIX A.

*Legislative Assembly Offices,
Sydney, 12 June, 1860.*

Sir,

With reference to the 3rd paragraph of your letter of 17th ultimo, on the subject of the irregularity which occurred in carrying out the object of the Writ issued by me for the Election of a Member for the Electoral District of the Tumut, to serve in the Legislative Assembly in the room of George Dunmore Lang, Esquire,—

I now do myself the honor to inform you, that the Writ was yesterday received by me from the Returning Officer, with the return of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esquire, endorsed thereon, and to request that, as this Writ was made returnable on the 22nd May last, you will have the goodness to apply the remedy in that behalf provided by the 58th section of the Electoral Act of 1858, or otherwise, according to law.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary,
&c., &c., &c.

I have, &c.,
T. A. MURRAY,
Speaker.

APPENDIX B.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 19 June, 1860.*

Sir,

19 June, 1860;

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, in reply to your letter of the 12th instant, that, with the advice of the Executive Council, a Proclamation, of which the enclosed is a copy, has been issued by His Excellency the Governor General, and published in the Government Gazette of this date, declaring the Election of Daniel Henry Deniehy, Esq., to serve in the Legislative Assembly for the Electoral District of the Tumut, to be valid, notwithstanding the delay which occurred in taking the Poll at Adelong, and that the Writ was not returned to you within the time prescribed therein.

The Honorable
The Speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

PROCLAMATION.

PROCLAMATION.

C. Tompson,
Esq.

By His Excellency SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor General in and over all Her Majesty's Colonies of New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia and Western Australia, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

10 Oct., 1860.

WHEREAS by an Act of the Parliament of New South Wales, passed in the twenty-second year of Her present Majesty's Reign, intituled, "An Act to amend the Electoral Law," it was amongst other things enacted, that no Election for any Electoral District should be void in consequence solely of any delay in the holding of the Election at the time appointed, or in the taking of the Poll, or in the return of the Writ, or in consequence of any impediment of a merely formal nature; and that the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, might adopt such measures as might be necessary for removing any obstacle of a merely formal nature by which the due course of any Election might be impeded: Provided, that the validity of such Election, and the measures so taken, should be forthwith declared by the Governor, by a Proclamation for that purpose published in the New South Wales Government Gazette: And whereas a Writ was issued for the Election of a Member to serve in the Legislative Assembly for the Electoral District of the Tumut, in which Writ the tenth day of the month of May, One thousand eight hundred and sixty, was fixed for taking the Poll at the Polling-place at Adelong, and which Writ was made returnable on the twenty-second day of the month of May, One thousand eight hundred and sixty; and whereas the Returning Officer duly appointed for the said Electoral District hath certified, in accordance with the provisions of the said Act, that Daniel Henry Denichy, Esquire, was chosen by a majority of votes to be such Member for the said District; but the said Poll was not taken at Adelong on the day specified, and the said Writ was not returned to the Honorable the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly within the period therein prescribed, as directed by the said Act: Now, therefore, I, SIR WILLIAM THOMAS DENISON, as such Governor aforesaid, do by this my Proclamation, issued with the advice of the Executive Council aforesaid, declare that the Election of the said Daniel Henry Denichy, Esquire, to serve in the Legislative Assembly for the Electoral District aforesaid, is valid, notwithstanding the delay in taking the said Poll, and in the return of the said Writ of Election.

Given under my Hand and Seal at Government House, Sydney, this nineteenth day of June, in the year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty, and in the twenty-third year of Her Majesty's Reign.

(Signed) W. DENISON. (L.S.)

By His Excellency's Command,

(Signed) CHARLES COWPER.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

THURSDAY, 11 OCTOBER, 1860.

PRESENT:—

Mr. Dickson,		Mr. Plunkett,
Mr. Garrett,		Mr. Samuel,
Mr. Gordon,		Mr. Scott.

A. W. Scott, Esquire, in the Chair.

Present—Daniel Henry Denichy, Esq.

Charles Tompson, Esquire, again called in and further examined:—

20. By the Chairman: Do you wish to supplement the evidence given by you yesterday? C. Tompson, I wish to supplement my evidence of yesterday by handing in a packet containing the ballot papers in the case of the Tumut Election, which I inadvertently omitted yesterday. This packet has never been opened by me, and is in exactly the same state as when received by me on the 11th June. Esq. 11 Oct., 1860.

The Honorable John Fletcher Hargrave, M.L.C., Attorney General, having been sworn, was examined:—

21. By the Chairman: You are Her Majesty's Attorney General? Yes, for this Colony. The Hon. J.F. Hargrave M.L.C.

22. Were you consulted by the Government with respect to any irregularity in the Tumut Election? Yes, by the Colonial Secretary. 11 Oct., 1860.

23. Will you state to the Committee the advice you gave upon that matter to the Colonial Secretary? Yes. About the 17th May—I think by referring to the Parliamentary Papers the date must have been—I recollect the Colonial Secretary laying the papers, in his office, up to that date, before me—a letter from the Speaker, a letter from the Returning Officer at Adelong, and I think some other documents. From those papers I recollect it appeared the polling had not taken place at Adelong, owing to a portion of the ballot papers not having arrived at the day fixed by the Speaker for the poll. I was then asked what advice I gave under such a state of things. I said—"By all means let the election proceed as rapidly as it can—let the Presiding Officer fix the most early date he can under the Act for holding the election;" and then I said—"When you receive the return, publish in the usual way under the 58th Clause of the Act the proclamation confirming the election, so as to give whatever validity can be given by the Government to the return of the Returning Officer of the election." That was the substance of the advice I gave at the time, and when the papers were afterwards put into my hands in the Council.

The Hon.
J.F. Hargrave
M.L.C.

11 Oct., 1860.

Vide Appendix.

24. The Executive Council? No, I do not attend the Executive Council—the Legislative Council. Mr. Cowper asked me if I remained of the same opinion. I said—“Oh, yes, I am quite sure it is the right way to act in the matter.” That is the substance of the matter of fact, and I heard no more of it till I was required to give evidence before this Committee.

25. You alluded to a paragraph or section of the Electoral Act? Yes, but perhaps it may be more convenient for me to give my reasons for the opinion.

(The witness proceeded to read a paper as follows):— (Vide Appendix.)

“At the request of the Committee of Elections and Qualifications I have reconsidered the circumstances attending the Tumut Election in May last, as detailed in the Parliamentary Paper 609 A, and now give the following reasons for the advice which I gave on the 7th May to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary.”

(Mr. Denchy objected to the witness being allowed to read his reasons given upon reconsideration.” Discussion ensued. The Committee decided to receive the evidence viva voce.)

26. By Mr. Plunkett: Are you able to state the reasons which induced you to advise the Government in the way which appears from these printed papers, and from what you say now you did? Yes, as far as I am able to recollect any reasons for any opinion given in my life. On referring to the 39th section of the Electoral Act, I find these words:—“If by reason of the absence of the Presiding Officer the poll shall not be taken at any polling-place the Election shall not be therefore void, but it shall be lawful for the Returning Officer to appoint another day not later than thirty days from the day named in the Writ for taking the poll at such polling-place.” I read the whole of that clause upon the widest construction of that Act of Parliament, and I felt no hesitation in saying then as I say now—that the absence of the Presiding Officer spoken of there was the absence of the Presiding Officer from his official duties at the poll, and as it appeared, from the papers produced to me, that no election had taken place at the time fixed by the Speaker, the Presiding Officer, although he might have been personally present, was officially absent. I had no hesitation in saying that the absence of the Presiding Officer was his absence from his official duties. I knew that would have been the reasonable construction to be given to the words, according to the principle upon which such Acts of Parliament are construed in Courts of Law. I also stated to the Colonial Secretary, that if I had felt any doubt upon the subject it would have been removed by the fact that the 39th clause was a remedial clause of a remediable Act, and I therefore had no hesitation in holding that the absence of the Presiding Officer should have such an interpretation given to it as to promote the validity of the proceedings at the election, rather than the reverse; it being a fixed rule that the larger construction shall be given to doubtful words rather than the narrower. I then added—“If there be any doubt upon this election, the proper tribunal for it will be the Parliament itself; and by all means do whatever you can to facilitate the expression of opinion upon the part of the electors, and do not let anything be done that can invalidate the election, but the reverse; and when the return does come in, let the usual Proclamation be issued under the 58th clause, to get rid of any formal objection, if any be raised to it.” I also recollect, with reference to the word “formal” in the 58th clause, that it seemed to me that would refer to the writ. The only defect that could appear upon the face of it would be, that the election was not upon the day fixed by the Speaker, but upon the day fixed by the Presiding Officer. This would clearly be a defect not of substance but of form, and therefore though, perhaps, as the lawyers say, ex abundantia cautela, I advised the Government to issue the usual confirming proclamation.

27. How did the papers go to you? They did not come to me at all. I am in the habit of seeing Mr. Cowper (the Colonial Secretary) constantly, with reference to various matters; and these papers were produced at the Colonial Secretary's Office, either by Mr. Cowper or by Mr. Elyard.

28. It says in the Parliamentary Paper dated 17th May, that the papers were laid before you? Yes, I say they were, at the Colonial Secretary's Office, by Mr. Elyard—Mr. Cowper being in the room at the same time.

29. Why did they not come before you in the regular way? That is the usual way. The Colonial Secretary has a right to take my opinion at any time he chooses, and at any place, in any matter.

30. Do you not think it is a very loose way of giving an opinion? Not at all.

31. In a particular matter of this kind? Certainly not.

32. What papers had you before you? I have already stated—a letter from the Speaker to the Colonial Secretary, and the letters from Mr. Elyard to the Government Printer, and to the Returning Officer, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, in the printed papers. I remember on reading them over giving the advice mentioned here by Mr. Elyard. I am constantly in the habit of giving advice to all Members of Government when consulted—I consider it to be my duty to do so.

33. Is it your practice to give opinions in the offices of other departments than your own, without having an opportunity of consulting books in your own office, or without having memoranda to fix on your memory what the opinions are? If I am consulted by Mr. Cowper as Colonial Secretary I never feel the slightest hesitation in giving my opinion, in whatever form and manner he thinks fit to ask it.

34. Is there any record kept? It seems there is from this memorandum. I keep no record unless my opinion is asked in writing.

35. Do you not, upon consideration, think it a very loose and unsatisfactory way to give opinions without any proper record—the reasons of those opinions in such cases can never be known when they pass out of the memories of those engaged at the moment? The question is rather rather a long one. I say, looking at what was done, I felt no hesitation that I was perfectly right then, and I think so now. Whether it may be right or wrong is a matter of course for those gentlemen who have a right to criticise my conduct to judge—I do not think so. Of course I do not presume to say what was the practice before I was appointed Attorney General. I should have felt no hesitation, if I had been asked, to have signed my name J. F. H., A. G., to this memorandum. I remember the substance of this being mentioned to me, and, I think, between the morning on which Mr. Cowper consulted me, and the afternoon when he again mentioned it to me in the Council, I referred to Dwarris on the Statutes, and found abundant authority upon the construction of the statute which confirmed me in my opinion, and led me to say I had not the slightest doubt I had given him the right advice in the morning. I have a case which I have brought with me which is exactly in point. It is referred to in Dwarris on the Statutes, page 681, vol. 2, where the construction of the word "absence" is under consideration. The case referred to is in the 7th vol. of the Queen's Bench Reports, page 165, the Queen against Perkins. The question was, whether an inquest that had been held by the deputy coroner, the coroner himself being actually present, though the proceedings had been conducted by the deputy, who could act in the absence of his principal, was valid. Lord Denman says, "I think that giving a reasonable construction to the word 'absence.' He was absent, in fact, and from a lawful and reasonable cause, when the deputy commenced the proceedings; and his accidental presence afterwards, while the proceedings were going on, can make no difference." That is a case exactly in point; but it is one to which I referred only this morning. My advice was founded upon the general principle of the construction of Acts of Parliament, which I have already stated.

The Hon.
J. F. Hargrave
M.L.C.
11 Oct., 1860.

36. Do you not think it likely, if you were requested in the ordinary way to give a written opinion, you would be able to give it with more certainty and more satisfactorily to yourself? No; if the papers had come to me with an envelope and a memorandum—"Let the Attorney General's opinion be taken upon this," I should have written pretty much as I have written this morning—I should have written on the margin—"Let the Presiding Officer be directed to hold the election as quickly as he can after the receipt of the necessary documents—let him make the return as quickly as he can to the proper officer of the Legislative Assembly, and let that return be confirmed immediately by the necessary Proclamation, which will make it as good as it can be made by the power given to the Government by Act of Parliament;" and I have no doubt those are nearly the words I did make use of to the Colonial Secretary, for I felt, not having the honor of a seat in the Legislative Assembly, and the Colonial Secretary also not having a seat in that House, that it was most important to do all that could be done to confirm elections rather than to throw doubt upon them.

37. By Mr. Gordon: How is it assumed that the Returning Officer was not present on the day when the poll should have been held? The letter that was laid before me—Mr. Broughton's own letter—stated that he had not held the election on the day fixed, because he had not the necessary papers; so, as no election took place, he was not present officially.

38. Mr. Broughton was the Returning Officer—he presided at another place—Mr. Carne was the Deputy Returning Officer? Carne is the name I should have used.

39. I think Mr. Carne's letter does not bear the construction that he was not present; he says—"In consequence of not having received any electoral roll of the present or past year, I have been unable to take the state of the poll?" The words—"I have been unable to take the state of the poll," convinced me that he had not been present as Returning Officer. He had not presided as Returning Officer, for no election had taken place. That was the construction I put on it, right or wrong.

40. By Mr. Plunkett: Suppose this case,—that there were nine or ten, or a dozen polling-places, and only one list in the hands of the Returning Officer,—no list at any of the polling-places but one,—in that case would you think the Government justified in leaving polling-places open for nine or ten different days successively? I do not understand the question sufficiently to answer it. If you state it again, perhaps I shall follow it.

41. Do you think the Government would be justified in extending the election over nine or ten different days, in case there were only one roll of electors to be used at the different polling-places one after another? As far as I understand the question, I think the Government are bound to facilitate the expression of the opinion of the electors by every means in their power; and, if necessary, to extend the time to nine or ten, or any other number of days.

42. The object of the Electoral Act is to have the election over in one day. Do you not think it would be a very great departure from the spirit of the Electoral Act if such a power were placed in the hands of the Returning Officer, or of the Government, to extend the time in that way—by withholding the rolls from the polling-places, in order that the election might be prolonged? I think, if the fact arose in ten, twenty, or any other number of cases, as it arose here, I should give the opinion I have given here.

43. Do you not see that that would frustrate the intention of the Act to have the election over in one day? I do not think it would frustrate the intention of the Act, for here it is expressly provided that it shall in certain cases be taken on subsequent days. The Legislature have left this power to the Presiding Officer for the time being. In such cases I should advise the Government to exercise that power, and trust to circumstances to vindicate themselves; and if they could not, then they should meet such punishment as might be necessary. There is a discretion given in such cases, and I should advise the Government to act upon it in all cases.

APPENDIX.

The Hon.
J.F. Hargrave
M.L.C.

11 Oct., 1860.

1. Referring to the 39th section of the Electoral Act, I have no doubt whatever, and never had any doubt, that "the ABSENCE of the Presiding Officer," mentioned in that section, means an official "absence"; and in this case, the officer, though actually present, was not attending in his official capacity, having been disabled by accident from performing the duties of his office, and was, therefore, I conceive, NOT PRESENT as Presiding Officer; and as no polling or election took place at Adelong on the day fixed by the writ, there can be no doubt the difficulty contemplated by the Legislature arose on these facts; and the remedy provided in such difficulty was legally initiated.

2. Even if I had any doubt as to the strict construction and intention of this clause, the well-known rule of construction, that all remedial statutes and remedial words shall be so construed as to advance the remedy, not to limit the remedy, except by CLEAR expressions, would have compelled me to advise the Government to recognize this election, by giving the widest possible construction to the Electoral Act, and to every word in every clause of that Act.

3. In the case of the Queen v. Perkins, 7 Q. B. R., p. 165, Lord Denman, C. J., said—"I think that giving a reasonable construction to the word 'absence.' An inquest was held in the absence of the coroner, though actually present while proceedings were going on before his deputy."

4. As examples of far wider constructions of Acts of Parliament than I have given to these words, I may refer the Committee to the cases cited in Dwaris on Statutes, vol. 1, pp. 552, 558, 560, 573, 589, 617—626.

5. I may also inform this Committee that the above case (Q. v. Perkins) is cited by Dwaris, under the word "Absence," at page 691.

6. With regard to the second point mentioned by the Committee to me, viz.—the Confirming Proclamation issued under the 58th section,—I had not the slightest hesitation in recommending that step; nor have I now any doubt of the correctness of that advice.

The Tumut Election seemed to be formally defective only in the Adelong polling having taken place on the date fixed by the Presiding Officer, instead of the date fixed by the Honorable the Speaker. This was clearly not a matter of substance, but only of form; and therefore (though perhaps ex abundantanti cautela) I advised the Government to issue the usual confirming Proclamation, so as to prevent all possibility of questioning the election.

Attorney General.

STATISTICAL REGISTER

OF

NEW SOUTH WALES

FROM

1850 TO 1859.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL RETURNS IN THE REGISTRAR GENERAL'S OFFICE

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command of His Excellency the Governor General.

SYDNEY:

THOMAS RICHARDS, GOVERNMENT PRINTER, PHILLIP-STREET.

1860.

STATISTICAL REGISTER, 1859.

REGISTRAR GENERAL'S REPORT

TO THE HONORABLE CHARLES COWPER, ESQUIRE,

COLONIAL SECRETARY,

&c., &c., &c.

*Registrar General's Office,
Sydney, 31 August, 1860.*

SIR,

For the information of the general public, who are not very well disposed to wade through the mass of Tabular Statements of which the Statistical Register is composed, it seems to be considered desirable that the compiler should enter upon a sort of analysis of the returns, point out the more striking features, and shew, with the aid of as few figures as possible, the comparative progress of the year past with others that have gone before it,—in fact, that the Government Statist should do that which is more properly the business of individual inquirers, and of the people themselves.

I have no objection, however, if it in any way satisfies the public desire for knowledge as to their social and material progress, to undertake the labor of an analytical review of the Tables, and to preface the volume with the results.

2. I regret that with every effort on my part to expedite the completion of the work at a much earlier period of the year, it has been found impossible to proceed with the printing, and, in some few instances, even up to this time, to get in some of the returns necessary to complete the Tables.

Great improvement upon the last year, however, is noticeable in the latter respect; and I have little doubt that, with unremitting perseverance, greater regularity may be obtained, although, until special means are afforded by the Legislature for the collection of the Statistics, we can never hope to attain such perfection as has been arrived at in the sister Colony of Victoria with regard both to punctuality and reliability.

3. The returns would seem naturally to resolve themselves under four distinct heads, which relate to the Political, Social, Industrial, and Financial

Financial condition of the Country, and I have endeavored to arrange the Tables to coincide with these divisions.

Taxes, Duties, &c.

The Tables of Fees, Taxes, Duties, &c., which precede the Nominal Return of the Civil Establishments need only this passing comment,—that in one or two minor instances only is there any alteration in the rates of the previous year; the General Tariff remains in all respects the same as it was in 1858.

POLITICAL.

Electoral Returns.

4. The only novel feature in the Returns which have reference to political affairs is the introduction of a Table shewing the Number of Electors, Resident and Non-Resident, under the Electoral Law of 1858, and the numbers who exercised the franchise.

The Returns are imperfect;—the Returning Officers, in some cases, had retained no copies of the Electoral Lists, nor had they kept any record of the numbers who had voted. The Balloting Papers are kept under seal by the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, and it has been found impossible to supply the deficiencies through any official channel.

It will be seen that, exclusive of the Gold Fields, the names of 69,776 persons have been placed on the Electoral Lists. This number forms 21.47 per cent., or over one-fifth, of the estimated total population of the Colony at the middle of the year.

Thirteen Districts* were uncontested, numbering 11,776 registered electors.

From official sources it appears that 27,448 persons recorded their votes, to which number, from unofficial sources, may be added 2,700, together 30,148. It thus appears, that out of 58,000 registered voters in the districts where the seats were contested, 30,148, or 52.00 per cent., exercised the privilege of the franchise.

The Returns from the Gold Fields are excluded, as being incomplete; but it appears by the Return from the Gold Fields North, that whereas there were not less than 2,400 persons who, by the possession of Miners' Rights, or Business Licenses, were qualified to vote, there were only 222 who availed themselves of the privilege.

It may be presumed that the greater number of those entitled to vote by virtue of a Miner's Right, or Business License, were entitled to vote, and did vote, by virtue of the residentiary suffrage for the Electoral District in which the Gold Field was situated.

Municipalities.

5. Amongst the Statistical Returns will be found a Table of Municipalities brought into existence under the Act of 1858 (22 Vict., No 13.)

It seems that Municipal Institutions were established in 13† districts during the year 1859. Of these institutions ten only seem to have arrived at a stage of maturity, so advanced as to have completed the valuation of the rateable property in their districts.

The

* Carcoar, The Gwydir, The Hawkesbury, The Lachlan, West Macquarie, West Maitland, The Murray, The Murrumbidgee, The Nepean, Northumberland, Queanbeyan, Wollombi, and Yass Plains.
† Grafton, Waverley, Newcastle, Albury, Goulburn, Redfern, Shellharbor, The Globe, Kiama, Central Illawarra, Shoalhaven, Wollongong, Randwick.

The estimated value upon which the rates have been struck in the districts named is £244,705, and the rates vary from 6d. to 1s. in the pound, two only being under 1s., viz.,—Goulburn 6d., and Shellharbor 10d.

The Return of Electors who voted at the election of officers is too incomplete, and the operation of the law too recent, to enable us to draw any just inference as to the appreciation in which this first attempt at introducing local self-government is held by the people generally. Further experience is necessary to afford us the data upon which we may judge of the local interest exhibited in the working of these institutions.

SOCIAL.

6. The Population Tables for 1859 afford less satisfactory indications of progress than those of former years. Population.

This is owing to two causes, namely, the separation of the Colony of Queensland, and the falling off in Immigration. From the former cause we have to write off an estimated population of 23,450, whilst the net immigration, after deducting the departures from the Colony, amounted only to 9,187 persons.

So that the estimated total population on the 31st December 1859, inclusive of the natural increase of the population by excess of Births over Deaths (8,773), was 336,572 against 342,062 at the end of the previous year, or a decrease of 5,490 persons.

7. The number of Immigrants brought out at the public expense, and at their own expense, was as follows, viz. :— Immigration.

	1858.	1859.	Decrease.
At the public expense ...	6,916	5,114	1,802
At private expense (exclusive of Chinese) ...	17,823	7,360	10,463
Totals ...	24,739	12,474	12,265

The total outlay for Immigration purposes was less than in any year since 1849. Compared with the year 1858 the expenditure of 1859 shews a decrease of £8,854, viz. :—1858, £90,459 ; 1859, £81,605.

8. The Return of Educational Establishments shews an increase in the number of Schools in the Colony of no less than 86. Education. Schools.

The increase appears to be distributed as follows, viz. :—

On 31st December, 1858	653
	Increase.
Denominational	6
National...	25
Private Schools	55
		86
On 31st December, 1859	739

It is not improbable that the increase in the number of Private Schools is attributable to short Returns in the previous year.

Scholars.

9. Whilst an increase is observable in the number of Schools, as has just been shewn, a slight decrease appears in the total number of Scholars. In 1858, the number was 33,236; in 1859, 32,840; decrease, 396.

This is to be accounted for by the omission from the Returns for 1859 of the Schools in the Colony of Queensland.

The Denominational Schools shew a decrease of 2,492 Scholars, viz. :—1858, 16,082; 1859, 13,590; whilst the National Schools exhibit an increase of 633, viz. :—1858, 7,814; 1859, 8,447.

The Private Schools also shew an increase of 1,427 scholars, viz. :—1858, 8,571; 1859, 9,998.

Expenditure.

10. The Government Expenditure towards the support of the Denominational Schools was £19,964 7s., or at the rate of £1 9s. 4d. per head; and towards the National Schools, £20,868 5s. 5d., or at the rate of £2 9s. 4d. per head. Whilst the amount of Voluntary Contributions towards the former was £12,585 3s. 3d., or 18s. 6d. per head; and towards the latter, £9,587 6s. 1d., or 22s. 9d. per head.*

Sunday Schools.

11. An attempt has been made to obtain accurate Returns of Sunday Schools, and with greater success than on the last occasion, although the absence of information from many sources where it was sought for has to be noticed with regret. The Return shews an aggregate number of 313 Sunday Schools, and of 16,590 children who attend them, viz. :—

	Schools.	Scholars.
Church of England	124	6,073
Roman Catholic	65	3,566
Presbyterian	37	1,363
Wesleyan	65	4,107
Primitive Methodist.....	12	592
Independent	7	546
Baptist	2	300
Unitarian	1	43
	313	16,590

The boys number 7,870; the girls 8,720.

It is to be hoped that, for the sake of the little trouble it may occasion, ministers of religion will not withhold the information necessary to enable the Government Statist to compile accurate Returns with regard to this most interesting subject of inquiry.

Crime.

12. The Criminal Returns are prepared in a more comprehensive form than they have hitherto been. They embrace not only the commitments for trial and convictions in the Supreme and District Courts, but they include Returns of persons taken into custody and summarily dealt with at the several Courts of Petty Sessions throughout the Colony.

The

* In last year's report, an error occurred in the printing; the amount of Voluntary Contributions per head was stated to be about 4s., under the Denominational; and about 6s. under the National. The figures should have been 14s. and 16s.

STATISTICAL REGISTER, 1859—REPORT.

The commitments for trial in the Supreme and Circuit Courts shew a decrease on the Returns of the previous year,* viz. :—

Supreme Court. Commitments.

	1858.	1859.
Felonies	179	156
Misdemeanors	48	48
Capital Offences.....	29	20
	256	224

a decrease of 32.

The Convictions were as follows, viz. :—

Convictions.

	1858.	1859.
Felonies	95	105
Misdemeanors	29	25
Capital Offences.....	9	10
	133	140

By the foregoing statement, it appears that out of 256 commitments in 1858, 133, or 52·00 per cent., were convicted, and 48·00 per cent. discharged; whilst in 1859, out of 224 commitments 140, or 62·50 per cent., were convicted, and 37·50 per cent. discharged.

13. In the Courts of Quarter Sessions the commitments for trial shew a considerable increase upon the Return of the previous year, resulting no doubt from the extended operation of the Law through the instrumentality of the District Courts Act of 1858, viz. :—

Quarter Sessions. Commitments.

	1858.	1859.
Felonies	382	441
Misdemeanors	111	108
	493	549

an increase of 56.

The convictions also bear a corresponding increase, viz. :—

Convictions.

	1858.	1859.
Felonies	181	221
Misdemeanors	82	55
	263	276

In the District Courts it thus appears that 54 per cent. of the committals in 1858 were prosecuted to conviction, and 46 per cent. discharged; whilst in 1859, 50 per cent. were convicted, and 50 per cent. discharged.

14. The Return of persons taken into custody and summarily dealt with is, as I have said, a new feature in the Criminal Returns of the Colony. It is to be regretted that they have not been made the subject of statistical inquiry from an earlier period, and I have to notice with regret the imperfect state in which some of the Returns have come in.

Summary jurisdiction.

Incomplete, however, as they are, they throw much light upon the summary treatment of offences before the Justices in Petty Sessions.

The

* Exclusive of Brisbane.

The first thing that must strike any one in glancing over the Return, is the immense extent of summary jurisdiction compared to that exercised by the Judge and Jury. The former seized upon no less than 18,018 persons during the year, the latter on only 773; that is in the proportion of 55·44 to 2·38 in every 1,000 of the estimated population; or, in other words, the summary jurisdiction of the Police and Courts of Petty Sessions was extended over more than twenty-three times as many persons as the jurisdiction of the Judge and Jury.

It must be borne in mind, too, that the Returns do not embrace “summons cases,” such as have regard to disputes under the Masters and Servants Act, &c. They are confined to persons actually taken into custody.

15. The Returns are classified under three heads—“Offences against the person,” “Offences against property,” and “Drunkenness.”

Of offences against the person.

It seems that under the first class of offences 5,662 persons were taken into custody. Out of this number 3,709, or 65·50 per cent., were convicted; 159, or 2·81 per cent., were committed for trial; and 1,794, or 31·69 per cent., were discharged.

Of offences against property.

Under the second class of offences 2,937 persons were taken into custody. Out of these 1,233, or 42·00 per cent., were convicted; 602, or 20·50 per cent., were committed for trial; and 1,102, or 37·50 per cent., were discharged.

Drunkenness.

It seems that no fewer than 9,419 persons were taken into custody by the police for drunkenness. Of this number 7,815, or 83·00 per cent., were convicted; and 1,582, or 17·00 per cent., were discharged.

16. The Criminal Statistics of this Colony have never been made the subject of proper investigation. Laws upon laws modifying, extending, and altering the degree of summary jurisdiction have been passed, but it is probable that no one ever imagined, or would have credited the assertion, that one in every eighteen of the total population, including all ages,—men, women, and children,—fell under penal restraint in the year of grace 1859.*

Comparing the convictions with the committals in the higher courts and in the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, we arrive at the following results, viz. :—

TRIBUNALS.	COMMITMENTS.	CONVICTIONS.
Supreme Courts	224	140
Quarter Sessions	549	276
TOTAL... ..	773	416
	TAKEN INTO CUSTODY.	CONVICTED OR COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.
Petty Sessions (exclusive of drunkards)	8,599	5,703

In

* Making allowance for incorrigible offenders who may have been taken into custody two or three or more times in the course of the year, it is probable that, had the Returns been perfect, they would have shewn 1 in 15 or 16.

In the Judge and Jury Courts the convictions are 54·00 per cent. of the committals; and in the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction they are 66·00 per cent. of the persons taken into custody.

17. This outline of our national criminality is not out of place in a Report of this kind, and I do not know that I travel beyond the limits of my duty in giving to the results of my inquiries such prominent notice.

In England and Wales the Criminal Statistics shew that one person out of every forty-five falls under penal restraint; in New South Wales, one in eighteen, or nearly three times that number, are laid hold of, shut up in a cell, imprisoned or fined, whilst not less than 2·70 per cent. of the population come under police law under the imputation of that prolific parent of crime, drunkenness.

It has been found impossible on the present occasion to obtain information as to the state of education amongst the persons summarily dealt with, but I have reason to hope that on the next occasion this defect will be remedied and the Returns furnished complete in all respects.

INDUSTRIAL.

18. There is little to notice in the Returns of Manufactures. Manufactures, Mines, &c. This branch of industry seems to have made but little progress during the year under review.

Mining operations, however, were more active. The production of coal was 308,213 tons; that of the previous year was 216,397 tons; so that the increase embraced not less than 91,816 tons.

The rapid development of this important branch of industry is a very satisfactory feature in the Returns.

It will be seen by the decennial Table that whilst the total production of coal during the five years, 1850 to 1854 inclusive, was 419,681 tons, the five years, 1855 to 1859, shew a production of no less than 1,062,080 tons, or nearly treble that of the first quinquennial period.

19. The produce of our Gold Fields deserves passing notice. Gold. The quantities received into the Mint and shipped through the Customs without passing through the Mint, make up together as near as can be ascertained the annual production of our mines, and the statistics from these sources exhibit a considerable increase in the yield during the last year compared with either of the four previous years, as will appear by the following Table taken from the Report of the Deputy Master of the Royal Mint, viz. :—

APPORTIONMENT.	1855.		1856.		1857.		1858.		1859.

Agriculture and Vineyards

20. It has been my endeavor to collect the Agricultural Statistics in an improved form, and to present them with a greater degree of authenticity. To some extent my efforts have met with success, but the defects in many of the Returns defeat the general accuracy and reliability of the whole.

It is much to be regretted that information of so much importance (in evidence of our material progress, and of the extent to which the application of industry to the soil is carried and found to be remunerative) should be left to the casual and unchecked collection of the constabulary. Until some improved machinery is provided we can never hope to arrive at such a degree of accuracy as is necessary to impart real value to statistics of production.

It would be a mere waste of time to enter upon an analysis of figures in which no one believes, and for the accuracy of which I can only say this much, that they, perhaps, bear a nearer proximity to the truth than the Returns of previous years.

Occupants and holdings.

21. It will be noticed that columns are provided for the number of occupants of land—for the total extent of their holdings—and for the total extent of land uncultivated as well as cultivated. The figures, taking them for what they are worth, shew a total of 15,715 occupants, and a total extent of holding—including land granted, sold, and leased—amounting to 27,663,365 acres. Of this quantity 27,438,360 acres are said to be uncultivated, and 247,542 acres only in crop.

If we add the cultivated and uncultivated acreage together we arrive at an excess of 22,537 acres over the total extent of holdings. This has been made the subject of much correspondence with the districts in which the discrepancies have been noticed, and it has been variously accounted for, in some districts by double cropping, in others the total extent of holding is not stated, and could not be ascertained,—for such reasons the Return is not so satisfactory as could be desired.

It may be noticed in passing that the extent of land under crop in the year ending 31st March, 1860, was in excess of the previous year by 24,247 acres, viz. :—

1858-9	223,295 acres.
1859-60.....	247,542 „

In the face of the loss sustained by the separation of the Queensland Colony, this may be looked upon as a satisfactory feature in the Returns.

Sorghum.

I may further notice the extent of land sown with the Sorghum and Imphee which seems to embrace 1,151 acres—a large area for this species of green food to have spread over in the course of little more than three years, and a striking evidence of the value of the crop for the feeding of cattle. The produce (16,298 cwt.) given in the Return represents grain, not green food.

Live Stock.

22. The Live Stock Returns are open to similar strictures with those passed upon the Returns of Agriculture. With the view to save trouble, trouble, and by this means to ensure greater attention to the collection, I had the Live Stock and Agricultural Statistics taken at the same period.

STATISTICAL REGISTER, 1859—REPORT.

Formerly the Returns of Live Stock were supposed to be made up on the 1st of January in each year, and the Agricultural Statistics on the 31st March.

On the present occasion the 31st of March was the day fixed for the collection of both Returns.

With regard to horses, horned cattle, and pigs, there seems to be an increase upon the numbers of the previous year, but with regard to sheep the loss of the splendid pastoral districts of Queensland tells with great effect.

The following figures represent the totals of each kind of Stock on the 1st January, 1859, and the 31st March, 1860, viz. :—

	1859.		1860.		Increase.
Horses	200,713	...	214,684	...	13,971
Cattle	2,110,604	...	2,190,976	...	80,372
Pigs	92,843	...	119,701	...	26,858
					Decrease.
Sheep	7,581,762	...	5,162,671	...	2,419,091

Here we see a deficit of nearly two millions and a half of Sheep. The increase of the flocks from the September lambing of 1859 is included in the numbers given for 1860, which would not have been the case had the Returns been collected, as formerly, on the 1st January instead of on the 31st March. The deficiency is thus made to appear the more glaring.

There is reason to believe that much greater care was taken in collecting the Returns for the past year than hitherto, and it is to be hoped that persons from whom information is sought will afford the fullest satisfaction to the inquiries of the Collectors, in order that the Statistics of Live Stock and Agriculture may be relieved from the reproach of inaccuracy which has been charged, and not without reason, against them.

23. The fluctuations of commerce, as expressed in the Customs Returns, will be found set forth in the summary Table below :—

Imports and Exports.

IMPORTS FROM				EXPORTS TO
	Value.	Increase.	Decrease.		Value.	Increase.	Decrease.

Imports
Seaward.

It appears by the above Table that shipments from the United Kingdom manifest a decrease in value of £134,209 on the shipments of the previous year, whilst the Imports from British Colonies and Foreign States shew an increase respectively of £320,612 and £351,284, together £671,896. The increase in the Imports seaward therefore shews a net value of £537,687.

But to arrive at an accurate idea of our commercial operations, we must inquire what were the importations from Victoria and South Australia.

Overland.

24. The value of Imports viâ Albury (exclusive of Live Stock) is stated at £161,426, that is a decrease of £135,723 upon the GENERAL Imports of 1858, to which must be added a decrease of £39,232 in the value of Live Stock, together £174,955, as shewn by the following Table:—

IMPORTS and EXPORTS viâ ALBURY.

The Customs Returns at the Port of Goolwa are confined to quantities, and do not give the values of the articles imported from South Australia viâ the River Murray. The Return therefore is of no use in determining the actual net money value of our importations for the year, and must be omitted from the calculation.

Live Stock.

The Import of Live Stock overland was very small, the entire quantity, of which I have been enabled to get Returns, was only 2,292 cattle and 2,814 sheep, for which we may assume an estimated value of £13,570.*

Taking, therefore, the Imports at the amounts stated, viz. :—

Seaward	£6,597,053
Viâ Albury	161,426
Viâ Goolwa	Not stated.
Live Stock	13,570

We arrive at a total of ...£6,772,049 or at the rate of £19 7s. per head of the estimated population at the middle of the year, † exclusive of the imports from South Australia viâ the River Murray. The

* i. e., At the rate of £5 for the cattle and 15s. for the sheep.

† 350,000 including Queensland.

The average annual Imports for the five years, 1854 to 1858, were at the rate of £19 8s. per head.*

25. The Exports for the year "Seaward" shew a total increase ^{Exports.} in value of £581,772 over those of the previous year. Our trade with the United Kingdom and Foreign States exhibits an increase, respectively of £629,471 and £363,173, together £992,644; whilst our export trade with the British Colonies shews a decrease of £410,872.

The Exports viâ Albury, exclusive of Live Stock, were of the ^{Live Stock.} stated value of £48,939, a decrease of £130,154 upon the value of the Exports of the year before; whilst the Exports of Live Stock to Victoria and South Australia shew a decrease of £290,006 in value† on the Return for 1858.

The general Exports therefore stand thus, viz. :—

Seaward	£4,768,049
Viâ Albury	48,939
Viâ Goolwa	Not stated.
Live Stock	983,938
					Total... .. £5,800,926

or at the rate of £16 11s. 6d. per head of the estimated population. The estimated average annual rate per head for the five years, 1854 to 1858, was £12 7s., which shews an increase for the year 1859 over the average of the five preceding years of not less than £4 4s. 6d. per head.

26. Comparing the Imports and Exports for the years 1858 and ^{Comparison} 1859, we shall find the following general results, viz. :— ^{with 1858.}

IMPORTS.

	Seaborne.	Overland.	Total.
1858—	£6,059,366	£349,951	£6,409,316
1859—	6,597,053	174,996	6,772,049

EXPORTS.

1858—	£4,186,277	£1,453,037	£5,639,314
1859—	4,768,049	1,032,877	5,800,926

TOTAL RESULTS.

	1858.	1859.	General Increase.
Imports—	£6,409,316	£6,772,049	£362,733
Exports—	5,639,314	5,800,926	161,612
Excess of Imports	£770,002	£971,123

27. The Export Seaward of our staple commodity, which by the ^{Wool.} Customs Returns of 1858 exhibited a deficiency of nearly three and a half millions

* An error in the printing of my Report on the Statistics of 1858 may here be noticed, at page 21, conclusion of paragraph 48, the value of Imports and Exports are given in shillings and pence, instead of pounds and shillings.

† The cattle are estimated at £5 per head, or £1 lower than last year; the rates of horses, sheep, and pigs, are maintained as in the previous year.

millions of lbs. upon the shipments of the previous year, has again reached its former level.

The quantities shipped from the Colony during the three years 1857 to 1859 were as follows:—

1857.....	17,044,201 lbs.
1858.....	13,553,835 lbs.
1859.....	17,261,859 lbs.

The shipments of last year arrive within a fraction of the average annual shipments of the previous five years (1854 to 1858) namely, 17,289,272 lbs.

There are no returns of New South Wales Wool exported viâ Melbourne or Adelaide prior to those of 1853.

The export viâ Albury for 1858 and 1859 was,— which brings up the total exports of which we have any account, for the two years, respectively, to 13,711,125 lbs., and 17,375,935 lbs.—together 31,087,060 lbs.

1858.....	157,290 lbs.
1859.....	114,576 lbs.

It is much to be regretted that no records are to be obtained of exports viâ the River Murray, consequently the shipments of Wool from New South Wales by way of Adelaide cannot be given.

Comparing the returns of sheep on the 1st January, 1858 and 1859, with the export of Wool, the clip of our flocks would seem to have averaged nearly 2 lbs. per sheep.

Land Sales. 28. The Land Sales shew a decrease upon the sales of the previous year, viz. :—

1858.....	£248,726	8	3
1859.....	£228,630	2	7
Decrease ...	£20,096	5	8

whether this is owing to the monetary depression or to the unsettled state of the land question is not for me to determine.

The total number of acres sold was as under, viz. :—

Country Lots.....	128,854 acres,	averaging	£1	4	2	per acre.
Special do	2,223	„	„	3	7	0 „
Suburban	2,889	„	„	6	8	6 „
Town	1,200	„	„	36	14	6 „

Purchases under the pre-emptive right embraced 19,923 acres, or nearly one-seventh the total quantity sold.

FINANCIAL.

Revenue and Expenditure. 29. The Statements of Revenue and Expenditure at the end of the volume require but little notice. The causes of increase or decrease will be found stated opposite each item in the comparative statements.

The

The total sum carried to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue for the year 1859 was £1,511,964 4s. 4d., against £1,368,389 12s. 2d. the year before, shewing an increase of £143,574 12s. 2d.

The principal branches of revenue which contributed to make up this increase were as follows, viz. :—

Customs	£54,576
Duty on Spirits distilled in the Colony	3,672
Gold and Mint Receipts.....	4,875
Postage	3,725
Land Revenue	75,420
Rents	6,550
Railway Tolls and Electric Telegraphs	3,754
Pilotage and Harbour Dues	5,896
Miscellaneous Receipts	18,683

Under the head of Immigration Remittances there is a falling off of £4,581, and in the item of "Interests on City Debentures," £23,165.

30. The total Expenditure charged against the Consolidated Revenue was as follows, viz. :—

Establishments	£781,958	4	4
Services exclusive of do.	630,825	1	10
		<hr/>
	£1,412,783	6	2
Special Accounts	3,379	15	5

Church and School Estates Fund...	8,865	7	5
		<hr/>
		<hr/>

The Expenditure of 1858 was £1,571,363 ; there was an increase therefore of Expenditure in 1859 of £286,803.

The items of increase under the principal heads were as follows, viz. :—

Civil Establishments.....	£45,720
Judicial	13,656
Educational	15,362
Railway	22,192
Public Works and Buildings.....	29,213
Roads, Bridges, and Ferries	12,900
Miscellaneous	15,138
Interest on Loans	43,442
Debentures paid off	35,000
Loan Services	72,367

The

The principal items in which decreases appear, will be found under the heads of—

Ecclesiastical	£ 5,383
Medical	3,659
Gold	11,247
Gaols and Penal	4,373
Drawbacks, &c.	16,604
Immigration	8,798

The Auditor General's statements will supply in detail all the further information necessary for the elucidation of the public Finances.

31. It may be desirable to state that the Tables are confined to the Colony of New South Wales according to the limits assigned to it since the separation of Queensland.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

* The Returning Officer states that, having forwarded the Voting Papers, Rolls, &c., to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly he is not in a position to furnish the requisite information.

† The Returning Officer states "That the Collectors, as far as he can ascertain, did not insert the names of any Non-Resident electors in the Electoral Roll."

‡ Of this number 18 "Residence not known."

§ The Returning Officer states that the numbers given of each class for the Casino District are the nearest he can arrive at from his local knowledge, as the Electoral Rolls used at the Election were forwarded to the Clerk of the Assembly.

¶ Portion of the Police District of Wee Waa.

§ Portion of the Police District of Warialda. The Returning Officer says "It is a difficult matter to separate the Town from the Country Electors, particularly to distinguish the Warialda Country Electors from the Bingera Country Electors. The fact of so many Electors being in the Bingera Town, arises from the fact of its being a Gold Field, and many are inserted on the Roll under the qualification of 'Miners Right.'"

NOTE.—The adopted mean Temperature is the mean of the Maximum, Minimum, 9 A.M. and 9 P.M., results.

The mean height of Barometer is the mean of the 9 A.M., 3 P.M. and 9 P.M., results.

The mean pressure of vapour is deduced from the readings of the wet and dry bulb Thermometers at 9 A.M., 3 P.M., and 9 P.M.

The resultant direction of the wind is obtained as follows:—

The direction and force are registered three times a day, the force being represented by numbers, according to the Observer's judgment, from 0 to 6; the resultant force and direction are then determined on the principle of the resolution of mechanical forces.

COINS.

The Coins in circulation are the Coins of Great Britain, and the Sovereigns and Half-Sovereigns coined at the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, all of which are current at their sterling value.

BRANCH ROYAL MINT, SYDNEY.

Importations of Gold Dust, or Gold Bullion, for Coinage, from 1,000 ozs. standard upwards, are subject to a charge of ¼ per cent, for converting the same into Coin.
 Importations below that amount are coined at a charge of 1 per cent.
 Gold Bullion in Bars, or Ingots, are issued, if required, at £3 17s. 10½d. the standard oz.
 When payment for an Importation is required within two days of delivery, an additional charge of ¼ per cent. is made.
 A reduction of the above Mint Charges equivalent to ¾ per cent of the standard value of the importation was made in respect to Gold—the produce of any portion of the British Territory of Australasia not included in New South Wales—imported into the Mint on the 1st November, 1859, under the conditions prescribed in the Act, 20 Vict., No. 17.
 Duty on Gold imported into the Mint, 2s. 3d. per oz., standard fineness, from 15 February, 1857.

No. 1.

MR. H. K. JAMES to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 1 December, 1859.

SIR,

I am deeply concerned to find, by the reported Proceedings of the Assembly, that you withdrew the estimate for the proposed compensation to me, on the ground of the largeness of the amount (£2,500); and, as I trust the subject will shortly be again under your consideration, I beg leave very respectfully, but most earnestly, to invite your attention to the recommendations of the Bishop's Registrar (Mr. Norton) and the Registrar General, both of whom have recorded their opinions that my services may be fairly estimated at even the higher amount of £3,000; and also to the particulars furnished in my memorial to the Executive Council, from which it will appear that the amount proposed to be granted would barely reimburse me moneys actually expended, and for which I have long paid, and am still paying, a high rate of interest.

I feel bound, therefore, in justice to my family and others interested, earnestly to appeal to the Government for a generous consideration of these circumstances. I would desire to remind the Government that the intrinsic value of the documents, which cannot be overstated, is wholly attributable to my personal assiduity for the long period of twenty years, and for which I was in no way responsible.

I would also respectfully point out that, if the remuneration were to be computed either as arrears of clerk's salary or (as the Government Registrars are now paid) at per entry—say even the trifling sum of sixpence each, indices included—the amount would far exceed that which has been proposed; nor will you, I trust, forget that henceforth the Government will receive the profits derivable from the fees which eventually must become considerable.

Confidently submitting these remarks to your considerate attention,

I have, &c.,

H. KERRISON JAMES.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to BISHOP OF SYDNEY.

Colonial Secretary's Office,

Sydney, 16 December, 1859.

MY LORD,

I am directed to state to your Lordship that the Crown Law Officers have declared the Church of England Records of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, to be of the nature of public documents, and to request that you will favor the Colonial Secretary by replying definitely to the two following inquiries:—

1. Are these documents in your Lordship's custody, power, or possession?
2. In such case, is your Lordship prepared to deliver them to the Government as being public documents?

I have, &c.,

W. ELYARD.

No. 3.

MR. H. K. JAMES to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

Sydney, 22 December, 1859.

SIR.

I am directed by the Bishop of Sydney to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, in which you state that you are directed to request that His Lordship

Lordship will favor the Colonial Secretary by replying definitely to the two following inquiries:—

- 1st. Are the documents referred to in your Lordship's custody, power, or possession?
- 2nd. In such case, is your Lordship prepared to deliver them to the Government as being public documents?

1. In reference to the first of these inquiries, His Lordship considers that the answer to it involves a point of law, the determination of which may be attended with some difficulty; he, therefore, does not feel himself competent at present, and without taking legal advice, to give a definite reply.

2. His Lordship, however, desires me to refer you to the answer given in July, 1857, by the then Law Officers to the Colonial Secretary, requesting their opinion whether the documents referred to "can be taken as public property?"

It states—"That the documents are of public utility, and of the nature of public documents; but the Attorney General does not think that they have been prepared, compiled, abstracted, and preserved in such manner as to entitle the public to take them from Mr. James without compensation."

3. In reply to the second inquiry, I am desired to state that, if His Lordship should be held to have any legal control over the documents in question, he is, nevertheless, willing to consent to their being transferred in pursuance of any arrangement made in conformity with the opinion of the Law Officers above referred to.

I have, &c.,
H. KERRISON JAMES.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to BISHOP OF SYDNEY.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 24 December, 1859.*

MY LORD,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. James' letter of the 22nd instant, in reply to my communication, addressed to your Lordship of the 16th instant, on the subject of the Church of England Records of Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

2. In the third paragraph of this letter it is stated, that if your Lordship should be held to have any legal control over the documents in question you are willing to consent to their being transferred, in pursuance of any arrangement made in conformity with the opinion of the Law Officers which is referred to as given in 1857.

3. This paragraph seems to the Colonial Secretary to admit that these documents are in your Lordship's possession, and I am therefore desired respectfully to intimate to your Lordship that they must be forthwith given up to the Government, leaving the question of compensation to be hereafter dealt with. At the same time I am directed to state, that should the transfer of these documents still be objected to, the matter will be at once placed in the hands of the Crown Law Officers.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

No. 5.

MR. H. K. JAMES to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

Sydney, 28 December, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Bishop of Sydney to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 24th instant, and to disclaim, on behalf of his Lordship, the admission which the Colonial Secretary seems to have drawn from the third paragraph of my letter of the 22nd instant, and on which the intimation conveyed in paragraph 3 of yours is apparently founded.

His Lordship trusts that this disclaimer, taken in connection with the contents of my former letter, will render the continuance of the present correspondence unnecessary, but however this may be, I am desired to request that any future communication on the subject may be addressed to His Lordship's legal advisers, Messrs. Norton, Son, and Barker, from whom it will receive immediate attention.

I have, &c.,

H. KERRISON JAMES.

Refer the entire correspondence to the Crown Law Officers for opinion as to what are the public rights in this matter, and how they should be enforced.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

Crown Law Offices,

Sydney, 14 February, 1860.

SIR,

In returning to you the papers respecting the transfer to the Government of the Church of England Registers, received under B. C. on the 29th of December last, and those subsequently received, I have now the honor to forward herewith a copy opinion of Mr. Attorney General Wise thereon.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

[Enclosure in No. 6.

COPY Opinion respecting Church of England Registers.

I understand that my opinion is wished upon the general question of the claims legal or otherwise of Mr. James to the possession of these registers, and incidentally to that question, his right to prevent persons from making use of them while in his possession. I will proceed to deal with the first question. By the 6 Geo. 4, No. 21, s. 6, it was enacted:—

By 3 Vict., No. 23, s. 2, it was enacted:—“That the copies of the register books kept by Clergymen of the Church of England, and required by the said recited Act to be transmitted to the Registrar of the Archdeacon's Court, shall, in future, be transmitted to the Registrar of the Bishop of Australia, who shall be subject to the same duties and liabilities, and entitled to the same fees as the Registrar of the Archdeacon's Court would be subject and entitled to under the recited Act.”

Under the first of these Acts, therefore, it was the legal duty of the Registrar of the Archdeacon's Court to keep these registers, and under the second it was the duty of the Bishop's Registrar. I cannot accede to the views expressed by Mr. Norton and Mr. James that the Registrar “could not be expected to do it at his own expense,” which in substance means, that because there were no funds appropriated by the statutes other than the fees for search that, therefore, the Registrar was at liberty to decline to do the duty. It was a public duty that was imposed upon the Registrar, and an indictment would have lain against him for omitting to perform that duty. A mandamus would also have been granted to compel him to allow the public to search on making the statutory payments. The Registrar had by law the custody of these documents, and if he allowed his Deputy Registrar to have them and to do for him what he ought to have done himself, and to receive the fees which were payable by law to the Registrar only, the Deputy Registrar did not thereby acquire any independent legal right, because, in fact, his acts were the acts of the Registrar, and his possession was the possession of the Registrar.

Being

Being desirous of ascertaining the date of Mr. James' appointment as Deputy Registrar, and at what salary, if any, and by whom paid, I applied to him and received in reply the letter annexed.

I consider that this letter shews that Mr. James was substantially, if not in strict law, acting as Deputy Registrar. It was solely in his official character that he had access to the documents, and solely as acting for the Registrar did he receive the fees, and whilst in his possession the public were entitled to examine them. The statutes under which the registers were kept were, unfortunately for the public, repealed without any provision being made for the transfer of the records; and although it appears to me they were created, so to speak, under the statutes, yet I do not see in what legal way the possession of them can be obtained by the Government. Mr. James, however, is not in my opinion legally entitled to keep them as private documents. It may be that a mandamus would lie to compel inspection notwithstanding the repeal of the statute, but this is a doubtful point.

I have addressed myself thus far to the bare legal question; but in looking at the legal difficulties in the way of the Government, and the importance of these documents being preserved and made easily accessible and proveable by certified copies, I advise that a Bill, such as that proposed in 1857, be brought in, and that the amount of compensation could be fixed by Parliament; but the basis of that compensation cannot, in my opinion, for the above reasons, be that claimed by Mr. James, which it appears to me rests on the assumption that he prepared the registers merely as a volunteer.

EDWARD WISE,
A. G.

[Sub-Enclosure in No. 6.]

Sydney, 27 January, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, requesting, by direction of the Attorney General, that I will state the date of my appointment as Deputy Registrar, and at what salary, if any, and by whom paid.

In reply, I beg to state, for the information of the Honorable the Attorney General,—

1. That the date of my appointment as Deputy Registrar was 3rd November, 1836.
2. No salary attached to the appointment, nor has such at any time been paid.

I have, &c.,

MR. P. A. TOMPSON to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Commercial Chambers, New Pitt-street,
18 February, 1860.

Sir,

On applying to Mr. James, the Bishop's Secretary, for inspection of an entry of a marriage, which it is alleged took place several years ago, or to give me any information on the subject, he refused to comply with my request, having, as he said, arrived at the resolution not to open the books to any one, or to give information pending the present dispute between the Government and himself, and he added, that he had refused several similar applications from other persons.

As the matter is of considerable importance, and the absence of the information prevents the completion of a matter now in hand, I have to request that the Government will procure for me the information that I require.

I have, &c.,
P. A. TOMPSON.

Refer to Law Officers. Can Mr. James be compelled to furnish extracts required, and by what process?

W. F.

No. 8.

I am of opinion that Mr. James has no right whatever to refuse to permit the search demanded, and that a mandamus will lie against him for his refusal. Such mandamus must be applied for at the instance of the person demanding, and being refused such search; but, perhaps it will be right, under the circumstances, for the Government to give the services of the Law Officers.

With reference to former correspondence on the subject of the transfer to the office of the Registrar General, of the Church of England Registers of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to transmit to you a copy of an opinion given by the late Attorney General on the subject, and to request that the Registers in question may be delivered over to Mr. Rolleston on the part of the Government.

SIR,

With reference to the opinion of the late Attorney General respecting the Church of England Registers recently transmitted to this office, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request that the Parliamentary Draftsman may be instructed to prepare a Bill in conformity therewith.

ATTORNEY GENERAL to PARLIAMENTARY DRAFTSMAN.

The Parliamentary Draftsman is requested to prepare a Bill accordingly. I may state that in my opinion Mr. James is clearly entitled to compensation. Though I agree with the late Attorney General in the opinion that the Registers kept by Mr. James cannot be at all regarded in the light of private property, yet I think it clear that they were made or kept by him in connection with a statutory right to certain fees, and to the custody of the documents so as to give him the means of securing those fees by making searches and giving copies, and I conceive it to be equally clear that he ought not to be deprived of the prospective fruits of his labors, in the shape of fees, without a substitute in the form of compensation.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 October, 1860.

(In continuation of Correspondence laid before the Legislative Assembly on 14 May, 1858, 29 November, 1859, and 12 October, 1860.)

J. NORTON, ESQ., to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney, 23 March, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the Under Secretary's letter of the 24th ultimo, enclosing copy of an opinion of the late Attorney General (Mr. Wise) upon the subject of the transfer of the Church of England Registers, and stating that he was directed by the Colonial Secretary (Mr. Forster) to request that the Registers might be delivered to Mr. Rolleston on the part of the Government.

After the correspondence that had passed between the Government and me upon this subject, I was not prepared for the letter to which I now reply, and which is singularly at issue with a letter from the Under Secretary addressed to my firm upon the subject on the 22nd October last, informing them, in reply to representations made to the Government by the members of the legal profession, that "with a view to these records being transferred, together with the indices, to the Registrar General of the Colony, the Government had placed a sum on the Supplementary Estimate for the year 1859, to be paid to Mr. James, as compensation on the transfer being effected." I am the more astonished at this communication, as Mr. Forster must have had before him the letter from the Secretary to the Law Officers, dated 15th July, 1857, in which it is stated that the Attorney General did not think that the records had been prepared, compiled, abstracted, and preserved in such a manner as to entitle the public to take them from Mr. James without compensation, and as the late Attorney General (Mr. Wise), in the opinion forwarded to me, stated that he did not see in what legal way the possession of these records could be obtained by the Government.

I cannot withhold the expression of my concern that the pledge I conceive the Government, in the Under Secretary's letter to me of the 27th July, 1857, made to give effect to the recommendation of the Attorney General for the compensation of Mr. James, should now be evaded, and that a desire should be expressed to deprive Mr. James of the only security he holds for its performance.

I have, &c.,
J. NORTON.

FURTHER RETURN to an Order made by the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated 24 November, 1858,—
 “ That there be laid upon the Table of this House, a (tabulated) “ Return from all Schools in New South Wales, wholly or partly “ maintained by Public Funds, of—

- “ (1.) Name of locality where the School is situate.
 “ (2.) The materials of which such School is constructed,—whether chiefly of stone,
 “ of brick, of wood, or of metal; and the present condition of the building, and “ whether it needs repairs, enlargement, or other improvement.
 “ (3.) The number of superficial square feet contained in the area of the schoolhouse “ or building.
 “ (4.) The number of superficial square yards or of square feet contained in the “ ground or land adjoining the School for the use of the pupils.
 “ (5.) The description and present condition of the water-closets provided for the “ use of the pupils.
 “ (6.) The number of superficial square feet, and of cubic feet, contained in each “ room appropriated for teaching.
 “ (7.) The average number of pupils usually assembled in each of such rooms.
 “ (8.) The provision which is made for the ventilation of such rooms.
 “ (9.) The annual average number on the books, and the average number attending
 “ the School; distinguishing the males from the females where the School is attended
 “ by both sexes.
 “ (10.) The maximum and minimum age of the pupils (of males and of females) in
 “ the School.
 “ (11.) The number of classes into which the School is divided, the average number “ in each class, and the maximum and minimum age in each class.
 “ (12.) The number of hours during each day the pupils attend the School, stating
 “ the hour of commencing and the hour of terminating the School duties, with the “ times of intervening cessation of study, and how such intervals are employed.
 “ (13.) The number of holidays and half-holidays in each week, and the number of “ vacations, the duration of each, and the period of the year when such vacations “ occur.
 “ (14.) The total number of days appropriated to School studies during the year.
 “ (15.) The average length of the period during which pupils, from the time of “ their first entrance to the time of their finally leaving School, remain there.
 “ (16.) The number of children between the ages of 5 and 15 years in the district “ or locality where the School is situate, who do not usually attend there.
 “ (17.) The weekly, quarterly, half-yearly, or annual sum charged to each pupil for “ instruction; the annual charge for books; and the total annual charge for each “ pupil.
 “ (18.) The annual amount of School fees received from the pupils of the School “ during the twelve months ending the 30th September, 1858; the appropriation of “ such fees; the amount received from other (specifying from what) sources towards
 “ the support of such School; the total amount received from all sources towards
 “ the support of such School during the above-mentioned period.
 “ (19.) Dividing the last-mentioned total by the average number of the pupils “ actually attending the School during the period above-mentioned, give a statement “ of the average annual total cost of the education of each pupil.
 “ (20.) A detailed enumeration of the several subjects of instruction given to each “ class, and the precise portion of time allotted to each of such subjects in each day “ throughout the week.
 “ (21.) A list of the titles of all books used in each of the several classes in the “ School; the present condition of the books now in use; whether other kinds of “ books are needed; and whether the number of those at present in use is adequate “ to the wants of the School.
 “ (22.) A descriptive list of all prints, diagrams, maps, instruments, and other “ School apparatus used in the School, their present condition, and whether any, and “ if so, what others are needed.
 “ (23.) An account of the system of correction employed in the School to preserve “ discipline, and an account of any written or other instructions to the teachers “ from any Board of Education, Official Visitors, Inspectors, or Managers of the “ School on the subject.

- "(24.) How often during the year, and by whom, are the pupils of the School
"examined with reference to their progress, and whether any prizes or other
"rewards of merit are given periodically in the School, and if any, of what description,
"and how often distributed.
- "(25.) By whom is the School officially visited or inspected? How often during "the year, and what length of time is occupied by the Inspector or Visitor in the "performance of this duty? If any report on the state of the School exists, furnish "a copy of it, adding thereto any remarks on such report, and the present condition
"of the School, as the teacher (master or mistress) may be prepared to offer.
- "(26.) Name of Head Teacher.
- "(27.) Names of Assistant Teachers, Pupil Teachers, or Monitors attached to each "School.
- "(28.) Birthplace of each of the above.
- "(29.) Age of ditto.
- "(30.) Date of appointment to present office.
- "(31.) Whether or not trained as a teacher.
- "(32.) If trained, at what institution? For how long a period? Possessing what "class of certificate of competency?
- "(33.) If not trained as a Teacher: What experience in teaching previous to "undertaking present appointment? What occupation or business before adopting "that of a Teacher.
- "(34.) Annual or other periodical amount of salary of Head Teacher, of Assistant "Teachers, of Pupil Teachers, and of Monitors.
- "(35.) Fees, allowances, and emoluments, exclusive of salary.
- "(36.) Total annual income of Teacher or Teachers derived from School.
- "(37.) What religious or moral instruction is given? How often? By whom?
"If visited by any Clergyman or Minister of Religion, state the name and denomi"nation to which he belongs. Give a list of the titles of the books used in the "School for such purpose."

SECRETARY TO DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOL BOARD to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Denominational School Board Office,
Sydney, 10 August, 1860.*

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 28th June, relative to certain returns required by the Government, respecting Denominational Schools, I have the honor, by direction of the Denominational School Board, to say that, finding that the remainder of these returns were coming into the office very tardily, I again addressed the heads of the various religious bodies upon the subject, dated 21st May last, giving to each a list of those Schools under his charge, from which no returns had been sent.

I have the honor to forward such as have been received since that date.

I have, &c.,

The following religious books are used, viz.:—Church of England catechism, lessons extracted from Mrs. Trimmer's Teachers' Assistant, faith and duty of a Christian, historical questions answered in words of Scripture, Bishop of London's first questions on religion.

P.S.—The influenza, so prevalent at present, prevented me from answering this sooner.

Maitland, 25 June, 1860.

Sir,

In reply to your communication of the 2nd February, 1859, I have the honor to state that the Teacher having had to relinquish his duties, from severe indisposition, about the middle of the year, and having shortly afterwards died, I am not in a position to give replies to all the questions contained in that communication. The records of the school cannot now be found; and such information only as does not depend on them I have given in the accompanying replies.

I have, &c.,

JURORS.
(DISTRICT OF MAITLAND.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Jurors for the District of Maitland, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

SHREWETH:—

That we, the undersigned Jurors of the District of Maitland, beg respectfully to represent the grievous injury entailed by the present law relating to Jurors when summoned under a Special Jury Precept; by reason of the protracted sittings, frequently extending to upwards of a fortnight; the inadequate remuneration at present allowed by law; and the frequency of the attendance required—the majority being summoned every Assizes that are held at Maitland.

That many of us reside at so great a distance from the Court House as to render it impossible to return home each night, thereby necessitating the great expense of hotel accommodation, far exceeding the fee of ten shillings per diem, which we are entitled to by law.

That the few who are enabled to reach home occasionally during the sittings, incur a greater expense than the fees they received will defray—this is without considering the injury caused by loss of time, neglect of business, and private matters.

That, considering all other parties connected with an action (i.e., witnesses and professional gentlemen) are amply paid for their trouble, that one of the parties must be in error, and that the matter at issue is frequently of a private and frivolous nature, we conceive their fault should not cause so serious an injury upon so large a number of the community.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that such steps may be taken to amend the present law relating to Juries in Civil Cases, and remedy the grievance herein complained, as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

MEMORIAL from certain Inhabitants of Mudgee.

To His Excellency Sir William Denison, Knight Commander of the Bath, &c., &c., &c., and Governor General of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

The Memorial of the Inhabitants of the Town of Mudgee, in the Colony of New South Wales,—

SH EWETH :—

That, in consequence of the paucity of Magistrates in the District of Mudgee able to attend regularly and punctually to their magisterial duties, from the fact of their residing (with one exception) at too great a distance from the town to render their services available at all times when cases come before the Court of Petty Sessions requiring the presence of two or more Magistrates,—

Whereby serious inconvenience and vexatious delays frequently occur to suitors, witnesses, and others having business at the said Court,—

Your Memorialists therefore respectfully pray that your Excellency will, at your earliest convenience, take the complaint of your Memorialists into your consideration, and adopt such means as in your judgment you may deem necessary to remedy the evil complained of.

And your Memorialists would further beg respectfully to suggest, as a means by which such remedy may be effected, that the names of the following gentlemen (residents in Mudgee) be placed in the Commission of the Peace, viz.,—Edward Charlton, Archibald Lamont, and Myles Harte Lyons; whose education, moral character, and integrity, and social position, in the opinion of your Memorialists, fully qualify them for the performance of the important duties of Magistrates.

And your Memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MUDGEE, to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Police Office, Mudgee,
25 October, 1859.

SIR,

We, the undersigned, members of the Bench of Magistrates of Mudgee, beg leave (for the information of His Excellency the Governor General and the Honorable the Executive Council) to express our deep regret at the recent appointment of Mr. Myles Harte Lyons to the magisterial office, for which we think him unqualified by personal character, position in society, and antecedents, having been an ordinary constable attached to this Court.

We have no hesitation in expressing our conviction that this appointment is an acknowledgment of political services in the late election for this district.

We therefore respectfully beg leave to resign our Commissions as Justices of the Peace (which some of us have held nearly twenty years) into the hands of His Excellency the Governor General, and to express our regret for the course we deem public confidence in the magisterial office and our self-respect require.

We have, &c.,

ROBERT LOWE, J.P.	J. T. BELL, J.P.
HENRY BAYLY, J.P.	N. P. BAYLY, J.P.

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th ultimo, referring to the recent appointment of Mr. Myles Harte Lyons to be a Justice of the Peace, for which you state you think him unqualified by personal character, position in society, and antecedents, having been an ordinary constable attached to the Court at Mudgee, and therefore tendering your resignation as Magistrates of the Territory.

2. The Colonial Secretary desires me to state that inquiry will be made into the circumstances of the case which you have brought under the notice of the Government, and to suggest that you should in the meantime re-consider your decision to resign your Commissions.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to POLICE MAGISTRATE, MUDGEE.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 5 November, 1859.*

SIR,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you that the gentlemen named in the margin, members of the Bench at Mudgee, have addressed a letter to the Government, in which, with reference to the recent appointment of Mr. M. H. Lyons to be a Magistrate of the Territory, it is stated that they deem that public confidence in the magisterial office and their self-respect require them to resign their Commissions.

2. The Colonial Secretary therefore desires me to request, that you will state your views on the subject of the addition of Mr. Lyons to the Bench and the step which has been taken by the Magistrates alluded to with reference to his appointment.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

MR. W. B. HUTCHINSON to L. H. BAYLEY, ESQ.

Mudgee, 8 November, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit to you the accompanying Memorial from the men of Mudgee respecting the resignation of the Magistrates, and to request you will be pleased to lay it before the Governor and Executive Council with as little delay as may be convenient. I further beg to draw your attention to the police reports of this issue, by which you will perceive that a third Magistrate is required, Mr. Charlton declining to act at present. If the election of Mayor falls to the lot of any one else than Mr. Lyons we shall have the want supplied, but in the meantime we are much in need.

I have, &c.,
WM. B. HUTCHINSON.

P.S. I have the honor further to add, with reference to the accompanying Memorial, that the Committee were appointed to draw up this petition on Thursday night, 3rd inst., and that it was not completed until noon on Saturday, consequently the 320 names, which are bona fide, were collected in eighteen hours, and, I assure you, if time permitted, could have been doubled by residents of the district.

Monday evening, six o'clock.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure 1 in No. 6.]

To His Excellency Sir William Thomas Denison, Governor General of New South Wales, &c., and the Honorable the Executive Council.

The humble Memorial of the Inhabitants of the town and district of Mudgee,—

SH EWETH :—

That in the opinion of your Memorialists the late resignation of the Magistrates of Mudgee was the result of party and political feeling, and that the allegations contained in their resignation are groundless and libellous, and deserve public censure and condemnation.

That the nine Magistrates who have resigned are related, and only represent three persons.

That your Memorialists are of opinion that the resignation of the Magistrates of Mudgee ought to be accepted; that no public loss will be sustained thereby; and that they believe that the recent appointments will be equally efficient and more beneficial.

That your Memorialists humbly pray your Excellency, with the advice of your Honorable Council, will be pleased to accept the resignation of the Magistrates of Mudgee.

And your Memorialists will ever pray, &c.

MR. M. H. LYONS to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Mudgee, 9 November, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of a letter dated Colonial Secretary's Office, November 2nd, 1859, together with a copy of a letter from the Bench of Magistrates, Mudgee, on the subject of my appointment as a Magistrate.

In reading their letter I find there is no particular charge made against me but one, namely, that I had been an ordinary constable attached to this Court. As they alluded to my antecedents, I hope you will not consider it out of place if I give a short account of my family, also my Colonial history. My father was an Irish gentleman, of independent but not very large means; my father and mother were both descended from two of the most illustrious illustrious families recorded in either English or Irish history. I have many near relatives and connections Peers of the Realm. My father intended me for an Artillery officer, which was my own wish; on that account I received a very high mathematical education. My father applied to a friend in London to purchase a commission for me in the Artillery, which I believe he did; but, at the request of my mother and some other friends, I declined entering the army. Some time after my father bound me to one of the first civil engineers and land surveyors then in Ireland. I served him five years, and paid him an entrance fee of five hundred pounds. I landed in this Colony on the 13th July, 1840, per the ship "Maitland," as passenger. At the request of some gentlemen from Maitland that I became acquainted with at the hotel where I lodged, I went to live to Maitland, where I followed my profession for nearly three years as land surveyor. During that period I realized a considerable sum of money, amounting, together with what I brought from Ireland, to a few thousand pounds. The whole of this sum I lost in the course of a few weeks, with the exception of a mere trifle; a part of it I lost in speculating in land, which turned out to be mortgaged; the greater part of it I lost by various parties becoming bankrupt that owed me considerable sums. Add to this I could not live by my profession, owing to the depression of the times, as almost all land sales ceased. During this period I met with a gentleman from my part of Ireland; he engaged me to go with him to New Zealand, to survey a very large property he said he had in that country; after agreeing with him he told me he had purchased a number of cattle in the district of Mudgee, and, if I liked to see the country, I could go with him there, which I did. On our way to Mudgee he said he received a letter which informed him that he should immediately go to Sydney, but would be in Mudgee in the course of a few days. About two days after I reached Mudgee I saw a passage in a Sydney newspaper, stating that he absconded from the Colony. At this time all my money was gone; I knew scarcely anything about manual labor; I could find no suitable employment—this was in December, 1841. I was compelled to join the Mudgee Police, where I remained a few months until I met with something more suitable. Since then I have supported myself and family by honest industry, and am now in very independent circumstances. I can further state that I have never been arrested, either by a warrant or for debt; neither have I ever been convicted of any crime, or confined for one moment in any prison. The only near relatives I had in this Colony were two Officers of very high standing in the Royal Navy; their names were James and Patrick M'Tiernan; the former is now Surgeon General to Greenwich Hospital, he also lived many years in Sydney. They made twelve or thirteen voyages each to this Colony with prisoners, and were well known to many gentlemen now in Sydney. I should also remark that I had the honor to be in the Commission of the Peace before I landed in this Colony. I have nothing further to add except that I have written to my solicitor requesting of him to proceed at once against one and all the Mudgee Magistrates who signed the letter, should it be libellous, which I consider it is.

I have, &c.,

M. H. LYONS.

P.S.—Previous to the late election in this district, several deputations of the electors waited upon me to know if I would allow myself to be put in nomination as a candidate for this electorate, which I declined, though I was confident of being returned by a large majority over Mr. Lowe.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, MUDGEE, to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Police Office, Mudgee,
10 November, 1859.*

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 5th instant, requesting me to state, for the information of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, my views upon the subject of the addition of Mr. M. H. Lyons to this Bench, and the resignation of the other Magistrates in consequence of his appointment, I do myself the honor to inform you that, from the circumstances of Mr. Lyons having been an ordinary constable in the police here, and, up to the date of his late appointment, on terms of intimate and frequent (being contractor for watch-house supplies) intercourse with the watch-house keeper and other members of the Police Force, I am of opinion that the elevation of Mr. Lyons to a seat on this Bench was injudicious, and offensive to the other Magistrates, who must either have declined to sit with him, whereby the public business would have been frequently impeded, or taken the step they have done—that of tendering the resignation of their Commissions, and thereby depriving the Colony, and this portion of it in particular, of the services of an intelligent and upright Bench of Magistrates.

2. From my own experience I know nothing against the private character of Mr. Lyons, but there are persons here who do not hesitate to make grave charges affecting it, and who, in the event of any inquiry being made, would be prepared to substantiate them.

3. The appointment to the Bench of one or two gentlemen resident in the town, of whom there are several fully competent, would be of advantage to the community.

I have, &c.,

T. DIGBY MILLER,
Police Magistrate.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to POLICE MAGISTRATE, MUDGEE.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 19 November, 1859.*

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 10th instant, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inquire the date when Mr. H. Lyons was a constable in the Mudgee Police.

2. I am directed at the same time to request that you will be good enough to report what the charges are against Mr. Lyons to which you allude, as also the names of the parties preferring them, and to state that, upon your furnishing these particulars, the matter will be inquired into by the Government.

3. With respect to the concluding paragraph of your letter, I am desired to request that you will submit the names of the gentlemen residing in Mudgee whose appointment to the Magistracy you would recommend.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

POLICE MAGISTRATE, MUDGEE, to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Police Office, Mudgee,
30 November, 1859.*

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 19th instant (received on the 25th), I do myself the honor to inform you that Mr. M. H. Lyons was a constable in the Police Force at this place about the year 1842.

2. With reference to the request contained in the 2nd paragraph of your letter, I have to report that Mrs. Blackman, senior, can prove that Mr. Lyons agreed to purchase as Agent at a Sale of Crown Lands held here by me on the 26th of April, 1858, 59 acres of land on the Cudgegong River, in the county of Phillip, for a Mrs. Taylor. The land was knocked down to Lyons at the upset price (£1 per acre). When it was put up, Mrs. Blackman remarked to him that that was the price for Mrs. Taylor; Lyons replied—"Of course it is, what did we come here for?" or words to that effect. He subsequently told Mrs. Blackman that he had been offered a considerable sum for the same land, but said—"Of course I would not do such a thing." Notwithstanding this, Lyons sold the land on his own account for £400 or £500.

On reference to the Land Sale Book in this Office, I find that the land in question was paid for by Lyons, as for himself; but, as I am informed, it was distinctly arranged before the sale that he should bid as Mrs. Taylor's agent, because he was less likely to be opposed than anyone else.

George Ward was an assigned servant of the late N. Lawson, Esq., from whose service he absconded in 1842; he was apprehended at Hartley, and given into the custody of Lyons, then a constable, to be escorted to Mudgee. Ward was not handcuffed; they overtook a man on the road beyond Bowenfells, who had a bottle of brandy and a bundle. Lyons and his prisoner partook of the brandy, the owner of which became so drunk that they had to leave him; Ward took a shirt out of his bundle, which he carried to and left at Cullen Bullen; Ward states that Lyons took a silk handkerchief from this man's person, and some silver money from his waistcoat pocket. On their arrival in Mudgee, Lyons gave up his prisoner to the watch-house keeper. Since Ward obtained his freedom he has borne a good character.

MR. MYLES HARTE LYONS.

About five years ago, a person named Murray, at that time National Schoolmaster here, was with Lyons at night, when he took down the slip-rails of his paddock to allow some cows to follow their calves which had strayed under the fence; the whole were driven to the pound next morning by Lyons' order, who laid the usual rate of damages on them.

3. In accordance with the third paragraph of your letter, I beg to submit for the consideration of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary the names of the following gentlemen for appointment to the Magistracy:—Messrs. Henry Watson Oliver, Manager, Bank of New South Wales; John Frederick Skinner, Manager, Australian Joint Stock Bank; Samuel Blackman, landowner; William King, M.D., District Coroner; Henry Tebbutt, Postmaster and storekeeper; and, William Howarth, butcher.

In the case of the last-named, I wish to remark that, previous to Mr. Howarth's following his present calling, he was a schoolmaster and gold miner, and is an educated and intelligent person.

SIR,

Referring to the third paragraph of my letter of the 30th ultimo, I fear it might be supposed that, in submitting for the consideration of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary the names of six gentlemen for appointment to the Magistracy, I was of opinion that so many were required, I therefore do myself the honor to state that four Justices would be sufficient to carry on the public business (in addition to myself), who might be selected, at the discretion of the Principal Secretary, from those named by me.

MRS. MARIA TAYLOR to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Mudgee, 5 December, 1859.

SIR,

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the *28th ultimo (this day received), requesting particulars of a transaction which took place at a sale of Crown Lands at Police Office, Mudgee, on the 26th April, 1858, wherein I employed Mr. Myles Harthe Lyons to act as my agent for the purchase of fifty-nine acres on the Cudgegong River, which said land I was most anxious to obtain, my friends having pointed out to me that it would exactly do for a homestead for myself and family—my husband being at the present time living separately from me; and it was thought right that the land should be purchased in Mr. Lyons' name, at the sale, and he was afterwards to make it over to me as a "deed of gift." I spoke to Mr. William Blackman and his mother respecting the purchase, and although Mr. Blackman himself was most anxious to obtain the land for himself, yet, acting as my sincere friend, and in deference to my request and wants, he consented to waive his claims, and it was agreed that the land should be purchased by Mr. Lyons for me, and he was instructed to do so.

The land was put up, and sold at the upset price, £1 per acre; parties interested not having opposed Mr. Lyons, knowing that he was instructed by me to purchase the same, and knowing the peculiar circumstance under which I required to possess myself of the land.

A day or two after the sale I spoke to Mr. Lyons respecting the land, when, to my utmost surprise, he informed me that he intended to retain it for his own benefit, but that he would make over to me another piece of thirty acres, which he had purchased the same day, and which, of course, I refused to have anything to do with, insisting that he should transfer to me the lot he was employed to purchase for me.

Mr. Lyons refused to let me have the land, and (I believe the day after the sale) resold it to a Mr. Joseph Conden (now deceased) for the sum of ten pounds per acre, and Mr. Conden's family is now in possession.

I have also been informed that Lyons offered a friend of mine (Mrs. King, wife of Dr. King, of Mudjee) to pay me £150 for the land, he (Lyons) intimating that it would be a good bonus for me to receive.

In conclusion, I beg to add, that notwithstanding many threats on the part of myself and friends, held out towards Mr. Lyons, I have been unable to obtain possession of the land, nor have I received any satisfaction whatever from him.

I am, &c.,

MARIA TAYLOR.

MRS. SARAH BLACKMAN to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Mudjee, 9 December, 1859.

SIR,

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the *28th ultimo, requesting information relative to a piece of land purchased by Mr. Myles H. Lyons for Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor, who is in distressed circumstances, placed a small sum of money in my hands to purchase her a piece of land. I fixed on a piece situated on the Cudgegong River, and arranged to attend the sale and buy it for Mrs. Taylor.

Previous to the sale Lyons came to my house in company with Mrs. Taylor, and asked me if either of my sons were going to bid for the piece of ground for their old servant Yates. I said, No. Lyons then turned round to Mrs. Taylor, and said, "Then we are all right."

I attended the sale; Lyons stood by my side, bid for the land, and bought it. I then said to him, "That is for Mrs. Taylor?" He replied, "What did we come here for?" After the sale was over Lyons called me to him, and said, "Do you think Mrs. Taylor would sell that ground, as these here" (turning to some men that were standing by him) "have offered me three hundred pounds for it, but I think I could get more; she could then get another piece of land, and the rest of the money would do her for something else?" I told him, "No; I would do no such thing for £500."

I saw Lyons again afterwards, when he told me that Mrs. Taylor should not have one rod of the ground; he sold it to a man named Condon, for a very large sum of money, which he kept.

The sale took place on the 26th April, 1858, and the land (I believe 59 acres) was knocked down at the upset price.

I am, &c.,

SARAH BLACKMAN.

MR. W. R. BLACKMAN to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Mudjee, 9 December, 1859.

Sm,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the *28th ultimo, requesting that I will furnish you with any information I know relative to a sale of land on the Cudgegong River by the Government, in which Mr. Myles Hartte Lyons, of Mudjee, and a Mrs. Taylor were concerned.

I beg to state that in the early part of 1858 (I think in April), a piece of land about 59 acres, situated on the Cudgegong River, near Mudjee, was advertised for sale at the Police Office, Mudjee. It was my intention to buy the said land for an old servant of mine, named Thomas Yates, but in consequence of my mother informing me that the land was to be bought for Mrs. Taylor, I declined attending the sale, being anxious that Mrs. Taylor should have it, as she was in very poor circumstances.

After

After the sale, I was surprised to hear that Lyons refused to let Mrs. Taylor have the land, and had sold it for a very high price to a man named Joseph Condon (now deceased). I am under the impression that both Lyons and Condon told me the purchase money was near five hundred pounds.

No. 20.

MR. M. H. LYONS to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Mudgee, 20 December, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of a letter, dated Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, December 10, 1859. This letter, it appears, is an extract of a letter forwarded by the Police Magistrate at Mudgee, containing certain statements made against my character. It appears, from the date of the letter, that I might have received it much sooner. Neither does he refer, or make mention of, the name of the party these charges are made against, as he only says Lyons; but, presuming that they refer to me, I will answer them in the order they are forwarded to me:—The 1st charge is, that I was a constable, about the year 1842—this I admit. The 2nd charge is made by Mrs. Blackman, senior, that I agreed to purchase a piece of land for a Mrs. Taylor; so far as Mrs. Blackman is aware, I admit this charge. The facts are these:—On one occasion I met Mrs. Blackman and Mrs. Taylor; Mrs. Taylor asked me to purchase her a piece for her, and as she did not live with her husband, that she wished me to purchase it in my own name, and hold it in trust for her and children, as her husband might sell it if bought in her name, and that she knew of no person she could trust but me; I told her that I did not like to interfere between her and her husband, but on Mrs. Blackman and her pressing me I agreed. She then asked me about certain Crown Lands that were then advertised for sale; I told her the quantity and quality, also their situation. She told me a friend made her a present of eighty pounds (£80); she at once said the land did not suit her, as there was no water, and both her and Mrs. Blackman went away. Some time after, she called on me and inquired about other land, situated on the Cudgegong River; I told her the land was of a middling quality, besides plenty of water. She asked me to purchase this piece for her, which I refused; giving, as my reasons, that I had considerable trouble with this land before it was surveyed, as it was on Mr. Bowman's pre-emptive right, and that I required it for myself. She asked me to accompany her to Mrs. Blackman's, which I did; she mentioned the matter to Mrs. Blackman, said I ought not to bid against her; at last I agreed to buy it for her, saying, at the same time, that I was certain the land would bring more than £1 7s. per acre; which would be all her money, as she stated that she only had £80; and should the land bring more than £1 7s., I would go as far as £2 per acre for it before I would let any other person have it; but I believe it would go much higher, but it would not suit me to go higher. I then left Mrs. Blackman's; some time after, Mrs. Taylor and two other females met met me; they were in a spring cart; Mrs. Taylor said she was going to my house, that since she saw me last, she was informed that the 59 acres on the Cudgegong River would go very high, and that she called on me hoping that I would go as high as £6 or £7 per acre for this land. I at once refused, as I said I would not go beyond its value for any land to please her or any person else, as I had plenty of land already. She still pressed me to go high for the land, and let her have the value of her money cut off from one side of it. I still refused, and one of these persons that accompanied her said it was a very unreasonable request. She so pressed me and annoyed me, that I said, Mrs. Taylor, I will go as far as £5 per acre for this land on one condition, namely, that if I buy the land for a less sum than £5 per acre, that you will be satisfied with sixteen acres; she at once agreed, saying, at the same time, that sixteen acres was enough for her, and the balance, if any, would fence it for her. We were about parting, when I again remarked, don't forget our bargain; she answered, never fear. I purchased the land at the upset price, and the day after the sale Mrs. Taylor called at my house; I was absent; she told Mrs. Lyons that she came to make some arrangement about the title of the land, and pay me for it. I rode to her house in the course of the day; I met her in a paddock near her place; she said she had been at my house to pay me for the 59 acres of land. I said, I only agreed to give her sixteen acres, and why should I give her 59 acres. She admitted the correctness of my statement, but at the same time said, it was no loss to give it to her, as I had plenty of land. I told her by paying me £16 she could bring any judge of land with her, and that I would have it surveyed from either sides, and give her a deed or any other document she required. She said that she would not pay me, neither would she take less than the entire quantity. I threatened her that, if she belied me, that I would bring her to Court for defamation of character. I would have done so at the time, only for certain friends of mine here. As far as I can recollect, this is a true statement. Now, as to Mrs. Taylor's character,—Mrs. Taylor has not lived with her husband for many years past; he says her conduct is so bad that he could not live with her; he is not the only one that gives her a similar character. In regard of Mrs. Blackman, senr.'s, character, all I can say is, that she is the mother of W. R. Blackman, one of the Mudgee Magistrates that lately sent in their resignation; and on that account alone she would do anything to injure my character. Mrs. Blackman kept, in this town and elsewhere, for many years, a low public house; and was on many occasions suspected of very dishonest practices, such as receiving ill-gotten property. Both she and her husband kept a sly grog shop here before they obtained a license. Besides, she is a woman of notoriously intemperate habits, and of—but charity compels me to stop. The 3rd charge is made by George Ward, namely, that I allowed him to rob a person we found on the road, after making him drunk, and taking a silk handkerchief and some money myself. Ward was not apprehended at Hartley, but in either Yass or Albury. As far as I recollect, he informed me that he was nearly twenty weeks on the road and lock-ups, between where he was apprehended and Hartley; he was scarcely able to walk when I took charge of him. When I received him he was handcuffed. After travelling about a mile, he told me he was so weak he could not go any further unless I took his handcuffs off him, which I did, and though he walked better after he got the use of his hands, he could not travel more than 7 miles the first day. About 12 o'clock on the second day we found a man lying drunk on the road; I had seen the man before, he was a servant of the late Sir John Jamison; when we found him there was a large bundle of clothes beside him on the road; he had a good suit of clothes on him; I said we ought to take the bundle to Mr. Walker's, which was about two miles from us. I searched his pockets, and found nothing but an old knife, a short pipe, and some two or three pieces of tobacco, which I left him, as I knew they were not worth stealing; we then carried him into a scrub, that he might lie there until sober, as I was afraid some person might rob him or strip him. We then carried the bundle to Mr. Walker's; when we reached there neither Mrs. or Mr. Walker were at home, only a number of Government men; I told Ward, if we left the bundle with them that the party it belonged to would never get it, and if he helped me to carry it I would bring it to Cullenbullen, where he lived. Ward agreed to help me carry it, we reached Cullenbullen late in the evening; I inquired for the Superintendent, he made his appearance, I informed him when and where I found the bundle, and to whom it belonged; he highly commended me for my honesty, and said he would write to the Mudgee Bench about the matter, as my conduct was most praiseworthy. He opened the bundle and counted the articles, which also contained the bill the owner received from the shopkeeper; the articles corresponded with the bill, the amount of the bill was £55, the sum paid on account was £43; I made the Superintendent give me a receipt on the back of the bill, which I took with me as security, lest anything might happen to the bundle. Ward stood by during the whole time when I received the receipt; Ward told the Superintendent that he ought to get some remuneration for carrying the bundle so far, and as he was nearly naked, to give him a common check shirt and he would be satisfied, as it was only value for 1s. 6d., which he did. Previous to our leaving Cullenbullen, he wanted me to allow him to take a suit of clothes and a silk handkerchief out of the bundle; I told him if he attempted to do the like I would shoot him, and immediately cocked my pistol; some few days after reaching Mudgee I was called in by the Police Magistrate; the Clerk of the Bench, or the Chief Constable, I don't recollect which, read a letter sent by Sir John's Superintendent, stating all the matter connected with the bundle, and at the same time recommending me for some higher situation. I believe the Superintendent was a Magistrate, but I am not certain. The Police Magistrate (Captain Furlong) told me that the Bench was about dismissing the Chief Constable in the course of a few days, and that I could have the appointment if I liked. I declined, and thanked him, stating, at the same time, that I had just received the sum of £1,000 from my family in Ireland; and, that I would leave the Police Force at the termination of the time I was bound for, which I did. Ward also states that I drank some liquor with the man found on the road. I may state state that during the first ten years I was in Mudgee I never tasted either spirituous or any other intoxicating liquors, and I might say I have been a teetotaler from my childhood, which is well known to all the old inhabitants of Mudgee; neither had the man any liquor about him. Ward also states that I took a handkerchief and some money (silver). I can safely say that during the first five years I was in Mudgee I never saw one pound in either gold, silver, or notes, nor do I recollect seeing one shilling in silver. The only thing in the shape of money current here were orders or I O U's, from two-pence upwards; besides, the man owed a balance to the storekeeper, therefore it was not likely he would bring any money home, as the distance was only some fifteen miles. I need not say that the story about handkerchief is a base falsehood. As I was aware that the owner of the bundle intended the articles for sale, as soon as I reached Mudgee I enclosed the bill or invoice in a letter to the party, lest he might not know the first cost of the articles, which he informed me he received. When I took the handcuffs off Ward I was aware that I took them off at my own risk, and should he abscond that I would be committed; but, being aware of his state of health, besides, I was young, strong, and vigilant, I knew he could not escape; and besides, the houses being so far apart, I could not get him along if I did not take off the handcuffs. The enclosed documents state that Ward's character since he became free is good, which is also untrue, which the records of the Mudgee Police Office will shew. Though he has not resided very long in Mudgee since then, he has been before the Mudgee Bench twice during the last five years for vagrancy or drunkenness, I don't know which; he might be much oftener for all I know to the contrary; his wife informed me, some time since, that there was scarcely a prison in the Colony he was not confined in during the last ten or twelve years, which I have heard from many others; in fact, from the time I brought him a prisoner from Hartley here he has been a vagabond. The fourth charge against me is, that a person named Murray, a National schoolmaster, saw me let down slip-rails and allow cows to go into my paddocks to their calves, and after send them to pound. This charge is as base as the former or latter. Murray was here sometime National school teacher, but owing to his immoral conduct he was sent away from here. I was, and am, one of the local patrons; besides me, there were two Magistrates and a Clergyman on the local Board; they can state what his conduct was; besides, the charges he was sent away for can be seen at the office of the National Board of Education. On one occasion I caught him putting his horse into my growing wheat; I was about sending his horse to pound, but he rescued him. I went the next day to the Police Office to get a summons for him, but met one of the other local patrons; he advised me not to go, as he was about being sent away, and I would injure the school; I declined going on that account. This gentleman can certify to the truth of this statement, so can all the parties certify to his bad conduct. I believe I can recollect nothing more at present, and I most solemnly declare the above is true statement of all the charges brought against me; and I must say, that I think it would be more charitable of the Executive to at once supersede me than receive such statements from such characters as one and all the persons that has made these charges against me, backed up by all the Magistrates that has lately sent in their resignations. Many respectable persons here think neither my life or liberty is safe, and all on account of my being appointed to the Magistracy. I have acted with one and, I believe, all these persons; on many occasions with some of them on the local Board of National Education, also on the Hospital Committee, and on many other occasions and for various purposes, and were it any extenuation of any crime or charge brought against me, I could bring many against them; for instance, during Mr. Bayley's election William Lowe has been drunk and using obscene language in Mudgee streets, and, I believe, toward the late Attorney General. I could also bring many charges against the Mudgee Bench for incompetency, at least, during the last ten years. If my conduct has in any way been dishonorable, why don't they bring some respectable parties, in broad daylight, and prove it. I believe, by next March, when the new Electoral Roll will be revised, there will be 3,000 electors on the roll for this district; were the Government to send a document to the three Benches in this district, to call on all the electors to certify to my character, and also, to certify against me if they knew of any dishonorable conduct attributed to me, I do assert that 2,900 out of 3,000 would testify to the former, or, to my honorable conduct. Many of these parties know me since I landed in this Colony, and all for some time past, varying from six months up to nearly twenty years.

I have, &c.,
M. H. LYONS.

P.S.—I forgot to mention that Mrs. Blackman and myself stood beside each other at the land sale; she was about buying a piece of bad land; I asked her what she wanted with it; she said, for Mrs. Taylor; I said, I purchased for her the land she required, as I had come there for the purpose, meaning, of course, the sixteen acres we had agreed on.

Mudgee, 27 December, 1859.

SIR,

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant, intimating to us the acceptance by the Executive of our resignations as Justices of the Peace, and stating that the necessary writs will be issued superseding us.

2. In reply, we feel compelled to protest against the manifest discourtesy of this proceeding, in first suggesting a reconsideration of our resignations, and promising an investigation gation into the circumstances of the case, and then, without intimating to us that any investigation (either public or private) was proceeding, without asking for evidence of the averments made in our letter of the 25th October, 1859, pronouncing judgment against us.

3. Our object in now addressing you is not with any view of altering the decision of the Executive, but merely to place on record the fact that a whole Bench of Magistrates received such treatment at the hands of the Crown, after having gratuitously, and with satisfaction to the public, discharged the high and responsible duties of the Bench for a period of, in some cases, twenty years.

4. We do not shrink from any inquiry, and notice that the names of two gentlemen who concurred with us in both letters, and whose signatures were attached thereto, have been omitted in the letter accepting our resignations.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong, 2 September, 1859.

SIR,

The Government Gazette of the 19th ultimo, with your communication to the Bench of Magistrates, at Molong, of the 22nd, notifying my transfer to this district, having arrived here by post on the evening of Thursday, 25th, must have crossed en route the letter which I did myself the honor of addressing to you on the subject on the 23rd. I now beg leave respectfully to express my acknowledgments of the favor you have been pleased to grant, greatly enhanced as I feel it to be by having actually anticipated my application, my appointment having already been gazetted four days at the date of my letter.

I could wish that my duty in addressing you on the present occasion might terminate with this expression of my gratitude for your renewed manifestation of your confidence in me, with intimation of my resolve to justify—as I hope to do—your favorable opinion by my future conduct; but alas! sir, I am placed by a sad necessity in circumstances rendering it a duty incumbent on me, namely, in vindication of myself, who am, I trust, of as pacific and conciliatory a disposition as most men, from the odium which may, and I am too well aware will and must in the first instance attach to me, as primâ facie, a quarrelsome character, from the misfortune of having my name prominently associated with an assault case, though as prosecutor, on the very first occasion of my entering the Police Office of this district as the officer of the Court. Having no animosity whatever towards my predecessor—with whom, as a notorious brawler and sot, I have, for my own comfort, studiously avoided intercourse, as far as I possibly could do so without being personally offensive to so captious and violent tempered a colleague—I should not mention the subject, were it not palpable that it cannot fail to come to your knowledge, perhaps officially, as well as in all probability to the knowledge of the public, since each of the Bathurst newspapers has a “correspondent” in this place; and whether the affair be correctly reported or otherwise, I hear it asserted by everybody that I am sure to be “shewn up” by the press. If but correctly reported, my only, but still great cause of annoyance, will consist in the unpleasantness of being made the subject of conversation and comment throughout the Colonies, even when justified, as I rely on being, by every right-minded person; that is, if the whole of the circumstances be accurately represented; and I do trust, sir, that my conduct will not only be justified but approved by yourself, my honored patron, and by your honorable colleagues of the Cabinet, inclusive of His Excellency the Governor General, to whom I have had the honor to be known half as long as to yourself—namely, fourteen years; and known, I believe, to both, as to the Governor and to the late and present Premiers of Victoria, as a man of unimpeachable character. The defendant, who, though pleading “not guilty,” contended, in justification of the four or five furious assaults of which he was convicted and fined a pound, that my letter to him (which was put on record by being ordered to be appended to the evidence given by witnesses, it having been read from the Bench to a crowded Court, at the urgent and repeated desire of the defendant) more than justified him. In consequence of another assault on me, accompanied with insulting and threatening language, but an hour before the trial, Mr. Mitchell was further bound over to keep the peace in his own recognizance of twenty-five pounds.

Appended is the letter, by which I must stand or fall, which, at the time of writing it, I deemed, and still deem, that the abominable circumstance which excited my honest indignation, legitimately demanded of me, not as a public censor, but as a well-merited rebuke, which, however strong its language, was privately given, and bonâ fide, in the hope, or rather with the desire, that it might be received in a proper spirit, and have a good effect on the mind of the young reprobate to whom addressed; an object which I apprehend cannot but be approved and desired by any parent whose ill fate it may be to suffer the anguish inseparable from a worthless son, scarcely recovered from delirium tremens, and who boasts of drinking twelve glasses of brandy and water before dinner.

Mr. Robt. B. Mitchell.

SIR,

In justice to myself, I feel it necessary to remove a possible misapprehension entering your mind, with respect to an incident in our somewhat convivial sitting last evening, by addressing you with the distinctness and sincerity which I feel that the occasion demands of me as a gentleman, a Christian, and the parent of children older than yourself. Of course it is the precious toast, giving utterance to the most horrid blasphemy and most atrocious insult that words can express, to which I refer, and which you appear to glory in, I suppose in consequence of its superlative atrocity.

I

I do most bitterly reproach myself for having remained in your company one instant after such blasphemous blackguardism escaped your lips, and wonder at myself that I did not indignantly resent such gross outrage on the instant, as I ought to have done, instead of expostulating merely, and assuring you, which I now repeat, that I fail to perceive the slightest wit or humour in the "sentiment!" or anything but shocking blasphemy and vulgarity which even the lowest and most depraved could hardly admire. It was, I think, from your rapid transition from recitation, and narrative of your figuring in the dock at the Police Office, on the charge of uttering this blasphemous imprecation, which you had the audacity to boast of, and to reiterate, for Mr. Betts' edification and mine, in a conversational manner, in illustration of a charming sentiment proposed as acceptable to your company, that I was guilty of remaining in the room with an individual who could make a boast of being so great a reprobate. For this my conscience and my sense of propriety smite me sadly, and I therefore make to you, and to the only gentleman who was present, this unequivocal expression of my sentiments.

The late Marquis of Waterford, in his youth, shewed such a depraved taste for wanton mischief, as would subject a schoolboy to the birch, and a man, not being a privileged "nobleman," to the stocks; and, without admiring "devilment," being no sanctimonious pretender to purity, I can make great allowance for the follies and frivolity of young men, who are too commonly libertines, relishing jokes less remarkable for their elegance than smutiness; but, happening to be a believer in the Bible, I warn you, O young man, who profess yourself to be, as I also am, a Protestant Christian, that for every vain and wicked word—for every breach of the 3rd commandment—"God will bring you into judgment!" what then, for daring to invoke "eternal damnation on your own soul," and on those who have the deep misfortune to be in company with such a blasphemous reprobate, emulous, it would seem, of the ill fame of the atheistical and atrocious Earl of Rochester, whose life and death I earnestly commend to your attentive perusal.

Hoping that you may both repent and amend before it is too late, and thus avert the fatal consequences which I perceive to be at present threatening your dissipated life and conversation—namely, your own ruin of mind, body, and soul; disgrace to your family; and the bringing down the grey hairs of your widowed mother with sorrow to the grave;—

I remain, Sir,
With resolve to eschew the slightest further acquaintance,
Your sincere well-wisher,
N. L. KENTISH.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MOLONG.

GENTLEMEN,

In the absence of a stipendiary Magistrate or "P.M." I do myself the honor of appealing to the Bench, and especially to the respected senior Magistrate who usually presides, to support my respectful application to the Government, or rather to make application to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary on my behalf, to the effect, that in taking office under you as Clerk of Petty Sessions, the Court House, wretched indeed as it is, may be forthwith supplied with all the documents, "forms" under their proper heads, letter and foolscap paper (of which there is not a single sheet), ink, pens, and other appliances essential to the proper conduct of a police establishment; amongst which a nest of pigeon-holes for the methodical arrangement of business is one of pressing necessity.

I have purposely abstained, almost entirely, from the attempt to arrange and reduce to order the deplorable confusion in which the few desultory papers in this office are transferred to me, in order to draw your personal attention to the same, that I may be exonerated from the blame due to a state of things which I can but deplore and use every effort to repair; pledging myself that from this time the business of this Court shall be conducted, and all its records preserved, with regularity. Aware that my predecessor had been some time ago charged at this Bench, under the "Vagrant Act," with the very same blasphemous language his repetition of which in my company brought me into conflict with him, I have naturally searched for the record of the proceedings on that occasion, but I find no insertion of the same, nor the record of a single case anterior to the 24th of May last, in the office book of the proceedings of this Court.

I am desirous that someone—and I can conceive of no person more proper than the Chief Constable—should make an inventory, to record as specifically as possible, every book, paper, &c., now in the office, that I may know what I am accountable for in taking possession of such a Babel.

It would, gentlemen, be of immense advantage to me as Clerk of your Bench; and, therefore, I apprehend that through me it would be of advantage to the Bench itself, if I could be permitted and assisted to procure the valuable aid of such an experienced officer as my able and respected colleague, the C.P.S. of Orange, just for two or three days, or even for a single day, at this place, to point out to me the proper routine and mode of performing the duties of a Clerk of Petty Sessions which Mr. Evans is so perfectly master of. If invited by this Bench I have reason to hope that my friend, Mr. Evans, not only, but that Andrew Kerr, Esquire, and the Magistrates of the Orange Bench, would kindly and cordially comply; I therefore entreat of you, gentlemen, to initiate the measures which I thus respectfully suggest, as imperatively called for by the discouraging circumstances in which I find myself placed, with respect to the business of the Police Court of Molong under your administration.

It is not without the strongest reasons that I am quite resolved to hold no personal intercourse whatever with my predecessor, who, before leaving the Court last Tuesday, after having entered into his own recognizance to keep the peace, especially towards me, had the effrontery to say, in a swaggering manner, addressing himself to the Chief Constable and to me, and, in fact, also to John Smith, Esq., J.P., for that gentleman was present—"He supposed he might hoot (or thow I understood him to say) and shout 'bow wow' without affecting his recognizance or endangering his bond"—or words precisely to that effect—plainly shewing his animus, and implying his intention to insult me with further annoyance, personally. I have authorized the Chief Constable to receive, and to give Mr. Mitchell a receipt for whatever he may officially have to turn over to me as his successor in office.

I do not doubt, gentlemen, that, by taking a great deal of pains, I may in a short time find out my duties, and make myself so well acquainted with them, as to be enabled to perform them to your entire satisfaction; but in taking office in a branch of the public service which is yet new to me, the propriety and importance of my being initiated in the routine of my new and responsible duties by some gentleman practically acquainted with the same must, I apprehend, be as apparent to the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, as strongly felt by, gentlemen, with great respect,—

Your humble and obedient servant,
 Police Office, Molong, N. L. KENTISH,
 September 3, 1859. C. P. S.

P.S.—Sept. 5th.—Mr. Mitchell having left for me, in this room, a notice that “he will enter this Police Office whenever he thinks proper, until he resigns the offices of Crown Land Agent and Registrar of the District Court,” I entreat your Worships’ protection from such intrusion, insolence, and further annoyance, and peradventure violence also, which I can but live in constant apprehension of, whilst my predecessor, notorious for his turbulence, is permitted to remain in this township; who, if he has ever read his commission as Registrar, ought to know that it expired the moment he ceased to hold office as Clerk of Petty Sessions of Molong; as also ceased his Crown land agency for this district.

Perhaps the Bench will have the goodness to instruct the Chief Constable to reply to Mr. Mitchell’s coarse threat, by informing him that he has no right “to enter this Court whenever he may think proper,” nor at all, without consent of one or more Magistrates, and that he is forbidden to enter it without permission, at his peril.

[Enclosure in No 2.]

Molong, 4/9/59.

Sir,
 I beg to inform you that, until you are gazetted, I still hold the offices of Crown Land Agent and Registrar of the District Court, therefore you cannot keep me out of the Court; and I beg to inform you I will enter it, until I resign those offices, whenever I think proper.

R. B. MITCHELL.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MOLONG.

Colonial Secretary’s Office,
 Sydney, 15 September, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed to refer to you for report, the accompanying letter from the Clerk of your Bench, relative to the conduct of his predecessor as therein represented; and to state that the Colonial Secretary very much regrets that such circumstances as are notified by Mr. Kentish have been officially brought under his notice. If Mr. Mitchell’s character be as reported he is unfit for his appointment, and if he be innocent Mr. Kentish ought to be punished for charging him unjustly with such a character.

SIR,

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your instructions, enclosing letter addressed to you by Mr. Kentish, the Clerk of this Bench, bearing date the 2nd instant, and we beg to state that we have given directions for the issue of a circular to all the Magistrates in the district, requesting their attendance, on the 11th of next month, for the purpose of inquiring into the subject referred to this Bench, in order to report to you upon the same as required.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 15th ultimo, No. 59-3905-549, calling on us to report upon a letter addressed to you by Mr. Kentish, the Clerk of Petty Sessions here, reflecting on the character of his predecessor, Mr. Mitchell,—

We have the honor to report that we have this day held a full inquiry in the matter, and examined six witnesses, including the most respectable inhabitants of the District, who directly and positively contradict the whole of the charges.

We therefore feel it incumbent on us to state that we consider the charges brought against Mr. Mitchell are malicious and mendacious.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong, October 12, 1859.

SIR,

However great my surprise and temporary consternation at such a reply to your letter of the 15th ultimo being written by Mr. Sibthorpe yesterday, and subscribed by three out of the four Magistrates present with him on the Bench, yet, strong in the justice of my cause, and therefore "thrice armed," and perfectly assured that "truth will ultimately prevail"—and I will not permit myself to doubt with truth, justice—I must, as many an injured and belied person has had to do, in his intercourse with the world, and with the unscrupulous characters it may have been his misfortune to be jostled against, bear with fortitude the obloquy heaped upon me, until it shall be removed by a thorough exposure of the facts of the case, in all respects, which will necessarily include the particulars of the circumstances under which the "report" was penned by one and signed by four of the Magistrates assembled, but refused the signature of the Chairman and the senior Magistrate present, to whom the conduct and character of my predecessor are most intimately known; and who was again grossly insulted on the Bench twice during the proceedings, by Mr. Mitchell calling him (Mr. Barton) a "brawler"; this in open Court, in the presence of other four Magistrates, by one of whom the delinquent was reproved on each occasion, for addressing such insulting language to the Chairman; whom, on the 13th ultimo, he had still further insulted in Court, with violent and threatening language, daring him to "meet him outside on the platform," when presiding on the Bench, associated with John Smith, Esquire, and John Paterson, Esquire.

Knowing of no better or other mode of putting you in possession of the main facts of a truly extraordinary case, I beg leave, sir, to append a statement of the proceedings, as exact as I am able to express; to the truth of which, in every particular, I will make affidavit before a Magistrate, at the foot of the document; and, as all that relates to what took place in Court yesterday, is necessarily within the knowledge of the Chairman of the Bench, before whom I propose to swear it, my oath will be virtually corroborated by that gentleman, as the facts cannot but be within his own personal knowledge.

I have, &c.,

N. L. KENTISH,
C. P. S.

P.S.—Oct. 13.—Instead of making affidavit before any Magistrate, which might possibly be deemed offensive by others, I will merely transcribe the proceedings from the records of the Court; and as there would be an impropriety in my entering the minutes of evidence, however accurately, from memory, without first submitting them to the Bench for confirmation, on Tuesday next, I am reluctantly compelled to defer the completion of the document until next week, as, from the unseemliness of my acting as Clerk of the Court in a case to which I was a party, the evidence was not taken down in writing, as it was given or declared on honor, no oath being administered to anyone.

MOLONG POLICE COURT.—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1859.

PRESENT:—

PROCEEDINGS of Commission appointed by the Honorable the Colonial Secretary to report upon the letter of Mr. N. L. Kentish of the 2nd ultimo, reflecting on the character of his predecessor as Clerk of Petty Sessions of Molong—Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell.

THE Honorable Secretary's letter of the 15th ultimo, addressed to the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, with Mr. Kentish's letter enclosed, containing annexed to it his (Mr. K.'s) letter to Mr. Mitchell, of the 24th of August, having been read from the Bench, in open Court, Mr. Kentish, as the virtual accuser of Mr. Mitchell, was called on to proceed to establish his charges by evidence. Mr. Kentish then submitted, that having just committed to paper all that he felt it necessary to say, expecting that it would prove to be unnecessary for him to produce any witnesses, and having therefore abstained from requesting the attendance of even one, he would, with permission, leave the same with the Bench, and withdraw whilst it was taken into consideration by their Worships; but it being suggested by the Bench that Mr. Kentish could probably best read his own handwriting, he read:—

Police Office,

11 October, 1859.

To the Worshipful Magistrates of the Molong Bench.

Gentlemen,

The indelicacy of acting as your Clerk of the Court in a case in which my conduct, in impugning the character of my predecessor, is no less matter for your investigation and report than is the conduct and character of the party impeached, will, I trust, cause my withdrawal, till sent for by your Worships, to be approved of; and as the virtual prosecutor of Mr. R. B. Mitchell, I will, with permission, open the proceedings by committing to paper exactly what I should state vis à voce, if I were present in Court.

I have no present intention to become the prosecutor of Mr. Mitchell on charges of immorality and depravity; but in vindication of myself and my character if assailed, if I should be compelled to prosecute the "gentleman" with whom it is falsely asserted by his newspaper champion, that fifty persons in Molong "sympathised," as with an aggrieved and injured party, and expressed their approval of the defendant's conduct, and their virtuous indignation with the plaintiff who prosecuted, and the Magistrates who fined him and bound him over to keep the peace on such a "paltry charge," by entering into a sixpenny subscription to defray the fine and costs,—if driven before the Government, or before a higher Court than this, it will be seen that I possess the moral courage not to shrink from the performance of a painful but manly Christian duty; nor may I be guilty of the affectation of pretending to feel any compunction at happening to be the instrument of bringing to condign punishment the most thorough monster of depravity I ever met with in all my experience, even amongst thousands of convicts, the great majority of whom, in the road-gangs formerly under my supervision, would have been disgusted at such a companion, and would have reported his blasphemy to me, or probably kicked him out of their hut, as too vile for their society.

At present, gentlemen, it is my sole purpose to justify my conduct in having, in an official letter to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, designated Mr. Mitchell a "blasphemer," a "brawler," and a "sot."

Without calling a single witness before you, gentlemen, I rely on the enclosed affidavit as ample. Nay, even dispensing with my own evidence (although in an inquiry of this kind, of course the statement upon oath of both accuser and accused is always taken, as in fact frequently the most material to the case under investigation, as different versions may be given and different views taken of any case whatever), being aware that certain circumstances are within the knowledge of the Bench, I am willing even to rely for my perfect justification on the impossibility of my predecessor refuting either of the three charges against his moral character, to which my accusation is at present limited; but as Mr. Mitchell proclaims everywhere that he will triumphantly prove himself to be the most innocent and calumniated of men, and is resolved on prosecuting me for defaming his virtuous and unblemished character, even if it cost him a few thousand pounds, the instant he is honorably exculpated by your Worships; I venture to suggest, that going into the defence at once will save much time, and spare myself not only, but the Bench also, a painful duty; for I pledge myself that, if Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell but prose to your Worships' satisfaction that he is not a most unmitigated reprobate—that he is not an habitual and persevering blasphemer, who at every public-house which he frequents, and in general in the lowest company, habitually invokes an imprecation which can proceed only from the polluted breath of an incarnate fiend, which I need not here repeat; if he will disprove having been on a former occasion prosecuted under the Vagrant Act by the Postmaster of Molong, for this same atrocity, in this very Court, before some of you gentlemen now present; if he can refute my charge of having repeated the dreadful imprecation, "Here's eternal damnation to your souls," as a toast in the company of Mr. Betts and myself at Moon's Inn, on the evening of the 23rd of August last, I will then retract my accusation, especially if the same charming "ish" in writing, addressed to Andrew Ross, Esq., M.D., immediately above the signature R. B. Mitchell, be shown to be a forgery. So, if Mr. Mitchell will produce the testimony of any clergyman acquainted with him in support of his moral and religious character, and his amiability, mildness of temper, and gentleness, and to certify that he has ever entered a place of worship during his residence at Molong, that he is of temperate habits, that he is not quarrelsome, that he has not been guilty of insulting magistrates in this Court, and even whilst sitting judicially on the Bench; if Mr. Mitchell will disprove having insulted L. H. Sibthorpe, Esq., on the Bench, in July last, and having, to avert official complaint of his conduct to the Government, made to that gentleman a humble apology in writing; if Mr. Mitchell will disprove having quarrelled with and insulted the late Crown Lands Commissioner, Harry Whitty, Esq., and the friend residing with him, Mr. Robert Tulloch, and incited the latter to fight a duel; if he can disprove being drunk on that occasion; if he can disprove having boasted in the company of Francis Smith, Esq., L. H. Sibthorpe, Esq., and myself, of having on the then previous day drunk twelve glasses of brandy and water before dinner; and if he can disprove having within the last few weeks had a bravol with Sarah, or Margaret Feeney, at Moon's Inn, in which fight, quarrel, melee, or "brawl," a carving-knife and a pot (or kettle) were used as missiles, and thrown at one another by the male and female combatants; in short, if it be shown on any reliable testimony, that Mr. Mitchell is neither a "bravoler," nor a "sot" (by which I understand a person greatly addicted to liquor, a tippler, who can and does swallow a great deal of intoxicating drinks before he gets positively drunk), I will be only too happy to withdraw my strong, but, as I believe, strictly correct epithets. But, gentlemen, if it cannot be denied or doubted, that all three of my charges imputed to Mr. Mitchell are well founded, and but too capable of being abundantly established, I will abstain from calling witnesses, or going into proof, if I may be permitted to be silent.

I have, &c.,

C. P. S.

Immediately

Immediately on the conclusion of this letter, Mr. Mitchell vehemently applied to the Bench, that the sealed paper which the reader held in his hand, but desired to withhold, might be opened and read, which was accordingly ordered, as follows:—

Indorsed—"Affidavit of N. L. Kentish, in support of his charges against R. B. Mitchell, as a 'blasphemer,' a 'brawler,' and a 'sot.'"

Nathaniel Lipscomb Kentish, C. P. S., of Molong, on oath saith:—the statement contained in the annexed letter of the 15th of September last, addressed to the Editor of the Empire, is strictly true. In addition to which, deponent saith,—Mr. Robert Blunt Mitchell, on or about the of August last, about six o'clock in the evening, in the parlor of Moon's Hotel in this township, informed this deponent, in the presence of the barmaid, who brought to him a glass of cloves syrup, and to me a glass of wine, and in the hearing of several other parties, as a matter of fact and apparently of notoriety, that he had been suffering from delirium tremens, and that that was his reason for taking nothing stronger than syrup, as he was obliged to give up wine and spirits, and had in fact become a "tactotaller."

Deponent further saith, that in July last, in the same parlor, the said Richard Blunt Mitchell stated, as a matter of boast rather than otherwise, in the presence of L. H. Sibthorpe, Esq., C. C. L., and of Francis Smith, Esq., and of this deponent, that he, the said Mitchell, had on the previous day drunk twelve glasses of brandy and water before dinner; and deponent saith, that on some occasion of being in company with the said L. H. Sibthorpe soon after this, he, the said Sibthorpe, remarked to this deponent that Mitchell must be an idiot or mad to make a brag of such a feat as drinking twelve glasses of brandy and water before dinner, which only shewed him to be a sot or sottish brute (or some such term), if he really did drink such a lot, and an ass for himself proclaiming it.

N. L. KENTISH.

The following letter, attached to the foregoing unsworn affidavit, was not read to the Court, but briefly alluded to only, as containing the real facts, which had been grossly and wilfully misrepresented to the Empire by its correspondent, which the bailiff of the District Court, ex-constable Morris, publicly then and there admitted himself to be, alleging that his report was a fair and correct one:—

To the Editor and Proprietors of the Empire Newspaper.

Molong, 15 September, 1859.

Gentlemen,

A most studiously untruthful report, artfully calculated to injure me, not only in public estimation, but also in my position and my prospects as a Government officer, having been imposed on you, I think I am entitled to expect that the inquiry I very naturally make of the publisher should be candidly replied to, viz., who is the person by whose mendacious report I have been so grossly, and as is palpable, designedly misrepresented and maligned.

I beg to assure you, gentlemen, that as an old editor and publisher myself, I can sympathise with you in your liability to be imposed on, which is inevitable; and so far from feeling anger towards you for inserting what you had no right to doubt being substantially correct, my sentiments are quite the other way towards the Empire, being under obligations to that journal (with which, too, I coincide in politics) for former support with respect to my proposed new application of the science of hydrodynamics, viz., to propulsion (which will yet be realized!) I am, therefore, one of the last men who would take or sanction legal proceedings against a publisher for any statement made under a reasonable belief of its truth, or for anything short of a perversion of facts, and wilful misrepresentation with intent to defame and injure.

I have no doubt whatever of your just intentions and strict impartiality in the editorial office of the Empire, which will doubtless have permitted me to vindicate myself in your columns, and my character, so shamefully assailed by a more zealous than discreet friend of my predecessor, by insertion of the letter which I addressed to you by the Mail which left this place at 2 this morning, written in haste late last evening, on the Empire of the 12th falling into my hands; nor do I dread, but rather court your comments on the case, or the fair criticism of any gentlemanly or Christian censor; although it is most painful to be dragged before the public; but I think that under the circumstances I am entitled to be informed of the name of the person who has purposely heaped odium on me, that I may not impute the blame to any other than the disingenuous, and evidently towards me, malignant reporter.

Awaiting the information requested,—

I remain, &c.,

N. L. KENTISH.

P.S.—For your information I will state the exact facts of the case, as briefly as possible:—On meeting Mr. Mitchell at Moon's Inn on the 23rd ult., he accosted me, asking if I had dined, and on my reply in the negative, said, "That's right, then we'll dine together." At 6, or nearer 7, I sat down to my usual "tea dinner," with Mitchell à la tête; but, as he would not allow me to pour out a cup for him, saying, "he hated, and never drank slops," in order to avoid the imputation of being unsociable, I called for a pint of sherry. Whilst discussing the portion left in the decanter after the cloth was removed, my sole companion indulged in poetical recitation, which is well known to be his hobby; and Mr. Betts called to see Mitchell and joined us; when Mitchell ordered another pint of wine, and with increased animation, drew largely upon Byron. Before the decanter was emptied, Mr. Mitchell, starting up from his chair, said, "I must now give you my toast—here's eternal damnation to your souls!" I instantly rose from my seat, and in a loud and angry manner remonstrated indignantly (and I only blame myself for not having dashed wine and glass in the wretch's face), using the very words expressed in my letter to him the next morning, and telling him that I had heard that atrocious imprecation attributed to him, but was unwilling to believe it, or could hardly believe it to be possible, but now I heard the impious blasphemy from his own lips. He then tried to drown my voice by his loud and rapid utterance, addressing himself to Mr. Betts, between whom and me the monster sat, opposite the fire, and rushed into a recitation—strange to say—of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village;" even which I was perhaps blameable for remaining to listen to from such polluted breath (but distressingly as Mitchell stutters in conversation, he really recites very well); immediately after which I said I thought it was time for bed, and retired moodily from the parlor, leaving him to further edify his young friend and guest Mr. Betts, with whom as a guest, and with whom only, I exchanged the parting salutation of "good night."

What right, then, had your lying "Correspondent" to assert, and by repetition insist, that I parted from Mitchell "on friendly terms"? It was impossible that I could leave the reprobate in greater disgust, resolved never to enter the same room with him again. Your reporter is also pleased to assert that "we had been enjoying ourselves." It is matter of notoriety that Mitchell's stuttering and profane company was so obnoxious to me, that I have ever studiously shunned him. Your inventive reporter further asserts, that "amongst other amusements," Mitchell related the circumstance (which is true, but too tamely stated to do justice to the eloquent narrator quoted) of his figuring at the Police Office, on a charge of blasphemy brought against him under the Vagrant Act, by the Postmaster, which was fully proved, viz., his favorite sentiment which he had just repeated; but that of course the Bench could make nothing of it, and the case was dismissed. Now as there was no other person in the parlor than Mitchell and myself, till Mr. Betts came in; and as there were neither cards nor music, a chess-board, or even a book in the room, how dare this scribbler talk about "other amusements," and "friendly parting," falsely to insinuate that I had countenanced the atrocious blackguardism of the impious young sot, of whom your reporter (who is said to be a more than ordinarily pious person) has the the audacity to become the voluntary champion, by imposing on the public through your columns an ingeniously and malevolently concocted report, making light of the imprecation which I denounce as infamous, justifying his friend the obscene blasphemer, and stigmatizing my letter to the wretch as an "insulting letter," justifying his assault. I am glad to see that I expressed my indignation and my abhorrence of the "gentleman" strongly, which no language could be strong enough to express adequately to the infamous occasion. Your or my mentor censures me for comparing his protégé to the rowdy Marquis of Waterford, and the atheistical monster of depravity, the Earl of Rochester; I fear that the comparison with the latter is but too well sustained, with this difference—that pre-eminence in guilt must be accorded to Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell over the Earl of Rochester, on this ground, that the very most atrocious imprecation that can be conceived by the human mind, or was ever uttered by the lips of an incarnate fiend, is the creation of the late C. P. S. of Molong, who has been baptized in the Scotch Church, and is understood to pass himself off as a "Protestant Christian!" but the Earl of ill-fame was an avowed atheist; had he, therefore, been capable of giving birth to such a sentiment as "Eternal damnation to everybody," the horrid imprecation would have been unmeaning and senseless, proceeding from a wretch that might be (and it is believed by many was and must have been) insane, who denied the existence of God or devil, heaven or hell, or of a future life after death; but from one who has not yet proclaimed himself an atheist, but is supposed to be a believer of the Christian faith, the climax of iniquity must be Mr. Mitchell's, and I deeply lament to learn that there is no law, civil or ecclesiastical, in force in this Colony, under which I might shew my moral courage by prosecuting and bringing to condign punishment, this monster of iniquity, for words and blasphemous imprecation uttered in the presence of two witnesses, in the sitting-room of a licensed public house; which disgraceful and anomalous state of the law is surely deserving of the attention of our legislators.

Mr. Mitchell in his rage, said "he would insist on an explanation of what I meant by 'black-guardism,' or would have 'satisfaction.'" I believe my letter needs little "explanation" to other than the monster of depravity to whom it is addressed, and his champion.

Your correspondent has constructed his report to your paper from the defendant's speech or defence in Court, instead of from my statement upon oath. Moon (who, though called by me, was palpably leaning to his profitable lodger) certainly swore, that "he did not see Mitchell within two yards of me in the bar;" your lying reporter states, "That Mitchell was no nearer [implying "no nearer at any time"] "to Kentish than two yards, and ["therefore," implied] no blows were struck, nor even offered to be "struck," whereas I swore that he rushed at me furiously four or five times with a stick in his hand, talking of "chastising," and "satisfaction," and Mitchell admitted this, and that he threw the letter in my face, but that he did not actually strike me with his stick or fist, but only threatened with loud words and violent gesticulations, which could have been further proved by witnesses present; but the Bench ruled, that as an assault was established on the defendant's admission, it was not necessary to take further evidence.

Expecting a violent blow from Mitchell, who several times rushed at me, almost striking me over the head with his stick, and in the face with his fist, I twice clenched mine for the purpose of making a vigorous blow at him in self-defence; but there seems to have been "method in the fellow's madness," for though he also rushed twice at me with fury, saying he would take from me by force the letter he had thrown at me, which I had picked up and put in my pocket, and he vainly demanded of me to give back to him. At the close of the fray he remarked, to be heard by all present, that "I could not swear that he had struck me, or so much as touched my person," which is true, with all his blustering, violent language and gesticulation, calculated to excite me to strike him, which (or to send him a challenge) seemed to be the object of his desire, under the idea that any amount of battery he might be able to inflict on me—as he is doubtless stronger as well as younger than I am—would be palliated, if not actually justified, if it could be proved that I gave the first blow. The landlord is a large, powerful man, and I naturally went to the bar door, which opens out of the parlor, to "demand his protection" from the violence which he witnessed (which was refused!) the rather as, at the moment of the first assault I had his (the landlord's) pretty infant on my knee, and carried her in my arms to the tap-room, where he was. Being neither a pugilist nor a duellist, but having a decided objection to boxing, as vulgar and brutal; and being opposed to the more polite crimes of murder and suicide, I confess to the guilt of deeming discretion to be the better part of valor, i.e., moral courage more worthy of a Christian gentleman than an appeal to fists or to pistols.

The Evidence, from memory, and subject to correction.

By Mr. Kentish.—L. H. Sibthorpe, Esquire, J.P. and C.C.L., states:—I remember having met you and Mr. Mitchell together several times at Moon's Inn; but I do not remember on any occasion Mr. Mitchell saying that he had on the previous day drunk twelve glasses of brandy and water before dinner. I have no recollection of any conversation with you, in reference to any such alleged avowal by Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell did insult me on the Bench in July last; but on my threat to report him to the Government, he apologised to me; I made him give to me an apology in writing.

By Mr. Kentish.—Francis Smith, Esquire: I have no recollection of meeting you and Mr. Mitchell together at Moon's Hotel.

By Mr. Kentish.—Andrew Ross, Esquire, M.D.: I never saw Mr. Mitchell drunk. I admit having received from him a letter in his handwriting, concluding with the words addressed to me, "wishing you eternal damnation."

By Mr. Mitchell.—E. W. Moon, publican: I never saw you drunk. You have lodged at my hotel about five months.

By Mr. Kentish.—About what amount, approximately, has Mr. Mitchell expended in liquor whilst residing at your hotel? (Over-ruled by the majority of the Bench, as "not to be answered.")

By Mr. Mitchell.—Mr. H. M. Betts: I think Mr. Kentish remained in the parlor with us, listening to your recitation of the "Deserted Village" and other pieces of poetry, for half-an-hour or better, after you proposed as a toast, "Eternal damnation to your souls." Mr. Kentish did not shake hands with you nor with me on retiring from the parlor to go to bed, but wished me "good night."

By Mr. Mitchell.—Mr. John Davis, Chief Constable: I never saw you drunk.

By the Bench.—I have heard from my wife that you were driven out of my house with a poker or fire-iron, by a young woman residing with my family, with whom you attempted to take liberties.

Mr. Mitchell, in his address to the Bench (in the course of which he thrice repeated the expression which he admitted having repeatedly made use of as a toast—"Eternal damnation to your souls"—sometimes varying the termination to "everybody"), contended that this had nothing to do with the case whatever, as the Honorable Colonial Secretary had not mentioned "blasphemy" in his letter addressed to the Bench, and consequently that they had only to report whether he was a "brawler" or a "sot," remarking that no witness produced could say that he had ever seen him drunk; and if he was a "brawler," so was Mr. Barton the Chairman then presiding on the Bench—whom he vehemently accused as such. The majority of the Bench supported Mr. Mitchell's argument, that the charge of blasphemy was ignored in the Colonial Secretary's letter, and had nothing whatever to do with their present inquiry; and holding a grammatical discussion as to the meaning of the term "brawler," Mr. Sibthorpe, who acted as the champion and advocate of Mr. Mitchell, maintained that insulting a magistrate on the Bench, or using violence, especially towards a gentleman, in a quarrel, did not constitute a "brawler;"

"brawler;" but only the joining in a riot or general row amongst low characters, such as would congregate in the tap-room of a public-house, would justify the appellation "brawler." It was also laid down by Mr. Sibthorpe, and assented to by three of his brother Magistrates, that, however much liquor any person might imbibe, he could not be a "sot" if never seen drunk or unable to walk and attend to his business; it was "therefore both malicious and mendacious" of Mr. Kentish, so to designate Mr. Mitchell. His Worship the Chairman differed in toto with Mr. Sibthorpe, but was over-ruled by the other three Magistrates supporting Mr. Sibthorpe's view.

Mr. Kentish said that he relied on the facts, even as they had been represented. He respectfully submitted, and—supported as he believed by the authority of Dr. Johnson's and other dictionaries (but unfortunately there was no dictionary at hand, to refer to)—contended that the term "brawler" applied to "any person of a violent temper and quarrelsome disposition, habitually addicted to quarrelling with his neighbors and others with whom, by business or otherwise, he is brought in contact;" and that insulting and threatening language addressed to Magistrates on the Bench, with gross rudeness, violence, and insubordination, would constitute a "brawler," and the very climax of brawling; also that the correct definition of a "sot," is, "a person fond of liquor, and addicted to drinking immoderately," and at "all hours, who could and does continually drink a large quantity of intoxicating liquor without or before becoming absolutely drunk." Mr. Kentish further contended, that if he was considered to have preferred any "charges" at all against Mr. Mitchell, not only was "blasphemy" one of them, but by far the greatest of the three, respecting which his complaint was both full and specific; he further stated, that if he had contemplated being viewed by the Bench as a prosecutor, who was this day required to establish his charges by evidence, he would have come amply prepared to prove facts which would abundantly establish the correctness of the three epithets he had applied to Mr. Mitchell, whom, unfortunately, he could have too little difficulty in this place of convicting as a "blasphemer" [but here it was ruled by the majority of the Bench, in opposition to the declared opinion of the Chairman, that he, Mr. Kentish, had not charged Mr. Mitchell with being a "blasphemer," or at least that no such charge was before them], a "brawler," and a "sot," which even on the testimony of the reluctant and adverse witnesses, who, after personally informing him of the habits and conduct of the accused—after stigmatizing him and denouncing his dissipated and disgraceful career in Molong the last eighteen months [this observation is made especially, but not exclusively, in allusion to Dr. Ross] in the strongest possible language—now came forward as witnesses on behalf of the accused, and to palliate and vindicate a party towards whom their sentiments had suddenly undergone a great and most extraordinary change,—he, Mr. Kentish, conceived to be perfectly established, and confirmed and strengthened by what had taken place in this Court on the present occasion.

The Court was cleared, and after their Worships' deliberation with closed doors for about an hour or upwards, and on the public being again admitted, it was announced that, with one dissentient voice, viz., that of the Chairman, the Court had agreed by a majority of three, to the letter drawn up and written by L. H. Sibthorpe, Esquire, which has been duly forwarded to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong,
20 October, 1859.

SIR,

Having missed the opportunity of bringing my draft of the "evidence of witnesses" examined on the late inquiry, before Messrs. Barton, Sibthorpe and Smith, until the next Court day, viz., the 25th instant—and it is not very probable that Messrs. Finch may be again at Molong for a length of time—and conceiving that you will deem that the residue of the Inquiry papers ought not to be delayed;—I do myself the honor to transmit the same, with this mention, viz., that the evidence as now temporarily submitted, is subject to correction, if in any respect in error; to meet which possible contingency I have left a blank page, and merely pin on to it my report, subject to correction; so that the copy, when attested, may be transcribed in its proper place, and the half sheet now sent destroyed; but having a good memory, and writing this report the very same evening, I am quite certain that it is in substance correct, and I believe almost literal, as uttered by the lips of the six witnesses: in justice to one of whom, and to myself, I should state, that on the occasion of Mr. Mitchell's boast of the quantity he drank, three or four gentlemen were present, the only one of whom I was at that time acquainted with being Mr. Sibthorpe. I had so recently arrived at Molong, that the persons I met with at that time were necessarily strangers to me; and one of the gentlemen present with Mr. Sibthorpe and Mr. Mitchell very much resembled Mr. F. Smith, and I have always been under the impression that he was the man; but I may be mistaken, and am bound to believe that I am, as to the identity of that gentleman; not so with respect to the Crown Lands Commissioner, who talked with me about the incident in his own house a short time afterwards.

Under a temporary but oppressive cloud, I am, sir, sustained by the conviction, that the Honorable Premier is both too discerning and too just to permit a matter so seriously affecting the characters respectively of two officers in the Civil Service of his Government to rest thus, viz., with a strong censure expressed by the majority of the Magistrates present on one of the oldest and not least highly accredited servants of the Crown in Australia, but without the concurrence, and in direct opposition to the conviction, of the senior Magistrate and Chairman of the Bench, whose knowledge and experience are incomparably the greatest of any Magistrate in this district, with respect to the matters referred to this Bench to report on to you. I feel constrained very respectfully to submit, that before any Commissioner of Inquiry, or other tribunal out of the reach of local influence, I am fully prepared to establish my three allegations not only, but other and specific charges of a very grave nature, against Mr. Mitchell's character, both as a Government officer and as a gentleman (at least each would be so considered by a Court Martial; in the army or navy), charges which I have no desire to bring forward unless necessitated to do so. I therefore do not attach them here; neither neither do I omit to specify them now (which would subject me to the imputation of insinuating charges which might prove to be groundless, or that I might be unable to establish): I therefore enclose them, but in a sealed paper, which may be destroyed unopened, or opened and dealt with, as you, sir, and your advisers, may think proper; and, when permitted the opportunity of justifying myself before an unprejudiced, and, therefore, unobjectionable tribunal, so far from having the slightest misgivings as to the result, it is my earnest hope and confident expectation, that the reputation of integrity and honor, and unblemished propriety of conduct, which it has been my happiness to enjoy throughout my whole life—and which has been certified to in the most unequivocal and flattering terms, recently, by the Government I last had the honor to serve—Victoria; as by the English Government, when I arrived in this Colony from the Staff of the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, with my appointment to the Survey Department, nearly thirty years ago—so far from being disparaged, will be but confirmed and strengthened, by the part I have been and am constrained to take in this unpleasant affair, and by the reasons which influenced me throughout, and still influence me.

I have, &c.,

THE UNDER SECRETARY to BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, MOLONG.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 1 November, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

With reference to your letter of the 11th ultimo, reporting that, after a full inquiry and the examination of six witnesses, including the most respectable inhabitants of the district, who directly and positively contradict the whole of the statements, you are of opinion that the charges brought by the Clerk of your Bench against his predecessor (who now holds the office of Clerk of Petty Sessions at Condobolin), are malicious and mendacious; I am directed to inform you, that your report, and Mr. Kentish's letters upon the subject, have been laid before the Executive Council.

2. The Council, upon a full perusal and consideration of the correspondence, saw no reason to dissent from the conclusions arrived at by you, and conceiving it to be quite incompatible with a proper regard for the public service, that an officer should be retained therein who, upon insufficient or unjustifiable grounds, has imputed to another misconduct so great as that attributed by Mr. Kentish to Mr. Mitchell, they have advised, as the only course open to them, that Mr. Kentish be removed from his own office as Clerk of Petty Sessions at Molong; and I am directed to request, that Mr. Kentish may be apprised that he is removed accordingly.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

P.S.—Mr. John Joseph Davies has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Kentish's removal, and will be instructed to proceed to enter upon his duties without delay.

MR. L. N. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong, 19 November, 1859.

SIR,

It cannot, I apprehend, cause any Member of the Cabinet surprise to receive the intimation which, with the utmost respect, I now have the honor to make to you, that, supported by facts and circumstances of the strongest kind, it is my purpose to appeal to Parliament to vindicate and justify, and further, sir, it is my hope and trust to signify its approval of the conduct for which I am at present both laboring under the stigma of official rebuke and Governmental displeasure, and suffering punishment which would crush an old officer, more than half of whose life has been faithfully devoted to the Civil Service of the Crown, were he not so happy as to be sustained under a serious but false accusation, or rather I should say, "venal conviction," by that powerful antidote to despondency, mens conscia recti.

The circumstances of my peculiar and anomalous case are such as cannot fail, when brought under the judgment of the Honorable House of Assembly, to result in an indignant reversal of "the Report" drawn up by a certain section of the Molong Bench, and in universal approval of the conduct and affirmation of the opinion of the upright and independent Chairman and President of the Board of Inquiry, who dissented in toto from that unique document. But, sir, not permitting myself to doubt your impartiality or discernment, neither can I doubt that on perusal of the documents which I have the honor to submit herewith, viz.,—my official letter to the President of the Board of Inquiry, and the reply of that gentleman, stating that the proceedings of the Board was "a great mockery of justice," that "he, the Chairman, protested at the time against the whole proceedings,"—that "he is so disgusted at what took place on the Bench that day, and at the treatment he has since experienced of the section so violently opposed both to him (from an old feud) and to me (with increased asperity in consequence of my being honored with Mr. Barton's support, support, who, of his own knowledge, was perfectly aware that each of my imputations on Mr. Mitchell was but too well founded), as, after presiding in Court as the senior Magistrate in this extensive district upwards of fourteen years, to have felt compelled by these circumstances "to refuse to act as Chairman of the Bench any longer";—I say, sir, that under all the circumstances of this unfortunate and very peculiar case, I cannot doubt that you will be pleased, without being further importuned, to direct that a real—by which I mean a full and impartial—investigation shall be made into the whole affair before I leave Molong, which I am anxious to do as soon as possible, by some gentleman of sagacity and experience, probably of the legal profession, a stranger to this locality and to the Magistrates and others residing in it, with power to take evidence on oath, and examine into the state of things actually existing here, because such investigation and report, by a strictly impartial Commissioner, free from that party spirit which rages in this quarter to a degree perfectly incredible, is the most obvious, indeed only mode of obtaining such a truthful and reliable report as can be satisfactory to the public both in and out of Parliament, who will not be deterred from forming their own opinion from the internal evidence pervading the whole case, the notoriety of the facts which I allege, the ease and certainty with which my allegations, if unfounded, might obviously have been refuted, which the zealous supporters of Mr. Mitchell did not find it prudent to attempt. These circumstances, sir, (and these not only) may perhaps incline an impartial public, and its disinterested and discerning representatives in Parliament, to probe into the qualities and qualifications and bias of the gentlemen who have thought proper to draw up and sign an untruthful Report in defiance of the strong remonstrance of their President; and especially into the adaptation to such duty, of that Justice who acted as the mouth-piece as well as amanuensis of Mr. Smith and of the Messrs. Finch—with whom a two months' excursion to the Darling, to look out a run, had brought the C. C. L. intimately and (is it quite impossible?) influentially acquainted; and to require a true report as to the general habits of that officer himself, who has not scrupled to justify Mr. Mitchell, particularly as to the state he was in at the very time of sitting at the Board of Inquiry, whether it was such as to entitle his judgment to be believed possible to be cool or worthy of confidence. Sir, I am prepared to hear the specious but utterly unfounded cry of "malice and vindictiveness" which has been heaped on me, for presuming to impugn the character of a "high spirited young man of good family," on such slight grounds as those on which I have brought against him such "trumpery charges" as the venial offences of merely threatening Magistrates on the Bench, himself being "better born and better educated than the Chairman," and so telling him; of imbibing largely, (but what of that—is there no Magistrate on the Bench who does the same?) and of indulging in a certainly remarkable "sentiment" as a toast, (but what of that? what harm in it! as no one was obliged to drink to it unless he liked.) I fully expect, sir, to be held up as a monster filled with hatred and all uncharitableness, in now daring to hint that Mr. Sibthorpe (who has falsely reported to your predecessor, and unjustly acquitted Mr. Mitchell of all three of the charges I imputed against him, and unjustly accused me of falsehood and malice) is not the most upright, impartial, and conscientious Magistrate on the Bench, the most uncompromising, truthful, and just Justice of the Peace in the Commission, and the most remarkable of any now in this district for sobriety, courtesy, and mildness of manners, both in and out of Court, forming a perfect example to Christian gentlemen of the higher classes throughout the Colony; but, sir, I have no emnity whatever to my false accuser. I seek only to vindicate myself; but if in so doing, facts should necessarily transpire which, under Providence and a just Government, may "turn the tables," I have not the hypocrisy to pretend that it would cause me remorse or regret, to see "venality" as well as "depravity" meet its just deserts.

Mr. Sibthorpe and his colleagues have had the temerity, as sworn Magistrates, to report to the Government of your Honorable predecessor, in the teeth of facts, that "the whole of my charges against Mr. Mitchell are directly and positively contradicted by the six "witnesses examined, consisting of the most respectable inhabitants of the District." When the proper time arrives, I will be able to shew the nature and value of the alleged "respectability" of some of these veracious witnesses; but this seems to be the suitable occasion to point out to you, sir, (though it must be so palpable to anyone who is at the trouble to look into the case with a view to justice, as to appear to be almost a work of supererogation), the wilful misrepresentation, artfully expressed in the disingenuous and untruthful Report drawn up by Mr. Sibthorpe.

Supposing even that the Board had not had within itself intimate personal knowledge of the truth of my allegations, which it had of two, and I believe of all three of them; and if the Commissioners could have dispossessed themselves of their own experience of Mr. Mitchell's conduct, and as utter strangers formed their opinion as jurors should do, solely from the evidence produced; what is the testimony of the witnesses, all six summoned by and on behalf of the defendant—which evidence is said by Mr. Sibthorpe and his colleagues to refute my three charges, viz., of "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness"? Each of the witnesses, "very conscientiously," no doubt, asserts that he had never seen Mr. Mitchell "drunk." Now if this gross and notorious falsehood were true, what would it amount to but negative testimony, which may be proved to be worthless, by any one or two truthful persons who have seen him drunk, and that habitually for days, weeks, and months—if not often actually staggering, seldom free from the intoxicating influence of brandy. These observations apply solely to the imputation of Mr. Mitchell being a "sot," which if he be not, I have been grossly imposed on by Dr. Saml. Johnson and other lexicographers.

It is perhaps fortunate for more than one of the witnesses that their evidence was not given upon oath, as the penal laws against perjury, when administered by an inflexibly upright Judge, are properly severe. But, sir, if an official Report, involving important consequences sequences, drawn up and signed in a public Court of Justice, by Magistrates on the Bench, who, as such, are under the obligation of a very solemn oath "to administer justice impartially, without favor or affection;" if a document drawn up and executed under such circumstances be not exempted from the responsibility of being truthful, attached to the most common affidavit, the position is not an enviable one in which Mr. Sibthorpe has placed himself and his friends, by fraternization with a sot, by sympathy with a most hideous blasphemer, and by zeal in support of a confirmed and outrageous brawler, inducing him to frame a solemn declaration, and to prevail on his three friendly brother Justices to sign it, exculpating my predecessor from each of my imputations, whilst he at that very time had in his possession Mr. Mitchell's written apology for insulting him, Mr. Sibthorpe himself, on the Bench; and at that very time had just heard his favorite oft-repeated blasphemy, "Eternal damnation to your souls," proved by the affirmation of one of his own witnesses, Mr. H. M. Betts. Though no lawyer, I have some grounds for thinking that the learned Attorney General will affirm my opinion that "no Magistrate is absolved, in his capacity as ex officio a Commissioner of Inquiry, from his magisterial oath to do justice; and that such duty will bring any deliberate breach of truth in an official report under his hand, within the pale of the law "against perjury"; especially if it be apparent that such untruthful report has been designedly concocted for the purpose of injuring an innocent party, or of screening from deserved punishment a friend or favorite, guilty of any offence to be inquired into and reported on to the head of the Executive by such very Magistrate.

Despicable, and even atrocious, as I deem the conduct of these gentlemen, whom in their capacity of Commissioners of Inquiry I cannot but view as "unjust Judges," of whose conduct I openly and honestly complain, against whom I insinuate nothing, but whom I distinctly charge with most gross corruption, requesting of you, sir, to bring this letter, this accusation, before the Honorable the Executive Council, of whose discernment and just and impartial treatment ultimately, I will not permit a doubt to enter my mind; for I solicit no favor, but am appealing to you, sir, as the respected head of the Government, for that only which is my birthright as an Englishman; a right neither abrogated nor as I trust lessened, by two and thirty years of faithful and not insignificant services which I have had the honor to render to the Crown, in England and in four Colonies, viz., strict justice, which, when accorded to me (and I feel assured that it will not be denied, nor long withheld), will re-enable me to stand well with you, sir, and with my honored patron the late Premier, as I am happily conscious that I deserve to stand, as well as with not a few more of the first men in the Colony, to whom I have the happiness to be so long and so well known, as to be enabled to give such references with respect to character and conduct for nearly thirty years in Australia as I am indeed proud of, without vanity, of whom I will name two, namely, my worthy, kind, and distinguished friends, The Honorable William Bland, in the Upper House, and the Rev. Dr. Lang in the Assembly.

The respect and regard of such men is a great solace to me under the annoyance and anxiety consequent on my present treatment, as a discarded officer, ignominiously viewed and addressed by your Government as a wrong-doer—as "a person guilty of imputing gross misconduct to a gentleman on insufficient grounds," which those who know me best, know that I am utterly incapable of doing, or of becoming an accuser at all without very strong reasons, amounting in fact to necessity. Indeed, sir, I most sincerely and cordially assent to the doctrine laid down in your letter addressed to the Molong Bench, dated the 1st instant—that "it is quite incompatible with the public service, that an officer should be retained therein who is capable of so doing." No one can despise more heartily than I do a person guilty of ungentlemanly, dishonorable, and dastardly conduct, which I declare that to be, so strangely imputed to me, in defiance of facts both palpable and notorious, affirmed by the very witnesses of the accused party; which painful anomaly I can only suppose to be designed by Providence as a trial, destined to bring into notice, by means of a full and impartial investigation (which the enormity of the offence of which I am guilty, and the calumny which an innocent and much injured gentleman is suffering, if the report of Messrs. Sibthorpe, Smith, and Finch, be not an infamously false and unjust report, imperatively demands), such humble merits as peradventure may be found to pertain to a Government servant of thirty-two years experience in positions of responsibility, up to this time enjoying the highest confidence; which merits, whatever they be, might lay perfectly concealed in the seclusion of the bush, and in the obscurity of so humble a position as that which (under peculiar but well-known circumstances) I was not only content to occupy, but grateful to your worthy predecessor for having conferred on me.

The question which will ultimately, and I pray speedily, be decided in accordance with strict truth and justice, is this—"Is N. L. Kentish guilty of having brought unfounded charges against R. B. Mitchell, as asserted by one section of the Board of Inquiry, and (as I cannot but deem most strangely, with the evidence before them) assented to and acted on as true by the Executive Council; or, is the contrary the case, as I am attempting to demonstrate."

I respectfully submit, sir, but am prepared to maintain, that the assertion in the Report, that "all the six witnesses examined directly and positively contradict the whole of my charges," is a false assertion; and I aver, sir, that this gross falsehood is as palpable as false. What says in his evidence as a witness for Mr. Mitchell, his great supporter and advocate, Mr. Sibthorpe himself? "Mr. Mitchell did insult me on the Bench in July last;" hence it is to be deduced, that "he is not a brawler." What is affirmed by the Chief Constable? "Mr. Mitchell was driven out of my house with a fire-iron, by a young woman with whom he took improper liberties;" ergo, this is further proof in confirmation of the fact that he is no "brawler."

Dr.

Dr. Ross says, "I admit having received a letter from Mr. Mitchell wishing me "Eternal damnation!" and Mr. Betts affirms, that he heard him propose as a toast, "Eternal damnation to your souls!" and therefore the Executive Council is assured by Messrs. Sibthorpe & Co's. notable Report (and believes), that Mr. Mitchell is not a "blasphemer," and that Mr. Kentish is guilty of malicious falsehood in intimating such an "unfounded imputation" on his unblemished character.

Sir, with the highest respect for the Premier, and ascribing to the Honorable Colonial Secretary discernment, as well as the highest principles, inclusive of impartiality; being incapable of dissimulation, I cannot withhold the expression of my more than astonishment, at yourself and your Honorable colleagues of the Executive Council having accepted and adopted "the Report" of the four Magistrates dissented from by their worthy and experienced President of the Board, instead of having repudiated it with the strong feeling of indignation it so unmistakably demands of justice, as being obviously the reverse of truth, that I would stake my life on the issue (albeit of far less value to me than an unsullied character), that neither in the Legislative Council nor in the Assembly, neither by the Bench nor the Bar, nor by any association of educated men, whether civil or religious, military or naval, mercantile or professional, can a majority, or even a minority worthy of mention, be found of true colonists, who after perusal of the evidence in connexion with the Commission of Inquiry, will assent to "the Report," or withhold their earnest denunciation of a document so false and unjust, of a writer so strongly prejudiced as its author, and of gentlemen so complacent as to be deluded into subscribing it. Sir, I find it utterly impossible to believe that the evidence, &c., relating to this Report can have been read to and deliberated on by the Honorable the Executive Council, or you, sir, and your honorable colleagues, could not have concurred in what is so palpably in violation of truth and common sense, and in the very teeth of justice. Assuming that in the nature of things, it is a physical impossibility that the attention of the whole Council can be devoted to each of the multitude of cases brought before it, and that the duty of dealing with any particular case may therefore, and perhaps must, be delegated to some functionary of the Council, I feel that this precious "Report" must have been dealt with by some person less discerning and less fitted to act as arbiter in a matter of some little delicacy, and of material importance, than could be desired by the Executive, but especially by me.

Humble as is the position I have filled here as Clerk of Petty Sessions, and as such an officer five years junior to my own son, at Castlemaine, in Victoria, I enjoy the proud belief that there is not a colonist and Government servant of my standing in these Colonies whose credentials are stronger than mine. Conscious of this, I trust, sir, that the candour with which I have given expression to the convictions and feelings of a mind superior to deceit may not be misinterpreted. My respected friend, Mr. Barton, conceded to his opponents and mine, that "my language is strong," which is by them imputed to me as a high crime and misdemeanor; but, sir, though prone to call things by their right names, and having therefore designated Mr. Mitchell's standing toast the very "acme of blasphemy," I trust that, as a gentleman, I am incapable of employing either a strong expression or a mild one improperly.

It appears to me, sir, that, if instead of alluding merely to Mr. Mitchell's moral character as disreputable, and to me disgusting, when I had occasion to do so incidentally, in vindicating myself, I had specifically accused him at first (as at length I now do, by compulsion) of offences which, when openly laid to his charge, the Government could not help taking cognizance of officially—my charges would have been, as they now will be, established; and merit rather than culpability imputed to me, for bringing to light, and to well merited reprobation, such incredible depravity so long tolerated in a Government officer of influential connexions, as would, I can have no hesitation in saying, have caused any plebeian, less favored by circumstances and by partizans, to be taking penitential exercise at Cockatoo Island; but not being vindictive, and having had no desire to injure my aristocratic predecessor, much as I loathed his society, I never so much as thought of taking any step with a view to his dismissal. Vile as I perceived the young man to be, if he had not had the audacity to insult me as he did, I should never have troubled myself about a person who never caused me more than a single thought, viz., how to avoid his offensive conversation and his most disagreeable company; but now, sir, in order to obtain such a bona fide investigation as may effectually remove the imputation of falsehood and malice so "mendaciously" cast on me, by establishing the charges which I do not insinuate, but distinctly bring against Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell, I formally attach them to, as forming not the least important portion of this document; and I am glad that I did not defer giving them expression until now, as it would be sure to be alleged by the four unprejudiced and charitable judges of my "motives," that they are now trumped up for the occasion; but, sir, they will be found in the sealed paper accompanying my letter of the 20th ultimo, in which I stated that I had no desire—nor had I any wish or intention up to that time—to make use of the document, or to bring specific charges of "depravity and ungentlemanly conduct disgraceful to a Government officer" against my assailant, unless compelled; but was well able to establish such charges, and, if necessitated, should not hesitate to do so.

Another circumstance, but intimately connected with the unpleasant but not trivial case, which has given occasion for this frightfully large communication that I now have the honor to address to you, it is my imperative duty to bring under the notice of the Honorable Colonial Secretary, viz.—that in order to secure, and as the only possible means of securing from the flames, the documentary evidence material to my case, both as an accuser and as an accused, and at present a condemned person appealing to you, sir, as Premier, and to Parliament if necessary, in the archives of the Molong Police Office, not already cut out of the office book by Mr. Sibthorpe, and burnt by Constable Benson, by the order of that

Magistrate

Magistrate and his associates on the Bench, to whom the matters on record were as unsatisfactory, as explanatory and vindictory of my conduct, relative to the proceedings involved in or growing out of Mr. Mitchell's assault on me,—I have been so fortunate as to secure, and have the honor to transmit to you herewith eleven remaining leaves; nine of which, it will be seen, are from the record book of the proceedings of the Court, and two from the record book of official letters from the Police Office.

Having ceased to hold office here, and out of courtesy only to the Bench, and to my successor, acting for that gentleman (as intimated to him through Mr. Under Secretary Elyard that I should do until Mr. Davies' arrival), I am aware, sir, that I am powerless, and have no right to interfere, and therefore I should not presume to do so, if any of the Magistrates should think proper to set fire to the Police Office itself, as well as to the documents from within it, unless it positively concerned me officially; but such it will be difficult to deny—I mean, to disprove—being the case, with respect to the only official records of my police affair with Mr. Mitchell, and correspondence with the Government relating to the same—a case of no mean importance, and not yet finally adjudicated; but on which I am appealing to be allowed a full and impartial investigation, at which the production of these documents, and of those already destroyed, of which fortunately the duplicates are in your office, will be of material importance to the ends of justice, as authentic evidence which cannot lie; of which no one can be more fully aware than the gentleman who proposed the excision of my official correspondence with your Honorable predecessor from the office letter book, and himself cut out the leaves, and directed a constable to burn them, which he did instantly. These letters, containing unpalatable truths, were destroyed, on the plea that they did not bear the signature of any Magistrate; neither do these sheets (except one, which forming part of the case, I took out with the leaf next to it), which I understood to be condemned with those burnt, and am as much surprised as gratified at their having been permitted to escape.

I cannot, sir, conceal from myself, that in impugning the veracity of the four gentlemen, who, in direct opposition to the evidence given before them, and actually given by one of themselves, charge me with "mendacity," in having imputed to Mr. Mitchell conduct as notorious as the sun at noon-day; the venality of which charge I do openly declare, especially in the case of Mr. Sibthorpe, who of his own and intimate knowledge was perfectly aware of the validity of my imputations, which, in violation of his oath as a Magistrate "to administer justice impartially," he has affirmed to be unfounded, and in imputing deliberate falsehood to Dr. Ross, in giving evidence "on honor" before the Board of Inquiry, which I do most unequivocally,—that it is open to me to make such charges formally, as I now do in the case of Mr. Mitchell. I beg leave to intimate that I am quite prepared to do so, but have no desire to become any man's accuser, nor will become such unless imperatively required. It must be obvious that, unless I am a perjurer, both Mr. Sibthorpe and Dr. Ross are guilty of most gross and deliberate falsehood, affirmed solemnly in Court before the Bench of Magistrates constituted a Commission of Inquiry affecting the conduct and prospects of two Government officers. But if the investigation which I pray for, before an impartial and independent Commissioner, be granted, the truth may be brought to light, and the wrong-doers exposed, as well without, as in consequence of any specific accusation on my part; I therefore beg to be spared the unpleasantness of appearing in the character of prosecutor of these veracious Magistrates (for Dr. Ross is one of the recently appointed Justices of the Peace), and I do trust that in furtherance of the ends of real impartial justice, a case so serious as this is become, in which the characters of five Magistrates and three Government officers are seriously impeached, will not be deemed too trivial to employ the services of one gentleman of ability as a Commissioner; for it must be obvious that on the spot only can the particulars be ascertained on which the merits and demerits of the case depend; and being a party so deeply interested and at present implicated in the affair, I fondly persuade myself that my earnest and respectful request that a suitable Commissioner may be at once despatched hither before I leave the district, will not be made in vain to a Government desirous of meting out justice to its officers impartially, and to a Prime Minister of inflexible integrity.

Anxiously awaiting such reply as the honor of your Government and your own clear perception may dictate, after perusal of my statement addressed to the President of the late Magisterial Board of Inquiry and the reply of that gentleman attached,—

I have, &c.,

N. L. KENTISH.

[Enclosure in No. 9.]

I hereby accuse Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell, and am prepared to prove him guilty of each of the following charges, disgraceful to a Government officer, and proving that he is not a gentleman, viz. :—

1. Continual tippling, and occasional drunkenness.
2. Lying.
3. Gambling and drinking, in low company; i.e., if a butcher's helping servant be deemed such.
4. Abstracting the key from my office table drawer, and afterwards dropping it outside the building, and then picking it up, pretending to have found it.
5. Insolence to Magistrates on the Bench, and insubordination.
6. Insulting a public meeting, by writing and posting up in the Court House, Molong, a grossly impudent placard.
7. Insulting a gentleman and Magistrate, by snatching the placard alluded to out of his hand the next day.
8. Frightful and habitual blasphemy, persevered in for the last eighteen months, after having been prosecuted and admonished for the same.

Molong, 20 October, 1859.

N. L. KENTISH.

MEMO.—I abstain from the mention of other two, perhaps most serious charges: one of which is duelling, or inciting to fight a duel.

Letter and documents intended to accompany this, will be posted by the next mail.

No. 10.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to MR. R. J. BARTON.

Police Office, Molong,
5 November, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to address you separately from your four brother Magistrates, who, without your concurrence, and in opposition to your judgment as Chairman, and your avowed opinion based on personal experience far greater than either of theirs with respect to the subject of inquiry, deliberately subscribed the letter drawn up by Mr. Sibthorpe, "reporting" that my well-founded imputation (incidentally, but under the circumstances, as I felt and still feel, necessarily made to my patron the late Premier) respecting the moral character of my outrageous predecessor were "malicious and mendacious."

2. Believing, sir, that it was utterly impossible that any Minister or person or persons of intelligence and high official position could fail to perceive that such a "report" carried falsehood on the face of it, and was perfectly untenable even from the evidence which oozed out through the witnesses of the defendant, without the prosecutor, which I am treated as being, having produced a single witness or being afforded the opportunity of doing so, is palpably, in the teeth of justice and of facts, which are not only notorious throughout the village and neighborhood, but were well known to the Magistrates on the Bench, who—as they admitted and avowed "for the purpose of averting ruin from the prospects of a young man, whom (perhaps out of consideration for his family) they were anxious to protect from the consequences which conduct so flagitious and so long persisted in as Mr. Mitchell's career at Molong, if brought under official cognizance, might be expected to bring on him"—took on themselves the responsibility of drawing up a report in violation of truth and justice—a document calculated to blast the character of an irreproachable life, passed in the esteem of the society in which I have moved, and of each of the five Governments to which I have had the honor to render faithful service, affording in general the highest satisfaction; and further, to ruin the prospect of my ending a life of usefulness in comfort in the service of the Government of New South Wales; in a word, as perfectly calculated as if it were expressly designed to crush and destroy an old and respectable colonist, an honest and truthful Government officer, because he happens to be neither ashamed nor afraid, when occasion demands, openly and manfully to impeach an individual, however great his connections or powerful his interest, who is capable of such conduct as that with which I now feel compelled, distinctly and officially, to charge Mr. Mitchell, in which he has been too long tolerated, whilst actually making an impudent boast of his profligacy.

3. I think, sir, that you can have no doubt—as I assure you that I have not the slightest—that when the facts of the case shall be properly laid before the highest and most legitimate tribunal, I shall be thoroughly and triumphantly vindicated before Parliament from the heinous offences attributed to me by Mr. Sibthorpe, and enabled fully to establish each of the three complaints which I have imputed to Mr. Mitchell; although blasphemy is the only charge which I specifically brought against my assailant.

4. Notwithstanding I had heard it rumoured that Mr. Mitchell had all on a sudden succeeded in conciliating his two greatest enemies, viz., Mr. Sibthorpe, the most powerful, and Dr. Ross, the most inveterate, and that they, and at their instance certain members of the Bench, had promised to attend at the investigation and give him their support.—I could not but be astonished at the unmistakable and violent hostility displayed towards me by Mr. Sibthorpe, and at his equally sudden and zealous alliance with and friendship to Mr. Mitchell, whom, until the other day, he had been in the habit of denouncing as everything depraved and infamous, in language only less violent than that employed respecting him by Dr. Ross, who had studiously taken every opportunity of seeing me, to impress me with the hideousness of Mitchell's character, whom he describes as being never sober, but his whole time employed in drinking, gambling, and blasphemy, debauchery, and quarrelling—these are his very words,—mentioning to me a long list of persons with whom Mr. Mitchell had had violent personal altercation, from his first arrival to be a plague to the people of Molong to the present time, of whom I remember the names of most, viz., the former Crown Lands Commissioner, Mr. Whitty; and his assistant, Mr. Tulloch, yourself and himself, and Mr. Sibthorpe, Mr. Liscombe, Mr. Petherbridge, Mr. Davis (the chief constable), and two or three more,—urging on me that it was a positive duty which every respectable resident of the district owed to society, to set himself against so vile a fellow as he described him to be, saying he would be delighted to prosecute him, and only wished for the opportunity; but would be still more gratified to give him a sound "hammering" for his insolence to him in Court of the most aggravating kind, almost beyond endurance or description, in relation to the charge of assault by Dr. Sider against him (Dr. Ross), the particulars of which insult, in directing him to stand at the Bar as a prisoner, with pointed language he has more than once detailed to me, on each occasion volunteering to produce in Court before the Commission of Inquiry, with or without being subpoenaed, Mitchell's note to him, which he shewed and read to me, concluding with the charming expression, his favorite and long established "sentiment," "Wishing you eternal damnation, I remain, (I forget what, but I think it was Yours truly), R. B. Mitchell." This letter, written on note paper, had reference to some insulting expression which Mr. Mitchell had made use of in his cups, in the tap-room of the public-house at Copper Hill; the assemblage there on which occasion the Doctor described as a pot-house brawl or "row" amongst a number of low fellows all drinking—and I think he said gambling either at cards or tossing, and more or less drunk—where Dr. Ross had taken offence at some words as addressed to him; but Mitchell assured him him in this missive that he intended the epithet, whatever it was ("ass" I think), not for him (Dr. Ross) but for so-and-so, mentioning the name of the blacksmith, or of some other distinguished person present on the occasion.

5. There are actually three several grounds on which I fully relied, deeming either of them alone sufficient to insure the refusal of the Colonial Secretary to accept Mr. Sibthorpe's report, at least without explanation, viz. :—1st. The absence of the signature of one of the Members of the Commission of Inquiry—that one being the President. 2nd. It being palpable that I had had no opportunity afforded me of establishing the charges which I had alleged (further than they were reluctantly established by the defendant's witnesses), as I stated at the time, that "I had forborne to procure the attendance of a single witness;" but I should have subpoenaed several could I have dreamt of the report being drawn up that day; against which I should have protested at the time had I not felt assured that with the evidence already before them, honor and justice not only, but a conscientious regard to their oath as Magistrates, would overrule the grammatical quibbles raised, in the absence of a dictionary, by Mr. Mitchell's zealous advocate, Mr. Sibthorpe, as to the definition of the terms "brawler" and "sot," and render it impossible for the Commission to do other than affirm that my three epithets are undeniably borne out, in spirit, and to the letter also, in their application to a person of the habits of Mr. Mitchell, which are within the intimate knowledge of most, if not of all, the Members of the Board. And 3rdly. That from the proceedings, even such as they are, it is in evidence and is palpable that Mr. Mitchell is both a "blasphemer" of the deepest dye and a "brawler" of the worst kind, confirmed even before the Commission, by his insolence on that very occasion in open Court addressed to you, sir, then and there, whilst presiding on the Bench and in the presence of your four brother Magistrates, by one of whom, Mr. Smith, he was twice sharply rebuked; and as for the term "sot," no other four Magistrates or men of education in the Colony will be found to controvert my definition, namely, "a person fond of liquor, and addicted to the use of intoxicating drink—one who from the habit of imbibing largely is able to swallow and does drink a large quantity of wine or spirits without or before becoming actually drunk." It is true that neither of the defendant's witnesses would admit (and it is an important fact that their statements, especially Mr. Sibthorpe's and Dr. Ross's, are not upon oath) that he had seen Mr. Mitchell "drunk"; which Dr. Ross had several times told me that he had seen, specifying one occasion in particular, on which he could unhesitatingly swear that Mitchell was positively drunk, as others present could also prove, viz., on the occasion of some meeting (an auction, I think) at the late Commissioner of Crown Lands, when he fought with Mr. Tulloch, either a duel, or exchanged blows as well as words which resulted in a duel. Perhaps Mr. Ross will deny having told me this; and insist that, aided by a poetical imagination, I have invented so great a calumny—which indeed is the case if Dr. Ross did not tell me of it, and repeat it a second or third time to me—which inclines me to believe it to be a true narrative, and that his memory, like his friend Mr. Sibthorpe's, is very treacherous. In reference to the witnesses, of whom, when they denied having seen Mr. Mitchell drunk, I did not think it worth while to ask a second question, perceiving that they had all attended on behalf of the defendant, resolved to vindicate and support him, it may be here remarked, as a fact that cannot be gainsaid, that what apparent state of an individual accustomed to deep potations daily and hourly constitutes "drunkenness" is a matter of opinion only, on which persons will differ according to their own habits. No man who is himself a "lushington" will allow another to be designated "drunk" so long as he can talk, however stupidly and noisy, or walk without staggering very much; whilst a gentleman of sober habits would consider a person to be drunk who, under the influence of liquor, is noisy and excited, and more disposed to be quarrelsome than able to attend to business requiring a clear head and sound judgment; and I am perfectly aware that it would be difficult for any conscientious person, intimately acquainted with Mr. Mitchell, to say that he had ever seen him actually sober; for, to my positive knowledge, the brandy bottle was in constant use from the breakfast hour, 10 or 11 daily, till he retired to bed, generally at the small hours, "well charged." Besides, sir, I am convinced that you—aye, and the Law Officers of the Crown—will uphold me in this opinion, which I will maintain, viz., "that I have a right to be believed"; and I do protest against being treated as a perjurer, which I am by your four brother Magistrates; having made affidavit—which they and you heard me read in Court, though yet unsworn—that Mr. Mitchell told me, in the presence of several witnesses, that he must decline my invitation to "take a glass of wine with me," because, having been suffering from delirium tremens, he was obliged to give up drinking, and therefore (not to be guilty of depriving the landlord of his fee, by declining to drink with me) he called for a "glass of cloves." The truth of this statement deliberately made by Mitchell (supported as it is by the fact, which I witnessed, of his actually drinking cloves syrup instead of his usual beverage, brandy and water) I had and have no reason to doubt; but even if it be not strictly true, but an exaggeration, surely what a man publicly and voluntarily states of himself has a right to be received and treated as truth. It is certain that a man may be so notorious for lying that those who know him will not believe a word he says; but, at the time this assertion was made (and I cannot perceive it to be a matter to boast of), I was not so well aware of the estimate to be placed on Mr. Mitchell's veracity, as a certain circumstance which occurred about a week later made me; which circumstance has caused "lying" to be one of the charges embodied in the category (of eight) which, after what has taken place, I now feel compelled to prefer distinctly and officially against Mr. Mitchell, as contained in the sealed letter sent to the Colonial Secretary, which I had no desire to make use of if I were not coerced into so doing. The final result of this affair, I opine, will afford a notable instance in the person of Mr. Mitchell, of a man having bitter reason to exclaim, "Save me from my friends!" But for the wilful misrepresentation of the assault case to the Empire, by a more zealous than judicious partizan of Mr. Mitchell's, it seems probable that no inquiry would have been instituted; and but for that "lying report," distorting the circumstances for the purpose of vindicating Mitchell and vilifying me, those results would not have been evoked which assuredly will yet arise out of a more full and impartial investigation of the whole case, either in the House of Assembly or in the Supreme Court, consequent on a document concocted by gentlemen who have lent themselves to become partizans of Mr. Mitchell, though Magistrates, with a view to vindicate and justify his flagitious conduct, in violation of truth and justice, and regardless of the damaging consequences to me of their interested and prejudiced verdict, and improper condemnation as "false" of the epithets, which I am abundantly able to justify as "strictly true and correct" in the use I made of them, which "did not emanate from malice or from any unworthy motive." I have not, nor ever had any enmity towards the reckless young man; but, from the necessity of vindicating myself, I certainly scrupled not to impugn his moral character, by adverting to facts which are but too sure of being established, if impartially inquired into.

6. The same feeling of delicacy which caused me to alter my purpose of making an affidavit before you (see P.S. to my letter to Colonial Secretary of the 13th ultimo) has till now prevailed with me to abstain from asking you to do me the honor, which, under the circumstances, you, sir, will deem but an act of justice, viz., to signify to the Honorable Colonial Secretary your reasons for withholding your concurrence and your signature from "the Report" drawn up by Mr. Sibthorpe. It certainly was my hope that it would have conveyed your protest on the face of it; but as I could not conceive it to be possible that the Government would adopt or take action in support of such an anomalous document, so perfectly at variance with the testimony of the witnesses (unsworn it is true), without first communicating with the President of the Board who had peremptorily refused to sign it, and asking his reasons for doing so, I abstained from troubling you on the subject, though of such great importance to me.

7. That gentlemen in private life not unfrequently strain their consciences to serve a friend, by giving to their recommendation of a party they desire to serve, the weight of a higher character than in strictness may be deserved, is of course well known to every man of the world as being an every-day occurrence, and knowing what I know, it would cause me but little surprise to find a case memorable in the annals of Sydney, which occurred 25 years ago, when a man of notorious character (Mr. Ernest Augustus Slade) was presented with a eulogistic address, re-enacted in this district in 1859. But such is the veneration in which I have always held the sanctity of an oath, and such my respect for the magisterial office, that, ever deeming the acts of Magistrates on the Bench to be the acts of gentlemen honored with the Commission of the Peace expressly because the Governor General and the Executive Council repose implicit confidence in them as men of the highest principles and honor, whom no feelings of partiality or prejudice, any more than of self interest, will be capable of influencing in their decisions, or of inducing to violate their oath—which oath to administer justice impartially, without favor or affection, taken on the occasion of being invested with the dignity and power of a Justice of the Peace, I apprehend to be as binding on each Magistrate on the Bench, as is the oath administered to every juror at the time of hearing and adjudicating on any case tried on the Criminal or Civil side of the Supreme Court,—that my astonishment is great indeed! and I could not be a man were not my honest indignation at the same time aroused at finding one of the gentlemen associated with you in the Board of Inquiry acting as counsel and champion as well as a witness for (whilst, if on oath, as to his evidence as a witness, he must have been against) Mr. Mitchell, and in his zeal denouncing my allegation of his being a "brawler" and a "sot" as "mendacious" forsooth! in other words, "a false and unfounded imputation;" possessed, as I have the best possible means of knowing that justice to be, of personal knowledge, both as a citizen and a Magistrate, of facts which establish both charges in the superlative degree, he (Mr. Sibthorpe) being himself the witness not only, but the object of the "brawling" and insolence of Mr. Mitchell addressed to him on the Bench, for which audacious language and insubordination (which, from my imperfect knowledge of grammar, I designate by the term extreme "brawling") his now vindicator and champion threatened to make official complaint of his conduct to the Government, and would have done so, as he assured me, but for Mitchell's entreaty and humble apology, which he insisted on being made in writing, and shewed and read it to me, at the same time denouncing in the strongest terms the effrontery and insolent deportment of my predecessor in Court as quite unendurable, and such as he greatly blamed Mr. Barton and the Bench for having so long put up with, saying that he had quite resolved that he would not any longer, for such conduct as had been submitted to from Mr. Mitchell was a disgrace to the Bench. Thus much in support of my definition of a "brawler." Now, as to the term "sot," I most solemnly declare that Mr. Sibthorpe was present at Moon's Inn, and heard and took notice of Mitchell's assertion, by way of apology for not filling his glass to drink with him or with some other person present who asked him to take a nobbler, that he would rather decline taking any more at present, as he had already just drank with so-and-so, and was not quite up to the mark, having on the previous day indulged (I think at a sort of farewell dinner with some of his Molong friends) more than ordinary; in confirmation of which plea of excuse for not drinking more at that time, he stated, as a thing rather to be proud than ashamed of, that even "before he sat down to dinner yesterday he had drank twelve glasses of brandy and water." This was to account for his being still "seedy." I distinctly recollect Mr. Sibthorpe, and some other gentleman present that I took to be Mr. F. Smith (I rather think Mr. Liscombe, but at that time a stranger to me), smiling at the remark, and exchanging significant glances at one another, and I declare, as truly as I live, that Mr. Sibthorpe, a short time afterwards, adverted to this circumstance in conversation.

tion with me at his own house, in no very complimentary terms towards Mr. Mitchell, as stated in my affidavit read before the Board in Court on the 11th ultimo. Sir, I cannot believe that any person whatever, who is not himself an inebriate, can be found seriously to contend that the person of such drinking habits as these is not truly and correctly designated a "sot;" and supposing it to be possible that, out of Court, the four gentlemen who have signed "the Report," or either of them, can be capable of deeming profligacy of the most heinous character, persevered in for years out of bravado, and boasted of as conduct perfectly entitled to their sanction as gentlemen, as Christians, and as parents; yet how they can lend themselves to the approval, officially and judicially, as Magistrates on the Bench, and sworn conservators of the public peace, bound to uphold sobriety and virtue, and to punish and suppress turbulence, drunkenness, and profanity, of the conduct brought under their notice as a Board appointed by the Government to investigate my allegations impugning the moral character of Mr. Mitchell, by declaring them to be unfounded, is a circumstance as extraordinary as unfortunate, which must, and it is my intention shall, be brought before the Government and the public, as the public conduct of public men—the judicial conduct of Magistrates on the Bench—is legitimately open to public scrutiny. So strongly am I fortified by the merits of my case, when fairly presented to an impartial tribunal, that I feel that I might stake my very existence, as I do my prospects for the short unexpired term of my life, on the appeal to Parliament to which I am compelled to resort—that the verdict of both Parliament and people will be unanimously given in support of the just judgment of one discerning and upright Magistrate of the Molong Bench, and for the indignant condemnation of "the Report" drawn up by Luke Homan Sibthorpe, Esquire, and subscribed also by his three colleagues.

November 9th.

8. The rough draft of this letter was in my office table drawer yesterday; being the document to which you may perhaps remember that I made allusion. I had long been puzzled to imagine what could be the cause of such a great and sudden change in both Dr. Ross and Mr. Sibthorpe, who, from being most polite and cordial to me, and expressing themselves as avowed haters of Mr. Mitchell, had all at once become reconciled to him and his thick and thin supporters, and quite inimical to me! This circumstance was cleared up and unmistakably explained yesterday; when, in taking leave of the Bench, I happened, in reference to Mr. Mitchell, to make the remark, that great as was my reason personally to complain of his violence as well as of his language, which was the most insulting and blasphemous that words could express, I had not the slightest enmity to the young man (which, much as I despise him and dislike his company, I solemnly declare to be true), a perfect exclamation of incredulity and derisive laughter issued from Mr. Sibthorpe, Dr. Ross, and Mr. Smith, amounting to an avowal that they are each under the impression that "I have been solely influenced by malice towards Mr. Mitchell, in adverting to his conduct." Never were three very shrewd gentlemen more mistaken in judging of another, I must conclude, "from themselves". Dr. Ross had repeatedly assured me that he cherished the most bitter enmity to Mitchell, which he delighted in giving utterance; but God knows, who sees into the hearts of men, that I do not nor ever did harbor enmity towards Mr. R. B. Mitchell, nor to mortal man; and those who know me intimately, who are acquainted with my sentiments and habits, my long established principles and propensities, I believe would very readily vouch for me as being of a very opposite disposition to malicious. There may indeed be some "men of the world" so sagacious as to deny that anyone can be influenced by pure motives in denouncing the conduct of another, how infamous soever it may be; and these three gentlemen are of that class of philosophers whose charitable sentiments and liberalmindedness I envy not. But, sir, I ask of you, is it quite impossible for a man at my time of life, who is so happy as to be a believer in and reader of the Bible, though quite disclaiming any pretensions to sanctity, to be influenced by worthy motives—to "be angry, and yet sin not?" If I know anything of myself, I have as little of malice in my composition as almost any man living. Yet, when assailed by insult and abuse not only, but assaulted furiously, and now threatened with great and permanent injury both to my character and prospects, surely it becomes the duty of an innocent and injured man to vindicate himself, even though in doing so he should bring deserved punishment upon a worthless profligate, who has far too long been permitted to disgrace the Government service.

9. I cannot help being impressed with the conviction that this same mistaken and uncharitable imputation of "uncharitableness" must also be imputed to me by the new Colonial Secretary, and by the Executive Council; as if the most atrocious blasphemy that could proceed from the lips of an impious infidel were no insult to the person on whose soul "eternal damnation" is invoked!—as if that were much too trivial a matter, too harmless a pleasantry, too innocent a jest, to call forth the indignation or to justify the resentment of a Christian and a gentleman! If this be the opinion of any member whatever of the Government, or of society, I have the happiness to differ from such person, be he whom he may, in opinion not only, but also in principle; and I unhesitatingly join issue with the man who can dare to vindicate such vile conduct, as no language is strong enough to condemn as it deserves, or who can have the temerity to become the apologist of a "gentleman" who perseveres in such atrocity, despite magisterial reprehension from your lips, on being criminally prosecuted for the same 18 months ago, as a habit which he glories in, as entitling him to applause as a man of spirit; which has been too frequently accorded to him, by wretches nearly as depraved as himself, at the bars of the public-houses. But, sir, yet another thing remains to be taken into consideration, and that, in a legal and judicial point of view, the most material of all, which at present, except by yourself, seems to be entirely lost sight of; and that is, "the truth of my imputations." Complaints or charges are, I apprehend, rarely brought against a culprit from the most benevolent motives—the motives which influence human actions can be known only to God; and though frequently apparent to man, are very liable to be mistaken, as mine have been by the little minds of Messrs. Sibthorpe and Co., in the present instance—but the business of a jury or board of inquiry, I respectfully submit, is to ascertain not the motive of the accuser, but the truth or falsehood of the accusation; and if a man be charged with any offence, whether arson or horse-stealing, murder, or drunkenness, and the jury are of opinion that the charge would not have been prosecuted but from the malice of the accuser to the accused—would such opinion justify them in returning a verdict of “not guilty,” though the crime is brought home to the party accused? And if I really had been solely actuated by the feeling of enmity so readily imputed to me by Mr. Sibthorpe and his colleagues, who know little indeed of me, I appeal to you, sir, as a man of honor and of truth, as a Christian and a Magistrate—as I am about also to appeal to the Governor General and to Parliament—“would such opinion, even if as well-founded as I solemnly protest that it is ill-founded, on the part of my magisterial jurors, sworn to do justice, without partiality or prejudice,” acquit them of moral or even of legal perjury, in drawing up a partial and prejudiced and untruthful report—a report in the teeth of the evidence and of their own knowledge, in order to screen the accused from well-merited reproof; regardless of bringing down undeserved punishment, disgrace and ruin, upon the already insulted and injured party complaining, because, in their wisdom, they have arrived inferentially at the charitable conclusion that the complainant had been influenced by malice in making his well-founded complaint of the conduct of Mr. Mitchell, whom they therefore sympathize with and have restored to their favor as a “friend”?

10. My only, but I trust valid, apology for addressing you at such great length, will be found, sir, in the obvious fact that, from the turn this affair has taken, of such serious importance to me, it is requisite that I should embody in writing, to the best of my ability, who am no lawyer, the actual facts and circumstances of the case, by which I am placed in the position of a man under sentence of punishment as a wrong-doer, whilst my gentle predecessor, though shewn to be a blasphemer, a brawler, and a sot, is at present triumphant, as vindicated by the majority of the Magistrates constituted a Board of Inquiry, and supported by the Government, and sympathized with as a much-injured and calumniated gentleman, deserving to be upheld and perhaps promoted. And there is no other channel open to me through which to bring the facts before the representatives of the people in Parliament, so suitable as that small but invulnerable section of the Bench and of the Board of Inquiry by which it is my happiness to be “known to be guiltless of impugning my predecessor’s moral character on insufficient grounds, or without provocation amounting (as I thought, and “still believe) to necessity.”

11. In conclusion I ask of you, sir, as I shall ask of the Governor General, of the Parliament, and of my fellow-colonists—is not a feeling of disgust at the most horrid vice and most paraded profligacy, and a willingness, even a desire to prosecute and bring to well-merited punishment a monster capable of exulting in the most infamous and disgraceful depravity, perfectly compatible with the absence of malice? If, sir, you or I prosecute a villain who is a perfect stranger to us, for sacrilege or any other crime against society and good morals, of which we become cognizant, are we to be branded as the instruments of malice? And even when the charge is proved against the culprit, are we still to be condemned? And further, is the convicted person to be absolved, upheld, and even caressed and loaded with sympathy and applause? Fiat justitia ruat cælum, is an apothegm more frequently quoted than acted upon as a principle, especially, it would seem, in the district of Molong.

12. Respectfully requesting that you will be pleased to give this document attentive perusal, and be good enough to return it to me, indorsed I hope by your concurrence as to its truth and reasoning substantially, and with a reply to paragraph No. 6, with permission to make use of the same—to the effect of the statement you so nobly made on the Bench yesterday, disavowing—as you had vigorously done at the time of “the Report” being drawn up by Mr. Sibthorpe on the 11th ultimo—that it had your concurrence; which verdict you openly declare to be opposed to the facts of the case, and the inquiry itself a perfect mockery of justice:—relying on this service at your hands, who as a man of unflinching integrity and independence, not to be deterred from giving expression to your honest convictions, by party-spirit or opposition however violent, will deem such favor no more than act of justice demanded by a high sense of honor and judicial independence as a Magistrate, and as Chairman of a Board which has enunciated a report at variance with the judgment of their President.

DEAR SIR,

I have only just found time to wade through your long affair, owing to my having to pay off shearers, &c., &c. In justice to you, however, I now repeat, that the inquiry the other day into the merits of your letter, commenting upon Mitchell’s conduct, was a great mockery of justice. I was in the minority during the whole case, and protested against against the whole proceedings, but in consequence of what took place on the Bench that day, and the way I was treated on the following Court day, I have refused to act as Chairman of the Bench any longer. There is an old saying, that when the old gentleman wants to do a fellow a private injury he claps a pen in his fist; so I shall conclude by saying that any questions put to me by the Government on the subject I shall answer as correctly as I can. Molong, 16 November, 1859.

DEAR SIR,

Herewith I send all the papers in the perjury case (Charles Ross and James McCrae), with letter to the Attorney General, for your signature, if approved.

In order to secure from the flames the residue of the documents having relation to me, on which sentence of condemnation was passed yesterday by Mr. Sibthorpe, which happen to have escaped the fate of my two official letters to the Honorable Colonial Secretary, and my last letter to the Bench, I have cut them out of the two office books, as documents which being on record as part of the public business of the Police Office and of the proceedings of the Court, I humbly conceive that it is not legally competent to any majority of Magistrates present at any time to cut leaves out of the office book and cause to be destroyed because not palatable to them.

If this be allowable in one case it, of course, must be in all cases; and each Magistrate voting the destruction of whatever may be displeasing to him and any majority of his colleagues—which may happen to be but two (as easily as four) opposed to one—may cause every so-called "record" to be burnt by Constable Benson by their order. I shall immediately apprise the Honorable Colonial Secretary of the circumstance, and forward the papers to him, praying the directions of the Government relative to this, in connection with other matters mixed up with my very peculiarly-dealt-with case.

Had I not entered my official letters in the office letter-book I should have been justly liable to censure for writing privately to the Government on affairs connected with the Bench and with my official position; which would have been indelicate and disingenuous.

In reply to your letter of the 20th instant, enclosing a document from Mr. Kentish, the late Clerk of Petty Sessions at this place, making further charges against Mr. Mitchell, and also gross and insulting insinuations against the Molong Bench, we have the honor, in returning the document, to express our opinion of Mr. Kentish's malady, which is evidently monomania, and to inform you, that in this prolix production there is congregated a series of falsehoods, which could readily be explained and exposed if we saw any good end in doing so.

*Boree, Nyrang,

SIR,

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of letter numbered 59-6091, 8-23, dated from your office, December 20th, 1859, requesting me to report upon the proceedings which took place at the Molong Bench, respecting an investigation held by the Bench on the charges made by Mr. Kentish, late C. P. S., against his predecessor, Mr. Mitchell, for the information of the Government; and also requesting me to name a gentleman, if possible a Magistrate, to act as referee in the case.

I have the honor to state in reply, that on the day in question I arrived a little late at Molong, and found the Magistrates, Messrs. Sibthorpe, Smith, and W. and E. Finch, already at work, and Mr. Sibthorpe censuring Mr. Kentish for having written such a letter, stating that if the statements contained in it were proved it would ruin Mr. Mitchell's prospects for life, and that he had himself lately undergone a somewhat similar prosecution, but that he had been honorably acquitted.

On taking my seat, I observed that we were not assembled to find fault with Mr. Kentish for having written the letter, but to inquire into the truth of the statements it contained. I also suggested that the inquiry should be held with closed doors, and the evidence taken on oath and in writing; all of these suggestions were overruled. Mr. Sibthorpe refused to answer certain questions put to him by Mr. Kentish while he was sitting on the Bench in open Court; and it was ruled that nothing which had previously been brought against Mr. Mitchell should on this occasion be received as evidence against him. On the Court being cleared, Mr. Sibthorpe wrote the letter which the other Magistrates signed, after a good deal of hesitation, accusing Mr. Kentish of malicious and mendacious conduct; and on the Court being opened, Mr. Sibthorpe read the letter to the people, and Mr. Mitchell, at his request, was given a copy of the letter. I protested against the letter, and tried to shew that there was evidence sufficient in the records of the office to convict Mr. Mitchell of brawling and blasphemous conduct.

I beg to suggest that either Captain Battye or the Police Magistrate of Carcoar be requested to act as referee in the case.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to INSPECTOR GENERAL OF POLICE.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 18 January, 1860.*

SIR,

Mr. N. L. Kentish, late Clerk of Petty Sessions at Molong, having brought certain charges against his predecessor, Mr. Mitchell, now C.P.S. at Condobolin, the matter was referred to the Bench, with an intimation that if the charges should be ascertained to be well-founded, Mr. Mitchell would be an unfit person to hold the office of Clerk of Petty Sessions; whilst if, on the other hand, that gentleman were found to be innocent, Mr. Kentish would deserve punishment for charging him with conduct so serious.

2. The Bench made a report that, after full inquiry and examination of six witnesses, including the most respectable inhabitants of the district, who directly and positively contradicted the whole of the charges brought against Mr. Mitchell, they found such charges to be malicious and mendacious; and the Government consequently removed Mr. Kentish from his situation.

Mr. R. J. Barton, one of the Magistrates of the Bench, appears, however, not to have coincided in the decision of the other Justices, and Mr. Kentish having renewed his charges to the effect mentioned below, with a view to vindicate his conduct on the occasion, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request that you will have the goodness to instruct Captain Battye to take an early opportunity of proceeding to Molong, to make a full inquiry into the matter, and to furnish a report thereon, for the information of the Government.

The charges preferred by Mr. Kentish against Mr. Mitchell are:—

1. Continued tipling and occasional drunkenness.
2. Lying.
3. Gambling and drinking in low company.
4. Abstracting the key from his office table drawer, and afterward dropping it outside the building, and then picking it up, pretending to have found it.
5. Insolence to Magistrates on the Bench and insubordination.
6. Insulting a public meeting, by writing and posting up in the Court House, Molong, a grossly impudent placard.
7. Insulting a gentleman and Magistrate, by snatching the placard alluded to out of his hand the next day.
8. Frightful and habitual blasphemy, persevered in the last eighteen months, after having been prosecuted and admonished for the same.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
Noon, 25 January, 1860.

SIR,

Your telegram of the 23rd instant reached me, through the Sydney Post Office, but an hour ago, upon receipt of which I went immediately to the Inspector General's Office, and thence to the Colonial Secretary's (where I am writing this), to ascertain the particulars of your "instructions" as to the nature and extent of the inquiry you are commissioned to hold at Molong, on which must entirely depend whether I shall require the attendance of many witnesses, or few, or even any.

It is with great satisfaction I learn that so intelligent and experienced an officer as I now have the honor to address, is invested with plenary powers to investigate and report on my charges, now officially brought against Mr. Mitchell, and "on all matters connected with my fracas with my predecessor, and the correspondence to which that affair has given rise;" but I cannot be sure how I may find it proper to act, in the capacity of accuser rather than of prosecutor, until I have the honor of appearing before you, and am made personally acquainted with your views on the subject. If, as I understand to be the case, the whole of the papers that have passed on this subject are already in your hands, inclusive of "the proceedings" of the Board of Inquiry of the 11th of October last (which, to secure from destruction, as important evidence for this very occasion, as I foresaw that a further and more reliable investigation would be instituted by the Government, I sent, for security from being burnt, to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary), I am quite content to leave the matter in your hands, without producing a single witness before you; as I am perfectly sure that the evidence already on record from the lips of Mr. Mitchell's own friends and witnesses is ample for the only purpose I have or ever had in view, viz., to justify my conduct in having accused him as a "blasphemer," and having undoubtedly cast on him the imputation of being a "brawler" and a "sot." But if, sir, as I am led to suppose, you will, in your responsible position as sole Commissioner of Inquiry, hold me bound to establish or to abandon each of the eight charges which I have been coerced into making to the Government against Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell, I will be fully prepared to prove them; although the length of time which has been permitted to elapse has caused me the loss of important witnesses, by their removal from the district of Molong; one of whom is Mr. Petherbridge, who has been some time in Sydney, but was talking of removing to Queensland. I will endeavor to ascertain whether he is still in Sydney; and as I cannot afford the expense, even if I have the power through you, of obtaining his attendance at Molong, 180 miles distant, I venture respectfully to suggest that you should be pleased to address him officially, requesting him to state,—“1st. Whether he is cognizant of Mr. Mitchell having written “and posted up in the Molong Court House, an impudent placard, insulting a public meeting; and if so, to state the language or substance of the placard, and the time and occasion of the meeting? 2nd. Whether he witnessed Mr. Mitchell gambling (and drinking) at the Freemason's Tavern, Molong, with a man in the service of Mr. Bowler, the butcher; and if so, when, and at what game, and to what amount whilst he was present; also the name of the butcher's man?”

In case of going into all eight charges, I shall require the following witnesses, viz:—R. J. Barton, Esq., J.P.; John Smith, Esq., J.P.; Luke H. Sibthorpe, Esq., J.P.; John Paterson, Esq., J.P.; D. Campbell, Esq., J.P.; A. Ross, Esq., J.P.; E. and W. Finch, Esqrs., J.P.; Mr. John Davis, C.C.; Constable Edwards, Constable Benson, Mr. Liscombe, Mr. Oliver Snow, Mr. Bell (of Copper Hill), Mr. Moon, Mrs. Moon, Sarah and Margaret Feeney, Mr. Morris, reporter to the Empire; and perhaps two or three more residents of Molong.

I purpose being at Bathurst on Saturday, the 4th proximo, en route to Molong.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
26 January, 1860.

SIR,

Replying hurriedly yesterday to your communication by Electric Telegraph, of the 23rd instant, on receipt of it, I find that I made certain omissions, which I now hasten to supply.

Amongst the names of witnesses to be subpoenaed on my behalf, I perceive that I omitted, besides Mr. William (I think) Petherbridge, one very material to my case, namely, Mr. Henry Marsden Betts, of Gamboola; but his evidence is already on record, in the proceedings of the Board of Inquiry of the 11th of October last. And I now have the honor further to request, that Mr. Sibthorpe may be served with a subpœna ducis tecum, requiring him to produce a certain letter addressed to him by Mr. R. B. Mitchell in July or August last, apologising for having insulted him in his magisterial capacity in the Molong Police Office, whilst he (Mr. Mitchell) was present officially as Clerk of the Bench; which document, signed by Mr. Mitchell, and either in his handwriting or (as I think) in that of Mr. Sibthorpe himself, was voluntarily shewn and read to me by the witness whom I now call upon to produce it before you. Also, that Dr. Ross may, in like manner, be served with a subpœna ducis tecum, requiring him to produce before you a certain letter addressed to him in the handwriting of Mr. R. B. Mitchell, stating that some offensive epithet ("fool," or "ass,") which he had made use of in his company at the public-house at Copper Hill, was not intended to apply to him, Dr. Ross; but, nevertheless, concluded by "wishing him," Dr. Ross, "eternal damnation"; which document, written and signed by Mr. Mitchell, was voluntarily shewn and read to me, and proffered to be produced before the late Board of Inquiry, by the witness whom I now call on to produce it before you, sir,—

And remain, &c.,

MR. N. L. KENTISH to CAPTAIN BATTYE.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
30 January, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to intimate to you that, to my great mortification, I find that it will not be in my power to attend personally at Molong. I have deferred the sale of a favorite pony, in the hope of again riding him to Molong and back, and had arranged in my mind to set out on the long journey to-morrow morning; but it will not be possible. Whilst regretting this, to me serious disappointment, it will be consolatory to you, sir, as well as to me, to know that my absence, though a principal, can be of very little real consequence. If it should be the occasion of my failing to prove either of the eight charges of which I have honestly accused Mr. Mitchell, by all means let him have the full benefit of such laches on my part. I am the originator of this inquiry; and I trust it is understood by you, and by the Molong Magistrates, and by the Government, and will be by the public at large—so far as the affair may, I cannot but apprehend, become public—that my sole object is to demonstrate, that instead of being guilty of mendacity and malice in imputing blasphemy to Mr. Mitchell, and in alluding to him as a brawler and a sot, I am but too fully borne out by facts to be proved on oath before you, in having correctly applied those epithets to Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell with perfect truth and the strictest propriety, or, in legal phraseology, bonâ fide.

Whether the "Justice" who drew up in his own handwriting, and his three colleagues, who, by attaching their signatures to that remarkable document, joined with Mr. Sibthorpe in the responsibility of "the Report" addressed to the Honorable Colonial Secretary, dated the 11th of October last, asserting (in the teeth of all the witnesses, and in opposition to the several facts proved before them) that "my imputations on Mr. Mitchell's moral character "were malicious and mendacious," and that "the whole of my charges against Mr. Mitchell were distinctly and positively contradicted by all six of the witnesses examined before them;" of which evidence, that of Mr. Sibthorpe himself, Mr. Betts, Dr. Ross, and the Chief Constable, constitutes nearly the whole which had then and there been just given before them, as a Board of Inquiry consisting of sworn Magistrates only;—whether this judicial assertion, formally drawn up on the Bench of "Justice," and officially made to the head of the Government, be not mendacious, as I, sir, submit that it is—whether this mendacious Report, so well calculated and contrived to screen a worthless character from deserved reprobation, and to vindicate and justify depravity and vice, and to sanction and uphold an individual whose conduct they were, as Magistrates and conservators of the public peace and of good morals, officially directed to inquire into and report upon to the Government, be not further prejudiced and every way "corrupt," as I submit that it is, I am happy in the belief that this deplorable case is now in the hands of an independent and high-principled officer, who will not shrink from the faithful performance of his important, delicate, and painful duty of reporting truthfully, intelligently, and conscientiously, without favor or affection; so that if, as seems to be far from improbable, the whole proceedings, from beginning to end, should come under review before Parliament, or in the Supreme Court, truth shall ultimately be triumphantly vindicated; and with truth, justice; and whilst the Vox Dei pronounces "Palmam qui meruit ferat," the Vox Populi will approvingly proclaim the honored names of the meritorious gentlemen and sterling Justices in the western country, to whom alone, amongst many, Lord Nelson's celebrated motto is applicable.

I am unfortunately unable to gain any intelligence of Mr. Petherbridge. The placard written and posted in the Molong Court House may, however, be proved on the oath of Mr. Sibthorpe, who is the very "gentleman and Magistrate" out of whose hand Mr. Mitchell snatched it the day after the public meeting, which he, Mr. S., publicly made mention of to several gentlemen in my hearing; and Mr. Moon and others must, doubtless, have witnessed the tossing for money with the butcher's man, at which 30s. or 35s. changed hands; but I know nothing about who was present, as I never troubled myself about Mitchell, whom I studiously avoided, nor asked a question concerning him of anyone; but this and many other circumstances came to my knowledge incidentally, as one cannot shut one's eyes or ears, however desirous of being in happy ignorance of much that it is far from gratifying to know.

I have in preparation, and shall do myself the honor to forward to you, a list of the questions I desire to be answered by each witness; and I cannot doubt that the replies these must elicit, i. e., provided the witnesses be put upon oath, will suffice for every purpose contemplated; for I will not permit myself to think that a man whose conscience is so disgracefully elastic as to lie in order to serve a friend or favorite, must be so base and depraved as deliberately to commit perjury, which, if proved, is very properly amenable to severe punishment, without respect to persons, although it is a general remark, which cannot be gainsaid, that if a man's word cannot be relied on for truthfulness, neither can his oath.

If my presence were really indispensable at Molong, of course I should obey with alacrity any summons, if treated as a witness would be, viz., served with a subpoena, accompanied by a sum that would cover my expenses; but, in truth, I am guilty of being at the present time entirely out of funds; and, from several contre-temps, am prevented drawing on my son's bank. It is said that "Misfortunes seldom come singly"; and, in addition to the sudden loss of my situation, I received official intimation only on Saturday last, that my small claim to salary as Crown Lands Agent, which my predecessor enjoyed and my successor is enjoying, cannot be allowed, in consequence of the bond to the Government not having been executed by my sureties, although, of course, I have performed the duties faithfully and satisfactorily, which, though involving responsibility, were undoubtedly but light; so that I have little right to complain, but am privileged only to suffer.

CAPTAIN BATTYE to INSPECTOR GENERAL OF POLICE.

Bathurst, 31 January, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acquaint you, that by this evening's mail I received an official from Mr. N. L. Kentish, intimating to me, after naming all witnesses, that it will not be in his power to attend personally the inquiry at Molong fixed for February 8th, adding that, although a principal, he can be of very little real consequence.

I should, therefore, be glad to know if the Colonial Secretary wishes the inquiry to take place, even should Mr. Kentish be absent.

No. 31

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
4 February, 1866.

SIR,

The post having this instant put me in possession of Mr. Under Secretary Elyard's letter of yesterday's date, intimating that "as I do not think proper to attend personally at Molong," before Captain Battye, who had been appointed to investigate the subject on which I have appealed to the Executive Government, "that gentleman has been instructed to proceed no further in the matter;" I have the honor very respectfully to assure you, that I had and have no objection whatever to confront my opponents and false accusers, but am fully alive to the propriety of doing so if possible; but, by the concurrence of several untoward circumstances, I am for the present so perfectly crippled as to be quite beside myself; and humiliating as it is to confess to an empty purse, it is a fact, that having suffered heavily by parties to whom, with certainly less prudence than good nature, I lent money out of friendship, and my son being at this moment disabled from rendering me assistance, I cannot command a sufficient sum to cover my expenses to Molong and back; which, including, perhaps, some days' detention or unforeseen casualties, cannot be reckoned much under £20; for though I may travel more comfortably and safely on my own horse, I cannot at less expense than by the mail.

In order to remove any incredulity that may be felt, as to pecuniary difficulty being the only and the real obstacle to my having at once journeyed to Molong; and in corroboration of my assurance that such is the case, I trust there can be no impropriety in my stating that in addition to two domestic or private losses, three several circumstances, not within my own control, but all proceeding from the Government, have combined suddenly to place me in a position of difficulty, viz., my dismissal from my situation without an hour's notice, at nearly 200 miles distance from Sydney; 2nd, my unfortunately leaving Molong prematurely, though not until after having waited a month without receiving any reply to my letter of the 19th of November (the answer dated 20th of December crossing me on the road), which put me to great disadvantage, besides a long, expensive, and worse than useless journey, and losses incidental to removal; and 3rd, being disallowed by the Lands Department the small amount of salary (£14 odd) as District Crown Lands Agent, which was enjoyed by my predecessor, and is now enjoyed by my successor, for the performance of the same light but responsible duties as I have faithfully executed.

On your becoming assured of the sincerity of this statement, I will not believe, sir, that the investigation ordered will be cancelled on account of circumstances which, instead of diminishing, can but strengthen my claim to a full inquiry into the case, in which, prima facie, no sane person can doubt that I am the victim of most infamous injustice; and I have no hesitation, sir, in stating distinctly, of "conspiracy, as well as of FALSE and malicious libel," on the part of Mr. Sibthorpe and his three magisterial confederates, whom, if the inquiry directed by the Government to be held by Captain Battye be rescinded, I shall be under the painful necessity of prosecuting, either criminally or by civil action, as I may be advised by counsel learned in the law, as the only alternative left me of vindicating my character, and I will not doubt, of ultimately righting myself.

Together with lists of the only questions material to be answered by the several witnesses, to prove my case fully, I have forwarded to Captain Battye an affidavit made before a Commissioner of the Supreme Court, converting my unsworn statements already on record (which I fortunately rescued when my other official documents unpalatable to Mr. Sibthorpe were cut out of the office register by that gentleman and burnt), into depositions; which, together with the evidence already given before Mr. Barton and the other four Magistrates, on the 11th of October last, would be ample if not a single witness were produced; and written statements have been forwarded to Capt. Battye by Mr. Petherbridge, the Chairman of the meeting insulted by placard, who being now resident in Sydney, declines to make so great a journey, unless compelled by law; also, by a material witness residing at Orange; and I did, sir, and do feel assured that my presence or absence could not in the least affect the evidence of third parties. But as the postponement of the inquiry can be of no great inconvenience to the gentlemen residing in Molong or neighborhood, and as it seems to be determined that my attendance ought not to be dispensed with, if, sir, you will be pleased to authorize Captain Battye to hold the inquiry as directed, on any convenient day, I will contrive to be in attendance if I live. Had any intimation been made to me that the inquiry should not take place unless I were present, I would have made any sacrifice to effect the journey; but the evidence being, as I conceive, equally valid in my absence, being for the most part already on record, I deemed that my presence was neither necessary nor desirable, and therefore I abstained from incurring a hateful obligation in order to go to Molong.

It is upwards of five months that I have been kept in a state of great uneasiness, growing out of the assault committed on me on the 25th of August, and in anxiety and suffering upwards of three months; and until this matter shall be properly and finally adjudicated I am powerless, resembling a loyal subject imprisoned on a charge of treason; and it is certain that I am guilty of conduct that must quite annihilate the claims based on two and thirty years of faithful service to the Crown; OR, that I am entitled to sympathy and favorable consideration, upon demonstration, which is easy, beyond the possibility of doubt, that on the false and prejudiced report of four venal Magistrates and corrupt Commissioners of Inquiry, guilty of conspiracy and of perjury (not as witnesses, but as sworn Magistrates; for Mr. Sibthorpe cautiously avoided making his false statement upon oath, but made made it on honor only). I have been officially blamed by the Executive Council, and am suffering punishment, when the very circumstances for which I am thus treated as a wrong-doer (viz., addressing a strong rebuke, privately, to a junior brother officer, for insult and conduct the most atrocious that language can express) would, by any other Government in the British Empire, and by any other Magistrates whatever in this Colony, or in the Empire, than the boon companion of the sottish blasphemer, and their three complying friends, have been commended, which my conscience and my knowledge of society tell me that it ought to have been, and yet will be by Parliament, which seems to be the only appeal left to me, except indeed, associated with the free Constitution, the public, which that Parliament represents in the House of Assembly, and its happily unfettered organ and champion of strict justice, a talented free press.

Although discarded, and as it were mocked, by being upbraided for not doing that which I most earnestly desired to do, and which the Government alone has deprived me of the means of doing, I am still bold in conscious innocence not only, but strong in the consciousness of being in honor and in honesty entitled to the acknowledgments of a moral, just, and Christian Government, by which I am at present most cruelly and most strangely regarded as a wrong-doer; and feeling "thrice armed" in the merits (and against the infamous demerits) of a remarkable case truly, which must be palpable to any but Molong "Justices!" I still believe, that under Providence, truth must and will ultimately prevail, and with truth, justice.

Had I not been deprived of my small salary, as "Crown Lands Agent," on Saturday last, on a technical point only, but of which I do not complain, I should now be on the road to Molong. Nay, were I not a discarded officer, I might have asked a loan of a friend; but situated as I at present am—turned out of office, stripped by heavy expenses, my small income eaten up by hundreds of miles' expensive travelling, and at a moment's notice dismissed from my small appointment, at 200 miles distance from Sydney—how and where, sir, am I, as an honorable man, to seek for funds for another journey of 400 miles, until after this affair shall have been cleared up; for if Mr. Sibthorpe and his three co-conspirators be not criminals (I say nothing about the gentleman whom I was so indelicate as to style a blasphemer, &c., on "insufficient grounds"), which I solemnly accuse them of being, then, sir, I am criminal in accusing them falsely.

I ask of you now, sir, to be pleased to refer the whole to the Supreme Court or to Parliament—I feel quite sure it cannot be permitted to rest thus.

Half distracted at the turn this affair has now taken, I am forcibly reminded of and sustained and consoled by an apostrophe to the Deity, which I was led to introduce in my maiden effort as a poetaster, in an essay on "Australia," 25 years ago, in allusion to the expatriation of British criminals being, under Providence, the means of transporting thousands of persons from poverty and vice, in a severe climate, to comfort and competence, and to moral as well as physical improvement, in this newly discovered and finer country; thus the evils in the Northern Hemisphere being the occasion of peopling a larger and better unoccupied territory in the Southern Hemisphere, and the vice and wretchedness of Britain being the cause of prosperity and happiness in Australia, which I am now privileged to witness. And at the risk of being (but I hope not) accused of pedantry, as by Mr. Mitchell and his Molong friends I should expect to be of sanctimoniousness also, which I abhor, I transcribe the same, as singularly apropos, and expressive of the sentiments of my soul at this time more perfectly than I could convey them in prose. I deem the lines prophetic—which I also employed as the motto to an essay on "Christian Fortitude," when I was formerly called on to exercise that virtue in this Colony, as I now am again; few colonists having been visited by more severe trials than I have encountered during thirty years of very chequered life in Australia.

All gracious Providence, how wise and good
Are all Thy ways! were they but understood
By blind weak mortals, we should then perceive
That which by faith alone we now believe,—
That nought's permitted, howsoever it tend
In our wrong view, but is for some wise end
Ordnained, by Him who only can discern
How pain to pleasure, ill to good, may turn.

Awaiting the honor of such reply as candid consideration will, I doubt not, favor,—

I have, &c.,

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, respecting the further inquiry which was proposed into your differences with Mr. Mitchell, formerly Clerk of Petty Sessions, Molong, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that he can only refer you to the decision conveyed to you in my previous communication.

MR. R. B. MITCHELL to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong, 9 February, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor to address you relative to my presence in this township.

I had received a letter from Captain Battye, J.P., Commandant of the Mounted Police, Bathurst, informing me that certain charges were made against me by Mr. Kentish, late Clerk of Petty Sessions at this place, on which he, Captain Battye, by order of the Government, had to report, and requesting my attendance at the Police Office here on the 8th instant.

2. On appearing at the Court House I was informed that Captain Battye had written to the Bench, stating that Mr. Kentish had written informing him of his inability to attend, and that in consequence of such letter he had communicated with the Government, and by them was ordered to take no further steps in the matter until he had received further instructions.

3. Thus I have been brought one hundred and fifty miles from Condobolin, and some of my witnesses distances from fifteen to thirty miles, to repel the charges preferred against me. I had once before undergone an ordeal instituted by Mr. Kentish, on which occasion four out of five of the sitting Magistrates signed a letter which I presume is in your possession. I had left this place on my appointment to Condobolin, when I was dragged back to answer the vindictive aspersions of Mr. Kentish. I had hoped to be left in peace in my obscurity, but the malevolence of Mr. Kentish seems still unappeased and unquenchable. Whatever he may have penned in his cacæthes scribendi I am still ignorant of, and I must humbly hope that the aberrations of this gentleman may be taken into your serious consideration before I may be again taken from my duties. As you may not be aware that all those who came on my behalf attended gratuitously, I have reason to fear that they would hesitate in making a similar sacrifice of their time, when, perhaps, a similar result might await them.

I have, &c.,

R. B. MITCHELL,

C. P. S., Condobolin.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
20 February, 1860.

Sir,

I respectfully beg leave to make known to you, that in the case of two material witnesses, who it was foreseen would not give their attendance at Molong, replies to my written questions have been returned. The reply of Mr. Petherbridge (now in Sydney) has been sent to Captain Battye; the other, from Mr. Snow, builder and Government Contractor of Orange, when it was known that the inquiry which had been appointed was not to take place at Molong on the 8th instant, was addressed to me in Sydney, which having arrived by the last post, I now do myself the honor to submit to you, sir, under the impression—I may say conviction—that the perusal of it, and of the answer of Mr. Petherbridge (the Chairman of the public meeting at which a certain placard was posted), in addition to the evidence on record taken before the Board of Inquiry on the 11th of October, must be ample to establish all that is material should be established, viz., facts sufficient to prove my perfect justification in having accused Mr. R. B. Mitchell as a “blasphemer,” and alluded to him as a “brawler and a sot,” incidentally, but truthfully and in self-defence.

Aware that my presence might be very well dispensed with at the inquiry appointed to be holden by Captain Battye at Molong, I transmitted to that gentleman a list of questions which I wished to be answered by the witnesses subpoenaed on my part; and I am quite sure, sir, that it must be palpable to common sense, that the answers to any questions that could be asked of me, could not possibly affect the validity of the testimony of any person whatever, as to his knowledge of Mr. Mitchell's proceedings before I came to Molong, or had ever seen him; if this be admitted, which the enclosed document must render obvious, I respectfully ask of you, sir, to be pleased to instruct Captain Battye simply to transmit my queries to the several gentlemen respectively, desiring that their answers may be returned to your office. Of course I will readily answer, and on oath, any questions whatever that Mr. Mitchell or his advisers may put to me in writing, pertinent to the issue.

I can assure you, sir, that, amongst my intellectual friends and acquaintances, inclusive of several of your Honorable colleagues in Parliament, lawyers and magistrates, gentlemen of the highest authority are of opinion that I am borne out by facts, in the belief that, so far from there having been any real necessity for my attendance at Molong, my presence was not desirable; but on the contrary, that in order to avert personal collision with the violent persons notorious for their animosity to me, my absence was proper, unless any specific reason for requiring me to give evidence had been signified, which was not even pretended. No doubt Captain Battye was very thankful to be relieved of an onerous and painful duty, viz., that of holding an inquiry into, and reporting conscientiously upon, the conduct conduct of his brother Magistrates and intimate friends and acquaintances, with one of whom, viz., Mr. Sibthorpe himself, the Captain had been on a visit, not many days before I left Molong.

In common fairness towards me, surely it ought to be borne in mind, instead of being entirely ignored—that, without calling for a single witness, I was (and am) content to rest my justification on the unburnt evidence already on record, and fortunately, sir, in your own office, viz., that of the witnesses examined on the 11th of October, in the presence of Mr. Barton, by whom their united testimony was deemed conclusive, as having established each of my three allegations; and of Mr. Sibthorpe, who (under the verbal but strenuous protest of the Chairman of the Board) had the temerity to “report” to your Honorable and grossly imposed on predecessor, that “all the witnesses examined distinctly and positively contradicted the whole of my charges against Mr. Mitchell;” the purport and meaning of whose evidence, already laid before you, sir, and previously to your administration before the Executive Council, is open to all the world, and as competent to be judged of by any persons of plain understanding and honesty of purpose, as by the writer of the infamous perjured report, and his three unscrupulous abettors, whom in my last communication I felt constrained to accuse, by no means indirectly, of deliberate perjury, and of a foul conspiracy to pervert the course of justice—each one of them being a Magistrate of the Colony, and a “sworn Justice” of the Peace. These charges, sir, I now solemnly reiterate, and bring before you and the Honorable the Executive Council officially, and have the honor to intimate my desire as well as my ability to prosecute the same to conviction, through the constitutional channel; I mean, through the instrumentality of the Honorable the Attorney General, which I am assured is “my right as a British subject;” and I will prove to you and to the Government under which I had the honor both faithfully and satisfactorily to discharge the duties of a respectable and responsible situation (if but a humble appointment for a man of my length of service), until condemned on the wilfully false and wicked report of four magisterial confederates, and dismissed the Government service on the 31st of October last without notice, ruined and disgraced, after two and thirty years of faithful and acknowledged services as a useful and trustworthy servant of the Crown. I will prove, sir, to the Government and to my fellow-colonists, and more especially to the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, that I possess moral courage sufficient, not only to denounce blasphemy, drinking, and fighting, in a profligate young brother officer, when the occasion demanded an expression of my reprobation of and disgust at conduct by which Mr. Sibthorpe’s protégé had the audacity to insult me, by daring to propose for my sanction and concurrence the most infamous and intensified blasphemy, which was his glory, and in which he now is officially justified and supported by the countenance, and therefore ostensibly at least, by the approval of the Government; but it shall also be seen that I am the man who, in the just and open vindication of my character, far dearer to me than life, and in justice to myself and family, will not be deterred by false delicacy from coming forward manfully to prosecute, and I trust to bring to condign punishment not merely an atrocious reprobate of “good family,” but four magnates, who have deliberately abused their sacred trust as Magistrates, and violated the seat and bench of Justice, by employing the great and responsible power with which they are invested by the Government as “Justices,” to screen and vindicate a notorious delinquent, quite regardless of their partiality and anxiety to protect their aristocratic friend, blasting the character, position, and prospects of an old colonist, certainly not inferior to either of them, except in wealth. The conduct of Dr. Ross in the transaction is also so disgraceful, in having stated, on honor, to the Board of Inquiry, that “he never saw Mr. Mitchell drunk,” and in becoming his vindicator, after having urged me to prosecute him as everything that is depraved, and assuring me that it could hardly be said of Mitchell that he was ever sober, and that “he was so drunk he could hardly stand when he insulted and assaulted Mr. Tulloch at Mr. Whitty’s, which he, Dr. Ross, witnessed;” that I feel it necessary to include that individual, with his four confederates, in the charge of conspiracy, substituting in his case the word “lying” for “perjury,” as the ceremony of an oath had been dispensed with as quite unnecessary, on the suggestion of Mr. Sibthorpe; and Dr. Ross not being in the Commission of the Peace at that time, was consequently unsworn.

These charges being of a criminal character, and their legal proof being essential to the ends of Justice, in order to remove disgrace and ruin from an innocent and injured man, who has hitherto enjoyed an unblemished character not only, but a well-earned reputation for integrity, honor, and usefulness, and it has been said ability, in the service of the Crown, two years in England, and thirty years in Australia; and if my charges be unfounded, it being essential that this should be proved, in order both to vindicate the purity of the Commission of the Peace, and to avert obloquy and penal consequences from five Magistrates, against any one of whom I would, as a gentleman, scorn to insinuate blame. I therefore embrace this occasion fearlessly to assert, that Mr. Sibthorpe was (if not drunk, which far be it from me to say that he was, according to his own idea and definition of “drunkenness”) greatly excited under the influence of liquor when he first came from the Freemason’s Hotel to the Court House, on the 11th of October, and rather more so on his return to the Board of Inquiry, to give his own testimony on honor (not on oath, but to be acted on officially by himself and other sworn Magistrates), and to draw up “the Report” for the Board, after his second visit to Moon’s Inn.

Should I fail to establish these allegations, as of course I must not expect, neither shall I ask for, any mercy at the hands of the Government, for, if proved guilty of “wilful and infamous violation of the 9th Commandment” (of which I accuse Mr. Sibthorpe, and his four tools), I can deserve none; but, sir, on the other hand, if I shall, and I trust ere long have legally and indubitably proved to you and to your Cabinet, and to my fellow-colonists, who are “the world” to me, that the very conduct for which I have been so strangely condemned, and without a moment’s warning dismissed with indignity, and with official official rebuke, as a very wrong-doer, causing my character to be publicly aspersed and blasted throughout this Colony not only, but also in Victoria, in which my family are resident, and I am well known, is fairly and truly entitled actually to commendation (which I assert and will maintain, sir, that it is), and to the approval instead of reprehension of the Government, whose Prime Minister I have the honor and the pain thus to address. I will in that event, hope for such public retraction of the public condemnation, through the Gazette, wrongfully but officially inflicted on me; and if my life be spared, such substantial redress of grievous injury as strictly impartial justice, administered in the kindly spirit of sympathy, may award, as on merits due to me, under such flagitious circumstances, as by dint of resolution I shall have clearly exposed to your just indignation, and to that of every right-minded man in the community.

Whilst calmly reposing on the belief, which alone could support me under this severe trial of my fortitude, as enunciated in the last few lines of my letter of the 11th instant, I would be permitted respectfully to draw your attention to the fact that I am at present the victim of a series of cruel delays, which greatly aggravate, by prolonging my suffering and distress, proceeding from "Molong justice."

I have, &c.,
N. L. KENTISH.

[Enclosure in No. 31.]

Orange, 7 February, 1860.

Dear Sir,

It being exceedingly inconvenient for me to attend your Commission of Inquiry into two charges of Mr. Kentish against R. B. Mitchell—which, for the cause of justice, I very much regret—I send you by post written answers to the within questions.

I have no personal feelings against Mr. R. B. Mitchell, nor friendly partiality towards Mr. Kentish; but I do believe a more abandoned young man than Mitchell I never met.

I conceive your inquiry will prove a failure, because his friends of his own clan will strive to conceal the truth. Be this as it may (judging as a disinterested person), I believe all Mr. Kentish's charges to be strictly true, if I except the delirium tremens charge.

Hoping that truth and justice will be fully established,—

I have, &c.,
OLIVER A. SNOW.

Capt. E. M. Battye,
Molong.

1. Had you been living some time in Molong before Mr. Mitchell left? I had.
2. Were you part of the time living in the same house with him? I was.
3. What appeared to you to be his predominant qualities? He seemed to me to be a great tippler and blasphemer.
4. Have you seen him drunk or under the influence of liquor? I have seen him excited from drinking spirits.
5. Did you ever take occasion to expostulate with him as to his life and dissipated habits, and give him friendly counsel to reform? I did.
6. Did he vindicate his conduct, or admit that he was to blame? He vindicated his conduct with jeers and scornful mirth.
7. Did he deny that he drank to excess, or did he admit that he sometimes got drunk? He admitted that he had been drunk.
8. Are you aware that his drinking habits brought on him delirium tremens a few weeks before he left Molong? I am not aware of it, only from report.
9. Were you ever present on occasion of his treating others to drink, and proposing the blasphemous sentiment or imprecation of which he had been convicted at the Police Office? I was never present when he drank the particular toast referred to.
10. From all that has come under your observation, do you consider the habits, language, and deportment of Mr. R. B. Mitchell, to be those of a gentleman? From what has come under my observation I would not consider R. B. Mitchell a gentleman.
11. Of a Christian? I could not consider his habits, language, and deportment, those of a Christian.
12. Of a man of good breeding? Nor of a man of good breeding.
13. Of a person of temperate habits and discretion? Nor of a man of temperate habits and discretion.
14. Of gentleness and respectful deportment, becoming in a young man and subordinate Government officer? Nor of gentleness and respectful deportment, &c.
15. Do you consider him to be the opposite of all these? I do.
16. A profane, intemperate, turbulent profligate? Yes.
17. Do you know whether he is an avowed atheist or infidel, or whether he professes himself a Christian, and of what denomination? I do not know.
18. Are you aware of his attending any place of Divine worship? I am not aware that he attended any, though I once saw him at the Wesleyan Chapel, and it was observed as something very remarkable.
19. Were you at the public meeting at the Court House, at which a placard was posted calling the persons assembled "jackasses"? I was not there, but heard of it.
20. By whom was this written and posted? There was no doubt on our minds that Mitchell was the author.

GENTLEMEN,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 25th ultimo, in which you request that a letter addressed to this department by Mr. Barton, a member of your Bench, in reference to the dispute between Mr. Kentish and Mr. Mitchell may be forwarded to you, I am directed to inform you, that as the matter to which the communication relates may be regarded as closed, the Colonial Secretary does not see any object in furnishing you with the letter in question.

No. 38.

To His Excellency Sir William Thomas Denison, K.C.B., and the Honorable the Executive Council of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of Nathaniel Lipscomb Kentish, Gentleman,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner arrived in Sydney thirty years ago this day, with the appointment of Assistant Surveyor, and that he has held office in the Government Service, in this and in the neighboring Colonies with unblemished honor, enjoying the confidence of all the officers under whom it has been his happiness to render good and faithful service, which has been rewarded by the meed of official commendation in no ordinary degree, as testified on his arrival in this Colony, by credentials from the Right Honorable Sir Edward Paget, Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, and Senior Professor of the Royal Military College of England—in which noble seminary of learning and science your Petitioner first entered the Civil Service of the Crown, as Professor of Surveying, &c., in October, 1827; and on his return to Sydney, two years ago, by the unequivocal testimony to the esteem in which he was held by the Government of Victoria, of a gratuity of £1,000, voted him by the Parliament of that Colony in which he had last held office.

That your Petitioner has recently filled the humble but responsible situation in this Colony of Clerk of Petty Sessions, first at Condobolin and afterwards at Molong, until the 31st of October last, when your Petitioner was summarily dismissed and officially repudiated as a wrong-doer, unworthy of being retained in the Government service, "for," as alleged, "having on INSUFFICIENT or UNJUSTIFIABLE grounds, attributed gross misconduct to a "brother officer;" of which vile offence of calumny it has been and seems still to be your Petitioner's deep misfortune to be assumed by the Government to be guilty, despite the clearest and strongest possible judicial evidence to the contrary; and therefore regarded and dealt with as if he really were a "malicious slanderer," in consequence of a wilful misrepresentation to that effect having been imposed on the last two Honorable Premiers (with deliberate falsehood, which, happily, is inconceivable), by an official report, signed by a section only of a judicial Board of Inquiry, consisting of the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, appointed to inquire into and to report to the Government upon the truth or falsehood of certain imputations, incidentally, but not without perfect truth and extreme provocation, cast by your Petitioner on the moral character of Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell; such "Report" (despite the indignant remonstrance of the President of the Board, dissentient) being made to assert, "that the whole of the charges brought by your Petitioner against Mr. Mitchell were distinctly and positively contradicted by all the witnesses;" whereas, in fact and in truth, instead of the imputations alluded to, namely, "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness," being disproved or contradicted by all the witnesses, five in number, these are the very words of each, viz.:—L. H. Sibthorpe, Esquire, J.P.: "Mr. Mitchell did insult me on the Bench in July last; but on my threatening to report him to the Government, he apologised to me; I made him give me an apology in writing." Andrew Ross, Esquire, M.D.: "I admit having received a letter from Mr. Mitchell, in his handwriting,

"handwriting, 'wishing me eternal damnation.'" Mr. Henry Marsden Betts: "In company with Mr. Kentish and myself, at Moon's Inn, Mr. Mitchell proposed, as a toast, 'Eternal damnation to your souls!'" Mr. John Davis, Chief Constable: "Mr. Mitchell was driven out of my house with a fire-iron, by a young woman residing with my family, with whom he attempted to take liberties." Affidavit of N. L. Kentish, C.P.S.: "Mr. Mitchell informed me in August last, in the parlor of Moon's Hotel, in the hearing of several persons, as a matter of fact and apparently of notoriety, that he had been suffering from delirium tremens,"—and on a former occasion, "in the company of L. H. Sibthorpe, Esquire, and two or three more gentlemen, Mr. Mitchell stated that on the previous day he had got very drunk indeed, at a dinner party; and, by way of boast, mentioned that he had drunk twelve glasses of brandy and water before sitting down to dinner."

That your Petitioner has filed an "Information," in the office of the Attorney General, on oath charging the four Molong Justices, together with one of the most material witnesses, with having confederated to defeat the course of justice, for the purpose of screening from well-merited reprobation a great delinquent, influenced by partiality; and with having, to effect this object, corruptly made to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary an untruthful Report, casting odium unjustly on your Petitioner, and defaming his character—never before aspersed during the long period that he has had the honor to be recognised as a trusty servant of the Crown—in a manner calculated to injure the circumstances and ruin the prospects of your Petitioner, in which the plot has been permitted to succeed, procuring, as it has done, his dismissal and disgrace; for which he now implores redress, based on strictly impartial justice only.

That a further inquiry into all the circumstances of this peculiar case was seen to be necessary, and was accordingly ordered, by the late Honorable Colonial Secretary and Premier, William Forster, Esquire; and that Captain Battye, J.P., Superintendent of the Western Mounted Police, was instructed to investigate and report to the Government fully, upon the eight charges now formally preferred by your Petitioner against Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell; also upon the proceedings of the Molong Magisterial Board of Inquiry, of the 11th of October, 1859; and as to the Report brought up by a majority of that Board, but dissented from as untruthful and "a mockery of justice, and in the teeth of the evidence of all the witnesses and of notorious facts," by their President, the Chairman of the Bench; that the 8th of February, at the Police Office, Molong, was accordingly appointed by Captain Battye for holding such inquiry, at which time your Petitioner (who, after waiting one month without receiving any reply to his official application praying for such inquiry, had recently arrived in Sydney from Molong, nearly 200 miles, after having been dismissed without an hour's notice from his situation, at that great distance in the interior) was by circumstances disabled from undertaking another journey of 400 miles, there and back; and, moreover, deeming that his presence was not essential (all the evidence requisite to substantiate his case being at Molong, inclusive of the evidence taken before the Board of Inquiry, of the 11th of October, and of replies to his interrogatories, addressed to Captain Battye in writing, by the only two material witnesses unable to attend, viz., Mr. Petherbridge, from Sydney, and Mr. Snow, from Orange), your Petitioner had no reason whatever to imagine that his absence could be held to be material; yet, solely on the ground of your Petitioner's inability to attend at Molong on the day named for the inquiry, have the proceedings been quashed, and no inquiry whatever has taken place; and justice is at present violated, by your Petitioner being treated as a "false accuser" (each of whose charges, openly and officially preferred, is not only capable of the clearest and strongest proof, but the evidence is already before the Government, in the offices of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary and Attorney General), and by each of the parties formally accused of gross depravity, of corruption and wilful premeditated falsehood judicially, as Magistrates, for the purpose of PERVERTING the course of justice by venally making an untruthful Report to the Honorable Colonial Secretary, thereby deliberately and designedly deceiving the Government, and wickedly condemning the innocent, for the purpose of screening and vindicating, and out of partiality, venally acquitting of the three charges imputed to him, a Government officer, who, upon the evidence of all the witnesses examined before them, had been proved guilty of each of the charges, viz., "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness," being regarded, without being put on their defence, as if they had been tried and acquitted by an honest and impartial jury; whereas they are as yet unconvicted of the serious crimes imputed to them on oath by your Petitioner, only because the full and impartial inquiry ordered by the late Honorable Premier in January last has not been carried into effect.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that, in justice to the several Magistrates solemnly accused of "corruption," as well as in justice to your Petitioner wrongfully convicted, admonished, and dismissed for conduct which, if truthfully and correctly represented, would be seen to be far more entitled to commendation than to punishment, your Honorable Council will be pleased to cause a full and impartial inquiry to be made into the whole of the circumstances of this anomalous case, by disinterested and unprejudiced commissioners, strangers to the district of Molong; so that ultimately, and without much further delay being added to the five months that your Petitioner has already suffered both disgrace and punishment wrongfully, truth and right may be justified, and guilt detected, exposed, and punished; that innocence of calumny or malice, and becoming support of the character of a Christian and a gentleman, in an experienced Government officer, instead of being condemned may be fully vindicated; and further, if found to be deserving of commendation, officially approved, and substantial justice may be done; which, to include redress of the serious wrongs your Petitioner is suffering, must it be believed, and will it be hoped and implored, cause the sentence of expulsion from the Government Service, for rebuking depravity in a junior brother officer, based on a wrong and unjustifiable conviction, to be as publicly publicly rescinded with honorable mention, as it was promulgated in the Government Gazette, to the anguish of your Petitioner, his family and friends; to the great triumph of a hideous blasphemer, and of five confederated magisterial conspirators, his partizans; and to the amazement of all the brother officers and acquaintances of your Petitioner, in this Colony and in Victoria.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your petition of the 29th ultimo, in which you repeat your application for an investigation of the circumstances which led to your removal from the public service, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that the decision conveyed in the letter from this office of the 3rd of February last must be considered as final, as you declined to appear before the officer specially appointed to make a further inquiry in the case, in consequence of the representation which was before made by you on the subject.

MR. J. SMITH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Molong, 19 May, 1860.

SIR,

Your attention has doubtless been drawn to a petition from Mr. N. L. Kentish, late Clerk of Petty Sessions at this place, presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 3rd instant, by Charles Kemp, Esquire, and since ordered by the Assembly to be printed, praying for an inquiry into the conduct of four Molong Justices of the Peace, whom he charges with having confederated to "defeat the ends of Justice," and with having corruptly made to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary a premeditated and untruthful report.

Perceiving by the published reports of the Assembly that the Hon. Member in charge of the petition does not intend to prosecute the inquiry during the present Session, I do myself the honor to inform you I am one of the Justices alluded to, and I beg respectfully, but firmly, to claim at your hands a thorough investigation into the truth of the allegations set forth in this petition. I call for this inquiry in justice to the other three magistrates (my juniors in the commission), as well as to myself. The matter has excited considerable public interest, several letters having already appeared in the columns of the leading journals on the subject, and I am sure you will see the necessity of taking immediate steps in order that the administration of Justice in the interior may be vindicated.

SIR,

I had the honor of addressing you on the 19th ultimo, in reference to a charge of corruption brought against myself and three other Magistrates of the Molong Bench, by Mr. N. L. Kentish, to which I have as yet received no reply.

May I beg to ask if my application for an inquiry is entertained by Government? I cannot but feel that I ought not again take my seat on the Bench till this matter is cleared up.

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 19th May last, in which you request that a thorough investigation may be made into the truth of the allegations set forth in a Petition presented to the Legislative Assembly from Mr. N. L. Kentish, late Clerk of Petty Sessions at Molong, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that he does not see any necessity for such an investigation, in order to clear the Magistrates from the charges contained in the Petition, or that the Government can do anything further in the matter. Mr. Kentish has been removed from the public service, for making charges which he failed to substantiate against a brother officer.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Cardington, near Molong,
27 August, 1859.

SIR,

My indignant remonstrance with a person with whom, purely out of courtesy, I unfortunately permitted myself to dine, on Tuesday last, at the hotel at which he is resident in Molong, and at which I that day arrived, on his having the audacity to propose as a toast to be drank to by me and by another gentleman present, the horribly blasphemous imprecation, in atrocious violation of every hallowed feeling cherished by the Christian and the gentleman—"Eternal damnation to your souls"—having involved me in the unpleasant necessity of prosecuting the obscene individual alluded to, for a furious assault committed on me by the reprobate whose infamous language and gross outrage I felt it to be my duty to denounce, strongly I admit, but in a sealed letter intended solely for his eye, and that of Mr. Betts, who had been insulted mutually with me, addressed to the miscreant the following morning, and in the sentiments expressed in which our companion of Tuesday evening entirely concurs; under these circumstances I have the honor to request, sir, that you will be good enough to inform me whether a man is not amenable to the law for such outrage upon the Christian Religion not only, but on morality and decency, so obviously calculated to provoke a breach of the peace, though taking place in the dining-parlor of a licensed public-house; and if such be the case, which I cannot bring myself to doubt, and if there be, as I suppose, some local Act or statute law of England, valid in this Colony, for the punishment and suppression of conduct so truly infamous, that you will further be pleased to cause me to be furnished with the proper "form of information," and instructions how to proceed; as, upon a former occasion, this monster of depravity, who boasts of "gentle blood," and of his "education," was brought before the Molong Bench, on the charge of uttering, in breach of the peace, this very same imprecation which excited my disgust, and with it my wrathful indignation, and of inviting several persons present on the former occasion referred to, in the tap-room of some other public-house, to join with him in drinking to this his favorite "sentiment"; but the case was dismissed, and the unblushing low blasphemer let off with an admonition on the ground that the tap-room or bar of a public-house was not a "public place" within the meaning of the Vagrant Act, which was relied on by the prosecutor; and I am told that it was assumed by the Bench, whether correctly or otherwise, that there is no law in force in this Colony for the punishment or suppression of language, however vile, insulting, or atrocious, whether blasphemous, treasonable, or obscene, or which can take cognizance of such, if uttered in what is by law deemed a private place.

But this I trust must be a mistake; for it is upon this abominable language of infamy, in the continual use of which, the profligate actually prides himself, fifty times more than on his personal violence to me (for, though not a young man, nor at any time of my life a pugilist, I am as little deficient of courage, moral or physical, as any man in existence), that I feel it to be a duty incumbent on me to prosecute.

This is rendered the more indispensably necessary, in order to arrest the obloquy of being connected with an assault case, which has already obtained notoriety in this small community, and that, too, on the very day before my appointment as Clerk of Petty Sessions at Molong, becoming known here by the arrival of the Gazette. The assaults committed on me being in public, i. e., in the presence of at least a dozen witnesses, in the parlor, and afterwards in the tap-room of a public-house (to which I rushed to seek protection of the landlord, a large and powerful man, but was refused it), and adapted to the obvious, indeed avowed purpose of exciting me to a breach of the peace, by irritating me to strike my assailant in parrying the violent menaces of his cane, and of his fist within an inch of my face, or, as appeared to be his great aim and favorite purpose, to work me up to challenge him to fight a duel; I am thus compelled to appear at the bar of public opinion; and as I must submit to be judged of by society not only, but by the Executive Council in all probability, and perhaps by the Governor General himself, I feel it to be a duty which I owe to myself as a very old servant of the Crown, however humble my present position, as a Christian, as a gentleman, and further as a parent, to take the proper steps requisite to set myself right with the society in which it is my hope to move, as "a man entitled to respect."

I feel it, sir, to be a duty to admit to you, which I blush to do, that I am conscience-smitten with the guilt of one impropriety in this affair, and that is, in having remained some minutes in the company of this gentleman, and indignantly remonstrating only, instead of knocking the fellow down as he uttered the frightful imprecation, or throwing the wine and glass in his face, and leaving the room on the instant, as undoubtedly I ought to have done; the letter, however, which I addressed to Mr. Mitchell on the following morning, which gave rise to his assault on me, is now in the hands of the Chief Constable, as amidst his violence my assailant crushed it up and threw it in my face, vehemently denouncing me for having imputed to him profanity and "blackguardism," raving that "he would compel me to prove my assertion that he was a blackguard," who would let me know that he was, I know not what, but something prodigiously high and mighty, and that "he would make me give him an

an explanation and apology, or satisfaction." I am glad to find that in my letter I have made use of no expression that I could wish to retract, or am unprepared to justify, and I therefore deem it fortunate that scripta manet.

Respectfully awaiting your instructions,—

I have, &c.,
N. L. KENTISH,
C. P. S.

P. S.—I am writing at the station of my friend Mr. Ramsay, having come hither yesterday, expressly to avoid any further collision with my blasphemous and furious assailant (who was still haunting me in Molong, at the other inn to which I had withdrawn), or interview, until Tuesday next at the Police Office, when he is summoned to appear before the Bench, and I trust he will be bound over to keep the peace, and committed, until a reply can be received to this letter—perhaps with intimation to the Molong Bench—on the subject.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to MR. N. L. KENTISH.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 2 September, 1859.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th ultimo, requesting to be informed how you should proceed against a certain individual for having used gross and blasphemous language; but I am desired to state, that he regrets he does not feel himself bound to offer you an opinion upon the charge in question.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
2 March, 1860.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to address you, under very peculiar circumstances; a brief statement of which will, I trust, prove my justification in laying them before Her Majesty's Attorney General, and be deemed the sufficient, as they constitute my only apology, for thus drawing upon your attention.

I beg leave, sir, respectfully to request your perusal of the draft of "Information" enclosed, which I should have sworn at the Police Office yesterday, but that Mr. Warburton demurs to its being his duty to take my deposition. Having long since submitted the circumstances to the Government; and having not only intimated "my desire and my ability to prosecute the five conspirators to conviction;" but the evidence of the witnesses in support of such prosecution, as literally quoted in my information, being officially before the Government in the Colonial Secretary's Office, I have been under the impression that the Government (with, or probably without, the intervention of the Supreme Court) would deal with this case, the whole of the parties, as well as myself, belonging to the Civil Service of the Government of New South Wales; and that I should thus be spared the pain of becoming the prosecutor of gentlemen whose acquaintance and whose hospitality I formerly enjoyed; I have, therefore, at great disadvantage to myself, hitherto abstained from taking this step; of my ability to take, and of my justification in taking which, I have been perfectly aware, from the very hour that the perjury was committed, which consummated the conspiracy to charge me with falsehood and malice, in order to screen and vindicate a great delinquent, whom they were seduced to favor and support, on the 11th of October last; but the fact being now forced on my attention, that as the party injured by this conspiracy, based on perjury, respecting which I am appealing to the Government for redress, it is my inevitable duty to initiate proceedings which must, and which alone can, render to the Government proof of that which is at present but assertion,—I apprehend, sir, that I have no alternative but to swear the enclosed document before the proper officer; but in a matter of so grave a character, in which, of course, it is my desire to proceed circumspectly, I trust that I am not unwarranted in respectfully soliciting to be favored with such directions from your office, as may prevent any irregularity on my part in the form of laying my information, or in any other respect.

Having already four months suffered punishment, and still laboring under official displeasure "as a wrong-doer," for conduct which I well know to be far more deserving of commendation than of reprehension; and being unable to claim redress and consideration of the Government, or even to petition Parliament with any prospect of success, until this matter is cleared up by an exposé of the Molong "Justices"! proving my innocence of "imputing blame untruly or even unnecessarily to Mr. R. B. Mitchell," by proving that the author of the false and malignant Report of the four out of five sworn Magistrates who constituted the Molong Board of Inquiry, and the other three who were base enough to sign their names to it, are guilty of wilful perjury and of gross corruption, as ex-officio Magistrates, a Board of Inquiry,—

I am anxious to file a fair copy of this Information (if it be free from informality) without delay; and have the honor to remain,

Sir,
Your humble and obedient servant,
N. L. KENTISH.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure in foregoing.]

NEW SOUTH WALES, CITY OF SYDNEY, TO WIT.

ON this ninth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty. Nathaniel Lipscomb Kentish, of the City of Sydney, gentleman, being duly sworn, maketh oath and saith as follows:—

That on the eleventh day of October last, Luke Homan Sibthorpe, Esquire, John Smith, Esquire, Edward John Finch, Esquire, and William Finch, Esquire, Magistrates of this Colony, all residing in the Police District of Molong, did, as sworn "Justices," commit wilful and corrupt perjury, and that Andrew Ross, Esquire, M.D., was at the same time guilty of corrupt and wilful falsehood judicially, in giving his evidence as a witness before the above-named Magistrates, who, together with Robert Johnstone Barton, Esquire, J.P., of Boree Nyranng, in the said Police District, constituted an officially appointed "Board of Inquiry" at Molong aforesaid; and this deponent saith, that the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe, John Smith, Edward John Finch, William Finch, and Andrew Ross, did unlawfully and wickedly conspire, by means of such perjury and falsehood, to defame the character, ruin the circumstances, and destroy the position and prospects of this deponent, as a true and faithful servant of the Crown, under which he has held office with unblemished conduct and reputation in England and in the Australian Colonies upwards of two and thirty years, and of late in this Colony as Clerk of Petty Sessions at Molong aforesaid; and did further conspire to pervert the course of justice, by falsely and corruptly vindicating and upholding Richard Blunt Mitchell, late of Molong, Clerk of Petty Sessions, in conduct the most vile, depraved, disgraceful, and infamous, to which this deponent had made allusion with well-merited indignation, in a letter addressed officially to the Honorable Charles Cowper, Colonial Secretary; and by falsely and corruptly reporting to that functionary at the head of the Government, that the whole of this deponent's charges against the said Richard Blunt Mitchell, which had been then and there established before them as a Board of Inquiry on the testimony of five witnesses, "had been distinctly and positively contradicted by those witnesses."

This deponent further saith, that the particulars of the judicial perjury and of the judicial falsehood charged against the five several persons named in this information, and of the conspiracy charged against the said parties, and of the circumstances under which those criminal offences were committed, are as follows:—Instructions having been issued by the Honorable Charles Cowper, Esquire, Colonial Secretary, to the Magistrates in the Commission of the Peace of our Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria, acting in and for the District of Molong, authorizing and requiring them to inquire into and report to him upon three several allegations contained in a certain letter addressed to him by this deponent, bearing date September 2, 1859, imputing "blasphemy" to Richard Blunt Mitchell, Clerk of Petty Sessions, Condoulin, and alluding to him as a "brawler and a sot,"—a meeting of Magistrates was held for that purpose by appointment, at the Police Office, Molong, on Tuesday, the 11th of October, 1859, when five Justices attended and constituted themselves a Board of Inquiry, viz.—Robert Johnstone Barton, Esquire (President), Luke Homan Sibthorpe, Esquire, John Smith, Esquire, Edward John Finch, Esquire, and William Finch, Esquire;—at the suggestion of the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe, the Board dispensed with administering an oath to the witnesses examined, who therefore gave their testimony by affirmation on honor only. Deponent further saith, that the evidence given by four of the witnesses and by himself (deponent's testimony being drawn up in form of an affidavit, but unsworn) was respectively as follows, viz.—By Henry Marsden Betts: "In the company of Mr. Kentish and myself, Richard Blunt Mitchell proposed as a toast, Eternal damnation to your souls." By Andrew Ross, Esquire, M.D.: "I received a letter from Richard Blunt Mitchell, in his handwriting, wishing me eternal damnation." By John Davies, Chief Constable: "Richard Blunt Mitchell was driven out of my house with a fire-iron, by a young woman residing with my family, with whom he attempted to take liberties." By Luke Homan Sibthorpe, Esquire, J.P. (himself a member of the Board of Inquiry, and who personally drew up and made fair copy of letter addressed to the Honorable Premier, as and for the report of the Board): "Richard Blunt Mitchell (at that time Clerk of the Bench) did insult me "on the Bench, in July last; but on my threatening to report him to the Government, he apologized to me. I made him give me an apology in writing," and by this deponent, "Richard Blunt Mitchell, informed me in the presence of several persons, as a matter of fact, and apparently of notoriety, that "he had recently been suffering from delirium tremens; also, that on the day of his having a dinner party "at Moon's Inn, at which he became very drunk indeed, he had drunk twelve glasses of brandy and "water before sitting down to dinner."

And this deponent further saith, that notwithstanding this unequivocal and strong evidence of five witnesses given before the said Magisterial Commissioners of Inquiry, in support and confirmation of deponent's imputations on the moral character of the said Richard Blunt Mitchell, convicting him of "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness;" and in defiance of the protest of the Chairman of the Molong Bench and President of the Board, against the letter reporting falsely to the Honorable Colonial Secretary, drawn up by the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe; (the Chairman of the Board of Inquiry, and senior Magistrate on the Bench, maintaining that the imputations, called "charges" of this deponent, against the said Richard Blunt Mitchell, were fully established by the witnesses, whose evidence is quoted above literally, from the record of the proceedings of the Board of Inquiry forwarded to the Honorable Colonial Secretary; and that to deny this, which had been then and there proved before them, was to act in defiance of facts, and in the teeth of justice, rendering such corrupt proceedings a perfect mockery, and their report as that of an official Board of Inquiry, a deliberate and disgraceful falsehood, which he the said Robert Johnstone Barton not only refused to subscribe, but wholly and indignantly repudiated, and vehemently denounced as wilfully untrue, and unjust,) yet the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe did persist, in accordance with his avowed determination, to protect and screen the said convicted blasphemer, brawler, and sot, from the displeasure of the Government, to draw up then and there a letter to the Honorable Charles Cowper, Colonial Secretary, reporting officially and judicially to the Government, as the just and truthful verdict of four Magisterial Commissioners of Inquiry; and the said John Smith, Edward John Finch, and William Finch, as well as the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe, did subscribe the same, corruptly, with wilful and deliberate falsehood in their judicial capacity as ex officio Commissioners of Inquiry, being each a sworn "Justice," solemnly stating, that "all the witnesses "whom they had examined, distinctly and positively contradict the whole of the charges imputed by this "deponent to the said Richard Blunt Mitchell": whereas, in fact and in truth, the charges of "blasphemy, brawling, and sottishness," were affirmed and perfectly established by the witnesses, and actually supported by the reluctant testimony of the writer of the false, wicked, and unjust report, viz., the said Luke Homan Sibthorpe.

This deponent further saith, that Andrew Ross, Esquire, M.D., after having voluntarily and repeatedly assured this deponent, that to his knowledge and disgust, the said Richard Blunt Mitchell was the most atrocious blasphemer, brawler, and drunkard, he ever met with; and after having, in particular, informed deponent that he, the said Andrew Ross, was witness to the said Richard Blunt Mitchell insulting and assaulting Mr. Robert Tulloch at the residence of the late Commissioner of Crown Lands, Harry Whitty, Esquire, "on which occasion the said Richard Blunt Mitchell was so drunk that he could hardly stand," and proffered his (Dr. Ross's) services as a witness before the Board of Inquiry, to give evidence to the violence and quarrelsomeness, drunkenness, and depravity of the said Richard Blunt Mitchell, producing and shewing to this deponent the letter he had received from the said Mitchell, concluding with the words "wishing you eternal damnation," urging upon this deponent, that it was his imperative duty to society, to prosecute to extremity so great a monster of iniquity as he described the said Mitchell to be; yet the said Andrew Ross, having conspired with the said Luke

Homan

Homan Sibthorpe and his magisterial confederates, to protect and justify the said Mitchell, and to defeat the ends of justice, did falsely and deliberately, when under examination as a witness, make his solemn affirmation on honor (to have the effect of an oath before the Magisterial Board of Inquiry sitting judicially) that "he had never seen the said Richard Blunt Mitchell drunk," and disingenuously and artfully labored to justify him, whom he had for months past been in the habit of denouncing as a reprobate, and to vindicate his depravity and vile conduct.

N. L. KENTISH.

Sworn on the day and year first above-mentioned, at Sydney, before me,—

F. H. STEPHEN.

A Commissioner for Affidavits.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to MR. N. L. KENTISH.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 5 March, 1860.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 2nd instant, complaining of injustice done to you by certain Magistrates of the Molong Bench, constituted a Board of Inquiry in reference to charges lately preferred by you against Mr. R. B. Mitchell, and wherein you enclosed a draft information charging Messrs. Sibthorpe, Smith, E. J. and W. Finch, J.P.s, with conspiracy and perjury, I am directed by Sir W. M. Manning to state that he is of opinion that the information submitted by you contained no charge which it is competent to the Sydney Bench to entertain. The Magistrates acted as a Board of Inquiry upon an official rather than a criminal charge, and the matter cannot be regarded as having been on oath, so as to be liable to the charge of perjury. The witnesses also were unsworn, and therefore they also could not be so charged. But the imputations made by you, the Attorney General thinks deeply affect the personal characters of the Magistrates, and if sustained would shew them to be unfit to retain their seats on the Bench.

I have, &c.,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney,
7 March, 1860.

SIR,

With many apologies for again intruding on you, but encouraged by the tone and tenor of the communication with which you have honored me by the hands of your Secretary, informing me that it is your opinion (which, of course, sir, I do not presume to question) that a wilfully false report, officially submitted to the head of the Government, by Commissioners of Inquiry (although appointed ex-officio as sworn Justices) does not in law amount to perjury in the Magistrates who have corruptly committed deliberate falsehood for the express purpose of deceiving the late Premier and perverting the course of Justice, because the said Magisterial Commissioners have not made oath to the truth of the falsehoods stated in their official report to the Government under their four several autographs, with "J.P." attached to each signature,—I do myself the honor to intimate, that in laying my "information" against an unprincipled Magistrate and his three confederates on the Bench, in charging them with "perjury" instead of "wilful falsehood judicially," I have been guided by the advice of a confidential friend, who, though not a lawyer by profession, has had no little experience in the Law Courts, and whose mature judgment is not unheeded in Parliament, who conceives that a Board of Inquiry constituted of gentlemen not appointed by name, but of sworn Magistrates only, viz., the five Molong Magistrates who, acting under the Government instructions, constituted themselves a Board of duly appointed Commissioners, and held their inquisition in the Court House, the public and reporters to the press being present, were de facto acting magisterially as well as literally seated at the Bench of Justice, where they drew up and subscribed their judicial report, addressing it officially to the Honorable Charles Cowper, Colonial Secretary, ergo, being sworn "Justices," and officially acting as such, that their wilful violation of truth in their official report will, upon legal proof, convict them of "perjury," both according to the letter and spirit of the law as laid down by the highest and latest authorities; as will their deliberate perversion of Justice in the Court over which they presided as ministers of justice for the purpose of screening a delinquent, upon legal proof—which is not wanting—convict them of judicial favoritism, aggravated by their wilful injury to the character and position of an innocent, and at present, suffering party; which corrupt conduct of Magistrates sworn to uphold the laws and to administer justice impartially, is said to be one of the gravest crimes in the criminal code, as a species of intensified perjury and wrong, emanating from the very parties whose express duty it is to expound the law, and to uphold the majesty of truth and justice, to inculcate loyalty, morality, and virtuous principles, and to sustain the rights of the subject appealing to them as "Justices," in whose honor and integrity unlimited confidence is reposed by the Crown, which when well-founded is ever shared by the people; I therefore, sir, respectfully request to be permitted—if as a free and loyal subject of the Queen such is my right—to swear my information as it is already drawn, which I know to be strictly correct in its averments, before some functionary competent to give validity to my deposition, which I will then leave at your office, to be dealt with in such manner as you may may deem most proper. If Messrs. Sibthorpe and Co. can establish any technical objection as a loophole through which to creep out of legal guilt, and to escape from well-merited punishment—I care not. I trust that I harbor no enmity to any mortal man, and therefore none towards these just Justices, nor to that young monster of depravity, to screen and support whom these Magistrates have perjured themselves, and for the present destroyed me. My sole object, sir—a most legitimate one, and sacred duty to myself and family—is this, viz., to right myself, to vindicate my character against moral assassins, and to justify my conduct in that respect on which I have been wrongfully condemned, and am suffering under a palpably unjust conviction.

On my remonstrance and appeal to the Honorable William Forster, Colonial Secretary, dated November 19th, in which it was by circumstances rendered necessary that the moral depravity of Mr. Mitchell, to which I had formerly alluded, should, in vindication of myself from Mr. Sibthorpe's charge of "having imputed them to that 'gentleman' without the slightest foundation," be specifically and officially stated,—I formally preferred distinct charges against that civil officer; and the Premier was pleased to direct Captain Battye, J.P., of Bathurst, to investigate the whole case, who appointed the 8th of February, at Molong, for that purpose, where unfortunately I was unable to make another journey of 200 miles, having recently returned from thence, after waiting a month for a reply to an official letter, which at last crossed me on the road; moreover, my witnesses being at Molong, and the Commissioner furnished with the questions, the answers to which on oath would have thoroughly proved my case, I had no idea that my presence was at all material, still less that it could be treated as indispensable; and now, on the ground of non-attendance, the Government has quashed the proceedings. This, as far as respects Mr. Mitchell, I regard not; let him have the full benefit of my eight specific charges being extinguished, and therefore "unproven;" although the witnesses (inclusive of two letters from gentlemen unable to make journeys of 200 and of 20 miles—one of which, forwarded to me, I have the honor to enclose) were at Molong at the appointed time, and well able to prove the whole. But, sir, with the clearest and strongest testimony that words can express, of five several witnesses, taken judicially before the Magisterial Board of Inquiry, at the Police Court, Molong, on the 11th of October, proving that my reflections on Mr. Mitchell's character were "well founded, and abundantly called for,"—and with the protest of the senior Magistrate of the District, Chairman of the Bench and their own President, as a Board of Inquiry, against their proceedings as a perfect "mockery of justice," who has also certified to the Government that "the Report" of Mr. Sibthorpe and his three abettors is diametrically the opposite of truth and justice, and of the facts of the case as proved before them;—with all this evidence officially before him, how the Honorable Premier can have been prevailed on to adopt, and still to adhere to this infamous Report got up by Mr. Sibthorpe—himself a notorious inebriate, and therefore sympathetic towards Mitchell—instead of spurning it with the abhorrence which it and its unscrupulous concoctors so richly merit, as soon as the evidence of Mr. Betts, Dr. Ross, the Chief Constable, and (strangely enough) of Mr. Sibthorpe himself, came before him, confirmed by the burning indignation of the President of the Board, R. J. Barton, Esq., who dissented in toto from his worshipful colleagues on the Bench—this, sir, is quite beyond my comprehension; and I feel assured that it will be as much Mr. Forster's wish hereafter, as it is mine now, that before he retires from the seat of power his attention should be more carefully directed than it has yet been to this anomalous case, which I am constrained to bring before Parliament by the advice of the Premier himself, who has promised to support the motion to refer the whole matter to a Select Committee. If, sir, you will be pleased to make mention of the subject, Mr. Forster will probably be good enough to make to his successors in the administration some communication which may have the effect of serving me by an act of justice, which the worthy ex-Premier will be glad to perform; for I believe Mr. Forster to be exactly the man, whose honesty of purpose is so pure that he will readily admit having fallen into an error when he finds such to be the case (which I have reason to think he already perceives, in the present instance), whether from the insidious misrepresentation of interested parties, or from sheer inability, amongst the multitude of more important matters distracting his attention, to give to this comparatively insignificant but truly anomalous case the consideration requisite; and will feel far more satisfaction in redressing the grievous wrongs and arresting the ruin of an innocent and perhaps not undeserving old officer, and in supporting him whom he had been misled to condemn improperly, than regret in avowing that, being mortal, he had not escaped being imposed on, but at the eleventh hour had detected the imposition just in time to cause real and great injustice to be exposed and redressed.

MR. O. A. SNOW to CAPTAIN E. M. BATTYE.

Orange, 7 February, 1860.

DEAR SIR,

It being exceedingly inconvenient for me to attend your Commission of Inquiry into charges of Mr. Kentish against R. B. Mitchell (which, for the cause of justice, I very much regret), I send you by post written answers to the within questions.

I have no personal feelings against Mr. R. B. Mitchell, nor friendly partiality towards Mr. Kentish, but I do believe a more abandoned young man than Mitchell I never met.

I conceive your inquiry will prove a failure, because his friends of his own clan will strive to conceal the truth.

Be

Be this as it may (judging as a disinterested person), I believe all Mr. Kentish's charges to be strictly true, if I except the delirium tremens charge.

Hoping that truth and justice will be fully established, I have the honor to subscribe myself—

Yours, &c.,
OLIVER A. SNOW.

Mr. Oliver A. Snow's Answers to Mr. Kentish's Questions.

- 1.—Had you been living some time in Molong before Mr. Mitchell left? I had.
- 2.—Were you a part of the time living in the same house with him? I was.
- 3.—What appeared to you to be his predominant qualities? He seemed to me to be a great tippler and blasphemer.
- 4.—Have you seen him drunk, or under the influence of liquor? I have seen him excited from drinking spirits.
- 5.—Did you ever take occasion to expostulate with him as to his life and dissipated habits, and give him friendly counsel to reform? I did.
- 6.—Did he vindicate his conduct, or admit that he was to blame? He vindicated his conduct with jeers and scornful mirth.
- 7.—Did he deny that he drank to excess, or did he admit that he sometimes got drunk? He admitted that he had been drunk.
- 8.—Are you aware that his drinking habits brought on delirium tremens a few weeks before he left Molong? I am not aware of it, only from report.
- 9.—Were you ever present on occasion of his treating others to drink, and proposing the blasphemous sentiment or imprecation of which he had been convicted at the Police Office? I was never present when he drank the particular toast referred to.
- 10.—From all that has come under your observation, do you consider the habits, language and deportment of Mr. R. B. Mitchell to be those of a gentleman? From what has come under my observation, I would not consider R. B. Mitchell a gentleman.
- 11.—To be those of a Christian? I would not consider his habits, language, and deportment, those of a Christian.
- 12.—Of a man of good breeding? Nor of a man of good breeding.
- 13.—Of a person of temperate habits and discretion? Nor of a man of temperate habits and discretion.
- 14.—Of gentleness and respectful deportment, becoming in a young man and subordinate Government officer? Nor of gentleness and respectful deportment, &c.
- 15.—Do you consider him to be the opposite of all these? I do.
- 16.—A profane, intemperate, turbulent profligate? Yes.
- 17.—Do you know whether he is an avowed atheist or infidel; or whether he professes himself a Christian, and of what denomination? I do not know.
- 18.—Are you aware of his attending any place of Divine worship? I am not aware that he attended any, though I once saw him at the Wesleyan Chapel, and it was observed as something very remarkable.
- 19.—Were you at the public meeting at the Court House at which a placard was posted calling the persons assembled "jackasses"? I was not there, but heard of it.
- 20.—By whom was this written and posted? There was no doubt on our minds that Mitchell was the author.

MR. N. L. KENTISH to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

399, Pitt-street,
Sydney, 20 February, 1860.

SIR,

I respectfully beg leave to make known to you, that in the case of two material witnesses, who it was foreseen would not give their attendance at Molong, replies to my written questions have been returned.

The reply of Mr. Petherbridge—now in Sydney—has been sent to Captain Battye; the other, from Mr. Snow, builder and Government contractor of Orange, when it was known that the inquiry which had been appointed was not to take place at Molong on the 8th instant, was addressed to me in Sydney, which having arrived by the last post, I now do myself the honor to submit to you, sir, under the impression—I may say conviction—that the perusal of it and of the answer of Mr. Petherbridge (the Chairman of the Public Meeting at which a certain placard was posted), in addition to the evidence on record, taken before the Board of Inquiry on the 11th of October, must be ample to establish all that it is material should be established, viz. : facts sufficient to prove my perfect justification in having accused Mr. R. B. Mitchell as a "blasphemer," and alluded to him as a "brawler and a sot," incidentally but truthfully, and in self-defence.

Aware that my presence might be very well dispensed with at the inquiry appointed by Captain Battye, I transmitted to that gentleman a list of questions which I wished to be answered by the witnesses subpoenaed on my part; and I am quite sure, sir, that it must be palpable to common sense, that the answers to any questions that could be asked of me could not possibly affect the validity of the testimony of any person whatever, as to his knowledge of Mr. Mitchell's proceedings before I came to Molong, or had ever seen him. If this be admitted—which the enclosed document must render obvious—I respectfully ask of you, sir, to be pleased to instruct Captain Battye simply to transmit my queries to the several gentlemen respectively, desiring that their answer may be returned to your office. Of course I will readily answer—and on oath—any questions whatever that Mr. Mitchell or his advisers may put to me in writing, pertinent to the issue.

I can assure you, sir, that amongst my intellectual friends and acquaintances, inclusive of several of your honorable colleagues in Parliament, lawyers and magistrates, gentlemen of the highest authority, are of opinion that I am borne out by facts, in the belief that so far from there having been any real necessity for my attendance at Molong, my presence was not desirable, but on the contrary, that in order to avert personal collision with the violent persons persons notorious for their animosity to me, my absence was proper, unless any specific reason for requiring me to give evidence had been signified, which was not even pretended. No doubt Captain Baitye was very thankful to be relieved of an onerous and painful duty, viz., that of holding an inquiry into and reporting conscientiously upon the conduct of his own brother Magistrates and intimate friends and acquaintances, with one of whom, viz., Mr. Sibthorpe himself, the Captain had been on a visit not many days before I left Molong.

In common fairness towards me it ought surely to be borne in mind, instead of being entirely ignored, that without calling a single witness, I was and am content to rest my justification on the unburnt evidence already on record; and fortunately, sir, in your own office, viz., that of the witnesses examined on the 11th of October, in the presence of Mr. Barton, by whom their testimony was deemed conclusive, as having established each of my three allegations; and of Mr. Sibthorpe, who, under the verbal but strenuous protest of the Chairman of the Board, had the temerity to report your honorable and grossly imposed-on predecessor, that "all the witnesses examined distinctly and positively contradicted the whole of my charges against Mr. Mitchell," the purport and meaning of whose evidence, already laid before you, sir, and previously to your administration, before the Executive Council, is open to all the world, and as competent to be judged of by any persons of plain understanding and honesty of purpose, as by the writer of the infamous perjured report and his three unscrupulous abettors, whom, in my last communication, I felt constrained to accuse, by no means indirectly of deliberate perjury, and of a foul conspiracy to pervert the course of justice, each one of them being a Magistrate of the Colony, and a sworn "Justice!" of the Peace. These charges, sir, I now solemnly reiterate, and bring before you and the Honorable the Executive Council officially; and have the honor to intimate my desire as well as my ability to prosecute the same to conviction, through the constitutional channel—I mean through the agency of the Honorable Attorney General—which I am assured is "my right, as a British subject;" and I will prove to you and to the Government under which I had the honor both faithfully and satisfactorily to discharge the duties of a respectable and responsible situation—if but a humble appointment for a man of my length of service—until condemned on the wilfully false and wicked report of four magisterial confederates, and dismissed the Government service on the 31st of October last, ruined and disgraced, after two and thirty years of faithful and acknowledged services, as a useful and trustworthy servant of the Crown,—I will prove, sir, to the Government and to my fellow-colonists, and more especially to the Magistrates of the Molong Bench, that I possess sufficient moral courage, not only to denounce blasphemy, drinking, and fighting, in a profligate young brother officer, when occasion demanded an expression of my reprobation of and disgust at conduct by which Mr. Sibthorpe's protégé had the audacity to insult me, by daring to propose for my sanction and concurrence the most infamous and intensified blasphemy, which was his glory, and in which he is now officially justified and supported by the countenance, and therefore ostensibly at least, by the approval of the Government; but it shall also be seen, that I am the man who, in the just and open vindication of his character—far dearer than life—and in justice to himself and family, will not be deterred by false delicacy from coming forward manfully to prosecute, and I trust to bring to condign punishment, not merely an atrocious reprobate "of good family," but four magnates who have deliberately abused their sacred trust as Magistrates, and violated the Seat and Bench of Justice, by employing the great and responsible power with which they are invested by the Government, as "Justices," to screen and vindicate a great and notorious delinquent, quite regardless of their partiality and anxiety to protect their aristocratic friend, blasting the character, position, and prospects of an old colonist, certainly not inferior to either of themselves, except in wealth.

The conduct of Dr. Ross in this affair is also so disgraceful, in having stated on honor to the Board of Inquiry that "he never saw Mr. Mitchell drunk," and in becoming his vindicator after having urged me to prosecute him as everything that is depraved, and assuring me that "it could hardly be said of Mr. Mitchell that he was ever sober, and that he "was so drunk he could hardly stand when he insulted and assaulted Mr. Tulloch at Mr. C. C. L. Whitty's, which he, Dr. Ross, witnessed," that I feel it but proper to include that individual with his four confederates in the charge of "conspiracy," substituting, in his case, the word "lying" for "perjury," as the ceremony of an oath had been dispensed with, as quite unnecessary, on the suggestion of Mr. Sibthorpe, and Dr. Ross not being in the Commission of the Peace at that time was consequently unsworn.

These charges being of a criminal character, and their legal proof being essential to the ends of justice, in order to remove disgrace and ruin from an innocent and injured man, who has hitherto enjoyed an unblemished character not only, but a well-earned reputation for integrity, honor, and usefulness, and it has been said ability, in the civil service of the Crown, two years in England, and thirty years in Australia; and if my charges be unfounded, it being essential that this should be proved, in order both to vindicate the purity of the Commission of the Peace, and to avert obloquy and penal consequences from five Magistrates against any one of whom I would, as a gentleman, scorn to insinuate blame, I therefore embrace this occasion fearlessly to assert, that Mr. Sibthorpe was (if not drunk, which far be it from me to say that he was, according to his own idea and definition of "drunkenness") greatly excited under the influence of liquor, when he first came from the Freemason's Hotel to the Court House, on the 11th of October, and rather more so on his return to the Board of Inquiry to give his own evidence on honor (not on oath, but to be acted on by himself and other sworn Magistrates!) and to draw up the "Report" for the Board, after a second visit to Moon's Inn.

Should I fail to establish these allegations, as of course I must not expect, neither shall I ask for any mercy at the hands of the Government; for if proved guilty "of wilful and and infamous violation of the ninth commandment" (of which I accuse Mr. Sibthorpe and his four tools) I can deserve none; but, sir, on the other hand, if I shall—and I trust ere long—have proved to you and to your Cabinet, and to my fellow-colonists, which are "the world" to me, that the very conduct for which I have been so strangely condemned, and, without a moment's warning, dismissed with indignity and with official rebuke, as a very wrong-doer, causing my character to be publicly aspersed and blasted throughout this Colony not only, but also in Victoria, in which my family are resident and I am well known, is fairly and truly entitled actually to commendation (which I assert, and will maintain, sir, that it is), and to the approval instead of reprehension of the Government whose Prime Minister I have the honor and the pain thus to address; I will in that event hope for such public retraction of the public condemnation through the Gazette, wrongfully but officially inflicted on me, and if my life be spared, such substantial redress of grievous injury as strictly impartial JUSTICE, administered in the kindly spirit of sympathy, may award, as on merits due to me under such flagitious circumstances, as by dint of resolution I shall have clearly exposed to your just indignation, and to that of every right-minded man in the community.

Whilst calmly reposing on the belief which could alone support me under this severe trial of my fortitude, as enunciated in the last few lines of my letter of the 11th instant, I would be permitted respectfully to draw your attention to the fact that I am at present the victim of a series of cruel delays, which greatly aggravate, by prolonging my sufferings and distress, proceeding from "Molong justice."

I have, &c.,
N. L. KENTISH.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to F. H. STEPHEN, ESQ.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 15 March, 1860.

SIR,

I am directed by the Attorney General to mention, with reference to a written statement made and sworn before you by Mr. N. L. Kentish, that it ought not to have been made on oath, and that you have perhaps laid yourself open to an indictment for the unlawful administration of an oath. I am desired by the Attorney General to add, that you should not administer oaths unless on proceedings duly instituted in the Supreme Court.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

SECRETARY TO CROWN LAW OFFICERS to MR. N. L. KENTISH.

Crown Law Offices,
Sydney, 16 March, 1860.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, I am directed by Sir W. M. Manning to inform you that the former papers relating to the charges preferred by you against certain Justices of the Molong Bench, having been procured from the Colonial Secretary's Office, he has carefully examined same, and that, though he is not himself quite satisfied with reference to the inquiry into Mr. Mitchell's conduct, he does not see sufficient grounds to justify him in inviting the Executive to re-open the matter. The subject has been before the Governments of Mr. Cowper and Mr. Forster, and has been finally disposed of, and from them there is of course no appeal to the Attorney General; although, upon strong grounds, he might submit any question belonging to his department for reconsideration. I am further desired to state, that your information contains no charge which could be entertained as constituting a legally criminal offence. The Magistrates complained of were acting as an official Board, and were not, even in the remote sense relied upon by you, to be regarded as on oath when they sent in their report; nor if they were in that sense upon oath, would perjury be assignable upon the report. Moreover, the Attorney General sees no justification for the intemperate language used by you in reference to those gentlemen. The Attorney General states, that the facility with which you have lavished your strong epithets upon them inclines him to suspect that your representations as to Mr. Mitchell were exaggerated, though he doubts not, honest. The Attorney General thinks you had no right to make your statement upon oath before Mr. Stephen, nor should Mr. Stephen have administered the oath, as there was no proceeding instituted on which the oath could lawfully be administered. Mr. Stephen has been warned, that, as a Commissioner for taking affidavits, he had no authority to administer the oath in question; and that he might be indicted if he is not careful to confine himself within legal limits.

I have, &c.,
W. E. PLUNKETT.

Mr. N. L. KENTISH to ATTORNEY GENERAL.

399, Pitt-street, Sydney;
21 March, 1860.

SIR,

The communication with which I am this day honored (of the 16th instant), informing me that the averments of my information are insufficient to constitute a criminal offence legally indictable, against the five Molong Justices (for Dr. Ross is now a "J.P."), I am necessarily driven to the Civil Law, for redress of such serious and wilful injury of the worst kind, as my circumstances would not permit me to pass over, even if it were of a nature that might with propriety be unheeded by a gentleman, which, however, I can never admit that to be which impeaches character, and that specifically, as, in the present instance, mine is denounced officially with all the weight and influence of a solemn award from the Bench of a Police "Court of Justice," bearing the signatures of four Magistrates formally addressed to the first Minister of the Crown, and through him to the Executive Council, for the obvious purpose of vindicating and supporting a blasphemous reprobate of the superlative degree, and of procuring the dismissal of his senior brother officer, as a "malicious slanderer," for presuming to take offence at so innocent a pleasantry, in a "gentleman of quality," as that of his merely invoking "eternal damnation on his soul!" in accordance with an aristocratic habit in which he had exulted, during the eighteen months that the Magistrates and inhabitants of the district of Molong enjoyed the honor and advantage of Mr. Richard Blunt Mitchell's exemplary conduct as a gentleman and valuable services as Clerk of Petty Sessions, being (for so he himself told the Chairman of the Bench, in Court, that he was) a "better born and better educated man than him," the senior Magistrate in the district.

As you have procured the proceedings of the so-called "Court of Inquiry," and carefully examined the same, I have no longer any need to affirm that which is now officially within your own knowledge, viz., that Mr. Sibthorpe's Report to the Honorable Premier, that "my imputations on Mr. Mitchell's moral character, called 'charges,' are distinctly and positively contradicted by all the witnesses examined by the Bench," is as wilful and deliberate a violation of truth and of justice, committed officially by Magistrates in their judicial capacity, with the premeditated corrupt intention of screening and acquitting the guilty and condemning the innocent, from interested motives and partiality to the accused, as can be found in the annals of crime in the whole British Empire, since the dark days of Judge Jeffries. I am assured, sir, and am rejoiced to hear, that a case of such atrocity is happily quite unprecedented in this Colony; and, therefore, am not at all surprised that "Sir William Manning is not himself quite satisfied"—it would be indeed surprising if he were!—with reference to the inquiry into Mr. Mitchell's conduct; for, if he were, I would venture my life on the issue, that of all the educated and especially legally qualified gentlemen who yet are or hereafter may become acquainted with the peculiar merits of this truly flagitious case, H.M.'s Attorney General would be the only person in Australia to avow himself satisfied with that conduct of the Commissioner of Crown Lands and his co-magisterial conspirators, which I doubt not that a special jury will characterize as "judicial falsehood and corruption of such enormity, as to constitute 'virtual perjury' of the very worst and most 'heinous description;'" and if, through the artfulness of the ringleader of the band of five conspirators, in not taking the evidence on oath, the case is by that ingenious and well-considered manœuvre kept out of the Criminal Court, that it is nevertheless so closely linked with legal, as well as steeped in moral perjury, as to command, without the jurors' withdrawal from the jury-box, as an unequivocal expression of their sentiments and indignation with respect to the conduct of these infamous conspirators, the full amount at which the damages are laid, viz., Mr. Sibthorpe £1,000, and the other four £500 each. My charges of blasphemy, brawling, and seditiousness, which you found distinctly and positively affirmed and proved by all five of the witnesses, which Mr. Sibthorpe and Co. certified to the Colonial Secretary that they contradicted, is further confirmed by the written testimony of Mr. Snow, which you have seen, and of Mr. Petherbridge, which remains with Captain Battye.

After five months of ruinous forbearance, which (from a false delicacy, I now perceive) I have endured, in the hope that the Government would relieve me of the painful duty of becoming the prosecutor, being at length compelled to resort to an action at law, I should not presume, sir, to trouble you further on this subject; but in order to explain, which it is right that I should do, that I am too long and too well acquainted with official business to have dreamt of appealing to the Honorable Attorney General, from the Executive Government, whose officer he is. But, sir, I had been advised, that "on lodging my information at your office the accused parties would, as a matter of course, be called on by the Attorney General to defend themselves, and be bound over to appear before a jury on my definite charge formally preferred on oath, of 'Perjury in their judicial capacity as sworn Magistrates'" On the Civil side of the Supreme Court, they will now be proved "morally guilty" of that atrocious crime, and to have effectuated perjury of the most aggravated and heinous description, in violation of the spirit, if not of the letter, of the Criminal Law.

As a reading and thinking person I have ever, in my intercourse with the world, so cherished and aimed at acting on the apothegm "mild words, but strong arguments," that I trust I cannot have been betrayed by my undeniably warm feelings of indignation and disgust at conduct the most flagitious and malevolent, to employ any epithet "improperly." Certainly none but the very strongest can be suitable to designate such outrageous and unparalleled blasphemy, boastfully persevered in for years, as that in which Mr. Mitchell is at present virtually (may I not say "literally"?) supported; or such horrible and unprecedented violation of truth and justice, and decorum; as that which disgraced the sacred "Bench of Justice" at Molong, on the 11th of October, when Mr. Sibthorpe, in a state verging on intoxication, drew up (in open defiance of the protest of the Chairman of the Bench), and his three "complying friends" subscribed, a wilful and deliberate falsehood no less palpable than corrupt—as you are now perfectly aware, sir, having seen the evidence—for the express purpose of convicting an innocent and acquitting a guilty person, whose conduct respectively, they, as Magistrates, were instructed by the Government to inquire into and report upon.

Mr. Warburton not taking my deposition at the Police Office, instead of swearing it before a Magistrate, who, when aware of the serious charge it contained, might also be disinclined to perform an unpleasant duty not imperative on him, I thought that a Commissioner of Affidavits was the proper officer to resort to; and I fear that I may, though quite unintentionally, have misled Mr. Stephen, as I undoubtedly told him that the document "related to my row with young Mitchell, and with the Molong Magistrates, his thirk and thin supporters," or words to that effect; on which, without reading it through deliberately, but altering the introductory sentence only, the oath was administered to me as to the truth of my statements. I am grieved to find that I have been the cause of Mr. Stephen falling into an irregularity, if such be the case; but unless the just complaint of an aggrieved subject of the Queen be stifled, there must, sir, be some functionary, whose duty it is to receive an information, and give to it validity by swearing the informant to its truth. In the country districts the Police Magistrate is such functionary.

This painful business having brought me into correspondence with H. M. Attorney General, I trust, sir, that the candour is not indecorous with which I have the honor to give expression to the reasons which have determined me to prosecute my false and malignant accusers, for "libel and defamation," in the Civil Court, whom you have felt it proper to decline to prosecute criminally on my information, viz., the imperative necessity to vindicate my character, and to set myself right with my friends and the public in and beyond this Colony, but especially with the Honorable Colonial Secretary, and with the Government, by a thorough exposure of the conspiracy, and inconceivable wickedness, falsehood, and injustice of the five confederated Magistrates, of whose mendacity, I have been the last five months, and yet am, the VICTIM; whilst their charming protégé, of somewhat peculiar celebrity, the bepraised and patronised, the meritorious and approved, the amiable and distinguished Government officer, my predecessor at Molong, has been and is, the worthy beneficiare.

Trusting, sir, that my letter of the 7th instant has been duly referred to the Honorable William Forster, as it has reference to that gentleman personally, viz., to the late Premier (see the last sentence in it)—

I have, &c.,

N. L. KENTISH.

MILITARY ASSISTANCE TO NEW ZEALAND.
(DESPATCH.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE COLONIES to THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

(No. 58.)

Downing-street,
27 June, 1860.

SIR,

I have received your Despatch, No. 42, of the 12th of April last, reporting the measures which you had taken, on the application of the Governor of New Zealand, for affording Military assistance to that Colony, in consequence of the native outbreak at Taranaki; and I have to express the acknowledgments of Her Majesty's Government of the prompt measures which you adopted, and of the willing co-operation afforded by the Government of New South Wales, in dispatching all the available force in the Colony to the succour of New Zealand.

I have, &c.,

EXPENDITURE FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE IN 1858.

(RETURN IN REFERENCE TO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 18 October, 1860.

RETURN to an Order made by the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated 27 September, 1859, That there be laid upon the Table of this House,—

“ A Return—supplementary to the Return ordered to be “ printed on the 20th instant—of the Annual Expenditure for
“ the Civil Service of the Colony for the year 1858, shewing
“ the separate Cost of each Department, and the proportion of “ the Total to each head of the Population, approximately “ ascertained, with an accompanying Explanation of the causes
“ of Increase or Decrease in the amount for each respective “ Service.”

(Mr. Parkes.)

EXPENDITURE FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE IN 1858.

THE AUDITOR GENERAL to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

Audit Office, Sydney,
11 October, 1860.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to enclose, in compliance with your letter of the 23th September, 1859, a Return of the Expenditure for the Civil Service of the Colony, for the year 1858, in comparison with the year 1857, and to point out, for the information of the Honorable the Principal Secretary, that it is impossible to prepare these comparative Returns in a satisfactory manner thus soon after the termination of the periods for which they are required. The system of making advances of cash to Public Officers on Estimates of their requirements, which was in force up to September, 1858, prevented the amount of expenditure being ascertained with sufficient accuracy for such Returns as these until the advances were adjusted and the vouchers thoroughly audited.

This process has been, and is, very much interfered with by the preparation of the numerous and voluminous Returns required by Parliament, which have to be compiled by the gentlemen of the Department on whom of necessity devolves the discharge of its current duties.

In illustration of this, I may mention that the expenditure shewn in the enclosed Return as for 1857 differs considerably from that shewn in the Return for the years 1851 to 1857—the preparation of which occupied the time that would otherwise have been devoted to the examination and adjustment of advances then outstanding.

2. The present system of cash credits (established in October, 1858) admits of the expenditure for services being taken at once, so far as payments have been made, and reported by public accountants. Even this, however, superior as it is to the previous system, does not, until the expenditure has been audited, afford the means for preparing a Return of Expenditure that can be vouched for as accurate by this Department.

3. Taking into account further, that the services to be paid for, for any year, are not confined to Sydney, nor to a moderate distance from it, but extend over the whole Colony, and in some items to the neighboring Colonies, it will be seen at once that the whole expenditure for a year cannot be ascertained for many months after it has been terminated, more especially as great delay often occurs in the presentation of claims on account of services rendered. There is moreover a large expenditure in England which cannot be brought early to account, and experience has abundantly proved that a period of twelve months after the expiry of any one year is little enough to allow for the presentation and payment of all claims, and several months in addition for finally auditing and closing the accounts of Parliamentary Votes and Appropriations.

I bring these points under notice to explain beforehand that the similar Return called for by your letter of 21st May, 1860, for comparison of 1858 with 1859, cannot be accurately prepared until some time after the close of the present year.

I have, &c.,

W. C. MAYNE,
A. G.

* The increase which will be observed in these sums over those stated in the Comparative Statement for 1856-7, arises from further expenditure brought to account since that statement was prepared. The alteration, however, will not materially alter the reasons given for Increase or Decrease on comparison of the year 1856 with 1857.

Service of the Colony of New South Wales, in the Years 1857 and 1858.

INCREASE.	DECREASE.	CAUSE OF INCREASE OR DECREASE.
230	The larger amount incurred for the Travelling Expenses of His Excellency the Governor General, and the purchase of Horses for the Orderlies.
1,329	The payment of Salary to the President in 1858, the office having been held during 1857 by an Officer in receipt of a Pension to an equal amount; and the appointment of a Door-keeper at £120.
.....	93	The vacancies in the offices of Speaker and Chairman of Committees, from 20th December, 1857, to 23rd and 25th March, 1858, respectively, modified by extra expenditure occasioned through the length of the Session of 1858.
594	Additional expense for Shorthand Writing, for the Library, and for the Refreshment Room.
32	The increase from £275 to £300 in the salary of a Clerk of the 2nd class, and the appointment of an Assistant Clerk, from the 23rd February, 1857.
.....	260	The transfer of two Clerks to other Departments towards the close of the year, and diminished Contingent Expenditure.
13	Incidental difference in Contingencies.
36	The re-establishment of the office of Government Resident, from the 12th October, 1858.
.....	612	A less amount paid for Clerical assistance, and for Contingent Expenses generally.
1,478	Chiefly a larger amount paid for Country Post Offices, for Temporary Extra Clerks and Sorters, and general Contingencies.
3,197	Further extension of Postal lines.
119	} The larger amount which accrued from the Clergy and School Estates Revenue in 1858.
119
.....	17	Incidental reduction, through vacancies, in the amount paid for Salaries; also, a less amount for Contingencies.
140	The employment of two additional persons, and increase in the rate of Salary to the Teacher, Nurses, and others already on the Establishment.
.....
250	The payment of Salary from 1st July, 1858, for the Warden of St. John's College (Roman Catholic).
.....
.....	520	The grant for the introduction of Immigrants in 1858 was less by £25,000 than that for the previous year, and consequently reduced the amount of expenses after arrival.
.....	25,950
175	The incidental nature of this expenditure.
.....	2,184	The expense of 1857 includes payments for several months, at the rates proposed in the Estimates for that year, under a vote of credit and in excess of that ultimately voted. The vote and expenditure for the service of 1858 correspond nearly to the reduced vote of 1857.
1,809	The appointment of additional Police Magistrates, and additions to the Constabulary, and difference in Contingent Expenditure.
534	The expenditure consequent upon the re-organization of the Force in 1857 did not commence with the beginning of that year.
1,708	The higher cost of Forage, and a larger expense incurred for Contingencies generally.
2,666	The extension of Escorts in the Northern and Southern Gold Districts.
666	The appointment of a Messenger to the Gaol, Parramatta, and the larger expense incurred for supplies to these establishments generally.
295	Chiefly the additional expense incurred by the substitution of a Police for the Military Guard during a portion of the year 1858.
390	The increasing business of the Department.
179	The appointment of a Messenger, and the allowance of £20 per annum each to ten Meteorological Observers at different stations throughout the Colony.
.....	7	Incidental variations.

† These decreases of amount are owing to transposition of figures inadvertently made in the former Statement. They do not, however, affect the statement of causes of Increase or Decrease.

SIR,

I have the honor to acquaint you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, that the following Returns have been duly received from the Deputy Master of the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, in conformity with the Order in Council of the 19th of August, 1853 :—

Six Monthly Returns, shewing the transactions in Bullion of the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, from July to December, 1859, inclusive.

The Coin issued during these months is as follows :—

	SOVEREIGNS.	HALF-SOVEREIGNS.	TOTAL.
	ozs.	ozs.	ozs.
In July	20,544.27
August	20,540.62
September	25,168.63
October	25,681.85
November	36,981.32
December	53,424.38

Amount charged for Coinage—Nil.

Two Returns of Waste in Coinage of Gold at the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, for the Quarters ending 30th September and 31st December, 1859.

Two Duplicate Returns made by the Board of Verification to the Colonial Secretary, reporting the state of the Bullion in the Mint on the 1st October, 1859, and 3rd January, 1860.

I have also to request you to submit to their Lordships my Report enclosed (being the fourteenth) of the weight and fineness of Coins produced at the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, during the six months, July to December, inclusive, and transmitted by the Deputy Master for examination, in accordance with the provisions of Her Majesty's Order in Council above referred to.

A copy of the aforesaid Report will be forwarded to the Deputy Master at Sydney for his information.

I am, &c.,

THO. GRAHAM.

FOURTEENTH REPORT addressed to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by the Master of the Mint, on the weight and fineness of Gold Coins struck at the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, and transmitted by the Deputy Master for examination, in accordance with the provisions of Her Majesty's Order in Council of 19 August, 1853.

Pieces taken without preference by the Colonial Secretary, at the deliveries of the Sydney Mint.

During the Quarter ending 30 September, 1859 :—

Denomination of Coin.	No. of Pieces.	Total Weight in Ounces.	Average Weight of a Piece in Ounces.	Average Proportion of Gold in 1,000 parts.
Sovereigns	106	27.220	0.25679	916.926

During the Quarter ending 31 December, 1859 :—

Denomination of Coin.	No. of Pieces.	Total Weight in Ounces.	Average Weight of a Piece in Ounces.	Average Proportion of Gold in 1,000 parts.
Sovereigns	151	38.784	0.25635	916.877

The standard weight of the Sovereign being 0.25682 oz. Troy, and the standard fineness, 916.67 in 1,000 parts.

KIANDRA GOLD FIELDS.

(REPORT FROM COMMISSIONER IN CHARGE OF SOUTHERN GOLD FIELDS.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

COMMISSIONER IN CHARGE OF THE SOUTHERN GOLD FIELDS to SECRETARY FOR LANDS.

Gold Commissioner's Office,
Kiandra, 15 September, 1860.

SIR,

The Assistant Commissioners at Braidwood and Adelong having, doubtless, already reported to you on the Gold Fields immediately under their charge, I do myself the honor in this communication to confine myself to the Kiandra District.

2. KIANDRA.—On this field I estimate the total population at about 3,000 persons. The miners are generally doing well, though great difficulties have to be contended with,—floods constantly recurring, and undoing the preparatory work necessary for mining operations in the river bed. The claims there are being worked over in some cases for the third and fourth time, and are still remunerative. The surfacing still continues rich, and several fine nuggets have been found; one still in my possession weighing twenty-seven pounds, of which about seven pounds is quartz. The diggings are extending both up and down the river below this to a distance of about five miles. The township of Kiandra has much increased, and opposite the Camp another township, or rather a continuation of the one originally formed, is rapidly springing up. Carriage, however, is not to be procured, and all the wood used for building purposes has to be drawn in by men. A lockup and guard-room has been built in the present township, where two men are always on duty.

3. FOUR MILE.—About two hundred persons are here at work. One puddling machine has been erected, reservoirs built, long races cut, and the ground paying well for 200. ground sluicing. The gold found is of a superior character to that of Kiandra.

4. NINE MILE.—On this digging there are about four hundred persons, and the ground sluicing well remunerating all parties. From here I think a large digging will extend, good prospects having been obtained in its neighbourhood. Into the side of one hill two tunnels have been cut, one already being two hundred feet in length. The miners so engaged seem sanguine as to the result, as the ground through which they have gone presents a very satisfactory appearance. For these parties I have reserved on the crown of the hill a considerable area of ground, out of which they can choose their claims when the lead shall have been struck. The want of water is the chief drawback to these diggings, and one which is severely felt in winter, when the springs are frozen; at present, however, there is a sufficient supply, which I doubt not will continue during the summer. A lockup and guard-room will here shortly be completed, where a serjeant and two men will be permanently stationed. Many stores are being established, which draw their supplies from Denison.

5. TUMUT.—The gold here is of a rich character, and far superior to that of Kiandra. The digging, however, is attended with great difficulty, the river being confined within very steep banks, which renders the cutting of flood races difficult and expensive. I believe, however, however, that the Tumut River will produce rich diggings. One party procured through the whole length of a large claim prospects varying from three and a-half to five pennyweights to the dish.

3¼ dwts;
5 dwts.

6. WEST DENISON.—Many substantial stores have here been erected, and the prospects of the trading community seem to be very satisfactory. In the bed of the Eucumbene River, not far from this place, some claims have lately been opened and fair prospects obtained. A lockup and guard-room, with small barrack, has been built, and a serjeant, detective constable, and two men, are already there stationed.

7. DENISON.—At the last sale held here the allotments fetched very high prices, but only about one-half of the purchases were completed. The success of this place depends much on the progress of the Nine Mile diggings, for which place it is the principal depôt, possessing also the advantage of avoiding the river.

8. ADANIMIBBY.—Mr. Surveyor Edwards is here busily engaged in laying out farm allotments, which I think will be much sought after, and a valuable township will also eventually in my opinion be established.

9. SNOWY PLAIN.—About fifty or sixty miners were at this place in my last visit. The general character of the diggings did not strike me as indicating a rich gold field; the gold, however, has a very beautiful appearance, though of light weight. In the country surrounding there are many places where quartz and other auriferous indications abound.

10. ROADS.—The road between this and Denison will be completed by the end of this month, at least so far as to render it practicable for dray communication. The bad weather has much delayed this work, and carriage was not to be obtained. The cost will be for the works now in hand, £2,650. Between Denison and Adanimibby much yet requires to be done, and between the latter place and Cooma several parts of the road are almost impassable. Several public-houses have been licensed along this line of road, and business licenses issued, so that by the end of the month I think sufficient provision will be made for those on the way to the Kiandra Gold Fields.

11. As to the prospects of the Gold Fields generally, I believe Kiandra to be the centre of rich and extensive diggings. The ground already opened is, however, but barely sufficient for the present population, consequently no person ought to come here for the purpose of mining, without the means of supporting himself for one or two months, to enable him to prospect for that time. Should such a class of miners come here I have no doubt but that they will be well rewarded. The majority of the late arrivals, however, are, I regret to say, men of but little experience, and with not even means sufficient to purchase their mining tools. With such a class new discoveries are of course impossible. Besides which, the mode of effectually working these gold fields requires both skill and money. Flumes have in some cases to be constructed, and almost invariably extensive flood and head races have to be cut.

12. The police arrangements are for the present sufficient, although preparations should be made for a considerable augmentation of both foot and mounted men by the commencement of November next. Taken as a whole, the mining population in the Kiandra district, as yet are quite as orderly as that of any other Gold Field on which I have yet been.

13. The escort returns shew that up to this date, 49,680 ounces 9 pennyweights and 7 grains, have been forwarded to the Mint; and taking, at a very low estimate, the quantity of gold sent down by private hands and consigned to other places, I am confident that upwards of 60,000 ounces have been procured in this district since its discovery. I annex in a tabular form the number of stores, &c., at present erected in the different Gold Fields comprised in the District of Kiandra.

SOUTHERN GOLD FIELDS.

(REPORT FROM DEPUTY MASTER OF THE MINT, AND PROFESSOR SMITH, OF THE UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 27 September, 1860.

THE DEPUTY MASTER OF THE MINT and PROFESSOR SMITH, University of Sydney, to THE HONORABLE THE COLONIAL SECRETARY, reporting on their Visit to the Southern Gold Fields.

Sydney, 22 August, 1860.

SIR,

Having concluded a tour of the principal Southern Gold Fields of this Colony, and a portion of those of Victoria, undertaken with the approval of the Government, and in pursuance of the design set forth in Captain Ward's letter to the Treasury, dated 15 May last, we have now the honor to submit the following Report:—

The main object of the tour having been to ascertain the character of machinery best adapted for extracting gold from auriferous quartz, and to collect information as to the difficulties experienced in treating quartz impregnated with "mundic,"* we deemed it advisable to take that route which would permit of a general survey of the principal Southern Gold Fields, with a more particular examination of Adelong and Bendigo—the leading quartz fields of this and the neighbouring Colony. Accordingly, on the 21st May, we went by steamer to Nelligen, and thence to Braidwood, and the auriferous valley of the Araluen. From this we proceeded to Queanbeyan, whence, as the time at our disposal and means of conveyance were limited, one took the route to Kiandra via Cooma, and from Kiandra to Tumut; the other the route by Yass and Gundagai to Tumut. Then we visited the gold field of the Lower Adelong, and afterwards proceeded through Albury, Yacandandah, Beechworth, and Melbourne, to Bendigo, and having inspected the latest improvements in quartz-crushing introduced there, we returned to Melbourne, and thence to Sydney via Two-fold Bay.

The Braidwood diggings, being of an alluvial character, did not claim from us any particular investigation. The sinkings are mostly shallow. The bed rock is granite, except on the Mongarlow where it is clayslate. In the Araluen Valley (the most populous part of these diggings at present) the "washing stuff" is commonly a bed of coarse gravel and rolled boulders lying on granite at a depth of 20 to 25 feet. In working the claims, the superincumbent detritus is removed entirely from the auriferous layer, so that large pits are formed which floods fill up again, thus occasioning much extra labor. There is a constant drain of water into the claims, which requires a good deal of labor and machine power to get rid of. Quartz is described as being tolerably abundant on the Mongarlow, and if experimental crushing machinery were erected at the Mint samples would be sent to be tested. A quartz reef is being worked at Moruya, but operations are impeded as at Adelong by the presence of "mundic."

Altogether we were favorably impressed with the productiveness of the Braidwood Gold Field, and led to believe that it is yet capable of much further development.

6—A

Our

* The term "mundic" is applied by miners chiefly to iron pyrites, but is employed also to designate other ores having a similar appearance.

Our visit to Kiandra was undertaken at the request of the Government rather with the hope of collecting information as to the state of the roads connecting it with the centre of population and the sources of supply, than for the purpose of examining the geological features of the country, for which the time at our command was too limited.

The existing communications between Kiandra and the principal towns and agricultural districts, according to data supplied to us by the Surveyor General, are,—

- 1.—From Sydney viâ Goulburn, Bungendore, Queanbeyan, Micalago, and Cooma, 312 miles.
- 2.—From Sydney viâ Goulburn, Yass, Gundagai, Tumut, Yarringobilli, 330 miles.
- 3.—From Sydney to Nelligen by water (165 miles), thence through Braidwood, Queanbeyan, and Cooma (190 miles), 355 miles.
- 4.—From Sydney to Merimbula by water (243 miles), thence to Kiandra by land (135 miles), 378 miles.
- 5.—From Sydney to Eden by water (255 miles), thence to Kiandra by land (140 miles), 395 miles.

The additional communications proposed to be opened are,—

- 1.—From Sydney and Nelligen, leaving the road between Nelligen and Braidwood at Monga, and proceeding viâ Major's Creek and Jingera, joining the road between Queanbeyan and Cooma near the Bredbo, and thence to Kiandra, by water, 165 miles; by land, 170 miles;* 335 miles.
- 2.—From Sydney by the main road to Yass, thence direct to Kiandra, 270 miles.

In considering these several routes it will be sufficient for the purpose of this Report to view that by Merimbula as identical with that by Eden, since the ultimate superiority of either will depend on the comparative facilities offered at the respective ports for landing and embarking goods and passengers. As regards the remainder, if we assume for the sake of comparison that goods conveyed by land travel at the average rate of 10 miles per day, and those by steam at 180 miles with equal ease, it will follow, after making due allowance for the facilities which the short length of railway can offer, that the journey, in point of time and trouble, from Sydney to Kiandra viâ Eden is shorter by nearly one-half than that by any existing land route, to which even the route by Nelligen and Braidwood is, in point of distance, preferable.

The following facts are in support of this conclusion. The cost of carriage in June last from Cooma to Sydney by the best available land route was £30 per ton; that by Eden was £16 10s. per ton, of which the water-carriage was but 30s.† The average time consumed on the former journey exceeds one month, that on the latter (assuming the sea portion to be performed by steamer) does not exceed 18 days. Even during the time of year most favorable for land carriage, there is a saving both in time and charges in sending goods to Sydney viâ Eden, and it is probably only on account of imperfect arrangements at the port of shipment, and the present deficiency of teams in the district, that the Eden route is not generally preferred.

This route, however, is at present attended with all the risks due to the want of suitable landing-places for goods, and of sufficient means for their conveyance between Sydney and Twofold Bay. But these are obstacles which will, no doubt, soon be removed or rendered insignificant by the erection of wharves and piers should the Kiandra diggings prove as auriferous as is anticipated.

Though the above facts are sufficient to justify the conclusion that the route by Eden will eventually obtain the preference over all existing means of communication between Sydney and Kiandra, there are advantages possessed by another which has been surveyed but not yet completed, perhaps sufficient to counterbalance, if not exceed, any which the Eden route can offer.

The route before referred to as No. 1 of those proposed, will consist of 170 miles of land, and of 165 miles of water-carriage. The former is in excess of the land journey viâ Eden

* We have been assured by persons conversant with the country that this distance is over-estimated by about 25 miles.

† The charge of conveyance from Cooma to Kiandra would, in each case, be additional to these charges.

Eden by only 30 miles, whilst the country through which it will pass, after surmounting the coast range, is comparatively flat, and in that respect preferable. Passing, as it will, through, or near to the best part of the Braidwood diggings (Araluen, Major's Creek, Bell's Paddock, &c.), it will be the readiest and best means of connecting two most important centres of production with the metropolis, and by placing two such auriferous districts in direct communication with each other, will tend to lessen the fluctuations of price in the necessaries of life, and in other ways contribute to their mutual prosperity.

From personal experience of a portion of the roads, together with conversation with many intelligent persons possessing a good knowledge of the country, our conclusion is that the road from Nelligen via Monga, Major's Creek, and Cooma, will form the best means of communication between Sydney and Kiandra; and that it ought to be constructed and maintained for that object. There are certain goods, as tea, sugar, and other imported articles, which can be supplied to Kiandra cheaper from the metropolis than from any inland town; and it is obviously due to the large population that will assuredly assemble at these diggings, to furnish them with the means, so far as roads are concerned, of obtaining their supplies from the cheapest possible source.

As regards the improvement and construction of the other roads noticed, it appears to us that the primary actuating principle should be—to provide facilities whereby Kiandra may be supplied with the necessaries of life, and other articles of consumption and use at the cheapest rate; and thus to offer inducements for the permanent settlement of population in that country. The Districts of Tumut, Gundagai, Yass, Queanbeyan, Braidwood, and Goulburn (being mostly agricultural, and capable of supplying Kiandra with this class of necessaries), should have their means of communication with it improved in proportion to the necessities of the diggings,—the nearest and most fertile district receiving the first and greatest consideration. It would be obviously unjust towards a rich agricultural district like Tumut, to leave unimproved the road connecting it with Kiandra, and yet to expend money on the construction of a road from Kiandra to Yass. On the other hand, the proximity of Tumut to Kiandra, considered in connexion with its fertility, gives it a natural claim to consideration for the sake of Kiandra in preference to more distant districts. Indeed it appears to us that an opposite policy would operate as a protective duty at the expense of the consumer, in favor of a district having no claim to preference; and its tendency would be to drive population to diggings more readily supplied with articles of consumption, and to check the prosperity of agricultural districts favored with natural advantages.

The communication with Kiandra via Eden or Merrimbula, though not likely to compete successfully for the Sydney traffic with the road recommended by Nelligen, Monga, and Major's Creek, will probably be the means by which a portion of the supplies from other Colonies will be sent to these diggings. The improvement of this road, with a view of encouraging the use of it for the transmission of such goods would, we consider, be a sound policy. Whilst in accordance with the principle already stated, it appears to us the simplest, if not the only practicable course, for securing to this Colony the contribution due to it from the dutiable articles consumed within it, obviating the pursuit of a policy vexatious and burdensome to the frontier towns, and to the settlers on the borders, and the intervention of complicated arrangements with the neighbouring Governments, for the collection of duties the property of this Colony. Free trade across the Murray might be conceded without material detriment to the revenue, if the means of communication between Merrimbula or Eden and Kiandra, were at the same time facilitated.

From the necessarily hurried character of our visit, we do not feel in a position to add to the information regarding the auriferous character of the Kiandra Diggings already laid before the public in the reports of the Rev. W. B. Clarke, Chief Commissioner Cloete, Colonel Freeling, R.E., and the correspondents of the Press. Our casual inspection of this, and the surrounding country, confirms the impressions which these reports convey. At numerous points on the routes pursued by us, the geological features were such as are usually considered highly indicative of the presence of gold, which indeed has actually been found at nearly all of them by prospecting parties. We may mention the Maneroo Plains—the ranges near Micalago and the Eumaralla—the country between Queanbeyan and Yass—about
Gundagai,

Gundagai, Tareutta, Kyamba, and Albury. We may add our conviction, that at some of these places quartz-mining will yet prove a profitable pursuit, as well as alluvial digging; and that, as the Reverend W. B. Clarke has already pointed out in his reports to the Government, many hundreds of square miles of this portion of the Colony are rich in auriferous deposits.

The main object of our journey having been to ascertain the difficulties experienced in extracting gold from auriferous quartz, and the character of machinery employed for the purpose, our attention at Adelong was specially directed to these points.

Appendix A.

The quartz reefs of this district at present worked are five in number, and a description of them will be found in Appendix A. For crushing the material obtained from them there are thirteen establishments, of which five only were in active operation at the time of our visit. The arrangements of each comprise a stamping battery, with stampers having direct vertical action, together with a combination (varied in each case) of some of the numerous appliances for retaining and amalgamating the gold,—such as blankets on sloping tables, ripple boards, Chilian mills, gold gleaners, Tyrolese amalgamators, shaking tables, and revolving barrels. The machines we found at work are driven by engines or water-wheels of from 15 to 25 horse power, the former being considered sufficient to work eight, and the latter twelve stamps of 700 lbs. each at the rate of sixty blows a minute, and with a height of lift varying from nine to thirteen inches.

The amount of quartz crushed by these means varies according to the nature of the material, and the degree of fineness to which it may be desired to reduce it, or between one and two tons in twenty-four hours for every stamp employed. The usual charge for crushing one ton varies from 20s. to 35s.

The general nature of the operations carried on in these machines is as follows:—The quartz is first ground in the stamping battery, through which a stream of water is kept constantly flowing. This current washes the pounded quartz (or “pulp”) through a fine grating of wire, and then over a sloping surface covered with blankets which retain a large proportion of the gold. These blankets are frequently changed and washed, and the washings are worked up with mercury in the revolving barrel. The stream of pulp then flows over ripple boards supplied with mercury, which takes up part of the fine gold that has escaped the blankets. The pulp runs next into the Chilian mill, where it is further triturated and brought into intimate contact with mercury; and finally it passes through some of the other amalgamators that have been named before it escapes as “tailings.” On our subsequent visit to Bendigo we were struck with the simplicity of the machinery there as compared with Adelong; but at Bendigo there is rarely so much mundic as to interfere in the least with amalgamation. Stamps are used as at Adelong for pounding the quartz,—indeed the simple Cornish stamper has almost superseded every other machine for crushing. The “pulp” runs over ripple boards containing mercury, and then through some simple kind of amalgamator before escaping as “tailings.” Blankets are very little used, and the Chilian mill has almost disappeared from Bendigo. The favorite kinds of amalgamators are those presenting a surface of copper rubbed over with mercury. They have assumed a variety of shapes. The simplest is a sloping box lined with the silvered copper, and having a sort of pocket containing mercury at the lowest end. Another form is seen in Meyerhoff’s galvanic cradle, which is held in considerable repute; and still another modification is called “Hill’s gold gleaner.”* We have been informed that the blankets formerly in use at Clunes are being superseded by the sloping tables of silvered copper.

The difficulties experienced in working Adelong quartz by the means described may be understood by the following particulars:—In working the “main reef” at Adelong, the quartz for some sixty feet in depth yielded 10 to 15 ounces, and occasionally even more of gold per ton, and was free of “mundic.” The quartz then suddenly changed its character. It became loaded with mundic, and could not be got to yield so much as half the former quantity quantity of gold. The first of this mundic quartz was crushed by Messrs. Mandelson and Co., in May, 1858. Their machine consisted of a battery of stampers and a Chilian mill. They put 15 tons of the quartz through the machine in one continuous operation, and during the process 80 lbs. weight of quicksilver was put into the basin of the Chilian mill. On "washing up" the product at the close of the operation, they obtained only 40 lbs. of amalgam, which yielded 60 ounces of gold, while nearly 45 lbs. of mercury had disappeared altogether.

* This gleaner is in the form of an inverted cone of copper, seven feet diameter, and seven inches deep, coated with mercury, and made to revolve about twenty times in a minute. The water and pulp are made to fall perpendicularly on the revolving disc at seven inches from its centre. The centrifugal force is sufficient to throw the refuse outwards, but not the gold, which gravitates towards the centre.

From previous experience on the reef and from the look of the quartz, it was judged that at least 10 ounces per ton ought to have been obtained, and it was reasonable to suppose that the quicksilver that had escaped had carried with it a large proportion of gold. On examining the amalgamating basin, there was found, near the water level, an unusual brown deposit, partially choking up the holes in the perforated plates through which the ground quartz escaped, and this deposit, on being repeatedly washed with water, was found to contain a large proportion of gold amalgam. The remarkable and unexpected result of this crushing operation caused much discussion and excitement among the miners, and suspicions of unfair dealing became rife. In this state of affairs, Mr. Commissioner Lynch obtained a series of specimens from Messrs. Mandelson, and transmitted them with a statement of particulars to Professor Smith for chemical investigation. The chief results were briefly these:—The quartz as taken from the reef contained a large proportion of iron and copper pyrites, the former predominating, together with specks of visible gold. In the "burned quartz" part of the sulphur of the pyrites had been driven off, leaving magnetic oxide and sulphuret of iron with sulphuret of copper. Exposure to air had oxidised portions of the sulphurets, and converted them into sulphates. The brown deposit was found to contain nearly half its weight of mercury and about 17 per cent. of gold, the remainder being chiefly magnetic oxide and sulphuret of iron, undecomposed pyrites, and white quartz, all in fine powder. Notwithstanding the amount of metal in this deposit, its specific gravity was low (4.3), and this seemed to be caused by the close adhesion of air to the powder when it was mixed with water. This also made it be easily floated off by the water from the amalgamating basin. It did not appear that the mercury had been acted upon chemically, the effect being apparently of the same kind as when that metal is triturated for a length of time with prepared chalk. The oxides and sulphurets in the quartz had acted mechanically like chalk, in so comminuting and enveloping the particles of mercury as to prevent their agglutination in the usual manner.*

Ever since the period now spoken of the quartz of Adelong has been more or less mixed with mundic, which has been a prolific source of trouble and loss to the miners and machine owners. But many of these men are intelligent and enterprising—some, indeed, are enthusiasts in their profession,—and they have introduced such improvements in the mode of operating that the loss has been materially reduced, though still probably considerable. We were informed of one case where no less than 6 lbs. weight of mercury was lost for every ton of stone crushed, together with an unknown but probably large quantity of gold. The amalgam has frequently been seen to float away on the surface of the water like a bluish black, greasy-looking, and frothy scum. At other times it has adhered so firmly to the basin and rollers as to require a hammer and chisel to remove it. On retorting such amalgam obtained from mundic, it is generally found that the gold is much alloyed with copper. A specimen of this alloy, melted and assayed recently at the Mint, was found to contain only 12 per cent. of gold. It is known that native copper exists occasionally in the auriferous veins and "casings," but whether this alone is the origin of the copper in the amalgam, or whether any of the copper ore of the mundic gets reduced in the operation, remains yet to be determined.

The following interesting experiment on some old "tailings," was communicated to us by Mr. D. S. McKay. About 3 tons were run through a Chilian mill with shaking tables. After washing up and retorting, there was found only a small quantity of black slag, which, on smelting, afforded an alloy of copper with a third part of gold. About 30 lbs. of mercury were lost during the amalgamation, part of it being seen floating off the surface like dirty soapsuds. Afterwards 2½ tons of the same tailings were put through the mill along with 3 tons of white quartz, free from mundic, and believed to contain very little gold.

* It is not yet quite certain that the action is purely mechanical. It may possibly be begun and promoted by a small amount of chemical action. Experiments are now being conducted at the Mint to elucidate this point.

gold. The yield in this case was $7\frac{1}{2}$ ounces of gold per ton, most of which it was thought must have come from the "tailings." The weight of mercury, instead of diminishing, as before, increased during the operation, and the gold, when retorted, came out nearly pure.

A similar experiment has recently been made by Mr. Wilson, of the Reefer Machine, at Adelong, and with remarkable success. He states that having placed 40 lbs. of mercury with about 9 cubic feet of pulverised matter in a revolving barrel, and kept the machine in motion for the usual number of hours, he was able to obtain a return of but 24 lbs. of mercury, the remainder being mixed up into a substance resembling soapsuds. This led him to dispense with the use of the barrel, and in its stead to submit the pulp discharged from the stampers, and caught on blankets, to the action of mercury in a Chilian mill with three times its bulk of sharp gravel procured from the race. This expedient appears to have been successful; the mercury was restored to its clear fluid state, and there was no further loss. There were 31 tons of quartz crushed with about 250 lbs. of mercury, and the yield of gold was $103\frac{1}{2}$ ounces. If dilution by clean gravel had not been adopted, Mr. Wilson judges that the loss of mercury would have been 3 or 4 lbs. to every ton.

At Bendigo we found that mundic rarely exists in the quartz in such quantity as to interfere with amalgamation. In one reef, however (the whip reef), the quartz at a certain depth gave place almost entirely to mundic, which in this case was chiefly arsenical iron pyrites, and the operations of the Company were brought to a close owing to the difficulty of extracting the gold. They consulted with scientific persons, and tried a variety of processes, without much advantage. They also sent a quantity of the mundic (17 cwt.) to Messrs. Johnson and Matthey, of Hatton Garden, in the hope that the metallurgic skill of those gentlemen would enable them to solve the difficulty. They reported that the sample contained gold at the rate of 19 dwts. to the ton, and silver at the rate of 4 ounces; but they did not suggest any method by which these metals could be profitably extracted.

The Company are now about to recommence operations at the whip reef, and to follow a plan for reducing the mundic devised by Mr. Shires, of Bendigo. He proposes to break the ore into small pieces, mix it with charcoal, and roast in a furnace. He states that in this way the whole of the sulphur is carried off as bisulphuret of carbon, and that the residue can then be ground and amalgamated with facility.

Mr. Wilkinson, of Anderson's Creek, Victoria, has laid before the public a plan of roasting quartz, which he states he has tried with success, and which he considers would effectually deprive mundic quartz of all its objectionable ingredients. It is to roast the material by means of heat obtained from the combustion of carbonic oxide and hydrogen. He obtains these two gases by passing steam from a boiler through an iron pipe containing charcoal heated to redness, the decomposition of the steam liberating hydrogen, and the combination of its oxygen with carbon producing carbonic oxide. He supplies by a separate pipe a current of air to enable the combustion of these gases to take place among the quartz, which, when sufficiently burned, is allowed to drop into a tank containing water. The time occupied in calcining a ton of quartz by this process must of course depend on the size of the arrangement. The cost per ton is stated as not exceeding 3s. 9d., exclusive of labor. The advantages said to be secured are, a disintegration of the quartz, so as to allow double the usual amount to be crushed per hour; a saving of wear and tear on machinery; and a combination of small particles of gold into globules, the result of fusion under great heat, by which amalgamation is rendered perfectly easy, and the loss in tailings entirely prevented.

Notwithstanding these and other proposals for overcoming existing difficulties, we are impelled to the belief that the economical separation of gold from mundic quartz is a problem not yet satisfactorily solved.* Its solution requires patient and continued research, and the combination

* The following Extract from the last Report of the Board of Science in Victoria, shows the condition in which the question stands in that Colony:—(page 7.)

"It would be a great assistance to the miner if some experiments were instituted with a view to ascertain the best methods of separating the gold from the quartz. Mr. Cowan has brought under the notice of the Board the difficulties in the way of effecting amalgamation with mercury, when the quartz is largely mixed with iron pyrites. This is a question which can only be satisfactorily determined by a series of experiments, conducted by an experienced chemist, having due regard to the economy of the mode of extraction; and perhaps it would be well to seek the opinion of Professor Faraday, or some other competent chemist in Europe."

combination of scientific knowledge with practical skill. We shall proceed to point out first, the course we recommend to be pursued for the full elucidation of the question, and then the measures which may be immediately taken for mitigating, if not altogether overcoming, the difficulty.

The first step towards the solution of the problem should be, to obtain for examination and chemical analysis characteristic specimens of each kind of mundic that is found to act injuriously on mercury, or to present other difficulties in treating. With each of these should be transmitted a description of the treatment the quartz has undergone, that is, of every operation of the crushing and amalgamating, in consecutive order, with samples of the "pulp" at the different stages, and finally of the tailings, together with a statement of the quantity of gold—per ton—obtained by such treatment, and of mercury—per ton—lost in obtaining it. A careful examination of the chemical and mechanical states of these various specimens would, we feel confident, ensure the detection of the injurious constituents, and the manner in which they operate. This would clearly be the first step towards neutralizing their action.

With the knowledge thus obtained, a series of experiments should be instituted to determine the best practical method of treating each kind of quartz, and for this the experimental quartz-crushing machine, proposed by a Member of the Legislature to be erected at the Mint, would prove serviceable. By the same means the relative value of every resource or appliance in use, or proposed, could be ascertained,—the results being communicated for public information. There is no doubt that by a series of such experiments, methodically conducted, the "mundic" difficulty would disappear, and the modes of treating auriferous quartz in general would be much simplified and improved.

Our experience at Adelong satisfied us that some such course as that we recommend is necessary. We found that though a practical miner could point out, by its appearance, the ore which presented the greatest difficulty in working, he was unable to state the ingredient to which the difficulty was due, or the reason of its injurious action; and though he might infer from the loss he had sustained in treating a particular ore with mercury, that some gold had also been carried away in tailings, he had no means of ascertaining the extent of his loss. As regards the appliances for extracting gold from quartz the predilection in favor of any one appeared to be due more to the fact of its having been purchased, and to the favor with which the owner naturally regarded a machine from which he obtained his living, than to any sound conclusion, based on ascertained results. It is yet an open question which of the many forms of amalgamators, or what combination of them, is preferable; whether blankets are better than amalgamated copper placed in the same position; whether mercury should be used in every stage of the operation—commencing with the stamping—or be dispensed with in almost all. At present it appears that the richness of quartz veins is estimated, not by the gold they contain, but by that which imperfect means have been able to extract; and our analyses of some tailings of these reefs leave little doubt that two and three ounces per ton are frequently lost in tailings which are thrown away.

To carry through the analytical portion of the inquiry, it would be advisable to instruct the Gold Commissioner or Receiver at Adelong to offer every assistance and encouragement for the systematic collection of the samples of quartz and tailings before referred to, and to transmit them to the Mint by Government Escort.

The experimental portion of the investigation, if carried on in Sydney, would require the transmission of quartz in quantities of not less than one ton of each sort. It is not probable that individual miners or crushers will be willing to bear to any extent the cost that carriage of so much weight for a distance of 280 miles will entail. The success of this portion of the scheme must therefore depend on the pecuniary assistance which the Government are disposed to afford. The abolition of the Gold duty, resolved on by vote of the Legislative Assembly, will directly limit the power of the Government to render assistance, and the claims of the mining community to grants from the public Treasury for such purposes. It may therefore be worthy of consideration, if it would not be more desirable to retain a portion of the impost, for application to this and similar objects, than to sacrifice entirely entirely a revenue which has not been shewn to have checked mining enterprize, but which thus applied would directly encourage it.

Whilst these investigations are in hand, those who are practically engaged in quartz-crushing might try one or more of the following methods, which appear to us likely to produce in some degree the desired results:—

The plan which holds out the greatest prospect of success, and is at the same time most easily practised, is that which has been reported to us by Mr. M'Kay and Mr. Wilson, viz.,—mixing the ground quartz containing mundic, either with quartz free of this ingredient, or with clean sand, in the proportion of two or three parts of sand to one of mundic quartz, and grinding the whole together with mercury, in a Chilian or other mill. There are several grounds for concluding that the action of mundic on mercury is chiefly, if not entirely, mechanical in character, and that the buoyancy which is given to the amalgam is due to the retention of globules of air in the mass of mundic and mercury intimately commingled by trituration. By diminishing, then, the per-centage of mundic in the mass, the mercury would be enabled to retain its cohesion and remain in the liquid state at the bottom of the mill.

The reefs at Adelong are well adapted for this kind of treatment. They contain an abundance of white quartz, poor in gold but free of mundic. By intermixing this with mundic quartz, in proportions which experience must decide, and crushing them together, the poor quality—itsself not of value—would become so by the service it would render in extracting the gold from the richer, and in saving mercury. Where there is no pure quartz the mixture might be with clean sand or gravel. The gross cost of this plan obviously cannot exceed that of crushing the additional matter, which, in the case of white quartz, would probably be more than met by the gold obtained from it. It has been asserted that quartz can be crushed in Victoria at 11s. the ton, and even less.

On the other hand, it is not easy to estimate the saving which may result, as no attempt has hitherto been made to ascertain with accuracy the gold which has been carried away. The minimum loss of mercury at Adelong is probably $\frac{1}{2}$ lb to every ton of mundic quartz crushed. Now mercury is capable of absorbing nearly one-half its weight of gold. Assuming, however, that on an average 1 lb of mercury absorbs from 1 to 2 ounces of gold, the average loss per ton would be about £3.

The injurious effect of mundic on mercury being promoted, as we believe, by the action of the Chilian rollers, a discontinuance of the use of this machine might be attended with advantage. The important function discharged by it, viz., that of securing the detention of fine particles of gold by grinding them with mercury, seems to be more than counterbalanced by the buoyancy of the compound formed when mundic is present, and the consequent loss of mercury and gold. For the mill might be substituted an extended layer of blankets, or amalgamated copper plates—a means now much in use at Bendigo for the detention of gold, and preferred as giving little or no trouble in cleaning or shifting.

Assuming that the buoyancy of the amalgam is mainly due to the adhesion of air, it might be desirable, where Chilian mills are relied on, to introduce into the water a jet of steam (which might readily be done by a pipe from the boiler of the engine), in order to preserve it at a degree of heat during the action of the rollers sufficient to expel the air. This temperature could hardly be maintained on the present plan of running a constant stream of water through the mill, but the mill might perhaps be worked apart from the general arrangement with successive portions of pulp.

Mr. Shiress' plan of roasting mundic quartz with charcoal in a furnace has not yet been tested on a great scale, but is sufficiently promising to deserve a trial. For this purpose a sum has been placed on the estimate appended to this report.

The practical value of Mr. Wilkinson's process must depend on the cost at which the two gases for combustion can be produced, and the amount of labor involved. The heating power is very great, and no doubt capable of rendering the quartz more friable, and the gold in it easier to collect.

The experiments which we have proposed to be undertaken by the Government will require the erection in Sydney of a stamping battery, driven by steam-power, a reverberatory furnace for roasting quartz, as well as other contingent appliances. An estimate for his

Appendix B. purpose is submitted with this report.

From

From the information we obtained in Victoria regarding the functions performed by the Mining Surveyors there, and from the view we have had of the condition of some of the gold fields of this Colony, we are induced to recommend to the Government the appointment of similar officers here. Besides giving assistance to the Gold Commissioners in marking out alluvial and quartz claims, surveying blocks of land to be leased for mining purposes, examining into disputed claims and such like, it would be the duty of these Mining Surveyors to prepare topographical and geological maps of the gold fields, with plans and sections of underground workings; to record whatever may be ascertained respecting the distribution of gold deposits, and the extent, configuration, and character of quartz reefs; to describe peculiarities in the modes of mining, or of extracting gold from quartz; to collect statistics of the population, yield of gold, steam and animal power employed, and in short to procure and digest all attainable facts that would tend to the scientific comprehension of the gold fields, and the economical direction of the labor of the practical miner.

The Surveyors should send in monthly reports to the Government, together with their maps, plans, and illustrative specimens. The reports should then be published for general information, and the maps, &c., should be deposited in a central office for the inspection of the public. Copies also should be returned to the Commissioners of the respective gold fields, where all interested might have access to them.

Instructions were issued for the guidance of the Mining Surveyors of Victoria, by the Board of Science in Melbourne, and we find it stated in the last annual report of that Board that "the objects sought to be attained when preparing the instructions were these:—

- " 1.—Maps of each mining district sufficiently large to shew clearly the situation
" of the principal gullies, and worked quartz reefs, with their respective " names; and at the same time to be easily portable. The scale adopted was " half an inch to one mile.
- " 2.—Detail plans on the scale of four chains to one inch of the most important " gullies and flats, quartz mines, and deep leads, with illustrative horizontal " and vertical sections. Such plans to shew the mining characteristics, the " lands leased for mining purposes, extended claims, the method of laying off
" parallels, the sites for dams and reservoirs, and the natural features of the " country.
- " 3.—Reports on the nature of the mining works on each gold field, the remuneration of the labors of the miner, and the number and character of the " machines employed.
- " 4.—To give information to the public on the opening of new gold fields."

Should it be found impossible to obtain at once a sufficient number of competent persons to act as Mining Surveyors on all the leading gold fields, we would recommend that the experiment be first tried at Kiandra and at Adelong.

Another point to which we would call the attention of the Government is the desirability of instituting a Mining Museum in Sydney, where models of tools and machinery, sectional models of mines, geological specimens, maps and plans, and anything else illustrative of mining in general, might be arranged for the daily inspection of the public. A very interesting and instructive Museum of this sort has been collected in Melbourne, under the superintendence of Professor McCoy, and we append a priced list of some of the models Appendix C. in that collection.

In conclusion we desire to express our acknowledgments to the Wardens at Bendigo; to the Chief Commissioner and Commissioners of the Southern Gold Fields; as well as to other Government officers and gentlemen who have rendered us assistance in the prosecution of our inquiries.

We have, &c.,

THE HONORABLE
THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

APPENDIX A.

ON THE QUARTZ REEFS OF THE LOWER ADELONG.

The following Paper was read by Professor Smith, at the Monthly Meeting of the Philosophical Society of New South Wales, on Wednesday, August 15th; His Excellency Sir William Denison, K.C.B., President of the Society, in the Chair:—

The Adelong River is a tributary of the Murrumbidgee, falling into it a few miles below Gundagai, after a course from south to north of about thirty miles. Towards the head of the river, and also at various points along its course, there are alluvial diggings of a tolerably productive character. The quartz-mining is at present restricted to a portion of the eastern side of the valley, about two miles in length, running northwards from the township of Lower Adelong, which is some fourteen miles from the mouth of the stream. In this locality several spurs run down to the river in a south-westerly direction from the range that bounds the eastern side of the valley. These spurs consist mainly of granitic rock, interspersed with numerous veins of quartz. On the most southerly of these spurs the Government camp is situated, and close by there is a quartz vein called the "Camp Reef," which is not now worked. Proceeding northerly the next spur is called "Mount Charcoal," the highest point of which is probably 400 or 500 feet above the river. Cutting the crest of Mount Charcoal obliquely, and running down its sides, we find the Old or Main Reef; and to the westward of this, in a bifurcation of the spur, we have the "Victoria Reef." Several quartz veins have been opened between these two reefs, but none of them are at present worked. Looking from Mount Charcoal northwards, we see the "Kurrajong Reef" on the slope of the next ridge; and on surmounting this spur to its junction with the bounding range, we come upon the "Donkey Reef." Nearly a mile further northwards is situated the "Gibraltar Reef." Several veins have been tried in the neighborhood of the Kurrajong and Donkey Reefs, but are not worked.

In June there were twelve or fourteen claims being worked on the Old Reef; eight or ten on the Victoria; six or seven on the Donkey; two on the Kurrajong; and two or three on the Gibraltar. In the beginning of last year the claims worked on the Old Reef numbered between eighty and ninety.

I proceed to lay before you a few particulars which I collected regarding the principal reefs, during a visit, in company with Captain Ward, in June of the present year. The very limited time at my disposal prevented me obtaining materials for a full account of these reefs, and it is possible that some of the statements I shall make may not be minutely accurate; for in putting a multiplicity of questions, and in listening to the experience of a variety of miners, I may sometimes have misapprehended or forgotten the exact import of the information tendered to me; also, the testimony on certain points was conflicting.

The Main Reef runs due N. and S., the north end, however, apparently bends a little towards the East. On the summit of the ridge the reef comes to the surface, but on the slopes it sinks and recedes from the surface rapidly. It has not been distinctly traced far on the north side, although there are some indications, in the same line, right across the valley, that seem to connect it with Fletcher's Reef, on the opposite slope, and perhaps even with the Donkey Reef. On the southern slope of Mount Charcoal, half-way down or so, shafts nearly 200 feet deep (as I understood) failed to strike the quartz, though sunk in the line of direction; but near to the creek in the bottom of the gully the reef was found at a much less depth. The deserted "Camp Reef" is not far distant from the last shaft on the Main Reef, and is very nearly in the same line.

The Main Reef was opened in June, 1857, and the oldest shaft in it is now about 200 feet down. We descended this shaft (on Mr. Channon's claim, on the crown of the ridge) and learned the following particulars:—The dip of the reef, or underlay, as the miners call it, is westward at an average angle of about 73 degrees from the horizontal. At first, however, the angle is not so great, being about 60 degrees, but afterwards greater, approaching, in parts, to the perpendicular. The thickness of the vein varies from about eighteen inches to nearly seven feet. The quartz is generally separated from the neighboring granite by a thin casing of soft micaceous slate.

In sinking this claim the quartz, for sixty-five feet, was ferruginous and free from mundic. It yielded ten ounces and upwards to the ton, and it had a soft ferruginous "casing," which yielded a great deal of gold by simple washing. The average thickness of this part of the vein was about two feet eight inches, the minimum being one foot. After that came 120 feet of quartz strongly impregnated with mundic, three and a-half feet in average thickness, and producing six and a-half to seven ounces of gold per ton. It was certain, however, that much gold, as well as quicksilver, was lost in the amalgamation. Below the mundic came milky quartz, seven feet in average thickness, and almost destitute of gold; but this was accompanied by a thin vein of mundic quartz, which yielded about two ounces to the ton. The miners had gone down about fifteen feet in this white quartz without any signs of change, and they feared that no more good was to be got from the reef. The neighboring claim-holders were proposing to subscribe to have this shaft sunk for another 100 feet to test the quality of the quartz, and still deeper if necessary.

The quartz being very hard has to be quarried by blasting, and the sinking of a shaft costs about £6 a foot. Laborers were got at £4 a week each. It is the practice on the Adelong to follow the "underlay" of the reef in sinking, while at Bendigo they prefer to sink perpendicularly, and to drive horizontally upon the reef at convenient depths.* This latter plan renders pumping and winding easier, and seems on the whole preferable.

In Channon's claim, at a depth of about eighty feet from the surface, they made a drive westward for five feet, and came upon a thin vein or "leader," as they call it, of auriferous mundic quartz, nearly parallel to the Main Reef, but gradually approaching it, for on driving thirty feet lower down they found it only three feet from the reef. Some of the granite intervening between this vein and the reef has been crushed and found to yield about 12 dwts. to the ton. The granite contains some mundic, and the miners think that wherever there is mundic there is gold. Besides the thin vein mentioned, there have been found several small "leaders" entering the reef from the western side, but they have not been followed up.

While Mr. Jenkins was sinking a shaft on the northern slope of the Main Reef, he came upon a singular cavity in the reef at a depth of about 140 feet. The cavity was ten or fifteen feet deep. Its sides and floor were covered with carbonate of lime, partly of laminated reticulated appearance, and partly in the form of white rhomboidal calcareous spar. The roof of the cavern consisted chiefly of crystallized quartz. By driving westward at a depth of 100 feet, Mr. Jenkins has recently struck upon an auriferous vein, about ten feet distant from the Main Reef, and which is probably a continuation of the vein worked by Mr. Channon.

The Victoria Reef runs, like the others, N. and S., but is more nearly perpendicular than the Main Reef. Some claims were down about 140 feet. One party told me that they had pretty good quartz for about 100 feet; the vein then almost disappeared, but on sinking deeper they found a small "leader" of mundic. The mundic of this reef is iron pyrites with little or no copper ore, and is therefore not so troublesome in amalgamating. Also the gold is purer than that got from quartz containing copper, as in such cases a portion of copper gets amalgamated and is ultimately found alloyed with the gold. Following this reef southward in the line of direction, it is found to dip rapidly. Next to a claim where it came almost to the surface, a shaft had to be sunk fifty-eight feet before striking the reef, and the two or three following shafts had not then come upon it, though one was down eighty to ninety feet. The party sinking were following a schistose layer in the granite, which they expected would become the "casing" of the reef.

Kurrajong

* The miners use the term underlay to indicate what a geologist calls dip. By dip the miners mean the inclination of the vein from the surface, in the line of direction.

Kurrajong Reef.—The deepest shaft (about 90 feet) was one belonging to Mr. Jones. They were getting quart yielding six or seven ounces of gold to the ton, but loaded with mundic, more uniformly disseminated through the stone than in the Main Reef. The reef had split into two veins of no great thickness, separated by a few feet of granite. Some of this intervening granite had been crushed, and yielded nearly one ounce per ton. I was informed by Mr. Edwards (who owns the neighboring claim) that on sinking his shaft he got forty feet of good quartz, without mundic, yielding ten or fifteen ounces to the ton. The vein then almost disappeared (it had previously been about a foot thick), but after sinking a good way further they came upon a thin vein of mundic, yielding four or five ounces per ton. This was probably a continuation of one of the two veins worked by Mr. Jones.

The Doukey Reef has the same north and south direction as the others, and is nearly vertical. Some think that it may be a continuation of the Main Reef, as it is nearly in the same meridional line, and patches of quartz are found at two or three points in the interval between the extremities of the two reefs. On this reef the miners got first some sixty feet of ferruginous quartz, rich in gold; then twenty or thirty feet of mundic quartz; then about fifty feet of very poor white quartz, succeeded again by mundic—the whole depth reached being about 140 feet. The mundic of this reef contains both iron and copper pyrites in great abundance, and often of much beauty, from the prevalence of "peacock ore." This appears to be the only reef where water is very troublesome, and it would much promote the economical mining of the quartz if the miners would combine together to erect a pumping engine.

I did not visit the Gibraltar Reef, but was told that it was not so regularly developed as the others, being more of a patchy nature. There were only two or three claims being worked upon it.

The miners on the Adelong often anxiously inquire whether their reefs, which have been diminishing in value as they get deeper, are likely to improve again. We know too little of auriferous veins to predict anything with confidence. Some leading authorities are known to hold the opinion that such veins invariably diminish in value as they are followed down, and that deep mining for gold can never be profitable. When their attention is directed to some of the shafts in Victoria that are giving satisfactory returns at a depth of some 400 feet, they say that that is not to be accounted deep sinking, and that no really deep sinking is yet known in these colonies. The miners of Adelong may therefore take heart, their deepest claim not being yet more than 200 feet, while there are many examples in Victoria of very rich quartz further down, and even of veins improving materially below such a depth. I went down a claim on Johnston's Reef, Bendigo, 300 feet deep, where the quartz was turning out seventeen ounces to the ton. Half a ton of quartz taken recently from near this spot on the same reef yielded 304 ounces of gold. The Nuggetty Reef, at Tarrangower, was worked down to the granite, and was supposed to have run out; but some claim-owners continued to sink, and at a depth of more than 200 feet struck it again in a thick lode, which yielded an average of six ounces to the ton. On the German Reef the average yield is five ounces per ton at a depth of 273 feet. Another reef is mentioned which first yielded four to eight ounces; it then got poorer; but at a depth of 220 feet the yield increased to eleven ounces. In another case the yield was 2 ozs. to 6 ozs. to a depth of 155 feet; below that the quartz improved till it produced 17 ozs. to the ton. The Mining Surveyor of the Ararat district, in Victoria, says, in a recent report to the Board of Science, that it has been proved throughout his district that the reefs become richer as they get deeper. It is also asserted that rich quartz is found in California at a depth of 600 feet; and, further, that there is a mine in New Granada, belonging to the Columbian Mining Association, which is payable at a depth of more than 2,000 feet. It is quite possible, then, that the quartz reefs of Adelong may yet recover their pristine richness, and even exceed it. On the other hand, there can be no certainty prior to actual trial. Mines of all sorts are notoriously inconstant, and neither the practical experience of the miner, nor the scientific insight of the geologist has yet been able to lay down rules by which to interpret and anticipate the apparent caprices of mineral veins. A famous English miner, named Joe Odgers, on being asked the result of his long experience as to the productiveness of lodes in certain situations, replied—"I've worked forty years as barrow-boy, tut-workman, and tributer, and my experience is this here, where there's ore, there's ore; and where there's none, there's none." I think, however, that the risky lottery of quartz-mining might be greatly mitigated if the claim-holders would combine together, and work more on the co-operative principle. Perpendicular shafts might be sunk at the most favorable points along a reef, and exploratory drives made in different directions at different depths. A complete knowledge of the ground would thus be obtained, and the company could then employ their available labor and capital in the most productive manner.

I refrain at present from entering on the methods of extracting gold from the mundic quartz. Experiments now going on at the Mint will, I have no doubt, throw new light on this puzzling question; and when these experiments are in a more forward state we shall have the subject brought again under the notice of this society.

GOLD FIELDS.

(CORRESPONDENCE RELATIVE TO DISPUTED WATER-RIGHT AT ADELONG.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 2 October, 1860.

COPY of all Correspondence which has taken place between the Government and Gold Commissioner Cloete, relative to disputed water-right at Adelong, “Edwards Brothers, and Channon, v. “Hayes and Co.,” since the 9th February, 1860—the date on which the previous papers on the subject were laid on the Table of the Assembly.

(Dr. Wilson.)

GOLD FIELDS.

COMMISSIONER, SOUTHERN GOLD FIELDS, to THE SECRETARY FOR LANDS.

(60-2344.)

*Gold Commissioner's Office,
Kiandra, 10 July, 1860.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to inform you, that in the case of a disputed water-right at Adelong, between Messrs. Edwards, Channon, and Emanuel Hayes and Company;—the parties against whom this dispute was decided, viz., Edwards & Co., have again appealed to me for a rehearing of the case.

2. In a previous report on this subject, I informed you that I considered, according to the papers referred to me, the decision of Mr. Assistant Commissioner Lynch to have been correct.

Edwards & Co. seem to say, however, that they have evidence to prove their right, which was not forthcoming at the hearing. Should it, therefore, be your opinion that the case had better be reheard, on receiving authority from you to act in the matter, I shall be prepared to proceed to Adelong, rehear the case, and fully report my opinion.

I have, &c.,

P. L. CLOETE,

Commissioner in Charge of Southern
Gold Fields.

UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS to COMMISSIONER OF SOUTHERN GOLD FIELDS.

(60-2344—124.)

*Department of Lands,
Sydney, 30 July, 1860.*

SIR,

Referring to your letter of the 10th instant, reporting that in the case of disputed water-right at Adelong, the parties against whom the dispute was decided have appealed to you for a rehearing of the case, on the ground that they now have evidence to prove their right, which was not forthcoming at the last hearing;—I am directed to inform you, in reply to your inquiry as to whether you are to proceed to Adelong for the purpose, that Mr. Secretary Robertson is of opinion (whether a hearing may or may not be desirable) that in any case it does not seem important enough, in the present state of affairs at Kiandra, to cause the removal thence of the Chief Commissioner of the Southern Gold Fields.

I have, &c.,

MICL. FITZPATRICK.

No. 1.

EXTRACT from a letter from the Governor General of New South Wales to the Governor of Queensland, dated 10th January, 1860.

“ In your letter to me, dated 24th December, 1859, you request me to draw the attention of the Government of New South Wales to the amount due to the Government of Queensland out of the rents, assessments, license fees, and other similar payments made during the past year to the Treasury of New South Wales by the inhabitants of the districts now included in the new Colony, and also to the balance due to Queensland from the unexpended votes for public works now in progress.

“ The subject has been carefully considered by the Government of New South Wales, with every wish on my part to facilitate the arrangement of the outstanding accounts between the two Colonies; but the question is complicated with that of the division between the two Colonies of an existing debt, which, having been contracted while they were united, and for purposes considered generally beneficial, cannot, of course, be equitably borne wholly by the inhabitants of one portion of the country.

“ The moneys to which you allude, as having been paid into the Treasury of New South Wales on account of rents, assessments, licenses, &c., cannot, in the opinion of the Government of New South Wales, be paid over to the credit of the Treasurer of Queensland without the authority of the Legislature; an accurate account of them will, however, be prepared from the data in the Office of the Treasurer at Sydney, a copy of which shall be furnished.

AUDITOR GENERAL to THE UNDER SECRETARY:

*Audit Office, Sydney,
3 February, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to enclose copies of correspondence with the late Government Resident, Brisbane, respecting the payment by him of certain balances in his hands to the Treasurer of Queensland; and to inform you, that Captain Wickham has stated to me, personally, that he paid over the sums on the order of the Governor of Queensland, who had written a Despatch to His Excellency the Governor General on the subject, in which Sir G. Bowen assumed the whole responsibility of accounting for these balances. As, however, I cannot recognize the order of the Governor of Queensland as sufficient authority to an officer of this Government for disposing of moneys placed in his hands by its authority, and cannot, therefore, discharge Captain Wickham of his responsibility in that matter, I have the honor to submit the case for decision and instructions:

I have, &c.,
W. C. MAYNE,
A. G.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 2.]

*Audit Office, Sydney,
31 January, 1860.*

Sir,

I do myself the honor to transmit herewith a copy of my letter of the 9th instant, respecting the repayment into the New South Wales Treasury of the balances of advances made to you prior to October, 1858, and to request that you will have the goodness to inform me what steps have been taken in regard to the matter.

Captain Wickham, R.N.,
at Mrs. Drew's, Church Hill.

I have, &c.,
W. C. MAYNE,
A. G.

[Enclosure 2 in No. 2.]

*Audit Office, Sydney,
9 January, 1860.*

Sir,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, intimating that the balances of advances made to you prior to October, 1858, were handed over to the Colonial Treasurer of Queensland on the 19th December, 1859, I have the honor to inform you, that the receipts of that officer cannot be accepted in discharge of your liability to the Government of New South Wales, for moneys remaining in your hands, of advances made from the Sydney Treasury; and that it will be necessary for you to obtain and forward the receipt of the Treasurer of New South Wales as speedily as possible, in order that your accounts, as Government Resident at Brisbane, may be finally audited and closed.

Captain Wickham, R.N.,
Brisbane.

I have, &c.,
W. C. MAYNE,
A. G.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, QUEENSLAND, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Brisbane, 7 February, 1860.

SIR,

By direction of His Excellency the Governor in Council, I have the honor to invite your attention to the circumstance that sums of money, forming a part of the revenue of Queensland, and, as a consequence of separation, now duly payable to the Treasurer of this Colony, have recently been demanded and received by the Treasury of New South Wales; although, on the other hand, liabilities incurred before separation are referred from New South Wales to this Colony for satisfaction.

2. So lately as the 16th of January last, a sum of £20, in payment for a spirit license for the year 1860, was received at the Treasury of New South Wales from the agent of a firm at Maryborough; such payments having already been duly made by the principals of that firm to the Treasurer of Queensland. I enclose two letters on the subject from Messrs. Dowser and Purser to the last named official, who cannot of course as yet ascertain how many similar payments may have been irregularly made at Sydney.

3. It has also come to the knowledge of this Executive that, in January last, a letter was addressed from the Treasury of New South Wales to a person who had recently tendered for the occupation of new country in Queensland, intimating that the rent payable on account of his runs would be received at that office. This represents another class of payments which should, undoubtedly, fall into the revenue of Queensland.

4. The Governor and Executive Council of Queensland feel confident that it will suffice that these irregularities of practice, which are of an important character, should be brought under the notice of your Government, in order to ensure their discontinuance; and that the necessary instructions will be forthwith given to those officials who have failed to discriminate between such matters of business as can still with propriety be dealt with by their departments, and such, as by virtue of separation, belong to the corresponding departments of Queensland.

5. In order, on the part of Queensland, to prepare the way for a conciliatory and equitable consideration of the matters which await adjustment between the two Colonies, His Excellency the Governor has, with the advice of the Executive Council, made it a principle to discharge, without hesitation, those liabilities which, although not incurred under the responsibility of his Government, have appeared to be fairly chargeable to the account of Queensland; and has even extended this principle to cases in which there existed a doubt as to whether the Government of New South Wales was not chargeable, in part at least, with the payments demanded.

6. In accordance with the views above indicated, the Executive of Queensland has not, for the present, refused payment of the passage to Sydney of the crew of the "Marina," the particulars relative to whom I enclose herewith, although it must remain a question whether the expenditure be not properly chargeable to New South Wales; the "Marina" having been wrecked in November last, upon what was then the coast of that Colony, and the crew having been despatched by an official of that Colony to Sydney, at considerably more than double the expense that would have attended their transmission to Brisbane, by an official acting on behalf of Queensland. While, therefore, it is the belief of the Governor in Council that the receipt of moneys due to Queensland by the Treasury of New South Wales, in such cases as those specified in paragraphs 2 and 3 of this letter, is beyond the knowledge, as it must be without the sanction of the Government of New South Wales, I am to express a confident hope that, from the courtesy and justice of that Government, the spirit in which the Executive endeavors to act will be reciprocated, and that directions will be given to prevent the recurrence of a practice which might cause serious misunderstandings between the two Colonies.

Sir,

On the 10th January instant we posted you a remittance of £20, in payment of our License fee as Wholesale Spirit Merchants. We have this day, however, received from our agent in Sydney the enclosed receipt of the payment of the money there. If, therefore, you have not posted us an acknowledgment of the cash sent you, will you oblige by returning it, or by informing us of the best method of applying to recover one of the payments, as the mistake occurred through believing the money would not be received in Sydney, as the Government there refused to pay any account due after 30th November?

"3. Before, however, this Executive can be in a position to approach the question of a general settlement, they feel bound to urge, both as just to the Colony of Queensland, and as facilitating in a great degree the future decision of the debt, that the Government of New South Wales should recognize the preliminary principle which the Governor General and Governor Sir George Bowen have agreed in recommending, namely— that from the date of separation, 1st December, 1859, all revenues belonging to the districts comprised in the new Colony should be received, and all corresponding liabilities discharged by the Treasury of Queensland.

" 4. I have had the honor on a previous occasion, of inviting your attention to the "Letter of " circumstances that several sums of money, manifestly forming part of the current revenue " 7 Feb., 1860."
 " of this Colony, continue to be withheld by the Treasury of New South Wales. Sir George
 " Bowen addressed the Governor General on a similar subject on two occasions, viz., on the " December, and on the January ultimo. In reply to the first despatch, it was " stated that the Government of New South Wales did not feel itself at liberty to act in " this matter without the previous sanction of the Legislature, which was not then sitting;
 " but several weeks have now elapsed since the Session was resumed, and the Government
 " of Queensland is anxiously waiting to see the subject brought forward by you in the

SIR,

I have had the honor to receive, and to submit to His Excellency the Governor in Council, your letter of the 7th instant, requesting that the Honorable the Treasurer of this Colony might be moved to take steps for the payment into the Treasury of New South Wales of the balance of price of land sold at Warwick, on the 22nd November last; which had been, as you assume, erroneously paid to this Government by the Land Agent.

2. I am instructed to inform you, in reply, that the sum in question was not paid into the Treasury of Queensland by the Land Agent by an error, but under instructions from this Government; as forming a portion of the revenues of this Colony collected subsequently to its separation from New South Wales; and, as the price of land, within the limits of Queensland, the sale of which was not complete until the purchase money had been paid in full.

3. Such being the case, I am to point out to you, for the information of the Government of New South Wales, that your present request is in contravention of the principle recommended by His Excellency the Governor General to be adopted in the adjustment of the accounts between the Colonies, and to which the Government of Queensland adheres; namely, that the revenues which accrued prior to the 1st December should be paid into the Treasury of New South Wales, and those collected subsequently to that date into the Treasury of Queensland.

4. I have therefore to convey to you the opinion of this Government, that the particular collections forming the subject of your letter do not in any way belong to the revenues of New South Wales.

5. However, if the Government of New South Wales, acting on the principles laid down by Sir William Denison, and which alone are likely to lead to a speedy and amicable settlement, will consent to pay over to Queensland the sum of above Eighteen thousand pounds which it has received, and still retains, from the revenue of this Colony for the current year, the Government of Queensland is prepared to leave the minor payments at issue to the arbitration of the Governor General.

I do myself the honor to inform you that I have laid before His Excellency the Governor of this Colony, and that His Excellency has brought under the consideration of the Executive Council, your letter of the 19th ultimo, intimating that any portion of the Revenues of Queensland, which may have been received by the Government of New South Wales subsequently to the separation of the Colonies, have been received in error and will be refunded, and expressing a hope that the Queensland Government may act upon the same principle, with reference to the balances of advances made to the late Government Resident of Moreton Bay, and paid by him into the Treasury in Brisbane.

2. The grounds upon which the Council base their opinion, that the balances in question were clearly the property of these districts, and have properly been applied to the public service thereof, are set forth in a previous letter of even date herewith. The Council have also advised that, if this view be disputed by the Government of New South Wales, the question should be left to the arbitration of the Governor General, provided that the Government of New South Wales will hand over to Queensland the sums (amounting to over £18,000) paid in advance by inhabitants of this Colony for license fees, rents, assessments, &c., for periods subsequent to December 1st, 1859.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, QUEENSLAND, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Brisbane, 18 April, 1860.*

Sir,

I have the honor to call your attention to a correspondence which has taken place on the subject of certain public moneys, advanced to the late Government Resident of Moreton Bay, for carrying on the public service of these districts, and the balance of which was placed by that officer in the Treasury of this Colony, on the inauguration of a separate Government.

It was intimated by Mr. Forster, in a letter to me dated the 6th ultimo, that the receipt of the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer in Brisbane could not be admitted as a discharge to Captain Wickham, and he requested that instructions might be given for remitting the money in question to Sydney.

I

I would now submit to you that the request of Mr. Forster amounts, practically, to the assertion of a right on the part of the Government of New South Wales to arrest in the course of actual payment, and to divert from their lawful objects, funds which, whether derived from loans, borrowed on the joint security of the united districts, or directly from their joint revenues, had been devoted by the united Legislature to the service of the particular districts now forming this Colony, and had been placed in Captain Wickham's hands, not, in any aspect, in the shape of a loan for the repayment of which he could be held answerable, but for the purpose of being expended in the manner sanctioned by the Legislature and ordered by the Government. I may add, that within a very few days the funds in question were actually expended, in carrying out contracts or arrangements made by the New South Wales Government.

It will thus be apparent to you that the present matter must, of necessity, be considered in connection with the general subject of the accounts to be settled between the respective Colonies, which has also formed the subject of a correspondence between the two Governments.

It is right that I should add that the Government of Queensland cannot relinquish its claim to those portions of its revenue which have passed into the Treasury in Sydney, appertaining to a period subsequent to the separation of the Colonies, and to a proportionate share of the balances of the votes appropriated by the Legislature to the service of these districts during the year 1859. To this claim, under the first head, it is not understood that your Government are prepared to offer their dissent; and it is trusted that they may see the propriety of also placing in the Queensland Treasury those portions of its revenues for the year 1859 which were appropriated by the Legislature to the service of that year, but remained on the 1st December last unexpended. It will be at once apparent that the Government of New South Wales, having received the entire revenues of the Colony up to the 1st of December, cannot upon any principle of justice claim to divest itself of the responsibility of meeting the expenditure to a corresponding extent, or to cast upon the revenues accruing to this Colony, from that date, the burden, in addition to current liabilities, of bearing an arrear of expenditure for public works, &c., which would have been liquidated by the New South Wales Government without question, had delays not taken place for which the present Government of Queensland cannot in any way be held answerable.

I have, &c.,

"I also forward a copy of the Minute submitted by me to the Executive Council, with reference to the amount of the Revenue arising from annual rents, assessments, license fees, &c., which, being paid in advance, has been received by the Treasury of New South Wales, both from the inhabitants of its own territory and from those belonging to Queensland. I transmit also an extract from the Proceedings of the Executive Council thereupon.

* * * * *

"It appears to me that the Government of Queensland would act wisely in obtaining during the forthcoming Session, from the Legislature of that Colony, the necessary authority for the appointment of a Commissioner or Commissioners, to whom, in conjunction with a similar number of Commissioners from New South Wales, the whole arrangement of the details of the division may be intrusted; provision being made for the appointment, by the Governments of the two Colonies, of a single umpire, to whose final decision all disputed matters may be referred. I take the liberty of making this suggestion with reference to the question brought under the consideration of my Executive Council in the Minute relative to the balance of Revenue due to Queensland, which, although it has no direct connection with the question of the division of the debt, cannot, under all the circumstances, be well separated from it.

"Your Excellency will see by the enclosed extract of the Proceedings of the Executive Council, that so soon as the principles upon which the debt is to be divided are arranged, the Legislature will be asked to make provision for the payment of the amount due to the Queensland Treasury. I trust, therefore, that within a few months, the whole of these questions will be set at rest.

"W. DENISON."

[Enclosure in No. 17.]

MINUTE.

THE Revenue of New South Wales is derived from various sources, among which are the fees paid by several kinds of licenses, which fees are paid in advance, and empower the holders thereof to follow certain occupations, such as that of Publicans, Auctioneers, &c.; others guarantee the occupation of certain lands belonging to the Colony for twelve months in advance, and have the character of a rent for the land, only that they are paid in advance.

The accompanying Returns, though they are not quite complete, shew that certain persons occupying land in the existing Colony of Queensland, or following certain occupations in that Colony, did pay into the Treasury of New South Wales, during the year 1859, sums for licenses to occupy land, or to follow certain occupations, for a period of twelve months, of which only a small portion had expired when Queensland was proclaimed a separate Colony.

The

The returns show the amount which is due to the Colony of Queensland on account of these licenses, for the portion of the year which was unexpired on the 1st December, 1859, from which date Queensland was entitled to raise the full amount of revenue demandable by law, and did assume all the responsibility of providing for the maintenance of its own establishments. Under these circumstances, it appears to me that the simple and proper course would be, to pay over the amount in question to the credit of the Government of Queensland, as being, in point of fact, money received by the Treasury of New South Wales to which it has no equitable claim, deducting, of course, the amount of the advances which have been made in stores, &c., to that Government, and of the payments which have been made in error by Captain Wickham of the balance remaining in his hands of the advances made to him by the Treasury of New South Wales.

W. D.,
8 March, 1860.

After some deliberation, the Executive Council defer the further consideration of the question submitted in the within Minute, until they have before them complete returns of the sums which would be due to the Government of Queensland on account of the rents, assessments, &c., in question, should the claim to them be admitted and complied with.

SIR,

With reference to my previous correspondence with your predecessor and yourself, concerning the sums due to the Treasury of Queensland on account of rents and assessments for the year 1860, and to a debate bearing upon this subject, and recently held in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, I have the honor, by direction of His Excellency the Governor, in Council, again to press upon your consideration the request of this Government that, if not the whole, at least the major part of that amount should, without further delay, and in accordance with the principles laid down by His Excellency the Governor General, and repeatedly urged upon the Government of New South Wales, be paid into the Treasury of this Colony.

2. If the Government of Queensland should be thus enabled to meet their current expenditure, to the extent of £12,000 or thereabouts, with those revenues which they had calculated upon making available for that purpose, they would offer no objection to the retention, by the Government of New South Wales, of such minor part of the amount due, as might suffice to cover the liabilities of this Colony to the Treasury of New South Wales. Those liabilities being determined by the arbitration of the Governor General, according to the arrangement already agreed upon.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 14th May, 1860, with respect to the Claim of the Government of Queensland to certain Balances of Rents, Assessments, &c.

Minute 60-22. Confirmed 21 May, 1860.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 14th March last, with respect to the payment of certain balances of rents, assessments, licenses, &c., claimed by the Government of Queensland, His Excellency the Governor General again adverts to the question, and places before the Council the Minute explaining the nature of the claim, and His Excellency's own views as to the justice of it, which was submitted to them on the above date.

On that occasion the Council deferred the further consideration of the question until they had before them complete Returns shewing the amount which would be due to the Government of Queensland if the claim were complied with.

These Returns are yet incomplete, and it will be difficult to furnish them in full; but it appears to the Governor General that the possession of them is not essential to the determination of the question; and as it is very desirable that some definite conclusion should be arrived at with respect to it, His Excellency invites the Council to record their views on the subject.

Having deliberated at some considerable length, the Council record their opinion that they would scarcely be justified in recommending that payment should be made of those balances until the Governments of the two Colonies have agreed upon the principles upon which is to be based the division of the debt existing at the time of separation. So soon, however, as the basis of this division has been definitely settled, they will be prepared to recommend that application be made to the Legislature to authorize the payment of the amount now claimed by the Government of Queensland, for rents and other sources of revenue paid in advance for the year 1859-60.

EDWARD C. MEREWETHER,
Clerk of the Council.

Approved—W. D.,

No. 20.

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council on the 21st May, 1860, with respect to the adjustment of Public Accounts between the Colonies of New South Wales and Queensland.

HIS Excellency the Governor places before the Council a Despatch, dated 16th instant, from His Excellency the Governor General, transmitting copies of Minutes submitted by him to the Executive Council of New South Wales, and of their proceedings thereupon, exhibiting the steps that have been taken to elicit the views of the Legislature of that Colony with respect to the adjustment of the outstanding accounts between the respective Colonies, and the measures to be taken to determine the share, if any, of the public debt of the former, with which the revenues of Queensland are properly chargeable.

2. The Council intimate their satisfaction at perceiving from these documents that the Government of New South Wales are not prepared to dispute the justice of the demand which it was thought fitting, on the former consideration of this question, to assert at the outset, namely,—for the transfer of those portions of the revenues of Queensland, for the present year, which had been collected prior to separation; and, this difficulty being removed, the Council desire that the Government should be understood as anxious to co-operate in any practicable arrangements that may tend to the settlement, upon just principles, of the outstanding accounts between the Colonies.

3. It appears to the Council that the principles suggested by the Government of New South Wales, and set forth in the Despatch of Sir William Denison to the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, No. 25, of the 5th February, 1857 (which has been printed by order of the Imperial Parliament), are, more particularly as they bear upon the settlement of the Public Debt, just in themselves, and well calculated to bring the matter to a satisfactory conclusion.

4. It will accordingly be the duty of the Government to propose to the Legislature of this Colony, during the impending Session, to acquiesce in the appointment, with full powers, of a Commissioner or Commissioners, to whom, in conjunction with a similar number of Commissioners from New South Wales, the whole arrangement of the details of the settlement may be entrusted; and of an umpire, to whose final decision all disputed matters may be referred.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th ultimo, enclosing a copy of one from the Commissioner of Trade and Customs at Melbourne, on the subject of the duties on goods imported into this Colony from Victoria, by way of the River Murray.

2. This Government received with much satisfaction the assurance given in the latter part of the Commissioner's letter, that the Government of Victoria would be prepared to consider any proposal having for its object the securing to New South Wales the revenue to which it is fairly entitled.

3. It appears to this Government that an arrangement to the following effect would meet the object in view, namely:—

That on dutiable goods intended to be sent across the River Murray into New South Wales the duty shall be paid at Melbourne, according to the tariff of Victoria; and that on certificates being forwarded from Albury, or such other crossing-places as may be specified, that such dutiable goods have passed into this Colony; the Government of Victoria shall hold to the credit of this Government such amount as would have arisen had the duties been collected under the tariff of this Colony.

The disposal of the difference between the two tariffs being, of course, a matter solely for the consideration of the Government of Victoria, either as a drawback or otherwise.

4. Some regulations to carry such an arrangement into execution would of course be necessary; but there would, it is considered, be no difficulty in agreeing upon these, should the Government of Victoria concur in the proposal now communicated to you.

SIR,

In reference to your Despatch of the 6th July, relative to the collection of Duties of Customs on Goods exported from this Colony across the River Murray, I have the honor to forward herewith a letter which has been received from the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs on the subject, and have to express the concurrence of this Government in Mr. Pyke's views as stated therein.

I have, &c.,

WILLIAM NICHOLSON.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure in No. 2.]

Department of Trade and Customs,
Melbourne, 6 August, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 17th ultimo, concerning a Despatch from the Colonial Secretary of New South Wales relative to the collection of Duties of Customs exported from this Colony across the River Murray,—my answer to which has been delayed, with the view of procuring the information necessary for the investigation of the question in its various bearings.

2. The arrangement proposed by the Government of New South Wales, in the third paragraph of the Colonial Secretary's letter, appears to me to be partially, if not entirely impracticable. By far the larger portion of the dutiable goods conveyed across the Murray, for the use of the trans-riverine population, is purchased from various stores in Melbourne and the inland towns, and conveyed thence to the Borders. No sufficient check could be imposed on operations of this nature to justify this Government, either in instituting a system of drawback, or in crediting New South Wales with the duties payable thereon.

3. In the article of spirits, for instance, it is a fact unfortunately too well ascertained, that illicit distillation is carried on here to a very large extent, so that were the proposition of New South Wales assented to, the revenues of Victoria would, in all probability, be mulcted by the allowance of duties on such illicit spirits, and the trade therein would be greatly encouraged.

Neither should it be overlooked, that the production of Colonial wines and brandies is greatly on the increase.

Albury and other towns in New South Wales export their wines to this Colony, across the frontier, free of duty; and I am informed, by the Chief Inspector of Distilleries, that preparations are making by the vigneron of Victoria to produce large quantities of brandy in the ensuing and successive seasons.

It would clearly be adverse to the interests of both Colonies, to impose restrictive taxes on the disposal of native productions.

It is true that the same difficulty would not occur in the case of goods purchased from bonded stores or cleared from the ship's side, of which goods (the duty being paid in Melbourne when removed for transportation direct to New South Wales) an accurate account could be kept, and, on receipt of a certificate of their arrival at any Port on the Murray, the amount of duty, calculated on the Tariff of New South Wales, could be passed to the credit of that Colony. But as no inducement would or could be held out to purchase from bonded stores or ships only, the necessity of resorting to the very objectionable expedient of maintaining Bonded Custom Houses would still exist, if the Government of New South Wales should finally determine on claiming payment of duties upon all goods crossing the River Murray.

5. The treaty of agreement between the two Governments and South Australia may be cited as a precedent in favor of the proposition now made on behalf of New South Wales. But I submit that a very material difference exists between a system under which inter-colonial duties are levied on goods carried solely by vessels plying on the River Murray, and the arrangement now proposed.

In the former case an accurate account of the cargoes is as easily taken when they are placed on board as in sea-going vessels—the point of deportation is ascertainable, and an efficient check is without difficulty maintained by each of the contracting Governments. But no such account could be kept of goods sent overland from many points of departure, and transported by a multiplicity of conveyances; whilst to ensure the delivery of the same goods at the various crossing-places on the Murray, a system of check and counter-check, necessitating the constant interference of a numerous staff of officials on both sides, would be absolutely necessary.

6. From statistics furnished by officers of this Government, I find that in 1859 the amount of duty payable under the tariff of New South Wales on goods admitted into that Colony was as follows:—

At Belvoir	£9,890	3	1
„ Walynnyah.....	911	16	8
„ Echuca	2,437	6	8
Total	£13,249	6	5

Swan Hill and other places down the river appear to derive their supplies almost wholly from South Australia.

7. Of the goods represented by the above amount, only a very small proportion are taken direct from bond or ship's side; but even assuming that one-half, or £6,600, would be payable to New South Wales under the proposed arrangement, there must still be placed in the balance as against the limited pecuniary gain which would thereby accrue to that Colony, the annoyance and inconvenience that would be inflicted upon all persons interested in the inter-colonial trade; to escape from which, recourse would undoubtedly be had to expedients of a demoralising tendency, and detrimental to the general welfare of both Colonies.

8. Nor should it be forgotten that the balance of trade via the Murray is greatly in favor of New South Wales as against Victoria. The official returns of registered live stock shew that the value of the horses, horned cattle, and sheep imported across the Murray into this Colony considerably exceeds one million sterling per annum; whilst the value of all articles articles exported from Victoria by the same route may fairly be estimated at one-fourth of that amount. New South Wales possesses an undoubted advantage over Victoria in this branch of commerce, from the circumstance that our own settlers are subjected to an annual assessment of six shillings per head on horses, three shillings on cattle, and eight-pence on sheep—a tax from which residents in the adjoining Colony are entirely exempt.

9. To conclude: Having given my most careful consideration to the proposition submitted by Mr. Colonial Secretary Cowper, I am of opinion that the course proposed is not feasible, that it would occasion much vexatious interference with importers and exporters in both Colonies, and that it would tend to check the prosperity and to retard the settlement of the frontier districts. Finally—the advantage proposed to be derived by New South Wales is slight indeed as compared with those which she already enjoys by the present system of unrestricted free trade across the Murray, and would be more than counterbalanced by the injurious effects which must inevitably attend the re-institution of Border Custom Houses. I desire, therefore, that Mr. Colonial Secretary Cowper should be informed that this Government declines to entertain the proposition contained in his Despatch of the 17th July, and that the consideration of the arguments which I have adduced be urged upon his Government, with a view to the abandonment by New South Wales of the proposed interference with arrangements at present in operation so beneficially to both Colonies.

No. 3.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES, to THE CHIEF SECRETARY, VICTORIA.

Colonial Secretary's Office,

Sydney, 22 August, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, enclosing one from the Commissioner of Trade and Customs at Melbourne, on the subject of the proposal contained in my communication to you of the 6th ultimo, relative to the collection of duties for goods exported from Victoria across the River Murray for consumption in New South Wales.

2. Having referred your Despatch and its enclosure to the Treasurer of this Colony, I now transmit a copy of a Minute drawn up by that Minister, in which he replies to the objections stated by Mr. Pyke to the arrangement submitted to you in my former letter, and supports his opinion that it would afford a satisfactory means of meeting the difficulties which have arisen in respect to these duties, subject to some necessary regulations to be mutually agreed upon for bringing the measures suggested into operation.

3. I therefore beg to invite the reconsideration, by your Government, of the proposal which has been made on this subject, and their co-operation in giving effect to it. At the same time, should any modifications still appear to you to be necessary or desirable, every weight will be given to any suggestions with which you may favor me.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES COWPER.

MINUTE.

The proposal made by this Government to the Government of Victoria was the following:—

“ That on dutiable goods intended to be sent across the River Murray into New South Wales, the duty shall be paid at Melbourne, according to the Tariff of Victoria, and that on certificates being produced from Albury or other crossing-places that such dutiable goods have passed into this Colony, the Government of Victoria shall hold to the credit of this Government such amount as would have arisen had the duties been collected under the Tariff of this Colony.”

Objections are taken to this proposal by the Commissioner of Trade and Customs at Victoria; but I beg to submit the following remarks, in the hope that from a further consideration of the subject, the Government of Victoria may be induced to regard more favorably a proposition which I still believe contains an equitable settlement of this very difficult question.

The principal objection put forward by the Commissioner is to the following effect:— That “ by far the larger portion of the dutiable goods conveyed across the Murray for the use of the trans-riverine population is purchased from various stores in Melbourne and the inland towns,” and that, therefore, “ no sufficient check could be imposed on operations of this nature to justify the Government of Victoria in instituting a system of drawbacks, or in crediting New South Wales with the duties payable thereon.”

To this it may be urged, that a measure of this character will render some regulations necessary, and if it were notified by the Government of Victoria that it would be requisite that all dutiable goods intended to be sent across the Murray into New South Wales should obtain a certificate of payment of duty at Melbourne, for production at the various crossing-places on that river, there can be little doubt but that the trade in question would soon regulate itself, as the arrangement is one of easy application, and providing every security to the revenue of Victoria.

It will be seen that if such goods were diverted from their original destination, and never reached the frontier, but were consumed in Victoria, the revenue of that Colony would have been protected by the prepayment of duty at Melbourne, while to meet the further objection—"That as illicit distillation is carried on in Victoria to a very large extent, the Government of that Colony would in all probability be mulcted by the allowance of duties on such illicit spirits which might be carried into New South Wales," it must be observed that the provision referred to, that no dutiable goods should pass into New South Wales without being duly certified that duty thereon had been previously paid at Melbourne, affords every protection against such danger.

If it be the case, as pointed out by the Commissioner, that large quantities of spirits, produced from illicit distillation, find their way into New South Wales, it must be obvious that both Colonies are suffering from such a practice. To provide, therefore, that no dutiable goods shall cross the Murray into New South Wales, unless on production of a duty-paid certificate from Melbourne, offers an effectual check to this illegal trade, and protects in fact the revenues of both Colonies.

As a simple compliance with a regulation of this character would secure to Victoria an uninterrupted trade with this Colony of much importance, it would doubtless prove generally acceptable to the mercantile community, as by its operation every inducement to carry on a trade with New South Wales, other than under its provisions, would be removed. This arrangement contemplating the payment of only one duty, no motive, therefore, for any other than a legitimate trade could exist.

Differing from the view taken by the Commissioner, I cannot but regard the treaty of agreement between the two Governments and South Australia as a clear precedent for the course now under consideration, with the exception that it can be carried into effect with greater facility in the one case than in the other.

That some inconvenience, and perhaps expense, may be incurred in carrying out this proposition, is very probable, as this is a condition common to all fiscal arrangements, and this Government would be quite prepared to share in any additional expenditure which may in consequence become necessary.

While I think that the proposal submitted to the Government of Victoria is one calculated to settle amicably and equitably a difficult and embarrassing question, I would suggest that it cannot be considered as unduly claiming from her such an amount of co-operation as would give effect to it; but at the same time, every weight should be given to any suggestions of that Government for such modifications of the proposal as would render it more acceptable to that Colony.

It would perhaps not be desirable to complicate this question with the discussion of the important subject referred to by the Commissioner, as to the propriety of restrictive taxes on native productions, as this would open up a very large and important subject connected with differential duties. As concerns adjoining Colonies, however, the matter must be regarded as one of great importance, and deserving serious consideration.

Chief Secretary's Office,

SIR,

Your letter of the 22nd of August, on the subject of the collection of duties on goods exported from this Colony across the Murray River to New South Wales, with an enclosure from the Honorable the Treasurer at Sydney, having been referred to the Commissioner of Trade and Customs, I have the honor to call your attention to the enclosed communication in reply.

You will perceive from Mr. Pyke's letter, that the views expressed in his communication of the 6th of August have been strengthened by subsequent inquiries and a further consideration of the subject; and I would observe, that the opinions of his colleagues, after maturely considering the question, are perfectly in accordance with those views.

Under these circumstances, therefore, I have to state that the Government of Victoria cannot accede to the proposal of the New South Wales Government, as contained in your despatch of the 6th of July.

COMMISSIONER OF TRADE AND CUSTOMS to CHIEF SECRETARY.

Department of Trade and Customs,Melbourne, 17 September, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to return herewith the despatch from the Colonial Secretary of New South Wales, which was referred to me upon the 25th ultimo, in which Mr. Cowper invites the reconsideration by this Government of the proposal contained in the previous communication of the 6th July, relative to the collection of duties on goods exported from Victoria across the River Murray to New South Wales.

I have carefully reconsidered the proposition of the Government of New South Wales, and with every desire to arrive at an amicable conclusion. But the result of my inquiries seem to confirm me more strongly in the views expressed in my communication of the 6th ultimo (No. C. 257.) It is certain that but few goods intended for the trans-riverine are purchased directly out of bond; the greater part, indeed, being broken parcels, which are procured at various stores, and the duties on which could not possibly be held to the credit of New South Wales.

Any advantage, therefore, which the adjoining Colony might derive from the proposed arrangement would be almost infinitesimal.

On the other hand, such an arrangement could not be entered into without of necessity calling into existence the highly objectionable system of Border Custom Houses—a system which would at once give rise to the complications referred to in the concluding paragraph of the Treasurer's Minute, as resulting from the imposition of restrictive taxes on native productions; inasmuch as, at the present time, the wines of New South Wales are somewhat largely imported over the Murray into Victoria.

I desire to add, that the Honorable the Treasurer of New South Wales appears to misapprehend my remarks relative to illicit distillation, which were only made by me for the purpose of illustrating my argument, that, under the proposed system, this Government would be liable to credit New South Wales with duty on goods which had never passed through our Custom House, a liability which could not be altogether removed by any practicable code of regulations.

Under these circumstances, I would urge that the Colonial Secretary of New South Wales be informed that this Government finally declines to accede to the proposition made by him.

FRAS. CADELL, ESQ., to COLONIAL TREASURER, NEW SOUTH WALES.

110, Bourke-street West,

Melbourne, 21 August, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to bring under your notice a matter of much importance as connected with question of Border Customs, now at issue betwixt the two Colonies.

On or about the 28th of May, certain packages of tea were shipped on board the steamer "Wakool," from my depôt at the Darling junction, which had paid the New South Wales duty at the Goolwa. The fact of the shipment was communicated by my agent's letter to Mr. Cossack—the nearest Victorian Customs House officer. Mr. Cossack allowed the boat to pass his station, as did Mr. Foster, the Customs House officer at Swan Hill; however, that officer, on the boat's descending the river, seized the teas, because they were not in the manifest.

It is almost superfluous for me to point out the impossibility of a steamer producing a manifest from the Darling Junction, seeing that New South Wales has no Custom House officer within hundreds of miles of that point,—the result is, that New South Wales, with upwards of 1500 miles of river frontage, is liable to have any goods seized in transitu from one point to the other of her frontier, simply because they are not manifested, and because Victoria keeps up the "right of search."

I was informed yesterday, in the office of the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs, that Victoria asserts her right to seize all unmanifested goods found on board vessels within three miles of her coasts.

I have unsuccessfully endeavored to discover by what principle of justice or equity Victoria should protest against the establishment of Border Custom Houses on your side of the river, whilst on hers a "cordon" of similar institutions exists. Smuggling by the River Murray I hold to be the next thing to an impossibility; as the river-borne goods must of a necessity have paid duty to one of the three Colonies—it matters not to the steamers which. The incentives, therefore, to carry on a contraband do not exist.

I enclose copy of a letter to the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs, relative to the seizure of teas ex "Wakool," and would respectfully request that, as the goods paid New South Wales duties, you will see fit to demand their release from the Victorian authorities, and to adopt such measures as will for the future keep the legitimate traffic of New South Wales from similar vexatious annoyances.

Melbourne, 20 August, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that a second illegal seizure has been perpetrated by the Searcher of Customs at Swan Hill, of certain packages of tea, on board the steamer "Wakool." The said teas were shipped from my depôt at Darling Junction, of which Mr. Cossack, the nearest Victorian Customs officer, was duly informed by my agent. The letter addressed to Mr. Cossack was shown by the master of the steamer to Mr. Foster, who, after allowing the steamer to proceed up river, actually made the seizure on her downward trip.

For your information, I beg to state that the Victorian Government alone keep up the "right of search" on the Murray, which is totally useless, as all "river-borne" goods must of necessity pay duty at the Goolwa, such "right of search," which places great powers of annoyance into the hands of the Rural Police, and which, judging from the two last seizures, they are apt to take advantage of.

As the goods which were seized were shipped from the Colony of New South Wales, I shall address that Government, with the view of procuring its mediation for their release; and at the same time, to endeavour to obtain some guarantee that the internal water communication may for the future be freed from the trammels and fetters which at present it is being impeded with.

SIR,

I have the honor, with reference to the seizure of goods ex "Wakool," to enclose copy of letter, dated 21st instant, received from the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs.

By the above communication it appears, that as the goods were seized on the downward trip, and that, if such statement be fully substantiated, the Searcher of Customs has been instructed to release them as coming from New South Wales.

Under any circumstances, two months will elapse before I can again get possession of them. This leaves the principle of the "right of search," and subsequent seizure, the same as before, with no guarantee against a recurrence of similar exercise of authority.

It may not be out of place to explain that the Murray River, as far as the Darling Junction, is navigable to that point, nearly, and sometimes for the whole twelve months, and extensive depôts for the supply of the interior have been established. Such depôts, however, will be comparatively useless, unless the navigation of the Murray is free, and Victoria resigns the power of seizing New South Wales shipments.

What is required is, the "Free Navigation of the Murray River," i.e., on goods having once paid duty;—they should be then considered beyond the grasp of the Victorian Police.

SIR,

I am directed by the Commissioner of Trade and Customs to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 20th instant, and I am to acquaint you that Mr. Pyke does not consider that you are entitled to make use of the phrase "illegal," with respect to the detention of certain packages of tea found on board the "Wakool" by the Searcher of Customs at Swan Hill. Under the circumstances, however, of the goods being detained on the downward "trip," the Searcher has been instructed (if such statement be fully substantiated) to release the goods as coming from New South Wales.

MINUTE.

The Colonial Secretary,

This is a very unexpected and extraordinary proceeding on the part of the Customs Officers of Victoria. The seizure was made while the tea was being conveyed by steamer on the Murray, from one part of this Colony to another. I am not aware of any authority for this interference with the free navigation of that river, more especially as by the Imperial Act, 18 and 19 Vict., cap. 54, it is enacted "That the whole water-course of the River Murray, from its source to the Eastern Boundary of the Colony of South Australia, is, and shall be, within the Territory of New South Wales."

The tea in question had either paid duty at Goolwa, on ascending the Murray, in terms of the Inter-Colonial Treaty, or it belonged to and had paid duty in New South Wales; and as the goods were in transitu, and not in the Territory of Victoria, were certainly not liable to seizure or even detention by the Customs Officers of that Colony. Even if the goods be given up, as intimated in Mr. Tyler's letter, on clear proof being adduced that they came from New South Wales, the assertion of this claim to "right of search" over all our water-borne goods on that river, raises a question of the greatest importance to the interests of this Colony, and on which we ought to claim the earliest explanation from the Government of Victoria. This proceeding, however, discloses the fact that the frontier of Victoria is most jealously guarded against any infringement of the Customs laws, whilst, at the same time, any attempt on the part of this Colony to protect in a similar manner its revenue, which is so seriously suffering from the uninterrupted operations of that Colony, is met by the strongest protest.

FRAS. CADELL, ESQ., to COLONIAL TREASURER, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Melbourne, 10 September, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you that another seizure has been made by the Victorian Police, from my steamer "Wakool," on the Murray River.

The said vessel was bound from Wentworth to the Murrumbidgee, with a general cargo of settlers' supplies transhipped in the Darling from the steamer "Ruby" (King, master); that vessel being inapplicable for the navigation of the Murrumbidgee.

On purpose to avoid any difficulties which the Victorian Police are persistently throwing in the way of the "free navigation of the Murray," the "Wakool" took on the manifest and clearance of the "Ruby;" but those documents availed nothing, as the following extract from a letter from the master of the "Wakool" shews.

"Wentworth, Darling River,

"27 August, 1860.

"I have now the mortification to inform you that, on my way up, I was stopped by Mr. Cossack (Police Officer, Victorian side), and all (dutiable goods) on board seized. I had the 'Ruby's' clearance and bills of lading with me, but he would not let me pass. He says that he can see that all the goods are duty paid, but my name was not King, and the vessel was not the 'Ruby.'"

As I pointed out to you on a previous occasion, it was impossible for the Captain to obtain a manifest for his own vessel at Wentworth, as New South Wales has not a Custom House officer in the district.

I beg respectfully to call your special attention to the facts of this case:—Here is a vessel takes on a cargo in an exclusively New South Wales river, and is bound to another river also belonging exclusively to that Colony, but to reach which she has to pass the Murray, a stream hitherto considered as common to both, but now in the undisputed possession of the Victorian Police, and is accordingly deprived of her cargo by them. It will hardly be credited that sergcauts, if not constables of that force, are delegated to act as Collectors of Customs.

Thus, as shewn in my former correspondence, is New South Wales debarred from making use of the great highway to her Western Possessions, and thus is the entire commerce of those regions disorganized by men in subordinate situations, who are perfectly callous as to the injuries they are inflicting on important interests, and who appear but too anxious harshly to wield the power that seems without due consideration to have been placed in their hands.

I have the honor, for your information, to state, that the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs, Mr. Pyke, judging from the former seizures that have been effected by the Victorian Police, had anticipated the probability of similar occurrences, and instructions were forwarded to the officer to release the shipments detained.

Mr. Pyke has evinced a ready desire to remove the existing restrictions, and although still retaining the power of the "right of search," has promised that for the present it will be held in abeyance.

SIR,

I have the honor to inform you, that a representation has been made to this Government, that certain packages of tea, on which duty was paid at Goolwa, had been seized by an officer of the Department of Customs of Victoria at Swan Hill, whilst being conveyed in the steamer "Wakool," from the depôt of Captain Cadell, at the Darling Junction, to another part of this Colony; and it has been further stated, that vessels trading between different places on the Frontier of New South Wales are subject to search by officers of Customs stationed along the border of Victoria.

2. The goods referred to are understood to have been restored; but it appears to the Government of this Colony necessary to invite your early attention to the circumstance, with a view to such orders being given as may prevent a recurrence of such interference with the trade of this Colony; as the seizure seems to have been made not only contrary to the Inter-Colonial Treaty—the duty on the articles, of which Victoria receives a portion, having been paid at Goolwa—but at variance with the law, the goods being on board a vessel within the boundary of New South Wales, for removal from one part of the territory to another. Even had the articles been disembarked, or intended to have been landed at any place in Victoria, it can hardly be considered that their seizure could be held to be consistent with the negotiation at present pending for the purpose of obviating the necessity of Customs officers on the Frontiers of the two Colonies, and on which subject I had the honor of addressing a communication to you on the 22nd of last month.

*Department of Trade and Customs,

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of two communications from the Honorable the Colonial Secretary of New South Wales, dated respectively 18th and 20th September, which were referred to me on the 24th and 25th idem; and in which the attention of this Government is invited to certain seizures which had been made on the steamer "Wakool," specified in the margin, and trading upon the River Murray.

The seizures therein alluded to were made under a Departmental Order issued by my predecessor in August last, in accordance with the powers vested in the Commissioner of Trade and Customs by the (Victorian) "Customs Act, 1857." On reference to the Act 18 and 19 Vict., cap. 54, sec. 5, it will be found, that although the River Murray is undoubtedly within the Territory of New South Wales, the Colonies bordering thereon are entitled to "make regulations for the levying of Customs duties on articles imported into the said two Colonies (New South Wales and Victoria) respectively, by way of the River Murray, and for the punishment of offences against the Customs Laws of the said two Colonies respectively."

So far, therefore, as the legalities of the case are concerned, it is evident that the Government of Victoria have not exceeded their own rights, nor infringed on the rights of that of New South Wales, by these seizures. Neither can it be shown that their action therein is in contravention of the Inter-Colonial Treaty. But deeming the system of "Border Custom Houses" impolitic, and taking into consideration also the recent assimilation of the South Australian tariff, I issued, on the 13th instant, an Order (a copy of which is herewith forwarded for the information of the Government of New South Wales) which will effectually prevent the recurrence of difficulties of a like nature.

I may add, that upon being apprized of the seizures alluded to in the letters of Mr. Cowper, I immediately ordered the goods to be released, and acquainted the owners with that circumstance.

MURRAY RIVER TRADE.

AFTER mature consideration, I have arrived at the conclusion that the system of stopping and searching vessels on the Murray is impolitic and injurious to the river trade. Under these circumstances, I hereby cancel the instructions contained in Mr. Tyler's letters of the 26th August, 1859, No. A. 663-665, in the last paragraph of his letter of the same date, No. A. 662, and in the 5th paragraph of Mr. Miller's letter of the 25th August, 1859, No. A. 660.

Searchers of Customs will, in future, exercise the right of search only when goods are landed on the Victorian side; and no vessels coming down the river are to be in any way interfered with.

In the case of goods landed from vessels which have not the original clearance from the Goolwa on board, the officer will accept copies or extracts from the original manifests, (with full particulars or marks, brands) as sufficient evidence of any goods having duty paid at the Goolwa, and afterwards transhipped. Should there be no such copies, nor other evidence to prove the payment of duty, the goods should be detained and full particulars transmitted to me.

PILOTS AND LIGHTKEEPERS.

A RETURN shewing the Number of Cases tried before the STEAM NAVIGATION AND PILOT BOARD, from 1st May, 1858, to the 30th April, 1860, having reference to PILOTS AND LIGHTKEEPERS; shewing the nature of the Charges brought forward in each case; the Number ofittings on each inquiry; the Number of Witnesses examined, and the Board's Recommendation to the Government.

DATE.	COMPLAINT BY.	AGAINST.	SUBJECT OF COMPLAINT.	No. of General Sitings	No. of Special Sitings	No. of Witnesses	RECOMMENDATION OF THE BOARD.	REMARKS.
1 10 June, 1858	Master of the Steamer "Tynemouth."	The Pilots of Port Jackson..	That on entering the port he burned blue lights for a pilot but did not get one.	8	..	4	Pilots Kelly and Fullarton, guilty of serious neglect of duty; the Board recommended that they should be fined £5 each, and cautioned.	Fined.
2 1 July, "	The Harbor Master	Pilot Jenkins	The wreck of the barque "Annie" which in his charge.	5	8	12	The Board found that the loss of the vessel was attributable to a grave error of judgment on the part of Pilot Jenkins; but, considering his previous services and his testimonials from some of the most respectable firms in Sydney, advised that he should be restored to his situation.	Reinstated.
3 29 "	Principal Keeper, Hornby Light (Brown)	Wm. Hunter, Second Assistant Keeper.	A misunderstanding about some tubs	2	..	2	Complaint dismissed; Hunter to return to duty.
4 2 Aug, "	Captain of H.M.S. "Cordelia."	Pilot Kelly	Damage to the fore-topmast of the "Esperanza," by coming into collision with the "Cordelia."	2	..	3	Both Pilot and Master of the "Esperanza" to blame; each to pay half the cost of repairs.	Approval of.
5 20 "	Master of the "Nourmatral."	T. M'Veigh, Assistant Harbor Master.	For suddenly leaving his vessel without having securely moored her.	5	..	4	The Board had doubt as to M'Veigh's sobriety, and reported that they did not consider him a fit person to continue in the public service; and subsequently, after having examined the boatman who took him home, that nothing had transpired to lead them to arrive at any other conclusion, and that his leaving the vessel so suddenly was most unjustifiable.	Dismissed.
6 5 Oct., "	Principal Keeper (Brown) Hornby Lighthouse.	Wm. Hunter, 2nd Assistant Keeper.	Insolent language, and improper conduct.	3	That, on account of the ill-feeling between the parties, the Board recommended that Hunter should be provided with other employment.	Dismissed.
7 8 Dec., "	Allan, D. T., Harbor Master Newcastle.	Beacher, R., Assistant Harbor Master.	Insolent language to his superior when ordered to do certain duty at the wreck of the "Triumph."	3	Considering his length of service he would not recommend his dismissal, trusting that a warning would be sufficient.	Warned.
8 16 "	The same	Murphy, Assistant Light-keeper.	Sleeping whilst on watch in the lantern.	1	Considering that the consequences of such neglect might be most serious, and that this was the second offence, the Board recommended that his services be dispensed with.	Dismissed.

No. of Case.	DATE.	COMPLAINANT BY.	AGENTS.	SUBJECT OF COMPLAINT.	No. of General Sittings.	No. of Special Sittings.	No. of Witnesses.	RECOMMENDATION OF THE BOARD.	REMARKS.
9	16 Dec., 1858	Captain Hellow	Pilot Gibson	Not having boarded his vessel in time to be useful, he objected to pay pilotage.	2	Mr. Gibson to pay half pilotage (£2 10s.) by way of fine, for not using due diligence.	Fined.
10	4 Jan., 1859	Captain Henderson, "Free Trader."	Not specified	That the "Golconda" came into collision with his vessel, doing certain damage.	3	Assistant Harbor Masters, Shaw and Myhill, found guilty of neglect of duty; to pay the cost of damage (£17 14s. 10d.) equally.	Confirmed.
11	17 Mar., "	Brown, T. T., Principal Keeper, Hornby Light.	McGrath, Assistant Keeper ..	Neglect of duty and disobedience of orders, and damaging the reflectors.	3	..	1	The Board found that McGrath was of slovenly and indolent habits, and that he was disobedient and neglected his duty, and they considered that he should be removed.	Removed.
12	17 "	McGrath, Assistant Keeper ..	Brown, Principal Keeper	Being absent from the lantern during his watch, and for neglecting to call McGrath when his (Brown's) watch had expired—24 hours.	2	..	1	Charge not clearly sustained; Mr. Brown to be cautioned that he is expected to uphold the regulations in their integrity.
13	21 "	Agents, "Isabella Hamilton"	Not specified	That the vessel had not the services of a pilot, but was charged pilotage.	2	Board found that Pilots Robsen and Fullarton had not offered valid excuses for not being on duty, and recommended that they should be fined in the amount (£5)—to be paid equally—and that the pilotage should be refunded to the Agents.	Fined. Confirmed.
14	24 "	Captain McLeod, "Taranaki"	Not specified	That he did not receive the services of a pilot.	1	..	3	Pilot Jenkins guilty of a breach of the regulations; the Board recommended that he should be fined £2.	Fined.
15	24 "	Certain Boatmen at the Heads, and Towns & Co.	Pilot Kelly	For not boarding the "Independence," and that he did not take a full crew in his boat.	3	..	5	The Board found that there was no evidence of a light for a pilot having been shewn, and, therefore, that the pilotage could not be returned as demanded; that Kelly was not to blame for not taking a full crew, as the large boats promised under the regulations had not been supplied.
16	7 April, "	Hannell, Principal Keeper, Newcastle Light.	Fitzgerald, 2nd Keeper,	For allowing the light to go out, and for being insolent when spoken to on the subject.	1	..	1	The Harbor Master, Newcastle, held inquiry into the case, and reported personally to the Board; and they instructed him to reprimand Fitzgerald, and inform him that, had it not been for his long services, they would have dealt severely with the case. And with reference to his counter-charge against Hannell, that such is no palliation for his misconduct.
17	26 "	Owner of "Mechanic"	Not specified	Not obtaining the services of a pilot.	1	The pilots on duty stated that no signal was made for a pilot, and that no answer was given when she was hailed from the Lightship; the Board informed the owners accordingly.

No. of Case.	DATE.	COMPLAINT BY.	AGAINST.	SUBJECT OF COMPLAINT.	No. of General Sittings.	No. of Special Sittings.	No. of Witnesses.	RECOMMENDATION OF THE BOARD.	REMARKS.
18	12 May, 1859	The Chairman of the Board.	Pilot Robson	For being away from the station, in Sydney, where he was taken in charge for abusive conduct and drunkenness; confined in the station-house all night, and fined £1 next day.	1	Robson admitted the facts, but appealed strongly to the sympathy of the Board—promising never again to be guilty of such an act. The Board, considering his long services, recommended that he should be suspended for one month, and cautioned that a similar offence would entail his dismissal.	Suspended.
19	"	Robinson, Assistant Light-keeper, Hornby Light.	Brown, Principal Keeper	For neglecting to perform his share of the duties.	111	..	1	The Board found Brown guilty of neglect of duty in not attending to the lighting of the lantern in his proper turn, and warned him that the regulations must be attended to, or that he would render himself liable to removal.
20	16 June, "	Master of the "Nancy"	Pilot Taylor, Newcastle	For having run the "Tomatin" foul of 111 his vessel, doing certain damage.	111	The Harbor Master, Newcastle, reported, and the Board found that no blame was attributable to Taylor, as it was a case that could not have been controlled by skill.
21	16 "	The Pilot Board	Pilot Gibson	For putting Coxswain Lee in charge of the "Agnos."	111	The Board could not see anything to justify the act; and recommended that he should be fined £5, and cautioned that a similar offence would entail a severer penalty.	Fine.
22	7 July, "	Allan, Harbor Master, Newcastle.	Beecher, Assistant Harbor Master.	For gross misconduct and abusive language towards him.	11	Beecher failed to explain his misconduct; and as such insubordination is subversive of all discipline, the Board recommended his removal.	Dismissed.
23	14 "	Fitzgerald, late a Keeper at Newcastle.	Hannell, Principal Keeper, Newcastle.	Intemperance and general neglect of duty.	1	On the report of the Harbor Master, Newcastle, the Board found that the complaint was sufficiently answered to warrant no further steps being taken.
24	14 "	Master of "Mountain Maid."	Pilot Taylor, Newcastle	For running a vessel of which he was in charge into the "Mountain Maid."	11	On the report of the Harbor Master, Newcastle, the Board found that both parties were to blame. Taylor was reprimanded for erring in judgment, and cautioned to be more careful.
25	14 "	Master of "Robert & Betsy"	The Pilots	That his vessel was not boarded by a pilot until off the Flooting Light.	1	Pilot Gibson explained, and the Board informed him that his explanation was very unsatisfactory.
26	11 Aug., "	Harbor Master, Moreton Bay	Pilot Watson	For running the "Solon" aground, by getting her under-way under disadvantageous circumstances.	11	The Harbor Master recommended, and the Executive Council confirmed, the removal of Watson and Pilot Gourlay, on account of their incapability of performing their duty.	Dismissed.

PILOTS AND LIGHTKEEPERS.

No. of Case.	DATE.	COMPLAINANT.	AGAINST.	SUBJECT OF COMPLAINT.	No. of General Sittings.	No. of Special Sittings.	No. of Witnesses.	RECOMMENDATION OF THE BOARD.	REMARKS.
27	18 Aug., 1859	The Authorities	Pilot Jenkins	The arrival of the "Gazelle" without a pilot.	1	..	1	The Board found the pilot guilty of neglect of duty, and recommended that he should be fined £5 and cautioned that, in case of a similar offence, he would be fined and suspended also.	Fined.
28	8 Sept., "	Messrs. Booth & Green	Easton, Pilot at the Clarence River.	Easton's conduct, and that the loss of the "Ripley" was consequent upon his neglect.	4	1	5	The Board found that the complainants had failed to prove either that the pilot was blameable, or that he was of intemperate habits, or materially neglected his duty.	Reinstated.
29	8 " "	Master of "Corumbia"	The Pilots	That he had had to pay £15 pilotage, but had not received the services of a pilot.	1	The Board found that Pilot Gibson's explanation was satisfactory; but intimated to him that he should have reported the arrival of the vessel.
30	22 " "	Mr. Hale, owner of the "Rapid"	The Pilot at Kisama	For removing the public moorings, to the detriment of the owners interest.	7	The Board found that the pilot's position as agent for the Illawarra S. N. Co. was incompatible with his public duty, and recommended that he should be called upon to relinquish one or the other. On subsequent report, on inspection of the Port by the Harbor Master of Sydney, the Board withdrew their recommendation.
31	4 Oct., "	The Harbor Master	Pilots Jenkins, Gibson, and Robinson.	For receiving gratuities on false certificates.	4	..	1	The Board found that the pilots were guilty of great irregularity in this matter; but, as the intentions of the Board respecting remuneration to the coxswains might have been misunderstood by the pilots, they believed that the irregularities were committed without any intention to defraud, and considered that a strong expression of disapproval of their conduct would be sufficient.	Reprimanded.
32	27 " "	Master of "F. A. Garrigues"	The Pilots	For not having received the services of a pilot although a signal was made.	2	Pilot Gibson explained. The Board found that his explanation was satisfactory.
33	17 Nov., "	The Harbor Master	Robinson and Johnson, Light-keepers.	An entry in the principal keeper's log, reporting disobedience of orders with reference to a vessel on shore at the North Head.	3	Robinson was informed that, in consequence of the resignation and departure of the principal keeper, they would give him the benefit of the doubt; but he was cautioned that the slightest misconduct in future would entail his dismission.
34	17 " "	Master of "Achilles"	Pilot Robinson	Reporting but not complaining of the grounding of his vessel.	1	The Board found that the pilot was exonerated from blame.

35	24 Nov., 1859	The Authorities	Pilot Robson	For not boarding the "Tesh" until was inside the South Reef although signal was made when the vessel was in the offing.	4	..	2	The Board found that Pilot Robson was not to blame, but it transpired that some of the regulations were totally disregarded by the pilots. The senior pilot was called upon to explain. His report having been read, he was informed that it was but an evasion of the question, and that the regulations must be carried out in their integrity, otherwise the Board would be compelled to recommend the removal or suspension of a pilot, or to supersede him for being incompetent to enforce them.
36	9 Feb., 1860	Fewis, Inspector	Pilot Robson	For not heaving to, to allow him to board the "La Hogue."	2	The Board found that the pilot was not to blame.
37	"	The Authorities	Pilot Robson	For not taking the "Duncan Dunbar" to sea, although ordered for that vessel.	3	Robson failed to explain his neglect, and the Board recommended that he should be fined £10.	Fined.
38	23 "	The Authorities	Pilot Robson	For bringing the "Mauge" (H.I.M.S.S.) into collision with the "Mecklenburgh."	2	The Board recommended that, as the pilot had been guilty of an error of judgment, and wished to make good the damage, he might be allowed to do so.	Approved of.
39	1 Mar., "	Towns & Co.	Pilot Jenkins	For bringing the "Ellen Wallace" into collision with the "Uncle Tom."	1	The pilot neglected his duty, in not reporting the collision. (The subject of the collision not as yet inquired into.)
40	8 "	The Authorities	Pilot Jenkins	The grounding of the "Windhover" ..	1	No complaint having been made by the parties interested, the Board directed the pilots to be informed that they must report all accidents, otherwise a fine would be incurred.
41	22 "	The Authorities	Pilot Robson	For being intoxicated, and leaving the watch when on duty.	2	..	3	The Board reported that they had lost all confidence in Mr. Robson, and they thought it questionable whether he should be permitted to retain his situation.	Dismissed.
42	29 "	Master of "Oceano"	Pilot Robson	For allowing his boat to be lost	1	1	5	The Board found that the boat had been lost through mismanagement and inattention to the regulations, and recommended that the pilot should be compelled to pay £7, and the men (6) £3 each.	Confirmed.

Legislative Assembly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

ASSISTANT LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The humble Petition of the undersigned Assistant Lighthouse Keepers of the several Lighthouses within the Colony of New South Wales,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That the duties incumbent upon your Petitioners, from the circumstances of their being exclusively night duties, and involving as they do the security from danger of the lives and properties of Her Majesty's subjects, are of a most important nature.

That, from the circumstance of the night watches being necessarily divided into several portions of time, each of which is attended to individually either by the Principal Lighthouse Keeper, or one of his two Assistants, the duties of your Petitioners are of great responsibility; each being answerable for any accident or casualty which might happen to the light during the period of the watch of the man on duty.

That the amounts of salaries paid to your Petitioners respectively, for their services, is no more than a sum of (£7) seven pounds sterling monthly; an amount which Petitioners respectfully submit is barely sufficient for the maintenance of Petitioners and their several families.

That Petitioners venture to remark here, that the night watches hereinbefore alluded to necessarily involve the consumption of additional food and refreshment, for the sustenance of Petitioners while on duty; and, as a matter of course, thereby occasion increased expenditure of the already limited funds of Petitioners.

That your Petitioners, without wishing in any way to detract from the merits or responsibilities of their superior officers (the Principal Lighthouse Keepers), or to insinuate that the salaries paid to these officers are higher than they deserve, must yet in justice to themselves venture to say, that the responsibilities of Petitioners while on night duty is fully equal to those of these gentlemen when on such duties; and yet the great disparity of the respective salaries of the Principals to those of their almost equally responsible Assistants appears to Petitioners inequitable; the principal Light Keepers being paid (£15) fifteen pounds monthly, whereas the salaries of Petitioners do not amount to half such sum.

That Petitioners would further respectfully submit they conceive the remunerations they receive for their services must be at a lower rate than those paid the servants of any other Department under Government. They find that the ordinary police constables receive (6s.) six shillings per diem, with clothing; their superior officers, the inspectors, receiving (9s.) nine shillings daily; and even in the Post Office Department it will be found that the letter-carriers, although supplied with clothing, are paid at infinitely higher rates than Petitioners.

Under the circumstances herein set forth, your Petitioners earnestly pray that your Honorable House will be pleased to give favorable consideration to this their respectful Petition, and that your Honorable House will be pleased to afford them such relief as you may deem meet.

And Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

(CORRESPONDENCE, &c., CONNECTED WITH THE ERECTION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 October, 1860.

RETURN to an Address of the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, dated 28 September, 1860, praying that His Excellency the Governor General would be pleased to cause to be laid upon the Table of this House,—

“A Return of all Correspondence and other Documents “connected with the erection of the Light House near Jervis

(Mr. Gray.)

LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS to COLONIAL ARCHITECT.

*Department of Lands and Public Works,
Sydney, 9 April, 1857.*

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 24th January, 1857, respecting the erection of Light Houses on the Australian Coast, I am directed by the Secretary for Lands and Public Works to request that you will have the goodness to enter into correspondence with the Surveyor General, in order that he may detach Mr. Surveyor Millington to accompany you to Cape St. George, for the purpose of enabling the Government to fix upon a suitable site for the erection of a Light House there in accordance with the Report of the Commissioners.

2. You will also have the goodness to arrange to visit the locality with Mr. Millington, at the earliest possible period consistently with your other duties; and Mr. Millington's present proceedings may, perhaps, be interrupted, if necessary to suit your convenience.

3. Mr. Secretary Hay is likewise desirous that you should report as to the description of Lantern necessary for this building, and furnish specifications according to which it may be ordered for importation.

I have, &c.,

MICL. FITZPATRICK.

SURVEYOR GENERAL to UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

*Surveyor General's Office,
Sydney, 8 July, 1857.*

SIR,

In reference to your letter of 21st April last, No. 234, I have the honor to forward, for the information of the Honorable the Secretary for Lands and Public Works, plans and drawings of the survey of the Heads of Jervis Bay, made by Mr. Assistant Surveyor Millington, with the view to a decision being arrived at as to a suitable site for the erection of a Light House.

I have, &c.,

GEO. BARNEY,
S. G.

UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS to COLONIAL ARCHITECT.

*Department of Lands and Public Works,
Sydney, 30 July, 1857.*

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 25th instant, respecting the erection of a Light House at Cape St. George, I am directed by the Secretary for Lands and Public Works to request that you will have the goodness to state whether you are prepared to join Mr. Millington in framing a report as to the eligibility for a Light House of the different sites marked on the plan forwarded to this office by Mr. Millington, and if you are so prepared, to furnish such report without delay, shewing the character of building suitable to each locality.

2. I am at the same time to request that you will have the goodness to forward (if already prepared) the plan of the building, accommodated to the site which you and Mr. Millington consider the most eligible for the erection of the Light House in question.

I have, &c.,

MICL. FITZPATRICK.

COLONIAL ARCHITECT to SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

*Colonial Architect's Office,
Sydney, 17 August, 1857.*

SIR,

In attention to your letter of the 9th April, No. 128, and 30th ultimo, No. 266, relative to a site for the proposed Light House at Cape St. George, I do myself the honor to state that I proceeded with Mr. Surveyor Millington to make an examination for the purpose of selecting a spot suitable for erection of a Light House. The sites considered eligible, after a careful examination, are marked on the plan prepared by Mr. Millington.

It appeared to us that the site marked S on the map possesses greater advantages than any other; it is situated on the cliff, and is distant 4 miles south from the south head of Jervis Bay; it forms part of the outer margin of the Cape, and has a range of vision of 205 degrees seaward; the height is 180 feet above the level of the sea, and the formation is compact compact sandstone to the surface, which will give a solid foundation for the tower if erected on this spot, and if the tower be carried up to the height recommended by the Light House Commission, the total elevation above the sea, of the light, will be 210 feet. The level nature of the summit also is favorable for the erection of the tower and other buildings, and there are facilities for the transport of building materials to it; stone is abundant, fresh water is plentiful at about a mile distant, shells for lime can be procured on the coast, and sand at a short distance. The timber and other building stores, the lantern, light, and supplies for the light and keepers may be landed on the beach in Jervis Bay, convenient to the site.

The cost of erecting the light, tower, and necessary buildings at this spot, is estimated at £4,350.

The site marked T is situated on another cliff of similar geological structure, about 1½ miles to the northward of site S; its present height is 195 feet above the level of the sea, and the light, if this spot be selected, would be elevated 215 feet above the sea level; the range of vision is only 174 degrees. A heavy outlay would have to be incurred in cutting down the top of the cliff to obtain a sufficiently level site; the access to it is most difficult for cart, or even for foot traffic. The cost, under these circumstances, of erecting the necessary buildings cannot be estimated at less than £6,500.

I have, &c.,
ALEXR. DAWSON,
Colonial Architect.

It is understood that the Pilot and Light Board are now to express an opinion on this matter. Transmit to Mr. Lane for the purpose (with the plan.)

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Sydney, 14 September, 1857.

SIR,

I am instructed to request that you will bring under the notice of the Minister for Finance and Trade, the subject of Light Houses on Cape George and Gabo Island.

Surveys having been made by the Colonial Architect and Assistant Surveyor Millington, the Board are of opinion that plans should be drawn, and tenders invited, for the erection of a tower 50 feet high, on the point marked S on Mr. Millington's plan, which site appears to have been judiciously selected.—(The remainder of this letter applies to Gabo Island.)

W. L. G. DREW,
Secretary.

HARBOR MASTER to SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

The Port Office,
15 October, 1858.

SIR,

With reference to the accompanying papers relative to the erection of a Light House on Cape St. George, I am directed by the Steam Navigation and Pilot Board to inform you, that the Board recommend that the sum of £4,350 be placed on the Estimates for the ensuing year, for the construction of the Light House in question; and to request that you will be good enough to submit for the consideration of the Honorable the Treasurer that, should the vote be agreed to, no time be lost in causing the Light House to be erected on the site indicated in Mr. Surveyor Millington's map, marked S.

I have, &c.,
JOHN CROOK,
Harbor Master.

Submitted for the concurrence of the Honorable the Secretary for Land and Public Works.

SECRETARY

LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to COLONIAL ARCHITECT.

Pilot Board Office,
4 July, 1859.

SIR,

I have the honor, by direction of the Pilot Board, to return to you the chart and plans respecting the proposed Light House on Cape St. George, and to inform you that the Board approve of the design for the tower and keepers' quarters.

With reference to the sites marked S and T on the coast chart, the Board coincide with you in opinion—also expressed by Mr. Surveyor Millington—that that marked S possesses considerable advantages over the latter, and they therefore approve of the tower being erected as recommended by you.

I have, &c.,
W. J. WILSHIRE,
Secretary.

COLONIAL ARCHITECT to UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

Colonial Architect's Office,
Sydney, 4 July, 1859.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to submit, for approval of Minister for Lands and Public Works, a plan for a Light House to be erected at Cape St. George. The design, together with the accompanying plan, shewing the site recommended, has been submitted to and approved by the Pilot Board, as notified in the letter from the Secretary, transmitted herewith.

I also forward, for publication in the Government Gazette, a form of advertisement, inviting tenders for erection of the building.

I have, &c.,
ALEXR. DAWSON,
Colonial Architect.

Insert notice, and re-submit.—Notice inserted. Tenders to be opened on the 16th August next.

Approved,—JOHN R.
8 July.

THE PILOT BOARD.

Before the site for the Light House about to be erected at Jervis Bay is finally determined upon, I should be glad to be favored by the Pilot Board with their views as to the most suitable locality on which the Light should be placed.

In the evidence taken before the Light House Commission in 1856, the balance of evidence seemed to have been in favor of Cape St. George, though some approve of Point Perpendicular, and others Crocodile Head; and, on conversing with nautical men, I find a considerable difference of opinion prevails.

In selecting a site for a Light House, the main purpose aimed at should, no doubt, be to accomplish as many advantages as the position will admit; and in erecting one at this particular part of the coast, we should, if practicable, render it useful to shipping bound either north or south.

From the position of Cape St. George, this Light would, I have heard it stated, if placed on that headland, be of no benefit to vessels bound south, as it would be shut in by the high land to the north.

If such a site could be selected as would ensure this Light answering as valuable a purpose as the outer South Head Light does to vessels coming south, by warning them to keep it open from the North Head, to avoid the Long Reef, an advantage of the greatest importance would be gained; and it has been suggested, that by selecting Crocodile Head, this could be accomplished, as in working along the coast, either to the northward or southward, this Light, or Crocodile Head, kept open from the high land on either side of it, would lead clear of all danger.

This, however, is a matter which I leave to the experience of the Board, and should be glad if they would give the subject early consideration, as tenders have been called for the erection of the building.

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Pilot Board Office,
30 July, 1859.

SIR,

In returning the enclosed Minute of the Honorable the Treasurer, upon the subject of the selection of the best site for the Light House proposed for Cape St. George, I am directed by the Pilot Board to report, that it is the opinion of a majority of the Board—consisting of Messrs. Deloitte, Darley, Smith, and Fox—that the site recommended in the Commissioners' Report is not the most eligible, as they conceive that by the Light House being erected on, or in the vicinity of, Crocodile Head, or the eastermost headland on the north side of Jervis Bay, advantages such as those mentioned in the Report alluded to will be attained by vessels coming from the southward, and greater benefit by vessels coming from the northward. The minority—consisting of the Chairman and Mr. Watson—considered that nothing had been adduced which would justify them in setting aside the evidence of the large majority of witnesses examined in Melbourne, in reference to the site in question; and they were of opinion that, by placing the Light on the headlands to the northward of the Bay, it would be of little or no advantage to vessels coming from the southward, to warn them of the danger of the indentation to the southward of the Cape.

I have, &c.,

W. J. WILSHIRE,
Secretary.

I have consulted Commodore Loring upon this subject, and he is clearly of opinion that the best site for the Light House is that originally proposed, namely, Cape St. George.

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Pilot Board Office,
6 June, 1860.

SIR,

The Pilot Board deem it their duty to communicate, for the information of the Honorable the Treasurer, that a report has been made by a Mr. Sheppherd, master of a schooner trading regularly between Sydney and Twofold Bay, to the effect that the Light House now in course of erection at Cape St. George is not placed on that headland; but a mile and a half to the northward of it, and on an indentation of the coast, whereby it is shut out from observation of vessels approaching from the southward.

Mr. Sheppherd states that, whilst lying wind-bound the other day, he took the opportunity to visit the Light House, and found its position as described; and, from his knowledge of the coast, he believes that it will be useless for the purpose for which it was intended; that is, to enable vessels coming from the southward to avoid the deep indentation to the south of Cape St. George, commonly known as "Wreck Bay."

Mr. Sheppherd's opinion having been corroborated by Capt. Moodie, of the "City of Sydney," Capt. Clinch, of the "Tasmania," and by the Contractor, who pointed out the position on the plan to the Chairman, it appears to the Board that the rumour has assumed sufficient importance for the serious consideration of the Government, before the works proceed further.

Reference to the Minutes of this and former Boards shews tolerably clear how the position for this Light House was decided upon.

After the confirmation by this Government of the arrangements proposed by the Joint Commission which met in Melbourne in 1856, on the subject of Light Houses, an expedition, consisting of the Colonial Architect and Mr. Millington, of the Surveyor General's Department, was despatched to examine the land in the immediate vicinity of Cape St. George, with the view of fixing the position for the Light House. An elaborate plan and section of the coast at Jervis Bay was prepared, shewing two sites, marked S and T; and also a Report by the Colonial Architect, explanatory of the capabilities of each site. These were laid before the Light, Pilot, and Navigation Board in September, 1857, and the Board recommended that the position S afforded the advantages contemplated by the Commission.

Nothing further seems to have been done until 1st July, 1859, when the plan was forwarded to the present Board, at the request of the Colonial Architect, for their opinion as to the eligibility of the two sites, which was similar to that formerly given, viz.—that the site S was the more suitable of the two.

On the 28th July a question was submitted, by the Honorable the Treasurer, to the Board, as to the proposed site on Cape St. George, compared with Point Perpendicular, or Crocodile Head, on the northern side of Jervis Bay; and the Board being divided as to the eligibility of the two positions, the conclusions of the majority and minority were communicated to the Government; but up to the present time the Board have not been favored with the decision of the Minister.

The work has been proceeded with under the direction of the Colonial Architect; and the Lantern, after having been tested here, has been shipped to its destination, and is now, probably, nearly ready for lighting.

A

LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

A reference to Mr. Millington's plan will at once shew that the site S is the only one eligible on the Southern Headland, as the arc of vision, therein mentioned at 205°, extends the advantages of the light considerably to the westward of south, cutting the coast line to the northward of Ulladulla; whereas the situation, as indicated by Mr. Sheppard and the others, would allow the high land of the Cape to intercept the rays, and thereby render the light useless as a warning to clear "Wrcek Bay."

The survey having been made when such matters were under the control of a Port Master, the Board are unable to say whether the locality was visited by that officer.

Not any of the members of the Board have been on the spot, and they are not, therefore, in a position to afford the Government any information as to the correctness of the plan or the features of the land; and, unless the Colonial Architect is able to prove that the Light House is not erected as it is rumoured, it appears to the Board that it would be advisable, before any further progress is made in the works, that either they or some person qualified to give an opinion should inspect the position, and thus enable the Government to decide whether the Light can be exhibited with any degree of usefulness to the navigation of the coast, or whether it had not better be erected on the proper site.

UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY to COLONIAL ARCHITECT.

The Treasury, Sydney,
25 June, 1860.

SIR,

I am directed to request that you will be good enough to state, for the information of the Honorable the Treasurer, if, on your recent passage from Twofold Bay to Sydney, you availed yourself of the opportunity of ascertaining the correctness of the report that the Light House on Cape St. George is erected on an improper site?

I have, &c.,

HENRY LANE,
Under Secretary.

COLONIAL ARCHITECT to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Colonial Architect's Office,
Sydney, 26 June, 1860.

SIR,

In reply to your letter of the 25th instant, I do myself the honor to inform you, that on my return recently from Twofold Bay I had no opportunity of landing at Cape St. George, but the Light House is well seen from the water.

As to the report of the building being erected on an improper site, I can only say that no doubt upon that point has ever occurred to me; the tower being built upon the spot approved by the Government and by the Pilot Board, as expressed in the following extract from Mr. Wilshire's letter to me, of 4 July, 1859:—

"With reference to the sites marked S and T on the Coast Chart, the Board coincide with you in opinion—also expressed by Mr. Surveyor Millington—that that marked S possesses considerable advantages over the latter, and they therefore approve of the tower being erected as recommended by you."

I have, &c.,

ALEX. DAWSON,
Colonial Architect.

The Pilot Board.

E. C. W. 27 June, '60.

PRINCIPAL KEEPER to PILOT BOARD.

Cape St. George,
16 June, 1860.

GENTLEMEN,

I beg leave to inform your Honorable Board, that I arrived at Jervis Bay on Wednesday the 13th, at 10 p.m., and was landed with all the stores the next morning at 4 a.m., and proceeded up to the Light House at 10 a.m., and found that none of the dwelling-houses were completed, and will not be for at least three weeks; the Light Tower and Lantern will be finished in about 10 days.

According to instructions, I beg to state that I have taken the bearings of the Light Tower from the Balcony by compass, and find that the light will be shut in to the Westward of S. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W., and to the Northward of North by E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E.

I also beg leave to inform your Honorable Board, that the landing-place is two miles and a-half from the Light House, and very little wood to be got within three-quarters of a mile of the place, and that the nearest habitation is 15 miles from this, also that the contractors have a very good horse and cart on the ground that they are disposed to sell.

I have, &c.,

W. B. S. GRIFFIN,
Principal Keeper.

SECRETARY

LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Pilot Board Office,
2 July, 1860.

SIR,

With reference to the enclosed letters from the Colonial Architect and the Principal Keeper, respecting Cape St. George Light House, I am directed by the Pilot Board to inform you, that although they would regret to throw any doubt on the distinct assertion of the Colonial Architect as to the position of the Light House, yet they cannot reconcile it with the angle of vision given by the Principal Keeper, which, with the distance described from the landing-place, agrees with the position assigned by Captains Walker and Moodie.

The Board have previously alluded to the area of vision given in Mr. Millington's plan as being, from site S, 205°, cutting the coast line to the northward of Ulladulla. The radii given by the Principal Keeper shew an arc of 185° only, by which nearly two points of the most important portion of the Light, for enabling mariners to avoid "Wreck Bay," are cut off—the light being on a bearing of S. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W.

In consequence of this discrepancy, and looking to the importance of a correct definition of the advantages to be derived from the light, the Board consider that it will be impossible to take any further steps without visiting the station and judging for themselves as to the real position of the tower; and with a view to economize the expense as far as possible, they recommend that as soon as the Colonial Architect is prepared to take over the buildings from the Contractor, a steamer may be chartered to convey that officer and the Board, together with the Assistant Keepers, their families, furniture, and provisions, and the remaining stores, to the Light House.

In the mean time it would be advisable to obtain from the Surveyor General a copy of Mr. Millington's notes, and a description of the two sites, together with the bearings, and height of the land.

It will be seen that the lantern and buildings are not completed, so there is no immediate necessity for the Board to proceed.

I have, &c.,
W. J. WILSHIRE,
Secretary.

Approved,—E. C. W. 11 July, '60.

COLONIAL ARCHITECT to UNDER SECRETARY FOR PUBLIC WORKS.

Colonial Architect's Office,
5 July, 1860.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to report that on Tuesday, the 26th ult., I proceeded to Jervis Bay, and inspected the Light House and dwellings at Cape St. George, and more especially the lantern and light apparatus fixed in the tower.

Repeated personal inspection enables me to state, that the works have been from the commencement carried out in a most satisfactory manner—the masonry, carpenters' work, &c., being of a substantial and durable description—with the exception of a portion of the cement pointing to external walls, and a part of the internal finishings. All the works contracted for will be completed in three weeks.

The lantern, lamps, reflectors, and revolving machinery have been permanently fixed in their places, and on the evening of Thursday last I caused the lantern to be lit and the apparatus to be put in full operation (taking proper precaution to obscure the light to seaward). I found this portion of the works also to have been executed in a most complete, workmanlike manner, and to my entire satisfaction.

I will duly report the completion of the works, in order that the Pilot and Navigation Board may be enabled to take the necessary steps for the permanent operation of the light.

I have, &c.,
ALEX. DAWSON,
Colonial Architect.

May be transmitted to the Minister for Finance and Trade, for his information.

MEMO:—The Pilot Board will proceed to Jervis Bay as soon as it is practicable for the mercantile members to leave Sydney; and considering the great advantage that will be attained by having the position and bearings of the Light House fixed by indisputable authority, the Board would advise that Captain Denham be solicited by the Treasurer to permit a scientific officer of the "Herald" to accompany them, for the purpose of defining the latitude, longitude, and radius of vision of the Light House.

CAPTAIN H. M. DENHAM to CHAIRMAN OF PILOT BOARD.

"Herald," July, 1860.

MY DEAR CAPT. BROWNE,

I have appointed Mr. Hixson, of my surveying staff, to accompany you to Cape George this evening, pursuant to requisition from this Government, and according to your note of last evening to—

Yours truly,
H. M. DENHAM.

SECRETARY TO PILOT BOARD to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

Pilot Board Office,
1 August, 1860.

SIR,

I am directed by the Pilot Board to forward to you, for the information of the Honorable the Treasurer and Secretary for Finance and Trade, the Report of the deputation of the Board who recently visited Jervis Bay, for the purpose of inspecting the Light House lately erected there, and have to request that you will be good enough to intimate to that Minister that, in the opinion of the Board, the Light House is neither in the position recommended by a large majority of the Board, on the 23th July, 1859, nor in that at the same time recommended by the minority. That the Board are further of opinion that the position it occupies is ineligible for the purpose intended, and, if lighted, will fail to be productive of the advantages to the mariner which a proper site would have secured.

That a majority of the Board is also of opinion, and accordingly beg to recommend, that this Light House should not be brought into operation, as they believe that it will only be perpetuating an error which now exists, and which it would be much better at once to remedy, by the removal of the Light House to a more suitable locality. From this latter recommendation the minority of the Board disagree, as they consider that, notwithstanding the ineligibility of the present site to accomplish all that was originally intended by this light, if lighted it will still be of considerable benefit to vessels navigating the coast, and that, by a judicious exemplification of the bearings of the light, when partially intercepted by the land, and when wholly unintercepted, sufficient warning will be afforded the mariner to avoid the dangers in its immediate vicinity.

The situation also affords a guide for entering Jervis Bay.

I have, &c.,
W. J. WILSHIRE.

REPORT of a Deputation of the Pilot Board to the Pilot Board, respecting their visit to Jervis Bay.

Pilot Board Office,
28 July, 1860.

WE have to report that having, in accordance with the Board's decision, that a deputation, consisting of the Chairman, Messrs. Fox, Smith, and Watson, should inspect the position of the Light House recently erected at Jervis Bay,—proceeded there, we now beg to submit the result for the consideration of the Board.

The deputation embarked in the steamer "Mimosa" on Wednesday, at 9 p.m., and after receiving on board from H.M.S. "Herald," Mr. Hixson, the officer appointed by Captain Denham to accompany them, they proceeded to Jervis Bay, and anchored there on Thursday, the 19th, at 11.30 a.m. The weather being squally and thick, and accompanied with showers of rain, it was found impossible to take any observations on that day, and the deputation consequently confined their operations to a visit to the Light House, and an examination of the locality where it is erected. The following day being fine, Mr. Hixson commenced taking the requisite observations for determining the latitude and longitude, as well as the angle of vision open between the extremes of the land to the northward and southward; and the deputation, after taking various angles and bearings, and also ascertaining the height of the Light House above the level of the sea, proceeded to the land situated to the southward of the Light House, taking various bearings of the several points and headlands visited, and returned on board the steamer at 5 p.m.

Having arranged with the Principal Keeper to light the lamps at 6 p.m., and to keep them burning until midnight, the deputation put to sea, and observed the effect of the power and character of the light, and subsequently arrived in Sydney on Saturday, at 4.30 a.m., the 21st inst.

The Light House is situated on a high projecting cliff, 163 feet above the level of the sea; it is in latitude $35^{\circ} 9' 16''$ S., and longitude $150^{\circ} 47' 48''$ E. It consists of a white stone column of good proportions, and the centre of the light will be 61 feet from the ground, or 224 feet above high water mark.

The extreme angle of vision, as shewn by the observations taken by Mr. Hixson, gives a radius of $175^{\circ} 32'$, when clipping the side of the high bluff situated to the southward of the light; but the unobscured angle consists only of $153^{\circ} 40'$, as the intervening space between the low rocky point and the edge of the bluff before alluded to is intercepted by a sloping hill, and thus the light would be obscured to the extent of $19^{\circ} 52'$, except to a vessel at a considerable distance to the southward, and in contact with the angle of light visible above the sloping hill.

The

The extreme radius of vision partially intercepted will be from N.N.E., 4° 30' E., to S. by W., 9° 17' W., and the lesser or uninterrupted angle, from N.N.E., 4° 30' E., to S., 0° 40' W.

The principal sites visited were situated to the southward of the Light House, and two of them offered, in the opinion of the deputation, more suitable positions for a Light House, as they afforded more extensive areas of vision—lighting uninterruptedly as far into "Wreck Bay" (the principal danger intended to be guarded against) as S.W. by S., whereas that object cannot be accomplished by the site on which it is now erected. The deputation consequently consider that this Light House has been most injudiciously placed, and that it will be of little service in carrying into effect the intention of the Light House Commission, when recommending the erection of a Light House on Cape St. George.

On contrasting the character and features of the land with the description given in Mr. Millington's map, and with the Report of the Colonial Architect, the deputation find discrepancies of so grave a character that it is almost impossible to decide whether either of the positions marked S or T really do exist; certain it is that the Light House is not placed on the position marked S, as the deputation find that it stands only 1 3/4 miles from the South Head of Jervis Bay, instead of 4 miles, as described by the Colonial Architect; that its height from the sea is only 163 feet, instead of 180; and that its angle of vision to the low point (the bearing given in Mr. Millington's map) is only 153° 40', instead of 205° as in that Report described, giving a difference of 51° 20', or a little more than one-eighth of the compass.

It is clear, therefore, that the land, as shewn in that map, is inaccurately drawn, and only calculated to mislead; that the Light House has been erected without due consideration, and without taking the angles or attending to the position as indicated by the map and report, as, had such been done, the officer fixing the site would at once have observed the extraordinary discrepancy existing, and would have awaited further instructions before proceeding with the building.

The position of the Light House having now been clearly defined, and it being also certain that it will not accomplish the object for which it was erected, it becomes a matter for consideration whether it is desirable that it should be lighted or not.

This being a subject for the decision of the Board, the deputation do not consider it necessary here to enter into the merits of the case, and will therefore proceed to remark on the character of the light as observed from the steamer, and the adaptability of the structure for a Light House.

The Light House appears to be well and strongly built, and the lighting apparatus good and efficient. The quarters for the Principal Keeper are sufficient, but in consequence of the alteration of the store room into an additional room for that person—a step adopted by the Colonial Architect without the knowledge of the Board—the Assistant Keepers are sadly inconvenienced for want of space for their six months' supply of stores, as the room at the base of the tower is now occupied by oil, spare cylinders, and other Light House stores.

It will, therefore, be necessary, if this Light House is brought into operation, that an outbuilding should be erected, which might consist of a store for the men's provisions, a wash-house, and oven, with boiling copper for the establishment, and a house and stable for the horse and cart. There being no wood within a mile and a half of the Light House, the station must be supplied with a horse and cart. A flagstaff must be erected, and a set of Marryatt's signals provided. Cupboards must also be put up in the Assistant Keepers' quarters.

In respect to the power of the light the deputation can report most satisfactorily, as although the night was dark, accompanied by squalls and rain, the colored lights were seen at a distance of 15 miles, and the bright light, 20; the distance being measured by a patent log.

The deputation feel much indebted to Captain Denham, who deputed Mr. Hixson to accompany them, and also to Mr. Hixson, for enabling them to arrive at a clear solution of the difficulty previously existing, in fixing the position of the Light House on indisputable authority, which position is shewn in his elaborate tracing and survey hereto attached.

H. H. BROWNE.
CHS. SMITH.
HENRY T. FOX.
THOMAS WATSON.

I forward a chart, upon which the Board will be good enough to mark the range of the light. I should be glad also of an exemplification of the bearings, as intended for publication.

As a difference of opinion existed formerly between the members of the Board, as to the best position of the light, I should wish to know how the members are divided on the present point.

E. C. W.
2 Aug., '60.

The majority against bringing the light into operation were Messrs. Deloitte, Darley, Fox, and Smith; and the minority in favor of it were the Chairman and Mr. Watson.

Exemplification herewith, also a letter on the subject from the majority.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

EAST COAST OF AUSTRALIA—LIGHT HOUSE NEAR JERVIS BAY.

The bearings given are magnetic, the distances are in nautical miles, and the variation is $10^{\circ} 15'$ E.

A white stone tower has been erected on a prominent headland, situated $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of the southern bluff (Bowen Island) of Jervis Bay, and 2 miles north of the projection known as Cape St. George, on the coast of New South Wales, from which a light will be exhibited on and after the 1st of October next.

The Tower is 61 feet high, and the centre of the Light will be 224 feet above high water level, and will be visible in all directions of the horizon from north 27° E., round by the eastward to south $0^{\circ} 40'$ W.

It will also be visible $19^{\circ} 52'$ further to the westward over a sloping hill, situated to the southward of the Light House, but only when at a considerable distance to the southward of the same.

The Light is on the Catoptric principle of the 3rd class, and revolving, exhibiting at intervals of 30 seconds a red, green, and white light alternately.

The intensity of the white light is visible from an elevation of 16 feet, in clear weather, at a distance of 20 miles, while its green and red rays vanish at a distance of 15 miles.

The Latitude is $35^{\circ} 9' 15''$ S.; and

The Longitude, $150^{\circ} 47' 48''$ E.

Vessels coming from the south will open this light over the sloping hill to the southward of it, on a bearing of north $20^{\circ} 32'$ E.; caution must, however, be observed on approaching Cape St. George (a low, dangerous, rocky point, on which the sea breaks), and when within a distance of 8 miles, or thereabouts, the light should not be brought to bear, to the northward of north 10° W., as, when a vessel is near the land, to the south-westward of this bearing, it will be partially, if not wholly, obscured, but by standing to the eastward, it will gradually open out, and when bearing north 25° W., or N.N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., it may be passed with safety at a distance of from one to two miles.

Vessels from the southward should always endeavor to make this Light, so as to prevent being embayed in the deep indentation lying to the westward of the Cape, designated "Wreck Bay."

Vessels approaching from the northward will open this light clear of "Crocodile Head," on a bearing of south 27° west, and by keeping it in view may pass in safety to the south, at an offing of from one to two miles.

Vessels entering Jervis Bay (a good and safe anchorage in all winds) will shut the light in with the north end of "Bowen Island," on a bearing of south $\frac{1}{2}$ W.

COLONIAL SECRETARY to CAPTAIN H. M. DENHAM.

Sydney, 4 August, 1860.

MY DEAR CAPTAIN DENHAM,

If you see no objection to favor us with your opinion, we shall be much obliged to you for your advice upon the matter brought under the consideration of the Government in the accompanying documents.

I would particularly invite your attention to the second page of the letter from the Pilot Board, dated 1st August, containing the recommendation as to the course to be pursued in regard to the Light House recently erected at Jervis Bay. The Board, it would appear from their Report, are equally, and the Government feel happy in having at hand a reference so highly qualified to guide them in arriving at a decision in this important matter.

Yours faithfully,
C. C.

If you will say whether, in your opinion, it is desirable that the house should be lighted, whether it would be serviceable, or whether any danger would arise from it?

CAPTAIN H. M. DENHAM to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

"Herald," Port Jackson,

6 August, 1860.

MY DEAR MR. COWPER,

In compliance with your note of the 4th inst., and after due attention to the Pilot Board Reports of the 28th ultimo and 1st inst., respecting the position of Cape St. George Light House, I submit my opinion:—It would certainly have been preferable had that Light House occupied the shoal of the actual Cape. Its northward range would not have been better than it is; but the trend of coast to the southward would have been more completely guarded for coasters. Looking, however, at its main character—"a general coast light for voyagers," to check any ashore deviation of course upon that 240 miles run between Cape "Howe and Sydney Heads,—" I consider it satisfactorily situated. Ships have only to keep it open, or nothing eastward of north, after first sighting it, when coming up from the southward, and they cannot be entrapped by the bight southward of the Cape itself, which happens to be two miles S. by W. of the recently erected Light House. I would therefore exhibit and proclaim "Cape St. George" Light, at once, as now situated.

I return the Reports in question, and remain,

Yours faithfully,
H. M. DENHAM.

The Treasurer.—C. C. 7 Aug.

CERTAIN

CERTAIN MEMBERS OF PILOT BOARD to COLONIAL TREASURER.

Sir,

In forwarding you the bearings of the Light House lately erected near Jervis Bay, we, the undersigned, members of the Pilot Board, beg most respectfully to recommend that this light should not be brought into operation, for the following reasons, viz :—

That it would be creating a beacon that would continue to be a heavy annual expense, with which the very trifling aid it would afford the mariner would be in no way commensurate.

That, in our opinion, the present position would prove so ineligible, that the light must at some future time be removed; and the changing the site of a light after having been established for some time becomes difficult and dangerous, from the impossibility of giving adequate warning of its altered position.

That this light, being now placed in a bight, could not be seen within eight miles off the coast to the southward of Wreck Bay (and a portion of this range is intercepted by the land), and would therefore very imperfectly warn a vessel from this locality; whilst to the northward it would only be seen a distance of seven or eight miles from a vessel on the usual track along the coast, being shut in by Crocodile Head at that distance.

We are of opinion that a light on Cape St. George, or on the bluff head about three-quarters of a mile S. W. of it, would be in the best position for avoiding Wreck Bay; but to the northward the same objections would apply to this as to the present Light House, and it would be of much less service for entering Jervis Bay than one fixed on Crocodile Head.

A light in the vicinity of this head would also serve as a guide into Crookhaven, where many vessels find shelter in southerly winds, when they cannot reach as far as Jervis Bay. This light would also have an uninterrupted range of 25 miles each way. To the northward it would be seen on the coast line its whole radius; and to the southward, within five miles off the coast at Ulladulla. This being fifteen miles to the southward of Cape St. George, would give ample warning to vessels to avoid Wreck Bay, whilst it would have the additional advantage of warning vessels out of Shoalhaven bight, which in our opinion (and from the actual experience of some of us) is quite as dangerous as Wreck Bay, and where the barque "Solon" was lately wrecked. It would also afford greater facilities to the increasing trade of Shoalhaven, Kiama, and Wollongong.

On reviewing the whole matter, we are clearly of opinion that the vicinity of Crocodile Head affords the most eligible site for a Light House on that part of the coast, and the ONLY position that would yield to the mariner the many desirable advantages fully detailed in your communication to the Board on this subject, dated July 26, 1859.

ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH,—MONEY ORDER BRANCH.
(RATES AND REGULATIONS.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 25 September, 1860.

THE accompanying copies of the Rates and Regulations of the Money Order Branch of the New South Wales Electric Telegraph Department, are laid upon the Table of the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, in terms of the Electric Telegraph Act, 20th Victoria, No. 41.

*Department of Public Works,
Sydney, 21 June, 1860.*

ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH,—MONEY ORDER BRANCH.

HIS Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the establishment of a Money Order Branch of the New South Wales Electric Telegraph Department.

On and after 1st July next, Money Orders can be transmitted by Electric Telegraph between the undermentioned Stations, and at the Rates, and under the Regulations following :—

STATIONS.
Sydney,	Gundagai,	West Maitland,
Goulburn,	Albury,	Newcastle,
Yass,	Windsor,	Bathurst.

Each Money Order to be limited to £5.

No person to obtain, on one day, more than two orders in favor of the same payee.

The charge or premium to be 6d. (sixpence) for any sum not exceeding £2 (two pounds), and 1s. (one shilling) above £2 (two pounds) and not exceeding £5 (five pounds), in addition to the minimum charge for transmission of a message between any two of the above-named Stations.

All Money Orders will be delivered to the payees as telegrams, and the money due will be payable on demand at the Telegraph Offices, by cheque on the Bank of New South Wales, or other most convenient Bank, should there be no local branch of the Bank of New South Wales.

Parties transmitting Money Orders will be informed by Telegraph (without charge), as soon as their Orders have been paid.

Receipts will, in all cases, be given for money deposited, and required for money paid.

W. M. ARNOLD.

N.B.—It is proposed to extend these arrangements hereafter to the sister Colonies, and to such other Stations within New South Wales as may appear advisable.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY FROM MAITLAND TO MORPETH.

(PROPOSED EXTENSION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of West Maitland, East Maitland, Morpeth, the surrounding Districts, and others interested,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That it may be laid down as an established fact, that the facilities afforded to a populous district, rich in mineral and agricultural products, for conveying these to a navigable river for shipment, are not only locally beneficial, but advantageous to the Colony at large.

That your Petitioners, without calling in question the propriety or expediency of commencing the Great Northern Railway at Newcastle, and carrying it along the banks of a navigable river, respectfully submit that, even admitting this line of Railway to be beneficial to the public, there are extensive and important districts closely connected with the River Hunter, which will derive great benefit from any scheme calculated to facilitate intercourse with the head of the navigation, and in whose prosperity the Colony at large is deeply interested.

That this very important district suffers materially from the want of Railway communication between the Towns of Maitland and Morpeth; that Morpeth may be called the main route, as it would join a large and producing portion of the district with the head of the navigation of the River Hunter; and that such a line, properly and efficiently managed, would yield a handsome dividend on the outlaid capital; in support of which view a Statistical Return of the Export Trade from Morpeth, for the years 1855-6-7-8, and half of 1859, is appended to this Petition, leaving the upward freight from Sydney out of the question.

That it is of the utmost consequence to this important and steadily improving district, and to the Colony generally, that the river traffic should receive every encouragement and consideration, as that river is the only means of transit for a large amount of coal, wool, and tallow, wheat, hay, corn, and other produce of the district.

That the rivers Williams and Paterson, and the Hunter above Morpeth, are thickly set with industrious farmers, cultivating land of the richest and most fertile description; and the Hunter River alone is the great highway for conveying their produce to the different markets.

That there are extensive coal fields in the neighborhood of Morpeth and Maitland, which would be materially assisted and greatly developed by means of a Railway from Maitland to Morpeth; and while the interests of the proprietors would be thus enhanced, the consumers would be greatly benefitted by the lessened expense of carriage.

2 GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY FROM MAITLAND TO MORPETH.

That the present main road to Morpeth is an expensive road to maintain and keep in repair, in consequence of the want of the proper road metal within the district; that in wet weather especially it is greatly cut up, and at times rendered almost impassable, thereby rendering land carriage expensive; and it has been estimated that, to keep this road in good and efficient repair, it would take a yearly sum equal to, if not more than the interest on, the capital sum required for constructing a Railway to Morpeth, without affording the district and consumers of its produce anything like the same facilities and benefit derivable from Railway traffic.

That there are no engineering difficulties to be encountered in the formation of the proposed line; on the contrary, the country to be passed through is in every way adapted for constructing a Railway, on the cheapest and most economical principle; and in contemplation of this scheme being carried into effect, a survey has been made between Maitland and Morpeth, with a view to ascertain the best route for continuing the Great Northern Railway to Morpeth; and the plans, sections, estimates of the Engineer, accompany this Petition.

That your Petitioners believe, and have every reason to be satisfied, that the line to Newcastle and that to Morpeth will not be antagonistic or prejudicial to each other; on the contrary, that, in course of time, by careful and judicious management, each route will be conducted profitably, and the advantage and gain to the public will be incalculable by the two lines being in operation.

From these premises, your Petitioners humbly beg that your Honorable House will take the Extension of the Great Northern Railway from Maitland to Morpeth into favorable consideration.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

 INTERNAL COMMUNICATION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

FOURTH REPORT TO THE HONORABLE THE SECRETARY FOR PUBLIC WORKS, BY CAPTAIN MARTINDALE, ROYAL ENGINEERS.

Department of Public Works, Sydney,
September, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to lay before you the following Report on the Construction and Management of the Railways, Main Roads, and Electric Telegraph in this Colony, during the year ending 30 June, 1860.

 RAILWAYS.

EXISTING LINES.

The length of line open for traffic has remained unaltered,* being 34 miles on the Southern, and 20 miles on the Northern Line. The expenditure upon the former, to the 31st December, 1859, was £899,279 1s. 0d., and upon the latter, to the same date, £385,074 1s. 9d.; and to the 30th June last, £903,347 15s. 3d. and £388,095 8s. 8d. respectively.

In the second half-year of 1859 the number of passengers carried on the Southern Line was 75,094 with single, and 41,990 with return tickets, and 16,231 tons of goods; the receipts from passenger traffic, including horses, carriages, dogs, and parcels, were £17,396 9s. 8d.; from goods traffic, £5,722 16s. 5d.; and from all sources, £23,459 11s. 2d.

In the half-year ending the 30th June last, the number of passengers carried was 80,048 with single tickets, and 52,969 with return, and 17,107 tons of goods. The receipts from passenger traffic as above were £16,689 18s. 10d.; from goods traffic, £5,766 7s. 1d.; and from all sources, £22,954 12s. 7d.

Upon

* Fifteen additional miles were opened for public use on the 2nd and 4th July, 1860.

Upon the Northern Line the number of passengers carried in the second half-year of 1859 was 28,377 with single, and 10,375 with return tickets, and 7,013 tons of goods; and in the half-year ending 30th June last, 29,103 with single, and 13,413 with return tickets, and 6,949 tons of goods; the receipts in the former half-year from passenger traffic as above being £4,737 9s. 1d.; from goods traffic, £1,509 11s. 10d., and from all sources £6,291 3s.; and in the latter half-year £4,372 2s. 4d. from passenger traffic, £1,237 15s. 2d. from goods traffic, and £5,630 10s. 11d. from all sources.

The following Tabular Statement will shew the working of the Railways since their opening.

1860	55,929	4,372	6,949	1,238	5,630	Half-year only.

The returns for the three half-years ending the 30th June last afford some data towards ascertaining the effect of the reductions* made in the rates this year, as an experiment, by order of the Governor and Executive Council, the mileage open for traffic having remained throughout the same. The returns are summed up in the following Table:—

TABLE B.

*The reductions made may be seen in detail by reference to the Appendix to this Report, page . Their general effect was as follows:—By the Proclamation of the 13th December, 1859, the issue of quarterly, half-yearly, and yearly, season tickets, was sanctioned, at reduced rates; also return tickets daily for the conveyance of horses and carriages, at a fare and a-half for the double journey; the tickets issued on Saturday being available till the Monday evening following.

By the Proclamation of the 21st December, 1859, the classification of goods was abolished, and a uniform rate (with some few exceptional cases) of 3d. per ton per mile determined, with 6d. per ton for loading or unloading. The rates for parcels, and for the conveyance of dogs and live stock, were also simplified and reduced.

These Proclamations took effect from the 1st January, 1860.

By a third Proclamation, dated 25th February, 1860, taking effect from the 12th March following, the reductions already made were practically confirmed; the price of monthly and season tickets further lowered to rates founded on the following annual charges, viz.:—£1 10s. per mile per annum, third class, up to 20 miles, and one-fourth more for first class; 10 per cent. less between 20 and 30 miles, and 20 per cent. less between 30 and 40 miles. The passenger rates were also reduced from 3½d. to 3d. per mile first class, 3d. to 2½d. per mile second class, and 2d. to 1½d. per mile third class.

The number of holders of 1st class season and monthly tickets* was 30 in the last half-year of 1859, and the value of the tickets £23 18s. 6d., and 91 in the half-year ending 30 June last, and the value £110 19s. 11d.; of 3rd class season and monthly tickets, 449 in the former period, of the value of £467 11s. 10d., and 403 in the latter period, of the value of £464 9s. 5d.

From a consideration† of the above returns, it appears that the principal increase in the passenger traffic is in the 3rd class return tickets; there being a slight decrease in the 1st class. There is a small increase in the tonnage of goods carried; but the general increase of traffic has not as yet been sufficient to raise the cash receipts to what they were previous to the reduction in rates. No very definite conclusions can be arrived at, however, owing to the short period that the new rates have been in force, and to the disturbing influence on the ordinary traffic of the Southern Line of the late floods on the one hand, and of the Kijandra traffic on the other.

The working expenses of the Southern Line for the half-year ending 31 December, 1859, were £17,106 5s. 6d.; and of the Northern Line, £5,501 5s. 9d.; and for the last half-year, £18,466 11s. for the Southern Line, and £5,171 15s. 6d. for the Northern; and as the gross receipts for the same periods were respectively £23,459 11s. 2d. and £6,291 3s. †, and £22,954 12s. 7d. and £5,630 10s. 11d.; the net receipts were £6,353 5s. 8d. and £789 17s. 3d. for the former half-year, and £4,487 14s. 11d. and £458 15s. 5d. for the latter.

The following Statement will shew the gross receipts, expenditure, net receipts, capital invested on lines open for traffic, and rate of interest after payment of working expenses, from the commencement:—

* See Appendix Table.

† From the above Table (B) it will be seen that on the Southern Line there were carried in the last half-year 381 fewer 1st class passengers with single, and 12 fewer with return tickets, than in the corresponding half of 1859; 497 fewer 2nd class passengers with single, and 117 fewer with return tickets; 2,633 fewer 3rd class passengers with single, but 8,576 more with return tickets; the receipts being £2,594 less in 1860 than in 1859. There was an increase, however, of £150 from parcels traffic, but a decrease of £27 in the receipts on account of horses, carriages, and dogs; an increase in the goods carried of 2,331 tons, but a decrease in receipts of £935, and a total decrease on the half-year of £3,299.

Comparing the half-year ending 30 June last again, with the last half-year of 1859, there is an increase in the number of passengers carried of 291 1st class with single, and 419 with return tickets; of 2nd class, 368 with single, and 570 with return tickets; of 3rd class, 4,295 with single, and 9,991 with return tickets; but a decrease in receipts of £974; an increase in the receipts from parcels of £127, and from horses, carriages, and dogs, of £141; an increase in the goods carried of 876 tons; but a decrease in receipts of £3; and a total decrease on the half-year of £506.

On the Northern Line there were, in the June half-year, 1860, 567 fewer passengers 1st class with single tickets than in the corresponding half-year of 1859; but 118 more with return tickets; 2,299 more 3rd class passengers with single, and 5,446 more with return tickets; but a decrease in receipts of £98; an increase from parcels traffic of £40, and in receipts from horses, carriages, and dogs, of £20; an increase of 1,948 tons of goods carried, but a decrease in receipts of £100, and a total decrease of £139 on the half-year.

Comparing the two last half-years together, there is a decrease in 1860 of 302 1st class passengers with single tickets; but an increase of 22 with return tickets, of 1,027 with 3rd class single tickets, and of 3,016 with return tickets; but a decrease in receipts of £314; a decrease in the parcels traffic of £53; an increase in the receipts from horses, carriages, and dogs, of £1; a decrease in the goods carried of 65 tons and in receipts of £272; and a total decrease of £660 on the half-year.

‡ Irrespective of compensation to sufferers from accident of 1858.

§ Irrespective of £5,051 10s. required up to the 30th June, towards making good the damage caused by the unusual Floods of April last, charged to capital.

¶ Permanent way maintained under contract part of year out of capital.

The expenditure on the Southern Line has been increased, not only by the additional assistance and service required to meet the increasing traffic, but also by the injuries constantly caused to the line by the continued rains and floods lately experienced. These have at the same time decreased the gross receipts. The first and worst flood, of the 28th April last, caused two culverts, between Sydney and Parramatta, to blow up, carrying away the embankment above them; and destroyed one and injured other bridges between Liverpool and Campbelltown, and the line throughout, especially at Duck River, Cambra-matta Creek, and near Campbelltown. It was the 4th May before the line could be re-opened to Liverpool, and the 29th May, to Campbelltown. From that time to the end of the half-year the trains ran regularly and with great punctuality, when the care necessary to cross the temporary bridges erected to enable the traffic to be carried on, and the inconvenience of working a single line only between Sydney and Parramatta are taken into consideration. Measures are in progress for replacing the temporary bridges with permanent structures.

The progress made by the Newcastle Wallsend Coal Company, in their arrangements for the shipment of coal, promises to bring within a few months a considerable accession of traffic of a permanent character to the Northern Line. It may be anticipated, also, that as the wharves in course of construction are completed, and steam cranes erected, other coal owners will find it to their interest to avail themselves of the facilities afforded for the transit and shipment of coal by rail.

PITT-STREET TRAMWAY.

The Legislative Assembly having adopted the Report of the Select Committee in favor of the Pitt-street Tramway, orders have been sent to England, in anticipation of the passing of the Bill necessary for its construction, for such rails as by experience have been found to offer the least obstruction to other traffic, and for sample rolling stock.*

CONSTRUCTION OF AUTHORIZED LINES.

The extension of the Great Northern Railway from West Maitland to Lochinvar, a distance of six miles and ten chains, carried out by the Commissioner direct, has been completed;† as has also the first section of the Great Western Railway,‡ from its junction with the Southern Line to the Blacktown Road, a distance of eight miles and thirty chains, for which Mr. Gibbons was contractor. The remainder of the authorized extensions to Singleton, Penrith, and Picton, are in course of construction by the Agents of Sir S. M. Peto and Co.; but the progress made, thus far, has not been satisfactory.

The total amount expended upon Railways in New South Wales to the 30th June last, has been £1,564,058 1s. 0d; the details will be found in the Appendix to this Report, Table 1.

LAND CLAIMS.

The number of claims made for compensation on account of land taken for railway purposes on the authorized extensions has been 221. Offers in settlement of 108 of these claims have been made and accepted in all but 21 cases. Of these, 9 have been settled by arbitration, and to the remaining offers no replies were received up to the 30th June last. The amount asked for the claims for which offers have been made was £42,522 13s. 3d.; and the amount offered, £25,799 17s. 3d. The remaining claims are in course of settlement as rapidly as the necessary information can be obtained, except in a few cases where peculiar difficulties exist.

SURVEYS

* In a letter recently received, the Commercial Agents of this Government write from England, as follows, dated 25 August, 1860:—"Captain Galton will doubtless advise you of having had under consideration the system of rails, &c., at present being introduced into this country by Mr. Train of Boston, and whose first street railway opens on the 30th instant (August, 1860) at Birkenhead. With some slight modification to admit of railway trucks being taken on the rails as well as passenger cars, this system would appear well adapted to your requirements.

† The cost of the materials, timber, and iron, for a mile of this railway, in this country, may be taken approximately at £1,600, exclusive of labor laying down.

‡ The cost of the carriages about 200 guineas each. The weight of iron rails per mile is about 95 tons (probably those for the Colony should be somewhat heavier), and there are about 5,100 cubic feet of timber in a mile."

† Opened for traffic, 2nd July, 1860.

‡ Opened for traffic, 4th July, 1860.

SURVEYS AND NEW LINES.

Every effort is being made to complete the surveys in progress so far as to enable estimates for lines to Goulburn, Bathurst, and at the least, Muswellbrook, to be submitted to the Government before the next Session of Parliament. The necessity for rapid as well as permanent improvement in the main thoroughfares of the country becomes every day more apparent; and it would appear necessary to determine the measures to be pursued when the plans now in hand come under consideration.

THE MAIN ROADS.

Such improvements as time and the means at command have permitted have, as steadily as the continuous wet weather has enabled, been carried forward upon the Main Roads under the system of contract and task work referred to in my last Report; day labor having only been employed when absolutely necessary. The principles upon which the works have been carried out have been, in the first place, to bridge the creeks and rivers, which habitually stopped the traffic in time of flood, or rendered its transit generally difficult; and, in the second place, to improve the worst places upon the roads, having regard, at the same time, to the advantage of a continuous good road.

GREAT NORTHERN ROAD.

In pursuance of the above plan, arrangements have been made for bridging the whole of the rivers and creeks between Morpeth and Armidale, with the following exceptions:—Black Creek, where a bridge will not be required for through traffic when the railway is opened to Singleton; the river Hunter, at Singleton and Aberdeen, to cross which, in times of flood, boats have been provided; and Saumarez Creek, near Armidale, over which it is proposed to place a bridge next year. The bridges in course of construction, or for which arrangements have been made, are over the creeks at Falbrook, Foybrook, Apple-tree Flat, and Sandy Creek; and over the Rivers Page at Murrurundi, Peel at Tamworth, and Macdonald at Bendemeer, and some minor bridges. Steps have also been taken for the reconstruction of the Stoney Creek Bridge, on the road from Maitland to Wollombi, which being full of the white ant, and dangerous, it became necessary to destroy and rebuild.*

Previous to the year 1859, there were about 40 miles of the Northern Road cleared and partially ballasted. During that year about 17½ miles were ballasted, and a considerable length of clearing and forming done. In 1860 contracts have been taken, or arrangements are in progress, for metalling 6 miles, ballasting 35 miles, building 90 culverts and minor bridges, and rebalasting nearly all the road ballasted during 1859; for forming 5 miles of new road near Muswellbrook, 1½ miles on the new ascent to the Murrurundi Gap, 5 miles at Doughboy Hollow, and 2 miles new road at the Moonbie's Pass, which has been greatly improved. When these works have been completed, some of the worst difficulties on the Northern Road will be overcome.

The

* The bridges are designed by the Engineer for Roads, Mr. Bennett, C.E.

The Falbrook Bridge is a wooden superstructure on stone piers; its design is a queen truss with radiated braces, with a tie beam passing between the braces at half their height and carrying the roadway, which is 12 ft. 9 in. wide, and 4 feet over the highest known flood level. It consists of 3 bays of 68 ft. 6 in. each, and one bay of 40 feet; the total length is 245 ft. 6 in.

The Foybrook Bridge is a simple beam bridge, supported on piles, of 8 bays of 22 feet each; the total length being 179 feet, the roadway 12 ft. 9 in. wide, and 4 feet above flood level.

The Apple-tree Flat Bridge is a compound beam bridge, with solid floor, supported on piles, of one span of 31 feet; the total length being 40 feet, and the width of roadway 12 ft. 9 in.

The Sandy Creek Bridge is an under-strutted timber bridge on piles, of 3 bays of 30 feet each; the total length is 106 feet, the width of roadway 12 feet, and 4 feet above highest known flood level.

The design of the bridge over the River Page, at Murrurundi, is an improved queen truss, of 3 spans of 50 feet each, on piles, the total length being 160 feet, the roadway 18 feet wide, and 9 feet over highest known flood level.

The bridge over the River Peel, at Tamworth, consists of two laminated arches of 62 feet span each, with cast iron springing plates; the total length is 129 feet, the width of roadway 12 feet, and 4 feet over flood level.

The design for the bridge over the River Macdonald, at Bendemeer, is a single laminated arch springing from stone abutments, span 90 feet, versed sine 10.7 feet, roadway 12 feet wide, supported on double chords at the level of the haunches of the arch; the total length is 109 feet, and the height of the floor over highest known flood level 5 feet.

The Stoney Creek Bridge is a simple beam bridge on piles, of 14 openings of 22 feet each; the total length being 312 feet, width of roadway 12 feet, and height over flood level 2 ft. 9 in.

The heavy rain and traffic coming upon the newly-formed road at Lochinvar as soon as ballasted, greatly cut it up, and prevented the use of ballast proving as successful as in many other instances on the Northern Road, when the weather and other circumstances have been more favorable. It may be considered that a road can be cheaply formed with ballast, and become, if it consolidates well, a good road for light traffic; but with heavy traffic it must necessarily be an expensive road to maintain.

The object chiefly kept in view upon the Northern Road hitherto, after the construction of the bridges, has been the formation of a gravel road from Morpeth to the Murrurundi Gap, which it is anticipated may, at the present rate of expenditure, be effected in 1861. The progress made with the surveys from Doughboy Hollow will enable the works in the second district to be now satisfactorily proceeded with.

MAIN WESTERN ROAD.

Upon the first district of this road, extending from Sydney to Penrith, the funds at command have been expended in the maintenance of the portions previously metalled, and in extending the metalling, and in such repairs to the earthen road as have been found absolutely necessary. Under a special vote a good metalled road about 1½ miles long has been made between Ropes Creek and St. Mary's Church, formerly one of the worst spots on the Western Road. This has stood well, notwithstanding the severe weather, and shews the advantage of a sufficient outlay in the first instance.

The opening of the Pymont Bridge Road necessitated the removal of the Grose Farm Toll Gate to Annandale Bridge. Should there be available funds from the tolls next year, it is proposed to take up and reconstruct, as a Telford road, with proper sub-drainage, the present road through the deep cutting near the University, the maintenance of which is at present very expensive.

The bridges over the River Cox, Junction Vale, Evans Plains, and Jordan Creeks, mentioned in my last Report as in progress, have been completed; and also two bridges over Frederick's Valley Creek, and two over Summer Hill Creek, between Bathurst and Orange. Arrangements have been made also for a bridge over Rope's Creek, between Parramatta and Penrith, and over Gosling Creek, between Bathurst and Orange.*

During the year 1859 there were about 7¾ miles of metalled road constructed, and 50 culverts built, in addition to numerous minor works of construction and maintenance; and during the present year contracts have been made for about 10 miles of metalled road, and 60 culverts.

Considerable improvements have been made between the Rocks and the village of Vittoria, and between the Wentworth Gold Fields and Orange.

The Western Road to Bathurst presents at all times great difficulties, from its mountainous character, and the absence throughout a great part of its length of good road material. These difficulties have been enhanced by the heavy and continued rains, which have not only prevented the progress of the works, but even destroyed that

* The bridge over the River Cox is a queen truss timber bridge on piers, with stone bases and wooden superstructure of 2 spans of 63 feet, and 2 of 20 feet each; the roadway is 12 feet wide, and 6 feet above flood level; the total length is 170 feet.

The bridge over Junction Creek consists of 2 queen trusses, 35 feet span each, on piles, with solid floor, 12 feet wide, and 2 feet above flood level; the total length is 76 feet.

The Vale Creek is a compound girder bridge of 2 spans of 35 feet each, on piles, over flood level; the roadway, 20 feet 4 inches; the total length, 84 feet.

The Evans Plains Bridge is a pile bridge with capsills and joists, supporting the flooring:— It has 9 openings of 12 feet 10 inches each; the total length is 117 feet 6 inches; the width of roadway 12 feet, and 1 foot 6 inches above flood level.

The Jordan Creek is an understrutted bridge with corbels, of one opening of 25 feet; the total length 32 feet, and width of roadway, 18 feet.

Frederick's Valley Bridge, No. 1, is a simple beam bridge on sills, of one opening of 21 feet; total length, 24 feet, and width of roadway, 12 feet.

Frederick's Valley Bridge, No. 2, is a similar bridge on piles, of 2 openings of 22 feet each; the total length, 48 feet, width of roadway, 12 feet, and 1 foot 9 inches above flood level.

Summer Hill, No. 1, is a similar bridge on piles, of 3 openings of 22 feet each; the total length, 70 feet; width of roadway, 12 feet, and height over flood level, 1 foot 9 inches.

Summer Hill, No. 2, is a similar bridge of one opening of 22 feet; total length, 26 feet, and width of roadway, 12 feet.

The design of the Ropes Creek Bridge is a queen truss, with compound girder in centre to support floor; of 2 spans of 48 feet each, supported on piles; roadway, 21 feet wide; total length of bridge, 99 feet; and 8-6 feet over flood level. The design of the Gosling Creek Bridge is a king truss; it has three openings of 30 feet each; the total length is 94 feet, the roadway 12 feet wide, and 2 feet over flood level.

that which the contractors had partially done. It is satisfactory to learn, that notwithstanding these drawbacks, there is a manifest improvement in the road, especially between Hartley and Bathurst, to which district the attention of the Department has been principally directed; the funds available permitting of only very partial improvements upon the mountain road. The progress made any where can be but very gradual under the present system of annual votes.

MAIN SOUTHERN ROAD.

1st District.

With the exception of the maintenance of the portions already metalled and their partial extension, the only works have been such drainage and maintenance of the earthen road as have been absolutely necessary; it being considered injudicious to incur a large expenditure upon this district when the railway already opened to Campbelltown is in progress to Picton. The rains have, unquestionably, made portions very bad, but the only remedy is metalling, for which there are not funds.

2nd District.

Upon this district the principal expenditure has been incurred between Picton and Goulburn; contracts having been taken and arrangements made to metal the entire distance from Picton to Berrima (with the exception of about 7 miles of naturally hard gravelly soil) and the worst places between Berrima and Goulburn. The unusually heavy traffic, however, caused by the discovery of the Kiandra Gold Fields, and the long continued wet weather have, together, practically suspended for a time the works upon this district, and have led to numerous and bitter complaints of the state of the road, in many instances well founded. Yet every effort has been made to press forward the works upon this road, and to place it, especially between Picton and Goulburn, in good condition.

The formation of the main road through Gunning referred to in my last Report has been completed, and arrangements made for metalling some of the worst places on the Bredalbane Plains. Measures are also in progress for replacing the old bridges at Camden, Razorback (2), Picton, Cutaway Hill, Berrima and Urangalla, destroyed by the recent floods.* At Camden a temporary bridge has been erected to carry the traffic, and also at Picton.

3rd District.

The main road through Yass has been made, with the exception of curbing and guttering, which the Government have decided it is not the province of this Department to do. The repair of the Yass Bridge has also been completed.

The bridges over Bogolong, Connor's, Black Springs and Coolac Creeks have been completed, and arrangements are in progress for two others over Carbury and Morley's Creeks; also for the improvement of the road over Cooney's Hill and the Money Money ranges and flats, including metalling and the necessary culverts and bridges. It is proposed to improve the road through Gundagai next year.†

4th District.

The bridges over the Adelong, Oakey, Jellingro, and Mate's Creeks are nearly completed, and those over Hillas and Tarcutta Creeks commenced. Others over Billybong, Ten Mile, and Bowna Creeks, will shortly be proceeded with. Arrangements are also in progress for bridges over the Little Billybong, Cut, Mullingandra, and Six Mile Creeks; and for the improvement of the road at Dixon's Swamp, Tarcutta, and Mundarlo Hills, and the main road near and through Albury.

The bridge over the River Murray at Albury is in progress, and the approaches, which are of considerable extent, will also be shortly proceeded with.

Previous to the year 1859, there were 12 miles of the Southern Road metalled; during that year 5 miles were metalled, and about 30 miles cleared, drained, and formed, in preparation for metalling this year, and 120 culverts and minor bridges built. During the INTERNAL COMMUNICATION.

the present year arrangements have been made for forming and metalling 36 miles of road, including the construction of 150 culverts and small bridges; but, as I have already stated, great delay has taken place, arising principally from the continued rain. A tabular statement of the bridges in course of construction is appended.*

MUDGEE ROAD.

The money voted for this road has been expended in improving the worst places, with the exception of Cherry Tree Hill, which will be commenced as soon as the surveys necessary to determine the best line over it are completed. A marked improvement has taken place upon this road.

TENDERS.

In the Appendix, Table, will be found a detailed statement of the expenditure for the same period, continued from my former Report.

In conclusion, I take leave again to submit for consideration the propriety of the maintenance of the main roads, where they pass through municipalities or towns, being transferred to local authorities.

I wish also earnestly to press upon the attention of the Government the condition of the main roads.

The amount annually voted, including the sums for bridges, maintenance, and construction, is about £100 per mile.

The cost of a metalled road 18 feet wide, over ordinary ground, upon the Great Southern Road, has varied in 1859-60, from £1,283 to £1,342 per mile; and on the Great Western Road, from £1,481 to £1,705 per mile. Upon the Northern Road ballast is generally used.

It is obvious that, with the most favorable weather, the progress of improvement upon the roads must therefore be very slow; but when such rains as have lately visited this Colony fall upon an earthen road, or upon a road in a transition state from an earthen to a macadamized road, bearing at the same time a heavy traffic, it inevitably follows that, at the least, improvement is stopped, and much dissatisfaction prevails. Even were the road macadamized, its maintenance in such weather, under the now very heavy loads placed upon two wheels with narrow tires, would be extremely costly; no macadamized road would stand under such circumstances.

I see no remedy but in an entire change of the present system of expenditure, and the formation (as I have had the honor to suggest in previous Reports) of a thoroughly good road, as rapidly as practicable; the required funds being raised, if necessary, by loan.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

The lines referred to in my last Report as in progress, have been completed and opened for public use; and, together with those previously constructed, have worked satisfactorily. The increase of business has been considerable.

NEW LINES OPENED.

The Sydney and Newcastle line, commenced on the 6th June, 1859, was opened for public traffic on the 11th January, 1860. Its length is 162 miles, and the expenditure upon it, to the 30th June last, was £10,076 8s. 2d. The several stations were opened in the following order:—West Maitland and Newcastle on the 11th January, Wollombi on the 3rd March, Morpeth on the 26th May, and Windsor on the 5th June, 1860.

The Sydney and Bathurst line, commenced on the 23rd May, 1859, was opened for public traffic on the 29th December of the same year. Its length is 123 miles, and the expenditure upon it to the 30th June last was £7,445. The stations were opened in the following order:—Bathurst on the 29th December, 1859; Penrith on the 23rd March, and Hartley on the 23rd April, 1860.

The erection of a second wire from Sydney to Albury, 365 miles, was commenced in July, 1859, and completed on the 20th May, 1860, at a cost of £7,186 12s. 4d.

WORKING OF LINES.

Between the 1st July and 31st December, 1859, the total number of messages transmitted was 19,358, of the value of £4,618 1s. 1d.; including £280 15s. 2d. for messages on railway service which, under the special agreement detailed in the Appendix to my last Report, are not paid for. The cash receipts were, therefore, £4,337 5s. 11d., including £126 2s. 6d. for Government messages; which, in this Colony and in South Australia, are paid for as private messages.

Combining the above returns with those contained in my last Report, I find the total number of messages transmitted during the year 1859 to have been 36,867; the total value, £8,494 11s.; the cash receipts, £7,826 0s. 10d., including £160 3s. 6d. for Government messages.

The

The total expenditure* upon lines opened to the 31st December, 1859, was £23,816 19s. 9d.; the cash receipts, as above, £7,826 0s. 10d.; the working expenses, £4,646 9s. 9d.; and the net receipts, £3,179 10s. 1d.; giving interest at the rate of nearly 13½ per cent. per annum on the capital invested, after payment of working expenses.

For the half-year ending the 30th June, 1860, the total number of messages transmitted was 25,178, of the value of £6,186 15s. 8d., including £350 11s. 1d. for railway service as above. The cash receipts were £5,836 4s. 7d., including £303 6s. 6d. for Government messages.

The total expenditure upon lines opened† to 30th June last, was £41,338 14s. 6d.; the cash receipts, as above, £5,836 4s. 7d. for the half-year; the working expenses, £3,567 11s. 6d.; and the net receipts, £2,268 13s. 1d.; giving a dividend of nearly 5½ per cent. for the half-year, after payment of working expenses.‡

The returns of the last half-year shew a considerable increase in the number and value of messages transmitted, although several of the stations were opened late in the half-year. This increase would no doubt have been larger, but for the general commercial depression and stagnation in trade. The telegraph receipts were also sensibly diminished by the interruptions§ to the working of the lines, arising from the unprecedented floods of this year, and the unfortunate failure of the Tasmanian Cable.

A somewhat prominent cause of interruption, and a source of much annoyance since August, 1859, has been the Aurora Australis, from which the lines in this Colony appear to have suffered more even than those in the other Colonies.

The Magnetic Morse Instruments in use on the Northern and Western Lines have worked satisfactorily, the operators averaging 20 words per minute. It has been found by experience that a message of 100 words occupies in transmission by the Voltaic line, 4 minutes, and by the Magnetic line, 4¾ minutes; the relative speed being as 25 to 21.05.

Various causes have delayed the introduction of the Telegraphic Money Order system until now.||

Reports have been received, with tolerable regularity, of the state of wind and weather in the principal places in this and the neighbouring Colonies, and have been published in the daily papers. Some steps have also been taken towards notifying by telegraph to the seaports the commencement of gales of wind. It has been also proposed to place in each principal station a complete set of meteorological instruments, and to keep a record of their results; which, if carefully done, would gradually lead to the obtaining of data of great and general usefulness.

It is with regret that I have learnt that the Governments of Victoria and Tasmania desire to revert to a system of accounts, and the Government of South Australia to modify the existing mutual retention system. The matter is one requiring much attention, and I propose to deal with it in a separate Report.

AUTHORIZED LINES.

In anticipation of the sanction of Parliament, tenders were invited on the 17th April, 1860, for the construction of a line from Gundagai to Kiandra, about 99 miles; and one was accepted on the 28th May; the contract price being £25 per mile for work completed on the first seven and last fifteen miles, and £50 per mile for the intermediate distance; the wire being stretched on the first length upon the poles of the main line to Albury, and on

* The line to Bathurst having only been opened on the 29th December, 1859, and that to Newcastle in 1860, their cost is not included.

† The cost of second wire to Albury is not included, it not having been brought into use this half-year. The total expenditure on telegraph works to the 30th June, was £48,568 16s. 10d.

‡ The cost of the Southern Line to the 30th June last, was £23,088 8s. 5d.; the receipts for the half-year, £4,355; the working expenses, including contingencies, £2,147; nett receipts, £2,208; giving interest at the rate of 19 per cent. per annum after payment of working expenses.

§ The cost of the Western Line to the same date was £7,445; the receipts for the half-year, £540; the working expenses as above, £535; nett receipts, £5.

¶ The cost of the Northern Line to the same date was £10,076; the receipts for the half-year, £720; the working expenses as above, £650; the nett receipts, £70.

|| The cost of the South Head Line, £657; receipts, £10; working expenses, £289; loss, £279.

§ A statement of the interruptions to the working of the lines will be found in the Appendix Tables.

|| Came into operation, 2nd July, 1860.

on the last length, on poles fixed to serve also as guide-posts during the anticipated snows of the winter. The line to be completed by the 28th August, or as soon after as the snow should permit.

Tenders were also invited on the 31st May for the lines referred to in my last Report, viz., from Maitland to the Boundary of Queensland (the construction of the remaining distance proposed to Brisbane now devolving on Queensland); from Bathurst, through the Western Gold Fields, to Mudgee; and from Gundagai to Deniliquin; and also for an extension of the Western Line from Bathurst to Orange; the tenders to be sent in on the 24th July.

Tenders were also called for on the 6th March for the erection of the required telegraph stations; but all the offers received being too high they were necessarily declined, and further tenders invited on the 14th and 19th June. These, when built, will add much to the value of the lines, as by means of a system of alarms, they will enable messages to be sent by night as well as by day.

As soon as the alphabetical instruments, for which funds have been provided, can be obtained from England, one will be placed in every railway station, to be worked by the station master. The arrival and departure of each train at each station will then be notified; the guards of the trains will also be furnished with portable instruments to use in case of accident.

In the Estimates for 1859 provision was made for the construction of a line from Moreton Island to Brisbane. The separation of Queensland from New South Wales has prevented this service being carried out.

PROPOSED EXTENSIONS.

The postponement by the Government of Victoria of the erection of the 2nd wire between Albury and Mount Gambier, and the frequent delay in the transmission of messages upon the arrival of the mail from England, together with the advantages attendant on directly connecting the distant parts of the Colony with one another, induce me again to bring under the consideration of the Government the extension of the line from Deniliquin via the Murray to the eastern boundary of South Australia, should that Government still be willing to continue such a line to Adelaide.

By the construction hereafter of a short line from Mudgee to the Northern Line, the advantages of a double line to the north and west would be obtained.

As the use of the telegraph extends, the claims of the more distant seaports will also, no doubt, receive due consideration.

PROGRESS OF TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION IN THE NEIGHBOURING COLONIES.

In the last Reports which I have received from the Superintendents of Electric Telegraph in Victoria and South Australia, and which contain information up to the 31st December last, the following results are stated:—

In Victoria, the number of private messages for the year ending 31st December, 1859, was 165,621, of the value of £25,249 17s.; and of messages on the public service, 31,699, of the value of £21,301 8s. 7d.; the working expenses were £24,503 19s. 7d., and the capital invested £129,496 18s. 2d.

In South Australia, the number of messages for the same year was 64,688, and the receipts £6,198 7s. 5d., including payment for messages on the public service for the last half-year; to what amount is not shewn. The value of such messages, however, in the preceding half-year was £434 1s. 3d., giving total receipts £6,632 8s. 8d.

It is impossible not to be struck with the large proportion, both in number and value, which messages on the public service bear to private messages in Victoria, as compared with South Australia and this Colony. In the former they are not paid for, in the two latter they are.

In Victoria, a line, 120 miles long, was opened on the 5th March, 1859, from Ballarat to Avoca; in August a contract was taken for the extension of the Sandridge Line to Cape Schanck,* 45 miles; in November, for a branch line from Maryborough to Creswick, 30 miles; † improvements and additions were also made to the Melbourne, Williamstown, and Geelong Line, and a line constructed from Kilmore to Heathcote, 30 miles. ‡

to

Lines are, I am informed, also now in progress from Beechworth to Yachandandah and Wahgunyah, 50 miles, and from Warnambool to Hamilton, 61 miles.

In South Australia a line was constructed from Kapunda to Clare and Koorunga, 116 miles; § and a short line to Glenelg, 6½ miles; || progress was also made with the line from Mount Barker to Strathalbyn, from Strathalbyn to the Coorong, 68½ miles, and from Mount Gambier to Penola, 36½ miles. ¶ A submarine cable to connect Kangaroo Island with the main land was also proposed, but is at present abandoned.

Many untoward and unlooked for difficulties have hitherto prevented the successful working of the Tasmanian Line; these it must be earnestly hoped will yet be overcome.

It may be anticipated that the action of the Queensland Government will shortly place that country in telegraphic communication with this and the neighbouring Colonies.

COMMUNICATION WITH ENGLAND.

Mr. Gisborne's project for the construction of a submarine line from Moreton Bay to East Java, having been duly laid before Parliament, was cordially received, and addresses to His Excellency the Governor General were adopted, embodying Resolutions in favor of the construction and maintenance of a line from this Colony to East Java. ††

Resolutions were also agreed to †† by the Legislative Assembly of Victoria, in favor of Telegraphic Communication between that Colony, and India and Europe.

The Governments of South Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, and Queensland, have also expressed themselves as being favorable to such communication.

It is probable, however, that considerable delay will take place before any such project is actually carried out; and considering the defective working or failure of the long lines of submarine cable hitherto laid down, this is not, perhaps, to be altogether regretted. On the other hand, all must desire that no delay longer than absolutely necessary should occur in the execution of a work fraught with so many and such general advantages. ††

‡‡ The papers and correspondence between this Government and that of Victoria, and Mr. Francis Gisborne, relative to the establishment of telegraphic communication with Europe form a portion of the Appendix to the Third Report from the Select Committee on Packet and Telegraphic Contracts; ordered by the House of Commons to be printed, 5th July, 1860.

The following are extracts from the Report in question:—

“The circumstance that the Continental lines are subject to the supervision of the police, and the control of the Governments through whose territories they pass, and the importance of having a line, free from such control and supervision, for communications with Gibraltar, Malta, and our Eastern possessions, induced our Government to resolve on the construction of a Telegraph direct from Falmouth to Gibraltar, with the view of carrying it on from thence to Malta, and ultimately extending it to Alexandria, so as to connect this Country by an independent line with the Red Sea and India Telegraph, and through India with Australia and Hong Kong.

“In the beginning of this year, however, the present Government decided on proposing to Parliament to transfer the cable, the manufacture of which had been proceeded with under the contract just mentioned, from the Falmouth and Gibraltar Line to one between Rangoon, (to which the land lines from Kurrachee through India reach) and Singapore, which is the commencing point of a line to Batavia, and so far towards Australia, and from which also the projected communication to Hong Kong would proceed.

“A conditional arrangement to this effect has accordingly been made with the contractors for the Falmouth and Gibraltar Line, the contract for the laying of the cable for which is for the present suspended till the decision of Parliament be obtained.

“Your Committee, however, desire to record their strong conviction of the very great importance of having an independent means of telegraphic communication, free from all foreign supervision or control, with our stations in the Mediterranean and our Empire in the East, at as early a period as possible after the difficulties at present attending the successful laying of a telegraph cable for distances of considerable extent shall have been overcome.” 5th July, 1860.

The reported failure of the Red Sea and India Telegraph Line is to be much regretted, and must tend to postpone such means of communication.

CONCLUSION.

Reviewing the history of the Railways, Main Roads, and Electric Telegraph in this Colony during the last three years, it is satisfactory to mark the progress made. In June, 1857, there were 38 miles of Railway open; in June, 1860, there are 54 miles open, 15 ready for opening, and 53 in progress. In June, 1857, the Main Roads embraced only about 340 miles, and scarcely a creek or river was bridged; in June, 1860, they extend over 900 miles, and, with a few exceptions, all the creeks and rivers have been or are being bridged over; and the funds provided are expended under a system admitting of investigation and control. In June, 1857, the construction of the Electric Telegraph was just commenced; in June, 1860, there were 742 miles open for public use, 99 miles in progress, and 752 miles about to be immediately commenced; and a gross revenue derived from it of about £12,000 for the year. Considering these facts, it is impossible not to be hopeful for the future, and encouraged under the numerous disappointments and vexations attendant upon the construction and management of the Internal Communications of this Colony. As Railways and the Electric Telegraph extend, it may be hoped that private enterprise will undertake, at any rate, their management. Meantime it appears inevitable that the Government should bear the burden of the early years of such works in a young country, and labor amidst difficulties and complaints, satisfied with seeing the real advancement made.

INTERNAL COMMUNICATION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

SUPPLEMENT to the Fourth Report to the Honorable the Secretary for Public Works, by Captain Martindale, Royal Engineers.

*Department of Public Works,
Sydney, October, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to submit for your consideration a brief Supplement to my Fourth Report, containing information to the 30th ultimo.

On the 2nd July last the Northern Line was opened to Lochinvar, 26½ miles from Newcastle; and on the 4th July last, from the Parramatta Junction to the Blacktown Road, 8 miles: the total mileage then open for traffic being 69 miles.

On the 23rd July last the running of the trains beyond Liverpool was again stopped by floods, but was resumed on the 27th of the same month, since which date it has not been interrupted. It is to be regretted, however, that, owing to the postal contracts and the absence of a sufficiently good road from Windsor, the mails and passengers are still convoyed from both Richmond and Windsor into Parramatta, instead of to the Blacktown Road Station.

The number of passengers conveyed on the Great Southern Railway, during the past quarter, has been 34,413 with single, and 23,863 with return tickets, and 8,011 tons of goods; and on the Great Western Railway, 7,634 with single, and 5,874 with return tickets, and 542 tons of goods. The receipts from passenger traffic on the former line being £6,496 15s. 7d., from goods, £2,519 5s. 9d.; and the total, £9,192 11s. 5d.; and on the latter line, £1,474 16s. from passenger traffic, £419 5s. 3d. from goods, and a total of £2,504 5s. 9d.

Combining the two, the total number of passengers carried has been 42,047 with single, and 29,737 with return tickets, and 8,554 tons of goods; the receipts from passenger traffic being £7,972; from goods, £2,939; and a total of £11,697.

By

By reference to Table B, in the body of the Report, page 5, the working of the above line during the last quarter may be compared, at a glance, with that of the six preceding quarters. There is a tendency to increase, especially in the passenger traffic, but the cash receipts are small, the more so when the additional length of line opened is taken into consideration.

Upon the Northern Line the number of passengers conveyed with single tickets was 19,331; and with return tickets, 11,620. The receipts from passenger traffic being £2,455 16s. 6d.; from goods traffic, £824 1s. 6d.; and from all sources, £3,295 7s. 6d.

This return is somewhat more encouraging; for comparing the quarters in Table B as before, an increase will be seen in nearly every item of traffic, and generally in the receipts; there being, however, 6½ miles additional line in use.

The working expenses of the Southern Line, for the last quarter, have been £9,215 4s. 5d.*; of the Western line, £1,503 19s. 11d.; and of the Northern Line, £2,789 9s. 3d. The net receipts of the Southern and Western Lines combined have, therefore, only amounted to £977 12s. 10d.; and of the Northern Line, to £505 18s. 3d.

Should the net receipts not improve during the present quarter, it would appear necessary for the Government to reconsider the question of rates.

The progress made upon the lines in course of construction has not been satisfactory; some allowance must, however, be made for the continued wet weather.

Plans and Estimates have been prepared for further extensions;† from Picton to Goulburn, 81 miles; Penrith to Bathurst, 103 miles; Singleton to Muswellbrook, 31½ miles; and Maitland to Morpeth, 2½ miles. The estimate for the first named line is £1,520,000; for the second, £2,650,000; for the third, £510,000; and for the fourth, £20,000, exclusive of rolling stock; the total may be put at £4,850,000. Were these lines constructed much would be done towards opening up the country, especially the Southern and Western Districts.

The following approximate Estimate has also been made, for the substitution of horse railways for lines to be worked by locomotives:—

	Miles.	Cost.
From Singleton to Tenterfield	308	£924,000
Mudgee to Northern Trunk Line... ..	142	426,000
Mudgee to Wellington	50	150,000
Tenterfield to Grafton	115	345,000
Blacktown to Windsor and Richmond ...	17	51,000
Penrith to Wellington	175	525,000
Picton to Albury	326	978,000
Eden to Cooma	85	255,000
Towards the Improvement of Mountain Passes, and the construction of Bridges		146,000
Rolling Stock		200,000
	1,218	£4,000,000

Such railways have been and are attracting increasing attention in England, France, and America. The necessity for some vital alteration in the present system of providing for the improvement of the main thoroughfares of this Colony is urgent and unquestionable; and the advantages which the public would derive from the possession of even horse railways through the districts above named, would be of the highest order. The proposition, however, to construct, in a young country, at a heavy cost, a second class in place of continuing a first class road, is one requiring the gravest consideration before it is adopted; and the questions with which the subject is here mixed up, partake so largely of a political character, as to render it a matter which can only be dealt with by the highest authorities in the country.

 MAIN ROADS.

Contracts have been made for all the services for which there are funds available, with the exception of the bridge over the Hume River, at Yass, and the improvement of the Northern Road at Doughboy Hollow, for which tenders have been invited. I regret to say, however, that the reports received from all parts of the country complain of the great injury the roads have sustained from the constant rain, and of the delay it has occasioned to the works in progress.

Plans are in hand for a bridge over the river Murrumbidgee, at Gundagai; but from the nature of the locality, the expense will necessarily be considerable.*

 ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

The number of messages transmitted during the quarter ending the 30th September last, was 14,010, of the value of £3,174 6s. 3d.; of which, £117 14s. 2d. were railway messages, leaving cash receipts, £3,059 9s. 1d. Of this amount, £188 14s. 1d. was on account of messages on the public service. The expenditure for the same period was £1,724 6s. 2d.

The Telegraphic Money Order system came into force on the 2nd July last within this Colony. Under the original regulations each money order was limited to £5; and no person could obtain more than two orders in favor of the same payee on one day. The premium was 6d. for any sum not exceeding £2, and 1s. above £2 and not exceeding £5; in addition to the minimum charge for transmission of a message between any two stations.

These regulations have been since revised, and £20 can now be sent on one day in favor of the same payee; the premium being 6d. up to £10, and 1s. between £10 and £20; in addition to the minimum charge for transmission of message.†

The money order stations at present opened are Sydney, Goulburn, Yass, Gundagai, Albury, Windsor, West Maitland, Newcastle and Bathurst.

The concurrence of the neighbouring Colonies has been invited, so as to make the system inter-colonial, but no arrangement has yet been come to.

The number of money order messages transmitted during the quarter ending 30th September last, was 104; the amount sent being £529 4s. 1d.

The Kiandra line is rapidly approaching completion.‡

The following tenders have been accepted for the construction of authorized lines:—

From Bathurst to Orange, estimated distance 35 miles, cost per mile completed, § £45 10s. The tender was accepted on the 31st July last, and the time for completion is four months from the notification of the acceptance of the tender.

From Bathurst to Mudgee, estimated distance 97 miles, via Sofala, Tambaroora, Louisa Creek, Windeyer, Grattai, and Mudgee; cost per mile completed, £44. The tender was accepted on the 31st July last, and the time for completion is six months from the notification of the acceptance of the tender.

From Maitland to Murrurundi, estimated distance 104 miles, via Singleton, Muswellbrook, and Scone; cost per mile, completed, £46. The tender was accepted on the 31st July last, and the time for completion is twelve months from the notification of the acceptance of the tender.

From Murrurundi to the boundary of Queensland, estimated distance 296 miles, via Tamworth, Armidale, Glenn Innes, and Tenterfield; cost per mile, completed, £48 5s.

The

* The recent floods having destroyed the Company's bridge over the river Nepean, at Penrith, it became necessary for the Government to provide for the transit of passengers and goods across that river. Two punts have therefore been purchased, and the tolls let for the three months ending 31st December next, for £388; the scale of tolls having been greatly reduced.

† The old Duck River Bridge, swept away by the floods, has been restored. It is a simple beam bridge of one opening of 30 feet wide, on coppered piles, roadway 21 feet wide; total length, 40 feet.

‡ The old bridge at St. Mary's, which was also partly destroyed by the floods, has been re-constructed, so as to last for some time longer.

§ See Appendix for details. Page

† Opened for public use 16 October, 1860. Kiandra is a money order station.

§ Per mile completed includes, in every case not specified, all materials.

The tender was accepted on the 8th August last, and the time for completion is twelve months from the notification of the acceptance of the tender.

From Gundagai to Deniliquin via Wagga Wagga, estimated distance 220 miles; cost per mile, completed, of first 35 miles, *£16 10s.; and of the remainder, £46. The tender was accepted on the 27th August last, and the time for completion is eight months from the notification of the acceptance of the tender.

As soon as this line is completed the Government will take over the Deniliquin and Echuca line, 45 miles, under the arrangement existing with the Company.

When these lines are completed, telegraphic communication will extend over about 1,593 miles within this Colony.

The construction by the Government of Queensland of the line from their boundary to Brisbane, for which tenders have been invited, will afford the further advantages of communication with Warwick, Drayton, Toowoomba, Ipswich, and Brisbane.

Tenders have also been accepted by this Government for the erection of telegraph stations at Goulburn on the 31st July last, Windsor and West Maitland 7th August last, Albury 11th, and Bathurst and Newcastle the 14th of the same month, and Yass on the 5th September, and buildings have been purchased at Berrima and Gundagai. The tenders received from Hartley and Wollombi were too high to be accepted. Penrith will be provided for in the railway arrangements. I have previously pointed out the great advantages these stations will afford for working the lines.

The arrangement under which the Government occupied a portion of the Sydney Exchange as offices having been terminated, new offices are in course of construction adjoining the General Post Office in George-street. A telegraph station is also nearly completed at Kiandra.

The lines for which provision has been made on the Estimates of 1861 are from Deniliquin via Moulamein, Balranald, Euston, and Wentworth, to the eastern frontier of South Australia, at an estimated cost of £25,000, the approximate distance being 300 miles; and from Goulburn to Braidwood, the approximate distance being 55 miles, at an estimated cost of £4,000. The former line will, while bringing the most distant parts of the Colony into instant inter-communication, tend to prevent the delays which now occur in the transmission of messages to this Colony on the arrival of the English Mail; the latter will make some provision for the requirements of the South-eastern district.

I have, &c.,

B. H. MARTINDALE.

* Line stretched on poles of main line to Albury for first 35 miles.

GOVERNMENT RAILWAY REGULATIONS.

1. Season and Monthly Tickets are not transferable, and must be shewn when required to any authorized Railway servant; and Family Tickets will be available only for those members of the family for whom they are issued.
2. No responsibility will be taken by the Commissioner for any luggage, unless it be specially booked and paid for. Passengers are particularly requested to have their names and destinations distinctly marked on their luggage, and to see it deposited in the Train.
3. Horses and carriages must be at the Station not later than 15 minutes before the time named for the departure of the Train by which they are intended to be sent. To prevent disappointment, six hours previous notice should, if possible, be sent to the Station Master.
4. Horses and dogs are carried at the risk of the owners, and no responsibility will be taken by the Commissioner for any injury or damage occurring to them while on the Railway. Dogs should be provided with chains and muzzles. Under no consideration will they be allowed to accompany passengers inside the carriages.
5. Parties sending or receiving regular loading may have a monthly account if sanctioned by the Commissioner; but otherwise no credit can be allowed.
6. All goods not removed within 48 hours after arrival per Train, or of which the consignee refuses to accept delivery, or to pay the tolls and charges due thereon on demand, may be stored, and will be liable to charges for storage; and all such tolls and charges for storage, and expenses consequent thereon, must be paid before the goods are delivered up; and, if not paid on demand, the goods may be sold forthwith to defray the tolls, charges, and expenses due thereon.
7. The Commissioner shall not be held liable for the safety of bullion, coin, clocks and watches, glass mirrors, paintings, prints, picture-frames, jewellery, plate, or plated articles, and similar valuable property, unless due notice of the nature and value of such articles, when sent, be given to the Commissioner, or his authorized agent, and unless an insurance rate of 1 per cent. upon the declared value of such articles be paid in addition to the authorized charge for conveyance.
8. Aquefortis, oil of vitriol, and other acids, lucifer matches, gunpowder, or other goods which are of a dangerous nature, must be distinctly marked by the senders on the outside of the packages containing the same, or notice given of the nature of the goods, in writing, to the Commissioner or his authorized agent, and such goods will be taken only at the option of the Commissioner.
9. Fresh meat or fish, poultry or sucking pigs (alive or dead), dairy produce, as butter and milk, eggs, fruit, vegetables, and other perishable articles, will be conveyed, when practicable, by the next Train, whether passenger or otherwise, leaving after their receipt at a Station, and, in all cases, at the owner's risk, and, if not removed from the Railway premises, will be thrown away should they become offensive.
10. The Commissioner is to have the option of taking goods by weight or by measurement, at the rate of 40 cubic feet to the ton, except billet wood, which will be measured at the rate of 50 cubic feet to the ton.
11. The Commissioner is not to be liable for any damage or breakage of goods loaded or unloaded by the senders, nor for any goods that may not be delivered or may be misdelivered, in consequence of the same not being properly directed; nor for damage to, loss of, or injury to, any goods in consequence of the same being improperly packed, or of leakage, fermentation, or accidental fire.
12. Receipts will be given for all goods sent to be carried by Railway which are accompanied by a consigning note in duplicate; and will also be required on the goods being delivered up.
13. No goods business will be transacted on Sundays, Christmas Day, or Good Friday, or any public holiday.
14. Parcels are received and booked at the Stations between the hours of 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily (Sundays excepted), and if booked before 15 minutes of the departure of any Passenger Train, will be sent by it.
15. All parcels and packages under 112lbs. weight each (unless they form part of a consignment of goods exceeding that weight) will be conveyed by Passenger Trains exclusively at the authorized parcels rates; and all parcels and packages weighing above 112lbs. each, or forming part of a consignment exceeding 112lbs., will be forwarded by Goods Trains, and charged at goods rates if per "Passenger Train" be not distinctly marked upon them.
16. The following number of live stock may be loaded in each van, viz.:—8 head of cattle, 32 calves or goats, 80 pigs, or 100 sheep in two tiers. Whenever a van is only partly occupied with live stock, the Commissioner may load other stock in it, if requisite, and if the owners object to this, or to load these numbers, then the vans to be charged for as if containing the above numbers. All parties sending live stock are requested to give at least six hours' notice of the number of trucks they will require.
17. The Commissioner is not to receive live stock on Sundays, Good Friday, or Christmas Day, or any public holiday; nor shall he be held liable for any injury or damage occurring to live stock while on the Railways, and its conveyance is undertaken only on condition that the owners bear all the risks of loss or injury by conveyance or other contingencies.
18. All stock must be removed from the Railway premises immediately after the arrival of the Train, or, if left, they will remain at the owner's risk, and after 12 hours a charge of 1s. per head per diem will be made upon them.
19. The Railway servants are prohibited from receiving any gratuities, under penalty of dismissal.

CLOAK ROOMS.

20. For the convenience of parties wishing to have their luggage left at any Station for a short period, the Station Masters have orders to receive and register the same, a ticket being given in exchange, which must be produced when the luggage is required to be given up. A charge will be made of 3d. for each article for every 24 hours or part of 24 hours. The Commissioner is not to be held responsible for any article left on the Railway premises unless it be thus registered.
21. It is requested that any irregularity may be immediately notified to the Commissioner for Internal Communication, Sydney; or to the Traffic Manager, Great Southern Railway, Redfern Station, Sydney; or the Traffic Manager, Great Northern Railway, Newcastle.

GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

REGULATIONS FOR COLLECTION AND DELIVERY OF GOODS.

1. All Goods or Parcels transmitted to any Station on the Great Southern Railway will, unless the same are specially marked "to be left till called for," be forwarded by the Traffic Manager and delivered at the stores or offices of the consignees in Sydney, within twenty-four hours after receipt at any station.
2. All Goods to be transmitted by rail from Sydney will be collected at the premises of the Consignors in Sydney, within twenty-four hours after the receipt of an application, in writing, directed to the Traffic Manager, at the Station, Redfern.
3. All Goods thus collected will be forwarded to such Railway Station as they may be addressed to, by the next Goods Train, and delivered upon application to carriers or others, according to the directions of the senders; and all carriers' drays will be loaded up by the railway servants, under the direction of the Traffic Manager, without any extra charge.

- 4. Upon the delivery of any Goods by a Railway servant, a receipt will invariably be taken, as a discharge to the Commissioner.
- 5. The Traffic Manager will arrange with all carriers or other parties sending loading for the return loading, upon being requested to do so.
- 6. No charge whatever will be made for commission or agency.
- 7. The authorized charges upon all Goods or Parcels must be paid on demand; no credit will be given in future, except under special agreement with the Commissioner.
- 8. It is to be distinctly understood that nothing in these arrangements is intended to hinder any parties from sending Goods or Parcels to the Railway, or removing them from it, by their own or hired vehicles.
- 9. The Commissioner is not to be held responsible for the safety of Goods unless they are properly directed and packed; and every consignment of Goods must be accompanied by a consignment or forwarding note, signed by the sender or senders.
- 10. The Goods' Clerk will be in attendance at the Redfern Station to receive Goods daily, from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sundays, Christmas Day, Good Friday, or public holidays excepted.

GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS BY-LAWS.

- 1. No person will be allowed to take his seat in or upon any of the Railway carriages, or travel upon the Railway, without having first paid his fare, and every passenger on paying his fare will be furnished with a ticket which he is to shew when required by, and deliver up on demand to, any authorized servant of the Commissioner, and every passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket on demand will be required to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, or in default of payment shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding forty shillings, in addition to such fare.
- 2. Passengers at intermediate Stations will be booked only conditionally; that is to say, in case there shall be room in the train for which they are booked; but in case there shall not be room for all the passengers booked, those booked for the longest distance shall have the preference, and those booked for the same distance shall have priority according to the order in which they are booked; and every person infringing this regulation shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings, provided that an extra train shall be sent for the conveyance of any persons to whom a passage may have been refused by the Railway servants from want of room, and no passenger will be allowed to re-book at any intermediate Station for the same train by which he has travelled.
- 3. Any person smoking in or upon any Railway carriage (except in any carriage set apart for that purpose, and marked "Smoking Carriage"), or in or at any Station, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings, and should such person persist in smoking in a carriage or Station, except as above mentioned, after being warned to desist, he shall, in addition to incurring such penalty and forfeiting his fare, be immediately removed from the Railway premises, if the train be at a Station, or if travelling, then at the first Station or stopping-place.
- 4. Any person who shall jump from, or leave, or get outside of, any Railway carriage, or get on or into any carriage, or attempt to do so, when the train is in motion, or who shall leave any carriage at any other place than the regular passengers' platform, or other places appointed for passengers to leave the carriages, unless requested so to do by an authorized Railway servant, or who shall, without any authority, lock, unlock, or open, any door of a Railway carriage, or attempt to do so, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for every such offence.
- 5. Any person found in or upon any Railway carriage or Station in a state of intoxication, using obscene or indecent language, or committing any nuisance, gambling, or otherwise wilfully interfering with the comfort of the passengers, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds for every such offence; and if the person so offending be a passenger, he shall, in addition to such penalty, forfeit his fare, and be immediately removed from the Railway premises, if the train be at a Station, or if travelling, then at the first Station or stopping-place.
- 6. Any person who shall wilfully injure, or cut the linings or blinds, or break or deface the windows, or remove or injure the number plates, or remove or extinguish any of the lamps in the carriages, or otherwise damage any Railway carriage, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds for each such offence, in addition to the amount of damage done.
- 7. Any person who shall sell and deliver any article whatever in a Railway carriage, or at any Station, without having received special permission in writing from the Commissioner, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for each offence.
- 8. No wines, malt, or spirituous liquors shall on any pretence be sold and delivered on the Railway premises; and any person offending against this By-law shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding five pounds for each offence.
- 9. No driver or conductor of any hackney carriage, omnibus, or other public vehicle, shall ply for hire within the Railway premises, without a license, in writing, from the Commissioner; and every driver or conductor of such carriage, holding such license, shall conform to the Regulations made from time to time by the Commissioner, and shall for every offence against this By-law forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding five pounds.
- 10. The Tables, with the List of Tolls, Fares, and Charges, and the Regulations relating to the carriage of passengers' luggage, horses, carriages, dogs, goods, parcels, and live stock, made and published, or which may hereafter be made and published, under the authority of the Government Railways Act, 22 Vict., No. 19, shall be deemed to be a part of, and incorporated with these By-laws; and any person offending against any of the Regulations for which no penalty is hereinbefore or by the said Act provided, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.
- 11. The word "fare" in these By-laws shall be held to mean the fare or toll determined upon by the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, and published from time to time under the authority of the Government Railways Act, 22 Vict., No. 19; and the words "Railway carriage," shall include every passenger carriage, goods truck, horse box, meat van, or other vehicle attached to any train on the Railway.

MINUTES OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

WEDNESDAY, 22 FEBRUARY, 1860.

1. The House met pursuant to adjournment. The President took the Chair at twenty-seven minutes after Four o'clock.
5. Telegraphic Communication with the United Kingdom:—The Minister for Public Works moved, pursuant to amended notice,—
- (1.) That this House is of opinion that Telegraphic Communication with the United Kingdom should be established at as early a date as practicable, by means of a line to be constructed and maintained from this Colony to East Java, on the basis of an annual subsidy not exceeding £9,625, conditional on the completion of the line and its maintenance in effective working order; such subsidy to be granted for a term not exceeding twenty-one years to any Company of the stability of which satisfactory assurance shall be given to the Government of this Colony.
- (2.) That the foregoing Resolution be communicated by Address to His Excellency the Governor General.
- Debate ensued.
- Question put and passed.

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

THURSDAY, 2 FEBRUARY, 1860.

7. Telegraphic Communication with the United Kingdom:—On the Order of the Day being read, the Speaker left the Chair, and the House resolved itself into a Committee of the whole, further to consider of an Address to His Excellency the Governor General, with reference to a Subsidy towards Telegraphic Communication with the United Kingdom.
- The Chairman reported that the following Resolution had been agreed to in the Committee:—
- Resolved, That an Address be presented to His Excellency the Governor General, embodying the following Resolutions:—
1. That this House is of opinion that the Government of this Colony should be authorized to grant a subsidy not exceeding £9,625 per annum, for a term not exceeding twenty-one years, to any Company of the stability of which satisfactory assurance shall be given, to induce such Company to construct and maintain a Telegraphic Line from this Colony to East Java, upon the following conditions, that is to say:—
- (1.) That the Government of Victoria shall make arrangements with such Company, by subsidy or otherwise, for the residue, over and above the annual subsidy of this Colony, necessary for the carrying out of the work.
 - (2.) That the period within which the first call of the subscribed capital of the Company shall be made, shall be limited to twelve calendar months from the date of the concurrence of the Colony of Victoria in the preceding condition.
 - (3.) That the whole work shall be completed and in effective operation within three years from the present date; subject however to such extension of the time, to meet possible contingencies, as may hereafter be agreed upon.
 - (4.) That the proposed subsidy shall be proportionally payable on the capital of the Company as paid up.
 - (5.) That the payment of the said subsidy shall be conditional on the maintenance of the Line in effective working order, and that no payment shall be made until the Line is completed.
 - (6.) That no tariff of charges shall be established without the concurrence of this Colony.
 - (7.) That in the event of the net profits of the Company exceeding in any year the rate of ten per cent. per annum, such excess shall be rateably applied to reduce the respective contributions of this Colony and of Victoria.
2. That steps be taken without delay to communicate with, and settle the proportionate contributions of the other Colonies in aid of the respective contributions of New South Wales and Victoria.
- And the same having been read at length by the Clerk,—
- Mr. Forster moved, That the House do now adopt this Resolution.
- Debate ensued.
- Question put.
- The House divided. Ayes, 23. Noes, 5.

EXTRACT FROM THE VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

WEDNESDAY, 23 MAY, 1860.

6. Telegraphic Communication with India and Europe:—Mr. Lalor reported, from a Committee of the whole, certain Resolutions, which were read, and are as follows:—

Resolved,—

II. That the Government of this Colony be authorized to grant, in conjunction with the Imperial Government, and with all or any of the Australian Colonies, an annual subsidy not exceeding in the whole £35,000, for a term not exceeding twenty-one years, to any Company of whose stability satisfactory assurance shall be given, to induce such Company to construct and maintain a Line of Telegraph which shall connect this Colony with any portion of the Indian and European Telegraph Lines at present in working, or that may hereafter be constructed, upon the following conditions, viz.:—

- (1.) That such Company shall, within two years after a Contract has been entered into, construct such Line of Telegraph, unless prevented by war or the dangers or accidents of the seas, and afterwards maintain it in working order at its own expense.
- (2.) That the proposed subsidy shall be proportionably payable on the capital of the Company actually paid up and expended, and shall not exceed five per cent. on such capital. And the Contract for the manufacture and laying of the Cable shall be open to public tender, and the lowest tender accepted, the satisfactory nature of which competent Electricians in England shall determine.
- (3.) That no payment of such subsidy shall be made until the Line of Telegraph to be constructed has been in working order for three consecutive months; and such payments shall be made rateably only for the period during which the Line so constructed is open for the transmission of messages.
- (4.) If such line shall be closed, unless by reason of war, or shall not be in a state of efficiency for the transmission of messages for any eighteen consecutive months, then the contract with such Company shall be void.
- (5.) That a tariff of charges for the transmission of messages over such line shall be agreed to by the several contracting Governments and the Company, before any contract is entered into, and such tariff shall not afterwards be altered without the concurrence of such Governments.
- (6.) That in the event of the net profits of the Company exceeding in any year the rate of ten per cent. per annum inclusive of the subsidy, such excess shall be rateably applied to reduce the respective contributions of the contracting Governments.

III. That the proportion of the entire annual subsidy to be granted as the contribution of this Colony shall not exceed the sum of £13,000 in any one year.

IV. That in any agreement which may be entered into with any other Colony, for the purpose of making up the amount of subsidy required, it shall be an express stipulation that the actual annual payments of such Colony, and of this Colony, shall be in proportion to the value of the messages transmitted by each along the line in every year.

V. That upon the completion of the preliminary arrangements for a contract, in terms of the foregoing Resolutions, a Bill be brought in for the purpose of authorizing the annual expenditure required.

VI. That these Resolutions shall be in force only for two years, and shall be forthwith published in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Bailey moved, That the above Resolutions be now read a second time.

Debate ensued.

Question put and resolved in the affirmative.

Mr. Bailey moved, That the Assembly do now agree in the above Resolutions.

Debate ensued.

Question put and resolved in the affirmative.

Ordered, That an Address be presented to His Excellency the Governor, forwarding to His Excellency the several Resolutions agreed to by this House in relation to Telegraphic Communications with India and Europe.

Sydney, 10th September, 1860.

REDUCED RATES.

ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH—MONEY ORDER BRANCH.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL, with the advice of the Executive Council, has been pleased to approve of the following revised Rates and Regulations for the Money Order Branch of the New South Wales Electric Telegraph Department.

On and after the 17th instant, Money Orders can be transmitted by Electric Telegraph between the undermentioned Stations, and at the Rates, and under the Regulations following:—

STATIONS.

Sydney,
Goulburn,
Yass,

Gundagai,
Albury,
Windsor,

West Maitland,
Newcastle,
Bathurst.

Money Orders to be limited to £20 in favor of the same payee on the same day.

The charge or premium to be 6d. (sixpence) for any sum not exceeding £10 (ten pounds), and 1s. (one shilling) above £10 (ten pounds) and not exceeding £20 (twenty pounds), in addition to the minimum charge for transmission of a message between any two of the above-named Stations.

All Money Orders will be delivered to the payees as telegrams, and the money due will be payable on demand at the Telegraph Offices, by cheque on the Bank of New South Wales, or other most convenient Bank, should there be no local Branch of the Bank of New South Wales.

Parties transmitting Money Orders will be informed by Telegraph (without charge), as soon as their Orders have been paid.

Receipts will, in all cases, be given for money deposited, and required for money paid.

W. M. ARNOLD.

N.B.—It is proposed to extend these arrangements hereafter to the sister Colonies, and to such other Stations within New South Wales as may appear advisable.

F. KING, ESQ., J.P., to SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

Tenterfield,
6 August, 1858.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to inform you, that a bridge has been built across the Tenterfield River. To meet the expense a subscription was raised, and the sum of £70 was collected. The cost of the bridge was £170. I wish to be informed if I may appropriate part of the money for roads to this purpose.

A further sum will be collected by subscription, and I shall of course only pay the sum required to meet Mr. Yates' expenses. I have refused to give any money to the Bridge Committee until I had your sanction.

I have only now to add that the bridge is of great benefit to the town.

I have, &c.,
FREDERIC KING.

Department of Lands and Public Works,
Sydney, 31 August, 1858.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, requesting information as to whether you might appropriate part of the road money towards the erection of a bridge over the Tenterfield River, I am directed to inform you that the Secretary for Lands and Public Works is not aware of any money being at present at your disposal in the bank for road purposes, neither is he aware of any claim the Bench at Tenterfield can have for more than thirty-six pounds sixteen shillings and ten-pence, which will make up the sum of £500 allotted for the Road from Tenterfield to Grafton for the present year.

Tenterfield, 7 September, 1858.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 31st August, in which you state that the Tenterfield Bench has only thirty-six pounds sixteen shillings and ten-pence at its disposal for the repairs of the Tenterfield and Grafton Road.

2. I have a party at work on the road superintended by Mr. Yates, and I beg to state that the repairs are much required.

3. I wish to be informed whether I am immediately to break up the road party and discharge Mr. Yates, or whether I may rely on the Government to supply me with the necessary funds for carrying on the needful repairs?

4. May I draw the sum of one hundred pounds from Government, for the making of the Tenterfield Bridge?

UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS to F. KING, ESQ., J.P.

Department of Lands and Public Works,Sydney, 23 September, 1858.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, stating that you had still a party of men superintended by Mr. Yates, at work on the road from Tenterfield to Grafton, and requesting to know whether you were to discharge them, or whether you may rely on the Government to supply you with the necessary funds for carrying on the work, I am directed to inform you that the sum of £500 has been allotted for that road for the present year, and that the Secretary for Lands and Public Works cannot supplement that amount. The whole of this sum, with the exception of thirty-six pounds sixteen shillings and ten-pence, has been already expended by you; and I am to state that the latter amount will be placed to the credit of the Bench of Magistrates on an early date.

2. I am instructed to express Mr. Secretary Robertson's regret that you should have again taken the very irregular course of exceeding your authority, after the trouble your having done so occasioned a few months since.

3. I am to add that you still appear to misunderstand your position with reference to the expenditure of the money allotted for the above road, as the amounts were placed from time to time by the Government at the disposal of the Bench of Magistrates at Tenterfield, and not at your disposal as an individual.

I have, &c.,

MICL. FITZPATRICK.

No. 6.

F. KING, ESQ., J.P., to SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

Tenterfield, 2 October, 1858.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge your letter of the 23rd ultimo, in which you inform me that the Government cannot furnish any more money for the repairs of the Tenterfield and Grafton Road. I have informed Mr. Yates of this fact, and have ordered him to discharge the men; and I wish to know if the tents, tools, &c., are to be sold by auction to pay off the debts due by the Bench.

I am quite aware of my position with regard to the road management, but as I have had no assistance from the other members of the Tenterfield Bench I have continued to act without. I have never acted as a private individual in the matter, but as a Road Trustee in the first instance, and as a Magistrate in the second.

ROAD FROM TENTERFIELD TO GRAFTON.

I have always acted for the Bench, and if the other Magistrates will not interest themselves in the repairs of the roads I cannot help it.

If you remember, in the conversation I had with you, in the presence of Mr. Taylor and Mr. Moriarty, you told me that you would furnish me with money to keep on Mr. Yates, and that I did quite right not to discharge him.

The repairs have been carried on in a proper manner, and as cheaply as possible.

I will send the vouchers by the next mail, and hope that you will furnish me with sufficient money to take up Mr. Yates' cheques.

I have, &c.,
F. KING.

*Department of Lands and Public Works,
Sydney, 28 October, 1858.*

SIR,

In reply to your letters of the 2nd and 12th instant, further relating to the expenditure on the road from Grafton to Tenterfield, I am directed to inform you that you are under some mistake with regard to your conversation with the Secretary for Lands and Public Works, as he has no recollection of promising to advance anything beyond the five hundred pounds apportioned for the present year for this road. (4500.)

2. Mr. Secretary Robertson desires me to state that he would not take upon himself to give an authority to expend money of such an indefinite and unlimited character as that stated in your letter, and he is confident that the gentlemen present on the occasion will bear him out in the assertion that no promise of this kind was given.

3. I am also to call your attention to the repeated warnings which you have received from this Department that you should not ask for money on account of the road only as a Member of the Bench, and not personally, as you have again done in your letter under reply.

4. As to your not wishing to keep the money idle as stated by you, it appears to Mr. Robertson that you have taken the opposite course, and spent it before it was in your possession.

5. Adverting to my letters of the dates as per margin, cautioning you not to overdraw the amount appropriated for the road, I am now directed by the Secretary for Lands and Public Works to request that you will furnish a statement of the amount that will liquidate the debt alluded to in the last paragraph of your letter, and also a list of the tools to which you refer.

I have, &c.,

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 28th ultimo.

I regret very much that I was induced to keep Mr. Yates on the roads, but I certainly understood Mr. Robertson to say that he was pleased that I had not discharged Mr. Yates, and that I was to keep him on. If I have done wrong in this matter—which it appears I have—I am sorry for it.

I have requested Mr. Yates to furnish me with a list of tools, &c., which I will forward as soon as possible.

The amount of money which is required to liquidate the debt has been stated in my Abstract Account furnished, together with the vouchers, up to the end of September, since which time Mr. Yates has been unemployed.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to enclose a cheque for £3, drawn on the Bank of Australasia, by Mr. T. B. Yates, on account of Public Works, which has been duly presented by me and dishonored. I beg to inform you that Mr. Yates is employed by Mr. Frederick King, of Tenterfield, as Superintendent of Roads between that place and Grafton; and, at the date of my latest advices from that neighborhood, he was still so employed. On inquiring at your office, I find that not only has the sum voted last year for this line of road been expended, but also the vote for this year (£500) has been almost entirely anticipated and spent under Mr. King's directions, who has taken upon himself the responsibility of laying out these sums of money, without consulting the Trustees authorized to act with him.

I am aware that other cheques drawn by Mr. Yates have been dishonored, on account of no funds at the bank; and I hope that you will be pleased to cause a letter to be written to Mr. King, requesting him to inform you under what circumstances Mr. Yates is employed by him in the expenditure of funds which have no existence.

Mr. King informed my son, a short time since, that he was authorized to draw upon the Government, and that he intended to do so.

Tenterfield, 12 October, 1858.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 30th ultimo, enclosing a copy of a letter from Captain Chauvel, dated 16th September, addressed to the Secretary for Lands and Public Works.

I beg, in answer, to inform you, that on my return from Sydney, in July, I told Mr. Yates that you wished him to continue on the Roads, and that you told me that you would advance money to meet the expense of the repairs. Expecting a further supply to be placed to the credit of the Bench of Magistrates, and then paid to his credit in the Bank of Australasia, Mr. Yates drew cheques in payment of wages, &c.

I have repeatedly asked for more money, and have kept Mr. Yates on the road, supposing that you would cause funds to be placed to our credit in the Australian Joint Stock Bank.

I should have discharged Mr. Yates on my return from Sydney, had you wished it; but I felt that I should not be acting right, after your telling Mr. Taylor, Mr. Moriarty and myself, that you would furnish money to carry Mr. Yates on.

As I told you in my last letter, I have acted independently of my brother Magistrates, because they never interested themselves in the management of the road repairs, and I did not wish to keep the money idle.

Unless some member of a Bench will take a lead in a matter of this sort nothing could be effected, and I have only acted as one of the Tenterfield Magistrates.

I shall be glad to know if Mr. Yates is to sell off the tools, &c., which he has had in use, to assist in paying off part of the debt which has been incurred.

ROAD TRUSTEES to SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

Grafton, 12 May, 1859.

SIR,

We, the undersigned, having been named as Trustees of the Tenterfield and Grafton Road, consider it to be our duty to call your attention to what we conceive to be an uncalled-for waste of the public funds.

1st. The party employed by Mr. King on the Tenterfield Road, under the management of Mr. Yates, having been broken up several months ago, for want of funds, &c., we have been informed that since that time a man has been employed, at a rate of £1 per week and rations, in taking care of the tents and tools belonging to the Government.

2nd. These articles can be conveyed to the Police Station at Tabulam for an expense of £1, or to Grafton for £3 or £4, and taken care of free of expense.

3rd. While this public property has been lying by the road-side idle, the Grafton Committee have expended upon this road upwards of £300, and have been obliged to purchase all the tools, &c., required to carry on the works.

4th. The money subscribed by the public has been expended under our direction, and, should the Government entrust us with the expenditure of any other funds, we would respectfully request that these tools, &c., should be handed over to us, for the use of the road party.

5th. We have never been placed in a position to perform the duties of Road Trustees hitherto, or we would have prevented this waste of the public funds.

27 June, 1859.*

SIR,

In reference to your letter of the 10th instant, forwarding a copy of a letter received by you from Messrs. Lardner and Chauvel, J.P.'s, respecting a waste of the public funds in reference to the Tenterfield and Grafton Road, I am directed by the Bench of Magistrates to inform you that they were not aware of having anything to do with the Road Trust until the receipt of your said letter, as the correspondence had been opened by Mr. King, and taken by him to his own house, and never at any time laid before the Bench; and to that gentleman they refer you for the information asked for.

I am further directed to recommend the transfer of the tools, &c., to be conveyed to the Police Station at Tabulam.

UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS to BENCH OF MAGISTRATES, TENTERFIELD.

*Department of Lands and Public Works,
Sydney, 28 June, 1859.*

GENTLEMEN,

In reference to my letter of the 10th instant, requesting you to have the goodness to report on the enclosed copy of a communication from Messrs. Lardner and Chauvel, complaining of a waste of the funds of the Grafton and Tenterfield Road, by the employment of a man at £1 per week to take care of the tools, &c., I am now directed to enclose herewith, for your information, a copy of a letter from the man (Owen M'Mahon) who was engaged on the service in question, requesting that his wages may be paid, which are now some eight months in arrear. 10 June, 1860.

I have, &c.,

MICL. FITZPATRICK.

The Honorable the Secretary for Lands and Public Works.

May it please your Honor,

Having been left by T. B. Yates, Esq., the late Surveyor of the Grafton and Tenterfield line of road, in charge of the Government tools and stores, and being now for these past eight months left at this place without any orders as to what I am to do, nor any one empowered to pay me my wages, to which I am justly entitled, I have therefore taken the liberty of requesting your advice as to the course I am to pursue in order to obtain the amount due me, which is eight months up to the end of June, at £1 per week. The gentlemen who sign this document will vouch for the accuracy of this statement. Trusting you will pardon the liberty, (Signed) G. H. E. CHAUVEL, J.P.

I am, &c.,
OWEN M'MAHON.

Police Office, Tenterfield,

8 July, 1859.

SIR,

In reference to your letter of the 28th ultimo, enclosing copy of a letter from Owen M'Mahon—a man employed by Mr. T. B. Yates, Road Surveyor on this line of road, between Tenterfield and Grafton—applying for wages due to him, we beg respectfully to state that Mr. Frederick King acted as sole Trustee, and that the Bench of Magistrates have never held any communication, or instituted any inquiry into the management of the road party; Mr. King himself distinctly stating he was sole Trustee, and the only responsible party.

The correspondence from your office, relative to the Road Department, was never shewn to the Bench here—they are consequently in complete ignorance relative to it.

We beg to refer you to Mr. King for particulars.

F. KING, ESQ., J.P. to SECRETARY FOR LANDS AND PUBLIC WORKS.

Osterly, 25 July, 1859.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge your letter dated July 22, with the enclosure (a copy of a letter from Mr. Wright, Clerk of Petty Sessions at Tenterfield, addressed to the Honorable the Secretary for Lands and Public Works.)

I notice that Messrs. Lardner and Chauvel, of Grafton, have complained of a waste of the money allotted to the Tenterfield Bench for the repair of the Road between Tenterfield and Grafton.

I think it would be fair to me that I should have a copy of their letter, that I might see on what ground they have made such an accusation, and be able to answer their charges. I do not think they could prove that there was any waste of the money, and I feel sure that the work done was performed in an economical and proper manner.

Mr. T. B. Yates, who was employed as overseer over the road party, was recommended to me as a skilful road-maker, and he has proved that he understood his business; and as to wasting the money, I cannot feel that he can fairly be accused of that, for he furnished vouchers to the Government of all the items of expenditure; and I know for a fact that he was not extravagant in the number of men engaged, for he never could get enough at the rate of wages which he had agreed to give.

I took the most prominent part in the Road repairs, as I did in all the other Bench duties, as my attendance at Court will shew when compared with that of the other Magistrates.

I am quite willing to answer any charges that Messrs. Lardner and Chauvel may make.

I was only once asked by Mr. Irby about the Road matters; and then I told him that I had taken the management of it so far because I had been a Trustee, and had managed the correspondence, but that I should then hand it over to the Bench, which I accordingly did.

Hoping that you will furnish me with a copy of Messrs. Lardner and Chauvel's letter,—

I have, &c.,

MRS. HENRIETTA BROWN to MINISTER FOR PUBLIC WORKS.

Fairfield, 26 December, 1859.

SIR,

I am the holder of cheques to the value of £74 3s. 6d., drawn by T. B. Yates, late Road Contractor or Superintendent, on the Bank of Australasia, on the public account.

The cheques were given in payment for work done by men on the roads, with the exception of one for £55 cash lent to carry on the public service.

The works were on the Mountain Road, between this place and Tenterfield.

The cheques have frequently been presented for payment and dishonored—the answer, ‘no funds yet.’

Will you please to inform me, if money is still due by the Government to T. B. Yates on account of these works, why payment has been postponed, and when I may expect payment.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of letter informing me that the sum of three hundred pounds has been placed to the credit of the Grafton and Tenterfield Road Committee, to meet a sum of three hundred and nine pounds subscribed in Grafton and expended by us upon that road.

2. I observe in the Council Paper of the 21st December, 1858, entitled "Classification of Roads and Proposed Expenditure," that a sum of eight hundred and forty pounds has been allotted to this road for the present year.

3. The Committee are desirous of entering into contracts for the necessary works upon this road without delay, and I am desired to ask whether this sum of £840 will be available; and if so, when it will be placed to their credit, so that they may know what amount of work to undertake this year before entering upon contracts for the same.

SURVEYOR GENERAL to MR. SURVEYOR GREAVES.

Surveyor General's Office,
Sydney, 22 December, 1858.

SIR,

I have to request that, having consulted with the Grafton Road Committee, you will make a survey of the proposed new line from Tenterfield to Grafton, and furnish a report on the relative advantages of the two lines, as well to the inhabitants of New England as to those of Grafton.

2. It is desirable also that you should examine and report as to whether the old road might not with advantage be continued easterly from somewhere in the vicinity of Myrtle Creek to the Richmond River Road; thus, by a slight addition to the distance, making the two roads identical for a larger share, and thus saving money in repairs, and avoiding possibly some of the swamps which form so great an obstruction on the old line.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE BARNEY.

No. 38.

MR. SURVEYOR GREAVES to SURVEYOR GENERAL.

Dovedale, Clarence River,
8 May, 1859.

SIR,

In compliance with your request of the 22nd December, No. 58-1917, that I would make a survey of the proposed new line of road from Grafton to Tenterfield, and report on the relative advantages of the two lines, as well to the inhabitants of Grafton as to those of New England,—

2. I have made a careful survey and plan of the road, which I have the honor to enclose, and report as follows:—

3. The geographical position of Tenterfield from Grafton is about west 28 degrees north, and about 70 miles. The distance to be travelled over the new line is 110 miles; by the old road, about 130 miles.

4. I shall now notice the character of the country over which the road passes, and each feature that offers any obstacle to communication.

5. Leaving Grafton, the old road is followed to the foot of the ridges at the head of Miller's Flat; from there it keeps along the Up-Clarence Road, over a spur of the range, for about 3 miles, until it falls into the Double Swamp Creek—a difficult place to cross in wet weather, but a log bridge having been erected the difficulty has been removed; in about half a mile from this the new road begins, leaving the Up-Clarence Road at the top of a ridge, where it turns off to Molville; following the new road the country is sandy and unsound for about $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile, until it gets on to a spur of the main range, which, although rather stony in ascending, will by being beaten become a good sound road. The road then keeps along a firm range until it begins to fall into Forte's Creek, where the ground becomes sandy again and scrubby. A good open road has been cut through the scrub, and Forte's Creek logged similar to the Double Swamp Creek. This creek has a firm sandy bottom. In about 2 miles from here Chapman's Creek is crossed, the road winding round the foot of the ridge until it falls down a steep stony pinch. A stone crossing has been made over the creek, by throwing large stones in, otherwise it is impassable. A very slight expense would make the creek permanently good, by filling in more stones and cutting a sideling down the steep place of about 100 yards long; there is a belt of scrub on both sides of the creek, and the fall of the ridges is sandy. The road is again open and good until it approaches Whiteman's Creek; the banks of this creek have been cut away on both sides, and a good crossing effected; there is no obstacle presented by this creek. The road then ascends the spur of a leading range by winding round some rocks; the road is then very good for about 2 miles, until it meets a scrubby sandy range, over which a good track exists, and the ground apparently hard and being full of ant nests, I am of opinion that when beaten will become harder. The character of the country now changes from being sandy to a stiffer and harder nature, being composed of ironstone, grit, and plaster earth, which latter I believe to be peculiar to the Clarence District; it is a mixture of decomposed clay and grit, which sets very hard and firm. The road is now very good to a small plain at the foot of the Whiteman Gap, which may become cut-up in wet weather, but it can easily be got round. The road over the Gap is a succession of short steep pinches until near the top, where by cutting a short sideling a steep place may be avoided; the opposite side of the Gap is not nearly so long nor steep, but by a little cutting on this side also, near the top, an excellent road can be made at a trifling expense; the ground is of a still stiffer nature on the Gap, with indications of quartz and ironstone. The country is now very open and flat until Fine Flower Creek (a branch of Gordon Brook) is crossed; cuttings have also been made on both sides of this creek, and a good crossing effected. The road then continues over a succession of gently undulating dogwood ridges, composed of sandstone and plaster earth, until it meets with the main branch of Gordon Brook, where cuttings have again been made, and the creek easily crossed. In about two more miles, over a hard quartz range, the old Up-Clarence Road is met in a small flat, intersected by a creek, in which I found gold. Following the road by a gentle spur over Ogilvie's Gap, the road runs through an alluvial flat, then by the side of the Long Swamp to Yulgilgiarra, the road being good all the way. Yulgilgiarra is forty miles from Grafton. Following the road over a succession of gently undulating sandy ridges, and crossing Washpool and Bugilbor Creeks, the road is good to Dubador Creek. Here, also, good and permanent cuttings have been made, and the creek easily crossed. The road then approaches the bank of the Clarence, over a succession of sharp ridges, and continues good until, having passed Freestone Creek, a spur of the range is ascended, which, though short, is very steep. The country now becomes open and sandy, but continues sound until ascending the Long Mile Range, when it again becomes very sandy; over this range the road becomes very good, and by an easy descent reaches Deadman's Creek—this creek has very steep sandy banks; cuttings have been made on both sides, and a good crossing made, but more will be required to be done to render this crossing permanent. In a mile over Yates' Flat is the Clarence River, distance now 57 miles from Grafton.

The bank of the Clarence is steep, but a good permanent cutting has been made. The road then runs up the Shingley River bed for about 100 yards, to the centre of a rapid, or fall, at the foot of a low stony island, near the mouth of Muctanabra Creek; the crossing is very safe and easy, and is about 50 yards wide; the bottom is composed of coarse stones; the water, being concentrated in this channel formed by the island, is deeper than if the channel were wider—there being at the time I crossed, 25 inches of water in the deepest part; this might be lessened by removing a portion of the island, or a portion of the shingle at the approach to the ford. The ascent on the opposite bank of the river is easy. The road then runs over the points of several sharp granite ridges, and follows the course of Mucraabra Creek for about three miles; then crosses the creek, and by Mucraabra old station, along the top of Booth's Range (a spur of the dividing range between the waters of the Rocky or Timbarra River and the Clarence), until it falls into the valley beneath the Gap in the range known as the Rocky Gap, crossing a small stony watercourse four times. Since leaving the Clarence the ranges are composed of granite, with a substratum of decomposed granite; in places the granite rocks project, either in solid mass or loose upon the surface. The first ascent to the Gap from the small watercourse is very steep for about 100 yards, but there is plenty of room to wind about on the spur, and so tack up, the ground being granite pebbles and decomposed granite. The road is hard, and not likely to wear away. At the top of the Gap a sideling might be cut, which would improve the road. In winding down the opposite side a little cutting in one or two places would be an improvement, but in its present state it is available for loaded drays. In two more miles the road crosses the Rocky or Timbarra River; this is an old dray crossing. The river is easily approached; it has a perforated rocky bottom, and is not so deep as the Clarence, nor so much water, nor is the ford so wide. The road then continues over several good ridges, and crosses Yellow Creek, where sidelings have been cut, and continues along a branch of the creek to the foot of Grass Tree Hill, where it joins the old road, making the distance from Grafton exactly 73 miles.

6. The new line ceasing at the foot of Grass Tree Hill, by meeting with the old road, I shall briefly notice the obstacles which present themselves in the way of communication on the old road towards Tenterfield.

7. The first bad place is where the road falls off Grass Tree Hill; it is very steep, and waterworn. The ascent to the range, a mile further on, is still worse. The road then goes over a succession of sharp stony ridges and steep gullies, until it meets a spur of a range called "Newman's Pinch," which is a succession of steep stony pinches, for about half a mile; falling off Newman's Range, it is again very steep. Gerard's Range is the next obstacle, and in quick succession the steep stony places again appear, and continue for a full mile. Following Girard's Range, and a spur, the road is tolerably good until it reaches a steep range, about a mile beyond Crooked Creek; from there it is again good, until it descends to Sandy Creek, where there is a very steep pinch, known as the "Big Hill." The road then continues good until, after crossing Sandy Creek, it goes over several high pinnacles, which are both steep and sandy, to the foot of Sandy Hill. Sandy Hill is a succession of steep pinches for nearly three miles, and although Mr. Yates has been at work here, and spent a deal of money, it is scarcely passable for drays; the first and second pinches are the worst; the second pinch is rocky, and the passage very narrow. Near the top of the hill several sidelings have been cut by Mr. Yates, where, to me, the road seems not to have so much required it, while other worse and dangerous places are almost impassable. There is no loose sand on this hill, as its name would indicate; it would be firm and good to travel upon if once put in repair, by cutting away the steep places. The nature of the ground is a mixture of silica and quartz. The rocks appear to be a kind of conglomerate, which, when broken up, grind to coarse powder, and make a good road. This hill is the ascent to the table land. There is now no other obstacle but a good road from here into Tenterfield, passing Frocester and Barney Downs to the right hand, the total distance of road being 110 miles.

8. I shall now briefly point out the obstacles of the old road, which are not touched by the new line. Sandy ridges exist in the old road between Retreat and the Traveller's Rest, over a distance of twenty miles. Sportsman's Creek, the Six Mile Swamp, the Swamps near Wyon, and Busby's Flat, all offer obstructions to traffic in wet weather. The Richmond Range is steep and composed of clay, is slippery, and difficult to get over. Currabubula Range is the greatest obstruction on the old line; it is quite frightful to attempt, being worn, on the Tabulam side, into steep ruts called "bumps," some of which are worn in the rock three feet deep; the name is given from the fact that the drays come down it by bumps or jumps. This range is sandstone, with a substratum of strong clay. The Tabulam crossing of the Clarence River is better than that at Yates' Flat on the new line, there being three inches less water, and a narrower channel.

Richmond

9. The distance by the old line to the foot of Grass Tree Hill is 95 miles; by the new line, 73 miles.

10. I have, therefore, the honor to recommend the new road as available for traffic, and for being a practicable line in all seasons, and a saving of 22 miles in distance; which, in a trip, is equal to 44 miles, or a week's journey. I may here mention, as a proof of the practicability of this line, that ever since I travelled up it, and marked it throughout, taking with me a loaded dray with two horses, it has been travelled with loaded drays, some with 50 cwt. of wool on, and those that have come down the line have returned the same way. The difficulty of getting persons to take a new unbeaten road is always great, and this may, in some measure, account for this road not being opened much sooner. There are no swamps nor ranges on the new line offering the same impediment as the Richmond and Currabubula Ranges.

11. The Clarence, in wet seasons, will always impede communication, whichever road is used, and I would recommend a punt to be put over the river at Yates' Flat, and a reserve made on both sides the river for a village. There is a good deal of passing this way to the Fairfield Diggings; both on foot and horseback, and a ferry I think would pay well.

12. The road to Tabulam by the new line is shortened 20 miles; it leaves the new line at the top of the rocky gap. There is also another road from the top of the Long Mile range, which is available for those who prefer crossing the Clarence, at Tabulam, to Yates' Flats.

13. The advantage to be derived from this new road to the inhabitants of Grafton is very great, as opening a shorter road into the interior, and also a direct road to the Fairfield diggings.

14. The people of Grafton have been active in opening up this road, which must prove of lasting benefit to the town; and taking into consideration the improvements already made in bridging the creeks, and cutting away the banks, they are not asking too much in asking the Government to assist them, when a comparatively small sum will now effectually open the road and keep it in repair; and Grafton possesses natural advantages as a shipping port, with a gold field nearly all round her; and an extent of rich alluvial lands unequalled by any river on the coast, able to supply New England with every article that her soil can produce, must, together, ultimately lead to wealth and importance.

15. With reference to the 2nd paragraph of your letter, I have the honor to report that it is quite practicable to continue the present old Tenterfield road easterly from the vicinity of Myrtle Creek to the Richmond River; but that the Grafton and New England road can never be made identical with it.

I have, &c.,

W. A. B. GREAVES,

1st Class Surveyor.

No. 39.

(No. 59-4169.)

SURVEYOR GENERAL to UNDER SECRETARY FOR LANDS.

The enclosed Plan and Report of Mr. Surveyor Greaves, on the relative advantages of the new and old lines of road between Grafton and Tenterfield, are now transmitted for the information of the Honorable the Secretary for Lands and Public Works, with reference to my B. C. Report of the 23rd December last, No. 58-671. It will be seen by reference to the

the

the 7th paragraph (page 13) of Mr. Greaves' Report that the total distance from Grafton to Tenterfield by the new line is 110 miles, while (see 9th paragraph, page 14) that by the old line is 22 miles longer.

The existing difficulties on the old line of road, which appear to be very great, are alluded to in Mr. Greaves' 8th paragraph (pages 13 and 14.)

Mr. Greaves' 10th paragraph (page 15) shows that the expenditure already made on the new line, and the improvements thereby created, as alluded to in the 5th paragraph, have rendered it practicable for drays carrying loads of two and a half tons, and the 14th paragraph (page 17) shews that a comparatively small sum will complete the opening of, and keep in repair, the new line.

By the 11th paragraph Mr. Greaves recommends the establishment of a Ferry and Punt at Yates' Flat, on the crossing of the new line over the Clarence River, and expresses an opinion that a Ferry would pay.

Mr. Greaves states in the 12th paragraph that the distance from Grafton to Tabulam by the new line is less by 20 miles than that by the old line, but this is not of importance, as the population likely to travel between those places, after the opening to general use of the new line, is very small.

The instruction, or question, alluded to in the concluding paragraph of Mr. Greaves' Report, had reference to the possibility of making the Grafton, Tenterfield, and Grafton and Richmond River Roads identical for some considerable distance, with the view to obviate the necessity for expenditure on two lines extending from the same place, and nearly in the same direction. Should the new line however be permanently adopted as the New England road, this suggestion must of course fall to the ground.

Under this Report, there seems to be little doubt of the expediency of adopting the new line of road instead of the old one, between Grafton and the point near the Timbarra River, where the two lines meet.

The subject of necessary reserves on the new line of road is treated of in my Blank Cover Report of this date, No. 381.

*Surveyor General's Office,
Sydney, 26 May, 1859.*

B. C., 59-380. Approved.—JOHN ROBERTSON.

† GEO. BARNEY,
Surveyor General.

(58-3941-4065-4142.)

The new road is fifteen miles shorter than the old road; but the estimated savings of 30 to 40 miles are clearly erroneous, and it (the new road) has the disadvantage of not forming the line as the existing road does towards the new Town of Lawrence, at the Elbow or the line from Grafton to the Richmond.

From Grafton to the Crossing-place marked 11 on sketch of the Clarence River, and called Yates' Flat, the new line is identical with that recommended by Mr. Assistant Surveyor Darke, in his letter transmitted in mine of the 5th February last; and from the intimate knowledge which that officer acquired of the Clarence District while making general surveys therein, his opinion is highly deserving of consideration and weight. From No. 11 to the old line near No. 14 on the sketch, the information afforded by the various letters and statements is greater than the records of this Office afford. The line suggested by Mr. Darke from the Crossing-place at 11 to Tenterfield is, as will be seen from the letter and sketch, entirely different from and far to the south of the old road, but this line has not been examined by Mr. Darke (see his letter). It is much to the interest of Grafton that the new road should be adopted instead of the old, as Grafton would in this case continue to be the port of shipment for New England produce, while otherwise it is probable that that produce would be shipped in preference at Lawrence (the Elbow). Mr. Greaves has been instructed to make a survey of the proposed new line of road, and to report on the relative advantages of the two lines; but in the meantime it seems to be desirable that the money

money which has been proposed by the Road Schedule, which has been laid on the Table of the Legislative Assembly, to be expended on the road from Grafton to Tenterfield, should be expended on the new line ; while that which has been placed in the Schedule for the road from Lawrence (at the Elbow) to the Grafton and Tenterfield Road, with a portion of the sum for the road from Grafton to Casino, where the roads are identical, should be expended on the old line with the branch to Lawrence, and thus a nearly equal rate of expenditure be made on each line of road. The roads thus provided for by the Schedule would be :—

“The Road from Tenterfield to Grafton via the new line to Grafton.”—“The

BRIDGE OVER THE LACHLAN RIVER AT COWRA.
(INHABITANTS, YASS, BOOROWA, BINALONG, AND MARENGO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of Yass, Boorowa, Binalong, and Marengo, interested in the facilities afforded for travelling, and conveyance of produce and stores over the Lachlan River at Cowra,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners suffer much loss and inconvenience through the want of a Bridge over the Lachlan River at Cowra.

During average seasons all passage of vehicles across the river is stopped for several weeks, and in the rainy seasons all traffic is suspended for months.

The principal road from the north to the south is by Cowra. The transition of stock is now very large; and during floods the residents suffer much, in consequence of the detention of the stock on the north bank of the river, usually consuming the whole of the herbage on their runs, to their serious injury.

At present there is a boat on the river, at Cowra; but in consequence of the shifting of the sands, the sides of the river may be very deep and the centre very shallow, and from this cause a punt of sufficient capacity to take teams and vehicles over would be useless.

The traffic is such at Cowra that, during floods, from five to twenty pounds per week have been received by the boatmen for the conveyance of passengers and property over the river.

It frequently happens during floods that several lives are lost in attempting to cross the river.

Your Petitioners object to the idea or attempt of self-interested persons who would strive to make your Honorable House believe that Cowra is not the most suitable place to erect said Bridge—Cowra being on the direct line (with natural facilities) from Bathurst, Carcoar, Orange, and Molong, to Yass via Marengo, Boorowa, and Binalong; thereby connecting the Southern with the Northern and Western Districts for trading purposes—so much required since the opening of the Lambing Flat and Kiandra Gold Fields in the south.

Your Petitioners point out the fact that within the last few months many drays loaded with flour and other produce from the Bathurst country have travelled this same route to the Kiandra and other Southern Gold Fields, which fact clearly proves the best route over the Lachlan River at Cowra.

Your Petitioners, therefore, pray that your Honorable House will sanction the erection, at Cowra, of any Bridge over the Lachlan for which funds may be placed on the Estimates.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

BRIDGE OVER THE LACHLAN RIVER AT COWRA.

(CERTAIN GOLD MINERS AND RESIDENTS OF THE LAMBING FLAT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Gold Miners and Residents of the Lambing Flat,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioners suffer much loss and inconvenience through the want of a Bridge over the Lachlan River at Cowra.

During average seasons all passage of vehicles across the river is stopped for several weeks, and in the rainy seasons all traffic is suspended for months.

The principal road between the Western and Southern Gold Fields is through Cowra. Large, and, since the discovery of gold at Lambing Flat, increasing quantities of stores are conveyed over the river at that place. Frequently, and for several weeks, as many as fifty teams at one time are detained through the want of a Bridge. The difficulties and expense of getting stores over, cause the price of flour to be one hundred per centum higher at Lambing Flat than the cost at Carcoar.

At present there is a boat on the river, at Cowra, but in consequence of the shifting of the sands, the sides of the river may be very deep and the centre very shallow, and from this cause a punt of sufficient capacity to take teams and vehicles over would be useless.

The traffic is such at Cowra, that during the floods from five to twenty pounds per week have been received by the boatmen, for the conveyance of passengers and property over the river.

It frequently happens during floods that several lives are lost in attempting to cross the river.

Your Petitioners therefore pray that your Honorable House will sanction the erection at Cowra, of any Bridge over the Lachlan River for which funds may be placed on the Estimates.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Sydney, 26 September, 1860.*

SIR,

I do myself the honor to request that you will be so good as to lay before the Honorable the Secretary for Public Works, the accompanying Plan of the embouchure the River Clarence, from a survey by Mr. Baron, one of the officers of this Department.

On the Plan I have delineated the direction and extent of the works which, in my opinion, will be required, to render the navigation of the river safe, and increase permanently the depth of water on the bar. The entrance to the Clarence, like that of nearly every other river on this coast, is obstructed by a bar of shifting sand; the channel through which is constantly varying in direction and depth, according as the sea or river action predominates. A heavy gale of wind, or the prevalence of a land flood, has been known to change completely the position of the channel—filling up the old one, and forming a new one—in a few days or weeks. This action is, however, confined to what is termed the North Channel, the bottom of which is composed of sand; to the southward of which, and between it and the headland, the bottom is principally of rock.

The mouth of the river is, in some degree, protected on the south side by a high rocky headland, on which the Pilot and Look-out Stations are placed. It consists of sandstone, with patches of trap cropping out in places. The roots (if I may so term them) of the headland extend out for a considerable distance (about 3,000 feet) in a north-east, north, and north-west directions, forming detached patches or reefs of rock, with narrow tortuous channels intersecting them; too shallow, however, and too intricate for navigation. Generally there is a depth of about 7 to 11 feet of water on the reefs, but in many places they shoal to 3 or 4 feet.

The North Channel lies beyond those reefs, sweeping round inside and between them and the sandy beach which extends away to the north head of Shoal Bay. As has been before observed, the position of this channel is subject to a constant variation, shifting at times a considerable distance away to the north, and then as suddenly changing back to the southward.

It will be observed that at all times vessels entering or leaving the river, after rounding the reef, have to run for a considerable distance parallel and close to a dangerous beach, and broadside to the heavy breakers which roll across the reefs and bar.

The bar is at present about 2,000 feet distant from the shore, about 500 feet in breadth, and with about 12 feet water at low tide; from this inwards to what may be termed the Narrows, the channel rapidly deepens to 30, 40, and even 50 feet.

On the bar and reefs there is generally a heavy surf breaking; so heavily at times as to render it dangerous for even powerful steamers to enter or leave, and quite impracticable for sailing vessels.

Once inside, the river presents few obstacles to navigation by vessels of large class as high up as Grafton, which is over 40 miles from the mouth.

It will be remarked, from the foregoing observations, that the main objects to be sought in any plan for the improvement of this river are:—

First,—To endeavor to fix the channel through the bar, so as to obviate the danger and uncertainty of navigating it, as well as to ensure that the tidal action shall be retained permanently in one course.

Secondly,—To give the ebb currents a seaward set, so that, in case of accident to a vessel attempting to get in or out, the current would set her off the land, instead of, as at present, forcing her down on the beach.

Thirdly,—To intercept the run of the waves across the reef, so as to diminish as much as possible the extent of broken water through which a vessel has to pass in running between the bar and the shelter of the headland.

Fourthly,

Fourthly,—To lead the mouth of the river beyond the influence of the beach, so as to cut off the indraught of sand during flood tides to the harbor. Within the harbor the only measures required are those which have for their object the fixing of the channel and protection of the banks on the concave sides of the bends from being cut into any deeper than at present by the land floods and tides; for this purpose lining the sides of the channel with training walls or dykes of stone ballast, from A to B on the north side, and from G to F on the south side. Without some such protection as this, it might happen that a succession of heavy land floods would cut a new channel through the sand-spit on the north shore, and thus render nugatory all our works on the seaward side.

I shall now proceed to describe briefly the character and extent of the works which, in my opinion, will be required, to render the entrance to the Clarence at all times practicable and safe for vessels of every class.

In considering this subject, I have not had regard alone to the accommodation of the local trade, which in itself will be a most important one; but I have also looked to the probability of this river being used, to a very great extent, as a harbor of refuge for the Colonial coasting trade, as well as that with the Northern Colony; and when it is considered that there is no port between Newcastle or Port Stephens and Moreton Bay to which a vessel could run for shelter if in distress, it will, I think, be admitted that, as a harbor of refuge, the Clarence cannot be too highly estimated.

The works which I have sketched on the accompanying Plan consist of two projecting arms or piers—one extending from the Inner South Head in a north-easterly direction, across the reef, for a distance of about 2,000 feet, terminating near the end of the reef in nine feet water. The effect of this pier will be to shelter a considerable extent of what is now the most exposed and dangerous part of the entrance channel, as well as to divert a large body of the tidal waters, which now find a passage over the reef, into the only navigable channel which lies round its northern extremity. Stone for this work, of a sufficiently good quality, and in any quantity, would be furnished by the hill at the base of the pier, from which it could be run down without difficulty, and at a very moderate cost.

The north pier will be a work of greater magnitude than the last. It should be carried for a considerable distance almost parallel with the beach, and in a uniform and gentle curve; the head being extended about 1,500 feet to seaward in a north-easterly direction, and terminating at about the inner edge of the bar in 13 feet water. The effect of this pier would be to steady the current, and set the ebb tide, which is now dispersed along the beach to the northward, fair across the bar. I have little doubt but that the increased scour thus produced would soon tell most beneficially on the depth of water. Bars are proverbially most difficult matters to deal with, and their total removal rarely achieved; but by steady and judicious treatment, and careful watching, helping Nature when she seems to require it, great improvements may be effected.

The materials required in the formation of this pier must also be obtained from the same quarries as the other; but by a simple arrangement the stone trucks could be conveyed across, and hauled up inclined planes to the level of the rails, by which they would be conveyed to the tip head.

In framing the estimate of the probable cost of the proposed works, I have allowed for the additional cost of punting the stone across the river.

The works proposed for the inside of the river mouth are trifling in comparison with those on the outside, being merely training walls, or dykes, laid along the mean water margin, to protect the banks from being cut into and the channel diverted by the tides or freshets. Both piers I would propose to form, in the first instance, by merely tipping on large masses of rough rubble-stone, leaving it for the sea to arrange the mass to the proper slopes. The head of the shorter, or eastern pier, as it rests on a rock bottom, should be of heavy masonry; but it would be sufficient if the head of the other pier were pitched with heavy blocks of stone.

An estimate of the probable cost of this work, if carried out by free labor, is attached, calculated at the present rates; but if it be decided to carry it out by prison labor, as is now being being done at Home, on the Portland Breakwater, as was mentioned in conversation by the Honorable the Secretary for Public Works, I should imagine that the cost would be very much reduced.

The works which I have proposed in this Report will probably be deemed very costly; but though I have striven to keep them within as moderate bounds as possible, I have been unable to devise anything on a smaller and cheaper plan, which would hold out any prospect of being permanently useful.

The great size of the river, and extent of space to be dealt with, necessitates a corresponding magnitude in the character of the works.

I have, &c.,
E. O. MORIARTY.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

CLARENCE AND RICHMOND RIVERS STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY'S BILL.

THURSDAY, 25 OCTOBER, 1860.

Present:—

MR. COHEN,
MR. EGAN,

MR. KEMP,
MR. PARKES.

HENRY PARKES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Edwin Daintrey, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Promoters of the Bill, and was examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You attend as Solicitor to the Clarence and Richmond Rivers Steam Navigation Company's Bill? I do.
2. Have you a copy before you of the Bill which the Company seeks to carry into law? I have, and the Company's Deed also—I produce it. (The witness produced the same.)
3. The Deed is dated as alleged in the Bill, the 1st of January, 1860? The 1st of January, 1860.
4. The Company is in existence, and is trading by steam vessels between the places named in the preamble of this Bill? It is.
5. How long has it been trading in this manner? Since the 1st of January, in its present shape—there was a former Company.
6. Dy the Deed, the capital of the Company is to consist of £50,000, in 5,000 shares of £10 each? Yes; that is under the fifth clause of the Deed.
7. Will you read the fifth clause? "The capital of the said Company shall consist of the sum of £50,000, in 5,000 shares of £10 each, whereof the number of shares set opposite to the names of the parties executing these presents are the shares held by them respectively."
8. Has the whole capital been subscribed? It has.
9. Can you name some of the subscribers? Clark Irving, Francis Mitchell, Edward Ogilvie, Alfred Lardner, Thomas Ryan, Michael Metcalfe.
10. This Bill has been prepared at the instance of the Company, to give legal form and existence to the Company? It has, under the instructions of the Directors, in conformity with one of the clauses contained in the Deed, which gives them the power of going to the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation.
11. The Company are in full working, carrying on the trade which is contemplated by this Bill? Yes.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

LAND BILL.

(DISTRICTS OF KIAMA, JAMBEROO, AND GERINGONG.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of the Districts of Kiama, Jamberoo, and Geringong, do most respectfully beg to lay before your most Honorable House a Petition, that it may incline the wisdom of your Honorable House to grant the humble prayer of Her Most Gracious Majesty's loyal and devoted subjects of these Districts to pass a Land Bill, as follows:—

That the land may be sold by selection, and to be paid for in ten annual payments—ten per cent. on selection—at five per cent. interest—four acres to be cleared every two years. Every purchaser to be bound to occupy within six months after selection; if not, to forfeit the deposit, and all right and title to the said land. No selection to be less than forty acres, and no more than three hundred and twenty. No person to have more than one selection within the space of two years. Any person or persons acting as agent to obtain an additional grant for a purchaser who has obtained one, purchasing, lending money or goods so as to obtain the said grant, shall pay the penalty of twenty pounds. No person may sell or consign his grant of land in less period than two years.

And your Petitioners will for ever pray.

LAND BILL.

(DISTRICT OF SHELL HARBOR.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Inhabitants of the District of Shell Harbor,—

SHEWETH :—

That we, the undersigned Inhabitants of the District of Shell Harbor, do most respectfully beg to lay before your most Honorable House a Petition, that it may incline the wisdom of your Honorable House to grant the humble prayer of Her Most Gracious Majesty's loyal and devoted subjects of this District, to pass a Land Bill, as follows :—

The land to be sold by selection, and to be paid for in ten annual payments—ten per cent. on selection—at ten per cent. interest—four acres to be cleared every two years. Every purchaser to be bound to occupy within six months after selection ; if not, to forfeit the deposit, and all right and title to the said land. No selection to be less than forty acres, nor more than three hundred and twenty acres. No person to have more than one selection within the space of three years. Any person or persons acting as agent to obtain an additional grant for a purchaser who has obtained one, or purchasing, or lending money or goods so as to obtain the said grant, shall pay the penalty of not less than twenty pounds. No person can sell or consign his grant of land in less period of time than two years, and on no consideration without the consent of his wife.

And we, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Legislative Assembly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

LAND BILL.

(PETITION OF RIGHT—SO CALLED.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The Petition of Right of the People of Sydney and New South Wales,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That by the Act 18 and 19 Victoria, chapter 54, section 2, of the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland, it is amongst other things enacted as follows :— That from the day of the proclamation of this Act in the said Colony of New South Wales, the entire management and control of the Waste Lands belonging to the Crown in the said Colony, and also the appropriation of the gross proceeds of the sale of such lands, and all other proceeds and revenues of the same, from whatever cause arising, within the said Colony, including all royalties, mines, and minerals, shall be vested in the Legislature of the said Colony.

That by the 43rd section of the Act 17 Victoria, No. 41, being Schedule No. 1 to the before-mentioned Imperial Act, it is enacted that, subject to the provisions herein contained, it shall be lawful for the Legislature of this Colony to make laws for the regulating the sale, letting, disposal, and occupation of the Waste Lands of the Crown within the said Colony.

That in the clauses above quoted is comprehended what your Petitioners consider to be the Charter of their Rights, on which they principally rely for the future prosperity of this Colony.

Your Petitioners believe that the prosperity, comfort, and happiness of the people of this Colony require that an Act should be speedily passed, in pursuance of the concessions so liberally made by the Imperial Parliament.

That your Petitioners feel convinced that such Act should provide as follows :—

First,—That to every Municipality in this Colony a portion of the Waste Lands of the Colony should be granted, in proportion to the population of each Municipality, to be held in trust for the use and benefit of such Municipality, which should annually lay before the Legislature an account of the use made of the land, and of the proceeds thereof.

Second,—That every male adult in the Colony (excepting aliens) should have a right of free selection from all the remaining Waste Lands of this Colony, to the extent of from 80 to 160 acres, within a given radius of any town or city; and of 320 acres beyond such radius, upon condition that the land so selected be occupied and cultivated; and further, that the title to the same be granted without any price beyond the expense of survey, at the expiration of twelve months after selection, upon evidence of such occupation and cultivation, and that such selections be annulled in the event of the non-performance of the above conditions.

Third,—That leases of land held for pastoral purposes shall in future only be granted for short periods, and in the event of such land being required for agricultural purposes, or otherwise, it should, on reasonable notice to the lessee, be resumed.

That your Petitioners are of opinion, that if an Act be passed as above, a large amount of money, which is annually sent out of this Colony for the purchase of bread stuffs, and other articles, would be retained in it; the revenue would be increased, and a great influx of capital and labor into the Colony would be induced.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House will take this Petition into consideration, and pass an Act containing provisions to the above effect.

And your Petitioners will ever pray, &c.

CROWN LANDS ALIENATION BILL OF 1860.

(PUBLIC MEETING HELD IN WYNARD SQUARE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That he was the Chairman of a Public Meeting, held in Wynyard-square, October the 16th, 1860; and that at the said Meeting it was resolved to petition your Honorable House to insert the following principles in the Crown Lands Alienation Bill now before your Honorable House :—

- 1st. That any British subject shall have the right of selecting from 40 to 320 acres of the waste lands of the Colony, upon payment of five shillings per acre; and if at any period within ten years, one-fifth of it be brought into bona fide cultivation, he shall have the title deeds without any further payment whatsoever: But if one-fifth of such selected land be not brought into bona fide cultivation within ten years, the selector shall be bound to pay fifteen shillings per acre more, or the land revert to the Crown.
- 2nd. That Country Crown Lands which may be put up to public auction shall be put up at the uniform price of £1 per acre, and in lots not exceeding 320 acres, reducible at the option of any bidder to lots containing not less than 40 acres.
- 3rd. That Reserves of Suburban Lands be made to be vested in the Municipal bodies of those towns to which they are contiguous.

That the above provisions be passed into law.

Your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Signed on behalf of the Meeting,

JOHN BUCKLE.

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

(REPORT FOR 1859.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 27 September, 1860.

REGISTRAR, UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY, to THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

University of Sydney,
15 August, 1860.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to transmit herewith the Annual Report of the Proceedings of the Senate of the University of Sydney, during the year ended 31st December, 1859, together with an account of the Receipts and Expenditure during the same period, in accordance with the provisions contained in the 13th, 15th, and 21st Clauses of the Act of Incorporation, 14 Victoria, No. 31.

I have, &c.,
HUGH KENNEDY,
Registrar.

REPORT of the University of Sydney, for the year ended 31st December, 1859.

1. In accordance with the provisions of the 22nd clause of the Act of Incorporation, 14 Vic., No. 31, the Senate of the University have the honor to submit, for the information of the Governor and Executive Council, the following Report of their Proceedings during the year 1859.

2. Five Students were admitted to Matriculation, after having passed the preliminary examination.

3. Six Students have attended the University course for the period of three years; and having passed the examination required by the By-laws, were admitted to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

4. The Degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon ten Members of the University who had two years previously taken the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, and otherwise had fulfilled the requirements of the By-laws.

5. In the competition for Scholarships, the successful Candidates were:—

BARKER SCHOLARSHIP:—(Mathematical Science.)

William Philip Cowlshaw.

DEAS THOMSON SCHOLARSHIP:—(Physical Science.)

Frederick Harrison Quaife.

GENERAL UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS:—(First Year.)

Edward Bowman,

William Perry.

6. The University Medal, for the best composition in English verse, was awarded to William Yarrington.

7. A code of Rules and Regulations for the management of the University Library, based on those in use at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, has been framed. Under these Rules, books are allowed to be borrowed, under certain conditions, by Students or others who may have been admitted to the privileges of the University. A complete catalogue of the books, consisting of a valuable collection of standard works in every department of Literature and Science, and amounting to more than 8,000 volumes, has been drawn up and printed. Appended is a copy of the Library Rules.

The Senate deem it fitting on the present occasion to record their grateful sense of the interest in this University which has been exhibited by learned Bodies and Individuals, both in England and in this Colony. The Royal Society of England have included this Institution in the list of Public Bodies to whom copies of their Proceedings are presented. The Trustees of the British Museum have presented a most valuable series of volumes, 150 in number, illustrative of the antiquities and objects of Natural History contained in the great National Collections of which they are the guardians. From private individuals the Senate received many valuable donations of Books and Casts. Among the latter may be particularized several casts from the Elgin Marbles, presented by Mr. William Long, of Trinity College, Cambridge. It is hoped that the number of such casts as these, which furnish useful materials for the illustration of Lectures on Ancient History, may at no distant day be enlarged. A list of the donations received, in the past year is appended.

8. By the further Parliamentary Grant of £10,000, in addition to the original Building Grant of £50,000, the Senate were enabled to enter into contracts for the completion of the unfinished portion of the Eastern Front, with the exception of the internal fittings, and the Battlements of the Tower. The Hall was also sufficiently completed to admit of its being used for the celebration of the Annual Commemoration at the commencement of the Trinity Term; on which occasion the conferring of Degrees and Honors, and the recitation of the Prize Compositions took place. In allusions, in former Reports, to the expected arrival of the stained glass windows which now embellish the Hall, the deep sense entertained by the Senate of the munificent liberality of those Colonists by whom the windows were given, has been already expressed; the Senate, however, consider that in this Report, which records the completion and opening of the Hall,—to the beauty of which, the windows so largely contribute—the names of those to whom the University is indebted for them ought not to be omitted. The following table is accordingly inserted,—shewing the subjects and the donors of the several windows:—

9. An Exhibition was founded in the past year, by the liberality of Mr. Severin Kanute Salting, who placed a sum of £500, represented by Government Debentures, at the disposal of the Provost (Sir Charles Nicholson) and Professor Woolley, "to be dedicated and applied in such a way as would best promote the cause of sound Education, and be conducive to the interest of the University, in testimony of the great and manifold advantages derived by his sons during their attendance as Students of the University, and to mark his sense of his obligation to the University, by endeavouring to aid in promoting and extending the salutary influences of the Institution." On the recommendation of Sir Charles Nicholson and Professor Woolley, the Senate applied the sum given by Mr. Salting to the foundation of an Exhibition, to be held by a pupil proceeding from the Sydney Grammar School to the University.

10. With a view to encourage the study of Medicine in the Colony, and to avail themselves of the privilege conferred upon the University by the Act of Incorporation, of granting the Degrees of Bachelor of Medicine, and Doctor of Medicine, the Senate deemed it advisable to take into their consideration the means of establishing a School of Medicine in the University. A communication was entered into with the Directors of the Infirmary, with reference to arrangements for Clinical Lectures in that Institution, and it is hoped that a practical scheme for a complete course of Medical Education may be matured.

11. It is well known that the benefactions made to Public Institutions, and more especially to the endowed Grammar Schools of England, and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, owe their present importance to the fact that they consisted originally of Real Estate, the value of which has progressively increased. Being desirous of applying to this Colony the results of an experience found to be so beneficial in the Mother Country, the Senate determined that the several endowments, made by private individuals to the University, should be converted into Real Estate, in such a manner that each benefaction should be represented by a distinct property, the results and profits of which should be applied to the special objects of the foundation. In accordance with this resolution, the sum of £1,000, representing the Deas Thomson Scholarship, has, with the consent of the Donor, been applied to the purchase of a property in the neighbourhood of the University.

12. Fellowships vacated by Mr. Justice Thierry and the Rev. W. B. Boyce, have been respectively filled up by the election of Peter Faucett, Esq., B.A., Barrister-at-Law, and the Honorable George Allen.

13. An account of the Receipts and Expenditure of the University, during the past year, is appended.

The foregoing Report was adopted at a meeting of the Senate, held on the 20th June, 1860, and ordered to be transmitted to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, for presentation to the Governor and Executive Council and the Parliament, in pursuance of the 22nd Section of the Act of Incorporation, 14 Vict., No. 31.

APPENDIX I.

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

For Books allowed to be taken out of the Library.

No person shall be allowed to take books out of the Library but Fellows of the Senate, Professors, and other Public Teachers in the University, Officers of the University, or other persons who shall have obtained this privilege under a special resolution of the Senate, and Graduates holding any Degree above that of B.A., and having their names on the books of the University, and being resident in Sydney or its suburbs.

No one shall take or borrow any book out of the Library without first delivering a note for the same to the Librarian or his Deputy, expressing his name and residence in his own handwriting, the title of the book, the year and day of the month on which such book is taken or borrowed, on pain of forfeiting £5, or double the value of such book, at the discretion of the Library Committee.

The Librarian shall preserve all such notes, till the books so taken out are returned to the Library; and when all the books specified in each note are returned, the notes shall be delivered up to the persons by whom the books are brought back. When only some books specified in each note are returned, the titles of the books so returned shall be erased from the note at the time.

No

No person shall be allowed to have in his possession at one time more than ten volumes belonging to the Library, but the Library Committee may dispense with this order in any particular case, if they shall be of opinion that sufficient reasons have been assigned for such dispensation; such dispensation, however, shall continue in force no longer than to the end of the current quarter; but upon fresh application may be renewed by the same authority.

Every one who shall borrow or take any book out of the Library shall return it thither again on the demand of the Librarian, at any time after the expiration of seven days, and without such demand, on or before the next of the four following quarter days, viz.:—March 31st, June 30th, September 30th, December 31st, under penalty of two shillings for every folio or quarto, and one shilling for every book of less size. All penalties to be repeated every fortnight till the books be returned, or others of the same editions and equal value be placed in their room,—such fortnight being first reckoned from the day on which the Library is re-opened after the quarter day. If any of the quarter days should fall on a Sunday, or on any other day on which the Library is closed by Rule 20, the day appointed for returning the books shall be the following day.

No books shall be taken out of the Library on the days appointed for the return of books. Every Professor shall have the privilege of obtaining books for each student attending his lectures, and being a Member of the University. Each order for the volumes so obtained shall bear the titles of the books, and be dated and subscribed as follows:—

For M. N.,
C. D., Professor.

The books so obtained shall not be taken out of the Library till the day after that on which the Library is re-opened for the quarter; and they shall be returned at any time after the expiration of seven days, if demanded by the Librarian, and if not so demanded, not later than the day before the next quarter day. The Professor shall be responsible for the books so obtained, and for the penalties prescribed by Rule 5; and no student shall have in his possession at one time more than five volumes.

A list of the books omitted to be returned at the end of any quarter, together with the names of the borrowers, shall be suspended in some conspicuous place in the Library.

No person from whom any fine is due to the Library shall be allowed to take out books until such fine has been paid.

If any book be injured or defaced by writing while in the possession of any person taking it out of the Library, he shall be required to replace it by another book of the same edition, and of equal value. Persons taking books out of the Library are required to report, without delay, to the Librarian any injury which they may observe in them.

For Books not to be taken out of the Library without a note countersigned by the Provost or Vice-Provost.

Certain printed books, of which a list shall be prepared under the authority of the Library Committee, and be kept by the Librarian, shall not be taken out, except by a note countersigned by the Provost or Vice-Provost, nor until the day after that on which the note is presented; and no such note shall be given to any Undergraduate Member of the University, nor shall any person have more than five volumes of such books out of the Library at one time. A Register shall be kept of all such books taken out of the Library, and of the date on which they are returned, and after the books are returned the plates in them shall forthwith be collated, and the collation be registered; and until such collation shall have been made, the books shall not be accessible to persons using the Library, nor shall the countersigned note be given up to the persons by whom the books are returned, but in lieu of it an acknowledgment signed by the Librarian or his Deputy; and the name of the person by whom the acknowledgment is signed shall also be registered.

The penalties for not returning such books at the quarter days shall be double of the penalties prescribed in Rule 5.

For MSS, and Books not allowed to be taken out of the Library.

The Library Committee may cause MSS. books, containing collections of prints or drawings, and other documents and books of a nature or value to render such precaution expedient, to be locked up in cases or compartments by themselves. These shall not be taken out of the Library on any pretence whatever; and access to them shall not be allowed, unless the Librarian or some one deputed by him be present. The Librarian himself shall have charge of the keys.

The Library Committee may direct that certain printed books, of which a list shall be kept by the Librarian, shall not be removed from the Library. Such books shall be always kept there.

Persons desirous of referring to any particular MSS. or scarce printed book, shall apply to the Librarian, who, if he sees cause, may allow such MSS. or books to be consulted, but not in the compartment in which the MSS. or scarce printed books are kept.

Parts of Periodicals, work in progress, Pamphlets, &c., until such time as is proper for binding them, shall be kept under such a system of management that they may be produced if required, after a few minutes' notice, on application being made to the Librarian by means of an ordinary Library note; so that persons, in whose literary researches such works are necessary, may consult them in the Library with the consent of the Librarian.

For admission to the Library.

Except on the day when the Library is re-opened for any quarter, those Undergraduates who have obtained a Professor's orders for books shall be admitted to the Library for the purpose of selecting their books, or otherwise consulting the Library, during the hour from one to two.

Admission of Persons not Members of the University, for the purpose of study and research.

The Provost or Vice-Provost may grant an order of admission to the Library, for the purpose of study and research, to any person who shall produce to him a recommendation from any Fellow of the Senate or Professor, or any Member of the University who shall have been admitted to the Degree of M.A., or any higher Degree, stating "that the person recommended is well known to him," and "that he is a fit and proper person to obtain such order." The name of the Member of the Senate or the Professor upon whose recommendation any such order of admission shall be granted, shall be placed after the name of the person receiving the permission, in a list to be suspended at the entrance to the Library.

Such persons shall be permitted to use the Library whilst open, (except on any day on which the Library is first opened for the quarter, or on any day on which the Library is closed for the quarter). This admission order shall not entitle the holder to have access to lock-up cases, which admission order shall have effect only until the expiration of the quarter in which it shall have been granted.

For Opening and Closing the Library.

For the purpose of allowing the Librarian sufficient time to inspect the books, the Library shall be closed for the first fortnight in the month of January, and also for the two days (excepting Sunday) next after each of the three other quarter days.

The Library shall be closed on Sundays and Public Holidays.
The Library shall be open on Saturdays from ten till one, and other days from ten till three.

SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

No. 1.

SECRETARY TO THE SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

261, Elizabeth-street,
21 July, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor herewith to transmit to you, for the purpose of being laid before the Legislative Assembly, the Report and Balance Sheet of the Trustees of the Sydney Grammar School for the year ending 31st December, 1859.

I have, &c.,
W. H. CATLETT,
Secretary.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 1.]

Sydney Grammar School,
July 21, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor, by direction of the Trustees of the Sydney Grammar School, to transmit to you a Report of their Proceedings, and the Progress of the School, during the year 1859, to be laid before His Excellency the Governor General and the Honorable the Executive Council, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Incorporation.

The Trustees, since the date of the last Report, have invested the sum of one thousand pounds in the Commercial Bank, at 5 per cent., which has enabled them to establish a Foundation in the School, consisting of the following orders:—

- A—5 Senior Scholarships, value £21 per annum;
- B—5 Junior Scholarships, value £20 per annum;
- C—5 Demyships, value £19 per annum;

under the following rules and conditions:—

1. Each Scholarship and Demyship is tenable (under good conduct, which shall be certified each quarter by the Head Master) for two years from the date of appointment.

The appointments are made solely according to merit, as determined by a competitive examination. But the Examiners may withhold any Scholarships or Demyships for which they consider the candidates unfit.

2. The Examiners are:—The Professor of Classics, Sydney University; the Professor of Mathematics, Sydney University; the Head Master of the Sydney Grammar School; and two Assessors appointed by the Trustees of the Sydney Grammar School.

3. Each candidate shall produce a certificate of good conduct from the school in which he has last received education. Or, in case he should not have received education in any school or other public institution during the year immediately preceding the examination, he shall present such certificates as shall be satisfactory to the Board of Examiners.

These certificates are merely admissory to the examination, and have no influence in the appointments.

The examination is conducted both by writing and visà voce; and the merit of the candidates examined is determined by marks, according to the ordinary method.

Candidates for the Senior Scholarships must, in addition to the testimonial of conduct, present satisfactory certificates that, on the first day of January preceding, they had not exceeded the age of sixteen (16) years.

And their examination will be conducted in the following subjects:—

- 1. Translation from Latin.
- 2. Translation from Greek.
- 3. Arithmetic and Algebra.
- 4. Geometry and Trigonometry.
- 5. Writing in English from Dictation, and English Composition.
- 6. Latin Composition.

The candidates for the Junior Scholarships must, in addition to the testimonial of conduct, present satisfactory certificates that, on the first day of the January preceding, they had not exceeded the age of fourteen (14) years.

And their examination will be conducted in the following subjects:—

- 1. Latin Translation.
- 2. Latin Composition.
- 3. English Reading and Recitation.
- 4. Arithmetic and Algebra.
- 5. Euclid.
- 6. Writing in English from Dictation.

The

The candidates for the Demyships must, in addition to the testimonial of conduct, present satisfactory certificates that, on the first day of January preceding, they had not exceeded the age of twelve (12) years.

And their examination will be conducted in the following subjects:—

1. English Reading and Recitation.
2. Analysis of an English sentence and Parsing.
3. Writing.
4. Writing in English from Dictation.
5. Arithmetic.

£18 of each Scholarship or Demyship will be paid in tuition fees, as for other pupils; the remainder will be given in scientific or classical books, stamped with the school arms.

Any successful candidate who may be willing to sacrifice the emoluments of the Scholarship or Demyship will receive the books due to him as Scholar or Demy, and retain the style and rank of Honorary Scholar or Honorary Demy, as the case may be; and the remaining £18 will be appropriated to the maintenance in the school of such pupil as the Trustees may think fit.

And no mark or designation will be adopted, whereby the holder of such exhibition might be distinguished from other pupils.

In accordance with the above regulations, the Examiners and Assessors, W. T. Cape, Esq., and J. S. Paterson, Esq., on the 2nd of August last, recommended that the Scholarships and Demyships be awarded to the undermentioned pupils, viz.:—

Senior Scholarships.		Junior Scholarships.
1. Wright.	4. Fullerton (1).	1. Knox (1).	4. Bradley (1).
2. Allen.	5. King (1).	2. Boyd.	5. Macpherson.
3. Dixon.		3. Milne.

Demyships.
1. Knox (2).	4. Lowe.
2. Woolley.	5. North.
3. Macfie.

And this recommendation of the Examiners was duly confirmed by the Trustees.

George Allen, Esq., and Edward Knox, Esq., having intimated to the Trustees that their sons would not avail themselves of the emoluments arising from the Scholarships, the Trustees had the pleasure of conferring the vacant exhibitions upon Garvan, Fitzpatrick, and Mills.

Sir Daniel Cooper also gave a Scholarship of £18 to Charles Mein, the Captain of the School.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary.

I have, &c.,
W. H. CATLETT,
Secretary.

No. 2.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to THE TRUSTEES OF THE SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 6 August, 1860.*

GENTLEMEN,

In acknowledging the receipt of Mr. Catlett's letter of the 21st ultimo, submitting the Report and Statement of Accounts of the Sydney Grammar School for 1859, I am directed to inform you that both the documents in question appear to the Colonial Secretary to be defective, as not fulfilling the requirements of the Act for Incorporating and Endowing the Grammar School.

2. I am further desired to refer you to the 10th and 16th Clauses of that Act, and to state that Mr. Cowper considers that the Government and Legislature are entitled to more detailed information respecting the Institution. As regards the Report, it does not even state the number of children in the school at any time during the year, or say whether the Institution has prospered or otherwise.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

No. 3.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to THE TRUSTEES OF THE SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 14 September, 1860.*

GENTLEMEN,

I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request the favor of an early reply to my letter of the 6th ultimo, on the subject of your Annual Report for 1859.

I have, &c.,
W. ELYARD.

No. 4.

SECRETARY TO THE SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*261, Elizabeth-street,
22 September, 1860.*

SIR,

In reply to your letters of the 6th August and of the 14th September, in the former of which you state that you require more detailed information respecting the Sydney Grammar School, I beg to inform you that I convened meetings of the Trustees on the 7th August, 4th, 7th, 12th, and 20th September, and I regret to say that each meeting has lapsed from want of a quorum.

The next monthly meeting will be held on Tuesday the 2nd October, when your letters will be laid before the Trustees.

A copy of the enclosed Return was forwarded to the Registrar General some months ago, the Trustees having been requested by that Officer to forward the same to him, and the Trustees were under the impression that in sending the document to the Registrar General they were complying virtually with the Act of Council.

I have, &c.,
W. H. CATLETT,
Secretary.

SECRETARY TO THE BENEVOLENT ASYLUM to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

Office of Benevolent Asylum,
Sydney, 13 October, 1860.

SIR,

Referring to your communications of 1st May and 14th September last, I have now the honor to transmit the Return relating to the Benevolent Society of New South Wales, made out in terms of an Order by the Legislative Assembly, for certain information respecting the Charitable and Educational Institutions within the City of Sydney and County of Cumberland.

I have to apologize for the delay which has occurred in sending this Return, but in consequence of the sudden death of the late Assistant Secretary, considerable difficulty has been experienced in finding the original accounts, and other documents bearing upon the matters embraced in the Order from the Legislative Assembly.

I have, &c.,
GEORGE ALLEN,
Honorary Secretary.

No. 1.

HONORARY SECRETARY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*Office of Benevolent Asylum,
Sydney, 16 August, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit an Estimate of the probable expense of the Benevolent Asylum of New South Wales for the current year, exhibiting a deficiency in the funds of £2,424 15s. 1d., of which the following statement will afford an explanation, viz. :—

1. Amount required for rent to out-door paupers for the year 1860, which is under estimated according to the present number of recipients	£309 0 0
Whereas the sum expended for last year was	221 0 0
Increase	88 0 0
2. The increase of bread, flour, beef, rice, oatmeal, arrow-root, tea, and sugar, consequent upon the additional number now in receipt of those articles weekly, cannot be stated at less than.....	242 9 0.
Increase of out-door relief.....	£330 9 0
3. Increase of clothing, bedding, boots for children, medicine, hospital comforts, furniture, interments, &c., say	705 0 0
4. Outfit and maintenance of 47 children transferred to Destitute Children's Asylum for the year, which this Institution is now called upon to pay, say ...	648 0 0
5. Balance due by Asylum per account, for the year ended 31st December, 1859	741 6 1
Increase of in-door relief, 1860	2,094 6 1
Total deficiency on the year 1860, according to Estimate now sent, marked "A".....	£2,424 15 1

I have also the honor to enclose a Statement, marked "B," shewing the particulars of the probable increase of out-door relief by the Asylum to the end of the year 1860.

The average number receiving out-door relief in 1858 was 191; in 1859, 357; while at the present time the number on the books is 410. The applications for out-door relief continue steadily to increase at the rate of, at least, 12 families weekly—each family numbering from 4 to 8 or 9 individuals; and the probability is that there will be a further increase still, in consequence of husbands leaving their wives and families for the Kiandra and other Gold Fields.

From the above statement it is presumed that the fines, subscriptions, and other sources of income, will be equal to former years.

The prevalence of the recent epidemic, measles, and other diseases, rendered it absolutely necessary that additional warm clothing, strengthening nourishment, and medical comforts should be afforded those suffering from the above complaints. The applicants who have been admitted into the House for a considerable time past, have, in almost every instance, been affected previous to their reception into the Institution.

Under the above circumstances, it is respectfully and earnestly requested by the Committee of the Benevolent Asylum, that His Excellency the Governor General may be pleased to give the necessary directions that the sum of £2,425 may be placed on the Estimates, to enable the Society to meet the deficiency of the current year.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE ALLEN,
Honorary Secretary.

THE UNDER SECRETARY to HONORARY SECRETARY, BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, 22 August, 1860.*

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, submitting an Estimate of the probable Expenditure on account of the Benevolent Asylum, Sydney, during 1860, and requesting that the sum of £2,425 may be placed on the Estimates, to enable the Benevolent Society to meet the deficiency in their funds for the current year,—

I am directed to inform you that, in order that proper explanation may be given, should any queries be put to the Minister in the Legislative Assembly, relative to the state of the Benevolent Asylum, the Colonial Secretary will be obliged if you will afford him information respecting what is alleged in regard to that Institution in the Empire Newspaper, and in the account published in that journal, purporting to be a report made by a specially appointed reporter, and giving facts in detail.

I have, &c.,

W. ELYARD.

R. ANDERSON, ESQ., to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Benevolent Asylum,
Sydney, 8 September, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication dated 22nd ultimo, and to inform you that it was laid before the Acting Committee of this Society, who have appointed a Sub-Committee of their number, to prepare the necessary explanations to enable the Minister to answer any queries which may be put in the Legislative Assembly, relative to the statements made in the Empire Newspaper, respecting the state of the Benevolent Asylum. The information required will be forwarded as speedily as possible, and before the Estimates are brought forward.

I also beg to mention that the Honorary Secretary has been out of town since the date of your letter, and only returned yesterday afternoon, otherwise a reply would have been earlier sent. In the meantime—

I have, &c.,

R. ANDERSON,
p. Honorary Secretary.

HONORARY SECRETARY, BENEVOLENT SOCIETY, to THE UNDER SECRETARY.

*Office of Benevolent Asylum,
Sydney, 9 October, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor, in answer to your letter dated 22nd August last, to inform you that I have been directed by the General Committee of this Society to transmit the documents undernoted, to enable the Minister, in bringing forward the Estimates in the Legislative Assembly, to afford the necessary explanations, should any queries be put relative to the state of the Institution :—

1. Report by the Acting Committee.
2. Report by the Honorable William Bland.
3. Return of Deaths in House, from 1st January to 31st May, 1860.
4. Return of do. do. from 1st June to 31st July, 1860.
5. Copies of Entries made in Visiting Book by His Excellency the Governor General, and Charles Kemp, Esquire, on behalf of Mrs. (Archdeacon) Cowper, Mrs. Napier, and Mrs. Ingelow.
6. Copy Motion of Meeting of General Committee, 5th October, 1860.

I have also been directed respectfully to invite the especial attention of the Minister to the last paragraph of the Report, suggesting that an investigation of the whole circumstances may be made, when every assistance will be rendered, and information given, to ascertain the real state of every matter connected with the management of the Institution.

I have, &c.,
GEO. ALLEN,
Honorary Secretary.

 Return of Deaths in Asylum, from 1 January to 31 May, 1860 ;
 Ditto ditto from 1 June to 31 July, 1860 ;
 Copy Entry made in Visiting Book by His Excellency the Governor General,
 22 July, 1858 ;
 Ditto ditto by Charles Kemp, Esq., in behalf of Mrs. (Archdeacon)
 Cowper, Mrs. Napier, and Mrs. Ingelow, 21 September, 1859.

The Sub-Committee appointed on the 11th September, 1860, by the Acting Committee, "to consider and prepare a reply to the letter received from the Colonial Secretary, dated 22 August last, requesting information in reference to several allegations made in "the Empire Newspaper regarding the state of the Institution,"—beg leave to submit the following Report:—

I.—CLASSIFICATION, VENTILATION, DRAINAGE, UNFITNESS OF SITE,

Arise from causes over which the Committee have no control. They have been long aware of the defects, and have been often occupied in obtaining as favorable a result as the resources at their disposal would admit; and, they believe, have done the best under the circumstances in which they were placed. They have, from a conviction of many things requiring amendment, made frequent applications to Government for the removal of the present building, and the erection of a new one supplying the above required desiderata; but have been hitherto unsuccessful. They would say, however, that while the building was not by any means what could be wished, and was acknowledged by them to be deficient in the particulars pointed out, they did not imagine—nor do they now admit—that the state of the building was such as to ensure the sacrifice of the inmates, and make it incumbent on them to throw up a responsibility involving consequences so fearful as the results pointed out; and they are confirmed in this conviction by the fact, that the Honorary Medical Officers, who might be supposed to see such murderous results sooner than others, did not present these defects to them in so strong a light as would make them feel responsible for the sacrifice of human life.

II.—KITCHEN, LAUNDRY, &c.

The dampness and unsatisfactory character of the kitchen, and the dilapidated state of the laundry, are, like the previous defects, beyond the control of the Committee; and it has demanded great effort from the officials to carry on the work of the Institution with resources so limited. To have provided better furnishings, and incurred expense in the fittings desiderated by the newspaper report, would have been obviously inexpedient, from the irremediably bad state of the kitchen and laundry. The cause, however, which prevented the building of proper offices has been the prospect entertained, year after year, of removal to a building expressly designed for the purposes of the Institution.

In reference to the complaint made of the defective cooking-apparatus in the Female Sick Ward, in which, it is alleged, that the cooking for 79 patients is performed on a ruined grate, which affords cooking for only 12, the Committee beg to state that the general cooking for that ward is done in the kitchen, and the grate alluded to is used only for occasional cooking.

As regards the complaint that there is no roasting apparatus, and no rotation of diet, but the continual return of boiled beef, the Committee would state that, while aware that a rotation of diet is not only more palatable, but is the beau ideal for the highest development of health, and for the prolongation of existence, they were not conscious, nor are they ready to admit, that in dicting the inmates on daily allowance of meat and soup, ample and excellent in quality, they are liable to the grave charge of systematically shortening existence. They are aware that, in Scotland and England, and in France, and generally over the Continent, soup of a much more meagre character is the unchanging diet of the industrious peasantry. That the praise of the military cuisine arises from the soldier, by stewing and boiling, obtaining a more succulent and nutritious diet. They also understood that the prisons are reproached as placing felons on a superior dietary scale to the virtuous mechanical population; that workhouses, also, and institutions with a similar object to the Benevolent Society, adhere to the diet of boiled meat. The Committee cannot, therefore, acknowledge that they are liable to the imputation of sacrificing wilfully, or even heedlessly, the poor entrusted to their charge, by confining them to a diet which outrages common sense, and is in defiance of the practice of similar institutions; and they feel that, had such dietary scale involved essentially such tragical results, the medical officers (the most eminent in their profession) would ere now have emphatically warned them.

III.—DEFICIENT ATTENDANCE.

There are two fully competent Nurses, who superintend the sick women and children, and two Wardswomen, all in full pay, and a paid Nurse over the male children. The Committee, to lessen the expenses of the Institution, employ under these several of the most able-bodied inmates, who are not infirm, nor otherwise disqualified, more than most professional nurses. The Committee have found that the trust confided to these assistant nurses, and the prospect of extra comforts, or some gratuity, has operated favorably, creating in them self-respect, and making them generally discharge their duties to the satisfaction of the Committee.

There are also two female Teachers employed; one for the Catholic, and the other for the Protestant children.

IV.—KNIVES AND FORKS.

Complaint has been made that the inmates are not furnished with knives and forks, and thus made to retrograde into barbarism, and lowered in self-respect. The system of allowing knives and forks was once followed with results so unsatisfactory as to compel its disuse.

V.—MORTALITY.

Much reproach has been cast upon the management of the Institution, on account of the great rate of mortality during the months of June and July last. The number deceased, viz, eighty-three, appears, certainly, at first sight, startling; but a little reflection will modify modify the first impression. The season has been unusually unhealthy, and the mortality vastly in excess of the ordinary average; so that experienced medical men have declared that the deaths at the Institution, all things considered, are quite in accordance with their experience in their private practice. With this taken into consideration the characteristics of the inmates,—adults sinking under the infirmities of old age, ruined in constitution by vicious excesses, suffering from the results of accident, exposure, &c., sent in incurable from the Infirmary and other places, admitted in many cases moribund. The experience of the late unhealthy season, in the case of aged and infirm persons who have led virtuous lives, and who could command every comfort and convenience, will make it easy to conceive what the effect of any epidemic or unhealthy state of atmosphere would have on subjects so predisposed as these. A reference to the average age of the deceased adults, except where deaths resulted from hopeless ailments, will bear favorable comparison with any district in the Colony for prolongation of life. This average is 68 years and 6 months.

In reference to the children, the mortality among whom has been seriously animadverted upon, it must be remembered that most are admitted in a diseased state, suffering from the vices of their unnatural parents, strumous and syphilitic, or wasted from long neglect and acquaintance with misery; indeed, in many instances, brought to the Institution to die. It may be easily conceived what havoc measles, which has high desolated families with all the advantages of health and tender nurture, and every appliance that wealth could furnish, would make upon these unfortunate ones so predisposed. In forming an opinion on the mortality among both the adults and the youthful inmates, the acknowledged defects of the building—the bad situation and overcrowded state of the house—must be taken into account, as enabling the patients less successfully to contend against diseases which have ravaged the houses of competence. When such epidemics assail a place, where enfeebled old age and misery and vice, debilitated maternity and infamy, with an heritage of disease and wretchedness, are crowded together, the comparison should be with the plague-smitten ship or city, and not with the wide-spread district.

VI.—CLERICAL DUTIES.

In reference to the statement that the secretarial work makes no further demand than a few hours monthly, it is respectfully submitted that such a statement could only arise from a total ignorance of the requirements of this office. The present Clerk and Accountant has found the duties of the situation to exact close application between the hours of nine and four daily, besides many additional hours at home. The due discharge of the functions have required moreover, not merely application and routine clerical work, but qualifications of a higher character.

VII.—SECTARIANISM.

As to a charge made of the introduction of sectarian feelings in appointments, and in the deliberations of the Committee, it can be honestly affirmed that such influence is guarded against, and that strict impartiality is the aim of the Committee.

VIII.—HONORARY OFFICIALS' PATRONAGE.

The impression endeavoured to be communicated, that the honorary officials—the President, Secretary, and Treasurer—derive from their position an amount of influence and patronage, will appear unfounded when it is known that not in the smallest appointment have any of these officials a preponderating influence—every matter being decided by the votes of the entire Committee, numbering forty members, elected by the subscribers at the Annual Meeting.

IX.—GENERAL EXAMINATION OF INMATES ON ADMISSION, BEDDING, CLEANING FLOORS, WALLS, &c.

In reference to the insinuations that the inmates, especially the male class, are allowed to retain their clothes or dirty rags without being thoroughly purified; the fact is, all females on their admission are inspected by the resident Medical Officer, well washed in a large bath, and immediately thereafter clad in the house clothing. The men, except in such cases where they are too ill, are sent to the Liverpool establishment by the first train, where the same precautions are observed. The clothing of both men and women, when necessary, are at once burnt.

The bedding, which is ample, is frequently changed, and regularly exposed to the atmosphere. When deaths occur the bed is forthwith emptied, and the clothes taken to the wash-house, and thoroughly cleaned and purified.

The floors of the house are generally well scrubbed once a day, and in no case seldomer than twice a-week.

The urinals, pails, &c., are regularly scrubbed once a day, and purified with chloride of lime.

There is not a room in the Institution containing forty diseased persons; the fresh air is not excluded—all the wards being well and regularly ventilated.

It is admitted that, to some extent, the walls are infested by vermin; but it must be borne in mind so are those of most old buildings in the Colony. Every exertion is made to prevent their increase; the walls and ceilings being frequently washed with lime and chloride of lime, which are the most effective and vermin-destroying fluids.

The Committee, in conclusion, respectfully suggest that an investigation of the whole circumstances be made, when every assistance and information will be afforded to ascertain the real state of every matter connected with the management of the Institution.

WILLIAM BLAND,
Chairman.

[Enclosure 2 in No. 5.]

Pitt-street, Sydney, 22 September, 1860.

Sir,

I beg to state, in conformity with the request of the Sub-Committee of the Benevolent Asylum appointed to take into consideration the late Commission of the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, that, so far as it comes within my province to explain, as one of the Honorary Medical Attendants of that Institution, the fact alleged as a charge against the Managers, viz., the late excessive mortality among all classes of its inmates, but principally the aged, infirm, and infantile classes, is referable, in my opinion, to the following causes:—

- 1st. The excessive crowding of the wards, though only in proportion to the late vast increase of demands for admission, particularly to the infants' wards, so as, in several of them, utterly to neutralize the good effects of the arrangements which have been carried out for the due ventilation of the whole buildings during the early part of the present year.
- 2nd. The extremely impure state of the air throughout the whole of the lower portion of George-street South, and Parramatta-street, especially in the immediate vicinity of the Asylum, arising from various causes, viz.,—1st. The extensive portion of ground, little more than mere sand, and, therefore, utterly unfit for a burying ground, and that, in immediate contiguity to the Asylum, still allowed to be used for such purpose, to the incalculable injury of the sanitary condition of the whole of that quarter of the city, and of the Asylum especially.
- 3rd. The highly dangerous state, in a sanitary point of view, of the heads and shores generally of Darling Harbor and Blackwattle Swamp, arising principally from the extremely objectionable usage of emptying the sewerage and other drainage into those waters; partly from the lowness of the level of a large portion of the ground plot of the city in that district—the whole of which, extending backwards (eastward) to the south-western margin of the Surry Hills, ought obviously to have been raised at least some twenty feet above its present level, so as to facilitate the carrying away (by night trains, or otherwise) the whole of the more solid portion of the sewerage and other drainage of that quarter of the city, to be deposited in appropriate dépôts in the interior for agricultural purposes, or, for the present, if only for the mere prevention of their gaining access to any part of the still waters of our harbor, on the shores of which they now lodge, in perpetually increasing amounts, rapidly filling up many of its most important branches, and, during a large portion of the twenty-four hours, inundating the entire city with its noxious effluvia.

I have now pointed out what appears to me a few of the principal causes of the late excessive mortality in the Asylum—causes in themselves ample, without the addition of the wide-spread, and, as they have proved themselves, extremely fatal epidemics—measles, influenza, &c. Causes, however, over which, it must be admitted, the Managers of the Benevolent Asylum could evidently have no control, and for the effects of which they could in no respect be justly held responsible. To the above it is perhaps necessary that I should add, that the Abattoirs in Parramatta-street have been hitherto a most offensive and injurious nuisance, loading the air with their putrid and putrescent effluvia. It is, however, only just that I should say that an attempt was made by the late Government, which is now on the point of being carried out, to remedy this source of mischief by removing it, though at an enormous expense, to Glebe Island; and where meantime, after inflicting an immense amount of mischief in that neighbourhood, and wasting a large amount of offal manure which ought evidently to be returned to the soil, it will, after the lapse of a very few years, be found once more in the centre of the city, while all this will have been done notwithstanding the extensive and excellent Abattoirs that have been long since got up, and have already been in full operation some years, without cost to the Government or the public of any kind, by private enterprise, in the vicinity of Liverpool, having, at the same time, the full benefit of the railway for the conveyance of supplies. But to return to the more immediate subject of this communication. By the above it will, I think, be clear that the true remedy for rendering the Asylum healthy would be, not its removal as proposed—particularly to a spot where it would cease to have the benefit of the public eye upon it; but the removal of the nuisances by which at present it is surrounded—accompanied, perhaps, with a decided sanitary reform of the entire city, as far as practicable.

I feel, therefore, that I cannot close this statement of facts and opinions without offering my sincere congratulations, both to the Managers of the Asylum and to all who are interested in the sanitary welfare of this city, that this most important subject is at length likely to enlist the Press in its support, without which, and the consequent perpetually increasing pressure of the public opinion and wishes, neither medical opinion, nor any other opinion, it is to be feared, will have the slightest weight.

Requesting that you will lay this statement before the Sub-Committee,

I remain, &c.,
W. BLAND.

“I have been round the establishment, and am very well satisfied with the mode in which it appears to be conducted. The rooms were clean, and in good order generally. There are far too many children in the establishment, for whose education but little provision can be made, and some arrangement should be made for providing some other place for lying-in women.

MR. ALEXANDER BERRY.

(PETITION.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 October, 1860.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Alexander Berry, of the North Shore, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire,—

SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner, on the twenty-first day of September, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, presented a Petition to your Honorable House, in reference to the establishment of the Municipality of Nowra; and praying your Honorable House to take the premises in such Petition referred to into your consideration, and to adopt such measures in relation thereto, in order to ensure justice and right to your Petitioner, as to your Honorable House in its wisdom should seem meet.

That such Petition has been referred by your Honorable House to a Select Committee.

That your Petitioner has a private and peculiar interest in the matters in the said Petition referred to, and is therefore desirous of being represented before such Select Committee by Counsel and Attorney.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays, that your Honorable House will be pleased to grant leave to your Petitioner to appear and be represented before such Select Committee, in support of your Petitioner's said Petition, by Counsel and Attorney.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.,

STEAM POSTAL SERVICE.

No. 1.

SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE COLONIES to GOVERNOR SIR W. T. DENISON, K.C.B.
(No. 45.)

Downing-street,
18 May, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit to you the enclosed copy of a letter from the Treasury, accompanied by a correspondence between that department, the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and the General Post Office, which correspondence will explain to you the origin and the particulars of a new arrangement for the conveyance of the Australian Mails. You will perceive that there was no choice, at this time, but to accept the altered plan. I need not enter into details, as the letter of the Postmaster General, and the elaborate and comprehensive Minute of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, will fully shew you for what reasons and upon what understanding Her Majesty's Government have judged it indispensable for the joint interests of the Colonies and of this Country to enter, for the present, at all events, into the agreement which has been adopted.

I have, &c.
NEWCASTLE.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 1.]

COPY OF A LETTER from MR. HAMILTON to MR. ELLIOT.

Treasury Chambers, May 15, 1860.
(Received May 16, 1860.)

Sir,

I am desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit, for the information of the Duke of Newcastle, the inclosed copies of a letter from the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, dated 30th ultimo, proposing an alteration in the Australian Mail Service; of a Report thereon from the Postmaster General of the 10th instant, and of their several inclosures; together with a copy of a Minute of my Lords, dated the 15th instant, upon the subject: and I am to request that you will move his Grace to cause the necessary communications in accordance therewith to be made to the several Colonial Governments by the ensuing mail.

I am, &c.,
GEO. A. HAMILTON.

[Sub-Enclosure 1 in No. 1.]

MR. HOWELL to MR. HAMILTON.

Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company,
122, Leadenhall-street, April 30, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor, by order of the Directors, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant, stating, in reply to mine of the 24th idem, that the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have not received any communication from the Colonies which would justify them in proposing to Parliament an estimate increased by the sum of £25,000 for the Australian Mail Service, and that their Lordships will, therefore, be glad to be informed whether the Directors have any alternative plan to propose by which, without an increase of charge to this country, the inconvenience of a suspension of mail communication with Australia may be avoided; or whether the Directors intend to avail themselves of the penalty clause to discontinue the service altogether.

In reply, I am instructed to state that a heavy loss has already been sustained by the Company in maintaining the service between Sydney and Suez. That the Directors see no prospect of that loss being diminished, and that a sense of duty to their constituents, the shareholders of the Company, compels them to abandon it.

The Directors, however, beg to submit, for their Lordships' sanction, a modification of the service, which, while it will relieve them from the certainty of causing further loss to the Company, will prove equally efficient with the present arrangement for maintaining the postal service, and effect a considerable saving in the cost of it.

They are willing to maintain a monthly service between Melbourne and Point de Galle (Ceylon), by means of efficient steam vessels of the requisite speed, running them in concert with one of the bi-monthly lines of postal steamers, conveying the India and China Mails, transferring the Australian Mails to and from the Indian mail steamers at Point de Galle. The Australian packets to run direct between Melbourne and Point de Galle, touching at King George's Sound only to coal.

And they offer to perform this service for a reduced subsidy of £120,000 per annum.

The accompanying paper marked A shows the working and Time Table of the proposed plan, by which their Lordships will observe that, so far from its involving any inferiority as compared with the existing mode of performing the service, the regularity and time of transit of the Australian Mails will be rather improved by it.

In submitting this proposal, the Directors consider it not irrelevant to observe that the disastrous experience of the late Contractors, together with their own experience during the thirteen months which they have been engaged in conducting a through-service between Sydney and Suez, convinces them that a monthly service on that plan cannot be maintained except at a very high cost—not less than £250,000 per annum.

As a service equally efficient for postal purposes can be maintained for £120,000 per annum, it follows that to continue the arrangement of a through-route to Suez would involve an expenditure of public money to the amount of £130,000 per annum for no public object, the only advantage which would be gained by it being the better convenience of a few passengers.

AD

STEAM POSTAL SERVICE.

An early commencement of the modified service is desirable both for the interests of the Imperial Exchequer and the shareholders of this Company, and the Directors therefore propose, with your Lordships' sanction, that it shall commence with the departure from Sydney of the Homeward Mail leaving that port on the 22nd July next, and with the Mail leaving England on the 20th or 26th of June, as pointed out in the Time Table; these Mails to be transferred at Point de Galle to and from the Calcutta mail steamers, and the Australian Mail Service to be thenceforward worked as shown in the plan.

I have, &c.
C. W. HOWELL.

SCHEME and TIME TABLE for working a Monthly Line of Steam Postal Service with Australia, in connection with the India and China Mail Contract Packets touching at Point de Galle (Ceylon.)

THE departures of the Mails under the new arrangements are proposed to take place:—

Outwards.

From Southampton on the 20th.
From Marseilles on the 28th.

Homewards.

From Melbourne on the 26th.

The departures under the existing plan being:—

Outwards.

From Southampton on the 12th.
From Marseilles on the 20th.

Homewards.

From Melbourne on the 18th.

The relinquishment of the present contract, and the commencement of the new service would be effected as follows:—

Homeward Route.

The steamer (say A) which will convey from Suez the Mail leaving England on the 12th (18th May), by which the announcement regarding the alteration would be made, will reach Sydney on the 8th July. Upon arriving at that port she will find one of the Company's Packets (say B) lying there, and which under ordinary circumstances would leave for Suez on the 14th July.

Instead of doing so, she would not start until the 22nd July, so as to enable her to reach Galle in time for the packet due there from Calcutta on the 17th August.

Steamer A instead of leaving Sydney on the 14th August, would not start until the 22nd, and would reach Galle on the 16th September. This would be the last departure from Sydney; all following departures would take place from Melbourne.

Outward Route.

Instead of the usual Australian Mail on the 12th (18th) June, no Mail would be dispatched until the 20th (26th). This would be conveyed as far as Galle by the Calcutta packet, and a steamer would be provided by the Company at Galle for receiving and conveying the Australian Mail to Melbourne, where it would be due on the 12th August.

The next outward Australian Mail would be dispatched from England on 20th (26th) July, and would reach Galle on the 21st August. Steamer B, before referred to, which would have arrived from Australia on the 16th August, would convey this mail to Melbourne.

In like manner steamer A arriving at Galle from Australia on the 16th August, would start for Melbourne on the 22nd September with the Mails leaving England on the 20th (26th) August, and thus full effect would be given to the new arrangement.

[Sub-Enclosure 2 in No. 1.]

THE DUKE OF ARGYLL to THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF THE TREASURY.

General Post Office,
May 10, 1860.

My Lords,

I beg leave to return the accompanying letter from the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, proposing an alteration in the Australian Mail Service; and in doing so, I think it well to state that I understand the present position of the question relating to this Mail Service to be as follows:—

1st. That the Government of Victoria has offered to guarantee payment of half the entire cost of the Service, in which I presume is included not only the sea conveyance of the Mails, but also the transit through France and Egypt, and all other expenses.

2ndly.

2ndly. That Victoria will arrange with the other Australian Colonies, both as respects their participation in the benefits of the Service, and the payment of their respective shares of its cost.

3rdly. That the Government of New South Wales has declined to pay any part of the subsidy, unless the Panama route be adopted for one line of packets.

With regard to the present proposal, I am sorry to say that it provides for the packets ceasing to call at Kangaroo Island; but as there will still be ample time in South Australia for sending replies to England by the return Mail, the objection is partially removed.

By the discontinuance of this stop, the time of arrival at Melbourne ought certainly to be earlier than at present; but on examining the proposed Time Table enclosed in the Company's letter, I found that the dates set down for the arrival at Melbourne were the same as those fixed by the Time Table now in force, and under which the packets call at Kangaroo Island.

I thought it necessary, therefore, to communicate with the Company, and to inquire whether this was not an oversight; and your Lordships will perceive by Mr. Howell's letter of the 5th instant that the Company will undertake to deliver the outward mails at Melbourne two days earlier than at present, although for the reasons given, they do not think that a later departure from Melbourne of the homeward mails can safely be attempted.

Under all the circumstances, and with the understanding to which I believe your Lordships have already come with the Company, that the contract may be terminated at a moderate, or even at a short notice, I recommend that this offer shall be accepted.

I have, &c. ARGYLL.

[Sub-Enclosure 3 in No. 1.]

MR. HOWELL to MR. FREDERIC HILL.
Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company,
122, Leadenhall-street, May 5, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor, by order of the Directors, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3rd instant (No. 29,847), inquiring whether the Time Table enclosed in my letter to the Treasury of the 30th ultimo, on the subject of the proposed branch line between Ceylon and Melbourne should not be amended, on account of the time likely to be saved by the packets proceeding direct between King George's Sound and Melbourne, without calling at Kangaroo Island.

In reply, I am desired to acquaint you, that in framing the Time Table in question, and in allowing twenty-one days for the run between Melbourne and Ceylon, the Directors considered it desirable to make such an allowance for that portion of the voyage as would render almost certain the arrivals of the packets at Galle on the homeward passage in time for the steamer en route to Suez.

The case is somewhat different, however, as regards the outward passage, inasmuch as the packets for Australia can always leave Ceylon a few hours after the arrival of the steamers from Suez, and as these occasionally reach Galle a day or two in anticipation of the Time Table, a further advantage in those instances may be gained.

Under these circumstances, the Directors beg to propose that the period for the conveyance of the outward Mails should be estimated in the Time Table at forty-nine days sea-passage (a saving of two days on the time allowed by the present contract), but that considering the necessity for leaving a margin between the arrivals of the Australian and Calcutta and China Mails at Galle, the Time Table for the homeward voyages should be calculated at fifty-one days' sea passage for the Mails between Melbourne and England.

I beg to submit an amended Time Table in conformity with these suggestions, and have, &c.,

C. W. HOWELL.

[Sub-Enclosure 4 in No. 1.]

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 15 May, 1860.

My Lords concur with the Post Office, that the offer of the Peninsular and Oriental Company should be accepted, for the following reasons:—

1. A continuance of the present contract has become impossible.

The Directors of the Peninsular and Oriental Company, who, by the terms of their original tender, have practically the power of forfeiting the contract on payment of a penalty of £25,000, have signified to the Government that, owing to the heavy loss which they sustain in their present Australian service, they feel themselves under the necessity of availing themselves of this power, unless an additional subsidy of £25,000 a year be granted.

Even if the Colonies had been united in wishing to maintain the present service, and to contribute their half of the additional expense, it is very questionable how far this Government would have been justified in proposing to Parliament any addition to the large subsidy already payable; but the positive refusal of New South Wales, and the evident disinclination of Victoria and other Colonies, to purchase a continuance of the present direct Service, either by Galle or by the Mauritius, at the price of an increased subsidy, settles the question, and leaves no doubt that it is impossible to entertain that proposal.

2. This being so, the alternative lies between a discontinuance of the regular Postal Service and the adoption of some plan different from that at present in force. The discontinuance, or even suspension, of the present monthly postal communication would be attended with such grave inconvenience, both to this country and, even more, to the Colonies, that the first consideration must be to maintain it at all hazards.

3. The proposal of the Peninsular and Oriental Company affords the means of doing this in a manner equally, or even more, efficient for the general purpose of monthly communication between England and Australia, at a greatly reduced cost, and without any lengthened engagement, which might preclude the adoption of a plan more generally acceptable to the Colonies, should any such be hereafter suggested.

4. No other alternative seems to be practically possible at the present moment.

To cancel the existing contract with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and invite tenders for a new Service by open competition, would, according to past experience, not be likely to lead to any beneficial result, and such a course would be impossible without a lengthened contract, which the Government are not in a position to enter into in the present divided state of opinion in the Colonies, and consequent uncertainty as to the terms which would be satisfactory to them, and upon which they would be willing to unite in an engagement to contribute half of the subsidy for a period of years.

The Panama route, which has been suggested by New South Wales, cannot be considered as a substitute for a line by Suez, however advantageous it might be for that Colony and for New Zealand in other respects, as the advantage of a gain of six days by the overland route via Marseilles, and of probably eighteen to twenty days by aid of the telegraph, give, under existing circumstances, an overpowering preference to the Suez route, even if we could feel justified in assuming the possibility of performing the passage by Panama with regularity in fifty-three days, and in overlooking the important Imperial and Colonial interests involved in the communication between Australia, India, and China, which is afforded by the route by Ceylon.

In fact, the Panama route can only be considered, at present, as a supplement to the Suez route, and as one in which the Colonial interests of New South Wales and New Zealand are concerned, rather than those of this country, which are, in the main, limited to the object of obtaining the most regular and rapid transmission possible of letters and telegraphic intelligence between Australia, considered as a whole, and the Mother Country.

If the Colonies interested in the Panama route should agree in any plan for running a line of steamers of their own between Sydney and Panama, it would be well worthy of consideration whether this country might not aid and encourage such an effort, by combining its own line to Colon with that of the Colonies, and giving the latter some advantage by assigning to them the greater part of the Ocean Postage for the entire distance; but while compelled, for the reasons above stated, to contribute largely towards a regular postal line by way of Suez, it does not appear to my Lords that Parliament would be likely to assent to any considerable additional subsidy for a line via Panama. Still less could such a proposal be entertained as a substitute for a proposal by which the present Suez route will be maintained at a reduced cost.

My Lords greatly regret the necessity for discontinuing the calling at Kangaroo Island, but there is evidently, under present circumstances, no alternative, as the offer of Victoria, which is the only definite one before the Government, by which the suspension of the mail communication altogether can be averted, expressly stipulates for this point; and unless South Australia were prepared to undertake the guarantee of the whole £60,000 a year herself, Her Majesty's Government have clearly no choice left as to the retention of Kangaroo Island as a Station.

My Lords are glad to observe, however, that the Postal interests of South Australia will not be materially affected, inasmuch as ample time will still be afforded for sending replies to England by the return Mail.

6. In communicating these results to the Colonies, the Secretary of State will probably think it right to point out to them that the Government here have acted under an imperative necessity of making arrangements forthwith to prevent the interruption of the Postal Service, and that such arrangements are expressly made terminable at a short notice, so that it may be open for the Colonies to concert among themselves as to any other arrangement which, without involving large additional expense to this country, might be more generally acceptable.

Transmit copy of this Minute to the Postmaster General for his information, and desire that the necessary steps may be forthwith taken in communication with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, for preparing and submitting to this Board the conditions of a contract for carrying out the proposal of the Company.

State that it will be necessary to provide for, and secure by means of proper penalties, the complete performance of the Service between Melbourne and London.

TELEGRAM from CHIEF SECRETARY, VICTORIA, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

11 July, 1860.

Steam Postal Service between Galle and Melbourne.

THE following proposals will be embodied in a despatch and forwarded to you by first steamer:—First, That each of the Colonies shall contribute to the moiety (sixty thousand pounds) to be paid by Victoria, and to the cost of the transit of Mails through France and Egypt, and all other expenses, in proportion to the number of letters despatched by each. Second, If any Colonies decline to enter into such agreement, proportion that would be payable by it or them to be charged ratably to the Colonies contributing. Third, The cost of the Branch Services from Melbourne to be borne exclusively by the Colonies requiring the same. It is requested that a decision of above may be arrived at, if possible, before the 26th July, in order to enable this Government to determine as to the provision for transmitting the Mails from your Colony by the outgoing steamer.

TELEGRAM from COLONIAL SECRETARY, SYDNEY, to CHIEF SECRETARY, MELBOURNE.

13 July, 1860.

YOUR Telegram of the 11th instant, on the subject of the Postal Service via Suez, has reached me.

The despatch to which you refer shall be replied to fully when received.

In the meantime, it may be stated that the Government of New South Wales are prepared to accede, without hesitation, to the two first proposals.

The third proposal appears to be contrary to the understanding by which it was arranged that the Imperial Government should defray half the cost of conveying the Mail to Sydney, in consideration of retaining the whole of the Postage collected on letters outwards.

TELEGRAM from COLONIAL SECRETARY, ADELAIDE, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

12 July, 1860.

THE following Resolutions were passed by the House of Assembly yesterday:—"First, That "this Committee has seen with regret that, in the new Postal Arrangements entered into "by the Imperial Government with the P. and O. Company, the claims of this Colony have "been completely overlooked. Second, That the Imperial and Colonial interests require that "better postal arrangements than those recently made should be provided, so far as this "Colony is particularly concerned. Third, That it is desirable to arrange, without delay, "for direct communication between this Colony and King George's Sound, the cost of which "should

“ should be added to the General Postal Contract, and divided, pro rata, between the Imperial Government and the Colonial, as under the late contract. Fourth, That this Committee authorize the Colonial Government to make such temporary arrangements as will facilitate the carrying out of the above. Fifth, That an Address be presented to His Excellency the Governor-in-Chief, enclosing the above Resolutions, with a request that he will please forward a copy of the same, by first opportunity, to the Imperial Government.”

This Government hopes that the Government of New South Wales will co-operate with it in insisting that the cost of the branch steamers shall be added to the total sum of the Postal Contract, and divided ratably. An early answer is requested.

No. 6.

UNDER SECRETARY, VICTORIA, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Chief Secretary's Office,
Melbourne, 16 July, 1860.

SIR,

Referring to the Telegram addressed to you from this office on the 11th instant, on the subject of the new Contract for the Conveyance of Mails between Point de Galle and Melbourne, I have the honor, by desire of the Chief Secretary, to forward herewith a Memorandum from the Honorable the Postmaster General of this Colony on the subject, and other papers relating to the Contract, to which I am to invite the earliest attention of the Government of New South Wales.

I have, &c.,
J. MOORE,
Under Secretary.

[Enclosure in No. 6.]

MEMORANDUM from the Postmaster General to the Chief Secretary of Victoria, on the subject of the new Contract for the Conveyance of Mails between Point de Galle and Melbourne.

In consequence of the information contained in the accompanying Despatch and its enclosures, respecting the new arrangement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the Conveyance of the Australian Mails, it becomes necessary to communicate with New South Wales, South Australia, Tasmania, Western Australia, Queensland, and New Zealand, on the subject, in order to ascertain the views of the respective Governments thereupon.

As will be seen by the enclosures to the Despatch from the Secretary of State for the Colonies of the 18th May, 1860 (copy herewith), an arrangement has been entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company for a Monthly Mail Service between Melbourne and Point de Galle, via King George's Sound, in concert with one of the lines of Postal Steamers conveying the India and China Mails.

For this service the sum of £120,000 per annum, by way of subsidy, has been agreed upon, one moiety to be paid by the British Government, and the other by the Government of Victoria.

The Mails will, in future, be conveyed under this new Contract; the first outward steamer leaving Point de Galle on the 22nd instant, and the first vessel with the homeward Mails leaving Melbourne on the 26th.

It is consequently of the utmost importance that an immediate arrangement should be entered into by this Government with such of the Colonies interested, as intend to participate in the benefits of the new service.

I have, therefore, the honor to suggest that the concurrence of the Governments of New South Wales, South Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Queensland, and Western Australia, may be invited in the following proposals:—

- 1st. That each of the Colonies shall contribute to the moiety (£60,000) to be paid by Victoria, and to the cost of the transit of Mails through France and Egypt, and all other expenses, in proportion to the number of letters despatched by each, to be ascertained at such periods as may hereafter be determined on.

2nd.

STEAM POSTAL SERVICE.

2nd. That in the event of any of the Colonies declining to enter into any such agreement, the proportion that would be payable by such Colony or Colonies shall be charged to the Colonies contributing, according to the number of letters despatched by each.

3rd. That the cost of the branch services from Melbourne shall be borne exclusively by the Colonies requiring the same.

I have further the honor to suggest that a copy of this memorandum may be forwarded to the Colonies interested in this question, with an urgent request that the earliest possible attention may be given to the subject, and, in the case of New South Wales, South Australia and Tasmania, that the decision of the respective Governments may be communicated, if possible, before the sailing, on the 26th instant, of the next homeward Mail.

JOHN R. BAILEY.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES to CHIEF SECRETARY, VICTORIA.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
New South Wales,
Sydney, 21 July, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, on the subject of the Postal Service via Suez, being the communication referred to in your telegram of the 11th of this month.

2. The concurrence of this Government is invited to the following proposals:—

1st. That each of the Colonies shall contribute to the moiety, (£60,000) to be paid by Victoria, and to the cost of the transit of Mails through France and Egypt, and all other expenses in proportion to the number of letters despatched by each, to be ascertained at such periods as may be hereafter determined on.

2nd. That in the event of any of the Colonies declining to enter into any such agreement, the proportion that would be payable by such Colony or Colonies shall be charged to the Colonies contributing according to the number of letters despatched by each.

3rd. That the cost of the branch services from Melbourne shall be borne exclusively by the Colonies requiring the same.

3. As stated in my telegram of the 13th instant, the Government of New South Wales are prepared to accede without hesitation to the two first proposals.

4. With respect to the third proposal, I beg to state that the question of the cost of conveying the Mails between Sydney and Melbourne is conceived to be one to be arranged by this Colony with the Imperial Government, which, in consideration of retaining the whole of the Postage collected on letters outwards, undertook to defray half the expense of the Postal Service to Sydney. Such measures, will, however, be at once adopted by this Government as may be necessary for bringing on the English Mails from Melbourne to Sydney, of which you will be duly apprised previous to the arrival of the next packet.

No. 8.

GOVERNOR GENERAL to THE DUKE OF NEWCASTLE.

No. 79.

Government House,
Sydney, 21 July, 1860.

MY LORD DUKE,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your Grace's Despatch No. 45, forwarding the particulars of the new arrangement which has been entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the mails between England and Australia.

From the enclosure to my Despatch No. 114, dated 8 December, 1859, your Grace will be aware that the arrangement by which the Australian line of steamers is made a branch of the great Eastern line, is quite in accordance with the views of the Government of New South Wales, which has from the commencement been opposed to the heavy outlay caused by the attempt to maintain an independent line from England to Australia.

By

By my Despatch No. 43, dated 12th April last, it will be seen that this Government is quite willing to contribute towards the maintenance of such a line upon the principles laid down in the Minute of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, dated 27th November, 1855. While, therefore, this Government does not object to the general outline of the arrangement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, there are certain of the details which require further explanation and adjustment, and to these I now propose to draw your Grace's attention.

See Minute of Executive Council, of 2nd April, 1860, presented to Legislative Assembly on 5 April, 1860; and to Legislative Council on 19 April, 1860.

In the first place I have to remark that His Grace the Duke of Argyll is mistaken in supposing that the Government of New South Wales has declined to pay any part of the subsidy unless the Panama route be adopted for one line of packets. On the contrary, in both my communications to your Grace above alluded to the Panama line is spoken of as second to the Suez line, and as advocated on the ground that it would give to the Australian Colonies a communication with England twice a month, and afford facilities for corresponding with other parts of the world such as would justify the additional outlay required. In no instance was it advocated by the Government as a substitute for the Suez line.

The present position, therefore, of the question relating to the Australian Mail Postal Service is not what his Grace the Postmaster General has stated it to be, and I object to that part of the arrangement based upon these erroneous suppositions, which compels the other Australian Colonies to enter into negotiations with the Government of Victoria, with reference to a service which has been in point of fact established upon certain definite principles, to which I wish now to call your Grace's attention.

In the Treasury Minute of 27th November, 1855, it was proposed that the whole cost of the main and branch services should be divided equally between the Colonies and the Mother Country; and in consideration of the contribution from these Colonies, it was understood that prepayment of postage should be enforced, and that each Colony should appropriate to its own use the whole of the postage received by it. As a corollary to this there was an understanding that the letters from the Colonies and the Mother Country should be delivered to the persons to whom they were addressed without any additional charge beyond the amount prepaid as evidenced by the stamp. This has hitherto been the rule which has been acted on—the mails have been delivered at South Australia, Victoria, and New South Wales, and each Colony has contributed its proportional amount, according to the terms of the original agreement.

Now, however, by the proposed new arrangement, it appears that the steamer, on her way out, is to pass by South Australia, and is to terminate her voyage at Melbourne, leaving the Colonies of South Australia and New South Wales to procure their letters as best they may, and to incur the whole expense of doing that which the Post Office in England undertook to do when it received the postage upon letters addressed to either of these Colonies.

This, of course, must have been overlooked by the Post Office authorities in England when the scheme was submitted for the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, but it is evident that whatever arrangements may be made by the Colonies of South Australia and New South Wales for the performance of the branch services, the payment of one-half of the cost of these by the Home Government must be inferred.

The only change which it will be necessary to make in the principles established by the Treasury Minute of 27th November, 1855, will be with reference to these branch services,—that instead of dividing the total cost of the main and branch services in equal proportions, between the Mother Country and all the Colonies concerned, the whole cost of the main service will be so divided, while the cost of the branch service will be defrayed in equal proportions by the Colony for whose benefit it is established, and by the Mother Country.

Subject to these modifications the Government of New South Wales is quite willing to accept the agreement now made with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and to contribute its proportional share of the subsidy and of the contingent payments, under the distinct understanding that the arrangement is of a temporary character, and is to last only until some other, more satisfactory to all the Colonies concerned, can be carried into effect.

I have, &c.,

W. DENISON.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th of April last, communicating to this Government such information as you had obtained relating to the question of the Steam Postal Service between this Colony and Great Britain; and I avail myself of this opportunity to express my thanks for this further proof of the interest which you continue to take in promoting the wishes of the Colonists of New South Wales, for the establishment of a second line of Postal Service.

2. In my letter of the 16th of April last, I intimated to you the intention of this Government to invite the concurrence of the local Parliament in the views expressed in a Minute of the Executive Council, of which I enclosed a copy, and also to introduce a Bill to give further powers to this Government in adopting measures for the establishment of the Panama Route. The state of public business did not, however, admit of this intention being carried into effect before the close of the late Session; but on the reassembling of Parliament no delay will take place in submitting such a measure to the Legislature.

Presented to the Legislative Council on 28 June, 1860; and Legislative Assembly on 20 June, 1860.

THE Sydney Agent for the P. & O. SIR,

Information having, though not officially, reached this Government, of the termination of the Postal Service by the P. and O. Company, between the Ports of Melbourne and Sydney, and it being probable that the Government of New South Wales will forthwith make arrangements for the conveyance of the Sydney mails between those Ports, I shall feel much obliged if you would have the goodness, until definite arrangements can be made in this matter, to cause the New Zealand Mails to be conveyed on that part of the line by the vessel which may carry the Sydney Mails.

The Government of New Zealand will, of course, be prepared to contribute its share towards the expense of this service.

A communication on this subject has been made to the Postmaster General of Victoria, who has been requested, pending further instructions, to cause the New Zealand Mails to be forwarded in the manner indicated above.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD HAMILTON, ESQ. to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

5, Cannon-street, E. C.,
London, 25 June, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated April 16th, 1860, covering a copy of a Minute of the Executive Council of New South Wales, dated April 2nd, 1860, relative to the Ocean Postal Service. As soon as I receive your final instructions on the subject, I will put myself into communication with Her Majesty's Government, and will endeavour to obtain their co-operation in establishing a service via Panama.

You are aware that the question of Ocean Postal subsidies and contracts was referred to a Committee of the House of Commons in 1859, and that the Committee was re-appointed in 1860. From the final Report, herewith enclosed, you will observe at p. XV, that it is recommended that no new Contract shall be concluded and acted upon, until it shall have been approved by the House of Commons, or at least lain without disapproval on the Table of the House of Commons for a certain period. It may, therefore, be presumed that every fresh application for assistance from the Imperial Treasury will be subjected to strict investigation, and that none will be recommended to the House of Commons for adoption, in which a strong case cannot be made out that the interests of this country require the sanction of additional expenditure:—and the present Government has taken an early opportunity of recording their opinion that this cannot be said of a new Postal Service via Panama. On reference to the Treasury Minute, dated May 15th, 1860, herewith enclosed, you will observe that the Lords of the Treasury say that "the Panama route can only be considered as one in which the colonial interests of New South Wales and New Zealand are concerned rather than those of this country," and that "it does not appear to my Lords that Parliament would be likely to consent to any considerable additional subsidy for a line via Panama."

On the other hand, it may be observed that, under ordinary circumstances, the House of Commons will in matters of public expenditure adopt the recommendation of Her Majesty's responsible advisers, and that the Home Government, being already pledged to the organization of the Panama Service, will, if the condition originally attached to acquiescence is complied with, viz., the guarantee of the moiety of the subsidy and transit charges by one or more of the Australian Colonies, bring the case before the House as a special one, involving a question of good faith. And if this view of their future course is correct, you will see that it is most important to the accomplishment of the object so ardently desired by the Government and inhabitants of New South Wales, that my power to treat should be subject to no new restrictions whatever, but that I should be authorized to say to the Government that the Colony has complied with the conditions originally imposed, and therefore claims the completion of the contract. I ought, however, to apprise you that another source of difficulty exists—for the acquiescence of the Lords of the Treasury was originally given in 1859, on condition that the subsidy asked was moderate, the limit named being £150,000—and it appears to me very doubtful whether any substantial Company will tender for so small a sum. I had the honor of calling your attention to this part of the question in my letter dated 18 April, 1860, and from the terms asked by and conceded to the Peninsular and Oriental Company in the new contract for a branch service between Melbourne and Point de Galle once a month to and fro, viz., a subsidy of £120,000, you will see that it is probable that the subsidy required for a branch service between Sydney and Panama once a month to and fro, will exceed the sum therein named. The distance to be run under this new contract with the Peninsular and Oriental Company will be less than 10,000 miles per month, that is less than 120,000 miles per annum—the subsidy, therefore, exceeds 20s. per mile, and at the same rate the subsidy required for the Panama service would exceed 12 x 16,000, or £192,000.

I have now the honor to call your attention to the new provisional contract with the Peninsular and Oriental Company.

The Treasury Minute of May 15th, 1860, under which this new contract was entered into, was not communicated to me by the Treasury; and I only gathered the terms of it from notices in the public papers. It appears that the documents of which this Minute forms a part, were forwarded to me from the Colonial Office shortly after the departure of the May Mail; but owing to a temporary absence from my private residence in London, they did not reach me, and I was consequently not aware that the exclusion of New South Wales from all direct benefit in the contract was based on an erroneous assumption, that your Government had refused to contribute to the subsidy for any new contract, even though provisional and temporary, "unless the Panama route were adopted for one line of packets." But as it appeared to me, after full consideration, that your Government would be much dissatisfied with this unprecedented omission, I called at the Colonial Office for information, and then for the first time saw the document in question. As there was but little time for deliberation and consultation with the colonists of New South Wales now resident in England, I went forthwith to the Treasury, and pointed out that your Government had never refused to continue its contribution towards a provisional service via Suaz, and represented that the terms of the contract which made no provision for the delivery of the New South Wales letters at the Port of Sydney, would cause very great dissatisfaction both to the Government and the inhabitants of that Colony. Being invited to address the Financial Secretary on the subject, I drew up the letter dated June 20th, herewith enclosed, and further sought an interview with the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, requesting him to move His Grace the Duke of Newcastle to bring the matter promptly under the notice of the Treasury, and to request them them to send the mail boat, as usual, on to the Port of Sydney. The Under Secretary of State being satisfied that New South Wales would have just grounds of complaint, promised to move in the matter; but gave me but little hope of being able to interfere in time to alter the arrangements before the departure of the present mail. The authorities of the Treasury, however, did not wait for interference on the part of the Colonial Office, but immediately took the necessary steps for complying with the request contained in my letter above referred to; and on Saturday last, the 22nd, it was arranged at the Treasury, with the Chairman of the Peninsular and Oriental Company, that the contract should be modified, and that the mail boat should go on to the Port of Sydney, as heretofore. I hope to receive your assurance that I have not misinterpreted the interests of New South Wales, or the intentions of your Government.

If the original contract had been adhered to New South Wales would have been placed in a most disadvantageous position, in regard to the Postal Service, by losing all control over the period of departure of the return boat, and in every respect would have been dependent on the courtesy of another Colonial Government, for the enjoyment even of the small advantages she has hitherto derived from the Suez service. I was informed at the Treasury that a reply would be sent to my letter; and I apprehend that this reply, which I expect to receive before the departure of the Mail on the 26th instant, will embody the understanding as to the liability of New South Wales under which the contract has been modified. In anticipation of it, however, I beg to say, that I have undertaken no responsibility on account of your Government, beyond that which has hitherto existed; the extent of which is defined in the 7th paragraph of the Minute of the Executive Council of 2nd April, 1860. I may also add, that since the date of my letter to Mr. Laing, I have seen, at the Colonial Office, an extract from a despatch from the Governor General, dated April, 1860, in which it is intimated that the Government of New South Wales accede to an increased contribution for the through Suez service via Ceylon, with the understanding that "such contribution will terminate as soon as the Panama route is in action." This assured me that your Government could never have intended to withdraw from the Suez subsidy, and thus to lose the advantages she has received as a contributor, so long as "the Panama line was not in action."

I am informed that the Peninsular and Oriental Company wished to make the present contract permanent, but this request the Lords of the Treasury declined to accede to until they receive further advices from the Colonies. The Company also shrink from being subjected to penalties for unpunctual delivery in London; but without this liability it appears to me that the Colonies will get no certain benefit from a branch line, as if the condition is for punctual delivery at Ceylon instead of London, the Australian Mail may, and probably will, be often left nearly a fortnight impounded at Point de Galle. In the event of your continuing to contribute to the Suez Line, this point is well worthy of your consideration, and I shall be glad to receive your instructions. But the authorities at the Treasury are fully alive to this difficulty, and are prepared to make such provisions as are adequate to the protection of all interests concerned. Some concession to the Company has, for the present, been made on this point, but I am not aware of the nature of it. The amount of subsidy is also open to further consideration, in consequence of the extension of the contract to Sydney, but the increase will not be material.

I have, &c.,
EDWD. HAMILTON.

EDW. HAMILTON, ESQ., to FINANCIAL SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

5, Cannon-street, E. C.,
London, 20 June, 1860.

Sir,

My attention has been drawn to the contract lately entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the Australian Mails once a month to and fro, between Point de Galle and Melbourne, and though I am not authorized to represent the Government of New South Wales as regards this route, I take the liberty of addressing to you the following observations about the terms of the contract, under the full conviction that they will cause considerable disappointment both to the Government and to the inhabitants of that Colony. I observe that the contract only provides for the delivery of the Australian Mails at Melbourne, and that no provision whatever has been made for forwarding the New South Wales portion of them to Sydney. The justification of this omission, and the sanction of it by His Grace the Postmaster General, appear to rest on an assumption "that New South Wales has declined to pay any part of the subsidy unless the Panama route be adopted for one line of packets."

Now, inasmuch as the present contract is only provisional, and has only been accepted by the Lords of the Treasury because it affords a means of continuing the monthly service "without any lengthened engagement which might preclude the adoption of a plan more generally acceptable to the Colonies," I beg to observe that the circumstances under which the Government of New South Wales has threatened to withdraw its contribution to the Suez Service have not arisen, and that Her Majesty's Government were bound in justice to that Colony to assume that its Government would willingly fall in with and confirm any arrangements made on this side for the temporary continuation of the Suez Line. This assurance has, I believe, been often given in Despatches from the Governor General, and is emphatically repeated in a Minute of the Executive Council of New South Wales, dated 2nd April, 1860, which I herewith enclose for your consideration. In the seventh seventh paragraph of that Minute, the intention of the Colonial Government is distinctly expressed, "that they will advise that New South Wales should subsidize the Suez service so long as it is used by the Colony, and should support it upon the same terms and in the same rateable proportion as the contribution to the present contract is paid,"—that is the Government of New South Wales professes its willingness to contribute towards the Suez Service under the very circumstances under which Her Majesty's Government have assumed that they would not contribute; and I have no hesitation in expressing my belief that both the Government and inhabitants of that Colony will regard the omission in the present contract as a rebuke and a penalty—a rebuke for the trouble which their advocacy of the Panama route has occasioned, and a penalty for threatening to withdraw from the Suez Service, under circumstances which I again submit have not arisen. I may further add, that for the attitude assumed by the Government of New South Wales regarding the Postal question, Her Majesty's advisers are in a great measure responsible. From the notice attached to the invitation for tenders in 1858, and from the steps taken by the authorities at the Treasury in 1859, the inference was direct and irresistible that the views of the English Government, as to the organization of the Panama Service, were fully matured—that they were prepared to give the English moiety of the subsidy, and that the service might be forthwith commenced as soon as the guarantee for the Colonial moiety was obtained. Under these circumstances, the Government of New South Wales addressed itself to the other Australian Colonies, and to Victoria in particular, and with a view to obtain, contribution from them, or her, towards the Panama Service, threatened to withdraw the Suez subsidy. But it is clear, that this threat rested upon and was almost suggested by the assumption that the English Government were ready at any time to carry out the intentions which had been so frequently announced, and on which in 1859, final action would have been taken but for the imperfect powers with which the accredited agent of the Government of New South Wales, Mr. E. C. Merewether, was then invested. The Treasury Minute of 15th May, 1860, now intimates for the first time that the present Government is not prepared to act upon what I hope I may, without disrespect, call the positive engagements of the English Government with regard to the Panama Service. If in defiance of these engagements, and of the expectations which the people of New South Wales have been encouraged to entertain, the views expressed in this Minute are to be acted upon, and the whole weight of organizing and sustaining the Panama Service is to be thrown upon a portion of the Australian Colonies, it is quite clear that the Suez route alone will be available; it is therefore unjust to the important Colony of New South Wales to deprive her of the advantages and primary consideration she has hitherto enjoyed, because she expressed an intention to give support exclusively to another line, which a change of policy on the part of Her Majesty's Government is likely to render wholly impracticable.

I have to apologize for having addressed you at so much length on this point, but I take for granted that the arrangement of which I complain has been made under misapprehension and with no intention to wound or injure the people of New South Wales, and that you will be glad to modify it so as to place that Colony on the same footing as heretofore. This new contract comes into force this month, but as the Mail via Marseilles does not leave till the 26th instant, and the modification I ask for can lead to no lengthened negotiation with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, there is still time to avoid a course which may lead to remonstrance and dissatisfaction on the part of the Colony.

I have only further to submit, that it appears to me that, as the authorities at the Treasury are aware that I am duly accredited to act as the Agent of the Government of New South Wales respecting the Panama Service, the Treasury Minute of 15th May, 1860, which contains an expression of the views now entertained by Her Majesty's Government, ought to have been communicated to me.

I have, &c.,

EDWARD HAMILTON,

Agent of the Government of New South Wales for the organization of the Panama Service.

MR. G. HAMILTON to E. HAMILTON, Esq.

Treasury Chambers,
25 June, 1860.

Sir,

I am directed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to state to you, in reply to your letter of the 20th instant, on the subject of the Australian Mail Service, that my Lords were in communication, at the time they received your letter, with the Directors of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company upon the subject, and finding that the Company will be able to run their vessels on to Sydney, provided a proportionate increase in their subsidy be made for the actual expense incurred for coals and wear and tear, they have not hesitated, after the assurances which they have now received of the readiness of New South Wales to pay her full share of the necessary subsidy, as heretofore, to conclude a provisional arrangement with the Company for continuing the Mail Service to Sydney.

My Lords hope that these arrangements when completed, will give satisfaction to the Colony of New South Wales and the other Australian Colonies. But in the event of the service not being satisfactory, either in its terms or the manner of its performance, My Lords will take care that the agreement with the Company shall be so framed, as to reserve to them the power of reverting to the existing Contract, or of making such other arrangements as may be found expedient; and if, contrary to expectation, the Colony of New South Wales should decline to adopt the arrangement now proposed, and to continue to pay her share of the subsidy, My Lords must hold themselves free to revert to the original proposal of the Company to carry the mails to Melbourne only.

Sir,

With reference to my Despatch of the 18th ultimo, informing you of the alterations which it had been found necessary to make in respect of the conveyance of the Australian Mails, I have to acquaint you that the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury have apprised me in a letter, of which a copy is enclosed, that an arrangement has just been come to between their Lordships and the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, under which the Packets of the Company will continue their voyages to Sydney as heretofore.

MR. G. HAMILTON to SIR F. ROGERS.

Treasury Chambers,
25 June, 1860.

Sir,

I am desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to state for the information of His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, with reference to their Lordships' Minute of the 15th ultimo, on the subject of the Australian Mail Service, that my Lords have since that date been in communication with Mr. Edward Hamilton, and with others connected with the Colony of New South Wales, who have represented strongly the dissatisfaction which would be felt in that Colony by the stoppage of the main service at Melbourne, instead of continuing it, as heretofore, to Sydney.

My Lords have in consequence conferred with the Directors of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, and find that the Company do not object to run their boats on to Sydney, provided a proportionate increase be made to their subsidy for the actual expense incurred for coals and wear and tear.

My Lords also understand that the Government and Legislature of New South Wales are quite prepared to contribute their share as heretofore of the amount of subsidy which may be necessary for the purpose.

Under these circumstances, my Lords have not hesitated to enter into a provisional arrangement with the Company to carry on the Mails to Sydney, which arrangement will take effect at once, so as to prevent the disappointment to the Colony of New South Wales which might result from an abrupt suspension of the service to Sydney.

My Lords are unable to state the precise terms of this arrangement, as they have not yet been definitively settled, but they hope to be able to inform the Secretary of State of them before the departure of the ensuing Mail. Whatever they may be, however, the agreement will be so framed as to enable their Lordships to abandon it at once should the terms of the service itself not prove satisfactory, or not be adopted by the Colony of New South Wales, in which case the service must revert to the contract to Melbourne only, or such other arrangements must be made as may be thought advisable.

I am, &c.,
G. A. HAMILTON.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES, to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW ZEALAND.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
New South Wales,
Sydney, 15 August, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, stating that information had reached you of the termination of the Postal Service, by the "Peninsular and Oriental Company" between the Ports of Melbourne and Sydney, and requesting that until definite arrangements could be made, I would cause the New Zealand Mails to be conveyed on that part of the line by the vessel carrying those to Sydney.

2. Considering that the Branch Service was a matter to be determined with the Home Government, which retains the outward postage on letters to Sydney, and it being understood that the steamer was to come to this place, a communication was made to the Government at Melbourne, stating that it would not be necessary to tranship the Mails to any other vessel, as they could be brought on by the Packet; and in compliance with your desire a telegram was forwarded to the Admiralty Agent, apprising him that the Mails for New Zealand were to be sent up in the same way.

3. Subsequently, however, it was ascertained by a telegram from Melbourne, that a modification of the Contract had been arranged between the Company and the Imperial Government, under which the Packets will continue their voyages to Sydney as heretofore.

This

This information has been confirmed by a Despatch from the Secretary of State, and a letter received on the arrival of the Mail to-day, from Mr. Hamilton, who has acted as the Agent of this Colony in its endeavors to obtain a line of Steam Communication by way of Panama since the return of Mr. Merewether, who was sent to England specially for that object. Of Mr. Hamilton's letter I enclose a copy for your information.

COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES, to EDWARD HAMILTON, ESQ.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, New South Wales,
21 August, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th of June last, and its enclosures, communicating the gratifying intelligence that in consequence of your pressing remonstrance in behalf of New South Wales, the Imperial Government had reconsidered the arrangements which had been made with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for conveying our Mails only to Melbourne.

2. From the private letter which I addressed to you last month, you would have learned the dissatisfaction which the modification of the Mail Contract had occasioned to the inhabitants of this Colony, a dissatisfaction felt the more keenly as it was carried out without any reference whatever to this Government, and under an erroneous impression as to the real state of circumstances. The enclosed copy of a Minute of the Executive Council, which was passed on the occasion, will shew you how correctly you anticipated the feelings of this Colony upon hearing that the Mails were only to be brought as far as the neighboring Colony of Victoria. 20 July, 1860.

3. As Parliament has not been yet called together, I have no further instructions to convey to you on this occasion with respect to the Panama route; but, when the Session opens, the Bill, which I intimated in my letter of the 21st ultimo it was intended to introduce, will be submitted to enable the Government to guarantee the moiety of a subsidy for a Steam Postal Service by that line.

4. It affords me much pleasure to assure you that your prompt and successful interference to protect the interests of this Colony in the critical position in which Postal matters were placed, by the sudden alteration of the Contract, has been cordially approved of by the Government. In this feeling I am persuaded the Colonists generally participate. And I beg you will accept this expression of our acknowledgments as a proof that your labors have been duly appreciated.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES COWPER.

[Enclosure in No. 18.]

MINUTE of the Executive Council, of the 20th July, 1860.

REFERRING to the question of Steam Postal Communication, the consideration of which was deferred at the last meeting, pending the receipt of the official letter from the Government at Melbourne, relative to the new agreement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council the communication in question, which simply repeats the proposals contained in the Telegrams already before the Council, and encloses a printed copy of the Correspondence which has led to the adoption of the present arrangement.

This being the case, the Council see no occasion to advise that the formal reply to the proposals should be in substance other than that already communicated by telegram, in pursuance of the advice tendered at the last meeting. The two first proposals having been acceded to, without qualification, need no further reply; and the third deals with a question which, in so far as the Council understands the matter, concerns only the Colonies requiring the branch services: and, although it may form the subject of negotiation with the Imperial Government, does not touch the Colony of Victoria, which has made itself responsible merely for the half of the cost of conveying the Mails to and from Galle and Melbourne.

It should, however, be intimated to the Government at Melbourne, that some person will be duly authorized to receive from the Admiralty Agent the Mails for this Colony, which may arrive by the "Northam" and succeeding vessels, and that arrangements will be made, without delay, for bringing them on to Sydney; and with the view of effecting this, the Council advise that the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer be authorized to enter into the most advantageous arrangements that it may be in his power to make, either with the Agents of the Peninsular and Oriental Company or with the local Steam Company.

The general question of the mode in which the new arrangement affects this Colony yet remains to be disposed of, and the Council accordingly proceed to consider it in connection with the Minute of the Governor General on the subject which was before them at the last meeting.

In submitting the Despatch of His Grace the Secretary of State, announcing the conclusion of the present agreement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, His Excellency adverts to the principles upon which, in the year 1855, after due deliberation, the Lords of the Treasury decided that the mail service between these Colonies and the Mother Country should be from thenceforth conducted. These

These may be found in the Treasury Minute of the 27th November, 1855; but it may be advantageous here to recapitulate them, and, as substantially quoted by His Excellency, they are as follows:—

- That a monthly Postal Service was to be established between England and Sydney.
- That branch services were to be tendered for from Melbourne, for the conveyance of the Mails to Adelaide, Tasmania, and New Zealand.
- That the entire cost of these services should be divided equally between the Imperial Government and the Colonies.
- That each Colony should contribute towards the Colonial moiety of the cost, in proportion to the number of letters despatched by it.
- That all letters and newspapers should be pre-paid, and that each Post Office should retain its own receipts.

These principles were adopted by all the Colonies concerned, and, with some slight modifications which circumstances rendered necessary, and were concurred in by the Colonies, have formed the basis of the arrangements hitherto made for carrying on the service.

Under the present agreement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, it would appear that the line is to terminate at Melbourne, and the other Colonies are to be at the expense of conveying their letters to and from that place; that is, as His Excellency observes, are, in point of fact, to pay for a service for which, in fact, the Post Office in England has already been paid, inasmuch as it is still to retain the postage collected by it.

These are material departures from the original understanding; and the Council fully agree with His Excellency in thinking that they are not in accordance either with the spirit or the letter of the Treasury Minute above referred to, and probably only require to be brought under the notice of Her Majesty's Government to be altered, or placed upon a proper footing.

The Council advise that His Excellency should so bring them under the notice of the Secretary of State without delay.

To the general principles of the scheme submitted by His Grace, providing as it does for the conveyance of the mails to and from Melbourne and Galle by steam plying in connection with the main Indian and China line, the Council see no objection, as the Government of New South Wales has from the very commencement been opposed to the system of making the mail arrangements subsidiary to, or dependent on the passenger traffic, and they think with His Excellency that it only requires some alterations in the details to make it work satisfactorily to the Colonies generally, and to New South Wales in particular, so far as any postal line via Suez can do.

The alterations which His Excellency suggests are three:—

- 1st. That tenders should be called for the conveyance of the different mails from Melbourne to their proper destination, leaving to the Governments requiring the branch services the option, with certain limitations as to the expense, to arrange for the performance of the work as may seem best to them.
- 2nd. That the cost of such branch services should be chargeable in equal proportions to the Imperial Government and the particular Colony for whose benefit it is undertaken.
- 3rd. That the accounts should be arranged as heretofore between the Imperial Government—by whom the contract is entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company—and each separate Colony, and not with that of Victoria.

The Council entirely concur in the propriety of the modifications thus suggested by His Excellency, and advise that those also should be brought under the notice of the Secretary of State; and further, that when doing so, His Excellency should advert to another question which has presented itself to the Council, upon a perusal of the correspondence enclosed in His Grace's Despatch. The Council perceive that the new arrangement has been entered into entirely upon the assumption that the Government of New South Wales would decline to subsidize the Suez route, unless it were maintained in connection with a second line of packets via Panama.

The Council are entirely at a loss to understand upon what act or word of this Government such an assumption could be based. They are fully satisfied that it has no foundation in fact, and they can only record their extreme regret that Her Majesty's Government should, in the absence of any distinct expression of opinion emanating direct from the Colony, have seen fit to deal with it as recusant, and acting upon unauthorized statements, should have decided to disturb an arrangement which, although not affording all the facilities desired by the Colonists, was not in any way repudiated by them, and was in fact faithfully maintained, in so far as such maintenance depended upon the punctual fulfilment of the pecuniary obligations arising from it.

Clerk of the Council.

Government House,
Sydney, 21 August, 1860.

MY LORD DUKE,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your Grace's Circular Despatch, dated 27th June, 1860, enclosing a copy of a letter from the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, notifying the arrangement which had been made with the Peninsular and Oriental Company relative to the conveyance of the Mails to Sydney as heretofore, in consideration of an additional subsidy, which I have learned through another channel will probably amount to £15,000 per annum.

Having laid this Despatch before my Responsible Advisers, I have to express their satisfaction with this arrangement considered as a part of the temporary agreement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the Mails.

By the next Mail it is my intention to address your Grace more at length upon the general question.

I have, &c.,
W. DENISON.

No. 20.

GOVERNOR GENERAL to THE DUKE OF NEWCASTLE.

(No. 94.)

Government House,
Sydney, 13 September, 1860.

MY LORD DUKE,

In accordance with the statement made by me in my Despatch, No. 88, dated 21st ultimo, I now proceed to address your Grace upon the subject of the general arrangement for the conveyance of the Mails between England and Australia via Suez and Point de Galle.

I forward herewith copies of a Minute addressed by me to my Executive Council, and of the advice tendered to me in consequence.

In this Minute I alluded, firstly, to the exorbitancy of the subsidy now demanded by the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and to the probability that, in the course of two years, contractors, either English or Colonial, would be found who would gladly undertake to convey the Mails between these Colonies and Point de Galle for a subsidy not exceeding two-thirds of that now demanded by the Peninsular and Oriental Company.

Secondly, to the proportion of the cost of delivering the Mails in each Colony which, in accordance with the terms of the Treasury Minute of 27th November, 1855, ought to be borne by the Imperial Government.

Thirdly, to the equitable mode in which the Colonial share of the cost of the trunk line should be divided among the Colonies concerned; and I submitted, as the result of the view taken by me, four distinct propositions, which have been affirmed by the Council.

The first of these is, "That a contract should be entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for a short period, not in any case exceeding three years, upon the conditions stated in the Despatches." The object of this is to bind the Company to a definite agreement in order to prevent constant changes in the route and the cost of conveying the Mail, and to afford time for perfecting arrangements for a contract of a more permanent character on terms more advantageous both to the Mother Country and the Colony.

The second only affirms the original understanding that the Colonies will take upon themselves the payment of one-half of the subsidy paid to the Peninsular and Oriental Company, or indeed to any Company or Contractor.

The third embodies the principle that each Colony should only pay for so much of the main trunk line as is directly beneficial to itself.

And the fourth only affirms the general principle laid down by the Lords of the Treasury in 1855, that the cost of the main and branch services should be equally divided between the Mother Country and the Colonies.

The only novelty in these propositions is that with reference to the division of the cost of the trunk line between the Colonies, and this, I think, will commend itself to your Grace on account of its evident fairness.

I have forwarded a copy of my Minute and of the Proceedings of the Executive Council to the Governors of the other Australian Colonies and New Zealand, with a request that they would communicate on the subject with your Grace.

I have, &c.,
W. DENISON.

[Enclosure 1 in No. 20.]

MEMORANDUM of His Excellency the Governor General on the general question of Steam Postal Communication, as regards the line via Suez.

I LAY before the Council the despatches explanatory of the arrangements made by the Imperial Post Office authorities with the P. and O. Company for the conveyance of the mails between England and Australia, and I avail myself of this opportunity to bring under the consideration of the Council the general question of Steam Postal Communication, so far as regards the line via Suez.

This question now for the first time tends to assume its proper form. The P. and O. Company has practically thrown over the passenger traffic, and also the goods traffic, with the exception, perhaps, of gold, so that the only subject which the authorities at Home and in the Colonies have to consider is, the speediest and most convenient, and at the same time the cheapest, mode by which the mail can be conveyed between Australia and Point de Galle.

It appears to me that so far as regards speed and certainty, the present arrangement is likely to prove satisfactory. The working of the line between England and Ceylon is now so well established as to justify the Government in reckoning upon the regular delivery of the mails from England at Point de Galle, and the route adopted from thence appears to be the most direct and the speediest that can be adopted. But the amount of the subsidy appears to me to be enormous. In order that the Council may be able to judge of the correctness of this expression, I will bring before it in the first place a statement of the subsidies paid for each mile gone over by the different Companies or by the said Company under different circumstances, and will then submit an Estimate of the cost of working such a line.

In 1854 the P. and O. Company received a subsidy of £29,000 per annum for running a steamer between Point de Galle and Sydney once in two months. The amount paid per mile was in this instance 9s. 9d.

When this contract was given up a fresh arrangement was made with the Australian Mail Company, which for a subsidy of £185,000 undertook to convey the Mails between Sydney and Southampton monthly. The subsidy in this case amounted to 13s. 7d. per mile. On the failure of this Company, the P. and O. Company contracted to perform the same duty, only taking the route by the Mauritius instead of by Ceylon, receiving for the same a subsidy of £180,000 for the Australian service, and £24,000 in addition for the conveyance of the Mauritius mail. The subsidy, supposing a separate service for the whole distance, was at the rate of 14s. 4½d. per mile; but as practically the service ended at Suez—the mails to and from Alexandria being carried by the boats of the Bombay line—the subsidy per mile may be taken at 19s. 2½d.

After a time, the route via the Mauritius being found inconvenient, the Company proposed to take the mail by way of Point de Galle as before, receiving for the service a subsidy of £205,000, which is at the rate of 20s. 4d. per mile.

The first proposal herewith submitted is that on consideration of the conveyance of the mail by the P. and O. Company, between Point de Galle and Melbourne, a subsidy of £120,000 per annum should be paid, which is at the rate of 23s. 0d. per mile. This is, to a certain extent, modified by the second agreement that the mail shall be carried between Point de Galle and Sydney for a subsidy of £135,000 per annum, which (if the distance from Melbourne to Sydney be taken at 600 miles) gives the rate of the subsidy to be 22s. 8d. per mile.

From this statement it is evident that there has been a steady increase in the demands made by the P. and O. Company from the time that the contract was first assigned to it, and it remains to be seen whether the expenses to which it is necessarily subjected are such as justify so large a subsidy as that now claimed.

It is stated by the Directors or Manager of the Company that the Australian line has been a losing one, and I have no reason to doubt this allegation. The original line was intended for mixed passenger and mail traffic; and I believe that while the arrangements for the passenger traffic were on an expensive scale, the number of passengers conveyed was never sufficient to cover the cost of the establishment.

The circumstances, however, are now altogether different. The Company, looking to the enormous charge made for the conveyance of passengers, can never expect to have their vessels filled; a very much reduced establishment will, therefore, be required, and this expense may, therefore, be reduced to a minimum. By throwing over the passenger traffic, the Company will be able to employ boats of less tonnage and power, so that it is actually demanding a larger subsidy for the performance of a work which costs less money and is subjected to less risk than that which, with all the facts before their eyes, the Directors expressed themselves willing to perform a few months ago, when they offered, for a subsidy of £230,000 per annum, to run a fortnightly boat between Point de Galle and Sydney, the rate per mile being in this case only 19s. 4d.

I will now give a rough Estimate of the cost of maintaining a monthly service between Point de Galle and Sydney; and I trust to be able to shew that, with a due attention to economy in the arrangements, the work might be done with profit to the Company for a sum very far inferior to that now paid to the P. and O. Company.

I may premise that steamers of 1,000 tons burden, and from 250 to 300 horse-power, would be quite adequate to the work between Point de Galle and Sydney; and that, under favorable circumstances, three of such boats would be sufficient to maintain a monthly service. I will, however, estimate for four. The cost of these would be, say, £60,000 each, or £240,000 for the four. The interest of this money, at 5 per cent., with 15 per cent. for repairs and depreciation, would require an annual return of £48,000.

If we assume the maximum power of 300 horse, and allow for the maximum consumption of coal, namely, 10 lbs. per horse-power per hour, and if we take the minimum speed of nine miles per hour, the consumption would be at the rate of 333 lbs. of coal per mile, or 17,680, or, say, 18,000 tons of coal annually; and this, at an average rate of 40s. per ton, would amount to £36,000 per annum. The cost of provisions, stores, pay of men and officers, would not amount to £10,000 per annum for each vessel; but taking this to be the cost, and that the four vessels were always at work, which could not be the case, as one would always be under repair or waiting in harbor, the amount required would be for the four, £10,000 per annum. The earnings of these vessels, then, in order to give the shareholders 5 per cent on their capital, should be £48,000 + £36,000 + £10,000 = £124,000 per annum.

This estimate, however, is in excess in every item, and yet it is £11,000 per annum less than the subsidy which it is proposed to pay to the P. and O. Company.

It is certain that a Company which might be formed for the purpose of carrying out such a service de novo would avail itself of all the latest improvements in engines and boilers, more especially with reference to the consumption of coal, and there is little doubt that the amount of fuel required to generate steam sufficient for a single horse-power might be reduced from 10 lbs. to 4 lbs.; the saving in the amount of coal would in such a case be upwards of 10,000 tons, or £20,000 per annum. But a still greater saving would be made in the cost, for the steamers would be able to take on board at Sydney sufficient coal for the voyage out and home, so that the average price of coal would be reduced to that for which it might be put on board at Sydney, or from 40s. per ton to less than 25s. per ton. The item, then, for coal would be reduced in such a case from £36,000 per annum to £10,000. Under such circumstances, too, the time lost in coaling at King George's Sound would be saved, and about twelve hours gained in the time of the delivery of the mails.

I cannot, then, but be of the opinion that the postal service by way of Point de Galle might be conducted at a cost of less than two-thirds of the subsidy now paid to the P. and O. Company.

I wish now to bring before the Council certain arrangements by which the cost of the mail service may be more satisfactorily distributed between the Colonies and the Mother Country, and among the Colonies themselves.

With regard to the division of the cost between the Mother Country and the Colonies, it is evident that each of these two parties, by receiving the whole of the postage upon letters, &c., engage to deliver the letters so posted to the Post Office authorities in the country to which they are addressed—the Home Government engages to deliver the letters dispatched from England to the Postmaster General of each Colony, by whom they are distributed to the persons to whom they are addressed without further charge; while the Colonies agree on their part to deliver, or, what is the same thing, to pay for the delivery of the letters at Southampton to the English Post Office, which also delivers them without further charge. In simple terms, the whole cost of both the main service and of the branches, as stated in the Treasury Minute of November, 1855, is to be divided equally between the Home Government and the Colonies.

I now come to the question of the proportion of the Colonial share of the subsidy which ought to be paid by each Colony. And here, again, I do not know that any better or fairer ratio can be established than that which has hitherto been acted on in proportioning the payments of the different Colonies, namely, that existing between the letters sent from each; but it would not be fair to divide the whole cost of the main and branch services among the Colonies generally according to this ratio. If, for instance, the letters for South Australia are landed at King George's Sound, that Colony should only be called upon to pay a proportionate part of the main service to and from King George's Sound. In the same way, Victoria ought not to be called upon to contribute towards the main service between Melbourne and Sydney. It seems, then, to me, that the following rule would be fair in its application to all the Colonies concerned; that each would pay for its share of the advantages it receives, and would derive its full benefit from the position in which it is placed:—

1st. The whole of the Australian Colonies and New Zealand should contribute to the cost of conveying the mails between King George's Sound and Point de Galle, in proportion to the number of letters sent by each.

2nd. That on the supposition that the South Australian and West Australian mails are landed at King George's Sound, no further charge will be made on these Colonies for the cost of the main line, but that the cost of the branch from King George's Sound to Adelaide should be divided equally between the Imperial Government and that of South Australia.

3rd. That the cost of conveying the mail by the trunk line between King George's Sound and Melbourne should be divided between the whole of the Colonies interested—that is, between Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, Tasmania, and New Zealand.

4th. That the cost of the main line between Melbourne and Sydney should be charged against the Colonies of New South Wales, Queensland, and New Zealand.

5th. That the branch from Melbourne to Tasmania, and that from Sydney to Brisbane should be divided equally between the Colonies of Tasmania and Queensland. Arrangements have already been made for the conveyance of the New Zealand Mail, so that this does not require to be alluded to.

It may be said that, in proposing this equal division of the subsidy between the Colonies and the Mother Country, no reference has been made to the cost of conveying the Mails between England and Ceylon; but the reason of this is, that no additional expense has been thrown upon the Imperial Post Office for such service. Should it be found necessary hereafter to pay any additional subsidy to the P. and O. Company, on account of the space occupied in their boats by the Australian Mails, then, of course, the Colonies will have to contribute towards this, as they have, under the present arrangement, towards the cost of conveying the Mail across the Isthmus of Suez.

The substance of the suggestions which I think it would be advisable to make to the Home Government will be as follows:—

1st. That a contract for a short term, say not exceeding three years, should be made with the P. and O. Company, upon the conditions stated in the despatches now submitted.

2nd. That this subsidy should be divided in equal proportions between the Home Government and the Colonies.

3rd. That the proportion to be paid by each Colony should be determined with reference to the precise amount of the benefit which such Colony derives from the main line thus subsidised.

4th. That the cost of the branch lines, except that of New Zealand (which has already been arranged between the Home Government and that of New Zealand), should be divided equally between the Home Government and the Colony for whose service the branch is worked.

[Enclosure 2 in No. 20.]

MINUTE OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, 7 September, 1860.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 24th ultimo, His Excellency the Governor General again invites the attention of the Council to the question of Steam Postal Communication via Suez, and places before them for their consideration a Minute, in which he first draws attention to the exorbitancy of the subsidy now demanded by the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the performance of the same, as compared with the previous cost of conducting it by other Companies, and their own offers on the subject.

2. To the probability that, in the course of a few years contractors, either English or Colonial, will be found who will be willing to undertake to convey the mails between these Colonies and Point de Galle for a subsidy not exceeding two-thirds of that now paid.

3rdly. To the proportion of the cost of delivering the Mails in each Colony which, in accordance with the terms of the Treasury Minute of the 27th November, 1855, ought to be borne by the Imperial Government.

4thly. To the mode in which the Colonial share of the cost of the trunk line may be equitably divided among the Colonies concerned, and as the result of his views upon these points submits certain distinct propositions for the consideration of the Council.

These are, first, that a contract for a short time, but not in any case exceeding three years, should be entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company upon the conditions stated in the despatches which were received from His Grace the Secretary of State for the Colonies by the two last Mails, and have already been before the Council, the object of this being to guard the Colonies from the constant changes in the route and the cost of conveying the Mail, which have hitherto been made at the will of the Company, and to afford time for the completion of arrangements of a cheaper and more satisfactory character, both to the Imperial and Colonial Governments.

2nd. That the subsidy for the conveyance of the Mails in the trunk line should be divided in equal proportions between the Home Government and the Colonies, the arrangement sanctioned by the Treasury Minute of the 27th November, 1855.

3rd. That the proportion to be paid by each Colony should be determined with reference to the precise amount of the benefit which such Colony derives from the main line thus subsidised, and

4th. That the cost of the branch lines, except that of New Zealand, which is the subject of a separate arrangement between the Home Government and that Colony, should be divided equally between the Home Government and the Colony for whose service the branch is worked.

3. The Council express their entire approval of the propositions thus submitted by His Excellency, which, it may be stated, have been before the Members since the 22nd ultimo, and advise that His Excellency should bring them under the notice of His Grace the Secretary of State for the Colonies, by the first opportunity, and should also invite the other Colonies to concur in them, on the ground of the general advantages which they will secure to the whole, and of the fairness of the distribution of the cost of the service amongst the individual contributors.

4. The Council think it desirable that a copy of His Excellency's Minute should accompany the Despatches addressed to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle and the Governments of the several Colonies, in order that they may be placed in full possession of the views and arguments upon which the Government proposals are based.

COLONIAL SECRETARY to EDWARD HAMILTON, ESQ.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, New South Wales,
20 September, 1860.

SIR,

In my letter of the 21st ultimo, I expressed to you the acknowledgments of this Government for the prompt steps which you adopted with respect to the arrangement for the conveyance of the Australian Mails, in consequence of which, those for New South Wales will be brought on to Sydney by the Packets, as heretofore. I have now the honor to enclose a copy of a Minute since passed by the Executive Council, recording their sense of the important service rendered to the Colony by you in procuring a modification of the original arrangement which was so distasteful and disadvantageous to the Colonists; and it is the intention of the Government to lay a copy of this document before both Houses of the Legislature, which is summoned to meet on the 25th instant.

I have, &c.,
CHARLES COWPER.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure in No. 21.]

MINUTE of the Executive Council of the 24th August, 1860.

REFERRING to the proceedings on the 20th July last, with respect to the new agreement entered into by Her Majesty's Government with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, for the conveyance of the Mails to and from these Colonies; His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a Despatch, received by the last Mail, from His Grace the Secretary of State for the Colonies, announcing that a further arrangement has been made with the Company, by which the Mails for this Colony will be conveyed on to Sydney by the packets of the Company as heretofore.

Therewith His Excellency also lays before the Council a letter, from Edward Hamilton, Esquire, the Agent of this Government in London, for the organization of the Panama Service, from which and its enclosures, it appears that the Colony is indebted to that gentleman's exertions for the alteration in the arrangement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company communicated by His Grace.

The Council cannot express too strongly the sense they entertain of the service rendered to the Colony by Mr. Hamilton, in procuring the present modification of the original arrangement which was so distasteful and disadvantageous to the Colonists, and of the able manner in which the affair was conducted.

They trust that the Service will be expressly recognized by the Legislature; but they desire to tender to him in the meantime the warmest thanks of the Government, and advise that they be formally communicated to him.

With regard to the arrangement itself, the Council advise that His Excellency should intimate to His Grace the Secretary for the Colonies that the Government is satisfied with it, considered as a part of the temporary agreement with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the Mails, but that a further communication in which the wishes and views of the Colonists of New South Wales, on the general question of Steam Postal Communication will be set forth more at length, will be addressed to His Grace by the next Mail.

EDWARD C. MEREWETHER,
Clerk of the Council.

London, 23 July, 1860.

SIR,

I herewith enclose copies of a Correspondence which has taken place between the Secretary of the Treasury and myself, since the departure of the last Mail, 26th June, 1860, and I trust that my reply of July 2nd, 1860, will meet with your approval.

Waiting your further instructions,

I have, &c.,

Treasury Chambers,
28 June, 1860.

Sir,

I am desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to transmit to you the enclosed copy of a letter from the Secretary of the P. and O. Company, stating the terms upon which they are willing to undertake the proposed extension of the Australasian Mail Service from Melbourne to Sydney, and I am to request that you will favor my Lords with your opinion as to the reasonableness of the offer.

I am, &c.,

MR. HOWELL to SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

P. and O. Company's Offices,
122, Leadenhall-street,
London, E. C., 23 June, 1860.

Sir,

In conformity with the request made by you and the Secretary of the Post Office, this day, through Mr. Anderson, the Senior Managing Director of this Company, I am desired to state that instructions have been forwarded to the Company's Agents by the present Mail, that the Australian Mail Steamers shall proceed to Sydney to deliver the outward and receive the homeward New South Wales mails, instead of stopping at Melbourne, as arranged by my letter of the 30th of April last, and the reply received through the Postmaster General, dated 17th May.

This extension of the service monthly will necessitate the employment of an additional vessel to the number required for the Melbourne and Point de Galle service, and the Company will require for it an addition of (£15,000) say fifteen thousand pounds per annum, to the subsidy of £120,000 agreed upon for that modified service.

I have, &c.,
C. W. HOWELL,
Secretary.

[Enclosure

[Enclosure 3 in No. 22.]

E. HAMILTON, Esq., to G. HAMILTON, Esq.

5, Cannon-street,
2 July, 1860.

Sir,

I have now the honor to reply to your letter of the 28th ultimo, in which you invite my opinion as to the reasonableness of the demand made by the Peninsular and Oriental Company for an additional subsidy of £15,000, in consideration of the extension of the Steam Postal Service beyond Melbourne to Sydney. The only data on which I can form an opinion on such a matter are the rates previously asked for the same or a portion of the same service, and acceded to by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

The distances as given in the printed Tables of the P. and O. Company, are as follows:—

From Suez to Melbourne, via Point de Galle	8,022 miles.
.. Point de Galle to Melbourne	4,580 "
.. Melbourne to Sydney (not given in the Tables)	560 "

Vide map in P. & O. Company's pamphlet.

For a monthly service from Suez to Sydney, that is for 24 voyages of 8,532 miles each, equal to 205,968 miles, the annual subsidy asked and not objected to by the Lords Commissioners was £205,000, or about 19s. 10d. per mile.

For a similar service from Point de Galle to Melbourne, that is, for 24 voyages of 4,580 miles each, 109,920 miles, the annual subsidy asked and agreed to by the Lords Commissioners was £120,000, or rather more than 21s. 10d. per mile.

The distance from Melbourne to Sydney being 560 miles, the distance run in 24 voyages will be 13,440 miles, and the annual subsidy, at the above rates of 19s. 10d. and 21s. 10d. per mile, would be as follows:—

At the rate of 19s. 10d. per mile, £13,328;
At the rate of 21s. 10d. per mile, £14,672.

In the former case, materially less, and in the latter, appreciably less than the amount asked, viz. £15,000, which gives a mileage of 22s. 3d.

With these facts before them, and with their long experience in the determination of Steam Postal Contract rates, the Lords Commissioners will be able to form a more correct opinion as to the reasonableness of the present offer from the P. and O. Company than I can.

But I may observe, that the demands of this Company appear to be raised at every successive negotiation, and that the rate which was agreed to for the service between Point de Galle and Melbourne, viz., 21s. 10d. per mile, is much in excess of any other that is paid for Steam Postal Services in any part of the world. The rate now asked for the extension to Sydney, viz., 22s. 3d. per mile, is not a material increase, but it appears to me, that as a matter of principle, it would be better to make a stand, and that no advance whatever should be sanctioned beyond the rate of 21s. 10d. per mile already agreed to. I will further observe, that even this rate must be in excess of that contemplated by the Lords Commissioners, after their interview with the Chairman of the Company, on the 23rd June, 1860; for in the Treasury letter of 25th ultimo, it was communicated to me that the increased subsidy would be confined to the cost arising from the additional consumption of fuel, and the wear and tear between Sydney and Melbourne; and it certainly appears to me that this was the full extent of compensation which the Company could demand, as the voyage to Sydney and back would be performed in the 14 days during which, by the terms of the contract agreed to, the mail-boat was to be idle in the Melbourne Harbor. It is however alleged by the Company, (though it is difficult to understand why), in the Secretary's letter of 23rd June, 1860, that "the extension of the service will necessitate the employment of an additional vessel, and that the large amount asked for is required to meet this increased charge." If the Lords Commissioners are satisfied by this representation, it will be as well that the mileage rate of 21s. 10d., which, as shewn above, will amount to £14,672, should be agreed to on the distinct understanding that the additional vessel will be laid on.

In conclusion, I beg to remark that, as the present Contract is only provisional, and subject to future modification, if desired by the Australian Colonies, the question of mileage rate for the Services loses some of its importance, and that there can be no doubt that the Government which I have the honor to represent will accept any temporary arrangement which the Lords Commissioners may find it necessary, or think it expedient to make, and readily pay, on the same principle of contribution as heretofore, its share of the subsidy agreed to.

Agent for the Government of New South Wales for the organization of the Panama Service.

SIR,

I have received your letter of the 23rd of July last, enclosing copies of a correspondence which has taken place between the Secretary of the Treasury and yourself subsequently to the departure of the June Mail, respecting the additional subsidy required by the Peninsular and Oriental Company, in consideration of the Steam Postal Service being continued to Sydney as heretofore.

2. The Government of this Colony fully approve of the reply made by you to the Treasury, and confirm your assurance that any temporary arrangement which the Imperial Government might find it necessary to make for the Service would be accepted by New South Wales.

3. As, however, the existing arrangements are provisional only, the subject will be again brought under the notice of the local Parliament in the ensuing Session, and I shall have the honor of communicating the further views of the Government and of the Legislature at as early a date as may be practicable.

SIR,

I have the honor to enclose copies of a letter from the Secretary to the Treasury, dated July 26th, and of my reply thereto dated August 4th.

In the absence of communications from you, I have not sought any further interview with that gentleman, and I am of opinion that it is better to let the matter entrusted to me drop until I am furnished with full authority from your Government to make definite proposals for the establishment of the Panama Service. I observe with some regret that a Member of Parliament, Mr. Hennessy, most likely at the instance of some one connected with New South Wales, revived the subject last night, and elicited a discouraging reply from Mr. Laing, the Secretary to the Treasury. Under the existing pressure upon the finances of this country, the Government are not likely to undertake additional charges for the furtherance of a project which, in their opinion, is a matter of Colonial rather than Imperial concern; it is therefore not advisable to seek from them an expression of opinion, while it is open to them to assume that the parties most interested hesitate to accept the conditions under which their acquiescence was originally promised.

Sir,

I am desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to inform you, with reference to your letter of the 2nd instant, that my Lords have signified to the Postmaster General their approval of the subsidy for the extension of the Australian Mail Service from Melbourne to Sydney being fixed at the rate of £14,672 a-year, upon condition that the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company provide an additional vessel for the performance of the service. The arrangement, however, being considered as provisional only until the Colony of New South Wales shall have intimated its willingness to contribute its portion of the subsidy.

SIR,

Understanding that arrangement has recently been concluded for substituting a branch line of steamships as between Galle and Melbourne only, in the place of the present Australian Mail Service—thus leaving the Government of New South Wales at liberty to make its own arrangements for the conveyance of the Mails of that Colony to and from Europe via Panama, or otherwise as it may consider desirable—

We hereby beg to tender to perform a Monthly Steam Service between Sydney and Panama, calling at Auckland in New Zealand out and Home, with an efficient and powerful fleet of steamships adequate for the purpose, for the sum of seventy thousand pounds as the proportion to be payable by the Colonial Government of New South Wales, we undertaking to arrange with the Imperial Government for the payment of its moiety of the subsidy for such Service, and, also, with the New Zealand Government for its proportion thereof; and we

we further undertake to commence the Service within six months after receipt of the acceptance of our offer by the Imperial and Colonial Governments.

*Colonial Secretary's Office,
Sydney, New South Wales,

GENTLEMEN,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th of May last, in which you tender to perform a monthly Steam Service between Sydney and Panama, and, in reply, to inform you, that the Government of this Colony is not in a position at present to treat with you on the basis of the proposals contained in your communication, inasmuch as the Act of the local Parliament, providing for the establishment of a Postal Service via Panama, contains conditions at variance with the terms submitted by you.

2. The Legislature of New South Wales having, however, during the last Session re-affirmed the expediency of organizing this service, and the general feeling of the Colony being in favor of its establishment, it is the intention of the Government to apply to Parliament, in the ensuing Session, for a new Bill, granting fuller and more general powers, by which they will be authorized to guarantee to Her Majesty's Government one half of the subsidy which may be required for the purpose.

SIR,

I have delayed replying to your Excellency's Despatch, of the 12th December ultimo, stating the views of the Government of New South Wales with relation to the general question of Steam Postal communication with Europe, until the Government of Queensland should have been organized, and there should have been time to ascertain the public feeling of this Colony on the subject.

2. I have now brought the question before my Executive Council, and shall proceed to state, in general terms, the views entertained by that body; and in which there is reason to believe that the great majority of their fellow-colonists coincide.

3. For the present, the Council are inclined to think that a bi-monthly Mail, via Ceylon and Suez, as proposed by the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and to which all the Colonies of the Australian Group should contribute, in equitable rates, is sufficient for the requirements of Queensland. At the same time, the Government of this Colony is ready to give its earnest and immediate attention, and to bring under the consideration of the Queensland Parliament any well-advised and definite proposal for co-operation in establishing additional lines of communication with Europe.

4. We find that the subject of the opening of the Panama route has been regarded with much interest in New South Wales, and that efforts have been made for some time past towards the attainment of that end; as yet, however, it would appear, without any tangible result.

5. The Council, after full inquiry and deliberation, failing to perceive that the arrangements with reference to any particular plan are so far ripe as to call for immediate action on the part of this Government, deem it sufficient to express in the terms mentioned above, their desire that this Colony should be understood as willing to lend its co-operation to any well-considered arrangements that may be submitted, calculated to improve the communication with the Mother Country, and with the British Possessions elsewhere, and tending to the general benefit of the Australian Colonies.

6. In thus recording their readiness to enter in an equitable spirit upon the consideration of any schemes which may be matured in the neighboring Colonies, the Government of Queensland are, nevertheless, of opinion that the pre-eminent advantages offered by a Mail Postal Service through Torres Straits to Singapore (where it would join the main trunk lines of India and China) must not be left out of sight.

7. Some of the more obvious merits of the plan thus shadowed forth may be summed up as follows:—

- (1.) The route by Torres Straits and Singapore would be far cheaper than any other, especially for New South Wales, Queensland, and New Zealand.
- (2.) The navigation would be over comparatively calm seas, and with moderate prevailing winds; and could be performed by a smaller class of steamers.

(3.)

- (3.) This route would open up an extensive and direct commerce with India and China, and also with the Dutch and Spanish Colonies in those seas.
- (4.) As this will be also the direction taken by the proposed Telegraphic line, the Mail Steamers could easily carry provisions and stores for the stations which it will be necessary to establish at various points; thus materially lessening the probable cost of the enterprise for all the Australian Colonies.
8. The Government of Queensland finally consider that the establishment of a Line of Mail Steamers from Australia to Singapore is only a matter of time. They deem it most probable that before the lapse of many years there will be a chain of settlements across the North-Eastern portion of the Australian Continent from Moreton Bay to the Gulf of Carpentaria, and that some point in the last-mentioned inlet will be the place of departure of both the Telegraphic Cable and the Postal Steamers.

GOVERNOR OF QUEENSLAND o GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Brisbane, Queensland,
24 July, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor herewith to transmit a copy of certain Resolutions adopted unanimously by the Parliament of Queensland, respecting the establishment of Steam Postal Communication with Europe and Asia via Torres Straits and Singapore. Both Houses of the Legislature have presented Addresses requesting me to take the necessary steps with a view to give effect to these Resolutions.

2. I beg, therefore, that you will bring the subject before your Executive Council, and favor me with as little delay as possible with the decision of the Government of New South Wales, in order that we may (if it can be so arranged) address Her Majesty's Government in concert on the whole scheme, by the August Mail.

3. The manifold advantages of the proposed route are so well known that it would be superfluous that I should enumerate them on the present occasion.

4. As a smaller class of steamers will be required for the passage by Torres Straits than is required for the passage by Cape Leuwin, the contract will probably be within the means of a Colonial Company, Sydney would naturally be the terminus of the line at the Australian end, the steamers receiving and depositing on each trip the mails and passengers for Queensland at the pilot station at the entrance of Moreton Bay. The proportion of the subsidy payable by the Mother Country and by each Colony respectively would probably be arranged on the plan hitherto followed in the Contract with the Peninsular and Oriental Company.

5. I have addressed a letter of similar purport and of even date herewith to the Governor of New Zealand.

6. It will, I think, be desirable that the Governments of New South Wales and of Queensland should agree upon a joint invitation to the Governor of New Caledonia, with a view of securing the co-operation of that settlement. The French Colony of Réunion or Bourbon contributes to the cost of Postal Communication between Mauritius and Aden.

7. It will also be well that a joint communication should be addressed to the Governor of the Dutch Settlements in the Indian Archipelago. I am informed that there is already periodical Steam Communication between Singapore, Batavia, and Copang in the Island of Timor. Consequently, it may possibly prove feasible to save a moiety of the expense of the proposed route, by transferring the Mails and Passengers from the Australian to the Dutch Steamers at Copang.

8. I trust that I shall receive an early reply, stating fully the views of the New South Wales Government on all the parts of this important scheme.

I have, &c.,
G. F. BOWEN.

[Enclosure in No. 28.]

RESOLUTIONS adopted by the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly of Queensland :—

- (1.) "That in consequence of a late arrangement under which the English Mail Steamers no longer proceed beyond Melbourne, it has become necessary to make better provision for the conveyance of Mails between this Colony and England."
- (2.) "That in the opinion of this House the route via Torres Straits and Singapore is likely to prove more expeditious and economical, and to offer greater general advantages to Queensland than any other, and for the same reasons is likely to recommend itself to New South Wales and New Zealand."
- (3.) "That this House is further of opinion that communications ought now to be entered into between the Government of Queensland and the Governments of the other Colonies named, with a view to considering the adoption of the above route and the proportion of subsidy, in the event of its adoption payable by each Colony."

No. 29.

MINUTE of the Executive Council of the 14th September, 1860.

REFERRING to previous proceedings with respect to Steam Postal Communication, His Excellency the Governor General lays before the Council a Despatch from His Excellency Sir George Bowen, transmitting a copy of certain Resolutions adopted by the Legislature of Queensland, in reference to the establishment of a line of Postal Communication with England via Torres Straits and Singapore.

Upon a perusal of this Despatch, which has been for some time past before the Members, the Council see many difficulties in the scheme sketched out by Sir George Bowen in furtherance of the resolutions of the Legislature at Brisbane; of which not the least is the fact that the arrangement is dependent in some degree upon assistance and co-operation to be derived from the Governments of the French and Dutch settlements in the Islands of New Caledonia and the Indian Archipelago; but without laying any great stress upon these, they feel disinclined upon other grounds to concur in the proposal.

The Colony of New South Wales is at present contributing largely to the subsidy for the existing line via Suez, is pledged to bear a considerable portion of the cost of a line via Panama, and contemplates binding itself to supplement that pledge to the extent of one-half of the cost; and even were it not embarrassed by these liabilities, the Council cannot but consider that until steps have been taken to render the navigation of the outer passage through Torres' Straits more secure than it now is, by the erection of lighthouses, it would be premature and imprudent to attempt to run a line of postal steamers by that route, intricate and dangerous as it is known and yearly proved to be.

For these reasons, they are unable to advise that His Excellency should hold out any hopes to Sir George Bowen that this Colony will, at all events for the present, co-operate with the Colony of Queensland in the establishment of a line of Postal Communication via Torres Straits and Singapore.

EDWARD C. MEREWETHER,
Clerk of the Council.

GOVERNOR OF QUEENSLAND to THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

*Government House, Brisbane,
Queensland, 25 September, 1860.*

SIR,

I had the honor to receive on the 23rd inst., and laid before my Executive Council on the following morning, your Excellency's despatch (with enclosure) of the 12th instant, respecting the new arrangements entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the Mails via Point de Galle and Suez.

I enclose copy of the Minute of Council, recording the decision of the Government of Queensland on this subject. In compliance with your Excellency's suggestion, I will forward by the October mail another copy of this Minute to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

[Enclosure in No. 30.]

PROCEEDINGS of the Executive Council of Queensland, on the subject of Steam Postal Communication with England, via Suez.

Extract from Minute No. 60-44, of 24th September, 1860.

PRESENT:—

His Excellency the Governor.
The Honorable the Vice-President.
The Honorable the Colonial Treasurer.

His Excellency the Governor invites the attention of the Council to a despatch from His Excellency the Governor General, dated the 12th September instant, enclosing an extract from the Proceedings of the Executive Council of New South Wales, and a copy of a Minute of the Governor General, on the subject of Steam Postal Communication with England via Suez, in which Sir William Denison comments at some length on the very large amount of subsidy now paid to the Peninsular and Oriental Company for the conveyance of the Australian Mails; being, it would seem, far in excess of the sum for which competent contractors would, in the course of a year or two, be found willing to undertake to convey the mails to and from Point de Galle. His Excellency also details, with some minuteness, the proportion of the expense that should be borne by each of the Australian Colonies, and invites the concurrence of the Government of Queensland in a series of propositions to the effect that it should be suggested to the Home Government,—

- (1.) That a contract for a short term—say not exceeding three years—should be made with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, for a monthly mail between Point de Galle and Sydney.
- (2.) That this subsidy should be divided in equal proportions between the Home Government and the Colonies.

- (3.) That the proportion to be paid by each Colony should be determined with reference to the precise amount of the benefit which such Colony derives from the main line thus subsidised.
- (4.) That the cost of the branch lines (except that of New Zealand, which has already been arranged between the Home Government and that of New Zealand,) should be divided equally between the Home Government and the Colony for whose service the branch is worked.
2. The Council are fully impressed with the paramount importance of maintaining regular postal communication with England, and feeling that an arrangement entered into with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, for the conveyance of Mails between Sydney and Point de Galle appears at the present time to offer the most reliable security for such regular communication, concur generally in the propositions recited above, and advise that His Excellency the Governor should bring them under the notice of the Secretary of State for the Colonies on an early opportunity. At the same time the Council adhere to the opinion previously expressed by them in favor of the greater advantages offered by the route via Torres Straits and Singapore, should it be found practicable at some future time to run a line of steamers by that route.

JOHN BRAMSTON,
Clerk of the Council.

MONEY LETTERS LOST IN TRANSIT BETWEEN SYDNEY AND MELBOURNE.

MEMO.—Having received the accompanying letter on Saturday last I detained it until this morning, in hopes that the Postmaster General would have, ere this, made some amende for the stigma cast upon us by the proceedings of Friday. Nothing of the kind having reached me, I now forward it, as no language I could use would convey their ideas so clearly; and feeling, as I do, that something of the kind is necessary to clear us from the unmerited suspicion cast upon us.

The Postmaster General.
27 February, 1860.

W. BUCHANAN,
Clerk in Charge of Delivery Branch.

Read.—I have elsewhere put on record my sentiments, and have only further to add that the Saturday intervening had some effect in the delay that has taken place.

*General Post Office,
Sydney, 25 February, 1860.*

Sir,

We have been, as you are aware, subjected to an extremely mortifying indignity, so much so, indeed, that we deem it to be incumbent upon us to protest in the strongest manner against its perpetration, and to require some guarantee that for the future our feelings as gentlemen may not be so terribly outraged.

The case was quite simple: A letter was received in our room, which, when inquired for, could not be found; instead of pursuing the proper course, namely, to cause an examination to be made throughout the several divisions (where the letter would have been quickly discovered, as it subsequently was), a detective officer was employed and instructed to scrutinize our persons and our homes—thus tarnishing our characters, and leaving it in the power of any one cognizant of the fact, and so inclined, to cast this stigma in our teeth, and taunt us at any time hereafter as having submitted to an ignominious search.

Viewing the matter, then, in this light we think that we do not demand too much when we say, that a written apology should be at once made, together with a declaration exonerating us from all blame in the matter, and confessing that we have been altogether unnecessarily and most grossly insulted.

We have, &c.,
B. C. BRADSHAW.
C. H. ATKINSON.
T. H. STONE.
SYDNEY G. CHESTER.

W. BUCHANAN, Esq.

I hope the personal interview with me, and the entry made by me this day in the Minute Book, will, to some extent, satisfy the officers of the delivery branch as to my feelings with regard to this matter.

27.

Postmaster General's Minute.

THE Postmaster General, adverting to proceedings that have lately taken place with reference to the officers of the delivery branch, has to express his extreme regret that those officers have had their feelings wounded in a matter as to which they were entirely innocent. The Postmaster General did what he conceived to be his very painful duty, and, in tendering the regret he feels, begs to assure those officers that the steps taken by him were taken solely with the view of protecting, as he deemed, the public interests, and, that whilst he bitterly deplores the errors that led to such steps, has to express his extreme pleasure and pride, that, up to this period, no officer, either in the delivery branch or the department generally, is in any way implicated in the fraudulent proceedings that have lately caused so much anxiety.

27 February, 1860.

SUPERINTENDENT, LETTER BRANCH, to POSTMASTER GENERAL.

*Letter Branch,
27 February, 1860.*

SIR,

It is to be regretted that greater care was not used by the parties having charge of the case, which, I regret, placed (5) five gentlemen in a most ignominious position, and I must say I deeply sympathize with them; therefore, as some garbled statements have gone abroad, I respectfully beg the Postmaster General will be good enough to make the whole matter public, in order to alleviate their wounded feelings.

I have, &c.,
R. A. HUNT,
Superintendent.

I do not agree with the superintendent, letter branch, that publicity in this case is at all desirable. Any suggestion from the superintendent, prior to steps being taken, would have been attended to by me; and, if he could have proposed any plan to save me a painful duty, I should have been glad to have adopted it.

As it is, I feel thankful that, up to this time, the New South Wales Post Office Department has stood the test, and sincerely trust the real depredator may be discovered.

THE

MONEY LETTERS LOST IN TRANSIT BETWEEN SYDNEY & MELBOURNE. 3

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL,

Having observed the publication in one of the daily journals of a statement relative to certain measures taken by the Postmaster General respecting a supposed abstraction of a money letter from the General Post Office, I should be glad if the Postmaster General will forward me a full report of all the circumstances connected with the case.

28 July, 1860.

E. C. W.

MEMO.—With reference to the second paragraph, the Postmaster General is perfectly aware that I knew nothing about the trapping, neither was it intended I should; even the memo. inquiring about the missing letter was not sent through me, but direct to the delivery room, in order that I should be kept in the dark as long as possible. Until called up by the Postmaster General, and upon entering that gentleman's room the first word I heard was, "Mr. Hunt there is a thief in the delivery room; a letter containing a ten pound note has been stolen; I shall have them searched, beginning with Mr. Euchawan." I was so paralyzed that I could not speak for some minutes; as to making suggestions it was out of the question. However, I have been informed that Major Christie acted contrary to the express wishes of those who have his confidence, therefore, it is unlikely any suggestions emanating from me would be of any service. I join with Major Christie in congratulating the officers of this branch from their providential escape, and it only shews me another instance of the danger of circumstantial evidence.

29 February, 1860.

R. A. H.,
Superintendent.

Read.—It is perfectly true that previous to the loss of the letter having been, as was deemed, substantiated, I did not consult the superintendent. The other statements I deny, or rather wish to state, that my impression of the conversation with Mr. Hunt, &c., is very different to this.—29th.
Seen.—R. A. HUNT, 1 March, 1860.

POSTMASTER GENERAL to UNDER SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY.

General Post Office,
Sydney, 8 August, 1860.

SIR,

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of a Minute from the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer, dated 28th ultimo, having reference to a statement published in one of the daily journals, and in obedience thereto have the honor to make a full report of the circumstances connected with the supposed abstraction of a money letter from the General Post Office, and the steps taken by me in the matter.

2. I append a return of unregistered money letters that ought to have passed between Sydney and Melbourne, which are stated to be missing, such return comprising letters posted from 1st October, 1859—when systematic depredations commenced—and 30th June, 1860 (three quarters), premising that the thefts in question were all brought under notice by the parties aggrieved, and that the Postal authorities of New South Wales and Victoria were, in consequence, not cognizant of them till some period after the transmission of the letters.

3. An examination of this return will shew that twenty-seven letters were abstracted during a period of little more than four months, prior to active steps being taken, whilst in the succeeding four months (I may say five, seeing that no complaints have come in during July) one case only has been reported.

4. On the 11th February the many inquiries from Melbourne for missing letters had made me so extremely anxious that I thought it my duty to communicate specially with the Secretary of the Melbourne Post Office, on the subject. My letter, covering the copy of one forwarded by me to Mr. Charles Poole, together with the Secretary's reply, I attach. I may remark, that with the exception of the Sydney letter, posted on 1st October, 1859, I had at this time received no complaints whatever as to money letters, originally posted in Sydney, not having reached their destination.

5. I duly brought under the notice of the then Colonial Treasurer the abstractions that had occurred, and my anxiety on the subject, and was by him instructed to place myself in communication with the Inspector General of Police, and to afford that officer every information in my power, which I accordingly did.

6. The Secretary of the Melbourne Post Office agreeing with me that some immediate steps should be taken to discover the offender, proceedings were at once adopted with that view, the mode of operation being, the transmission from both offices of trial letters, containing money. As these proceedings did not lead to the detection of the offender it is only necessary for me to allude to the particular case on which I am called on to report.

7. On the 20th February last I received a telegram from the Melbourne Post Office (which telegram I now append), and after due consideration I decided that the letters alluded to therein should be watched in their progress through the office by Mr. Francis Hill, the best clerk I have in the letter branch, and that to no other individual, except the Secretary, would I at that stage confide the matter. In the selection of Mr. Hill, I was greatly guided by the fact that he is the only officer in the department who is in the habit of assisting on emergencies in both the ship and delivery branches, and therefore was the only officer who could note the letters without suspicion being awakened.

8. On the morning of the 24th February I was startled by an intimation from the Secretary that Mr. Hill had found two of the trial letters absent from the pigeon-holes in which which they should have been. I had previously been informed by the latter officer that the three letters had arrived by the steamer in due course, and had passed safely from the ship to the delivery room. The Secretary, by my instructions, sent a written memo. for the two missing letters, and procured one addressed to Mr. Rinkson, that addressed to Mr. George being reported as not to be found.

9. From the fact that the first letter of the surname as given in the telegram was more like P than R, the Secretary had made application to the clerk in charge of the delivery room (Mr. Buchanan) for a letter addressed to Pinkson. A letter, however, addressed to Rinkson was brought up from one of the "R" pigeon-holes, and was the letter required. Had the letter addressed to McGeorge, which was afterwards found in one of the pigeon-holes of the same division, in the delivery-room, been then brought to light, much subsequent annoyance would have been spared.

10. A discussion then ensued, and I came to the same conclusion as the Secretary, which was that the letter had been abstracted. I came to such conclusion because I did not distrust the telegram, and because I thought it extremely improbable that, even if wrongly delivered, one of the clerks of the delivery branch could not have recollected it, which none of them did, although the letter was peculiarly addressed, as may be seen by the telegram, the envelope having had "Registered" written on it, the word being afterwards scored through with red ink.

11. I now proceeded to the office of the Inspector General of Police, and asked his advice as to the course to be pursued. Having obtained that advice, I proceeded to adopt it to the full extent, and to go through the very painful duty which the interests of the public appeared to demand at my hands.

12. Upon ascertaining that the detective officer was in attendance, I sent for the superintendent of the letter branch, and explained to him what had occurred. That gentleman did not seem to me at all paralyzed, as stated in his minute of 29th February; and not only did not suggest that an error might have occurred, or that further search was necessary, but I can state most emphatically that he appeared as much impressed as the Secretary or myself with the belief that a robbery had been committed, and confidentially discussed with me the probabilities as to the dishonest individual; nor was it till the letter addressed to Mr. McGeorge was found, and it was ascertained that there was an error in the telegram, which error had escaped the observation of Mr. Hill, that the superintendent, so far as I am aware, gave utterance to any opinion as to the measures that had been taken not being the correct ones.

13. When the clerks were searched, I informed them, which was the conviction on my mind, that I feared there was a thief in the delivery room; that to the honest clerks no ignominy could attach from the search that became necessary; and that if the guilty party were discovered the public and the department must be the gainers. I further informed them that if they deemed it would lessen the indignity, Mr. Harrison should first of all turn my pockets inside out.

14. I perfectly recollect that the detective officer was desirous that he should see all the clerks in the delivery room in the first place, and then decide on the parties he would search. I thought then as I think now that such a course would not have been right, and that the fairest way was to make the search general and not partial, commencing with the senior clerk, which is the course I pursued.

15. In the afternoon the letter was discovered, and the error in the telegram made manifest, and on the following day (Saturday, 25th February) I received from the clerks of the delivery room their published letter calling on me for "a written apology." I felt that great allowances should be made for their wounded feelings; but I could not apologize for doing what I deemed my duty. On the following Monday, the 27th February, I not only placed in the Postmaster General's minute book my record of the extreme regret I felt at the whole occurrence, but after explaining the error of the telegram, expressed that regret orally in still stronger terms.

16. At the urgent request of the clerks, I did, in the first instance, consent to detail in writing to the Colonial Treasurer all the facts of the case; but, subsequently, the clerks unanimously agreed to the adoption of what I considered a more judicious course, viz., to accept my promise that so soon as the guilty party was discovered they should be exonerated to the full extent of their wishes, and my regret made known. This was the clear understanding on both sides, and was acted on.

17. I did not fail, however, to report the whole of the facts of the case verbally to the late Colonial Treasurer; and to bring them under the notice of the present Colonial Treasurer on his accession to office.

18. In the appendix will be found the statement of the Inspector General of Police, together with an enclosure from Mr. Harrison, as also the statements of Messrs. Abbott and Hill.

19. With reference, in this case, to the unauthorized publication of official correspondence, and its injurious effect as shaking the confidence of the public in the Post Office department, I consider such publication perfectly unjustifiable. If the practice were generally followed the authority of every head of a department would be impaired and the discipline and efficiency of every branch of the public service destroyed.

20. I have obtained from each officer of this department, who had access to the papers that were published, his distinct denial that he was privy to such publication, but I cannot withhold my conviction, that in some quarter or other official confidence has been grossly violated.

I have, &c.,
W. H. CHRISTIE.

INSPECTOR GENERAL OF POLICE to POSTMASTER GENERAL, SYDNEY.

Office of Inspector General of Police,
Sydney, 31 July, 1860.

SIR,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 28th instant, having reference to the unauthorized publication of some official papers of the Post Office Department, connected with the abstraction of money letters passing between Sydney and Melbourne, and requesting that I would furnish you with my impression of the facts, so far as the police were concerned, I have the honor to state, that in this particular case, I was directed by the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer to place myself in communication with you, with a view to the adoption of some means to detect, if possible, the persons employed either in the Melbourne or Sydney Post Offices, by whom letters containing money had, for some time back, been stolen in transitu.

2. In compliance with the Treasurer's instructions, I called at your office, and had shewn to me by yourself the correspondence that had taken place between the Post Office authorities of Victoria and this Colony, respecting the abstraction of money from letters, and the stealing of money letters that had been for some time carried on; and, throughout this correspondence, the Secretary of the Post Office at Melbourne appeared to assume very positively that these thefts took place in Sydney, not Melbourne; while you at the same time expressed to me your belief, from the confidence you had in the persons employed under you in the Sydney Post Office, that they were just as likely to have taken place at Melbourne as at Sydney.

6 MONEY LETTERS LOST IN TRANSIT BETWEEN SYDNEY & MELBOURNE.

3. In order that this point might be cleared up, I suggested that certain letters, containing money and other enclosures, might be sent by post to Melbourne, advising the Secretary, by telegram, of the contents of each, and the person to whom addressed; and if duly delivered at Melbourne, that the same money and enclosures should be returned by him to Sydney, and intimation sent to you, by telegram, of the contents and address of each. This telegram was shewn to me as soon as received by you, and one of the letters containing a ten pound note, was stated to be addressed to Mr. George. After the arrival of that mail you called at my office, and informed me that you had ascertained with great regret, that the letter addressed to Mr. George, and containing the ten pound note, had been stolen after the delivery of the mail in Sydney Post Office, as it had neither been delivered, nor was forthcoming when asked for in the delivery room, and requesting my advice and assistance in the matter. As there appeared so little doubt to both of us, of the letter having been stolen in the delivery room, I suggested to you the steps you subsequently adopted for the discovery of the supposed thief, and directed Inspector Harrison, of the detective police (whose report I herewith enclose) to give you his assistance.

I have, &c.,
J. M'LERIE.

[Enclosure.]

Detective Police Office,
Sydney, 30 July, 1860.

Sir,

I have the honor to furnish the following particulars of the steps taken by me relative to the alleged missing letter at the Sydney Post Office.

About noon on the 21th February last I was ordered by you to proceed to the Post Office and communicate with Major Christie, as a letter from Melbourne, containing money, was missing; I did so, and had some conversation with the Postmaster General, in Mr. Hunt's presence, relative to the best course to pursue.

Major Christie said that he would have all the clerks, from the delivery branch up to his private room, one by one, and that I should search their persons; after which, should the letter not be found, Mr. Hunt would accompany me to their place of residence and make search there.

He said that I had better begin with Mr. Buchanan, whom he sent for, to which I raised some objection, asking him whether he had any suspicion against Mr. Buchanan more than any of the others; he said no, he had not, but that in this case he would make no distinction, nor shew any favor to any one. I suggested that if he would call the clerks up I might be able to detect the guilty person, should he be among them, or at any rate form an opinion with regard to whom we should begin with, in order to save the others, who were innocent, the pain of being searched.

Major Christie still adhered to his previous determination of beginning with Mr. Buchanan first. I did so, and then searched the others. Not finding the missing letter Major Christie suggested that I should proceed to the residence of Mr. Buchanan, when, from the fact of Mr. Hunt saying that Mr. Buchanan resided a considerable distance away—I believe at the Glebe—too long a time would elapse before we got back. Some conversation then took place between Mr. Hunt and myself relative to the clerks in the department, when, from certain remarks made by Mr. Hunt, of a private nature, regarding Mr. Chester, and Mr. Chester's manner at the time, it was agreed we should go to the residence of Mr. Chester first, and as Mr. Ston's residence was in Hunt's street, and on the road to Mr. Chester's, we called there, and I searched his room without success. On my return to the Post Office from Mr. Chester's house, I informed Major Christie that the missing letter was not found, and asked him whether the delivery department had been searched; I forgot his answer, but I believe, in the negative; I then searched the desks, coats, &c., of the clerks in the delivery branch, when Mr. Hill, who was searching the pigeon-holes, produced the letter, which was addressed "McGeorge, —."

During the whole of the foregoing proceedings, having received no instructions from you, I acted entirely under the orders of Major Christie.

I have, &c.,
CHS. E. HARRISON,
Inspector, Detective Police.

JOHN M'LERIE, ESQ.,
Inspector General of Police, Sydney.

MEMO.—In compliance with your request, I now beg to furnish you with my recollections of the proceedings that occurred with reference to the search for a missing money letter, received from Melbourne, addressed to Mr. George.

On receipt of the telegram from the Secretary to the Post Office, Melbourne, informing you that he would forward by the mail of the "City of Sydney" three "trial" letters, which included the letter referred to, you directed Mr. Hill to be in attendance on the arrival of that vessel, and report whether such letters duly arrived. Mr. Hill attended accordingly, and reported that such letters had been duly received.

Sufficient time to admit of their delivery was then allowed to elapse, and Mr. Hill was again directed to ascertain, in such a manner as not to excite the suspicions of the clerks of the delivery office, whether the letters in question were in that office or not. He reported that one addressed to Miss Mary Barnton was there, but that the other two were not there. I then sent a memo. to Mr. Buchanan, the senior clerk of that office, inquiring whether there was a letter for Mr. George, Post Office, and for Mr. H. Pinkson, Post Office; to which he replied that "there does not appear to be any for George, nor yet for Pinkson, unless the accompanying is one." The latter was addressed Pinkson, and was one of those inquired for, of which I informed Mr. Buchanan, and at the same time asked whether he was certain there was no letter for George, and directed further search to be made. After considerable delay he replied, "I can find no trace of any such letter." Upon receipt of this reply, you determined that decided steps should be taken to ascertain what had become of the missing letter, and to that end placed yourself in communication with the Inspector General of Police.

Subsequently a member of the detective police attended, and the delivery office was placed in charge of Mr. Dillon, a clerk belonging to my office.

The missing letter was, however, afterwards discovered by Mr. Hill sorted into compartment M, the address being McGeorge, and not George, as stated in telegram; and to this error the whole of the disagreeable proceedings connected with the subject are attributable.

MONEY LETTERS LOST IN TRANSIT BETWEEN SYDNEY & MELBOURNE. 7

I may point out that in inquiring for a letter for Pinkson instead of Rinkson, the mistake was occasioned through the similarity of the letter R to P in the telegram.

With regard to my impression as to the missing letter, I considered a theft had been committed, and that very decided steps should be taken to detect the guilty person.

MEMO.—In compliance with your desire, I beg to express to you the circumstances connected with the supposed loss of a money letter from Melbourne, addressed, "Mr. George, Post Office, Sydney," so far as my recollection serves me.

Having copied from a private telegram, addressed to the Postmaster General, the addresses of certain letters which had been posted in Melbourne and forwarded to this office per "City of Sydney," I ascertained upon the arrival of that vessel's mail that the letters had been duly received and had passed from the Foreign letter office to the delivery branch. The following day I was requested to see if they had been sorted away, when I found that I could not trace two of them; but upon further examination one was found. I left the office at my usual time (11 o'clock), and on my return I was placed in charge of the delivery office, and having suggested that all the divisions should be examined, the missing letter was discovered, which was addressed to McGeorge and not George. Upon the receipt of the mail I did not discover that the address of this letter was McGeorge and not George, as stated in the telegram.

The Postmaster General.

F. W. HILL.

In answer to the Postmaster General's present inquiry, as to what I thought had become of the missing letter, my impression at the time was that it had either been delivered or made away with, and as the address was a fictitious one, I was inclined to think the latter.

F. W. HILL.

POSTMASTER GENERAL, SYDNEY, to SECRETARY, GENERAL POST OFFICE, MELBOURNE.

(Confidential.)

General Post Office,

Sydney, 11 February, 1860.

SIR,

I beg to enclose you a return of a number of letters addressed from Victoria to Sydney, containing enclosures that have never arrived; as also the copy of a letter, addressed by me to Mr. Charles Poole, one of the complainants, on the subject.

2. I intended to have written you more fully, but I have not been able to get the return finished until to-day, and am extremely anxious to communicate with you at once.

3. I am well aware that no Post Office is infallible, and that a thief might be in this department as well as in Melbourne; but you will see, from my letter to Mr. Poole, why I believe the abstractions do not occur here.

4. It is however manifest, that any trap to detect the offender, must proceed from Melbourne; and I have, therefore, to express a hope that you will devise a scheme for the detection of these wholesale robberies, and to assure you, that on your communicating to me any such scheme, I will gladly assist in every way to its success.

I have, &c.,

W. H. CHRISTIE.

POSTMASTER GENERAL, SYDNEY, to C. POOLE, ESQ., MELBOURNE.

General Post Office,

Sydney, 11 February, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated 31st ultimo, and have to assure you that the abstraction from letters arriving from Victoria that have taken place within the last three or four months, have given me the greatest anxiety; and before I received your letter, I had directed a return to be prepared for the Postmaster General of Victoria, of the abstractions in question, with the view of devising some scheme for protecting the public.

2. I do not arrive at the same conclusion as you do as to these abstractions taking place in Sydney, and beg to give my reasons, although I can hardly think you will consider some of them so conclusive as I do:—

1st—All the abstractions take place in letters from Victoria, although all the letters to Victoria, go through precisely the same hands in the Sydney Post Office.

2nd—At the present time I have not the slightest suspicion against any person engaged in the ship branch, every officer of which was so engaged long before these abstractions commenced.

3rd.

8. MONEY LETTERS LOST IN TRANSIT BETWEEN SYDNEY & MELBOURNE.

- 3rd—It would be more convenient and, as you state, more profitable, and less liable to detection, for parties in the Sydney Post Office to steal remittances containing New South Wales bank notes, than those containing Victorian ones ; and
- 4th—One of the senior clerks in this department, was in the ship branch when a Melbourne mail was opened, and a letter to himself was handed to him by the clerk opening the bag, which letter announced the transmission, at the same time, of some gold nuggets, in a separate parcel, from his brother. The bag was at once examined for these nuggets, from Tarrangower, but although they were duly posted, as afterwards ascertained, they never arrived.
- 5th—The circumstance alluded to by you, that the perusal of one letter has led to the abstraction of another, rather points to the place of posting as the place of abstraction. A mail, on arrival, is at once sorted and delivered, and no one clerk, at such a time, could have an opportunity to select and steal letters.
- 6th—I attach no importance to the fact that your letters sent inland from Melbourne, have not been tampered with, as it is probable that, as in Sydney Post Office, the inland letters would go through entirely different hands from the ship letters.
3. I have only to add that nothing shall be left undone on my part to stop this system of fraud.

I have, &c.,
W. H. CHRISTIE.

WILLIAM TURNER, ESQ., to POSTMASTER GENERAL, SYDNEY.

(Confidential.)

General Post Office,
Melbourne, 16 February, 1860.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 11th instant, with its enclosures, on the subject of the numerous cases that have lately occurred of stealing money letters passing or intended to pass between the Sydney and Melbourne Post Offices.

My attention has been seriously occupied in endeavouring to ascertain whether thefts have been committed in this office, but up to this time nothing has transpired that would lead me to suppose that such has been the case. I shall, however, be quite willing further to test the matter, and, in order to do so, will give such directions as will lead to a letter containing money being posted in time for despatch by the steamer "City of Sydney," leaving this port next after the "Wonga Wonga," which sails to-day.

This letter shall be addressed to some person in Sydney, and its progress shall be closely watched, so that it can be proved that it is actually despatched in the mail, if it be not stopped in any of the departments of this office. I will then address a telegram to you, marked "private," giving you full information respecting the letter, in order that you may take such steps as you may deem necessary to forward the common object we have in view.

It is well that I should point out to you, with reference to the statement made in your letter to Mr. Poole (copy of which was forwarded to me in your communication under reply), that there appears to have been some misapprehension in your department, as some of the abstractions or thefts have taken place in reference to letters posted in Sydney.

As, however, the object of this communication is not to speculate upon probabilities, but to endeavour, if possible, to arrive at facts, I shall not now pursue the subject beyond suggesting that, if some such proceedings as are about to be taken here were also initiated in your office, it might possibly lead to a solution of the question, which, there can be no doubt, has, for some time past, been the occasion of great uneasiness to both departments concerned.

I have, &c.,
WILLIAM TURNER.

(ORDERS AND REGULATIONS CONCERNING.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 25 September, 1860.

THE accompanying Copy of the Orders and Regulations concerning the Public Abattoirs at Glebe Island, made by His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, is laid upon the Table of the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, in terms of the Act of Council, 14 Victoria, No. 36.

ABATTOIRS AT GLEBE ISLAND.

ORDERS and Regulations concerning the Public Abattoirs at Glebe Island, made by His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of the Executive Council, under the Act of Council, 14 Victoria, No. 36.

*Department of Public Works,
Sydney, 22 August, 1860.*

1. The lease of each slaughter-house shall be put up for sale by public auction, annually, at an upset price of £150 per annum for each beef slaughter-house, and £100 per annum for each mutton slaughter-house.
2. The first sale shall take place on the 27th instant, and the lease then sold shall commence on the 1st day of October next, and terminate on the 31st day of December, 1861.
3. Leases of the slaughter-houses numbered 1, 2, (beef), and 13, 14, (mutton), respectively, shall not be sold by public auction; but the said slaughter-houses shall be retained in the hands of the Government, for the use of persons desirous of slaughtering therein.
4. Parties desirous of using the slaughter-houses referred to in paragraph 3 shall be permitted to do so, in order of priority of application to the Inspector of Abattoirs, or the Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs, and on payment of the following fees:—

	s.	d.
For every ox, cow, bull, heifer, steer, or calf, (in addition to an inspecting fee of 3d.)	1	6
For every sheep or lamb	0	4
For every head of swine	1	0
5. No person or persons shall slaughter or attempt to slaughter in the houses referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 without the sanction of the Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs.
6. No fees whatever shall be paid by parties holding leases of slaughter-houses, except an inspecting fee of 3d. for each head of horned cattle slaughtered.
7. All fees shall be paid to the Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs, on demand, who shall pay the same into the Colonial Treasury, under such directions as he or they shall from time to time receive from the Secretary for Public Works.
8. Printed receipts shall be demanded by, and given to, all parties paying any fees.
9. The Secretary for Public Works may in his discretion allot to any person or persons holding the lease of a slaughter-house, the use, during such lease, of an allotment of ground upon Glebe Island, for the purposes of a piggery and stable, with or without rent, as he may determine.
10. All horned cattle shall be driven in and yarded before 8 A.M.
11. No person shall take into any slaughter-house animals which have died of disease, or shall refuse or neglect, when ordered by the Inspector of Abattoirs, to remove and destroy at once diseased cattle, or shall slaughter for food diseased cattle, or expose for sale diseased meat.
12. No hide of horned cattle, if slaughtered without previous inspection by the Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs, or spleen of horned cattle, or carcase of any animal, whether inspected before slaughter or not, shall be removed from any slaughter-house, until after inspection by the Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs.
13. All blood, filth, and offal shall be removed; and each slaughter-house shall be thoroughly cleansed, to the satisfaction of the Inspector of Abattoirs, daily, before 8 P.M.

14. The premises attached to, and the roadways in front and rear of, each slaughter-house must be kept clean by the lessee of each slaughter-house, to the satisfaction of the Inspector of Abattoirs.

15. No meat shall be blown in any slaughter-house, and if any meat be found blown in any slaughter-house, the lessee of such house, or the owner of such meat, if the house be not leased, shall be held to be the person liable.

16. No wines, malt, or spirituous liquors shall be brought upon Glebe Island.

17. No cattle, sheep, pig, or other animal shall be slaughtered, nor shall any meat be exposed for sale, between midnight of Saturday and midnight of Sunday.

18. The lease of the tank, to contain the blood of the slaughtered animals and the washings of the slaughter-houses, shall also be sold annually by public auction. The first sale shall be on the 27th instant, and the lease shall commence on the 1st October next, and terminate on the 31st December, 1861.

19. The lessee shall remove the contents of the tank once in every twenty-four hours, and if taken off the Island the contents must be removed in covered carts or covered casks.

20. The lessee shall also keep clean the roadway in front of, over, and immediately around the tank, to the satisfaction of the Inspector of Abattoirs.

21. The Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Abattoirs may enter the slaughter-houses or premises attached thereto, and may examine the tank, whenever either he or they may think fit; and no person shall obstruct, delay, or hinder his or their so doing, or shall otherwise obstruct, delay, or hinder him or them in the execution of their duty.

22. Any person or persons offending against any of the orders and regulations contained in paragraphs 5, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 20, and 21, shall for each and every offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds. £5.
