Question asked in the Legislative Council, 6 August, 1891.

- (4.) HORSE BAZAAR, CONDUCTED BY MESSRS. BROWN BROTHERS :—MR. HOSKINS having, pursuant to Notice, asked the VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL,—
- (1.) Have the Government purchased, or agreed to purchase, the lands, stables, and buildings recently represented to have been a horse bazaar, conducted by Messrs. Brown Brothers, Castlereagh-street, Sydney.
 - (2.) Is the land on which the said buildings are erected freehold or leasehold ; if leasehold, for how many years has the lease to run ?
 - (3.) If the Government have determined to purchase the aforesaid land and buildings, what is the price to be paid for the same, and what purpose will they be put to ?

MR. W. H. SUTTOR replied,—The Government have intimated their willingness to purchase the lease (twelve years' currency) of the premises referred to for the sum of £6,000, the ground rent being £650 per annum. It is intended, when the conveyance of the property has been completed by the Crown Solicitor, to utilise the premises as stables, &c., for post and telegraph horses and stores.

Referring to the matter of Messrs. Brown and Holmes's premises, I am directed by the Postmaster-General to state that as the matter has been in abeyance for nearly twelve months, Mr. O'Connor would like to know whether you consider that any blame is fairly attributable to the vendors for this long delay in completing the transaction, as, if so, it would seem right that some deduction from the purchase money should be made.

Mr. O'Connor will be glad of an early reply.

Sir,

Crown Solicitor's Office, Sydney, 20 August, 1891.

I have the honor to return your letter of 19th instant, respecting purchase of Brown and Holmes' premises, and in reply to state that the present contract was not addressed to this Department until 15th April last. Since that time I cannot say that there has been any blame fairly attributable to the vendors. The delay has been solely caused by the state of the title, and the existence of so many charges, judgments, and encumbrances affecting the same.

In my opinion no deduction can be made from the purchase money on account of the delay in completion.

I have, &c.,

MESSRS. BROWN BROTHERS' LEASEHOLD PROPERTY,
CASTLEREAGH-STREET.

(FURTHER CORRESPONDENCE RESPECTING.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 30th September, 1891.

The Manager of the English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered Bank to The Colonial Secretary.

English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered Bank,
Sydney, 24 September, 1891.

Brown Bros. & Co. to The Queen.

Dear Sir,

In connection with this matter I beg to call your attention to the following facts:—

On the 17th November, 1884, a lease was granted to Messrs. Brown Bros. & Co. of the premises in Castlereagh-street which they now occupy, known as Brown Bros. & Co.'s Horse Bazaar, for the term of eighteen years from 13th October, 1884, at a rental of £650 per annum, and the lessees therein covenanted to expend the sum of £4,000 within twelve months from the date of the lease in making alterations and improvements in the buildings. This lease was on 17th April, 1885, mortgaged by the lessees to the bank to secure the account current of Brown Bros. & Co. Subsequently the lessors agreed with the lessees to grant to them an extension of four years at an increased rent, on payment of a bonus, but no lease for such extension was executed by the lessors. In September, 1890, the lessees offered the said premises to the Government for the unexpired term of the said lease, namely, twelve years and the four years' extension; and on the 24th November, 1890, the Secretary of the General Post Office accepted such offer, the purchase money being £7,000, and the abstract of the vendors' title was delivered to the Crown Solicitor. Objection, however, was taken to the title on the ground that the lessors, being trustees, had no power to grant the extension of four years. The property was then offered to the Government for the twelve years for which a good title could be shown, and on 4th April, 1891, the Secretary of the General Post Office wrote Messrs. Brown Bros. to the effect that the Government were willing to purchase the lease for the sum of £6,000, it being understood that the lease had a currency of twelve years from 13th October last, and that the ground rent was £650 per annum, payable quarterly.

Since then the title has been fully investigated, and all requisitions thereon have been complied with; but the Crown Solicitor refuses to complete, on the ground that he has had notice that one of the vendors has committed an act of bankruptcy, and on 22nd inst., the solicitors for the bank wrote to the Postmaster-General suggesting that this difficulty could be got over and the matter settled without any delay by the Crown entering into a contract direct with the bank as exercising their power of sale.

I wish to point out the loss sustained by the bank in consequence of the delay in completing this matter, as ever since September, 1890, they have held their hands and refrained from realising their security in anticipation that the sale would be completed. They have, therefore, not only lost interest on the amount of the purchase money, but have lost the rents of the property, and, through the inability of Messrs. Brown Bros. & Co. to do so, have had to pay the ground rent on the property, in order to protect their security.

I shall therefore be glad if you will take these facts into consideration and accept the offer made by the bank, so that the sale can be completed without delay.

I may mention that if the sale from the bank be accepted it can be arranged to give immediate possession of the premises to the Crown.

I am, &c.,

FLETCHER DIXON,
Manager.

(THAT HIS REPUTATION HAS BEEN SULLIED AND PROSPECTS BLIGHTED THROUGH IMPRISONMENT; AND PRAYING FOR AN INVESTIGATION WITH A VIEW TO REDRESS.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 14 October, 1891.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Legislative Assembly in Parliament assembled.
The humble Petition of William Burchett, pressman,—

MOST RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH:—

1. That your humble Petitioner has had his mind deranged by having been arrested twice on suspicion, first at Bingera then at Tamworth.
2. That your humble Petitioner can find no employment on account of the odium naturally attached to one who has been both an inmate of a gaol and an asylum.
3. That your humble Petitioner's property was lost while he was in the hands of the police, consisting of wearing apparel, mining tools, firearms, tent, &c.
4. That your humble Petitioner was subjected to the unnecessary indignity of wearing leg-irons, and that his reputation has been sullied, his prospects blighted, by the action of the police.

Your humble Petitioner, therefore, most earnestly prays for an investigation into his case, with a view to his being allowed some redress for the great wrong he has suffered.

And your humble Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

CLAIM TO LAND AT DARLING HARBOUR.

(PETITION FROM ASHER AUSTRALIA DAY, ONE OF THE SURVIVING TRUSTEES OF THE WILL OF THOMAS DAY, FORMERLY OF PYRMONT.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 31 March, 1892.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Jane Day, Asher Australia Day, and James Antrobus, the surviving Trustees of the will of Thomas Day, formerly of Pyrmont, near Sydney, in the Colony aforesaid,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

1. That your Petitioners are the Trustees of the estate of the late Thomas Day.
2. That the said Thomas Day was in possession of a certain portion of land on the eastern side of what is now Sussex-street, previously to the year 1836, and that such portion of land then extended to the waters of Darling Harbour.
3. That in the year 1836, when the Government proposed to continue Sussex-street in such a way as to deprive the land occupied by the said Thomas Day of its frontage to Darling Harbour, the said Thomas Day presented a memorial to the Government, soliciting that he might not be deprived of this advantage, and further that he might be permitted to carry out a wharf into deep water.
4. That in 1836 the then Colonial Secretary wrote to the said Thomas Day, in reply to the said memorial, stating that His Excellency the Governor had been pleased to order that the access which he the said Thomas Day then had should be secured to him, and that he might extend his wharf to deep water.
5. That in 1839 a grant was issued to the said Thomas Day of the land mentioned in paragraph 2 of this petition, which was described as "bounded on the west by the high-water mark of Darling Harbour," and the Government notice referred to in the said grant shows that quit-rent was payable by the said Thomas Day, on the said land, from 1st July, 1823.
6. That sometime between 1836 and 1848 the Government carried out the extension of Sussex-street and in so doing filled in and reclaimed a small strip of land between the western boundary of the said Thomas Day's land and Sussex-street, by which action the said Thomas Day was deprived of his frontage to the waters of Darling Harbour which the grant of 1839 had given to him.
7. That sometime between 1836 and 1862 the said Thomas Day, relying on the order of the Governor, made in 1836, that the said Thomas Day should have secured to him the access which he then had, built a retaining wall and reclaimed a considerable portion of the foreshores of Darling Harbour to the west of Sussex-street, and on the 12th May, 1862, applied to the Secretary for Lands for permission to erect a wharf fronting his land in Darling Harbour.
8. That on 12th March, 1863, the Secretary for Lands sent the following reply :—"With reference to your letter of May 12th last, applying for permission to reclaim certain land below high-water mark, and in front of your premises in Darling Harbour, as shown in a plan accompanying your application, I am directed by the Minister for Lands to inform you that there will be no objection to the erection of the wharf on piles in front of your property; but the Government cannot under the existing state of the law negotiate for the sale of land so reclaimed. 2. The erection of the wharf in question must not interfere with the outlet of the sewer adjoining. 3. I am to add that this permission must be considered as only of a temporary nature, and (should Parliament refuse to authorise a modification of the law so as to meet this and similar cases) to be limited to one year," thereby recognising his right to the land having frontage to the water, for, though the Court could not recognise this—there being no evidence that the Crown knew the said Thomas Day had reclaimed the land—yet as a matter of fact the Crown, by its Officers, must have known it, and after the lapse of time which has taken place, and the deaths of witnesses, your Petitioners are unable to prove their knowledge.
9. That a jetty was erected by the said Thomas Day according to the plan.
10. That access to the water being of little or no value without such buildings as are usually erected at the waterside, the said Thomas Day erected various buildings at considerable cost on the land reclaimed by him.

11. That in the year 1868 the said Thomas Day died, having by his will appointed your Petitioners his trustees and executors, and that in 1883 your Petitioners, as such trustees and executors, applied, under the "Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861," for permission to purchase the reclaimed land, producing in support of their application the letter of March 16, 1836.

12. That the application was investigated and the amount of purchase-money appraised, and your Petitioners were required to show their title to the land in virtue of which the application was made.

13. That your Petitioners could show no title to the strip of land between the land granted to the said Thomas Day and Sussex-street, this strip having been reclaimed by the Government, although the grant of 1839 had bounded the land of the said Thomas Day on the western side by the high-water mark of Darling Harbour.

14. That because your Petitioners could not show any title to the said strip of land the application to purchase the reclaimed land was refused, and in May, 1891, the Attorney-General filed an information of intrusion, claiming possession of this reclaimed land on behalf of the Crown.

15. That your Petitioners thereupon filed their statement of claim against the Minister for Lands as nominal defendant, praying for a declaration of the Court that by virtue of the letter of 16th March, 1836, and the circumstances stated in the claim, the said Thomas Day became entitled to a grant in fee of the reclaimed land; or to a grant of a right of access to the water on the west side of Sussex-street, and to the use of the wharf attached to the reclaimed land by way of easement; or for a declaration that the Government is not entitled to dispossess the plaintiff without compensation, and for an injunction to restrain the Attorney-General from further prosecuting the action at law against the plaintiffs; but the Court of Equity dismissed your Petitioners' suit on the grounds as appears by the judgment of the Court that there was no evidence that the Crown had recognised the said Thomas Day's right to reclaim the land as aforesaid, that no title was shown to the strip of land reclaimed as aforesaid by the Crown, and that by reclaiming land as aforesaid without authority the said Thomas Day had taken away his own right of access to the water.

16. That the adjoining proprietors, who were similarly situated with respect to the water frontage, and by the extension past their lands of Sussex-street, aforesaid, have, as your Petitioners are informed, and believe, reclaimed land, and erected buildings thereon, and constructed wharfs, and obtained titles thereto from the Crown.

17. That your Petitioners are ready and willing, and always have been, to pay to the Government the amount at which the value of the land reclaimed by the said Thomas Day was assessed as aforesaid.

18. That your Petitioners maintain that, though they are unable to establish their right to purchase the said reclaimed land in a Court of Law, yet, as the original grant of 1839 gave them a frontage to the high-water mark of Darling Harbour, and, as the said Thomas Day was deprived of this by the Government in the making of Sussex-street, an act of injustice is now done to your Petitioners in refusing the reclamation because your Petitioners have no title to a strip of land, which but for the act of the Government would not have been in existence.

19. That since the said Thomas Day has expended large sums of money in the erection of buildings on the land reclaimed by him, the purchase of which land he could not have foreseen would have been denied him, especially in view of the order of the Governor in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six that access to the water which he enjoyed should be secured to him, and that this access remained unquestioned until the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one. Your Petitioners further submit that the Government should not take advantage of a technical point and endeavour to make profit out of the mistake of a citizen, particularly when such mistake has been caused by placing confidence in a promise of the Government which the law does not compel the Crown to keep.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that your Honorable House may appoint a Select Committee to inquire into the case of your Petitioners, with a view to afford such relief as the merits of the case demand, but which a Court of Law cannot, for the reasons stated, afford.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

ASHER DAY.

Subject :—Accident to H.M.S. "Boomerang" when Docking.

Department of Public Works, Harbours and Rivers Branch,
Sydney, 21 September, 1891.

I FORWARD herewith a statement I have taken from the docking-master explaining how this accident occurred.

The vessel is of most unusual construction, having a balanced rudder, projecting 18 inches below the line of keel, and is the first vessel of such construction that has come to this port.

I think it is evident that the officers of the vessel did not make this fact clear to Pratt before or while the vessel was being docked.

The keel rakes up rapidly aft [see attached rough sketch], and unless a line was drawn in continuation of the main keel, it would not be apparent in the plan shown to Pratt that the rudder was below the horizontal portion.

There was a plan on board, hung up on the under side of the deck or ceiling, which had a red line drawn in from the keel and intersecting the rudder, as per dotted line in sketch, but this line was not on the plan Pratt saw. Some allowance must also be made for the surrounding circumstances; the morning was wet and dark when he was on board, and this made it not easy for him to carefully study the plans, and he was obliged to hurry back to prepare the Sutherland Dock for taking in two cruisers the same day; indeed, the Naval Authorities were urging that all four ships should be docked the same day, but this was impossible. It was an anxious enough undertaking to dock two of the large cruisers at one time.

Pratt was informed that the screws were below the keel line, but he saw he had room to provide for this by keeping the blocks narrow.

Under the circumstances I do not think any blame can be attached to the Docking-master. This will, however, act as a caution to him, and the lesson will not be lost.

The repairs were expeditiously and effectively executed, the rudder is now as secure as ever it was, and no harm whatever has been done to the vessel. The total cost of repair amounts to £75 4s.

The certificate herewith from the captain in charge of the station (Captain St. Clair) shows that the repairs were effectively and expeditiously carried out.

The Captain in charge of the Station to The Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers.

Dear Mr. Darley,

Office of Captain in charge H.M. Naval Depôt,
Sydney, 20 September, 1891.

I am in receipt of yours of this date, and, in reply, beg to inform you that the work performed on the "Boomerang" by the artificers employed by the Harbours and Rivers Department was carried out in a highly satisfactory manner.

The inspector of machinery (Mr. Weeks) and carpenter in charge at Garden Island (Mr. Allen) each reported to me before the "Boomerang" came out of dock that all the defects had been made good in a highly satisfactory manner, and that no damage had been caused to her hull while in dock.

Believe me, &c.,

WILLIAM H. ST. CLAIR,
Captain in charge Naval Establishments.

P.S.—I write you to express to all concerned my thanks for the very expeditious and efficient manner in which the repairs to "Boomerang" rudder and steering-gear were carried out.—W. H. ST. CLAIR.

Subject:—Mishap to H.M. torpedo boat, "Boomerang."Department of Public Works, Harbours and Rivers Branch,
Sydney, 19 September, 1891.

MR. JOHN PRATT, docking superintendent, called at the office this morning to make a statement with regard to a mishap which happened on the 8th instant to H.M. torpedo boat, "Boomerang," while being docked.

Mr. Pratt said: I went on board on Monday morning; it was dark, and raining heavily; it was about a quarter past 7 o'clock; I saw the quartermaster, and asked for the officer in charge; he was just getting out of bed, and I told him that I had come down to get the extreme length of the vessel, and the width, on account of the narrowness of the dock, especially about the bows; I obtained these measurements, and I asked the question whether there was anything below the line of keel; they gave me to understand that the propellers were below the keel, but nothing else was mentioned; I think it was an officer who said we have plans on board, and I said, "I would like to see them"; this was on board H.M.S. "Karrakatta" at Farm Cove, in the cabin, which was very dark, having been shut up on account of the wet; I did not see proper plans, but a tracing, of which I made a sketch in my note-book, before them on the table, and drew the propeller below the line of keel; while I was looking at the drawing they said if you go on board H.M.S. "Boomerang" you will see a photograph of the ship in dock and see everything; I went, and when I got on board I asked for the officer in charge and told him I wished to see a photograph which he had of the ship in dock; they showed me this, which, however, showed only about one-third of the vessel; they also said, "We have plans overhead"; these they tried to take down, but could not get them, as they were fastened up on account of the vessel just having come in from sea; they were wedged up between the beams, and I did not wait for them to take them down, as I was limited to time. I had to hurry back to the dock, to prepare for the cruisers coming in that day, as I had to get 300 pine cap pieces, on account of the ships having no keel; I did so, and docked the cruisers that day.

Mr. Darley: Did they show you any plan on board the "Boomerang"?

Mr. Pratt: No, sir; it was overhead. On board the "Karrakatta" they had one, but they were not convenient to take down. I saw a sketch there, but they hurried me on board the "Boomerang" to see the photograph, and when I got there they called my attention to the propellers.

Mr. Darley: Was the captain on board the "Boomerang" when you went there?

Mr. Pratt: No.

Mr. Darley: Was he on board when the vessel was being docked?

Mr. Pratt: He was, but never asked a question in regard to the ship's bottom.

Mr. Darley: Did he mention the rudder?

Mr. Pratt: No.

Mr. Darley: They had two or three different views on board the "Boomerang"?

Mr. Pratt: They had, but they did not take one down. They said they were overhead. On board the "Karrakatta" they showed me one. They did not carry the line of keel right through. Had they done so a man with half an eye could have seen it. They told me it was a good job it was not any worse.

Mr. Darley: You are certain they did not show you any plan except those attached to the under side of the deck?

Mr. Pratt: That was all. They told me both ships were alike.

Mr. Darley: Did you make a statement of that kind on board?

Mr. Pratt: Yes.

Mr. Darley: Who held the inquiry?

Mr. Pratt: The captains of the "Ringarooma" and "Mildura," and they said that I should have been acquainted by the captain of the "Boomerang" with the position of the ship's rudder. I did not see the captain when I was down on board, but when he was in dock I saw him for the first time.

Mr. Darley: Did you have any conversation with him then?

Mr. Pratt: I had no conversation. I was busy docking. The captain of the "Boomerang" had every opportunity of speaking to me had he wanted to. Both captains were on board when he came in dock.

Mr. Darley: Whom did you see on board the "Boomerang" when you went on board?

Mr. Pratt: I think it was one of the lieutenants.

Mr. Darley: The "Boomerang" went into dock first, and the "Karrakatta" followed?

Mr. Pratt: Yes.

Mr. Darley: How was it the "Karrakatta's" rudder did not foul?

Mr. Pratt: Because it reached beyond the blocks; but the "Boomerang's" stern, being in the middle of the dock, the rudder was in the centre of the blocks. I had the diver to look after the propeller of the "Karrakatta," knowing the cill was there.

Mr. Darley: Did the diver notice the rudder projecting?

Mr. Pratt: He never mentioned it. He told me it was very near clear, or that it would clear the cill.

Mr. Darley: Did the ship seem to take much of a drop when the rudder gave way?

Mr. Pratt: She had a good lot of water under her. She only just lost her buoyancy. The rudder caught the two after blocks. She drew less water forward. As she was going down forward the two after blocks canted, and in going clear of the bottom the rudder caught and broke the pintle. The ship then took the blocks right fore and aft.

The Principal Assistant Engineer to The Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers.

Subject:—The "Boomerang" of the Auxiliary Squadron.—Accidental injury to her in Fitzroy Dock.

Department of Public Works, 14 September, 1891.

I THIS morning examined the "Boomerang" in dock. The toe of this vessel's rudder is some 2 feet below the run of the keel, and the keel blocks having been set without a due allowance for that peculiarity, the rudder stock has been forced upwards, by the boat sitting upon it. The result is that the lower pintle is broken off the rudder, the two brass castings around the rudder head are damaged, the lower one beyond repair, and the iron deck just over the steering sector is forced up about 2 inches.

A new steel pintle is being fitted in a bored hole, a new brass casting is being made, and an attempt is to be made to pull the deck down to its original level to-day. Work was carried on during Saturday and Sunday, and well directed efforts are being made to repair this unfortunate damage as speedily as possible.

I looked into this matter myself, and find that, although an oversight was committed, I cannot well attribute any blame to the docking-master. Pratt went on board the "Boomerang" early on Monday morning, 7th instant, to measure the vessels, and he was shown a plan of the vessel; it was hung up on the side of a rather dark cabin, and the morning being dark and wet, he was unable to detect the fact that the rudder was 2 feet below line of keel, and this being a rather unusual form of construction, was not anticipated. None of the officers called any one's attention to the fact, not even when docking, and it was not found out till the vessel sat on the rudder, and did the damage in question. The repairs will be somewhat costly, owing to the amount of overtime which had to be worked. I do not think we can well make this a charge against the ship, and I, therefore, suggest that it be charged against the Dock Contingent Vote.—C. W. DARLEY, 17/9/91. The U.S.P.W.

Memorandum from Mr. James Hoey to The Engineer-in-Chief.

I would be glad if you could come up to Fitzroy Dock this morning to inspect the damage done to the rudder and its gear of the "Boomerang," and decide on the method by which the repairs are to be carried out. It is difficult to describe the work to be done, your personal inspection would greatly expedite matters.

Will Mr. Davies please attend to this matter.—GEO. TILLET, 12/9/91.

COCKATOO ISLAND.

(RETURN SHOWING ACCIDENTS AT, AND COST THEREOF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 12 January, 1892.[Laid upon the Table of the House in answer to Question No. 2 of 2 December, 1891.]

Questions.

- (2.) ACCIDENTS AT SUTHERLAND DOCK, COCKATOO ISLAND:—MR. KELLY asked THE COLONIAL SECRETARY,—
- (1.) Is it a fact that a petty officer belonging to H.M.S. "Curacoa" has been killed through a fall in the Sutherland Dock?
 - (2.) Has the General Superintendent of Docks reported to the Head of his Department the advisability of having some protection around this dock, and that such protection has not been afforded?
 - (3.) Is it a fact that two men have been seriously injured through an accident to one of the cranes connected with this dock?
 - (4.) Under which Department is this dock managed?
 - (5.) Will he lay upon the Table of this House a Return showing the number of accidents which have happened for the last five years at Cockatoo Island, and what those accidents have cost the country?
 - (6.) Is it a fact that a concrete-tester at Cockatoo Island is receiving 14s. a day and quarters for locking and unlocking a shed?
 - (7.) How many men has this gentleman under his charge?

Answers.

Mr. Dibbs answered,—

- (1.) I have read in the papers that such is the case, but the matter has not been reported to me.
- (2.) No.
- (3.) Yes.
- (4.) The Department of Public Works.
- (5.) The information will be prepared and laid upon the Table as requested.
- (6.) No; but the cement-tester receives 13s. per day, and resides in the quarters provided for the purposes of a post-office. His duties require his attendance at other work than that of cement-testing, viz., inspecting of buildings being erected on the island for the Works Department.
- (7.) Two labourers daily employed. They are at present quarrying face of rock to allow crane to swing.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

DAIRIES SUPERVISION ACT.

(ADMINISTRATION OF, DURING THE YEAR 1890.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 29 July, 1891.

The Secretary to the Board of Health to The Principal Under Secretary.

Board of Health Office, 127, Macquarie-street, Sydney, 19 June, 1891.

I have the honor, by direction of the Board of Health, to forward herewith, for the information of the Colonial Secretary, a report on the administration of the Dairies Supervision Act for the year 1890.

I have, &c.,

EDMUND SAGER,

Secretary.

[Enclosure.]

ON the 17th June, 1890, the Board of Health forwarded, for the information of the Colonial Secretary, a report on the administration of the Dairies Supervision Act, 50 Victoria No. 17, from 30th September, 1886, the date on which the Act received the assent of His Excellency the Governor, to the end of 1889. Similar information is now forwarded for the year 1890, and it is proposed to furnish annually a report on the working of the Act.

During the year 1890 the provisions of the Act were only extended to one district, viz.:—Albury, and this was done at the request of the local Borough Council.

The Board has during the year inspected, through its officers, the premises of dairymen and milk-vendors in the following districts:—Municipal Districts: Adamstown, Alexandria, Ashfield, Balmain, Botany, Bowral, Broken Hill, Broughton Creek and Bomadery, Broughton Vale, Burwood, Camden, Campbelltown, Camperdown, Canterbury, Carrington, City of Sydney, Central Illawarra, Concord, Darlington, Drummoyne, East St. Leonards, Dundas, East Maitland, Five Dock, Gerringong, Glebe, Gosford, Granville, Hamilton, Hunters' Hill, Hurstville, Kiama, Kogarah, Lambton, Leichhardt, Liverpool, Macdonaldtown, Manly, Marrickville, Merewether, Mittagong, Morpeth, Moss Vale, Muswellbrook, Newcastle, Newtown, New Lambton, North Botany, North Illawarra, North Willoughby, Paddington, Parramatta, Petersham, Plattsburg, Prospect and Sherwood, Randwick, Redfern, Raymond Terrace, Richmond, Rockdale, Ryde, Shellharbour, Smithfield and Fairfield, Strathfield, Singleton, South Singleton, St. Leonards, St. Peter's, Victoria, Wallsend, Waratah, West Maitland, Waterloo, Waverley, Wickham, Windsor, Wollongong, Woollahra. Police Districts: Berrima, Camden, Campbelltown, Gordon, Gosford, Liverpool, Parramatta, Picton, Pittwater, Raymond Terrace, Singleton, Windsor.

Whilst in several districts, and especially those in which the Act has been only comparatively recently brought into operation, the inspections have disclosed much that was faulty from a sanitary and lax from an administrative point of view, the condition of the dairies has, on the whole, very decidedly improved during the year, and the local authorities have shown a more intelligent appreciation of their duties and powers under the Act. The premises of dairymen and milkvendors in the metropolitan district are now, with some exceptions, in a fairly satisfactory condition, and in not a few districts the standard of cleanliness and sanitary care is a high one. It has, however, been made apparent to the Board that this standard can only be kept up by regular inspection, and that the local authorities in many instances need to be reminded of their duties and responsibilities under the provisions of the Act.

The condition of the dairies in the country does not, up to the present, compare satisfactorily with that of those in towns, even after a liberal allowance has been made with regard to matters which are essential in urban and suburban, but are comparatively unimportant in country districts. From several of the country districts representations have been made to the Board as to the difficulties encountered in fulfilling the conditions of the Act very soon after it has been put in force in such districts, and in every case the Board, appreciating these difficulties, has made concessions by extending the periods within which improvements should be insisted on, and by certain modifications to meet local necessities. The

The Board has also had under its consideration the difficulties attending inspection, and the full and proper administration of the Act by local authorities in the larger Municipal and Police areas in the Southern and other districts, but believes that these may, and will be, gradually met, and that the sanitary conditions so necessary for a pure milk supply will be in time fully enforced.

The difficulties above-mentioned, and the absence of any provision in the Act to charge fees for registration and so to form a fund from which the expenses attending the administration of the Act might be defrayed, have led to some agitation for an exemption of the country areas from its operations. It has been contended—1st, That the Act was never intended to apply to districts beyond the metropolitan area; and 2nd, that it is unnecessary in these districts, by reason of the milk being produced and supplied under “natural rather than artificial” conditions, and in places free from diseases incidental to both man and animals.

The first contention is met by the distinct wording of the 2nd section of the Act, which provides for its extension from time to time to other portions of the Colony beyond the metropolitan area; and the second by the fact that the dairies in the country districts have, with very few exceptions, on their first inspection, been found in an extremely dirty state, and the conditions under which the milk was produced only “natural” to people with very primitive ideas of cleanliness and ignorant of all sanitary laws.

In a report on bovine tuberculosis in the south-coast district, published in October, 1890, and to which further allusion will be made, the dirty and unsatisfactory condition of the dairies in this district was pointed out, and though this report was met by vigorous denials, the statements contained in it were not disproved, and were indeed more than confirmed by subsequent and detailed reports made by one of the Board’s inspectors later in the year.

In reporting on the district of Central Illawarra the inspector, after visiting the whole of the 105 dairies, 49 of which did not even appear on the register of the local authority, classified them as—3 clean and highly satisfactory; 12 clean, and fairly satisfactory; 56 clean, but require improvements; 28 dirty, and 6 very dirty; and pointed out that in 35, or exactly one-third, there were no closets or privy conveniences of any kind, and that the members of the households, ranging from 2 to 12 persons and of both sexes, defecated on the open ground, and often on the banks of the creeks from which the water supply for the dairies was derived.

This indecent and insanitary condition of things, which may be taken as an indication of the prevailing idea of sanitary necessities and with which other provisions were found to accord, was found also to exist in other districts; and when, in addition to this, it is pointed out that scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, and typhoid (all diseases known to be conveyed by means of milk), are as prevalent in dairying districts as elsewhere, whilst, as shown in the report above-mentioned, tuberculosis was more than usually prevalent in dairy cattle and had extended to pigs fed on skim milk at butter factories, it can scarcely be contended that there was no necessity for the Act, or that the “natural” conditions under which the milk was produced were such as to commend themselves to consumers in the metropolitan area. Further, experience in other countries, and especially in Great Britain, has shown that outbreaks of disease distinctly due to the distribution of infected milk, have been caused quite as frequently by milk produced in the country as by that from suburban districts, and under what are described as natural as opposed to artificial conditions. (Vide Reports, English Local Government Board.)

The city of Sydney and a large part of the suburbs are now, to a great extent, supplied with milk from country districts, by means of the operation of large co-operative and other companies. The number of dairies in the city of Sydney is now eleven only, and is annually decreasing; and the host of milk vendors in small shops obtain their supplies chiefly, if not entirely, from the large companies, so that it is of considerable importance to the dwellers in the city that the sources of supply should be under sanitary regulation, whilst on the other hand the knowledge that the dairies were properly regulated and the milk produced under cleanly conditions should, by inspiring confidence, increase the sale and aid in the development of an important local industry.

In its last report, the Board announced its intention of instituting an examination into the water on dairy premises derived from sources other than the Nepean supply, and of insisting on all wells and tanks found to contain water unfit for domestic purposes being closed. In pursuance of this, 347 samples of water were, with the assistance of local authorities, collected and submitted to examination by the Government Analyst, with the result that no less than 155 of these were found polluted and unfit for human consumption. In all these cases the Board directed that the wells and other sources should be closed without delay, and in the greater number this was at once done by the local authorities, though in some instances not without considerable correspondence and remonstrance. The inspection of premises during the present year, however, shows that in several cases the municipal authorities have permitted polluted sources to continue in use to the very manifest danger of the inhabitants under their municipal guardianship.

It is as yet difficult to convince either the public or the municipal authorities, who should be better informed, that water, whilst containing no impurities evident to the senses, may yet be so contaminated as to be dangerous to health and life; and in some instances the specious arguments that the supplies pointed out as impure are used only for washing carts and other similar purposes have been allowed to prevail over the strict common sense rule on which the Board has insisted, that a contaminated source of water supply on dairy premises should be closed, even though it is not the only one or the one in general use, for it must be a source of danger as likely to be resorted to on occasion for washing milk vessels, for watering the cows, or even for adding to the milk to increase its quantity, with or without the knowledge, or even in disregard of the directions of the proprietor of the dairy.

On the 6th August last a report was furnished you on an outbreak of typhoid fever at Waverley and Randwick, attributable to a polluted source of water supply on a dairyman’s premises at Randwick—which source the local authority had neglected to close, although repeatedly advised to do so by the Board.

One of the most important sections of the Act is that enforcing the notification of cases of infectious disease occurring on dairy premises. The provisions of this section have been acted on in a large number of instances, and the local authorities have suspended the registration, and consequently the sale of milk until the patient was removed to hospital or elsewhere, and have only granted re-registration to the premises on certificate of freedom from infection. This enactment, and the method in which it has been carried out, has, in the opinion of the Board, done much to obviate danger and to prevent the spread of infectious disease. Owing to neglect in carrying out the provisions of this section on the part of certain medical practitioners in former years, the Board thought it necessary to direct special attention to it by advertisement in the Medical and other journals, and to intimate its intention of instituting prosecutions in cases of failure to report. During the year under review the Board is unaware of any instance in which the requirements of this section of the Act have not been complied with.

The local authorities have, in repeated instances, sought the assistance of the Board in diagnosing the nature of disease occurring in dairy cattle; and the Board has, in accordance with its circular on this subject, dated May 7th, 1889, dispatched either the Government Veterinarian or other competent veterinary authority to inspect and report in all cases, so as to enable the authority to more efficiently carry out the provisions of the Act.

Bovine tuberculosis was proved to be very prevalent in the South Coast District amongst dairy cattle, as was shown by the report forwarded you on the 19th September last, and as further investigation showed that the disease Actinomyces was also prevalent, this was, on the 26th November, added to the list of infectious diseases in animals, which it is compulsory to report.

As in former years, the administration of the Act has been carried out in a very satisfactory manner in districts in which the police are, under its provisions, the local authorities, and the dairies in these districts compare, as a rule, favourably with those in adjoining or neighbouring districts under municipal government.

The attention of the Board having been drawn to the very large number of dairies supplying milk to factories for the manufacture of butter or cheese, over which no supervision was exercised, either with respect to the production of the milk or the making of the butter or cheese, certain questions were submitted to the Attorney-General on this matter, who advised on the 19th December that all persons selling or supplying milk for the manufacture of butter or cheese, or for other purposes, and whether to co-operative companies or private individuals, were liable to registration under the Act. The local authorities were immediately informed of this ruling, and steps were taken from the commencement of the present year to place all suppliers to these factories under supervision.

In conclusion, the Board would urge that steps may be taken, as soon as possible, to amend the Act in the direction already pointed out by the Board and as provided in the Bill now in the hands of the Colonial Secretary.

By order of the Board of Health,
EDMUND SAGER,
Secretary.

Wallsend	26	4/12/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority with a letter expressing the Board's satisfaction at the improved condition of the dairies.
Waratah	17	3	5/12/90	Unsatisfactory	18/12/90	Letter with copy of report sent to the Local Authority stating that the administration of the Act is unsatisfactory, that more stringent supervision is necessary, and that the whole of the improvements mentioned in the report should be at once insisted upon.	No reply
West Maitland.....	26	2	17/12/90	Very unsatisfactory	2/1/91	Copy of report sent to the Local Authority with a letter stating that the Act appears to be administered in a very unsatisfactory manner, directing the attention of the Local Authority to the necessity for a change in this respect, recommending that cesspits be abolished and pan-closets substituted on all dairy premises, and that the improvements and alterations suggested in the report should be at once insisted on. No dairies should be registered unless the requirements pointed out are present, and that all persons registered who do not conform to these requirements should have their names struck off the register. The Board trusts that the Council will take such steps as will prevent the necessity for its exercising its powers under the 14th section.

(a) Police District. Not incorporated. * This district was again visited on the 23rd July, when it was stated that the Inspector had been instructed to have all the Board's recommendations carried out.

Name of District.	No. of Licensed Premises.		Date of Inspection	Condition of Premises.	Steps taken by the Board to enforce the provisions of the Act, and date of communication with Local Authority.		Reply from Local Authority (if any)		Reinspection.		Further action taken by the Board.
	Dairies.	Milk Stores.			Date.	Nature of communication.	Date.	Nature of Reply.	Date.	Condition of Premises.	Date.	Further communication with Local Authority.
Waterloo	19	15	11/8/90	Improvements required at three dairies.	21/8 90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority recommending that the improvements mentioned therein be carried out, and that the objectionable system of allowing cesspits on dairy premises should be abolished in every instance.	22/8 90	Acknowledged, stating that the matter would receive immediate attention.	11/9/90	Forwarding copies of certificates of analysis of water, eight samples, and recommending that the sources from which the waters were obtained that were marked unfit for human consumption should be closed in accordance with the Act.
Waverley	23	17	21/4/90 and 23/4/90	All clean and fairly satisfactory. Improvements required at some of the dairies.	26/4/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority drawing special attention to the remarks respecting the dairies where improvements are required. That the polluted well at one dairy be immediately filled in, or the license cancelled, and requesting that samples of water from all sources other than city supply be sent in for analysis	None	16,7/90	Found all the premises clean and fairly satisfactory.	5/6/90	Forwarding copies of certificates of analysis of water from dairy premises, pointing out that eight samples are polluted, and recommending that the sources be closed in accordance with the Act.
Wickham	12	14/8/90	Unsatisfactory	28/8/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority with a letter drawing attention to the very unsatisfactory condition of the dairies, and urging the Local Authority to carry out the provisions of the Act more stringently. Also stating that the district will be visited again in a month's time.	13/11/90	Fairly satisfactory	27/11/90	Letter with a copy of the report sent to the Local Authority stating that the Board is glad to see that some improvement has been made in the condition of the dairies, but think it necessary in the interest of public health that constant supervision of premises, with particular attention to water supply, is desirable.
Windsor	7	14/2/90	do	25/2/90	Letter with copy of report sent to the Local Authority urging that the Act should be strictly enforced, and pointing out that milk-rooms should be provided, and notices placed on all premises and vehicles.
Windsor	19	26/11/90	Many premises dirty and in an unsatisfactory condition; one vendor carrying on business not being licensed.	4/12/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority stating that the Board regrets to note the very unsatisfactory manner in which the Act is administered, the condition of the dairies being in most cases dangerous and discreditable. The Board considers that more frequent and stricter supervision is necessary, and that the whole of the improvements recommended in the report should at once be insisted upon, and if not carried out within a month, registration cancelled in every case; also that cesspits should be replaced by pan closets, and that the unregistered milk-vendor should be prosecuted.	None
Windsor (a)	8	27/11/90	Mostly satisfactory. Improvements required at a few places. Three dairies not on the register.	4/12/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Police Department stating that the Board is glad to notice the generally satisfactory condition of the premises, but would advise that cesspits should be replaced by pan closets in all cases, and that the improvements suggested in the report be carried out; also, that the three dairies not registered should be placed on the register as soon as possible.
Wollongong	6	13/10/90	All clean, but improvements required at all of them.	24/10/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority recommending that the alterations and improvements suggested in the report should be made, and notices served to carry out the work as soon as possible; also, that all cesspits should be replaced by pan closets as soon as possible.
Woollahra	8	14	28/4/90 and 29/4/90	Several unsatisfactory; two dirty.	9/5/90	Copy of report forwarded to the Local Authority directing attention to the dairies mentioned as unsatisfactory in the report, and requesting that samples of water be sent in for analyses from all sources other than city supply.	5/6/90	Forwarding copies of certificates of analysis of water from four dairies; and as the analysis discloses that these waters are highly polluted, and quite unfit for human consumption, the Board recommends that the sources be closed in accordance with the Act.

State if any prosecutions have been taken under the Act, and give particulars in each case.	Special observations.
		New registrations during 1890.	Total number registered on 31 Dec., 1890.
36	Goulburn (a)
37	Granville	1	10	All in good order	Every month	1
38	Greta	5	5	All in accordance with the Act.	Once	The Council only undertook the supervision of the Act in November last.
39	Hamilton	3	11	Conditions complied with as far possible.	Five times..	3
40	Hunter's Hill	1	2	Satisfactory	None registered.	1
41	Hurstville
42	Kogarah
43	Kiama	No return from this district.*
44	Kiama (a)
45	Lambton	4	23	In good order when inspected.	Four times	1
46	Leichhardt	8	9	None	Seven of these milk-vendors have been registered since June last.
47	Liverpool
48	Liverpool (a)
49	Macdonaldtown	6	8	All in very good order ..	Seven times specially and monthly inspections.	1	I think there should be some limit to the number registered; I find no guide in the directions.
50	Maitland (a)	7	20	Premises generally improved. In some cases it was necessary to serve notices on the owners to make improvements.	Four times	1	3	Since the visit of the Chief Medical Inspector to Maitland, I have served notices on all milk-vendors to erect store-rooms and sheds. Failing to do so, I will take immediate steps to cancel the registration in each case.
51	Manly	6	5	Good	Once a month	1	5
52	Manning River (a)	4	4	Good. No refusals to comply with the Act.	Three times	A small quantity of milk is sold morning and evening, very little remaining to be kept in store. There has been no occasion to complain about any of the milkmen's premises.
53	Marrickville	4	8	All clean and well kept..	Twice
54	Merewether
55	Metropolitan Police District	1	1	Good	Four times	None	The milk-vendor is Mr. Savel, of the Camera Obscura, Manly Pier. This shop is perfectly clean. One milk-vendor has only been licensed on the 24th November.
56	Mittagong	3	6	M'Roberts and Dowling dirty; license of the latter cancelled.	Three times	2
57	Morpeth	1	Out of town; therefore not visited.
58	Moss Vale	6	Very fair
59	Muswellbrook	10	Condition of premises good.	Four times	All milk-vendors have kept their premises to the satisfaction of the Inspector.
60	Naranderra	4	Clean and healthy	Four times	These are carried on in conjunction with the above dairies. Same observations apply.
61	New Lambton	27	25	Fairly good	Once monthly.	2	2	Premises in a similar condition as they were when Chief Medical Inspector visited the borough.
62	Newtown	26	27	None	3 times specially, and various other times when going my rounds of duty.	2	10	There are a large number of milk-vendors in this district, many of whom could be well dispensed with. An Act to enable the Local Authority to charge an annual licensing fee is very necessary.
3	Newcastle	15	57	None	4 times, in many cases much oftener.	3	9	The registration of dairymen and milk-vendors should be charged for by the Local Authorities, so as to prevent many persons from trading with milk whose premises may be suitable, but they themselves not suitable from their habits.
64	Newcastle (a)	12	60	Premises all more or less improved, and in many cases the improvements have been of a substantial character.	Some frequently, most twice.	2	The Act has done much good in the Newcastle District, as far as cleanliness and sanitation are concerned. There are nearly ninety registered premises, outside the municipality, in the Newcastle District.
65	North Botany
66	North Illawarra
67	North Sydney	3	9	Premises are in a satisfactory condition.	4 inspections, and several casual visits.
68	North Willoughby
69	Paddington	13	44	24 times	12	29
70	Parramatta	8	9	Clean	Weekly

(a) Police District. Not incorporated.

* The Council writes, stating that an inspector is advertised for, and that when he is appointed the premises of about twenty persons who have applied for registration will be inspected, and the Act enforced throughout the Borough.

DAIRIES

	New registrations during 1890	Total number registered on 31 Dec 1890
36	6	19	Satisfactory	About four times.	Twelve for giving up business or supplying butter factories.	The dairies are fairly kept, and the cattle healthy.
37	1	10	All in good order . . .	Every month	1
39	1	9	Conditions complied with as far as practicable	Five times	..		1
40	3	14	Clean and satisfactory	Seven dairies inspected once, and seven no inspections registered.	1		7
41	4	10	None ..	Three and four times	1		1
42	5	26	Clean, requirements of the Act complied with	Every six or eight weeks	4	..	11	One cow destroyed suffering from cancer, all others in this Municipality healthy
45	4	23	In good order when inspected	Four times	..	1
46	1	32	None	"	One well and one water-hole	3	Three dairies closed during the year at the owners' request
47		14	Blake's and Retallick's not finished	From twelve to fourteen times.	3	I have again notified Blake and Retallick, and if not complete by next Tuesday, I will bring them under the notice of the Council.
48		1	Very clean; requirements of the Act complied with	Six times
49		9	Fairly good, Tate, &c, two wells nailed down, not filled up	Five official visits and numerous inspections	Two nailed down.	1	1	Two wells nailed down The owner considers them necessary in case of fire
50		6	The premises have been more or less improved.	Four times	3	It is found very inconvenient for the senior police officer to frequently visit the dairies over a radius of fifteen miles, as he has to attend to his other duties, and was absent, during the year, three months on strike duty.
51	4	5	Good	Once a fortnight	..	.	4
53	7	37	Generally clean and well kept Margaret Darcy's premises not clean, W O'Hara, no proper milk-rooms	Three times, some four or five times.	1	..	1

56	1	2	Good; requirements of the Act complied with.	Three times
57		6	Not	No record kept
58		6	Very fair
59
60	..	5	Healthy and clean	Four times	Season in this district an exceptionally good one. No disease in stock Dairies clean and well ventilated.
61
62		5	None	3 times specially, and at various other times.	3	1	The whole of the dairies in this municipality are cleanly and well kept, and will compare favourably with those in any other municipal or police district I may, however, be permitted to touch the opinion that, in consequence of the competition between them and the inland dairies, they will in a couple of years cease to exist
63	..	8	Mary Elson is still improving premises, but so far has not filled up the well on the premises Ehza Howard will erect milk store as soon as possible	4 times	2	..	1	W H. Moxey is still milking his cows at the dairy premises since the registration was cancelled, and, I believe, disposes of the milk, but to ensure a conviction for this offence, it will be necessary to employ a stranger to detect him.
64	5	28	The premises have been more or less improved, and effort has been made to comply with the law	Several frequently; most of them twice.	3	..
65	7	18	Clean	4 times by a committee of the council, and once a month by the mayor	2
66	4	12	Generally clean, at present making improvements	6 times	4	Nine of the above dairies are at present under notice to make the improvements recommended by the Board of Health
67		21	In a satisfactory condition, with the exception of M Barrett, who refuses to close his well, and requests that his license be cancelled	4 times on an average	9
68	7	21	All requirements complied with	6 times	1	..	5

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

DAIRIES SUPERVISION ACT.

(ADMINISTRATION OF, DURING YEAR 1891.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 31 March, 1892.

Sir, Board of Health Office, 127, Macquarie-street, Sydney, 31 March, 1892.

I have the honor, by direction of the Board of Health, to forward herewith, for the information of the Colonial Secretary, a report on the administration of the Dairies Supervision Act for the year 1891.

I have, &c.,

EDMUND SAGER,

Secretary.

[Enclosure.]

DURING the year 1891 the provisions of the Dairies Supervision Act, 50 Victoria No. 17, were extended to the following districts:—

- (a) That portion of the Police District of Shoalhaven within the county of Saint Vincent;
- (b) The borough of Bathurst, and an area outside the borough of 10 miles from the post-office of that town; and
- (c) The borough of Tamworth, and an area outside the borough of 6 miles from the post-office of that town.

In the two latter districts the Act did not come into full operation until the beginning of the present year.

In Appendix A will be found a complete list of the districts to which the Act has been extended, together with the local authorities charged with its administration.

The officers of the Board have, during the past year, inspected the premises of the registered dairymen and milkvendors within all these districts, with the exception of those portions of the Berrima Police District which are not under municipal control, and the districts of Bathurst and Tamworth. Pressure of work prevented the inspection of the Berrima district, which is of very large extent, and in the cases of Bathurst and Tamworth the Act was not in full operation.

In Appendix B will be found a synopsis of the reports of such inspections, together with the action taken by the Board consequent thereupon. Although there are still dairies in some districts in a state which cannot be considered satisfactory, the local authorities generally are now administering the Act in a more thorough and efficient manner, and the condition of the stock and premises has on the whole been greatly improved.

The dairies in the Metropolitan suburbs are now in a clean, wholesome condition, and the local authorities of these districts, with one or two exceptions, are carrying out the provisions of the Act effectively.

The local authorities for the South Coast district, although at first opposed to the extension of the Act thereto and disposed to raise difficulties in its administration, appear to have now realised the benefits and importance to this large milk-producing district, of a measure which if efficiently administered guarantees to the public the purity of the milk supply, and are at present actively engaged in taking the necessary action to ensure the due enforcement of the Act. The dairies as shown by recent inspections have been greatly improved, and the milk is now produced under sanitary conditions previously unknown and uncared for.

The Board has during the year given special consideration to the question of the production and distribution of milk within the city of Sydney. The number of dairies therein has been reduced to eight, and examination has shown that they compare very unfavourably with those in most of the suburban and country districts, and are deficient in general sanitary requirements. The Board has therefore drawn the attention of the City Council to the unsatisfactory condition of these premises, and urged the desirability of cancelling the registrations and of refusing to grant registrations in future to any premises within the area of the city. The whole question is now under the consideration of the City Council.

The drainage and the general arrangements of the premises of the large milk-storing and distributing companies were found on inspection to be in an unsatisfactory condition. After considerable correspondence the question of drainage was referred to the Water Supply and Sewerage Board, and such alterations as were necessary have either been carried out or are in progress under the direction of that body.

The manner in which the necessary criticisms of the Board on the general arrangements with regard to the reception, storage, and distribution of milk were at first received showed that the companies did not realise the importance of the question, but upon further consideration the reasonableness of the Board's requirements was admitted, and compliance therewith undertaken. One of the companies has placed its arrangements on a satisfactory basis; a second is building new and improved premises; the third of the large companies has not yet taken such action as the Board considers necessary, and some further action will be taken. These companies are registered by the Municipal Council of Sydney, and several communications on this subject have been addressed to the City Council as the local authority charged with the administration of the Act.

In Appendix C will be found an abstract of the annual reports furnished by the local authorities charged with the administration of the Act, from which it will be seen that they are doing good work, and are making frequent examinations of the premises registered by them. As the beneficial operation of the Act became better understood, and also the action of the Board, the opposition experienced at the outset has gradually diminished or ceased altogether.

The annual reports of the local authorities for Numba and Central Shoalhaven have not been furnished, although repeated requests have been made to them to do so, and this report has been very much delayed awaiting such returns.

The Board having in previous years examined the water supplies of the dairy premises in the metropolis, and the suburban districts nearest the metropolis, and found about 50 per cent. of them to be polluted, has during the past year caused similar action to be taken with respect to supplies in the out-lying municipalities and districts, with much the same results. [Vide Appendix D.] In all cases in which dairy waters are found polluted the local authorities are immediately advised to cause the supplies to be closed in accordance with the Act, or to cancel the registration. The importance of this matter is very great, though unfortunately the local authorities do not in all cases realise the danger, or their duties in regard thereto, and allow dairymen to continue to supply milk to the public whilst a known polluted source of water supply is accessible on their premises. The Board has in all cases of neglect or inattention in this respect insisted on its powers under the Act, and in three cases has issued orders under section 14 of the Act, which have brought about a compliance with its requirements.

In accordance with the provisions of section 7 several cases of infectious disease have been reported on dairy premises during 1891. In every case the local authority concerned has been immediately notified, and requested to cause the registration to be cancelled until the recovery of the patient, or preferably, to cause the affected person to be removed to an hospital, and in either case to clean and disinfect the premises. By this action it is believed that the spread of infectious disease has been largely prevented.

Cases of infectious disease amongst dairy cattle have also been reported, and the Board has in all instances furnished veterinary assistance to the local authorities, and subsequently advised them as to the action to be taken in the matter.

In the report for the years 1887-8-9 the Board pointed out that the Act required amendment in several particulars, and a Bill to amend the existing Act has during the year been prepared and forwarded to the Colonial Secretary. The chief points of the Bill are as follows:—

- (1.) To extend the provisions of the principal Act to persons producing milk for the manufacture of any product of milk, and also to those persons engaged in the manufacture of such product;
- (2.) To enable the local authorities to charge a registration fee to cover the cost of administering the Act;
- (3.) To give to the officers of the Board powers of entry and inspection similar to those now possessed by the local authorities; and
- (4.) To make provision for the issue by the Government of the necessary regulations for the working of the Act, and to provide for the enforcement of such regulations by penalties.

By order of the Board of Health,
EDMUND SAGER,
Secretary.

Sydney, 30 March, 1892.

Central Illawarra	136	"	16/11/91 to 25/11/91	Fairly satisfactory as a whole; a few dirty and unregistered; many improvements required.	3/12/91	Copy of report with a letter forwarded to the Local Authority, stating that the Board is glad to note the very decided improvements that have taken place in the condition of the dairies as a whole, but that the condition of individual premises is still most unsatisfactory. Advises a careful consideration of the report, and is surprised to find that certain premises are still unregistered; advises an immediate prosecution under section 6 of the Act, as the condition of the premises referred to is disgraceful, and a menace to the public health.	"
City of Sydney	8	370*	21/11/91 and 7/12/91	Dairies and large milk storage companies' premises unsatisfactory; milk-vendors' premises satisfactory.	3/12/91 and 11/12/91	Copy of report with a letter forwarded to the Local Authority, stating that the condition of the dairy premises within the city of Sydney contrasts most unfavourably with that of those in most of the suburban and country districts, and the milk is produced and distributed under conditions far from sanitary or wholesome. The Board advises that immediate notice should be served on all persons registered; that their registration will be cancelled in six weeks from date of notice; and that no further registration should be granted to any other premises within the city boundaries. Special attention also directed to the condition of the large milk storage premises. The Board is of opinion that the general condition of milk-vendors' premises is satisfactory.	11/12/91	Acknowledged..
Concord	8	1	21/4/91	Clean and satisfactory; all polluted sources of water supply abolished.	22/4/91	Copy of report with a letter sent to the Local Authority, expressing satisfaction at the manner in which the Act has been administered.	Nil

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

EARLY CLOSING OF SHOPS.

(PETITION FROM CERTAIN SHOP EMPLOYEES.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 18 November, 1891.

To the Honorable the Speaker and the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Shop Employees,—

HUMBLY SHOWETH:—

That your Petitioners, believing that the closing of drapers, tailors, grocers, mercers, butchers, and other shops should be regulated by Act of Parliament, which would supply a public want without detriment to the public welfare, humbly pray for the passing into law of a measure to give effect thereto.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c.

(SECOND SESSION.)

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

FLOODS ON THE HUNTER.

(REPORT BY MR. GORDON ON.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 12 August, 1891.

The Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers to The Under Secretary for Public Works.

Minute Paper.

Department of Public Works, Harbours and Rivers Branch, Sydney, 29 June, 1891.

I HAVE carefully perused Mr. Gordon's report on the mitigation of floods in the Hunter River. He has evidently given the matter most careful consideration, but while accepting the data and information so ably compiled in the Commissioner's report of 1870, he has arrived at a very different conclusion, being of the opinion that mitigation of the floods can be effected at a fairly reasonable cost.

Under the heading of "Remedies," Mr. Gordon suggests two methods of lessening the height and effect of floods in the Hunter. First, by constructing, regulating, or impounding reservoirs; second, by shortening the distance from Maitland and improving the carrying capacity of the River.

I will deal with each separately. First, regulating reservoirs: The Royal Commission when reporting in 1870 on the floods in the Hunter, investigated this subject, and as their Report may not now be readily accessible I extract the conclusion they arrived at:—

"Inundations of the valley of the Hunter, from Maitland downwards, and of every valley similarly situated, take place whenever the waters gathered upon the higher grounds come down upon the plains at a greater rate than the channel through the lowlands can carry off. If the excess of the flood waters at any time above what the channel can safely discharge were held back on the high lands by means of natural or artificial reservoirs, and allowed to escape gradually after the rain had ceased, and before the advent of a second flood, no inundation would take place.

"It is upon this principle that the French engineers have been endeavouring to deal with the flood waters of the Rhone, which a few years ago occasioned such extensive devastations. The great advantage of this method is that the water saved may be made conducive to a general system of irrigation. A very little consideration, however, has convinced us that nothing of the kind is practicable in the case before us. There are no natural reservoirs. In order to dispose in this way of the waters of a single flood, such as that of August, 1857, it would be necessary to form reservoirs on too gigantic a scale to be contemplated with equanimity. And even if the natural features of the country were found to be so extremely favourable for the construction of such works as to enable us to hold back a sufficient portion of the water of a single flood to effect the desired object, yet the experience of many years, and of this present year in particular, shows that the evil would not be cured, for a second flood not only might but probably would occur, to be followed perhaps by a third, a fourth, a fifth, and even a sixth, before the impounded waters of the first could be safely allowed to escape. It would never, therefore, be safe at any time to retain any water in the reservoirs for the purposes of irrigation; and the system is therefore so obviously inapplicable to the circumstances of the case as to render its further consideration unnecessary."

With this summing up I most thoroughly concur, subsequent experience of floods occurring in series only goes to strengthen the wisdom of the conclusion arrived at.

Mr. Gordon, however, is unable to agree with the opinion of the Commissioners, and recommends the construction of an impounding reservoir to hold 24,514,000,000 of cubic feet, with an average depth of 35 feet, and covering 16,070 acres; estimated cost, £21 10s. per million cubic feet, making the total cost £527,000, exclusive of land.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Gordon was unable to examine any portion of the valley of the Upper Hunter during his several visits to Maitland and the Hunter District; had he done so probably he would not have so readily dissented from the Commissioners' conclusions.

I have not myself had an opportunity of closely examining the whole of the Upper Hunter Valley, but have been along a considerable portion of it, and from what I know of the country I have no hesitation in saying that no five or six sites as suggested could be selected where reservoirs could be constructed constructed to hold in the aggregate the quantity required without incurring great expense in providing large channels for diverting the flood waters from the river. There are no natural low-lying swamps or lands over which the floods rise sufficiently high to store any quantity.

In large reservoirs the proportion between the maximum depth and average depth generally varies from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$; assuming 2 as a mean, the maximum depth necessary in the reservoir proposed by Mr. Gordon to store water with an average depth of 35 feet would be 70 feet. Seeing that at Singleton the highest recorded flood only rose about 46 feet over summer level, and at Aberdeen about 27 feet over summer level, the impossibility of finding a site where water could be stored with a maximum depth of 70 feet is at once apparent.

Probably the maximum depth that flood waters could feasibly be stored would be about 34 feet, taking the proportion as before; then the mean depth would be 17 feet, and the area to be covered with water would be about 33,000 acres. As the land along the river frontages in the valley of the Hunter is generally the most valuable part of the country it is doubtful whether any, even far up the valley, could be purchased at less than £10 per acre, so this makes a sum of £330,000 to be added to Mr. Gordon's estimate of £527,000, as he did not include the cost of land in his estimate.

I am, however, of the opinion that Mr. Gordon has put down too low a figure for the cost of his reservoirs. He has based his estimate upon the estimated cost of some reservoirs proposed to be constructed in Victoria for irrigation purposes. I hold, however, that such cases cannot be compared. Sites for irrigation reservoirs are invariably selected where everything is favourable, such as a natural swamp or depression, with hills closing in at one end where a moderate-sized embankment will hold back a large volume of water. How different it is where the choice of sites is so limited as along the valley of the Hunter. Mr. Gordon's estimate at £21 10s. per million cubic feet is therefore, in my opinion, altogether too low.

I have before me the actual cost of several reservoirs constructed in Victoria and New South Wales as follows:—

Name	Capacity in millions of cubic feet.	Cost per million cubic feet, exclusive of land.
Yan Yean Reservoir... ..	1,024	£ 140
Coliban Reservoir	520	180
Barker's Creek Reservoir	101	356
Upper Stony Creek	57	1,105
Lower Stony Creek	24	829
Gong Gong Reservoir	68	1,176
Reservoirs near completion:—
Kew Swamp Reservoir	1,650	85
Wartook Reservoir... ..	1,050	30
Laaneoooin Reservoir	578	125
Prospect Reservoir (complete) exclusive of outlet works	1,732	205
Walka Reservoir at Maitland (complete)	30½	1,623

I think with these figures of actual cost of work before me I may fairly say that it would not be misleading to multiply Mr. Gordon's estimate by four, and thus make the cost (say) £86 per million cubic feet.

	Cost of Works.	£
24,514 million cubic feet, @ £86 per million		2,108,200
Land as above (say)		330,000

or more than Mr. Gordon puts down as the total value of the properties to be benefited.

I now proceed to consider what would be the effect of storing this volume of water, and how it would have to be dealt with after a flood had reached its maximum height.

The effect in the river is well illustrated by diagram No. 4, attached to Mr. Gordon's report, which shows by a blue line the duration of a big flood under existing circumstances. It will be seen that the flood represented after rising to a maximum height of about 34ft. 6in. falls in six and a half days to 25ft., at about which level the river is largely contained within its banks, and the principal amount of damage ceases, but under the storage system the same flood would be kept up above the 25ft. level until the twelfth day, thus nearly doubling what may be termed "the period of destruction"; for while the river is held up to such a height all the creeks are choked, and in many cases they will be drawing in water, filling up and flooding the back country, which in the lower part of the valley, (say) near Maitland, is invariably lower than that near the river; this is a most important point, and one not to be lost sight of in dealing with the question. The answer to this may be why let off the water so soon; why not retain it until the river falls more within its bed, and then let it off slowly? This of course can be done, but in doing so there would always be the risk of a second rain storm occurring, and finding the storage reservoir full the flood would pass down the valley and inundate the country as hitherto, thus nullifying the whole outlay on storage works.

That this is no fancy case will be fully apparent to all who remember how frequently two or more big floods have swept the Hunter Valley in quick succession. For instance, in 1870, there were five floods within three months, viz., two in February, one in March, and two in April. Again, in 1889, there were four floods in rapid succession.

After a flood occurs the country is so charged with water, all the creeks being filled; a much smaller subsequent rainfall is likely to bring down a flood heavier than before.

Therefore to insure the full benefit from the storage system the water must be released with all possible despatch, (say) within seven days. Here again occurs a serious practical difficulty, for to keep in command and let off such a vast volume of water as 24,514 million cubic feet, or nearly fifteen times the full capacity of Prospect Reservoir, would undoubtedly be a gigantic undertaking. Assuming 6 feet as the diameter of the largest sized pipe that it might be desirable to lay and place a valve upon, about eighty-six such pipes would be required to release all the water in the time named.

In fact most elaborate and costly outlet works would be required, the cost of which should be added to the estimate I have already given. Mr.

Mr. Gordon's report in question, paragraph fourteen, ends as follows:—

"In the Report of the Royal Commission on Water Conservation it is recommended that surveys should be undertaken to ascertain whether it would be possible to turn flood waters to advantage by conservation, and although this recommendation was made in the interest of the countries subject to drought, it is to be hoped that the Government will extend it to those districts that are subject to the opposite calamity of floods."

Thus Mr. Gordon suggests that the stored water might be turned to good account for irrigation.

The two questions of irrigation and flood prevention are so utterly antagonistic that the proposal could not be entertained in the manner suggested.

For flood protection the water must be released as rapidly as possible to prepare the storage basin for the next flood, which, as before pointed out, may follow in a week or two.

For irrigation the water must be stored and kept for a dry season, and from thence led away through suitable canals to the district selected for irrigation.

As the first flood would fill up the storage reservoirs, who should decide whether this water is to be preserved or released?

As already pointed out, if it be retained, and a second flood should occur, then the country will be devastated, and the outlay on storage wholly lost so far as flood prevention is concerned. On the other hand, if the water be released, and a second flood does not occur, the outlay is lost so far as irrigation is concerned. Likewise all expenditure on canals, &c., to lead the water to the irrigated districts will have been lost.

I therefore think that the dual benefit of the storage system must be lost sight of, and further that the idea of flood prevention by means of impounding reservoirs must be abandoned.

The second proposal Mr. Gordon makes is to shorten the river.

It is very properly pointed out that it would be worse than useless to attempt any improvement of the river between Maitland and Morpeth, without carrying out extensive works lower down to shorten and enlarge the present carrying capacity, indeed commencing at the lower end first. Without doing this the effect of the shortening of the river above Morpeth would simply be to destroy the whole of the Phoenix Park District, lying between Morpeth, Largs, and the Paterson, a tract of country almost quite as valuable as that sought to be relieved near Maitland.

Mr. Gordon gives an estimate of the quantities of earthwork to be removed according to the various proposals for whole and half floods. As the latter quantity is based on the supposition that one-half the flood may be stored this item may be rejected, and the quantities for a whole flood only dealt with.

The cheapest and probably the most feasible of all the various proposals is that via Howe's Lagoon, Diversion No. 2, above Morpeth, in conjunction with Diversion No. 3, via Scott's Creek, below Morpeth.

The total quantity of material to be excavated by this route would be 35,078,044 cubic yards, or as we are in the habit of speaking of tons when dealing with dredges, it will be more convenient to convert this quantity into tons, to arrive at an estimate of the cost

$$35,078,044 \text{ cubic yards, } \frac{27}{21} = 45,100,342 \text{ tons.}$$

Mr. Gordon estimates the cost of this work at 3½d. per cubic yard, and allows £55,000 for the necessary plant. As we have a long record of dredging expenses this can be referred to to give a reliable estimate.

First, assume the period within which the work should be completed at six years:

$$\frac{45,100,342}{6} = 7,516,723 \text{ tons per annum to be dealt with.}$$

A first-class modern dredge, such as the "Sydney," now employed in Sydney Harbour, should make an average output of 800,000 tons per annum, if kept working sixteen hours a day, and supplied with sufficient punts, tugs, &c., $\frac{7,516,723}{800,000} =$ the work of (say) ten dredges. On account of the long towage two tugs and five 500-ton barges would be necessary to keep such a dredge fully employed. The cost of one dredge, with steamers and barges, may be put down at £75,000 complete, so that the complete plant of ten dredges, &c., would cost £750,000.

The cost of dredging, i.e., filling the punts, may be put down at 2½d. per ton; and, on account of the very long towage, 6d. per ton, at least, would be the cost of depositing at sea, or (say) in all 8½d. per ton:—

45,100,342 tons, at 8½d. =	£1,597,303	15	7
Add (say) 50 per cent. on cost of plant for interest, wear and tear, main-tenance, &c. =	375,000	0	0
Protection works—Mr. Gordon's estimate	37,500	0	0
Contingencies (say)	60,196	4	5

The above is on the assumption that the whole of the excavations is through soft material, and removed by dredges. The work could be, no doubt, expedited by using excavators and waggon roads, or other ordinary appliances for excavating and removing the earth down to high-water level; but it certainly could not be done so cheaply as the price stated, viz., 8½d. per ton, equal to 11d. per cubic yard, this being considerably below what such work could be done for.

Possibly the item "plant" might be considerably reduced by the use of sand pump dredges of the Von Schmidt type, delivering all the silt on either bank; but the work as a whole would not be done more cheaply at per ton than the sum named, while the amount of land that would be flooded and destroyed by this system would be very great.

The bulk of the material lifted from the bottom of the cutting would be sand and gravel, useless for agricultural purposes. Very high banks, too, should be constructed to contain the silt pumped in, or it would flow over and destroy the whole country. I therefore think that with either class of dredge this particular work would come to about the same ultimate cost.

Above Morpeth the diversion of the river would not be a very serious matter. Liberal compensation and a readjustment of boundaries would get over most of the difficulties; but below Morpeth cutting cutting the proposed new channel would be fraught with very serious consequences. Navigation in the present river, via Raymond Terrace, would be practically closed, and closing navigation would deprive a most valuable stretch of country above Raymond Terrace of its principal means of communication. The old channel above Raymond Terrace would undoubtedly silt up, so that navigation could only be maintained by a constant heavy outlay on dredging.

As the 8 or 9 miles of river situated between C. S. XXXVII—the off-take for the new cutting and Raymond Terrace—passes through most valuable country, the claims for compensation for loss of water frontage would be very serious, for, as I have said before, this length of the river would be practically, if not absolutely, closed to navigation. From Raymond Terrace to C. S. XIV, the end of the proposed new cutting, the river would probably be kept fairly well open by the flow from the Williams River, but it would certainly become much shallower than it is at present unless the channel were confined between training banks.

I have already pointed out that unless the river channel below Morpeth was straightened and deepened, cutting a new channel above Morpeth would lead to the utter destruction of all the country around Morpeth, as the flood would be brought down to that point much quicker than it could get away; the water would simply pile up there; but even if the proposed new cutting were made, and the remainder of the river channel improved, there would still be a considerable augmentation in the average height of floods at Morpeth, due to the change of flood grade, which under any circumstances must take place there. The distance from Maitland to Morpeth would be reduced from $13\frac{1}{2}$ miles to $4\frac{3}{4}$ miles, or (say) to one-third the present distance, whereas that from Morpeth to Newcastle would only be reduced by 7 miles, or (say) from 30 to 23 miles. Putting the matter of cost to one side, the question remains, would it be worth while to seriously injure if not destroy a very large tract of most valuable country around and below Morpeth to reduce the flood level over some country around Maitland? I certainly think not.

Mr. Gordon, in his report, page nine, paragraph forty-five, gives the estimated value of the property that would be benefited if the whole of the Hunter Valley below Oakhampton were protected from floods at £2,339,500. I have shewn, and I think conclusively that the impounding reservoir, together with land, would probably cost over this sum, and that the cost of the river, shortening and improving, would be very little less than the whole value of the country affected. This forces one to come to the same conclusion that was arrived at by the members of the Royal Commission in 1870, viz., that all thought of either scheme must be abandoned on the ground of cost.

This now brings me to the question, can anything be done at a reasonable outlay to give relief to the district generally? I am satisfied that nothing practical can be done beyond protecting as much of the country as possible by embankments. The Royal Commission came to the same conclusion, but the Commission only suggested the protection of the town of West Maitland by a high levee round the town.

The erection of flood-gates on Wallis's Creek, and the construction of Graham's embankment at Oakhampton since the date of the Commission's report, has rendered unnecessary the construction of any portion of the suggested levee at the back of the town; and the Municipal Council of West Maitland, with some assistance from the Government, have recently raised and strengthened the levee of the whole of the river frontage to the town, thus completing that portion of the recommendation of the Commission; but the work has been rendered more extensive than was originally contemplated, owing to the construction of levees surrounding the Bolwarra Estate. It is not at present an easy matter to say with any accuracy to what extent their construction will raise floods in future, but raise them they certainly will; and unless the work is carried out in a substantial manner more harm will be done to property through their giving way suddenly during a flood than would have been done had the flood been allowed to rise steadily over the country.

I think, nevertheless, that it is a step in the right direction; and some experience, although it may have to be bought, will show to what height the levees must be raised and maintained to keep the flood within its own channel.

One very significant fact, which must not be lost sight of when dealing with this matter, is the apparently great increase in height of recent floods locally at West Maitland. The 1889 flood at West Maitland rose to within 6 inches of the 1870 flood, but at the Melville Crossing, only 5 miles up stream, the same flood did not rise to within 4 feet of the 1870 flood level. Undoubtedly this local rise is nothing more than the choking up of the flood-water between the levees raised on each of the river banks at West Maitland, and at once points to the great necessity for substantially constructed levees whenever they are attempted.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

(FROM CERTAIN MEMBERS OF FRIENDLY SOCIETIES IN NEW SOUTH WALES.)

Received by the Legislative Assembly, 30 July, 1891.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of members of Friendly Societies in New South Wales,—

RESPECTFULLY SHOWETH :—

That your Petitioners are strongly of opinion that the time has arrived when a new Act should be introduced for the better regulation of Friendly Societies.

That your Petitioners represent a total membership of 80,000, with an accumulated capital of over half a million sterling, and an annual income of about £250,000, while their disbursements for sick pay and funeral donations are upwards of £150,000 per annum.

Having in view the magnitude of the above figures, and the fact that, were it not for the thrifty influence of these societies, a very heavy poor rate would have to be raised and maintained in the Colony, we therefore respectfully submit that we are entitled to a separate Department to deal specially with Friendly Societies such as exist in the other Colonies.

Your Petitioners therefore pray that your Honorable House will see fit to deal at the earliest possible moment with this very important public business, so that intending members of Friendly Societies shall have sufficient evidence of their stability before becoming attached.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

FIRE BRIGADES ACT, 1884.

(SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WOLLONGONG FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.)

Presented to Parliament, pursuant to Act 47 Vic. No. 3, sec. 7.

The Wollongong Fire Brigades Board to The Colonial Secretary.

Sir,

Wollongong Fire Brigades Board Office, 28 April, 1891.

We have the honor to present you with the second Annual Report of the Wollongong Fire Brigades Board.

The Board still labours under disability through not possessing a site upon which to erect a fire-station. The present station is erected upon a site which the Board might be called upon to vacate at any time. This is a very unsatisfactory position in which to be placed, and prevents the Board from carrying out several important and necessary improvements. They desire to impress upon you the urgent need that exists for a suitable site being provided. They would respectfully suggest that a portion of the vacant Government ground adjacent to the police station should be placed at their disposal. The situation is most central and in every respect suitable for the purpose.

The Board have again to report that they have not received any contributions from the Fire Insurance Companies during the year, as provided for in the "Fire Brigades Act of 1884." The Government and Borough Council have paid their proportion of the subsidy with regularity. Owing to the refusal of the Fire Insurance Companies to contribute the operations of the Board cannot be extended to the extent they desire. In thus refusing to contribute the Insurance Companies are availing themselves of some technical objection to evade an obligation intended to be imposed upon them by the Legislature when the "Fire Brigades Act of 1884" was passed into law. Nearly the whole of the property in this borough is covered by insurance; therefore, in the event of fire, the Insurance Companies would be the greatest sufferers. Notwithstanding this fact they persistently refuse to contribute towards the necessary expense in maintaining efficient brigades for the protection of property. This course of action on their part appears to the Board to be most extraordinary and unreasonable, seeing that they of all others are the most interested in the suppression of fires. As in last report the Board would again urge upon the Government the desirability of immediately passing into law an "Amended Fire Brigades Act," containing such provisions as will compel the Fire Insurance Companies to contribute their proportion towards the expenses incurred by country boards in maintaining the efficiency of brigades under their control.

The Board have pleasure in reporting that the brigade is thoroughly efficient, and that the plant and appliances are in good order.

Three fires occurred during the year, viz., Mr. A. McKenzie's barn, estimated damage, £50; Mr. F. A. Franklin's stable and coach-house, estimated damage, £75; Mr. J. Welsh's restaurant, estimated damage, £5.

Statement of revenue and expenditure for the year is appended herewith.

We have, &c.,

FIRE BRIGADES ACT, 1884.

(REPORT OF THE DENILQUIN FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.)

Presented to Parliament, pursuant to Act 47 Vic. No. 3, sec. 7.

The Secretary Denilquin Fire Brigades Board to The Principal Under Secretary.

Sir,

Denilquin, 7 September, 1891.

Herewith I have the honor to forward to you the Balance Sheet of this Board.

I beg to respectfully direct your attention to the fact that during the period covered by the Balance Sheet, viz., three and a half years, we have only received the sum of £1 13s. 6d. from the Insurance Companies towards the support of the Denilquin Fire Brigades.

There are twenty-four Insurance Companies doing business within the Municipality of Denilquin, and had the Fire Brigades Act of 1884 been in full operation they would have been compelled to contribute about £200 towards the expenses within the period named; not having received this sum from them we have been compelled to curtail our expenses to that extent. There is a credit balance as now shown of £94 15s. 2d., but we owe over £150 to the members of the Brigade, besides which we have refrained from purchasing machinery, &c., which would have materially assisted in promoting the usefulness of the Brigade.

I am therefore directed to respectfully suggest that an amending Fire Brigades Bill be introduced into Parliament as early as possible.

I have, &c.,

J. W. H. WYSE,
Secretary.

FIRE BRIGADES ACT, 1884.

(ARMIDALE FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.—REGULATIONS.)

Presented to Parliament, pursuant to Act 47 Vic. No. 3, sec. 21.Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 9th February, 1892.

ARMIDALE FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.—REGULATIONS.

The following Regulations, made by the Fire Brigades Board for the Borough of Armidale, under the "Fire Brigades Act, 1884," having been approved by His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, are published in accordance with the requirements of the above-cited Act.

GEORGE R. DIBBS.

REGULATIONS OF THE ARMIDALE FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.

1. The Board shall be known as and designated "The Armidale Fire Brigades Board," and shall meet together at such times and places as the members shall determine.

2. The Mayor of Armidale for the time being shall be the Chairman, but in his absence any other member of the Board may be elected to preside, two members of the Board to form a quorum.

3. The sum of ten shillings and six pence shall be allowed to each member of the Board in attendance at the time specified for each meeting convened.

4. The Board shall appoint a Secretary and such other officers and servants as it may deem necessary, and shall determine their duties, salaries, and wages and may at any time suspend or dismiss any officer or servant. The Board shall also determine the salary to be paid to the Superintendent, and the salaries or allowances to be made to the other members of the Brigade, and have power to frame By-laws defining the duties of all officers, firemen, and servants, and the general management of the Brigade.

5. The duties of the Secretary shall be to attend all meetings of the Board, enter the meetings of resolutions and proceedings in a minute-book to be kept for the purpose, conduct and lay all correspondence before the Board, and keep the books and accounts of the Board.

6. The Chairman or Secretary may call meetings of the Board when deemed necessary.

7. All payments of one pound or upwards shall be by cheque drawn upon the Australian Joint Stock Bank or such other Bank as the Board may determine, to be signed by two members of the Board and countersigned by the Secretary; and the accounts of the Board shall be examined and verified by at least one Auditor, appointed by the Board half yearly.

8. Any member wishing to rescind, alter, or add to these Rules, must give to the Secretary at least seven days' notice in writing to that effect—such notice to contain copies in full of his proposals.

9. The Secretary of the Board shall be the person appointed to lay all informations necessary under all regulations made by the Board.

10. The Board shall determine all matters by a majority of the members present, and shall deal with and decide all matters not provided for in these Regulations, at any meeting properly constituted.

Passed at a meeting of the Armidale Fire Brigades Board, held at Armidale, on the 7th July, 1891.

WILLIAM DREW, Chairman,
Chairman of the Board, Mayor of Armidale.
CHAS. WILSON,
Government Representative.

JOHN MOORE,
Fire Insurance Companies' Representative.

JOHN CRAIGIE,
Secretary.

BY-LAWS OF THE ARMIDALE FIRE BRIGADES BOARD.

1. The Brigade shall consist of (I) a Superintendent, (II) a Captain, (III) a First Lieutenant, (IV) a Second Lieutenant, (V) a Station Keeper, and not less than fourteen firemen, to be appointed by the Board.

2. No person shall be enrolled who is under the age of 18 years or over 40 years (unless by special permission of the Board), nor any one who resides more than 1 mile from the fire station.

3. Each member on joining the Brigade shall sign an agreement stating his willingness to abide by the Rules and By-laws or any amendment thereof.

4. The members of the Brigade shall have official drills at such times as the Board shall determine; each drill to last not less than one hour and a half, and every member present shall be allowed payment at the following rates, viz.:—Officers, 3s. 6d. each per drill; firemen, 2s. 6d. each per drill.

5. Should any officer or member absent himself from two successive practices or drills, without having forwarded to the Superintendent or Secretary a written excuse which shall be considered satisfactory, he shall be fined 2s. 6d., which shall be deducted from any claim that such officer or member may have against the Board for services rendered.

6. Members shall obey all lawful commands given by the officer or officers in charge, either at fire duty, practices, or meetings, and any member who shall refuse to obey any lawful command, or be guilty of intoxication or disorderly or other unbecoming conduct, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings, on the matter being reported to the Board, and may be expelled from the Brigade.

7. No member shall be allowed to take any intoxicating liquor while on duty at a fire, practice, or parade, without permission from the officer in command, and any breach of this rule must be immediately reported to the officer in command, and by him to the Board.

8. All uniforms shall remain in the custody of the men so long as they shall continue to be enrolled, but shall be delivered up to the Superintendent or Secretary by any member upon his ceasing to be a member of the Brigade. No person shall be permitted to lend his uniform to any person not a member of the Brigade.

9. The duties of the various officers and men shall be as follows:—

- (a) Superintendent.—It shall be the duty of the Superintendent to take command of the Brigade and direct the men at all fires, practices, and parades; keep, or cause to be kept, a roll of all members with a record of their attendance at all fires, practices, and parades, and generally have charge of all engines, machinery, or other appliances for the purpose of extinguishing fires or saving life or property. He shall report all breaches of rules or disobedience of orders, and pending inquiry, may suspend any member, and report such suspension to the Board, through the Secretary, within three days from date of suspension. He shall receive all fines imposed and pay the same to the Secretary, giving all necessary particulars required by the Board, and when required shall furnish a report to the Board upon any matter referred to him for report.
- (b) The Captain shall qualify himself for the duties of Superintendent, in whose absence he will have charge of the Brigade, and perform the duties of the Superintendent. He shall assist the Superintendent in every way he can, and aid him in conveying orders to the men at their various posts, and generally obey the instructions of the Superintendent.
- (c) The First Lieutenant will see that none but members of the Brigade ride upon the engine, and will take his instructions from the Superintendent, or, in his absence, from the Captain, who will state if the engine is to be got to work, and if further assistance is likely to be needed at any fire, in which case he will find and despatch a messenger or messengers for assistance. He will have charge of the pumping, under the direction of the Superintendent or Captain, and obtain the assistance of the Police in keeping a clear ground for the engines and appliances. In the absence of the Superintendent he shall take the place of the Captain, and the Superintendent, or, in his absence, the Captain, shall appoint another member of the Brigade to fulfil the duties.
- (d) The Second Lieutenant will assist the First Lieutenant, and in his absence take his place. He will take charge of the second branch pipe.
- (e) The Station Keeper will see that the engine and all other appliances are kept in good order, and be responsible therefor, hoist all signals, assist at fires, and obey all instructions issued by the Superintendent or, in his absence, by the Captain or Lieutenant. All other members of the Brigade will be directed by, and obey the instructions of, the officer in command.

10. All members when on duty must wear a badge, mark of distinction, or number, in order that they may be recognised. All such badges, marks, or numbers to be approved by the Board.

11. Members and other persons assisting at extinguishing any fire, may be paid such fees as may, upon inquiry, be approved of by the Board.

12. All fines inflicted under these By-laws shall be deducted from any moneys that may be due to the members against whom such fines are recorded; but if such moneys do not amount to sufficient to pay such fines, and the member fined shall fail to pay the fine or fines imposed, then such member may be sued for the same before any two Justices of the Peace, who may give a verdict for the amount sued for or for such sum as they may deem to be due.

13. Each member on joining the Brigade shall sign the following agreement:—

I, _____ do hereby agree to abide by all Rules and By-laws of the Armidale Fire Brigades Board, or any amendment thereof: to keep clean and tidy and take good care of any uniform or other article entrusted to my care, and to assist as far as is in my power to promote the welfare of the Brigade. And I further agree to hand over at any time I may be called upon by the officer in charge or the Board, any uniform or other article in my possession the property of the Board. And if I cease to be a member of the Brigade before the expiration of six months from the date of joining, I agree to forfeit a sum of money not exceeding one pound, at the discretion of the Board.

Dated the _____ day of _____ 1891

(Signed)

14. Signals.—The bell to be rung continuously to call members together when there is an alarm of fire. When assembled the following signals shall be observed:—

One whistle.—To go on if on the road, to commence work if at a fire.

Two whistles.—To stop if on the road, to cease working if at a fire.

Three whistles.—To coil up and place appliances in their respective places.

Continuous whistling.—All hands muster round the officer in charge.

Flag signals.—A white flag denotes that there will be a drill at the usual hour to-morrow. A blue flag denotes that a drill takes place at the usual hour to day. A red flag announces a meeting at the usual hour this evening.

15. These By-laws, shall be read in conjunction with the Regulations of the Armidale Fire Brigades Board, but shall not in any way override any of such Regulations. Anything not herein provided for shall be referred to the Board for its decision.

The foregoing By-laws, numbered 1 to 15, were approved of by the Armidale Fire Brigades Board, at a meeting held on the 2nd day of September, 1891.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

COUNTRY FIRE BRIGADES BOARDS.
(CONTRIBUTIONS PAID BY THE GOVERNMENT TO.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be printed, 1 October, 1891.

[Laid upon the Table of the House in answer to Question No. 2, on 1 October, 1891.]

Question.

(2.) CONTRIBUTIONS TO FIRE BRIGADES BOARDS IN COUNTRY TOWNS:—MR. HUTCHINSON asked THE COLONIAL SECRETARY,—

(1.) Have any contributions under the provisions of the Fire Brigades Act been paid by the Government during the past two years to any Fire Brigade Boards in country towns; if so, what are the amounts paid and the names of the towns in which such Boards are established?

(2.) What steps do the Government intend to take with regard to those towns where Fire Brigade Boards have been established to which no contributions are now paid, on account of the action of the Fire Insurance Companies, through some defect or technicality of the Fire Brigades Act?

(3.) Is it the intention of the Government to place a sufficient sum on the next Estimates for the purpose of assisting Volunteer Fire Brigades in keeping and maintaining their fire-extinguishing plant and apparatus, &c., in a proper state of efficiency?

Answer.

List of Contributions, under the provisions of the Fire Brigades Act, which have been paid by the Government during the past two years to any Fire Brigades Boards in Country Towns.

Commission.

VICTORIA, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen,
Defender of the Faith, and so forth,—

To our trusty and well-beloved—

The Right Worshipful WILLIAM PATRICK MANNING, Esquire, J.P., Mayor of the City of Sydney, FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esquire, J.P.,
RAMSAY MCKILLOP, Esquire,
QUONG TART, Esquire, and JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esquire,—

Greeting:—

KNOW ye, that We, reposing great trust and confidence in your ability, zeal, industry, discretion, and integrity, do by these presents authorise and appoint you, or any three or more of you, as hereinafter mentioned, to make a diligent and full inquiry with the view of ascertaining the undoubted facts in the matter of alleged illicit gambling and immoralities among the Chinese resident in George-street North, in the said City of Sydney and neighbourhood, and the alleged bribery or misconduct of any members of the Police Force in relation thereto; also, to make visits of inspection to localities in the said City and Suburbs occupied by Chinese, and investigate and report upon social conditions, means of sanitary provision in the dwellings and workshops, the callings or occupations, and other circumstances affecting the well-being of such persons: And We do, by these presents, grant to you, or any three or more of you, at any meeting or meetings to which all of you shall have been duly summoned, full power and authority to call before you all such persons as you may judge necessary, by whom you may be better informed of the truth in the premises, and to require the production of all such books, papers, writings, and all other documents as you may deem expedient, and to visit and inspect the same at the offices or places where the same or any of them may be deposited, and to inquire of the premises by all lawful ways and means: And We do give you power, at your discretion, to procure such clerical and other assistance as you may deem necessary for enabling you duly to execute this Our Commission: And Our further will and pleasure is, that you do within three months after the date of this Our Commission, certify to Us, in the office of Our Colonial Secretary, under your or any three or more of your hands and seals, what you shall find touching the premises: And We hereby command all Government officers and other persons whomsoever within Our said Colony that they be assistant to you and each of you in the execution of these presents: And We appoint you the said WILLIAM PATRICK MANNING, Esq., to be President of this Our Commission, which said Commission We declare to be a Commission for all purposes of the Act 44 Victoriae No. 1, intituled, “An Act to regulate the taking of evidence by Commissioners under the Great Seal.”

In testimony whereof, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent, and under the Great Seal of Our said Colony of New South Wales to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, Our Right Trusty and Well-beloved Cousin and Councillor, VICTOR ALBERT GEORGE, EARL OF JERSEY, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Our Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the said Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies, at Government House, Sydney, in New South Wales aforesaid, this twentieth day of August, in the fifty-fifth year of Our Reign, and in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

(L.S.)

JERSEY.

FIRST EXTENSION OF COMMISSION.

WHEREAS it is necessary to extend the time by which the Commissioners are to make their report in the above matter. Now, therefore, I do hereby, with the advice of the Executive Council, extend the time within which the said Commissioners are to make such report until the end of the present year, to take effect from the twenty-first instant.

Given under my Hand at Government House, Sydney, this twenty-fourth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

JERSEY.

By His Excellency's Command,
GEORGE R. DIBBS.

SECOND EXTENSION OF COMMISSION.

WHEREAS it is necessary to extend the time by which the Commissioners in the above matter are to make their final report. Now, therefore, I do hereby, with the advice of the Executive Council, extend the time within which the said Commissioners are to make such report until the twenty-second instant.

Given under my Hand at Government House, this twenty-first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

JERSEY.

By His Excellency's Command,
GEORGE R. DIBBS.

CHINESE GAMBLING COMMISSION.

MINUTES OF MEETINGS.

THURSDAY (MORNING), 27 AUGUST, 1891.

PRESENT :—

The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Manning, J.P., President.

Francis Abigail, Esq., J.P.,
Quong Tart, Esq.,

Ramsey McKillop, Esq.,
John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.

The President read the Commission.

On the motion of Mr. Hawthorne, seconded by Mr. McKillop, Mr. Abigail was elected Vice-President.

Resolved,—That the Commission should meet three times weekly : on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and on Thursday and Saturday evenings at half-past 7 o'clock.

Resolved,—That the services of Mr. Lisson be retained as interpreter.

Resolved,—That Mr. A. W. Purdie be appointed messenger at a salary of £2 2s. per week.

Resolved,—That the Colonial Secretary be requested to place the sum of £1,000 to the credit of the Commission at any bank that he might think fit.

Resolved,—That the Government be asked to kindly furnish the Commission with a return showing :—

- (1.) The number of persons proceeded against by warrant or by summons for gambling in the city of Sydney and suburbs from the commencement of the records to the present time, each year to be shown separately.
- (2.) The total population of the city of Sydney and suburbs for each such year.
- (3.) The number of Chinese resident each such year in the city of Sydney and suburbs.
- (4.) The number of convictions each such year as the result of the proceedings as mentioned in No. 1.
- (5.) The nature of the penalty in each case, and if no conviction, for what reason?
- (6.) The place in which the offence was committed, and Police Office in which the case was dealt with.
- (7.) The nature, if ascertained, of the gambling.
- (8.) The nationality of each person proceeded against.
- (9.) Age, occupation, and general circumstances, if known, of such person.
- (10.) Number able to read and write.
- (11.) Number of cases in which proceedings initiated by police as the result of periodical raids.
- (12.) Number of cases initiated on the evidence of informers solely, and the nationality of such informers.
- (13.) The total number of places, dwellings, or shops, in the city or suburbs known to the police as places in which habitual gambling takes place.
- (14.) The number of such places in the city and suburbs occupied by Chinese.
- (15.) The number of raids made by the police each year, the locality in which such raids were made, and the reason for the making of each.

The Secretary was instructed to obtain and lay before the Commission :—

- (1.) Copies of New South Wales Acts of Parliament, dealing with gambling.
- (2.) Copies of the reports of the proceedings of deputations which have waited upon the Colonial Secretary, or any other Minister at different periods, and of the papers, if any, submitted by such deputations, in reference to Chinese or other gambling.
- (3.) Copies of any correspondence between associations or individuals and the Government, with relation to gambling by Chinese.

Resolved,—That a request be sent to the Hon. the Colonial Secretary for reports made to him by the Inspector-General, upon the charges made by members of a recent deputation, to the effect that the Police accepted bribes from the proprietors of Chinese gambling-houses, to induce them not to interfere in such places.

Resolved,—That the Inspector-General of Police be requested to supply a return showing—

- (1.) The number of houses, tenements, or workshops kept by Chinese, or occupied by them in Sydney, Suburbs, Hay, Narrandera, Emmaville, or any other portion of New South Wales.
- (2.) The names of the owners of such places, the rent paid for them, the accommodation contained in each, and the number occupying the same.
- (3.) The social and moral condition of the residents in each.
- (4.) any remarks as to the effect upon Europeans in and about such locality.

Resolved,—That the President communicate with the Premiers of the other Australian Colonies, to furnish, for the information of the Commission, copies of the Acts of Parliament, and of any special regulations in force, and their respective colonies, in connection with Chinese gambling or gambling generally, as also particulars of the method adopted by their respective Police for the detection and suppression of gambling.

The

The Secretary was instructed to obtain five type-written copies of the report of and evidence taken by the Select Committee on Common Lodging Houses.

Resolved,—That the next meeting of the Commission be held the same evening for the purpose of visiting the Chinese gambling-houses in George-street North.

Mr. Sanitary Inspector Seymour and Mr. Inspector Potter were interviewed with regard to the carrying out of the previous resolution.

THURSDAY (EVENING), 27 AUGUST, 1891.

PRESENT :—

The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Manning, J.P., President.

Francis Abigail, Esq., J.P.,		Ramsey McKillop, Esq.,
Quong Tart, Esq.,		John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.

The Commission proceeded on a tour of inspection to George-street North, accompanied by Mr. Sanitary Inspector Seymour, Mr. Inspector Atwill, Mr. Lisson, and Detective Tindall. Upon arrival at the shop occupied by Sun Sam Kee as a gambling-house the Commission discovered five Europeans playing fan-tan in an inner apartment. The men all dispersed upon observing that they were watched. Subsequently the Commission visited other Chinese quarters in George-street North, Little Essex-street, Hanson's Buildings, Queen-street, and Queen's-place.

SATURDAY, 29 AUGUST, 1891.

PRESENT :—

The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Manning, J.P., President.

Francis Abigail, Esq., J.P.,		Ramsey McKillop, Esq.,
Quong Tart, Esq.,		John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.

The Commission proceeded on a tour of inspection to Goulburn-street and neighbourhood, accompanied by Mr. Lisson, Detective Tindall, and Detective West. The route taken was as follows :—Goulburn-street East and West, Pitt-street, Campbell-street, Wexford-street, Robertson's-lane, Sussex-street, and Victoria-place.

Correspondence.—A letter was read from Mr. Healy, of St. Vincent's Hospital, calling attention to some correspondence on the Chinese gambling question that appeared nearly twelve months previously in the metropolitan press.

A letter was also read from Mr. Thomas Rigby, asking that he might be paid 12s. 6d. for loss of wages consequent upon his attendance before the Commission as a witness. The Secretary was instructed to pay the amount claimed.

The following witnesses were called:—Ah Toy and T. M. Davis, M.P.

MONDAY, 14 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

PRESENT:—

The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Manning, J.P., President.
Francis Abigail, Esq., J.P.,	Ramsey McKillop, Esq.,
Quong Tart, Esq.,	John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Correspondence.—Further suggestions in regard to witnesses were received from Mr. Richard Kelly, Honorary Secretary to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, and also an account for £2 2s. claimed as fees by Mr. Kelly for attendance as a witness upon two occasions. It was decided that the consideration of Mr. Kelly's claim should be held in abeyance until the Commission had discussed and determined the general question of witnesses' attendance fees.

Information was received respecting prospective witness from Mr. R. A. Nolan.

The following witnesses were examined:—Ah Wah and Way Kee.

WEDNESDAY, 16 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

PRESENT:—

The Mayor, Mr. Alderman Manning, J.P., President.
Francis Abigail, Esq., J.P.,	Ramsey McKillop, Esq.,
Quong Tart, Esq.,	John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.,

The minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Correspondence.—A supplementary list of prospective witnesses was furnished by Mr. Richard Kelly, Hon. Sec. to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League. Quong Tart, Esq.,	John Stuart Hawthorne, Esq.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Correspondence.—A letter was received from the Inspector-General of Police, asking whether in the opinion of the Commission its work would be interfered with if the police took strong measures for the immediate suppression of gambling as requested by resolution of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League. Letters were read from Mr. Nock, of Messrs. Felton and Nock, pointing out that the Government Chinese Interpreter had been warning the keepers of Chinese gambling-houses to take down the notices announcing that fan-tan is played within, and asking the Commission to take immediate steps for the suppression of the gambling nuisance, now on the increase.

Both these communications were forwarded to the Inspector-General, with a strong expression of opinion that the law should at once be set in action.

Information was supplied respecting the gaming laws in South Australia and Queensland.

The following witnesses were called :—Messrs. Joseph Ireland, Alfred Laws, Buchanan, James Ung Quoy.

FRIDAY, 2 OCTOBER, 1891.

PRESENT :—

CHINESE GAMBLING COMMISSION.

REPORT.

To His Excellency the Right Honorable VICTOR ALBERT GEORGE, EARL OF JERSEY, a Member of Her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

We, the Commissioners appointed by Your Excellency on the 20th day of August, 1891, “to make a diligent and full inquiry with the view of ascertaining the undoubted facts in the matter of alleged illicit gambling and immoralities among the Chinese residents in George-street North, in the said city of Sydney, and neighbourhood, and the alleged bribery or misconduct of any members of the Police Force in relation thereto; also to make visits of inspection to localities in the said city and suburbs occupied by Chinese, and investigate and report upon social conditions, means of sanitary provision in the dwellings and workshops, the callings or occupations, and other circumstances affecting the well-being of such persons,” have the honor to submit the following report:—

ALLEGED ILLICIT GAMBLING.

The Chinese as a community are very largely addicted to gambling. Indeed, out of a Chinese population of about 3,500 in the City of Sydney and suburbs there cannot be fewer than 700 individuals practically subsisting upon the proceeds of gambling-houses; and that number is increased if the tradesmen with shares in gambling syndicates are taken into account. A few well-to-do storekeepers are sleeping partners in these concerns, and gambling, as a means of livelihood, is the common resort of the ordinary Chinaman who has failed in honest pursuits. Gambling general among the Chinese.

Two forms of gambling have been introduced by the Chinese. Each is totally different from any game of chance hitherto played in Sydney, and both are frequently carried on in the same establishment. Fan-tan is played on a table with the aid of a square sheet of metal, a cup, and a few dozen brass coins. The sides of the square are numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, and the players select the particular side upon which they will place their stakes. The croupier then takes a handful of counters and throws them in a heap on the table, covering a portion of them with the cup, and after sweeping the remainder away, lifts the cover and counts the coins that were beneath it in sets of fours, and the player whose money lies on the side of the square corresponding to the number of coins left after the last four have been subtracted trebles his stakes. Should there be no remainder, then four becomes the winning number. The stakes are usually small, and it is rarely that more than a few shillings are seen on the board at one time. Still, as the game itself is of but a few moments duration, and as a regular percentage of 2d. in the shilling is deducted by the bank from the winnings, it is possible to lose in sixpenny stakes several pounds in the course of an evening. Then, too, larger stakes are occasionally played for. Nothing could be simpler or more devoid of skill and absolutely a game of chance, than fan-tan. The game of fan-tan.

Pak-ah-pu.

Pak-ah-pu is a species of lottery. For 6d. the gambler is entitled to draw a mark through ten out of eighty Chinese characters printed on a ticket, and the game is determined by the number of characters thus obliterated corresponding with mottoes subsequently drawn by the banker from a bowl containing twenty characters selected haphazard from a total of eighty similar to those on the ticket. Obviously, if all the tickets were effective (which is not the case, as three-fourths are discarded as the result of the preliminary shuffle), when the bank is drawn the odds would be eight to one against any of the mottoes marked by the client corresponding with any of those drawn by the banker. But as a matter of fact the laws of the game demand a correspondence in five mottoes to entitle the purchaser to the smallest prize—1s. 2d. The prize for six successful marks is 10s.; for seven, £4 3s. 4d.; for eight, £23 6s. 8d.; for nine, £41 13s. 4d.; and for ten, £83 6s. 8d. How remote is the possibility of winning any of the higher prizes will readily be imagined when the tremendous odds against the purchaser of the ticket are taken into account. In both fan-tan and pak-ah-pu there is certainly room for fraud on the part of the bankers, but whilst it is said to be occasionally practised in moments of desperation, as a general rule the games appear to be conducted with fairness.

Principal centres of Chinese gambling.

Gambling is carried on extensively in the three principal centres of Chinese population in and around the metropolis, viz.: in George-street North, in Goulburn-street and neighbourhood, and at Alexandria. The number of gambling-houses in each district has been variously estimated; but it is evident that since the appointment of your Commission there has been a marked decrease all round. The dens in George-street North and Goulburn-street have been until very recently largely frequented by Europeans; those in Alexandria are almost exclusively the haunts of Chinese. Some of these places are devoted to the sale of lottery-tickets only. Generally, however, lottery-tickets are sold amongst a display of bogus wares in the front shops, and fan-tan is carried on in one or more of the rooms behind. Access to the fan-tan-rooms is gained as a rule through narrow passages, and then only at the pleasure of sentinels, who, according to the apparent intentions of the visitors, suspiciously open or double-bar the heavy doors with which ingress is regulated. Means of escape in case of surprise are artful and manifold, often from the same house leading into a back street, adjacent dwellings on either side, and across rear balconies and roofs to more distant houses tenanted by accomplices. In Retreat-street, Alexandria, however, owing probably to the fact that most of the players there are Chinese and that there appears to be on that account less apprehension of interruption by the police, the fan-tan tables are situated in the front rooms, and the game carried on, as witnessed on two occasions by the Commission, in full view of the street.

Effects of Chinese gambling on the community generally.

Your Commissioners do not feel justified in drawing any marked distinction between fan-tan or pak-ah-pu and other forms of gambling. Doubtless every new phase of vice, let it differ never so little from already existing forms, attracts some who had hitherto withstood temptation; and from evidence it would appear that the presence of the fan-tan-tables in George-street North has proved an irresistible snare to men engaged on the wharves in that part of the city, who, for the want of convenient opportunities, had not previously been in the habit of gambling. The families of sailors, wharf-labourers, and coal-lumpers especially have suffered pecuniary loss—often very serious deprivation—as a result of the risks attendant upon fan-tan; and similarly pak-ah-pu, involving as it does merely the purchase and marking of lottery-tickets, the agencies for which are exceedingly numerous, has proved a means of initiation to children, who, in the absence of this game, open to anyone with a few pence to spare, might have been saved for many years from the temptation to gamble. The Chinese themselves contribute by their losses to the support of the gambling-houses, and at Alexandria a nest of at least a dozen depend chiefly on the fleecing of hard-toiling market gardeners. It is therefore evident, even admitting that indulgence in fan-tan and pak-ah-pu has increased incidentally with other forms of gambling in our midst, that they are responsible for a distinct phase of the gambling mania, and for the additional misery accruing from a new variety evolved from a pre-existent evil. At the same time your Commission have no hesitation in saying that what is known as Chinese gambling is trifling in every respect when compared to the gambling practised in Sydney in consultations and betting by totalisators, and is, as has been stated, already showing signs of diminution. It may be be added that grossly exaggerated ideas of the profits arising from fan-tan and pak-ah-pu, when followed as a means of livelihood, seem to have prevailed amongst members of the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes, one of whom stated that as much as £60,000 was remitted to China in the course of a year by a gambling firm in Sydney. Your Commissioners do not believe that so large a sum is netted annually by the whole of the Chinese gambling firms in the city and suburbs.

THE ALLEGED IMMORALITIES OF THE CHINESE.

The alleged immoralities of the Chinese, apart from gambling, have been considered under three heads—(1) the seduction of European girls of tender ages, (2) promiscuous intercourse with European women, (3) opium-smoking.

With regard to the seduction of young girls, it would appear that in years gone by there was some ground for the charge. This much is certain (vide Report of Select Committee on Common Lodging-houses, 1876, also the evidence of Inspector Lawless, printed in the following pages) that at one time mere children were occasionally rescued from dens of infamy kept by Chinamen; but judging from careful inspection, and the evidence of many witnesses thoroughly acquainted with the domestic side of Chinese life in Sydney, there is no ground for suspicion that our alien population is now a danger to youthful virtue.

On the other hand, that a large number of Chinamen have habitual intercourse with European women has been established by the evidence of several of the women themselves. In some instances the girls (all whom your Commission had an opportunity of questioning were comparatively young) seem to be living as wives in all but name with the men whose homes they share. Generally, however, European women living amongst the Chinese are the common property of many Chinamen, for whom they keep accommodation-houses in Sydney, and occasionally travel through the various Chinese camps in the country districts. The few who live in apparent constancy with individual Chinamen were the victims of seduction by Europeans, or of domestic unhappiness, and have, almost without exception, found shelter from lives of shame in the homes of the Chinese. They are there kindly and liberally treated. Their houses are comfortably furnished, and, apart from racial considerations, they have some reason to be satisfied, as they say they are, with their surroundings. The probability is that they would be on the streets of Sydney if they were not the mistresses of industrious Chinamen. The European women who live as prostitutes amongst the Chinese appear, in nearly every case, to have fled to their present haunts as to refuges from the brutality of men of their own race. They had lost caste; they had taken to drink; they were the drudges of larrikins who ill-treated them; some had been in gaol; none were enjoying the protection of decent homes. So, for the lack of better prospects, they sought the Chinamen, who at least pay them well and treat them kindly.

Under these circumstances, if it were not for one evil incidental to their present condition, it would be impossible to say that these, among the most unfortunate class of women in our midst, had not improved their surroundings by crossing the racial line. That evil, however, is of momentous consideration, and curses nearly all the European women who associate with Chinamen. They become opium-smokers. The girls who live with Chinamen almost as wives as well as those to whom allusion has since been made are all more or less slaves to "the habit." Some of them admitted in the course of their evidence consuming 3s. worth of opium per diem; and as they professed to be gradually weaning themselves from its use, the obvious inference is that they had previously smoked considerably more. The effects of the drug were written upon the faces and exhibited by demeanour of the smokers. Their features were pinched and worn; when their time for smoking approached, they became restless and inclined to hysteria; one girl brought an opium pill to lull the craving whilst she waited her turn as a witness. Whether any of them will abandon "the habit," it is impossible to say. Meanwhile the opium pipe beclouds their lives. It is worthy of notice that in many instances the men with whom the girls cohabit are not themselves opium-smokers, and cases have come before the Commission of Chinamen taking active measures to prevent their mistresses smoking. A large percentage of the Chinamen in Sydney, however, are addicted to opium. The gamblers nearly all smoke, a fair proportion of market-gardeners, and and here and there a cabinet-maker. The merchants and haberdashery hawkers are apparently free from the vice. Indeed, it is only fair to state that no traces of opium were discernible about the premises of the better class of merchants or cabinet-makers, or the dwellings of the haberdashery hawkers. One characteristic of opium, according to the evidence, is that it deadens the craving for intoxicating liquors. The girls all denied that loss of consciousness results from its use.

in opium.

An important feature associated with this branch of the inquiry is the extensive retail trade in opium carried on by Chinese storekeepers and boarding-house keepers contrary to law, and apparently without protest on the part of the authorities.

The Chinese
generally
citizens.

It is only fair to state that all the witnesses questioned upon the subject concurred in the opinion that the Chinese are, apart from their disposition to gamble, a singularly peaceable and generally law-abiding section of the community. There is a low percentage of criminality amongst them, and it is not without significance that, owing to the exercise of private charity by the well-to-do towards the poor of their own race, they do not depend for relief to any extent upon the benevolent institutions of this country.

THE CHARGES AGAINST THE POLICE.

Allegations against police made by deputations to Colonial Secretary.

The Commissioners regard the alleged misconduct of members of the police force as the most serious question brought within the scope of their investigation. The allegations, made by a deputation of Members of Parliament, tradesmen associated in an organisation known as the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, and other gentlemen to the Colonial Secretary, Sir Henry Parkes, G.C.M.G., were that in consequence of a wholesale system of bribery instituted by the proprietors of Chinese gambling-houses in George-street North, the police in that division had refrained from taking active steps for the suppression of the particular description of gaming, carried on therein. As reported in the press some of the statements volunteered by the deputation and the Members of Parliament who introduced them to the Colonial Secretary were :—

The police were not content with getting a gold watch in three months, but must have diamond rings on their fingers. It was a well-known fact that they were being paid to keep their eyes shut.

The police were bribed by the Chinese, not only by chests of tea but by gifts of money. He had heard that for years. It would be necessary to change the policemen who had been in that quarter.

He believed that the police winked at the evil. . . . The policemen were afraid to take action because they believed that the members of the Legislative Council who owned the houses would use their influence to have them removed from the force. Inspector Atwill should carry out his duty more fearlessly than he did.

It would be most advisable to change the police. North George-street was regarded by the police as one of the best beats for making money.

Unsubstantiated by evidence.

Charges of this nature are of course always difficult of disproof. Your Commissioners began their investigation by inviting the gentlemen who had made the charges to substantiate them. This they were unable to do. Without exception they had based their statements upon mere suspicion, or upon allegations that had come to them second-hand. Week after week the Commission followed such clues as the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League and others interested in the crusade against the Chinese gambling-houses were able to furnish. For the most part the evidence was hopelessly general. Occasionally, however, a definite statement setting forth the name of an accused police officer, and, to the best of the witness's belief, the exact facts of some doubtful transactions were evoked; but the result was that the charges broke down generally under the examination of witnesses suggested by the accusers themselves. One way and another the charges of bribery did break down; and this your Commissioners were unanimously agreed before the case against the police was concluded. Indeed, so far as the more serious allegations made by the deputation to the Colonial Secretary were concerned, the witnesses against the police had so utterly failed to establish their case that the police were examined, and severely cross-examined, on the charges of bribery with a view to seeing if, by any chance, they would implicate themselves; and that they certainly did not.

Specific charges against individual officers.

Specific charges were made by witnesses before your Commission against Inspector Atwill, ex-Sergeant Dawson, and Senior-constable Adair. Suspicion was attached especially to Sergeant Higgins, Senior-constable Beadman, Senior-constable Carson, and ex-Constable Quealy. Allegations of bribery and neglect of duty were levelled against the police generally at the No. 4 Station. Four Four distinct charges (one only however having reference to the Chinese) affected the probity of Inspector Atwill. It was stated that after the appointment of the Commission this officer had obtained from Mr. Ah Toy, a cabinet-maker in Lower George-street, a receipt for a book-case furnished to him by Ah Toy twelve months previously, the inference drawn by the witnesses who made the statement, being that Inspector Atwill had received the article as a bribe or present, and feeling uneasy about the matter, in view of the appointment of your Commission, had attempted to vindicate himself by obtaining a receipt with a view to showing that he had made the purchase in the customary way. The most important consideration in connection with this circumstance is the fact that Mr. Ah Toy is as far as your Commission could learn, in no way connected with any gambling-establishment, and therefore would have no apparent object in bribing Inspector Atwill to relax his activity in the suppression of gaming. Apart from that there is the emphatic denial of the cabinet-maker, who states the exact amount paid by the inspector on the bargain, the testimony of Mrs. Ah Toy, a European woman, and of course the corroborative evidence of Mr. Atwill himself. It is admitted, however, that the account was receipted long after the delivery of the book-case, but that is explained by the inspector who says (questions 11040, 11041, and 11042), that he had repeatedly asked for it, and that after the deputation to the Colonial Secretary, he was determined to have it in common with receipts for anything else purchased by him from the Chinese, not, in the opinion of your Commission, by any means a singular determination on the part of an upright man in Mr. Atwill's position.

The case against Inspector Atwill re book-case obtained from Ah Toy.

The other charges against this officer were (1) that he had demanded a present of £100 from a publican; (2) that he had said to a photographer that he ought to supply him gratuitously with portraits of himself and his family; and that other tradesmen in the district should furnish them freely with various descriptions of goods in consideration of the protection that he afforded them; (3) that he induced a shopkeeper to smuggle ashore for his (Mr. Atwill's) personal use a quantity of tobacco and cigars. Not only were all these charges denied by the accused, but the story of his demand upon the publican was rendered absurd by the fact that he had, as your Commission thinks, in the proper exercise of his duty, been the means of depriving him of one license, and had strenuously opposed his application for another; the statement of the photographer was, in the opinion of the Commission, too trivial and altogether improbable to warrant serious consideration, and the remaining incident was explained by Mr. Atwill, who said that he did not ask for the tobacco and cigars, but that a small quantity of black "plug" tobacco only—nothing like half-a-pound in weight—was left at the police station for him by the individual in question, that he "could not smoke stuff like that, and it lay on his mantelpiece until it was as dry as chips." The conversation resulting in this incident is thus described by the officer—

He alleged demands upon other tradesmen.

And a gift of tobacco.

I saw Dawson either in the street or at his own door. Dawson said to me, "You smoke, Mr. Atwill?" and I answered, "Yes;" and he then said, "I will get you a bit of good tobacco. I sometimes get a good bit on the ships." "Very well," I said; and that was all that transpired. A considerable time after that he left a small piece of tobacco"; &c.

Dawson's version differs from this in two particulars. He states that the inspector asked him to obtain both tobacco and cigars; that the request was made in return for a slight favour conferred upon him by the inspector, and that he subsequently delivered twenty-five cigars and 1½ pound of tobacco to the lock-up keeper with the remark, "There is a bit of tobacco and some cigars for Mr. Atwill when he comes in." The lock-up keeper swears positively that he has no recollection of the circumstance, and that to the best of his belief it did not occur. Your Commissioners, after carefully weighing the evidence on either side, accept the statement of Mr. Atwill and his subordinate.

Ex-Sergeant Dawson was charged with improperly obtaining the sum of £20 from Mr. Way Kee, a wealthy Chinese merchant. The facts appear to be these. Dawson, who retired from the police force some years ago, owns land at North Shore, and Way Kee at one time leased a portion of it as a vegetable garden at a yearly rental of £30. In this case, as in that of the piece of furniture which Inspector Atwill was said to have obtained without payment from Ah Toy, the Chinaman involved in the transaction is acquitted on all hands of complicity in any description of gambling. It is also worthy of note that according to the evidence of Mr. H. J. Maguire, upon whose authority the statement was made, the transaction took place as far back as ten years ago. (Q. 2379.)

The charge against ex-Sergeant Dawson.

The

The charge
against
Sen.-constable
Adair.

The imputation against Senior-Constable Adair was (Q. 3369, &c.), that when in the execution of his duty he misappropriated the money found on the tables of the gambling-houses. This statement in the definite form in which it was eventually made was obtained under great pressure from a witness who certainly entertained no malice against the constable; and was apparently a conclusion at which he had unwillingly arrived through a partial knowledge of the circumstances. The charge relates to events that happened (Q. 3395) six years ago. It appears that one of the duties of the police upon entering a gambling-house in the course of a raid is to secure all money and valuables on the table and hand them over at a convenient opportunity to the Inspector of the district. This is what Senior-constable Adair admits having done on more than one occasion, and the witness from whom the story emanated having seen him lay hands on money and transfer it to his pocket and being ignorant of the subsequent procedure, for some unaccountable reason (for he spoke in the highest terms of Adair's general behaviour) came to the conclusion that he was fraudulently handling the coin.

against Sergeant
Higgins and ex-Constable
Quealey.

The suspicion attached by various witnesses to Sergeant Higgins and ex-Constable Quealey seems to have arisen purely from the belief that they were possessed of more property than, in the opinion of the persons who aspersed them, members of the police force could honestly acquire; and further, exaggerated impressions were evidently entertained of the extent of their possessions. The wealth of the former consists of land and houses; and how, by dint of extraordinary thrift and industry, he became possessed of them was clearly attested by many highly respectable witnesses. Quealey, who, at the time of his examination, kept a public-house, fixes (Q. 8652) the value of his property upon leaving the force at a maximum below £400, £180 of which, according to his statement, he possessed upon joining the force, and the remainder of which he accumulated as the result of his savings during six years' police service. Having regard to a statement of the Inspector-General to the effect that an unmarried constable should be able to save £60 a year, your Commission see no grounds for doubting the truth of Quealey's explanation.

Senior-constables
Beadman and
Carson.

Senior-constable Beadman became an object of suspicion by reason of the jewellery he wore, the whole of which he satisfactorily accounted for, and some of which he obtained in public recognition of the value of his services as a policeman, and for the display of bravery in saving human life. Beadman was also charged, in common with his mate, Senior-constable Carson, with undue familiarity with the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-houses; but, as these men are plain clothes officers, and as such are obliged, in pursuance of their duty, to associate with disreputable characters, the aspersion really amounts to nothing.

discredited.

With reference to the charges of bribery generally, your Commissioners would in conclusion state one consideration that renders the truth of them all extremely improbable. No beat is under the exclusive care of any individual constable. On the contrary, not only are officers relieved from duty at stated intervals by other officers, but they are frequently shifted from one part of the district to another; so that for bribery to be effectual it would have to be, to a large extent, general, and that amongst so numerous a body of men, who surely include a percentage of honest individuals, is practically out of the question. Thus, after the most searching inquiry, after plying witnesses with questions often verging in their bias upon unfairness to the police, your Commissioners emphatically discredit the charges of bribery.

Alleged
the police.

Beyond this the police have been charged with maintaining an attitude of culpable inactivity towards Chinese gambling; and to that has been added the imputation that their leniency is due to fear of applying the law to the occupants of houses owned by wealthy and influential persons. In dealing with this phase of the subject the Commission cannot but recall the complaints made by certain persons against the police under Inspector Atwill for alleged unnecessary interference with the licensees of hotels. Now, hotels are in common with other descriptions of property, owned by wealthy and influential men, and that the police should proceed fearlessly against publicans, despite prejudicial consequences to landlords, and yet for the reason alleged refrain from discharging their duty in the suppression of Chinese gambling, is altogether beyond credence. Your Commission, therefore, reject the imputation with which the charge of inactivity has been coupled.

On

On the other hand, after regarding the matter in all its bearings, overlooking neither the absence of serious moral incentive to deal with an insignificant portion of a far-spreading evil nor the defective state of the law by which action is impeded, they are bound to say that in their opinion the police might, though at some inconvenience, have taken more active measures for the suppression of gambling in the Chinese quarters of George-street North, Goulburn-street, and Alexandria. To that extent, then your Commissioners consider that the conduct of the police is open to criticism. The significance of their finding upon this point may be elaborated thus: Granted that the police are unable to proceed against the gamblers without warrant; that the warrants are exceedingly difficult of execution, and are frequently rendered inoperative by the wariness of the gaming-housekeepers (the reason no doubt why raids have not been much more frequent), the Commission are still of opinion that if visits to the gambling-houses had been paid two or three times in the course of an evening by constables on patrol the effect would have been harassing to the players, and therefore salutary. At the same time, it is quite possible that the frequency of visits from constables who would not on these occasions be armed with authority to enter, and who would thus be liable to ejection, would eventually defeat its own end. As a matter of fact, it was stated in evidence that some years ago, when the fan-tan-rooms were much easier of access than at present, raids, unauthorised by warrant, were made, occasionally several times in the course of an evening, and invariably with the result that the gamblers re-assembled as soon as the police had turned their backs. True, Mr. Anderson, who formerly held the position of Inspector-in-charge of No. 4 District, stated that by a system of constant visitation he held the gambling in check; but that, it must be remembered, was fifteen years ago, long before the gambling mania had assumed its present proportions, or the Chinese were as clever in evading the law, and, consequently, when a much smaller force would be capable of dealing with the gambling-houses. All things considered, therefore, whilst it is thought that the police might with advantage have demonstrated greater activity, it is by no means certain that they could have done so without subordinating the public interest in other directions, and the measure of energy expedient in the suppression of Chinese gambling becomes, therefore, to some extent, a matter of opinion. Upon this point the evidence of the Inspector-General is important. He said (Q. 12062):—

We have a limited number of police, and every now and then public attention is awakened to some particular social evil. It may be gambling on the turf, or street disorder by larrikins, or prostitution, or suburban house robberies, or a variety of other things; and then the newspapers and the public say, "Why don't the police do more." People forget, however, that the police have their regular routine of duty to perform, and that whilst it is possible to afford a very large increase in the number of men engaged in any particular work, that can only be effected by taking them away from other duties, and, therefore, whilst it would not be correct for me to say that there might not have been a great deal more vigour displayed in stamping out Chinese gambling, or any other species of criminality which it is the duty of the police to suppress, it should not be forgotten that generally if you focus the strength of the force in one direction you deprive it of corresponding strength in another.

It has been already inferred that the existing law is, in the opinion of your Commissioners, inadequate for the purpose of coping with Chinese gambling. In fan-tan prosecutions the evidence of a person who has witnessed the game is of course essential. But in order to obtain such evidence it is necessary in the first place to procure a warrant empowering the police to enter suspected premises, and in the second place to choose a suitable time for its execution. This entails a degree of watchfulness on the part of the authorities that is always apt to forewarn the gamblers; and thus it happens that the most careful preparations are often frustrated at the last moment. Under any circumstances, too, where the means of protection, and escape in the event of surprise are so great, it is an exceedingly difficult thing to effect an entrance for the purpose of obtaining the necessary proof. If, however, the raid be successful, whilst the principals are detained in custody, their clients must be liberated, and subsequently summoned to appear in Court. With the object of simplifying the process, and strengthening the hands of the authorities in dealing with fan-tan, your Commission would suggest certain amendments in the law. They would recommend, especially with a view to the suppression of the game of fan-tan:—(1) That senior-constables and non-commissioned officers should, without first procuring a magistrate's warrant, have the power of entering any house suspected of being a public gambling resort; (2) that persons found on premises where gambling is in progress should be liable to arrest and summary conviction; conviction; (3) that where gambling implements are found on suspected premises the occupant should thereby be rendered liable to prosecution, and the onus of proof cast upon the accused. With regard to proceedings against the proprietors of lotteries, under the law as it stands it is necessary not only to see the tickets marked, but also to witness the bank drawn, an almost impossible undertaking for the police, the rooms used as banks being generally the most inaccessible in the buildings, and then the authorities are enabled to proceed against the principals only. Your Commission would recommend that in this case the law should be so amended as to render the mere sale and purchase of pak-ah-pu tickets a misdemeanor. The tickets are imported from China in bales, and being specially adapted for this description of lottery, there could hardly be any mistake touching the purpose for which they are sold. It would also be well, if, as provided in the New Zealand law, the existence of barricades against inspection by the police of houses suspected as public gambling resorts was made an offence.

VISITS OF INSPECTION.

Insanitary premises.

The Commission visited the various centres of Chinese population in and around the metropolis. In the course of these tours they inspected the premises of merchants and storekeepers, cabinet-makers, and market-gardeners, private houses occupied by Chinamen, gambling-dens, opium-dens, and brothels. As a rule the places were clean—clean, that is, as far as it was in the power of the occupants to keep them clean; but a large number of the houses inhabited by Chinamen are amongst the worst-conditioned of tenements. To two rows of houses (Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4, 11, 12, 13, and 14), in Queen's-place to the whole of the dwelling-houses in the Suez Canal, to Nos. 50 and 52, Goulburn-street, and especially to a cluster of wretched huts at the rear of Retreat-street, Alexandria, referred to at length in the valuable evidence of Dr. Ashburton Thompson, attention is directed. The huts at Alexandria would disgrace the suburbs of any city in the world. In all these cases, as Dr. Thompson pointed out, the blame rests chiefly, not with the Chinese occupants but with the owners of the property, and with the municipal officers. The most serious fault to be found with the Chinese on the score of insanitation arises principally from their tendency to overcrowd, and their extreme antipathy to ventilation. They sleep in bunks ranged round the bed-rooms, and sometimes one above the other; six or eight men often occupying apartments which, even if well ventilated, would not afford healthful accommodation for more than one or two persons. In the city they further economise space by roofing-in the yards and thus converting them into kitchens. In several instances sinks and water-closets have been enclosed with every foot of available ground, and it is no uncommon thing to find the cook preparing food for the table in disgusting proximity to an open privy. The by-laws of the various municipalities provide safe-guards for uncleanness, though it does not appear that in Alexandria they have been enforced with sufficient rigour; but for the prevention of overcrowding and the conversion of back yards into covered apartments there is no law. The Commission learn, however, with satisfaction, that as far as the city of Sydney is concerned, these matters have already received attention at the hands of the Municipal Council, who intend immediately to submit to Parliament a Bill giving enlarged powers to their sanitary officers. A Common Lodging House Act would, in the opinion of your Commissioners, also lead to an improvement in the conditions under which the Chinese live.

Decrease in the retail trade of George-street North.

Several witnesses complained of a decrease during recent years in the retail business in George-street North, and alleged further that this was due to the number of Chinese gambling-dens in the neighbourhood, women avoiding that portion of the main street for fear of molestation, and foot passengers generally preferring Pitt-street as a cleaner and pleasanter approach to the Circular Quay. Your Commissioners recognise the fact that there has been a falling off in the retail trade of George-street North, but that they attribute principally to the growing importance of the northern suburbs, the diversion of traffic by means of the tram to the eastern side of the Quay, and the removal of the A.S.N. Co.'s premises to a distant part of the town. Whether rents in Lower George-street have decreased accordingly is a matter of opinion.

CALLINGS

CALLINGS AND OCCUPATIONS OF THE CHINESE.

The Chinese around Sydney follow the occupation of merchants, storekeepers, cabinet-makers, market-gardeners, hawkers, and gamblers. It is only in cabinet-making and vegetable-growing, however, that they come into serious competition with European tradesmen. Of the merchants and storekeepers your Commission need only say that they are on the whole well-conducted residents. They trade principally with their own people whom they supply with tea, rice, opium, and the more distinctly national commodities of their race, and in their own lives they realise to a very large extent the European idea of comfort.

There are in the immediate vicinity of the metropolis Chinese cabinet factories large and small employing over 400 hands. How far the presence of so much cheap labour in the furniture industry has militated against the success of Australian manufacturers or tended to lower the wage-rate of Australian workmen it would be difficult to estimate. That it has kept Europeans out of the field there can be no doubt whatever. But in considering the extent to which the local European trade has been affected by the Chinese factories, cheap imported furniture becomes a disturbing factor. From evidence it would appear that whilst nearly one half of the cheap furniture sold in Sydney is turned out of the Chinamen's shops, a similar proportion is imported. The Chinese do not, according to the evidence, affect the manufacture of first-class furniture. Their influence upon the market is therefore limited to goods of second and third-rate quality, and chiefly to the commonest articles sold in the various city auction-rooms. Most of the large furnishing houses, however, are in the habit of purchasing the superior kinds of Chinese-made furniture and selling it as of European manufacture; and it is to guard against this deception that the compulsory stamping of all goods turned out of the Chinese cabinet factories has so often been urged by Australian mechanics. Your Commission approve of the suggestion which they consider, under the circumstances, to be most reasonable, and a protection alike to workman and customer—for it must be assumed that our own people, as a rule, would give the preference in effecting a purchase to a European-made article. Meanwhile, it is gratifying to learn that although the Chinese workshops continue to increase, the aggregate number of Chinese employees has a downward tendency; and, further, that with the stoppage of Chinese immigration and the lapsing of indentures under which new arrivals were compelled to work for a certain period at excessively low rates, the remuneration of men in the Chinese factories has advanced until at the present time, bearing in mind that the Chinese are comparatively slow workers, it is not greatly below the local European standard for the same class of work. In other words, whilst the average European wage is something like £2 10s. per week, the Chinamen receive from 20s. to 30s. per week, in addition to board and lodging. Simultaneously with the improvement of wages and the tendency to retrogression in the cabinet-making industry amongst the Chinese, there has been a corresponding advance in the local European trade. This is obviously attributable to the cessation of Chinese immigration, as a result of the Chinese Restriction Act, and it is anticipated by those most seriously affected that the compulsory stamping of Chinese-made goods would further tend to place the Australian workman on a fair level with his Chinese competitor. It may be added, that the Chinese mechanics are generally lodged and fed on the premises. They sleep in dormitories boarded off from the workshops. Their food would appear to be more liberal in kind and quantity than is generally supposed. It consists of three meals a day—chiefly of pork, fish, rice, cabbage, and tea, with poultry, and Chinese liqueurs as a rule on Sundays. They work longer hours than Europeans engaged in the same trade—generally from half past five in the morning to half past six at night with half an hour for breakfast and dinner respectively.

In the cultivation of vegetables the Chinese are practically masters of the situation. Indeed they have at the present time, around Sydney, comparatively few competitors. It is apparently their custom to form themselves into syndicates for the leasing and working of suitable land, in some instances in an uncultivated state at the time they enter into possession. By dint of skill and industry they prepare it for planting, and in less than six months cart the first vegetables to market. Almost from the outset the enterprise becomes a source of remuneration, and it is no uncommon thing for each partner, after paying expenses, expenses, to put by £50 or £60 a year as his share of the profits. That, however, is a result of more than ordinary skill and reasonable industry. It is due to extreme frugality and unremitting toil. With the exception of an extra hour or two for rest on a Saturday afternoon, and a fairly well observed holiday on Sundays, the whole of their waking moments appear to be occupied with work in their gardens. Their meals are extremely simple; but here, again, it is perhaps as well to guard against the idea that a working Chinaman lives on the verge of starvation. Like most people he appreciates a full meal; and if European luxuries are conspicuous by their absence, he has nevertheless his periods of sober feasting. Touching the possibility of European competition in market-gardening, the evidence of one witness is instructive. Mr. Alderman Smith, a market-gardener at Botany, was asked:—

15644. Do you find it (market-gardening) a profitable business? He replied, Yes; I have done so since I have taken it in hand, and I have been at gardening thirty-four years and a half.

15644. Have you found any difficulty arising from the keen competition of Chinese vegetable-growers? Slightly; not to any considerable extent.

15645. You have not had much cause to complain? No, not as yet.

15649. Have you known many vegetable gardens to be given up by Europeans because they could not make them pay? No; but I have known them to sell out to Chinese for the purpose of making a profit.

15650. Not because they could not work them? No; merely as a matter of profit to themselves. I might have sold out to profit myself, because I was offered the opportunity, but I would not accept it.

15651. You could make it pay? Yes. At the same time I have no occasion to work now. I have sufficient now. I do not say that it is altogether the ground that has produced my independence. It is other things; but I could have gained sufficient from that.

15652. So far as you are concerned your garden has proved profitable, and you can work it profitably now? Yes.

Methods of cultivation
the Chinese.

With regard to the methods of cultivation employed by the Chinese, your Commissioners availed themselves of the opinion of Mr. C. L. Anderson, Director of Agriculture, and that gentleman contributed instructive information upon one or two questions about which the popular mind is more or less perplexed. Your Commissioners, aware that Chinese gardeners applied human excrement and urine extensively to growing vegetables, asked him particularly whether the objections often urged against the practice had more than a sentimental basis. His answer was explicit: He said:

Chemistry makes no distinction between elements in a manure, such as nitrogen or potash or phosphoric acid, whether they are in the form of cow dung or, to speak quite plainly, of man's dung. They are all the same to a chemist. I saw it stated in a newspaper a little while ago, for example, that the Chinese saturate their vegetables with ammonia, and that that caused typhoid fever. Now, ammonia can no more cause typhoid fever than it can cause any other disease that is the result of a germ; but if, on the other hand, vegetables were doused with matter containing that germ, of course it is within the bounds of possibility that typhoid fever might be spread that way. The danger in that case would be with those quick-growing vegetables that are speedily produced and eaten without being cooked.

Dr. Ashburton Thomson expressed a similar opinion. Both gentlemen, however, condemned the practice of storing vegetables in sleeping or living apartments, a practice to which in spite of the frequent warnings of Mr. Sanitary Inspector Seymour the Chinese are still prone. Mr. Anderson pointed out that apart altogether from the possibility of vegetables becoming in this way the means of conveying contagious diseases their value as a food, when faded, was much deteriorated.

Chinese
societies.

In the course of their inquiries your Commission gleaned a considerable amount of information about various Chinese secret societies. Their reason for devoting special attention to the subject was the allegation that it has been through the medium of these institutions that the improper transactions had been effected between the keepers of Chinese gambling-houses and members of the police force. They find that societies do exist very generally among Chinese immigrants in all parts of the Colony. At no time, however, as far as they have been able to ascertain, has there been more than one secret society (the Loon Ye Tong) whose objects were illegal; and that society appears to have consisted principally of gamblers, and to have devoted its funds very largely to defraying the legal expenses occurred in their defence when prosecuted, and the penalties in the event of conviction, thus belying the imputation of bribery by the fact that the activity of the police was the principal reason for its existence. The Loon Ye Tong, however, two years ago fell a victim to internal strife, and there are no signs of its reorganisation. The remaining societies are benevolent institutions, formed on a basis of "cousinship," and displaying their charity in the transport of old men and the bones of their deceased countrymen to China.

Your

Your Commission regret that their powers were in the first place confined to the City of Sydney and suburbs, and that their request for power to visit certain country districts where the Chinese camps are reputed to be a serious evil was not acceded to.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS.*

For the Suppression of Gambling.

1. That Non-commissioned Officers and Senior-constables be empowered without procuring a Magistrate's warrant to enter any house suspected of being a public gambling resort.
2. That persons found on premises where gambling is in progress should be liable to arrest and summary conviction.
3. That where gambling implements are found on suspected premises, the occupant should thereby be rendered liable to prosecution, and the onus of proof cast upon the accused of his being there for a lawful purpose.
4. That the sale and purchase of pak-ah-pu tickets be made a misdemeanor.
5. That, in houses suspected as public gambling resorts, the existence of barricades against police inspection be declared unlawful.
6. That the police should, by the frequent visitation of gaming-houses, in addition to organised raids, harass those who make a living by gambling, or who gamble for amusement, as much as possible, without neglecting their duty in other directions.

For the Suppression of Opium Smoking.

A stricter enforcement of the law relating to the sale and distribution of opium.

For Improvement in the Sanitary Condition of Chinese Residences.

1. A Common Lodging House Act, compelling the keepers of lodging-houses of all descriptions to provide adequate accommodation (cubic space, ventilation, water-closets, &c.).
2. That Parliament should give its favourable consideration to the new Bill for the better government of the City of Sydney, now in course of preparation by the City Council.

For the better Regulation of the Furniture Trade.

The stamping of all Chinese-made articles of furniture.

We have the honor to be,

Your Excellency's most obedient Servants,

W. P. MANNING,

PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL,

VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSAY MCKILLOP.

J. STUART HAWTHORNE.

QUONG TART.

Dated Sydney, the 22nd day of January, 1892.

* Your Commission, aware of the extent of gambling by means of consultations and totalizers, also of the necessity for a Common Lodging-house Bill, recognise that several of these recommendations apply with equal force to European as to Chinese gambling-establishments and lodging-houses.

CHINESE GAMBLING COMMISSION.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE.

THURSDAY, 3 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

George Black, Esq., M.P., examined:—

Witness said: It will perhaps be well if I preface any questions from the Commission by a short statement. In the first place I am not a resident of George-street North, and any facts that I brought before the notice of the Colonial Secretary and the public have been chiefly gathered from respectable citizens residing in George-street North, whose names I will furnish to the Commission. They are almost all, without exception, shop-keepers or shop-employees in that locality, and many of them have known the neighbourhood for a very long time. To begin with, there are Mr. Felton and Mr. Nock, of Messrs. Felton and Nock, ironmongers; then there is Mr. Buchanan, who keeps the Fortune o' War Hotel; Mr. Armstrong, a tobacconist in Lower George-street, who is Chairman of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League; Mr. Swinburn, boot-maker; Mr. Kelly, grocer; Mr. Lilja, outfitter; Mr. Christensen, of the Fish and Oyster Saloon; Mr. Dawson, fruiterer; Mr. Tucker, butcher; Mr. Chazel, hairdresser; Mr. Reardon, bootmaker; Mr. Chambers, accountant to Messrs. Felton and Nock; and Mr. Nolan, salesman with the same firm; Mr. Boker, carpenter, Cumberland-street, near Essex-street.

1. Mr. Abigail.] All the previous names are those of men in business in George-street, are they? Yes. Then a van man named David Rip gave me some information. I do not know where he lives, but he stands on the Circular Quay with his van for hire. The information that I obtained from those sources was first that the value of businesses was being impaired by the behaviour of the Chinese in Lower George-street, not only from the fact that their houses were filthy, and that the smell from them was foul, that they were seriously over crowded, that gambling was carried on at all hours of the day and night, that there was almost continuous opium-smoking, and that the houses were used as assignation houses and places to decoy young persons of both sexes, but that the Chinese residents openly solicited the entrance of men and women passing by. The consequence being that citizens who had been in the habit of going down Lower George-street to the ferry boats had gradually deserted that thoroughfare, and now made their exit from the city down Pitt-street. Then the next point was that the Chinese were gradually ousting the white people who had been shop-keepers in Lower George-street from that part of the town. As soon as a white shop keeper's lease fell in, his landlord would get rid of him, and let the shop to a Chinese tenant, because the Chinese were able, by reason of their illegitimate trade, to offer not only a much higher rent, but in many cases to add a large bonus for the sake of getting possession of the premises. A white man who had been in a shop for years, paying perhaps £2 10s. or £3 10s. a week rental was told that if he wished to remain he would have to pay £6, £7, or £8 a week, and in addition to that, in order to compete with the Chinese, to pay a bonus of £100, or perhaps £150 for the renewal of the lease. That was the second complaint: that the white residents of Lower George-street were being crowded out by the Chinese because they, doing a legitimate business, could not compete with the Mongolians, who were making very much larger profits out of an illegitimate business. Then they charged the police with knowing that the gambling was going on, not only all night but all hours of the day; that Chinese lottery tickets were being sold, from morning till night, and that games of fan-tan were played whenever sufficient persons could be got together to make it worth the while of the bank to enter upon the game. They pointed out to me that there was no necessity to organise raids upon these places, but that the police ought to simply walk in at any hour in order to catch them in the act. The shop-keepers to whom I allude first called upon me in the form of a deputation, and proposed that I should introduce a Bill into the Legislative Assembly for the purpose of dealing with Chinese gambling, overcrowded and filthy premises, and the molestation of persons passing down the street. I told them that I did not think it necessary that the law as it stood was comprehensive enough to stop all those practices, if it was only put into force, and I advised them to interview the Premier and place the facts before him. That was done on the 30th July, when about a dozen gentlemen, including the four Members of Parliament for West Sydney, waited upon him. The deputation gave him all the facts that I have given to you, and a good many more besides. The statement made upon that occasion was this:—That the police had neglected to enforce the law—not because they could not obtain evidence of the gambling going on within the Chinese shops, or of the filth and overcrowding—but because they were on the one side habitually bribed by the Chinese, and, on the other, frightened of arousing the resentment of those who owned the premises. Thus, those who did not fail in their duty because they were bribed, did fail in it because they were afraid. It was actually asserted that there is amongst the police a sustentation fund, towards which every man who keeps a gambling-house subscribes so much a week for the purpose of obtaining immunities from police interference. Ex-Constable Quealy, I was informed, not directly by David Rip, but through a gentleman who had an interview with David Rip, withdrew, I think it was £670, from the bank at Miller's Point, after being in the force, I believe, only seven years, and having during that time become notorious for his want of sobriety, and being, therefore, probably, not a very thrifty man. Constable Beadman, upon his own admission, has £460 in the bank. He said to Mr. Armstrong, "I suppose this Chinese Commission will think that because I have £460 in the bank I have also been bribed by the Chinamen, but I won it at horse-racing." He made that statement in consequence of a conversation he was having with Mr. Armstrong about Ex-Constable Quealy. It was pointed out to him that Quealy was likely to be charged with having received this money in the form of bribes, and then it was that he said, "I suppose that they will charge me, &c."

2. President.] Who is Mr. Armstrong? A tobacconist in Lower George-street. On one occasion Constables Carson and Beadman wore diamond pins and rings, standing outside the premises of, I think, Mr. Nock—at all events, I got the information from Mr. Nock, Mr. Kelly, and Mr. Buchanan—and twiddled the rings on their fingers, as much as to say, "we have got the diamonds, and we mean to keep on getting them in spite of you." But it seems that they had become afraid since the Commission was formed, because they have put these rings and pins out of sight; so that if they did not obtain them in the manner insinuated, they were, at all events afraid, lest it should be thought that they had.

3. Mr. Abigail.] Do I understand that this statement is not the result of your own observation? Exactly. I know nothing of these Chinese habitations except by going up and down the street and seeing these filthy places, or people always standing outside, and the same goods in the windows from one week's end to the other. They are apparently there for sale, but as a matter of fact they are only there for the purpose of hiding the real nature of the business done inside. In one shop I have seen the same duck in the window—at least, from the amount of fly-dirt upon it I should say it is the same, though it may be a canvas duck—for two years.

4. President.] This statement of yours, then, is based entirely upon hearsay? Yes; upon what has been told me by the people I have named. There are one or two other little points. The residents down there do not charge the Chinese with simply beggaring the people who are foolish enough to gamble with them, but they are actually in business as pawnbrokers. When a person has lost all his money to them they are prepared to lend him money on his watch and chain, or any other article of value. He can have it back again if he is prepared to redeem it within a certain time; otherwise, they keep it altogether. It is also said that the Chinamen do not keep the houses in George-street North so much as they did, for prostitution, but that they have hired places in the back streets where they keep prostitutes, not only for their own convenience, but also for the use of their customers. Of course, when I made this statement before Sir Henry Parkes, I distinctly said that it was merely a matter of common report, but the newspapers at the time made it appear as though it was a statement of facts that had come under my own observation. As a matter of fact, I made the statement then precisely as I make it now.

5. Mr. Abigail.] It is reported that you said, "It is a well-known fact that the police have received these presents"? That is putting it rather too strongly.

6. President.] Did you take any trouble to substantiate the facts? Yes; I made inquiries from one and another, and I was told so many little things that I cannot remember them all.

7. Can you give us any particular case of the offering or of the taking of a bribe that we could investigate? Well, they told us that the police received jars of ginger, cases of tea, and chests of drawers.

8. But could you give us some particular case of an individual being bribed, and say by whom he was bribed? I do not think I could—speaking from memory. Inspector Atwill was charged with directly taking a bribe.

9. That was told to you? Yes, and that Constables Beadman, Carson, and Quealy had also been bribed.

10. Could you give us the name of the person who told you that? I think that almost every member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League has made those statements in one form or another. They all told me of different cases, and I did not make a note of them.

11. But generally speaking the men you have mentioned are the accusers? Yes; and the four men that I have mentioned are the accused.

12. Does this corruption, according to your information, run all through the force? No; as far as I can understand the charges are confined to these four constables.

13. Some of them are private constable are they not? I think so.

14. What was Quealy? A low-grade constable.

15. But this bribery to be effectual would have to be general among the members of the force engaged in the Lower George-street district, would it not? I suppose it would.

16. And the same in Goulburn-street? Yes. I suggested to the Colonial Secretary that even for the sake of the men themselves—because there is no doubt the residents in George-street North, believe that those among the police who are not actually bribed are afraid to move in the matter, because the influence of those who own property might be used against them—that even for the sake of the men themselves if for nothing else, they should be removed to some other part of the town.

17. You say that the police are either bribed by the Chinese or afraid to prosecute according to law, because of the influence of the property owners in the neighbourhood? Yes, that is what is alleged by my informants. It must be one of those reasons that conduces to the neglect of duty complained of.

18. In what way would the owners of property down there bring any influence to bear upon the common policeman on his beat? Well, I suppose they would do it through his superiors.

19. Did you ascertain any information that would be of use to the Commission on that particular point, it is most important—I know that some of the property owners occupy high positions, and one of them a particularly high position? It is certainly an influence that is dreaded. One or two of the policemen I believe—I do not remember their names—have stated to members of the deputation that they were afraid to enforce the law, because of the influence that might be brought to bear against them.

20. Do you know anything about the Chinese in other parts of the city—some in Goulburn-street? I have sometimes walked up and down Goulburn-street, and the same state of things seem to prevail there. If anything, I think the places there are more given up to Chinese gambling, filth, opium smoking, and prostitution than those in Lower George-street, because they make no pretence of carrying on business down there.

21. All the charges you have been making, however, are in reference to the police in Lower George-street? Yes.

22. But supposing that state of corruption exist in Lower George-street, it is probable in your mind that the same state of things exist in Goulburn-street? Yes; I do not see how it can be otherwise.

23. In fact, it would be an extraordinary thing if it were not? Yes; it would be hardly possible.
24. Did the Anti-Chinese Gambling League pay any attention to that portion of the city in their investigation? Yes; I think they had members from that district.
25. Have you ever heard of any specific charges against the police from those persons? No; I have only met those who reside or who are employed in business in my electorate.
26. You stated that ordinary citizens—men, and also women—are constantly invited by the Chinese to enter their places;—when you say women, do you mean the ordinary prostitute or ladies passing down the street on the way to the ferry-boats? Respectable women. I can name one—the wife of Mr. Kelly, the grocer. On her way down the street on one occasion she was interfered with, and had to return to the shop to get the protection of her husband.
27. What time of day was that? In the evening, I believe.
28. Does this molestation take place in the open daylight? Yes, I believe so. From what I have heard and seen, I should say that it was more molestation by gesture and mutterings than actual interference.
29. But it does take place in the open daylight? Yes.
30. Have you ever noticed it yourself? I have been accosted myself.
31. By the Chinese? Yes.
32. But at night-time it is more general? I should imagine so, though from experience I do not know.
33. Do people travel to the Manly boats along George-street? They used to do so, but now the Chinese nuisance has driven them into Pitt-street.
34. Is George-street the shorter route? I believe it is; at all events, people used to take it in preference to Pitt-street.
35. And now, in consequence of the foot traffic having diverted into Pitt-street, there is a loss of trade to the shopkeepers in George-street? That is the complaint.
36. In other words, George-street North, as a business centre, has suffered considerable depreciation? Yes.
37. And, if this state of things was allowed to continue, the result in the long run would be that the property-owners in George-street would be able to let their premises to Chinese only? Yes; this influence is forcing even those who object to let their premises to Chinese to do so, because they cannot find Europeans to take them.
38. But would that entail the great increase in rent that you allude to;—if none but Chinese would take shops in that part of the street they would have the rents pretty much their own way? Perhaps eventually that would be the case, but at present it is the reverse.
39. Can you give us any instance that has come within your own observation of a European tradesman having been obliged to vacate his premises and the premises having been subsequently let to a Chinaman at a higher rental and with a bonus added? I have heard of many such cases.
40. But you have never taken notice of it yourself? No. I know that in the case of some premises erected by Mr. Beale the agent at first refused to let them to Chinese.
41. Why? I did not hear the reason in so many words, but understood by what was said that it was because he objected to the habits of Chinese tenants generally.
42. Do you know the premises? No; but at all events upon being refused, the Chinaman offered to pay a higher rental for them, and ultimately a higher rental, and a bonus of £100, which the agent also at first refused, but subsequently accepted. That information I obtained from Mr. Nock.
43. Are you aware whether there are many empty shops north of Bridge-street? I walked out this morning in that direction, and did see one or two empty shops. In one instance a tradesman (Mr. Nock) has leased a shop next to his own, not because he wants it, for he only uses it as a kind of storeroom, but in order to prevent a Chinese firm taking it.
44. Mr. Nock would not have rented the shop, but for that purpose? No.
45. Does he reside there? No; he simply carries on his business there.
46. Have you ever visited any of these fan-tan or other gambling-houses? Not in Sydney; I went once or twice for amusement, when I was in the bush.
47. You are a press-man, are you not? Yes; and when I said that I had not been in any of the Chinese gambling-houses in Sydney, I forgot that about four or five years ago, I did go round to inspect them. That was for the purpose of writing about them.
48. Had you any difficulty in getting in? No; no difficulty at all.
49. Did you only go to one place? No; to several.
50. What sort of people were engaged in the gambling? All classes.
51. Not merely Chinamen? No; Europeans; clerks, men apparently engaged in business, boys, wharf-labourers, seamen, engineers, persons of all classes, and mere children, some of them. That was when the Bulletin published a series of articles on the question.
52. I suppose the practice has become more general since? It has; very much more. When I said that I had not visited these places lately, I meant that I had not invested any money in them. In the bush I did, out of curiosity, play fan-tan.
53. Do you understand the game? To this extent: that I lost £6 or £7 at Hay.
54. Then you evidently do not understand it? No.
55. Is the gambling carried on in one room? Yes; I think so.
56. Is that room well filled with players? Yes; so full that when I was there, many persons could not get near the table, and had to take their places when others dropped out.
57. Do they play for high stakes? They gamble for coppers I believe; but at that time they were playing for nothing less than sixpences.
58. Supposing the same to be conducted fairly, what are the banker's profits? About 2d. in the shilling, I think.
59. That is about 17 per cent.? Yes; but I am not quite sure about the amount.
60. Mr. Hawthorne.] A penny in the shilling I think? It may be a penny. Fan-tan is like all other games carried on by a bank. The bankers do not depend only upon the percentages, but it may happen that they sweep the whole board.
61. President.] I understand that sometimes a little cheating is indulged in;—but I am supposing that everything is carried on fairly? Yes; they have, I believe, hollow coins, spring coins, which split in two when necessity requires.
62. Inspector Atwill is the alleged culprit, as far as connivance at the illegal practice of these people is concerned, I believe? Yes. My informants make him responsible for the neglect of duty on the part of the police.

- G. Black,
Esq., M.P.

63. Do you personally know Inspector Atwill? I have interviewed him once—that is all.
64. Is he a man of any means? That I cannot say.
65. Is it alleged that he is a rich man? I have not heard anybody say so; still, if reports are true, he ought to be.
66. You have made a study of the legislation connected with this question, have you not? No, I cannot say that I have. I know a little about it. I have obtained some information about the American laws on the subject, and intended to bring it with me this morning, but find that I have mislaid it.
67. At all events, from what you said to the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, you do not think that additional legislation is necessary? No. I think they simply require to enforce the laws already existing against gambling, over-crowding, filthy premises, prostitution, and the molestation of people in the street.
68. Would it not be a fact that if the police made constant visits to these places they would conduct the gambling very much less openly than they do? I should think so.
69. Do you think that the constant visitation of the police would entirely suppress it? I think that in time it would; of course it would terrify Europeans who were in the habit of visiting the places, as long as they enjoyed a practical immunity from arrest. At present I should think the police have the power of ordering the people out, if not arresting them, and the exercise of that power could scarcely fail to be beneficial.
70. Is it not a fact that the police would be served with a special warrant for that purpose? I am not aware of it.
71. Have you inspected any of the premises where this gambling is carried on? Well, I know that when I visited them some years ago you were usually faced after passing through the shop with a stout door, in which there was a pane of glass. This door was closed, and behind it stood a Chinaman, who scrutinised you closely before he admitted you; and if he did not like the appearance of anyone he would refuse to open the door.
72. Seeing that the internal arrangements are such, is it not a very difficult matter for the police to apprehend the persons who are engaged in gambling in the inner apartment? Well, I am told that these precautions are not used in the day-time.
73. But do you think that gambling is carried on much in the day-time? It is said that it is.
74. But wharf labourers, clerks, and tradesmen are engaged in the day-time? Tradesmen and clerks are of course employed during the day-time, but wharf labourers' employment is intermittent, and seamen from the various ships in port often have leisure during the day-time.
75. Have you been up-stairs? Some years ago I went up-stairs in some of the houses.
76. Are you aware that if you entered with the police a scare would be created immediately, and the occupants of the gambling-houses would take advantage of various means of communication between the top storeys of one house and another for the purpose of escape? I have heard that such would be the case. Pak-ah-pu seems to be the game that is carried on most frequently during the day.
77. Yes; but you see I want to keep to the police question; the police have been charged with a very grave dereliction of duty, and naturally they would reply by enumerating the difficulties that they would have to encounter in making a raid upon these places? Quite so. In San Francisco, I believe, the police surround a whole block, and gradually close in upon the gambling-house.
78. Of course that would require a great many men; in Lower George-street, for instance, it would require a line of constables along the entire block in George-street itself, a similar number in the lane behind, and others at each end of the block? Yes; I suppose it would.
79. And that would necessitate the watching of a large number of houses not occupied by Chinese at all, because some respectable tradesmen are carrying on business in these very blocks? Yes; though there would be no means of escape from a Chinese' gambling-house to that of a European citizen's, I suppose.
80. Would you give us the names of some of the persons in high places of whose influence you say the police are in fear; are they members of Parliament, for instance? I believe that one or two of them are Members of the Legislative Council.
81. Can you give in their names? I am not quite sure of the names, and would not like to risk doing an injustice to anybody in the matter, but you can get all that information from any member of the deputation who waited upon the Colonial Secretary. One landlord, for instance, refused to let his house to a Chinaman for a gambling-den.
82. And this house is empty in consequence? Well, perhaps not; though I believe he was offered a considerably higher rent by the Chinaman.
83. Well, I will take the name of that particular landlord? I am afraid that I have forgotten it, but the gentlemen to whom I have referred will be able to give it to you.
84. And has he complained that he has lost by it? I have not met him. I only know the facts of the case from report. Mr. Christensen, of the oyster saloon, in Lower George-street, told me.
85. How long has he been there? About twenty years.
86. And is he still in business there? Yes.
87. Is he one of those who complains of loss of business? Yes. He told me that at one time he made a good deal of money there, and that now he is gradually losing it all.
88. Mr. Abigail.] You stated to the President that you were accosted by a Chinaman in Lower George-street? Yes; about two or three years ago.
89. What communication was made to you? I was touched on the shoulder, and pointed into the shop. Something was also said to me.
90. Which you did not understand, I suppose? Well, I did not want to understand it; but I suppose it was an invitation to go inside and play fan-tan. However, I jostled the fellow, and walked away. I had a similar experience on two or three occasions, once during the recent elections, so that the several acts of annoyance occurred at wide intervals of time.
91. Do you know, of your own knowledge, that any member of the Police Force has received gifts from persons keeping Chinese gambling-houses—gifts consisting of money, watches, diamond pins, or rings or articles of fancy furniture, for instance? No.
92. You are reported to have said to the Colonial Secretary that it was "a fact well known that the police were paid dividends by some of the gambling-houses, so that the proprietors should not be arrested." Do you know that of your own knowledge? No. The report is not accurate in that respect. It should have read: "It is asserted as a fact well known, &c."
- 93.

93. Then you say that you "did not think additional legislation was necessary. They had laws already against over-crowding and gambling. It was only necessary that the police should make use of these laws;"—can you indicate to the Commission what those laws are? If, as the President has indicated, the police cannot enter these places without a warrant, then I suppose the proper thing would be for the authorities to supply members of the force told off for that particular duty with a warrant from day to day, giving them power to search certain premises.

94. With a sort of general power to go in when they liked? Yes.

95. Would not that be rather a dangerous thing, in the absence of any prior knowledge that an illegal business was being carried on in the places to which the warrants applied? Well, the mere fact of the existence of these places is evidence of an offence against the law. We know that they do not do any legitimate business and that they exist by illegal practices.

96. Is it your opinion that there are no Chinese keeping places where gambling is not carried on? I do not think there are a dozen legitimate Chinese merchants in Lower George-street. From my own observation, I should say that there are not more than a dozen, and there are about forty Chinese merchants in the neighbourhood.

97. Then you said that the police refuse to put the laws in force because they were afraid of offending the people who kept these places? Yes.

98. You also said, I think, that the proprietors of these gambling-houses had organised a "Police Sustainment Fund;"—did you make that statement from your own knowledge? That statement was made by an interpreter.

99. The Government interpreter? That I cannot say.

100-1. What is his name? I do not know.

102. Was it Goldtown? Yes; I believe that was the name.

103. It was stated by the deputation that one Chinese firm had sent £60,000 out of New South Wales as the result of the profits made out of gambling;—was that statement made from information in your own possession? That was stated by Mr. Nock or Mr. Armstrong, I believe, but I should imagine that that was a collective sum—the result of the operations of a syndicate of gamblers.

104. Have you any knowledge as to whether these Chinamen are free and independent, or are under the control of certain wealthy Chinese merchants? I fancy they act in concert in some way or another, whether by reason of some sort of guild that exists amongst them, or whether they are slaves, I do not know.

105. You do not know whether there are any secret societies amongst them? Yes; I think there is a kind of Mafia amongst them.

106. You said that you visited some of these dens in the country? Yes, in Hay, Deniliquin, Wilcannia, and Wagga Wagga.

107. There are a great many Chinese at Hay? Yes, there are a great many at all the places I have named.

108. And do Europeans visit their places? Yes, very much. On my arrival at Hay I visited the Chinese camp. There was a building, 30 or 40 yards long, with an alleyway up the centre, and three tiers of bunks on each side. Altogether I should think there must have been 100 bunks there. On the occasion to which I refer I went to the door of the place and looked in. I saw half a dozen women half dressed lying about drunk, and smoking opium, and in the middle of the floor a prominent solicitor was dancing about in the centre of the floor with no clothing on. He has since fallen down stairs and broken his neck.

109. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know who carries on the largest gambling-dens? I have not taken any note of the names.

110. Do you know about how many pak-ah-pu houses there are in Lower George-street? From what members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League told me I should think there must be over twenty.

111. Do you know any of the Chinese merchants, or anybody connected with them, engaged in gambling-houses? I do not know the names of any, but I am sure that any of the gentlemen to whom I have alluded will be able to give you information on the point.

112. Mr. Hawthorne.] I suppose those gentlemen gave you your information? Yes; I have attended about half a dozen meetings of the League, and members have supplied me with information from time to time. I have not taken any notes of that information, nor have I been able to follow my inquiries by personal investigation since I received the information.

113. I suppose you really made these inquiries since you were asked to accompany the deputation? Yes.

114. How long has the Anti-Chinese Gambling League been in existence? As a League, I believe it has existed since a week or two after the elections. One of the principal members told me that they have been working up the question for a great many years, but have not been able to get assistance from Sir Henry Parkes' or any other Government, but that now there is a party in the House that is willing to help them —

115. What party it is? The Labour Party. They do not say that nobody had been willing to fight their battles before, because individual members have moved in the matter, but what they do say is that no Government has been willing to do anything. They have received some promises, and on one occasion Mr. Dibbs made a personal inspection. However, they have got more now than they had before, and they attribute that to the Labour Party.

116. Mr. McKillop.] I believe you have seen it published in a weekly paper that a constable who has been dismissed from the force had a large amount of money in the bank? Yes.

117. Do you know for a positive fact that he had the money to his credit? That information was supplied to me by the vanman David Rip, whose name I have mentioned.

118. Are you aware that a large number of wharf-labourers and others lose the whole of their wages at these gambling places? Yes, I am; from the personal statements of the men themselves.

119. Are you also aware that children are sent there very often by their parents for pak-ah-pu tickets? I have been told so, and have myself seen children going to the gambling-houses, though I could not say for what purpose. I have been informed by those who live in the neighbourhood that children habitually go there, and are seen coming out with tickets.

120. Are you also aware that respectable females passing through Lower George-street are insulted?

Yes;

G. Black,
Esq., M.P.
3 Sept., 1891.

- G. Black,
Esq., M.P.
3 Sept., 1891.
- Yes; on the evidence of Mr. Kelly, who stated that his wife had been molested, and on the evidence of Mr. Nock, who stated that certain ladies of his acquaintance had been molested.
121. From an answer you made to some questions by Mr. Abigail it is evident that you are well acquainted with the habits of the Chinese in the country districts. Are you of opinion that their vices of gambling and opium smoking there are similar to what they are in the city and suburbs? Yes; very similar, I think. The Chinese camp in every country town that I have visited is generally looked upon by the residents as a means of promulgating vice. It gives the young of both sexes an opportunity of acquiring a taste for gambling and opium-smoking, and leads young men and women away from virtue.
122. You stated that in your opinion the present laws against gambling, and filthy and overcrowded premises were sufficiently stringent, and only required putting in force. Have you read them? Not very carefully.
123. Are you aware that the police have not got the power of entering the gambling houses at any time without a warrant? No; I thought they could.
124. Mr. Tart.] Do you know of much opium-smoking in George-street North? Yes; I know of it.
125. Is it very bad there? Some years ago I saw a great deal of it, and I believe that the practice is now much worse. Nor is it confined to the Chinese; many Europeans have contracted the habit, and there are now, I am informed, some hundreds of habitual opium-smokers amongst the white population of Sydney. Many of them purchase the opium from the Chinamen for the purpose of smoking. I have met some of them.

Mr. Thomas Rigby called:—

- Mr. T. Rigby.
3 Sept., 1891.
126. President.] What are you by trade? An iron turner.
127. Where do you reside? In Allen-street, Ultimo.
128. Did you visit Goulburn-street last week? Yes; three nights.
129. You heard some talk of the appointment of this Commission then? Yes; I heard some talk of it when in Lower George-street on Saturday afternoon last.
130. What did you learn with regard to the police? I went to one of the Chinamen's shops, and he said, "Will you come inside?" I replied, "No; policeman come." To that, he said, "No; no police come to my shop." Then I said, "Perhaps Commission come?" and he said, "No; not to-night. Commission go to Goulburn-street to-night."
131. Is that all the information you got? Yes; that is all.
132. Were you present on Saturday evening in Goulburn-street when we came round? Yes.
133. Did you say then that the detectives had visited the Chinese in the neighbourhood and told them that the Commission were coming round? I did not say that the detectives had told them that the Commission were coming round; but I did say that Inspector Mackay and Detectives Keating and Rae had been round on the previous Thursday and Friday nights, and hunted them out of the gambling-houses.
134. What street was that in? Goulburn-street.
135. Only in Goulburn-street? Yes.
136. Did you go into any of the Chinese gambling-houses afterwards? No, not afterwards.
137. Had you any conversation with the Chinese as to what the police said to them? No, I had not.
138. And that is really all you know about it? Yes.
139. Did Detective West go round there on Saturday afternoon? Not that I know of.
140. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know the man down Lower George-street with whom you had the conversation? No, but I can find out. He lived in a Chinese boarding-house.

Mr. Thomas Nock called:—

- Mr. T. Nock.
3 Sept., 1891.
141. President.] You are a member of the firm of Felton and Nock, ironmongers, I believe? I am.
142. Where do you reside? At Mossman's Bay.
143. Where do you carry on business? At 194 and 196, George-street North, in Kent and Erskine Streets, and Walker-street, North Sydney.
144. Where do you personally spend most of your time? At 194, George-street North. I have been there for nineteen years past.
145. Occupying the same premises? Yes.
146. What rent do you pay for your shop? We pay close on £5 a week.
147. For one shop? Yes; but at the same time in making the premises suitable for ourselves we have expended £500.
148. And who pays the taxes? We do.
149. And on how many feet of ground does your shop stand? It has about 18 feet frontage.
150. How many storeys? Two.
151. And how many rooms? Five or six.
152. What rent did you pay five years ago? £3 15s. a week.
153. How do you account for the increase from £3 15s. to £5 a week during the last five years? I account for it in this way: The next door premises were vacated by a European and a Chinaman took them for a gambling-house (not from the landlord, however), and in order to obtain them he paid 10s. or 15s. a week more than we were paying, and there was so much fighting and quarrelling there during the day-time that it became imperative either for us to clear out or to take a lease of the next-door premises. The landlord promised that if we would pay the extra rent he would turn the Chinaman out, so we took the premises on a lease and sublet them to a grocer. The premises adjacent to them, however, were built specially for Chinese gambling-houses.
154. But how is it that you have to pay £5 a week now instead of £3 15s. as formerly;—is it because the Chinamen have raised rents in the localities? Yes; because by carrying on an illegitimate business they are able to pay higher rents than we can.
155. As a matter of fact, have they offered to pay higher rents in order to get hold of premises previously held by Europeans? Yes, and bonuses besides.
156. What do you pay for the other house? The same rental.
157. And your rent has been raised in consequence of the Chinese outbidding you and using the places as gambling-houses? Yes.

158. How many Chinese gambling-houses are there north of Bridge-street, on both sides of George-street, down to Argyle-street? I have never counted them; but I know there are twelve in a row next to us. Mr. T. Nock.
3 Sept., 1891.
159. But about how many are there between Bridge-street and Argyle-street? About thirty-three.
160. Who is the chief gambler in George-street North? Moy Ping.
161. How many premises has he? He has but one.
162. What rent does he pay for them? He gave a bonus of £100 for a three years' lease, and pays £7 a week rent.
163. How many rooms are there in that house? I cannot tell you; I have not been in.
164. It is a three-storey house, is it not? Yes.
165. A very much larger house than yours? No; because it does not take up 18 feet of frontage, I should think. I do not think it has a frontage of more than 16 feet.
166. But as a matter of fact, it has three storeys? Yes.
167. You believe there are thirty-three Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? I am not positive of it.
168. Whom are they frequented by generally? Mostly whites; not by Chinese.
169. Have you ever visited any of them yourself? No; although in some of them the gambling is conducted so close to the street, that from the footpath you can see what goes on inside. I have seen as many as 500 white people turned out of the gambling-houses situated between our place and the corner of Queen's-place.
170. What hours of the day do they carry on the gambling? It goes on all day and all night for seven days a week.
171. But in the day-time I suppose the attendance is limited? Yes; excepting on Sundays.
172. Then the police on duty at that end of the town from the highest to the lowest in the force, must be aware of it? Yes; they know all about it—from the highest to the lowest in the force.
173. Do you know anything of the charges against the police of conniving at the gambling as the result of a system of bribery instituted by the Chinese themselves? I charged them with conniving.
174. And with having received bribes? Well; it is very difficult to sheet a charge of that kind home.
175. You simply charged them with conniving? Yes.
176. Will you say that you believe that the police have received bribes to induce them to wink at the violation of the law? Do you want me to state that I believe it.
177. Certainly if you do? Well; I do believe it.
178. Now I want your reason for believing it? About two years ago some of my customers, and also those who were working for me, came to me and said, "Do you not think it is a great shame to see those police officers in the gambling-houses in Queen's-place?" I said, "If they are there, it is a shame, but I have been so busy that I have not looked." They replied, "Well, just come along and see for yourself." I did so, and saw Constable Beadman and Constable Carson leaning over the counter and smoking.
179. Mr. McKillop.] In uniform? They do not wear uniform; they are plain-clothes men. Well, I waited half an hour to see them come away from the place, and when they did come they came joking and laughing. I may say that I am satisfied they were there for nothing but their own ends, because I have seen them pat gamblers on their backs, and ask what won this game and who won that.
180. You have seen them do that yourself? Yes; and on the occasion to which I was referring, as I like to give every man a chance, I went up to Beadman, and said to him, "I think it is a shame to see you in this place." He replied, "You cannot do anything, Mr. Nock." I said, "Why can't I, and, for that matter, why can't you?" His answer was, "Most of these places are owned by Members of Parliament and influential men, and they tell us that if we turn these people out they cannot get respectable persons to replace them as tenants." I said, "I can quite believe that; they could not get decent tenants for their premises under the circumstances, but that is no reason why you should not do your duty."
181. President.] But I asked you why you believed that the police took bribes? Yes; and I am explaining to you why I do believe it.
182. Have you seen them bribed by the Chinese? No; but I have seen them drinking and having dinners with the boss gamblers.
183. Does that apply to these particular men? To Beadman and Carson—yes. No men would go into a stinking place with a lot of Chinese gamblers unless—
184. But everyone has his own form of delights. I want your best reason for believing that the police are bribed, and you say that they are constantly in communication with Chinese gambling-house proprietors, and that therefore they must know that the law is being violated, and must be paid for winking at the violation? Exactly.
185. Who are the owners of these gambling-houses? The Hon. William Long owns some, and Mr. I. J. Josephson owns some.
186. There were two Josephsons—the ex-judge and I. J. Josephson—are you sure which of them it is? Yes. He is a little man. A syndicate, of which Mr. Beale is a member, owns others; and there are others again of which Mr. Alfred Bennett owns the ground, and Mr. Himelock the buildings.
187. But to whom does he lease them? To Mr. M'Coy.
188. Is it a long lease? Yes. I think so.
189. Do you know Inspector Atwill? Yes.
190. How long has he been down there? I suppose about ten years.
191. Of course he must know all about this gambling? He told me that he knew all about it.
192. Have you any reason to believe that he neglects his duty? Yes, I have reason to believe it.
193. Would you say shortly what that reason is? Because he said that he could not carry out the law.
194. You mean to say that he really does not try? I only tell you what he told me—"that he could not carry out the law."
195. Mr. Abigail.] He gave you no reason for saying so? Yes, he gave me several reasons. One was that there were so many doors to get out of these places by; and I told him that if a publican given to Sunday selling had 500 doors to his place, and he wanted to effect an entrance he would do so.
196. What other reason did he give you? Only that nothing could be done.
197. President.] Has he been to your knowledge charged with taking bribes or presents from the Chinese? Not to my knowledge.

- Mr. T. Nock. 198. Have Constables Beadman or Carson been charged with taking bribes, or accepting presents? I have heard people say so.
- 3 Sept., 1891. 199. Presents from whom? Gamblers.
200. Chinese gamblers? Yes.
201. Can you tell us the names of the persons who have directly accused these men of taking bribes? I cannot say from memory who they were.
202. It is very important; we want to trace a bribe from one individual to another? That will be impossible. People do not go into the street as a rule and tell when they are going to offer a bribe; but I do not believe that any officer in the Police Force could deny that he had received a present.
203. But if Inspector Atwill received a fancy cabinet from a Chinaman, for instance, I suppose the carters who conveyed it would know? Most probably not. They would send it in a safety, wrapped in Hessian, and labelled for the railway.
204. You have never heard of Inspector Atwill being presented with a cabinet by the Chinese? No.
205. And you cannot give us any information on the question of bribery, so that we could trace a case to the individuals concerned? No.
206. You think the police must have been bribed, however, or else they would not have neglected their duty? There certainly has been a great neglect of duty, and there must have been some reason for it.
207. And that reason must apply from the lowest officer in the division to the highest? No; there have been some members of the force who have been conscientious servants of the Crown all along.
208. But supposing a policeman on duty sees the gambling going on from the street, would he not be able to go in and see about it? I should think so.
209. Then why have not the ordinary police done so? They say that they have reported it to their superior officer, received no encouragement from him, and could not do anything without him.
210. Then he has simply winked at it? Yes.
211. Mr. Abigail.] You understand that in giving evidence before the Commission you have nothing to fear, and we expect you to speak the truth? Certainly; I always speak truth.
212. Of your own knowledge can you tell the Commission of any constable who has accepted anything in the nature of a bribe—gold watch, diamond ring, money, or anything else? Of my own knowledge I cannot.
213. It is stated that boys and girls visit the gambling places down in Lower George-street for the purpose of gambling? I do not know that girls visit them for that purpose. I know that boys do.
214. Do you know that girls have visited these places for any other purpose? I suppose they must have had a purpose in going there. I have seen them go in.
215. Do you suppose that it is for an immoral purpose? That I cannot say.
216. But you are quite sure that you have seen girls go in? Yes.
217. You said to the Colonial Secretary that many more arrests would have been made if a warning had not been given? Yes; and I say so now.
218. What was the warning? One officer went into a tobacconist's shop, and asked the tobacconist's wife if her husband were in, and she replied, "No; what do you want?" He said, "We are going to make a raid to-day. Have you got a crowbar you can lend us?"
219. What is the name of the constable? My informant is Mr. Armstrong, and he has the name of the constable. About 3 o'clock the same afternoon I saw Constable Higgins walking up and down in front of my shop. I asked him what he was doing it for, and he said, "The Chinese have been troubling us very much lately." I said to him, "They have troubled us very much for a very long time; why don't you people raid them?" He replied, "We don't know how to get into them." I said, "If you will come with me, sergeant, I will show you the way into eight of them." I then showed him our right-of-way. He said, "Oh! I know that way. In fact, I could raid them from the front now, but there are only Chinese gambling." I replied, "We don't care whether they are Chinese or whites; we think something should be done." On the Friday, Inspector Atwill interviewed me with regard to the matter; that was the day before the raid was made. He sent for me, and asked me what I intended to do with him. I said, "Inspector Atwill, I do not understand you." He said, "Oh, with regard to this fan-tan business." I replied, "I want something done; can you not do something for us?" And he said, "No, nothing can be done." I said, "How is that? I see that in Alexandria a raid has been made, and some men have been fined." He said, "We cannot do anything here; there are too many doors to the places." My answer was, "You told Mrs. Thompson, the hotelkeeper, that you would take her license, and you did it." He said, "But I have not got her out yet." "No," I said, "but you took her license away, because she traded irregularly on the seventh day, and there are men carrying on an illegal business alongside of me seven days of every week, and you have not done anything. Why have you not done something?" He said, "Look here, Mr. Nock, what is the use of your growling about the Chinamen. They are not hurting you." "Inspector Atwill," I said, "I am in quarantine. There are twelve gambling houses together on one side of me. You never saw so many in Lower George-street before." He replied, "There never were so few Chinamen in Lower George-street before;" and I said, "That is false."
220. At all events, the upshot of it was that he told you they could do nothing? Yes.
221. And the same night a raid was made? No, the next night. That night I went down to the meeting of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, and moved that we should interview the new Labour Party on the question. My interview was printed in the Echo of the next day, and the same evening the raid was made.
222. You do not know that all the arrangements for the raid were made by Inspector Atwill before he spoke to you? I know they were not. He said they could do nothing.
223. Well, now, what is the general results of all this Chinese gambling, and the other evils that exist down there;—has it deteriorated the value of property, decreased business, or demoralised the community? It has not only destroyed the chances of legitimate business, but it has stopped the traffic in the street.
224. The foot traffic, you mean? Yes.
225. And the business people down there have taken this question upon that ground? They have been pegging away at it for the last ten or fifteen years.
226. The Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No; the shopkeepers in Lower George-street.
227. Individually? Yes, and together.

228. Mr. McKillop.] By deputation? During the existence of the Parliament before this once a deputation waited upon Mr. McMillan, then Colonial Treasurer, but nothing came of it. Mr. T. Nock.
3 Sept., 1891.
229. What we want to inquire into is: First, the charges of bribery against the police, and, I understand, that you cannot supply any direct information against any constable? No, I cannot.
230. You are satisfied, however, that the effect of the gambling carried on in Lower George-street is injuring business and demoralising the neighbourhood? I am sure of it.
231. Have you thought out anything in reference to framing a law to deal with it? Men have been fined under the law such as it is to-day.
232. Yes, they were fined when they were caught? But last Saturday night any constable could have made a raid on fifteen or twenty places.
233. The gambling is still going on as briskly as ever, then? After the raid was made we had quietness for about a fortnight, but it has begun again, and last Saturday night it was going on as much as ever.
234. Then because people were fined, you think the law is sufficient as it stands? That is what the Anti-Chinese Gambling League want to find out. We want some remedy. If we cannot get one I shall have to shut my business up, and that will be the loss of a connection in the neighbourhood that has taken me twenty years to establish.
235. Then the League has not suggested an alteration in the law in any particular direction? They are under the impression that if people have been fined under it once it is good enough to fine them again.
236. Do you think, from what you know of the matter, that a fine is a sufficient punishment. Do you think that fines will ever stop the evil? No; I do not.
237. Do you think that imprisonment should be applied? Yes; imprisonment with hard labour.
238. Do you know the truth of a statement to the effect that one Chinaman had sent away £60,000 as the result of profits accumulated out of gambling? I heard the statement made.
239. But you have no personal knowledge of its truthfulness? No.
240. Are there some legitimate businesses carried on by the Chinese in Lower George-street or are they all slaves? No. There are some very respectable Chinese merchants.
241. Do they take any action with a view to the suppression of gambling? They are frightened.
242. Have you any knowledge of a secret society amongst the Chinese with the object of assisting these men if they are taken up and fined? I have no personal knowledge of any society of the kind, but I believe that there is one.
243. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say that Moy Pirg is the biggest gambler? He has had the biggest place there for some time.
244. Do you know any other? Yes—Sam Kee. He is the man, I believe, who has boasted of doing as much as £60,000 a year out of the business.
245. You also say that some of the police have remained honest upright men since they joined the force? Yes; that is what I said.
246. You do not know, of your own knowledge, that any bribes have been given? No.
247. Do you know if much opium-smoking is carried on down there? I can only judge by the smell one gets in passing the places. I have never visited them.
248. But you know that opium-smoking goes on by the smell? Yes; it is something dreadful. I have seen ladies fall down in the street and retch as a result of it. Those were delicate people, who had just been for a sea breeze to Manly, and were coming back from the Circular Quay. I have helped to support them.
249. Who are the respectable Chinese merchants? Mr. Lee is one. He is a really "white man." My neighbour, Ah Toy, the cabinet-maker, is a well-conducted man. Then there is a decent man named, I think, Qoung Ti, engaged at Sun San Ti's.
250. Do you think they are afraid to give any evidence? Yes; I have been told that they are afraid to mix themselves up in it at all.
251. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know the class of Europeans who visit these gambling-dens? Yes. I have seen officials well up in the Government Service, officers well up in Shipping Companies service, and bank clerks, and I have also seen the thief just out of gaol.
252. In your remarks to the Premier you stated that a certain postmaster was in the habit of going there? Well, I did say so; but I see he has taken the hint, and kept out of the way ever since.
253. Would you mind giving the Commission the name of the postmaster? I do not think there is any necessity to do that. It would only get him into trouble, and as a matter of fact he has not been near the places since the deputation.
254. Then I will not press the question;—do you know of ex-Constable Quealy? I do.
255. Do you know that he had a great deal to do with the Chinese dens? Not of my own knowledge.
256. Only from hearsay? I have not heard much about anything but his drunkenness.
257. You are aware that men are in the habit of leaving all their wages in the gambling-dens—wharf-labourers, coal-lumpers, seamen, and others? Yes.
258. You are well aware that heart-rendering scenes occur in the street by their wives following them to the very doors of the Chinamen's places, and begging them not to go in? I have seen some awful scenes.
259. Have you ever seen a riot in one of these dens? I have been present when fifty or 100 rows have been taking place.
260. Were there any broken skulls? Yes, I have seen men taken out of there bleeding and unconscious.
261. Are there not a large number of low Europeans in the pay of Chinamen as touts? Yes; I have heard them called "bummers." The police have told me, upon inquiry, that they are noted thieves.
262. Did you beforehand hear anything about the Commission going round Lower George-street this night week? No.
263. Have you since heard that the police gave an intimation to the Chinese residents there that the Commission were going to visit them on that occasion? Yes. In fact, immediately before the Commission came round we sold more brooms and scrubbing brushes to the Chinamen than we ever did before.
264. Do you know of any respectable females having been insulted? Yes; I know of a Mrs. Chambers, whose husband will be only too glad to give evidence, having been insulted; and I know of a Mrs. Kelly, whose husband will also be glad to give evidence, having been insulted too.
265. Are you aware that little children, both boys and girls, go in? I have seen boys go in to play fan-tan.

- Mr. T. Nock. 266. You have not seen children stay there to buy pak-ah-pu tickets? No.
- 3 Sept., 1891. 267. You are sure that these places are kept only for the purpose of gambling, not for trading? Yes; I do not suppose that the utensils in the whole of the twelve Chinese shops near me would fetch £5.
268. Had you ever any conversation with Ah Toy about a book-case, said to have been presented to Inspector Atwill? Yes; after the Commission was appointed Ah Toy came to my shop one evening, and asked me to make out an account. I asked him what he wanted an account for that night, and he said, "Oh, Police Inspector wants a bill." As I was very busy I sent him up to Mr. Chambers, my accountant, who asked him the same question. He replied to him also, "Oh, Police Inspector wants a bill." Mr. Chambers asked him what he wanted it for, and he explained that it was for a book-case supplied to Inspector Atwill. Mr. Chambers then said, "Has he just bought it?" and he said, "No, eighteen months ago." We asked if he wanted the account receipting, and he said, "No."
269. The bill was made out to your own knowledge? Our accountant made it out.
270. And the account was of eighteen months standing? Yes; that is what Ah Toy said.
271. Do you know exactly what the article was? A book-case, I believe.
272. Do you know anything of a diamond ring presented to one of the police? I have heard about it, but do not know anything about it personally.
273. Do you know whether at any time Mr. Beale used to refuse to let his premises to Chinese? I was present when he turned them out, and when his foreman said to Ah Ping, "Well, I have turned you out," "Yes, and more ——— fool you," said Ah Ping, "Why?" asked Mr. Beale's man, "Because you cannot let these places to respectable people." "They cannot pay the rent" he replied. "I have got a shop now in the new buildings, you see, from Mr. M'Coy." I went to him and said "I want a shop," "No; no Chinamen in my shops," said Mr. M'Coy. "What rent you get," I said. He told me £6 a week. "Then, I will give you £7," I said. But that was not sufficient an inducement, so the Chinaman offered in addition a bonus of 100 sovereigns down, and a three years' lease.
274. Do you know this of your own knowledge? Moy Ping related the circumstance in my presence, and he also said that he could get a shop in the centre of George-street, if it would suit his business as he had the money to pay for it.
275. As you have been in the business nineteen years perhaps you would tell the Commission the amount of loss you sustained in the depression of your business through persons avoiding that portion of the town? I should put our losses during the last twelve months down at £500.
276. And are they increasing each year? Yes; we shall have to shut the place up directly, if we do not get some success.
277. Is it a positive fact that the respectable people who used to come down Lower George-street on their way to the Manly boats, do so no longer? Yes, and not only so, but the wives of coal-lumpers and wharf labourers who used to come down the street to make purchases go elsewhere now because the stench is so bad.
278. Mr. Hawthorne.] Was there any price mentioned in the account you made out for Inspector Atwill? Yes; £5 I think.
279. And did the Chinaman by his conversation lead you to believe that no money was paid for it? We asked him if he was being paid for it then, and from what he said I took it that he was not.
280. And that was since the Commission was appointed? Yes, and since it was appointed the police has been thoroughly disorganised. The Inspector has interviewed every man of any standing down there saying, "You know nothing against me, do you."
281. In other words, the police from the Inspector downwards have been going round to the different persons connected with the Anti-Chinese Gambling League trying to impress them favourably with their past action in reference to gambling? To all excepting myself.
282. And previous to the appointment of the Commissioners you have never been troubled with the police in connection with the matter? No; but I have troubled them. Indeed I asked Mr. Beadman to allow me to repeat to authorities statement that he made with reference to gambling, and he said I must think he was a ——— fool. I replied, "I have no need to think that. This witness (a man called Nolan who will corroborate all I say) has heard exactly what you said."
283. Can you give me the names of the Government officials who, you say, have been in the habit of patronising these places? I should not care to do that.
284. Do you know the names of them? I know the names of two of them.
285. President.] And I suppose you know the names of the bank clerks and mercantile clerks occupying good positions who have been in the habit of going there? Yes, I do; but I would not give them up. It would only do them an injury.
286. Mr. Hawthorne.] We are not interested in private individuals, but when you speak of "high Government officials" I think we should know exactly what you mean? I consider a postmaster a high Government official; but they knocked off before the Commission was appointed. The Echo devoted a leading article to the question, and they knocked off after that.
287. Mr. McKillop.] Used they to go in through the front door in George-street? Yes; and I have seen the postmaster to whom I allude occupy a chair in the middle of the floor. The number of people who go to the gambling-dens amounts to thousands. The night the raid was made and the dens were shut down no less than 500 men were shoved out into the street from the different houses. To show you the growth of the evil, I may also state that these men who kept accommodation women on the premises in Lower George-street keep well-furnished houses in Cambridge-street for them now.
288. These women are "kept" by the Chinese? Yes.
289. Mr. Abigail.] Can you indicate the houses? A terrace, in Cambridge-street.
290. The houses are well furnished, and the women live in style? Yes. The City Solicitor, Mr. Merriman, told me some time ago that he would personally interview Mr. Fosbery on the matter, and I believe he did so on two occasions, but I have seen no result. The fact is, that for years past I have been running here and there in the hope of getting something done, and I have succeeded in getting nothing done. Indeed, as I said before, I have been insulted by members of the police force in front of my own shop.
291. Mr. McKillop.] Are you in fear that you may be attacked at any time? I have been warned to keep away.
292. Mr. Hawthorne.] By the Chinese? Yes; by Chinamen who have known and respected me for twenty years.

293. Mr. Abigail.] Are you in fear from the police? Most decidedly I am, because I have no protection from them, and all other members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League will suffer the same. Mr. T. Nock.
3 Sept., 1891.
294. Mr. McKillop.] You are an official of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No; but I am a member of it, and the press has supported us in all that we have done.

FRIDAY, 4 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Young Yow, examined through the interpreter:—

295. President.] Where do you live? At 69, Goulburn-street.
296. Have you been visited by the police within the last fortnight? Yes, sometimes by one, sometimes by two policemen. Young Yow.
4 Sept., 1891.
297. Do you know the names of the constables? No, I do not.
298. Do you know their numbers? No.
299. When was the last visit paid to you by the police? Between two and three weeks ago.
300. What did the police say to you? You had all better not be caught gambling. If you are caught you will be arrested.
301. Did the police say anything about the intended visit of the Royal Commission? No.
302. Are you aware that the police visited other Chinese residents near you? About other people's places I know nothing.
303. Do you know from your countrymen that they have also been visited and warned by the police? Some of my neighbours have read out of the paper to me that I had better not gamble, because of the appointment of the Commission.
304. Has the gambling been continued since the appointment of the Commission in any of the places in Goulburn-street? No; they are all frightened.
305. Do you know anything about the Chinese residents in Lower George-street? No; I know nothing about them.
306. Were the police who visited you in plain clothes or in uniform? In uniform.
307. What part of Goulburn-street do you live in? In the block between Pitt and George-street—at the corner of Robertson's Lane.
308. Do the shops near you do any business in dealing in wares of any kind? There are two stores a couple of doors further up than my place, carrying on a general trade, and there is also one draper.
309. Are not all the other shops used as gaming-houses? As far as I know, one is a lodging-house, but what the others are I do not know.
310. Do you not know that nearly all of them sell lottery tickets? On the opposite side of the street they carry on lotteries, but not on my side.
311. And do not they play fan-tan also? Yes.
312. Are the people who gamble in Goulburn-street mostly Europeans? The majority of them are Chinamen.
313. What are the stakes generally when the Chinese play? They vary. Sometimes a few pence, and at other times 2s. or 3s.
314. Do you know anything about the profits made by the houses in the block between Pitt and George-Streets? The general rule is that a penny out of every shilling is kept by the bankers.
315. Have any of the Chinese thereabouts become rich out of the profits of this game? As far as I know they sometimes win £3 or £4, but I know nothing of any big money.
316. Do you know who are the owners of the property opposite where you live? No; I do not know who the landlord is, but that can be found out.
317. Do you know the rental of any of the shops thereabouts? 30s., £2 5s., and £2 10s. a week.
318. Are you personally a tenant? Yes.
319. What do you do for a living? My house is a kind of lodging and boarding establishment, a cook shop, and a place for the accommodation of Chinese gardeners.
320. How many rooms are there in the house? Three upstairs and two downstairs.
321. How many people do you accommodate? The number varies from four to ten.
322. What rent do you pay? £2 10s.
323. Mr. Abigail.] Do you gamble? Yes; sometimes.
324. Are you a winner or loser by the game? I win and lose about equally. Sometimes I lose, and then I make it up again.
325. Do you smoke opium? No.
326. Mr. Quong Tart.] Since you received a notice to attend the Commission, have you talked the matter over with anybody? No.
327. Who is outside in the corridor? Chen Ah Teak; I brought him with me to interpret for me if necessary, because some Englishman was round yesterday and made a charge against me which I thought might entail some explanation.
328. Have you any friends in the Police Force? No.
329. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know of any amount of money or any present of any kind being given to a policeman? I never saw any.
330. Are there ever any rows in Goulburn-street? Yes; rows do occur sometimes.
331. Through gambling? Sometimes through gambling, and sometimes not.
332. How do most of them occur? Most of them occur through gambling.
333. Mr. McKillop.] Did any row take place in your house in which crowbars were used? No.
334. Have you ever seen young lads or children going in to play fan-tan? Yes; I have seen them go into the other places, but never into mine.
335. Do you play pak-ah-pu? Yes; in the front shop. 336.

- Young Yow. 336. Have you ever given lottery tickets to children? No; only Chinamen play in my place.
337. Mr. Abigail.] Have you a fan-tan table there? Yes; there is one there.
- 4 Sept., 1891. 338. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long ago is it since it was used? It has been out of use for about three weeks.
339. Mr. Quong Tart.] Had you any idea that the Commission were going to visit any of these places last Saturday? Yes; I was aware of the visit through the newspapers.
340. Is it not a fact that a policeman went round beforehand warning you not to gamble, because of the projected visit of the Commission? The police came round before the information appeared in the papers.
341. Mr. McKillop.] Did you see it in the papers yourself, or did anybody read it to you? Some of my neighbours read it to me.
342. Mr. Hawthorne.] Were you quite aware, from what your neighbours told you, that the Commission was going to visit Goulburn-street last Saturday night? Some of my neighbours knew, and some did not.
343. What is generally supposed to be the busiest time for the gambling-houses in your vicinity? From 6 o'clock to about half-past 8 o'clock at night. The market gardeners and others engaged in the suburbs during the day come into town for an hour or two then for the purpose of playing.
344. Mr. McKillop.] Have you opium on your premises? Yes.
345. Do Chinamen come there to smoke? Yes.
346. Do you make a charge of so much a pipe? The people who come bring their own opium.
347. Do white women and children indulge? No.
348. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you allow women to come in and out of your house? No.
349. How long have you lived in Sydney? Seventeen years.
350. And have you been the occupant of this house the whole of that time? I have been in my present house for three years, and before that I carried on a similar business in Pitt-street.
351. How much a week do you get from your lodgers? My rent is £2 10s., and I make on an average £4 or 30s. net profit from everything in connection with my house.
352. President.] Are you the proprietor of any other house? No.
353. Do you know the police officer in charge of the district? No.
354. Do you know any policemen at all? Yes, I know some by sight, but not by name.
355. Have you ever spoken to any of them? Yes; they occasionally say "Good morning," or something like that.
356. Do you know of any of the police being friendly with any of the proprietors of gambling-houses in Goulburn-street? No, I do not.
357. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever been summoned for keeping a common gaming-house? Never.
358. Have you ever heard of any presents of furniture, jewelry, or money being made to policemen by Chinamen in your locality? No.
359. Are any of your countrymen in Goulburn-street aware that you have come here this morning to give evidence? Yes, they all know.
360. Did they talk the matter over? Yes; some of them came to me and said, "What are you going to tell the Commission to-morrow?"
361. Mr. Abigail.] Before you stopped the fan-tan in your house, how many used to congregate there? From ten to twenty.
362. Up to that time, were you under the impression that it was not contrary to law to carry this thing on? Yes.
363. Was that the general impression among your countrymen until recently? As nobody had come to warn us of it we thought that we were not breaking the law, but after we received warning from the police we knew that we were doing so.
364. But is it not a fact that it is still carried on in spite of that? Yes; it is still carried on at certain hours of the day.
365. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you ever been annoyed or worried by the police in regard to the matter until the last few weeks? They would come occasionally, and tell us that we had better not gamble.
366. Mr. Quong Tart.] Did any policeman ever enter your house? Yes; policemen have been into my house, and told me to knock off.
367. Have they ever been in whilst you were gambling? Yes.
368. Mr. McKillop.] Did the police ever make a raid and snatch up the money that was on the fan-tan board? Sometimes when a raid of that kind is made the police and everybody present snatch whatever they can lay their hands on.
369. You have seen the police do it? I know that that is how it is done, but I never saw it.
370. Still you know that the police do help themselves to the silver? Yes, everybody makes a rush; the police and everybody who is gambling.
371. As a rule, how much is on the table—take the average amount? There may be £1, 15s., or perhaps much less.
372. Never more? The most I have ever seen down at one time is £1.
373. Is it not a fact that the banker has sometimes £10 or £20 down? He might have it on his person but it would not be on the table.
374. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do the Chinamen in Goulburn-street knock about with white women? There are some very filthy places down there where white women congregate, but I never go amongst them.
375. Do your countrymen go amongst them a great deal? How can I tell if I do not go there myself.
376. Mr. McKillop.] Who told you that when these raids were being made by the police they took the silver from the fan-tan board? Several well-known gamblers have told me, but I cannot at present recollect their names.
377. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do the Chinese drink much grog when they come to your place? Yes. They bring their own grog with them.
378. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know whether any of the people who visit your place are in an advanced stage of venereal disease? It would be very hard to say. If it were so they would not tell me.
379. But judging from their outer appearance? I should not know anything about it.
380. Do you know any who are showing signs of leprosy? I have seen such in the past, but do not know where they are now.

381. Do they frequent the gambling-houses? Yes; but if any of them came to mine I should soon turn them out. Young Yow.
382. How much opium is consumed in a night? The people who visit me smoke from 6d. worth to 2s. worth apiece. 4 Sept., 1891.
383. How many visit your place to smoke opium? At present there are four or five; there used to be from seven to ten.
384. Do you know of any fund that exists for the benefit of the police? No.
385. Mr. Hawthorne.] How many men visit your place on an average per diem? The number varies from ten to thirty. I daresay it would average twenty-five.
386. And what do you get from each man? Those who board and lodge with me—about five altogether—pay me 15s. a week each.
387. Mr. Quony Tart.] Are you the sole proprietor? No; I have two partners.
388. What are they doing? Helping in the cookery.
389. Mr. Abigail.] So three of you divide that 30s. a week profit amongst you? I made a mistake—there would be from 25s. to 30s. a week for each partner.
390. So that, as a matter of fact, the profit is about £5 a week, not 30s.? Yes; the total profits would amount to about that.
391. Are your partners connected with any other establishment than yours? One of my partners is simply a cook on the premises, the other has an interest in some gardens.
392. Do you know how many of your countrymen are living off similar businesses? About four others in the same block.
393. Do you know of any others in the city and suburbs carrying on boarding establishments? I only know of those in Goulburn-street.
394. President.] What are the names of the Chinese societies in town? One society is called the Loon yee Tong.
395. Do you know of any others? There is the Bow on Tong and the Bow Sing Tong.
396. Any more? The only other is the Hing Sing Tong.
397. I want to know the objects of the Loon ye Tong? Various gambling-houses connected with it knock off a commission of so much in the shilling, and set it apart as a fund.
398. For what purpose? It is for taking up and sending to China the bones of deceased Chinamen, and also for sending home to China old and decrepit men.
399. Why should they create a fund of that nature out of the profits of gambling? Because the money is more easily got in that way than from the Chinamen privately or the stores.
400. Is this fund used for any other purpose? Yes; it is used for purposes of defence.
401. That is to say, the fund would be used to pay fines that might be inflicted by the magistrates? As far as that is concerned, I am not fully aware of it. Should money for the payment of fines or anything else be necessary it would be subscribed, in the first instance, privately, but if they could not get enough that way the balance might be taken from the fund.
402. Are there properly appointed officers in Sydney for the administration of the fund? The principal stores would be the treasury.
403. And are proper books of account kept? I should not know about that, but probably books would be kept.
404. The principal merchants then would be the treasurers? Yes; the principal storkeepers would hold the money.
405. And who votes the money that would be used for defences? Men would be elected at meetings of the whole of the society for that purpose.
406. Have you ever attended a meeting of that kind yourself? Those who have notices sent to them would go, and I have been.
407. Where was the meeting that you attended held? I am not quite certain where it was, but I know that one that I attended was held in a hotel parlor.
408. I think you must remember where the meeting was held;—you are evidently concealing the truth? If it is a very large meeting it would be held in a hotel; if a small one, in a storekeeper's place.
409. I want to know where that particular meeting was held, and you must tell me? It was held at Way Kee's.
410. When fines have been inflicted upon Chinamen, has the fine ever been paid out of that fund? As far as I know, if a fine is imposed a man will pay it himself, but if he cannot do that he goes to gaol; unless his friends come round and pay it for him.
411. Do you remember the raid made a few weeks ago at Moy Ping's? I have heard of it.
412. Was a meeting of this particular society, or of any other society, held immediately afterwards? No.
413. You must speak the truth, now? Yes; there was a meeting at Sun Sam War's in Lower George-street.
414. Were you present? No; I was not there myself.
415. Were any of your partners there? Yes; one of them went there to hear the proceedings.
416. You mean that he was at the meeting? Yes.
417. I want to know what the business of that meeting was? My partner came back, and told me that the meeting had decided to gamble less on account of the action of the Government, and for the present to keep quiet.
418. At that meeting was there no provision made for paying the fines that had just been inflicted? I do not know anything about it. My partner did not mention it.
419. What is the name of that particular partner? Ah Chung.
420. Did Ah Chung live with you? Yes.
421. Can you tell us how much money that particular society has to its credit;—has it much? I do not know.
422. How many members are in that society? I cannot tell exactly how many.
423. I do not want to know exactly, I want to know approximately? It is very hard to say.
424. Two hundred, 300, or 400? I am frightened to say. There might be 200, or there might be 300, members. If I knew I would tell you.
425. But you have not less than 200? I cannot say.
426. Do the members of the society subscribe directly to the funds? Everybody subscribes. 427.

- Young Yow. 427. So that there is an income derived directly from the members, and also from the gambling-tables? Yes.
 428. What do you pay per week or per month? Two shillings and sixpence, 3s., or 5s., according to means of the members.
 429. Weekly or monthly? We subscribed once, and the fund was invested in trade.
 430. How many dead Chinamen have you sent home? That information can be got better from those who have charge of the funds.
 431. Is Way Kee the chief man in that society? Yes; he would know all about it.
 432. He would have the accounts? Yes.
 433. Do you know the names of any other officers? The Doon Goon community have the biggest say in it, but people from the other parts of China have also a voice in the matter.
 434. Way Kee can pay the money, I suppose, just as he pleases, for any purpose that he considers within the scope of the society? He cannot pay it out himself it would have to be voted by a meeting.
 435. Is the money vested in Way Kee solely? It is sometimes left in the sole charge of Way Kee for a year, and then placed in the charge of somebody else for a year.
 436. But if the money was vested with Way Kee solely he could pay it out for any purpose that he liked? Way Kee would have the money in the bank, but he could not use it for any purpose other than the meeting directed.
 437. After the meeting that your partner attended in Lower George-street, was any money paid out of the fund? I am not aware that it was.
 438. Are you quite sure? I really do not know anything about it.
 439. At that meeting was any questions asked about money being paid to the police? I was not there myself, so I could not say.
 440. Is there a branch of that society in Goulburn-street, or anywhere near there? No. Goulburn-street has no share in it.
 441. Is all the money in the form of subscriptions from the gaming-tables paid direct to Way Kee? About two years ago it was made up monthly or weekly, and sent down, but lately I have not heard how the money has been paid.
 442. Now how about the Bow on Tong—what are its objects? That society is composed of different members of the Hang Shang community, who subscribe 5s. each.
 443. Per annum? They only made one call, and then some gave £5. The lowest subscription taken was 5s.
 444. What are the objects of that society? To send home old men and dead bones.
 445. Are its objects then quite the same as those of the first society you mentioned? As far as the old men and dead bones are concerned its objects—yes.
 446. Do they pay any of their funds to defend themselves from police proceedings? No; they only pay away money in respect of old men and dead bones.
 447. Who are its officers? On Yik and Lee, in George-street North.
 448. What about the Hing Sing Tong? It is similar in every respect to the society last named, but consists of a different community.
 449. Who are the officers? Hang On & Co., storekeepers, Campbell-street.
 450. And the funds are not used for defence purposes at all? No.
 451. Have you or your partners ever been proceeded against by the police on any charge whatever? No.
 452. Is it true that you have never paid the police any money? Never.
 453. Have you ever made them a present of any article of furniture or jewelry? No.
 454. You never gave any article at all to the police? No, nothing at all.
 455. Mr. McKillop.] Do you or others engage young larrikins to tout for you, or watch for the police? No.

Chen Ah Teak, called :—

- Chen Ah Teak. 456. President.] Where do you live? At North Willoughby.
 457. What business are you in? I am not in any business now. I keep a lot of gardeners.
 458. How many Chinamen have you in your employ? I used to have half a dozen in some places, a dozen in others, and smaller numbers elsewhere; about fifty altogether.
 459. Where are your gardens? Some at Pennant Hills, some at Pearce's Corner, some at Gordon, and some at Botany.
 460. Do you import these men from China yourself? No; I never imported any at all. I always engaged them here.
 461. How much a week do you pay them? I give each man £40 a year, except the head men, who get £50.
 462. And they feed themselves? No? I pay for their food too. It costs about 10s. a week per man.
 463. Do the men stay long in your employ? Yes; they stay for some years.
 464. What do the men do on Saturday and Sunday when their work is done; do they go into town? Some go into town and others remain in the gardens.
 465. What do they do when they come to town? I do not know.
 466. Do they go to Lower George-street? They go anywhere. I cannot say where they go.
 467. Are they members of any Chinese society? Well, I do not know what you mean.
 468. You know that there are Chinese societies in Sydney? I have heard that there are, but I know nothing about it.
 469. Do you not know that there are Chinese societies in Sydney—charitable societies, for sending your countrymen's bones to China? Yes.
 470. What is the name of one of them? One is called the Chung Fae Tong, another the Loon Yee Tong, and another the Bow Sing Tong.
 471. Are you a member of the Loon Yee Tong? No.
 472. Who is the principal man in it? Way Kee and Yen Tah are the principal men.
 473. How many members of it are there in Sydney and up the country? Two or three thousand I should think.
 474. Are all the principal Chinese merchants members of that society? Some of them are interested in it and some are not.

Chen
Ah Teak.
4 Sept., 1891.

475. But the majority of them are? Yes.
476. From whence do they derive their income? They get their money from subscriptions from individual Chinamen, and never anything from the gambling-houses. Everyone gives a subscription to it.
477. I did not ask you anything about the gambling-houses, Chen Ah Teak? No.
478. This society gets its money by subscriptions? Yes.
479. And some men who keep gambling-houses pay towards it because they are members? Yes.
480. Are you quite sure that some of the gambling-houses do not pay a commission out of their profits to it? I do not know personally about that.
481. Do you ever go to the Chinese gambling-places? No.
482. You are a married man, married to a white lady? Yes.
483. And you have a family? Yes.
484. What does this society spend its funds upon? To send home the bones of their countrymen, so that they can go and pray over them; also to send old men, blind men, and lame men home.
485. How many men's bones has the society sent for the last ten years? Nearly 500.
486. How much does it cost to send a man's bones home? They spend sometimes nearly £100.
487. But then they send a number of them together? Yes; it sometimes costs £10 to remove a man's bones from the country.
488. Are you a member of this society? I was two years ago.
489. Do they pay money for the Chinese when they are fined at the Police Court? Never; this money is always for the use of the poor people I have referred to.
490. Then if a poor Chinaman is fined at the Police Court, this society will pay his fine? No; this money must all be spent upon sending poor people and old people home to China.
491. Where is the money belonging to the society kept? It is all put into the bank.
492. Who is the treasurer? The money is all kept at the big Chinese stores.
493. Do you still pay your subscription? Yes.
494. Do you never attend the meetings? No; never.
495. You do not bother about it at all? No.
496. You lived in Lower George-street a long time? Yes.
497. When did you leave there? Nearly six years ago.
498. Do you know that a great many Chinese shops in Lower George-street are used for gambling? I have heard that it is so. I have seen them sometimes in passing; but I never noticed it much.
499. Can you tell me how these Chinese gambling-shops are managed;—Is one man, or are several men the owners? I do not know; I never went into the gambling-houses at all much.
500. Some of your countrymen keep gambling-houses;—You know, I suppose? Yes; some of them do; I do not know how many keep them though.
501. Do you know if they make much money? I do not know; I do not think they do. Some of them are very poor. I lend them money sometimes, and never get it back again.
502. Sometimes you lend money to a man who keeps a gambling-house? No; I never lend money to gambling-shops.
503. Now, do the men who run these gambling-shops make much money? Well, there is a company, and they make money.
504. Are any of the Chinese merchants members of these companies? Yes; Wong Lee Hing, who went home to China.
505. Did he make lots of money? Yes; he was a very rich man.
506. Can you tell me how he made his money? He made some through gambling, and some through business.
507. Some of the Chinese merchants in Lower George-street are interested in the gambling-houses now;—you know that? I do not know that any are now.
508. Perhaps you do not know for certain, but you have reason to believe that it is so? There are some, I think, who have.
509. Is Way Kee a Chinese merchant? Yes.
510. He is also a partner in some of these gambling-houses? I do not think he gambles at all.
511. Perhaps not personally, but he is connected with a company? I never heard it.
512. But do you not think so? I never hear anything about that.
513. Have you not heard that Way Kee was interested in some of these gambling-houses? I never heard that. Way Kee lets houses.
514. Where are Way Kee's houses? In Lower George-street.
515. All of them in Lower George-street? I think so.
516. Any in Goulburn-street? No; I do not think so.
517. Do you know any of the police officers in Lower George-street? Yes; I know some of them very well.
518. Is it true that Way Kee pays money to the police, or gives them diamond rings, or presents of furniture to stop away? I do not think so.
519. But do you not know very well that some of the gamblers—perhaps not Way Kee—give presents to the police? I never heard anything about it.
520. Are you quite sure that you never heard anything about it? Yes; but it might be so.
521. Do you ever go down Lower George-street now? Yes; but not very often.
522. Where do you buy your goods? From Goon Ping's store in Goulburn-street.
523. What part of Goulburn-street is that? No. 52 on the left-hand side going up.
524. Is fan-tan played on his premises? No, he is an honest man and a big merchant.
525. Does he own any houses? Yes.
526. Is he one of a company engaged in the running of gambling-houses? No.
527. You know Inspector Atwill? No.
528. Did you every make him a present of anything? No.
529. Did any of your countrymen make him presents? I do not know.
530. What are these other societies that you have spoken of—are they all the same as the first? What are the objects of the Bow Sing Tong. To take dead men's bones back to China.
531. Who is the chief man in the society? Tin War, and On Yik and Lee.

- Chen
Ah Teak.
4 Sept., 1891.
532. Where does Tin War live? In Lower George-street.
533. Is fan-tan played in his shop? No.
534. Where does On Yik and Lee live? In George-street.
535. What is he in business? A merchant.
536. Does he bring a lot of Chinese out from China? No; he brings a lot of goods, but not men.
537. Is he interested in any gambling-shop? No.
538. How many men has he in his employment? Nearly half-a-dozen, I think.
539. What are the objects of the Chung Fue Tong? They are similar.
540. Who is the chief man in that society? Bow Loong and Wing Ling.
541. Where does he live? In Lower George-street.
542. What is his business? He keeps a grocer's shop.
543. And is gambling carried on in his house? No; never.
544. When were you in Lower George-street last? I pass through every week.
545. When were you there last? I was at Sam War's store the other day, just to talk to him.
546. Did not he talk to you about the Chinese Gambling Commission? Oh, no; he never said anything about it. We did not take any notice of it.
547. How long were you talking to Sam War? Oh; not very long.
548. What was the subject of your conversation? We only talked business.
549. When did you see Way Kee last? I see him very seldom. The last time was about two months ago. I am very busy as a rule, and cannot talk to these people.
550. Is there any opium-smoking going on at North Shore? No; I never engage an opium-smoker.
551. Mr. Quong Tart.] There is a great complaint about gambling? Yes.
552. You are an old resident in Sydney? Yes.
553. You know who is the largest gambler in Sydney? No; I do not.
554. Mr. Hawthorne.] What did you come here to day for? Because my countryman wanted an interpreter, so he came over to North Willoughby for me early this morning.
555. Do you charge him any money for coming? No; my countrymen are all poor people, and I do not charge them any money.
556. Mr. Quong Tart.] Can you assist us in putting down the evils of gambling and opium-smoking? I do not think we can stop them.

TUESDAY, 8 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Jack Armstrong called and examined:—

- Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.
557. President.] Where do you reside, Mr. Armstrong? At 121, George-street North.
558. What business do you carry on? That of a tobacconist and hairdresser.
559. Is your place of business within what is known as the Chinese locality—that is to say, Lower George-street, or George-street North? It is nearly right opposite the Naval stores.
560. You are, I believe, President of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes; I am.
561. Is that the correct title of the League? Yes.
562. What are the objects of your League? The objects are set forth in the prayer of the petition on the subject, which is signed by all the shopkeepers in that particular neighbourhood, and to which about seventy-five signatures are attached. Perhaps I had better give you the heading to the petition.
563. Tell us what are the objects of the League in the first place;—can you not state shortly what are the objects of the League? Yes; the objects of the League are, by every legitimate means in our power, to remove from our midst the Chinese gambling-dens.
564. How many members are there in your League? Seventy-five members.
565. They are all Europeans with the exception of one—Mr. Goldtown, a Chinese merchant? —
566. Is Goldtown a Chinese name? No; I may explain that, as I understand, his name means that in English, and by advice, he called himself Goldtown.
567. I suppose the Anti-Chinese Gambling League have made inquiries as to the existence of the nuisance connected with the Chinese gambling-dens in that part of Sydney? —
568. The majority of the people living in that end of the town are perfectly conversant with the mode of life of the Chinese living in their midst? —
569. What I want to know is this: Does the League confine its agitation in this matter to the northern part of the city? Yes; we intended at the time to extend it further, but it was ultimately decided to limit it to that particular part of the city.
570. Then we are to understand that the scope of the inquiry is limited to the northern part of the city? Yes.
571. How many shops are there in the lower part of George-street occupied by Chinese and used by them as gambling-dens? To the best of my knowledge, there are thirty-six shops occupied by Chinamen in Lower George-street, and twenty-eight I believe to be occupied by Chinese for gambling purposes.
572. What is the average rental paid by these Chinese who occupy these gambling-dens? I cannot give you exact information on that point.
573. Can you not form an idea approximately? I believe the rents are supposed to average about £6 a week. It would be impossible for anyone to say how much they pay exactly unless one collected the rents or did some business with them in that way.
574. Did you say to the Premier during the interview on the 30th July that the landlords of these tenements were paid by the Chinese tenants from £6 10s. to £7 10s. a week? It is very probable I did. I have not got the newspaper reports myself.

Mr. J.
Armstrong.

575. Then, are we to understand that that was not from information within your own actual knowledge or experience? It was from hearsay. I was going to ask you if you will allow me—as you appear to be quoting from newspaper reports—to put myself clear before the Commission. In the Daily Telegraph report of the interview with the Premier I think I am reported correctly; in the other papers I am reported as having made a statement about Chinese gambling in reference to the 2d. in the 1s. What I really said to Sir Henry Parkes was that the Chinese merchants had made that statement, and I reported that statement to the Premier.

576. That is a small matter; but you know of your own knowledge, I understand, that these shops are not carried on for purposes of general business, and that nothing is sold in them, or offered for sale, in fact, except a little tobacco, perhaps, and so forth? Yes.

577. That the bulk of these thirty-six shops you mentioned are used as gambling-dens, and are not conducted for purposes of general business? Yes; I know that perfectly well. Most of them have nothing to sell.

578. Do you know, of your own knowledge, that people assemble on these premises day and night for the purpose of gambling? I know that, yes.

579. That is of your own knowledge? Yes. I will tell you how I know it.

580. I think you need not explain. If you know it of your own knowledge that is sufficient for our purposes. What sort of people generally attend these gambling shops during the daytime? Well, I have known several officials employed in the Post Office attend there to my own knowledge. They belonged to the sorting department, and knock off work about 8 o'clock and return about 12 o'clock. The interval they would put in in these Chinese gambling-places.

581. What other classes of people attend these places? All sorts, including many of the respectable portion of the community—what would be called respectable people.

582. Can you not give me an idea of what classes of people are seen going there? Well, the respectable class of people are not seen to go there.

583. Then I want to get at the class of people you do see? There are wharf-labourers, coal-lumpers, seamen, and others.

584. All white people? There are coloured men, too, among them occasionally.

585. You have been speaking of the attendance in the daytime; in the evening, I suppose, the attendance is very much larger? Yes; I should say so, considerably.

586. The attendance is not by any means confined to the Chinese? No; not at all.

587. Do many people assemble on the footways outside the doors of these gambling-houses? Not latterly.

588. Up to what time did they do so? Up to the inception of the League it was a common practice.

589. Can you tell me the date of the formation of the League? About the 14th July, 1891; but I think there was a meeting held previous to that.

590. What rent do you pay for your premises. Mr. Armstrong? £3 5s. a week.

591. How many feet of ground does your house stand on? I have no idea. Of course, latterly there has been a big extension. It is part of a block owned by Alderman Playfair.

592. You occupy a shop owned by Mr. Alderman Playfair? Yes.

593. How long have you been a tenant of that? Very nearly two years. I was in business before that in the same street, further down.

594. You say you pay £3 5s. a week; was that the rent you went in at originally? Yes—£3 5s. a week.

595. Are you satisfied with that rental? Well, I suppose every tenant would be willing to have a reduction in his rent.

596. I ask you, as a reasonable man, whether you are satisfied that the amount you pay per week is a fair rental? Well, I think the rent is too much at the present time. Some time ago it was a fair rent, but it is too much now.

597. Have the profits of your business fallen off during the last three months, as compared with the first three months of your tenancy? I practically stand at the present time £100 worse off than I was twelve months ago.

598. What I desire to know is whether your business has fallen off, and if so, to what extent during the last three months, as compared with the first three months? I can scarcely answer that question, as I was running two shops at that time.

599. Has there been any diminution in your takings? Yes; to a very great extent.

600. That is in the last three months, as compared with the first three months of your tenancy? Yes. There has also been a diminution in the business of other persons down there. But I should say this is also traceable to other reasons besides the existence of the Chinese down there.

601. Then you do not attribute it to the existence of the Chinese gambling dens altogether? No.

602. Do boys or young girls go into these gambling-dens to buy tickets in the lotteries carried on there? Not to my personal knowledge. But I have known boarding-house keepers' wives send their boarders down there to buy tickets in the lotteries. That is, I know it from hearsay.

603. How do you know that they are sent to buy tickets? From the persons going to get the tickets.

604. Can you give us the names of the principal gambling den proprietors in Lower George-street? Moy Ping is supposed to be the principal one, I believe.

605. How many people should you say assemble in his place of business in the day time? No one I believe would be able to give you that information unless they went inside, and I have not been inside the premises to see.

606. Can you not give us any idea as to the numbers? No; they go inside and disappear very quickly.

607. Yes; but I suppose you see them going in? Not necessarily. The majority go into these places—the respectable portion—very quickly, as I have said; they do not hang about at all.

608. I want to get an idea of the profits derived from these shops if I can; that is why I ask you the question? Well, an idea may be gathered from an incident I can mention. A man named Dawson, a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, has a shop almost immediately next the "Ropemaker's Arms." Some time back the landlord of these premises would not let them to Chinamen. In consequence of this a Chinaman on one occasion approached Dawson, and said to him, "You take a shop, Dawson, and I will allow you 30s. bonus weekly if the shop is taken in your name, and I am allowed to use it for gambling." The shop is two doors from the "Ropemaker's Arms," and lets for £4 10s. a week. It was originally a shooting-saloon.

Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8. Sept., 1891.

609. Do many assemble outside the doors of these gambling-dens? The larrikin element do to a large extent.
610. With what object do they hang about there? Well, they seem to be rather proud of it.
611. But for what reason do they hang about these dens? Waiting for the banks to be drawn.
612. Are you aware of ladies and respectable persons going down George-street being insulted by the Chinese in that locality? I have not seen them; but I know of several ladies, friends of my wife, who will not go along that part of George-street, and go up Pitt-street instead.
613. Is that because they fear being insulted? It is principally because of the dirt, I think; but members of our League have stated that their wives have been insulted. They have told me so.
614. You are aware, I suppose, that ladies will not go down to Circular Quay by way of that part of George-street? No.
615. Have you noticed a falling off in the traffic in that respect? Yes; there has been a great decline during the last three years.
616. To what do you attribute the disinclination on the part of these ladies and the respectable part of the public to go down Lower George-street? The plain way they put it is that they "will not go through Chinatown."
617. I want the principal reason, if possible for this objection to going through that quarter; I understood you to say it was because they were insulted, or subject to insult from the Chinese there? I will not say absolutely that they are insulted.
618. Is it because of the bad smells arising from opium-smoking, do you think? You can detect the smell of opium-smoking pretty strongly there at times.
619. Then you think this disinclination on the part of the respectable portion of the communities, and of ladies to go along the northern end of George-street, is on account of that part of the city being occupied principally by Chinese residents? Yes, that is to say, the Chinese gambling-houses.
620. Did you tell the Colonial Secretary that your own business had fallen off 15 per cent. during the last two years? Yes; I dare say I did.
621. Did you say that many of the Chinese were very rude to women passing down the street? Yes.
622. And you know that of your own knowledge? With regard to that, I was simply stating, what we, as members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League had frequently referred to in conversation.
623. And what you had observed, I suppose? Well, yes; it was a matter of pretty general comment among members of the League.
624. As a matter of fact, do they not avoid George-street North, or that particular part of George-street under consideration, because they are liable to insult and annoyance from the Chinese residents there who inhabit these gambling-dens? Yes; friends of my own have told me of instances.
625. I suppose they would have no reason to tell you so, unless it had actually occurred? Certainly not; they would not have made statements of that kind, without they had been insulted.
626. Have you any objections to these premises, you have more particularly referred to, on the score of the lack of sanitation—I mean as to these thirty-six gambling-houses? I cannot say myself; I have never been in them. I speak entirely from the outside appearances.
627. That is to say, I suppose, the exterior walls are dirty; the windows not clean. Your remarks apply purely to the outside? Yes.
628. Do you know anything about the custom of the Chinese, with regard to women down there? I have seen Chinamen with European women, but for what purpose, I cannot say.
629. The proprietors of these gambling-houses, do they keep women either on their premises, or anywhere else, do you know? I only know from hearsay.
630. Has your Society made particular inquiry as to that phase of the Chinese question? No; I think not.
631. Has your Society any official report to the effect that the Chinese gaming-house keepers keep women either on the premises or at other places for immoral purposes? Some other members of the League will be able to tell you more about that.
632. You are President of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.
633. And have access to all documents in connection with it? Yes.
634. Have you any reports of the kind I have mentioned? Yes; from members of the League there have been reports.
635. Do you mean written reports that come to the Society in the ordinary course of business? No.
636. Have you no record of any such reports in the minute-book? No; only the statements which have been made from time to time.
637. Just occasional statements? Yes.
638. You do not know of your own knowledge that the proprietors of these gaming-houses keep women for the use of the public? For the public.
639. Or for their own use? There are some houses in Harrington-street where they have women it is a well-known fact.
640. What I want to know is, do these gaming-house proprietors keep women on their premises, or anywhere else, for the use of their own countrymen, or for Europeans? I cannot say myself.
641. Do you know anything about the circumstances under which the ordinary Chinese come to the Colony? No; I do not.
642. What I mean is, do they come here at their own expense, or are they imported, or brought here at the expense of other persons? At the present time I know a system of "swapping" is carried on pretty extensively.
643. What is that? Say that a vessel leaves China, and some man wishes to stay in this Colony. When the ship is sailing another Chinaman is put in his place, and the other (that is the one who wishes to remain) will stop here. In that way they manage to evade the poll-tax. I know myself this is done.
644. What I want to know is whether the Chinese merchants in Lower George-street import their countrymen to labour for them? I believe so. Many of them are simply slaves.
645. Can you give us any information as to how many people reside in the gambling houses in Lower George-street? There is only one house you can see into, and there are forty or fifty in that house. It is down below the level of the street, next to the "Blue Anchor Hotel."
646. Is that used as a gambling den? I have been told that it is principally a boarding-house.

647. Is there any opium-smoking carried on in those gambling-houses as a rule, do you know? That I cannot tell you, as I have never been inside them.

648. What work has the Anti-Chinese Gambling League done since it was established? We tried in every way to approach the police in the matter at first, and asked their advice and assistance; but the police said they were powerless to aid us. We then approached the Members for West Sydney, to ask them to bring the matter before Parliament. We had an interview with the Labour Party in the House, and they appointed certain Members of their body to introduce a deputation to Sir Henry Parkes. This was subsequently done, representations were made to the Premier on the subject, who said he would look into this matter, and I believe this Commission of Inquiry is the outcome of that action.

649. The Anti-Chinese Gambling League was only established in July last? Yes.

650. And is that all you have done in the matter up to the present time? Yes.

651. Your object, mainly, was to galvanise the Government into some kind of action I suppose? Yes; we got up petitions on the subject, and so forth.

652. That was all since July last? Yes.

653. And before that, were members of the League in a private capacity active in trying to get the police to suppress the evil? Yes.

654. That action on the part of private residents generally would go back for some years probably? Yes.

655. How long have you been living in Lower George-street yourself? I have been living in Lower George-street actually for twelve years.

656. Did you ever communicate with the police yourself on the subject of this evil? No.

657. That is not until you became a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.

658. Do you know any one who did communicate with the police on the subject? I know several members of the League.

659. When were the police first communicated with to obtain their assistance in suppressing these Chinese gambling-houses? I could not give you that exactly.

660. Can you not tell us approximately in what year? Well, one gentleman says that he has been speaking to the police for the last ten years.

661. Have you ever sought to ascertain why the police were apparently so inactive in removing this nuisance? I cannot say. I have myself spoken to Inspector Atwill on the subject of these lotteries.

662. When did you speak to the inspector? Within this last month.

663. That is not what I want; I want to get far back if I can in relation to this matter—I should like to go back some two years or twelve months at least? I cannot speak for that time.

664. Cannot you give any information at all to explain the continued neglect on the part of the police during the last two or three years to remedy this crying evil? No; I can only speak from what I have seen.

665. That is exactly what I want to get at; to what do you attribute this inactivity? Well, the police say they cannot do it; but I think they could.

666. Then you have every reason to believe that the police have been culpably negligent in the matter of suppressing the evil for the last two or three years? Well, no; I cannot say that if what the police assert be true.

667. But what would your reasoning teach you;—what would you think, or have you any other reason to believe that they have been culpably negligent during the last two or three years? I should say they have.

668. It has been a glaring evil? Certainly; and it has been on the increase until recently.

669. Have you ever heard it suggested that the police have been interested in shutting their eyes to the existence of this evil? Yes; I have heard it asserted by members of the League.

670. Do you think it a reasonable thing to assert? Yes; I think so.

671. Has it ever been alleged, to your knowledge, that the police take bribes from the Chinese who keep these gambling dens? I have heard it stated by several; but I do not think that anybody would be able to prove that they have.

672. I do not want you to prove it; that is for us to do if it is possible to be done;—what I mean is, is it a matter of belief among persons most likely to know, that the police have received bribes from these persons? If bribes have been given, I do not suppose any third party has seen it.

673. But I understand you have every reason to believe that there must have been some corruption in the ranks of the police force to have permitted this evil to exist so long without any active attempt being made to eradicate it; that, I think, is a fair way of putting the case? I should say so, certainly.

674. Now, I want you to consider this point;—if there has been corruption in the police force, must it not have extended right through the ranks in order to be successful, that is to say, from the ordinary constable on the beat up to the inspector or sergeant of police immediately over the constables on the beat? Well, you see, there are certain regular policemen on that beat.

675. Never mind about that; must not the corruption have been general in order to have permitted this thing to go on without check for such a length of time? I would sooner not express any opinion upon that.

676. But I must ask you to;—I want to know whether, in your opinion, if there has been corruption in the police, it must not have been fairly general? That I cannot express an opinion about, for I have no idea whether corruption has been general throughout the police force or not.

677. You know nothing about that question? No.

678. You have not even a vague suspicion of its existence at all? No.

679. You are not able to answer the question I put to you as to corruption in the police force with regard to that district must have been general to be effective? No.

680. It is an important question this, and you practically refuse to give any answer to it? I have said I do not know because the police change so often there.

681. I am not asking you about that—I am asking you whether for the corruption to be general, it must not have been general? I do not think it would require to be general.

682. Then supposing the case of a policeman to be on duty there at night, who is incorruptible, and he sees gambling going on in these houses? Yes.

683. Would he not, in the conscientious discharge of his duty, report that to his superior officer? Certainly.

Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.

Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.

684. Do you know if any such reports have been made by an ordinary policeman in that locality to his superior officer? Not that I am aware of.

685. Do you know if any of these Chinese merchants or proprietors of gambling-houses keep women—their own mistresses—in elaborately-furnished houses in any part of the locality known as The Rocks? I believe there are several such houses, but I have never been inside of them.

686. They keep women there? Yes.

687. Their mistresses? They may be married to them for all I know.

688. You have never been inside you say, and so cannot speak from actual personal experience? No; I do not know of my own knowledge, but most of the Chinese are rather fond of European ladies; they seem to like them better, though, for the matter of that, they have no chance of getting their own country women here.

689. Do boys attend these gambling-houses in Lower George-street much? I think they do, because I know when they come into my shop they ask in getting change for coppers. I have asked them why they want coppers, and they will reply, "Oh, to go up to the Chinamen's and make a rise."

690. Do you know within your own experience whether the wives of sailors or wharf-labourers, or white people generally attend at these houses to get their husbands to come away because of the money they spend in them? I have been told so.

691. Is it within your own knowledge? No.

692. Do you know who are the landlords of these gaming-houses? I believe five of the shops belong to Mr. Beale.

693. You say five of them are owned by Mr. Beale;—do you know who is the largest owner of these places? I could not say that. The next is owned by Mr. Himmeloch.

694. Do you know any other landlords of the tenements about there? There are some houses on the opposite side of the road, but they are not occupied by Chinese. Alderman Playfair owns some houses in Hatherton-street and Playfair-street. He is my landlord, but he does not own any shops of the class you mention.

695. Within the last two or three years, have the police within your knowledge made any raids upon these places—these gambling-dens? Yes; they did make a raid about two and a half years ago.

696. Were they successful on that occasion? Yes; and then there was this one they made recently.

697. They made a raid on these dens about two and a half years ago, and also within the last two months? Yes.

698. Have you ever heard it alleged that any of the landlords of these places have given the police bribes? No.

699. Or that they have used their influence with the police to induce them not to interfere with the Chinese gambling dens? Well, I have heard a statement made by a member of the League that a police officer in the district said, referring to the action of the League, that he would be a d— fool or a b— fool (I forget which) to interfere with vested interests.

700. Did he refer to any particular landlord? No; I do not think he referred to anyone in particular. He spoke of "vested interests" in the neighbourhood.

701. Is it true that you told the Premier that these gaming-house proprietors paid £6 10s. to £7 10s. per week rent? I may have said that. I have heard so.

702. But you do not know it as a matter of fact, is that the case—I mean from your own personal knowledge? No.

703. What would be a fair rental for these houses, supposing they were not used as gambling-dens? About £3 a week, I should say.

704. That is a very great difference;—are there any shops to let now near Bridge-street in George-street? One has been vacated by Chinese recently, and, on the other side of the street, there are two vacant now, and one next the "Ropemakers' Arms."

705. There are four or five shops vacant there now? Yes.

706. Who are the landlords of those houses? One would be the shop in Beale's block.

707. Mr. Beale would let to Chinese, would he not? He has done so. When he bought that block * * *

708. I mean now? Yes; they are all let to Chinese.

709. The landlord of the other houses you have spoken of;—would he let to Chinese at all? No; that is, as far as I have been told by the people tenancing them.

710. Has the Anti-Chinese Gambling League confined itself to Lower George-street and that locality? Yes; we intended to take the whole of the city at first.

711. But you have practically confined your attention to Lower George-street? Yes.

712. And to nothing but the suppression of this gambling nuisance? Yes; we kept solely to that.

713. And your Society has no evidence in its possession as to the police having been successfully bribed to ignore the existence of this evil in your midst? Well, no. We have only the statement made by Mr. Goldtown to us, and which was referred to in the interview that the deputation had with the Premier.

714. Can you state shortly what Mr. Goldtown informed your Society of in that regard? Mr. Goldtown attended at one of our meetings one evening, and represented that he was a Consul of China, and represented about twenty-five Chinese merchants in the city, who desired him to attend the League for the purpose of assisting in its objects. He also informed us that while in China, before coming here at all, he had attempted to stop the practice of gambling, and told us of the laws relating to gambling in China, and the punishment imposed upon persons found guilty of it. He is a very fair speaker. He afterwards made a statement to members of the League that he knew 2d. in the 1s. was stopped from the prize fund for the purpose of bribing the police. He said it was a fund that was collected weekly by certain Chinese from the different gambling-houses for that purpose. He said he knew the man who actually collected the bribes, and the Chinese admitted this. That it was collected of the purpose of bribing the police.

715. Where does Mr. Goldtown reside? At 417b, or 497a, Pitt-street.

716. Is it true that he is leaving the Colony? There was a rumour to that effect, but one of the police told me that he is in Goulburn-street still.

717. Has he reported himself to you since the appointment of the Commission? Yes.

718. When did you see him last? It is about a month ago I should say.

719. What conversation had you with him then? I called at his place myself with another member of the League. I omitted to state that he offered to pay the League £25 on behalf of twenty-five Chinese gentlemen to assist in carrying out the objects of the League. This was at the interview I have previously referred to. He tendered the money in my presence to our treasurer, Mr. Buchanan. After thinking the matter over, I said it would not be right, that it might injure the standing of the League to take the money. I therefore said, "No, if you want to enter the League, you can pay the same fee as the other members, 2s. 6d." To this he said that they did not wish their names to be mentioned, as the Chinese had a secret society, and that their lives might be endangered.

to

Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.

720. Did he say anything about offering money to the police to make them shut their mouths? No; that was not at the meeting, and merely in general conversation, when six or seven members of the League and myself were present. On the last occasion he said any time he was required, if a telegram or a letter were sent, he would be happy to come down.

721. Do you, personally, know anything about presents having been made by Chinese to policemen? I have heard it asserted lots of times.

722. Do you know any policemen who have been in receipt of presents? No, I cannot say I do.

723. Have you any information at all that would assist us in tracing any action of the kind? In reference to the police?

724. I want to ascertain, if possible, the case of a Chinaman who has made a present, and a policeman who has accepted one, or any information that will lead us to suspect, or implicate a particular policeman;—can you tell the Commission anything which will assist us in that direction? Well; some years ago a policeman received a gold watch and chain, but that was publicly.

725. There was no scandal about that? No; he had lived a long time in the district.

726. Ten years ago I suppose gambling was not so ripe in the district? No. I should say it has increased 50 per cent. in ten years.

727. Do you know any of the policemen in Lower George-street personally? I know all of them.

728. Can you tell me the names of any of the police who were on duty in Lower George-street five years ago, that is the police on duty during the day or night time? During the last three years I could say.

729. Well? Constable Quealy.

730. How long has he been stationed there? Three or four years.

731. Did you know him four years ago? Yes.

732. Was he a poor man then? That I cannot say.

733. You do not know anything about his circumstances? No.

734. Do you think he was the possessor of £1,000 then? I could not say, he might have been. But I believe he was working on the wharfs before he joined the police force.

735. Was he constantly on duty in Lower George-street? Yes.

736. He has retired from the police force now, I think? He was dismissed.

737. What was he dismissed for? For drunkenness on duty, I believe.

738. You know nothing about his circumstances now? Not much. I believe he applied for a hotel license on Thursday week, and it was refused.

739. Where is the hotel he applied for? He applied twice, I think, the first was in Balmain, and, as I have said, it was refused; but he applied again for one in Woolloomooloo, and I believe it was granted. I have heard so.

740. Do you know whether he is the possessor of any considerable sum of money? I heard that he had £600.

741. Who told you that? A member of our League—I forget who at this moment.

742. Have you any idea as to how he became possessed of this £600—have you had any suspicion? I cannot say; of course I may surmise.

743. Have you any suspicion? No.

744. Do you think he could have saved it out of his earnings as a policeman during two or three years? No, I should say not, certainly. It would not be possible. But he might have got it other ways, by gambling, backing horses, or speculating in other ways.

745. Have you seen Quealy lately? Yes.

746. Did he say anything about the matter of the police receiving presents? He did say he would have something to say about the case. But whether his information would have a tendency to strengthen the case as against the police, I do not know. We had no conversation about money matters at all, or anything of that sort.

747. Mr. Abigail.] You were among those who formed the deputation to the Colonial Secretary? I was.

748. Then I suppose you heard four or five members of that deputation make statements about the police receiving bribes of watches, diamond rings, and so on? I heard Mr. Davies make a statement there something to that effect; but it was treated as a joke. Sir Henry Parkes laughed. Mr. Davies said it was an old joke about a policeman getting a watch in three months from the time of his entering the force. But it appeared he was not satisfied with a watch, but wanted a diamond ring. It was more of a joke than anything else, I thought.

749. You have seen the report of the deputation in the Daily Telegraph? Yes.

750. In that report you are accredited with stating that a Chinese merchant informed you, that, in these Chinese gambling dens they stopped 2d. in the 1s. in order to create a fund for bribing the police? Yes.

751. And Mr. Goldtown is the Chinese gentleman referred to? Yes.

752. Is he a merchant? Yes; he was described on his card as a silk merchant.

753. And I think he told you that he represented twenty-five Chinese merchants? Yes.

754. Did the league take a record as to who those gentlemen were? No, he told us that they would not allow their names to be mentioned, on account of the probability of the Chinese taking measures to do them injury.

755. However, you were so satisfied with Goldtown as to allow him to become a member? We had admitted him before. We were willing to take anyone into the league who had the same interest as we had.

756. Have you taken any trouble lately to ascertain whether this man is still in Sydney? Not recently. I may say that I went with another member of the league, Mr. Christensen, in company with Mr. Davis, M.L.A., to Mr. Tart, to ask what status he, Mr. Goldtown, occupied. Mr. Tart said he believed he was a respectable man. We went on one occasion to see Mr. Goldtown, as we had been advised to get him to make an affidavit before a Justice of the Peace, but he was not at home. He came down in a cab that night, and we asked him whether he would make the affidavit. He replied no; that now there was a Commission appointed, he would verify everything he had said.

- Mr. J. Armstrong. 757. You are credited with saying that bad smells and filth prevail in this part of George-street, as well as gambling? No doubt.
- 8 Sept., 1891. 757½. You know that of your own knowledge? Yes.
758. And opium smoking? That I do not know, but I believe there is a good deal of it.
759. Do you know the smell of it? No, but the smell of Chinese tobacco is very bad.
760. You are also credited with saying that ladies were frequently insulted passing up and down that part of George-street? It was a matter of common conversation among members of the League. I do not speak from personal experience.
761. You never saw any conduct of the kind yourself, but have heard other people speak of it? Yes; I have frequently heard it asserted.
762. Do you know, of your own knowledge, of any policeman receiving a bribe in the shape of a gold watch, or a diamond ring, or a piece of furniture? No.
763. Do you know any member of your League who could give direct information on that question—that is, as to bribery of the police? Well, I do not know whether you would call it bribery, but there is a member of our League who has stated that two plain-clothes constables have been in the habit of going into an oyster saloon in George-street with Chinese, and having supper; and I suppose the majority of people would imagine that the Chinese and not the police paid for it. I told the Inspector of Police shortly after the occurrence.
764. You reported it? I told him myself within the same month.
765. What is the name of the member of the League who gave this information? Williams, a jeweller.
766. Where does he live? Next door to On Chong, in George-street. He is a watchmaker and jeweller. He told me he had seen them there several times.
767. Has the League considered the present law of the Colony in its application to this evil of Chinese gambling? Yes. I have spoken to Inspector Atwill myself, in regard to this lottery business, and he said there was no "contingency" to pay, and consequently the police had no power. I said, "You can see it marked up in plain English, five marks, 1s. 2d., six marks so much, and so on." But I contend that there is a contingency.
768. Has the League represented the matter to any other officer connected with the police? Yes. Mr. Kelly, our secretary, wrote to the Inspector-General of Police, inviting him to be present with the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes.
769. Has the League taken any steps to test the truthfulness, or otherwise of the allegations as to corruption on the part of the police? We found that it would be impossible to sheet that home to the police, except from the statements made by Mr. Goldtown. In fact, it is impossible to find out—at least, I think it impossible.
770. Do you know whether these lottery houses are frequented by young boys or girls? Lads of from 12 and 14 up to 16 or 17 hang about there a good deal. They seem to rather delight in hanging about these shops.
771. Do I understand you to say that the police have distinctly informed you that they are powerless to act in this matter of the Chinese gambling-dens? Yes; several times. Mr. Inspector Atwill has told me so.
772. Have you asked him the reason why they were powerless to act? He said at the time the raid was made on Moy Ping's establishment, that the League starting had practically blocked the police. He also said that the police had been planning the raid for a long time, and the publicity given to the matter by the League starting had tied their hands. Yet, immediately the League was started, within a week, the raid was made.
773. Have you any reason to believe that the starting of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League has had a tendency to stop the gambling in Lower George-street at all? Well, one shop has closed up, and you do not see so many people about. They may be inside, of course.
774. But, taking it altogether, you say you do not think there is so much of it going on now as there was two or three months ago? I do not think so. But the E. S. and A. C. Bank would be able to tell you better than anyone else on that point, by the amount of money deposited with them by these people. If you go there when they are paying in their money, you have to stand back for them; they take their money in a carpet bag. A Chinaman named Sun Lee is said to have sent £60,000 home to China.
775. Who told you that? I do not know who made the statement.
- 775½. Does it not strike you that upon a serious matter of this kind it is hardly the thing to make statements without giving some foundation for them—this being really a very serious matter? Admitted.
776. For instance, the Premier told the deputation, "If the statements made were warranted—and it must be supposed they were or they would not have been made—that the police actually received valuable presents to the extent of watches and diamond rings, and that subscriptions were made with a view of making their services as conservators of the peace and good order of the State useless; if these statements were at all founded on fact, it disclosed a state of things which he would not hesitate to state he would lose no time whatever in investigating as thoroughly as possible." Now, what I want is to get some evidence to go upon in relation to this statement of the collection of money for the purpose of bribing the police to wink at the operation of these Chinese gambling-dens? With regard to the statement of Goldtown, I may say that he only stated that the 2d. was subscribed in the northern end of the city.
777. According to his statement it is confined to Lower George-street? Yes.
778. Has your League any suggestions to make as to altering the laws with a view to the suppression of this evil? Yes; we have made a suggestion in the prayer of our petition, which was drawn up by a legal gentleman, the suggestion being that the landlord should be held equally responsible with the tenant, upon due notice being given that the house was being used for gambling purposes.
779. Is gambling going on in these houses in Lower George-street now? Yes; it was going on when I came up, a little after 2 o'clock.
780. That is, I suppose, the people were going in and out in the usual way? Yes.
781. Did you ever go into one of these houses yourself? Yes; I went in on one occasion with two members of the League. We took three tickets. On coming out again there was a policeman outside, to whom we offered to give ourselves in custody, showing him the tickets, but he only laughed.
782. Those were lottery tickets I suppose? Yes.
783. Did you ever see them play fan-tan there? No, not in Lower George-street. 784.

784. Do you know what it is? I have seen them play it in Cooktown. They have a square plate on which there are certain marks to put the cash on, and they play with brass coins.

785. Were you informed what were your chances of winning? No; we simply took our tickets. It is stuck up on the shop windows outside. Five marks would be 1s., but now there is 2d. of that deducted. Six marks is 3s. 4d., I think, but I do not remember exactly.

786. Do you know if it is possible with a sixpenny ticket to win a large amount—say £74? I have heard it is. The Chinamen take pretty good care if a man wins a large amount that it shall be known—that “Dutch Peter,” or “French Louis,” or whoever it may be, has won a large amount; and it soon passes round.

787. Have you heard of complaints from the wives of labouring men about the losses sustained by their husbands in these dens? Yes, I have been told by Mr. Daley, Mr. O'Connor, and others. We were talking about it the other day.

788. The wives make a disturbance about it? They have come to my shop and told me that they have been up to bring their husbands from these places. They have also told me that they have lost the whole of their week's earnings, and run tick with me for a little tobacco.

789. Mr. Quong Tart.] How many Chinese houses do you say there are in Lower George-street? About thirty-six shops in all, and about twenty-eight gambling-houses.

790. Do you know the names of the Chinese occupying these houses? No, but the names are outside on their premises.

791. You cannot give us the names? I cannot.

792. Can you explain the kind of gambling that goes on there? I cannot say what kind of gambling goes on inside, but I know that the whole of them sell lottery tickets.

793. Have you got the ticket you paid 6d. for? No.

794. What did you do with it? I put it in my pocket at the time.

795. If you had the lottery ticket could you trace the name of the shop where you got it? I know the shop. It is one of five immediately below Beale's buildings.

796. Have you found any respectable Chinese merchants connected with these gambling-houses? No; I may say that from hearsay I believe the respectable Chinese are averse to it.

797. You cannot swear to it? No; I have very little dealings with them. In fact, I do not speak to them once in twelve months.

798. You do not know how many share in those twenty-eight shops? No; I am very much averse to Chinese altogether, and have no dealings with any of them.

799. I thought you would be able to tell us as Chairman of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? I simply sit there as Chairman; there are other members of the League who will be able to give you more information than I can.

800. You have said that you with others gave yourself in charge of a policeman—what is the name of the policeman you met outside the door on that occasion? I do not know. He is a new constable to that end of the town.

801. Mr. Hawthorne.] Who were the promoters of this Anti-Chinese Gambling League? A number of shopkeepers in the locality. It is a movement that has been talked about for a considerable time. Eventually we called a meeting, a majority of the shopkeepers having been visited by myself and Mr. Kelly to ask them to subscribe their names, and this [referring to document] was the list we originally got.

802. You were elected President, I understand? Yes.

803. Then we must take it that you were one of the principal individuals connected with the formation of the League? Well, I do not know that I was.

804. Did those gentlemen who spoke at the deputation to the Premier, receive their information from any member or members of the league? Many of them know the facts themselves from residence in the district.

805. How would Mr. Davies know about the facts stated there? The members were present, some of them, at special meetings of the League.

806. Were your meetings open to anyone? Yes.

807. Did anything take place of a startling character in Lower George-street that led to the starting of the League? No. It was simply in consequence of the falling off in business, and the discussions that took place among the shopkeepers with regard to the nuisance of these Chinese shops in the neighbourhood. It was a matter of general complaint. People would not go up and down that part of George-street, and it was stated by firms such as Felton and Nock, and others, that their trade was falling off in consequence.

808. Do you think the presence of these Chinese in Lower George-street, and their gambling propensities have had the effect of causing a depression in business that would not otherwise have existed, had not the gambling-dens been there? Well, there would certainly have been a depression in business on account of the late strike, but I do not think it would have been to the same extent.

809. And you really believe as a business man that the enormous amount of gambling that is said to exist in these Chinese habitations, is causing a depression in business in that part of the city? Yes, there is no doubt about it to my mind.

810. Have you ever heard anything definite about any presents being given to Inspector Atwill or any one else by the Chinese? Several have told me about chests of tea, or jars of ginger, or something of that kind having been given to Inspector Atwill.

811. Can you remember the name of any person who told you that chests of tea or jars of ginger had been sent to Inspector Atwill's house? I heard from a number of shopkeepers, before I was connected with the League, that it was done. But I do not believe that you could get anyone who has seen it done. It is a matter of surmise in most cases. No doubt they had bills for these things, but whether they were paid for is another matter altogether.

812. Have the members of the League ever gone into these gambling-houses in a body to see things for themselves? No. Many members of the League have been gamblers themselves.

813. So that really it is only from hearsay what you have said with regard to presents being given to the police? I have never said that presents have been given myself. It is simply hearsay evidence. With regard to the statement made by Mr. Goldtown, as to the deduction of 2d. in the 1s., it was not so, because the statement was made in the presence of the League.

Mr. J.
Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.

- Mr. J. Armstrong.
8 Sept., 1891.
814. But as to the statement made by Mr. Davies, M.P., and others? No, I cannot say as to that.
815. You have stated that respectable people are insulted going down George-street? I have heard so.
816. The words you use are to this effect, that ladies and respectable people would not go down George-street, but went round by Pitt-street instead; that many of the Chinese were very rude to people passing down there, and the police said they could do nothing? Yes. I may say I have seen one myself, a larrikin Chinaman—that is, I have heard him pass remarks. To respectable women his manner would be insulting, but the women he passed the remarks to he very likely knew.
817. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever had an interview with Constable Beadman? I have had several conversations with him.
818. Was it relative to this Chinese matter? Yes. It was immediately after the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes.
819. What was the nature of the conversation? They taxed me with having made a statement that the police were bribed by the Chinese. I said that I had simply reiterated the statement of Goldtown, and I told Sir Henry Parkes that the time had gone by for secrecy.
820. Did Constable Beadman say anything about a certain amount of money he had in the bank? He said he had a banking account.
821. Was it £460 he said he had in the bank? He may have said so, I do not remember.
822. What else did he say when he passed that remark? He said, "I suppose you will think I got that from the Chinaman."
823. How long was Beadman on that beat? About four years.
824. Used ex-Constable Quealy to be nearly all the time in the Chinese quarter? I think the beat extends from Hunter-street to Circular Quay.
825. Do you know anything about the matter of an alleged gift of a diamond ring to one of these policemen in that quarter? I know one or two policemen who wear diamond rings, but whether they were presented with them, or whether they bought them, I cannot say.
826. Do you know anything about one that was presented to a policeman, or was handed to him to look at, and he walked off with it, and afterwards returned the ring with a "paste" stone substituted for the diamond itself? No. I never heard of that.
827. Who is the bank manager you refer to as being likely to give us information with respect to the moneys banked by the Chinese who run the gambling-houses? Mr. Bellette.
828. What is Quealy's present address, do you know? The "Shamrock Hotel," Woolloomooloo, but whether he can be found there now I cannot say.
829. Were you in Lower George-street at the time Sergeant M'Kenzie was in the district? No. I was going to sea for a living at that time.
830. Is it not a fact that the practice of these coal lumpers, wharf labourers, and others gaming at those Chinese gambling-dens, is one of the reasons why many of the shopkeepers in that part of Sydney often fail—through their accounts not being fully paid up? Yes; a man named Codd, some time ago, could not make it pay; and there are several others.
831. You never went through any of these Chinese houses at any time? No; not through them.
832. You know nothing about the sustentation fund? Only what I have stated here.
833. Do you think the present law in force in this Colony would be ample to cope with the evil, if it were put in force? Yes; I am of opinion that the law can be put in force effectively right away; and I may say our League holds that the evil can be done away with at once; that the continuance of the evil is due either to negligence or connivance on the part of the police.
834. Are you aware that some of the places in Lower George-street are so strongly barricaded that it is next door to impossible to make a successful raid upon them? It is quite possible, though I do not know of it myself.
835. You have not seen it? No; I was invited by the Inspector of Police to go to Moy Ping's, but I did not go. Some other members of the League did. I may say here that Constable Quealy stated that he intended to give evidence before this Commission, because Inspector Atwill opposed his application for a publican's license.
836. Did you know a Mr. Chazel, who, it was said, received a sum of money to vacate his shop, in order to allow certain Chinese to run it for gambling purposes? Yes.
837. Was it spoken to you? No, not to me.
838. Did he make that statement at one of the meetings of the League? No.
839. To whom did he make the statement, to the best of your knowledge? Well, several persons heard the statement. It was a matter of pretty general information down there, as to his receiving a large sum of money to vacate his premises in favour of the Chinese.
840. Who would be the best and most reliable person to summon before this Commission, to give some solid information as to the gambling nuisance in Lower George-street? There is a butcher living immediately at the back of Harrington-street, and who goes by the name of "Cursing Jimmy," who is an habitual attendant of these gambling-dens.
841. Any others? Mr. Christensen.
842. Has he gambled? Yes; and he has been many years there.
843. Is there not a Mr. Dawson? Mr. Dawson is the man I spoke of to whom a Chinaman offered a bonus to take a shop.
844. Is it not a fact that in hundreds of cases men lose the whole of their week's wages in these gambling-dens? Yes; they have told me so repeatedly. They would say, "I cannot pay you this week, Jack. I lost it all with the Chinamen—will pay you next week."
845. Can you inform the Commission of certain instances where the wives have gone down George-street beseeching their husbands to leave those places? Yes; I have seen them near my shop.
846. At your shop? Yes. They have said their husbands were up the street at the Chinaman's, and would spend every shilling they had got there. Mr. Daley has told me that men having received £5 or £6, would lose everything they had, and borrow from him a few shillings to get some meat, or something of that kind. Mr. O'Connor has had similar experience.
847. In your opinion the police are very careless, if not quite indifferent? They say, "they have no power to cope with it;" that is the argument they use every time—they have no power to cope with it.

Mr.

Mr. Alfred Chambers called and examined :—

848. President.] Where do you reside, Mr. Chambers? I live at Rockdale.
849. What is your business? I am book-keeper for Messrs. Felton and Nock, 194 George-street.
850. What is the business carried on by your firm? General ironmongers.
851. How long have you been there? Four years.
852. What is the rent of the premises? Forty-odd pounds per month.
853. Are they very extensive premises? Well, no.
854. About what frontage? That I cannot say.
855. What accommodation do they provide? Just the ordinary building, it is a double-fronted shop—there are two shops as a matter of fact of one storey only.
856. It is near the Chinese quarter, is it not? It is surrounded by Chinese, you might say.
857. I suppose you spend a considerable part of your time there? Yes; all day, from 9 o'clock till 6.
858. Then you have plenty of opportunities of observing what goes on in the neighbourhood? Oh, yes; I have overtime besides the regular hours I have mentioned.
859. Have you observed the police to be very active in carrying out their duties in that locality? No, sir; I never have observed them at all active as regards the Chinese gambling. They have never made any attempt to stop it. I could have stopped it myself had I their power. I have often wondered how the gambling could be carried on to the extent it is.
860. Is it carried on in the day or night principally? At all times—Sundays included.
861. What class of people mostly frequent these places? All sorts, but mostly Europeans. During the last year or so there have been comparatively very few Chinese in the neighbourhood; most of the respectable Chinese have gone away.
862. The decent Chinese merchants have left the locality? Yes; a great many of them have.
863. And the houses are taken up by these keepers of gambling-dens? Yes; from our place up to the American Exchange Hotel. Where one house stood some little places have been built where no European could possibly get a living.
864. Do they carry on any business there? No; no legitimate business at all. They have a few things in the window sometimes; but most of them have none at all. If you are not known you cannot get in, as a rule, just now.
865. Have you been in any of these places? Yes, once. In the shop upon which the raid was made.
866. Moy Ping's place? Yes; I have seen fan tan played there.
867. You have not been in any of these other places? I have never been in; but I could have gone if I had been with the right people to get in.
868. Mr. Abigail.] Were you a member of the deputation to the Premier in relation to this Chinese gambling question? No, I had nothing to do with it.
869. Have you read the statements that were made at that deputation? Yes, I read all of the reports.
870. Then, you noticed that several members of the deputation made statements to the effect that the police had received bribes for passing over these places, and allowing them to carry on? Yes. That has been common talk for the last two years. But things like that are of course difficult to prove. I have frequently seen two constables going in and out of that same Moy Ping's place—over and over again, day after day. So much so, indeed, that I spoke to Mr. Nock—I think first about two years ago—wondering who they were, before I knew they were constables.
871. Then they were not in uniform? No; in private clothes like an ordinary citizen. When I knew who they were I took more particular notice of them.
872. You do not know whether they went in for the purpose of stopping the gambling? It certainly did not strike me in that way. It would be ridiculous to suppose they could be doing so, going in day after day like that, when they could stop it any time they liked.
873. Is it not difficult to obtain admission to those places while gambling is going on? No. I have been in myself; and my idea is that it is not so difficult.
874. Was fan tan played there? I saw a game played there. I followed several others, and walked in when they were playing.
875. There was a table in the room with a square board on it? Yes.
876. And brass coins with holes in the middle? Yes, and marks on the corners of the board.
877. Were there many in the room? It was full. One had to push through the crowd to see.
878. Was there much money on the table? There were from half-crowns and shillings to pennies.
879. A considerable sum of money, I suppose, if it was all reckoned up? I dare say, but I cannot say much about it, as I was only there a few minutes. I simply followed the people who were going in and out.
880. Do you know whether that was the room where the detectives or plain clothes constables went when they went inside? I am pretty sure it was. That was the only place except that at the front, and a little place in between.
881. What are the names of the constables whom you saw going into this place? Constables Beadman and Carson.
882. At all events you do not think they stopped in the front shop? I am sure they did not. Had they have done so everybody could have seen them from the outside easily.
883. Do you know of your own personal knowledge of any of the police receiving presents of gold watches or diamond rings, money or furniture? Personally I have no direct evidence to offer. But I can say something with regard to an article of furniture supplied to Inspector Atwill.
884. What is that? When this inquiry first came up, about two months ago, Mr. Ah Toy came to me one Saturday afternoon late and asked me to make out a bill for him. He said he wanted it dated—and then he counted on his fingers; I could not make out what he meant at first—"Dated," he said, "back to November, 1890," and I did so. I put two penny stamps upon it, or a twopenny—I feel sure it is the former. I wrote Nov. 1890 on the stamps, and he signed his name. Mr. Atwill had had the goods the year before, or last November.
885. You have no doubt about that bill being receipted? No, I am quite positive. He said Mr. Atwill had come and asked him for it. I said to him, "Did you get any money?" And he replied, "Oh, no money."
886. And that refers to Mr. Atwill? Yes, you will find the bill, if Mr. Atwill produces it, in my handwriting.

Mr.
A. Chambers.
8 Sept., 1891.

- Mr. A. Chambers. 887. Have you any knowledge of any other member of the police force having been supplied with goods in that way? No, that is the only one I know of.
888. Do you know whether Ah Toy is engaged in gambling, or connected with any of these gambling-houses in any way? I do not know whether he is or not.
889. He has premises in that neighbourhood? Oh, his place is not a gambling-shop.
890. He does not allow gambling on his premises in George-street? As far as I know he does not.
891. Do you think he is connected with gambling in any other place? Not as far as I know.
892. So far as you are aware, he is a respectable tradesman? Yes, I think so. I may say that other things have happened in George-street with regard to loss of trade, and so on. I can corroborate anything of that kind.
893. With reference to trade depression, if it has been stated that trade has fallen off very considerably of late as the result of the proceedings taking place in these Chinese quarters, can you confirm that statement? Yes, I believe it is so, and more especially since those little places have been built about us, unquestionably.
894. Does this loss occur because the people will not go down there? Yes; that is the case. They will not pass along that part of George-street. If you know any one coming by the North Shore ferry, or Manly Beach steamers, you will find they will not go that way.
895. Is it because they are afraid of being interfered with? Yes; especially after dark. Every house has a man standing outside on the watch.
896. Are they Chinese, or larrikin Europeans? Chinese. The larrikin Europeans stand on the opposite side of the pavement, but one is as bad as the other.
897. Are the Chinese prominent in insulting women passing along the streets? Yes; I could bring proof of several cases, if I liked to bring the witnesses here. I may say that my own wife and her sister have been insulted.
898. And the ladies who have been insulted in this way have said that they will not come there again? Yes. In the case of my own wife and her sister they have refused to come to my place of business, and I have had to meet them elsewhere.
899. Have you anything to say about the sanitary condition of lower George-street? Well, the smell there is something horrible.
900. Have you ever seen opium smoking? No; but I believe that must produce the smell that comes from these places.
901. Do the Chinese overcrowd these buildings? That I cannot say, but I should guess so.
902. Do you know anything about any assignation houses kept by these Chinese? Unquestionably, I do.
903. Whereabouts are they? Well, a good many of them have houses of their own now—in Essex-street, at the back there.
904. Do they keep their dwelling-houses away from their shops? Not altogether that. They have these women there, and keep them to themselves.
905. Do they keep them for their own purposes, or for the traffic with their countrymen? Some do, I believe. Of course there are several different kinds of Chinamen there. But they are mostly of the lower class, I believe.
906. Do you know the names of any of these Chinese who are keeping the women in the houses you refer to? That is rather a difficult matter, sir. I get rather mixed with their names. There are one or two respectable men there.
907. Do you know which of these gambling-houses is credited with being the most notorious down there? Well, Sun Sam Kee—he is supposed to be one of the biggest.
908. Does he not carry on a grocery business, or something of that kind—sells bags of sugar, and so on? I believe he does, but I will not be sure. Of course anybody can see these places; they have actually taken our numbers—I mean the places next door to us. We have been numbered 194 and 196 for years, and these two little places next to Bridge-street from us have also been numbered the same.
909. Do you know the owners of any of these premises? I have heard Mr. Bennett's name mentioned, and others.
910. What Mr. Bennett is that? Mr. Bennett, of the Evening News, I believe.
911. Do you know any others? I forget for the moment. There is another thing I should mention: When Mr. Nock was away a number of young girls came to our place, having an appointment to meet somebody at a house, which I conclude, must have been one of these little Chinese places I have mentioned. They had come in answer to an advertisement, "A young woman wanted as general servant," or something of that kind. They came to us, because ours was the only European place there. I saw about a dozen there, and advised them to clear away out of it.
912. You say there were quite a number of these girls? Yes.
913. And that they came in answer to an advertisement in the paper? Yes.
914. How long ago was that? In the month of April last.
915. Do you know the occupants of the house you refer to, near to your place of business? No.
916. You know there are Chinamen living there? Yes.
917. But you do not know their names? No.
918. What was the number of the place? I think it was 198 then, but I took no notice of it at the time.
919. Where was it situated? The other side of "Power's Hotel"—between that and the "American Exchange Hotel."
920. Have you ever seen girls and youths visit these Chinese houses at night? Not girls in George-street.
921. But you have seen youths there? Oh, yes—boys and men in respectable positions gather there. At first I had no idea what it could be, and have stood and wondered.
922. Have you ever had any conversation with any of the police about these places? No; I have had nothing whatever to do with it.
923. Have you ever been interfered with yourself, or been accosted by Chinamen down there? Yes; I have heard them "boohoo!" as I went by; yet I took no active part in the agitation against them.
924. Have they ever otherwise accosted you? Yes; they have come up and said, "play fan tan, welly good game."
925. Do they ever get Europeans to "tout" for them? They have done so.
926. Have you noticed any difference during the last month or six weeks, in the number of people going into into these houses—I mean the gambling-dens in Lower George-street? I should rather think so. There are not half, or a quarter, or one-twentieth part going in now that there was before the raid was made.

927. The numbers attending these places have sensibly diminished since the last raid was made? Yes; there is not half the number.

928. Do you remember the night the Commission made a visit to that locality? I was not there that night.

929. But you heard of it? Yes.

930. Since that has the gambling been carried on to the same extent? I was told that last Saturday it was very bad—of course I am only speaking from hearsay—that it was worse than it has been for some time past.

931. What hour in the night would you say is the worst in these places? About 8, 9, 10, or 11 o'clock.

932. Do they carry on the business on Sundays? Yes; Sunday was one of the worst days. I used to have occasion to come over from North Shore to Balmain on Sunday, and saw a good deal of it, at night time. I have been in Goulburn-street, and in Campbell-street; I have seen a good deal of it there. I used to attend a church up in that direction, as organist.

933. Of your own knowledge, I understand, you do not know anything that would sustain a charge of bribery as against the police? Well, no—only from the fact, as I contend, that they could not possibly overlook such a state of things unless they were.

934. What you contend, I understand, is that this gambling has been carried on in such a glaring manner, that the police would have been bound to have taken some action, if they had attempted to do their duty? Yes, especially when I see two constables walking in and out of these places, to an extent to cause me to wonder what they are doing.

935. And you think that during the time the police were paying their visits gambling was still being carried on there? Yes, I should say so; in fact I might almost say I am sure of it, for every time I have passed there I have seen dozens going in and out.

936. You have referred to Sun Sam Kee; do you know him personally? No.

937. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have told us that you went into one of these houses on one occasion, and saw gambling going on there? Yes.

938–9. What place was that? Moy Ping's. There were a lot going in, and I went in with them.

940. Do you know any of them by name? No; not one. There were a great many larrikins there—I see them every day. There were also some apparently respectable men; a good many. They took no notice of me at all.

941. In answer to one question, I understood you to say that some of the Chinese keep bad women for the purpose of making money out of them. Can you take us to the place where they live? They are not in George-street, but there are plenty of places off Essex-street.

942. Do you know any respectable Chinese merchants connected with gambling? No.

943. Have you ever heard any respectable Chinese merchants passing remarks about the gambling-dens? Yes; Mr. On Lee told me they wanted to get rid of them all.

944. Any others? I do not remember just now.

945. But you believe that there are several other Chinese merchants who would like to do the same thing, that is, put down this evil? Oh, yes.

946. In these gambling-houses they have several games, do they not? Yes; but anyone can go in and buy a ticket for a lottery.

947. Could you obtain one now if you went down to buy it? Perhaps not now; but you can at ordinary times.

948. Mr. Hawthorne.] You have said your wife and sister-in-law were insulted by the Chinese in passing down George-street. What was the nature of the insult? Well, making signs to them, and making noises with their mouths.

949. Did they know the lady was your wife? Do you suppose they could? Is it likely I would introduce my wife to those Chinamen? In fact they had no reason to interfere with them in any way.

950. Do you know of any other females being insulted? Yes; often. I should say that most of the girls who go down there now are no good. Anybody can see that for themselves, having much to do with the neighbourhood.

951. Respectable women are scarcely ever seen down Lower George-street now? Very seldom. Not from Bridge-street down.

952. And you attribute that to the presence of the Chinese? Yes; to the presence of the Chinese of the class I mention.

953. Which is the shortest route from the Post Office to Circular Quay—Pitt-street or George-street? From the Post Office to the ordinary ferries the nearest way would be Pitt-street, to the Manly boats George-street would be the nearest road. But you must recollect that people coming from Erskine-street and that direction along York-street would go down George-street.

954. Do you know ex-Constable Quealy, Mr. Chambers? Yes.

955. Do you know anything derogatory to his character, as to his having received presents from the Chinese, especially in money or jewelry? I have heard so, but not of him especially. I have heard it over and over again for the last two years. In fact I may say it has been common talk.

956. Have you ever seen any riots or rows in connection with these Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street? Yes; I have seen people thrown out over and over again. There have been several rows there, especially about a year and a half ago. I have seen people with blood on them taken up the street.

957. Have you seen working men's wives going down and beseeching their husbands to come away from these gambling-dens? No. The majority of them, I think, dare not. They would be too frightened.

958. Do you know the names of the streets or terraces where these women are kept that you have referred to? I do not know the names, but I could point them out to you.

959. What you would call The Rocks? Yes, I suppose it is as a matter of fact.

960. On the occasion your wife was insulted, your sister, or your wife's sister, I think you said, was there also. Was she insulted at the same time? Yes, the pair of them. It was certainly an insult to have Chinamen making grimaces at them and signs with their hands while they were looking in a respectable shop window.

961. To what extent has your business depreciated during the last twelve months? A lot.

*Mr. A.
Chambers.*
8 Sept., 1891.

- Mr. A. Chambers. 962. Would you say 50 per cent.? No; it would be a remarkably good business that would stand a depreciation of that extent. But the depreciation I should say is quite 20 per cent.
- 8 Sept., 1891. 963. Were Felton and Nock's premises larger when you first joined the firm than they are now? No, the same premises.
964. Chairman.] We understand you to say that business generally at that end of the town has depreciated considerably during the last year and a half? Yes.
965. To what do you attribute that falling off? I attribute it to those Chinese places being built on either side of us. As I have said already, they have even got our numbers.
966. I want to know what, in your opinion, is the cause of the depression? I believe it to be principally caused by these buildings being occupied by objectionable tenants.
967. What wares do you sell in your establishment? All kinds of hardware, crockery, and glassware of all kinds.
968. Are you not aware that business generally in the city has fallen off during the last two years? Well, for the matter of that business has been falling off ever since I can remember.
969. How long is it since you arrived in Sydney? About four years and a half.
970. Are you not aware that there has been a marked depression in business during the last two years? I have heard people say so, but I do not think it has been any greater than the two years previously.
971. Then you think you do not sell so much hardware in your establishment in consequence of the presence of these Chinese gambling-dens, and the people who frequent them in Lower George-street? Yes. You see there is so much of our stock that ladies buy, and as I have said respectable people and ladies especially have come to avoid that part of George-street to a large extent.
972. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.
973. Do you know Mr. Goldtown? Yes.
974. Have you ever had any conversation with him on this subject? No; I believe he is a well conducted man—I understand so.

[The witness withdrew.]

THURSDAY, 10 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Richard Vallauney Kelly called and examined:—

- Mr. R. V. Kelly. 975. President.] You are a resident of George-street, Mr. Kelly? Yes.
- 10 Sept., 1891. 976. What business do you follow? The grocery business—wholesale and retail.
977. Were you one of the deputation that waited upon Sir Henry Parkes some few weeks ago? I was.
978. I believe you are a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes; I am secretary to the League.
979. In your interview with Sir Henry Parkes you stated that this abuse had been in existence for a number of years? Yes.
980. How long have you been residing in Lower George-street? Close on two years now.
981. In your interview with the Premier did you speak of the existence of the gambling evil, only during the short time you were there, or for a longer period? Previously I was continually in the habit of passing there both in the day and night time.
982. Previous to your going to live there? Yes.
983. Therefore you have had a varied experience of the locality? Yes.
984. Extending over how long a period? Ten or twelve years, I may say.
985. Have you found that these gambling-dens have considerably increased in number within your experience? Yes; they have been considerably augmented.
986. Personally did you ever visit any of these dens? Not myself.
987. I mean for the purpose not of gambling, but of satisfying yourself as to the mode of procedure? No; I am averse to gambling in any shape or form.
988. I thought you might have gone in out of curiosity to see what was going on and satisfy yourself on the point? No; I cannot say that I have ever personally visited these places out of curiosity; but I have seen enough outside to know that gambling is carried on to a very great extent.
989. Can you say what class of people generally frequent these places? Well, you may say the labouring classes, and the middle class, that is clerks, tradesmen, and that class of people. I cannot say that they would reach as far in the scale of society as the aristocracy, but they go up pretty near that—that is the general run of people.
990. Have you ever witnessed any harrowing scenes in that locality, so far as men's wives going down there at any time in search of their husbands, who have gone to these dens, and gambled away their earnings? Yes; as a positive fact, one woman came to the door of my shop crying bitterly. She had been waiting for her husband to come out of one of these places, to which he had taken the whole of his week's wages. It is a common habit of working men to go into the Chinese gambling-dens, and spend nearly every penny they have earned, and then they have to borrow a little money to keep the family in bread and butter.
991. Since you have been in business in that part of the city can you say that the existence of this evil has interfered with your business to any extent? Yes; most materially.
992. In what way has it materially interfered with your business? Simply by driving the custom away. For instance, if I go to solicit custom, people tell me that they will not pass up George-street from Circular Quay in the direct course, but prefer to go along Pitt-street, and turn up Bridge-street, and deal with Mr. C. P. Downton, who catches what would otherwise be my customers, my establishment being more convenient to the different ferries on that side of Circular Quay.

993. Then you feel that the existence of these Chinese gambling-dens is seriously detrimental to your trade? Yes; we cannot get the custom that would in ordinary circumstances come in our way simply through this evil.

Mr.
R. V. Kelly.
10 Sept., 1891.

994. Do you find that it has affected you at all so far as collecting the amounts due to you by your customers of the labouring class? Certainly; I have stopped all credit with the labouring class.

995. I suppose it would simply mean ruin if you kept on giving credit? I dare say it would materially affect my pocket.

996. You say that you have stopped the credit system in your business? Yes; I was about to explain how it has affected me: A man comes into my shop—say, he owes me £1 or 25s., he would probably say he could not pay the score, but ask me to take 15s.; and then say he wants 5s., 6s., or 7s., or whatever it may be, in coppers, to go up to the Chinaman to make a haul. They go to play fan-tan. In several cases I have refused it, and the men have never come back again.

997. And you lost their custom? Yes; and my money too, for in many cases the amounts were so infinitesimal that it would have been useless to proceed against them.

998. Therefore this Chinese gambling nuisance has affected you materially in every way? Of course.

999. I suppose you have noticed large numbers of people frequenting these places both by day and night? Yes; there is a continual flow of people passing in and out during the day and night.

1000. Are they principally Europeans? Yes.

1001. Have you ever noticed any women going in and out of these places? Yes; both women and young children occasionally.

1002. Both boys and girls? Yes; of tender age—under the age of 14 I should say, as near as I could judge.

1003. Do you know of any Chinese houses where women are kept for immoral purposes about that portion of the city? No; I do not know, of my own knowledge, that there are such places, but I have been told so. My business occupies pretty well the whole of my time, there being only myself and my wife in it, and I have had no time to go further than the street I live in to seek for information.

1004. As you have taken an important part in the League I thought you might have made it your business to ascertain? I have no personal knowledge of such things. I may say a policeman told me up the street, on one occasion, that a woman was carrying on the business of gamerouching.

1005. Who was your informant? Constable Thomas Wheelan.

1006. Have you ever noticed any scenes of violence in that locality? I have seen a European struck down with an iron bar.

1007. I was coming to that point: Have you ever seen any riots occur outside these gambling-dens? Well, not exactly riots. I have seen disturbances and free fights, and have afterwards noticed a constable among the Chinamen; but as far as I could see they did not take an active part in getting evidence to show who was to blame or anything. They merely took the assertions of the Chinese, to the best of my knowledge.

1008. You have said that an iron bar was used on one occasion? Yes; a European, who was somewhat under the influence of drink, went up to one of these places to ask some question in reference to money lost in gambling, and a disturbance then ensued. A Chinaman came out with a great iron bar, and struck him down, hitting him in the middle of the head, and splitting his head open. The man was taken to the Infirmary. In that case I believe the Chinaman got a month's imprisonment for the assault.

1009. The disturbance on that occasion was the result of a dispute over gambling matters? Yes.

1010. You have said you were present on the occasion of the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes, when some serious allegations were made against the police—that they had been presented with various articles, such as watches and jewellery, including diamond rings, and in some cases money. Do you know, from your own personal knowledge, of any presentation having been made to any particular member of the force? Not from my own personal knowledge, I do not.

1011. Do you know anything of it from hearsay? Yes; and from the manner in which the police shut their eyes to what is going on I am sure there must be some truth in it.

1012. You think there are grounds for suspicion? Yes. Of course it is difficult to prove. If a man in an official position like that was going to take a gold watch or anything else as a bribe he would not announce the fact by blowing a trumpet, and let everybody know about it. There must, however, be some truth in the statement.

1013. But sometimes bribery is found out? As I have said, I cannot speak from personal experience.

1014. But you regard the circumstances surrounding the case as suspicious? Yes; very suspicious, indeed.

1015. From what you have said, I gather that you are of opinion that the police have taken the situation quite easy? Yes. If I may offer a suggestion, while on the subject I should say that the best way to deal with the position would be to change the whole of the police force in that district, say nearly every three months, from the Inspector to the Watch-house keeper.

1016. That is a matter that will be better discussed later on;—have you been interviewed by any members of the police force since you have been a member of the League, or since this Commission was appointed;—have you had a chat with any of them? I may say that Constable Wheelan asked me at one time if the name of any policeman had been mentioned at any of our meetings at all, and I told him no. I also had a conversation with Constable Quealy. He said all we wanted to do was to keep the ball rolling, and to keep Mr. Inspector Atwill up to his work. That was before he (Constable Quealy) was dismissed.

1017. Have you known of any females being insulted while passing up and down Lower George-street? In giving that evidence I wish to ask if these females are going to be called upon to attend here. The Commission will understand that it is a delicate matter for a female to come before a body of gentlemen to give evidence in a case of this kind.

1018. We must request you to give the names, if you please? I cannot exactly state the names; but if called upon, I could get them.

1019. I want to get reliable information, and must have it, otherwise our labours will go for nothing? The females I refer to were principally servant girls. I may also state that my own wife has been insulted, and on one occasion she asked me to go back and close up the shop. It is chiefly on that account that I have taken an interest in the formation of the League.

Mr.
R. V. Kelly.
10 Sept., 1891.

1020. Of what nature were the insults? It was in their attitude—their manner and general carrying on, which would imply that something improper was meant. But I have repeatedly had servant girls come into my shop on Saturday night on their way to the Savings Bank; and they have asked me if I would mind walking as far as Bridge-street with them as they did not care about passing the Chinese quarters. There is always a great congregation of these people outside, but I notice that since action was taken by the League they do not meet on the footpath at all, but keep to the street way.

1021. Is gambling still carried on in these houses? Yes; you can see them running up and down with their tickets—Pak-ah-pu tickets. It is carried on to a great extent day and night.

1022. I suppose the same class of people generally frequent those Chinese gambling-dens? Yes; there are a number of the faces very familiar to me; they congregate about there regularly.

1023. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know anything about the sanitary arrangements of these premises? I have never been over them, Mr. Abigail, but the stench proceeding from these places is very offensive indeed. I may say that in passing by these places I have frequently met females; whether they were in a delicate state of health or not I cannot say; but I have seen them spit in the gutter, and actually retch. The smell I have most frequently noticed coming from these places is that of opium-smoking, and a kind of garlic smell.

1024. You know the smell of opium? Yes.

1025. And you find it very strong and offensive? Yes; and it is accompanied often by the smell of sulphur from the Chinese' quarters. I have had to call a policeman to suppress them from burning sulphur.

1026. With reference to the insults offered to women, can you describe what those insults consisted of? That I cannot very easily define.

1027. Would they take hold of them, for example? I believe it quite probable. In fact, one female told me herself that on one occasion a Chinaman had run out and caught her by the arm, and asked her when she was going to come in and stay a little while with him.

1028. Do you know any place in that neighbourhood used for the purpose of decoying young girls? I have not exactly taken notice, or ascertained anything in regard to that particular thing. You must understand that things are carried on pretty quietly down there since it was publicly announced that the League was in existence.

1029. How long is that ago? Close on or about three months.

1030. Have you noticed any very young persons, male or female, visiting these places? Occasionally, I have.

1031. Do you know what they go there for? Well, I have sometimes seen them come out with tickets.

1032. That is lottery tickets, I suppose? Yes.

1033. Have you heard of any young girls being entrapped into these places for immoral purposes? I have heard a remark to that effect, but as to its truth I cannot say.

1034. You have stated that Constable Wheelan asked you if the names of any policemen had been referred to at meetings of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League; what led to that conversation? It was one night when I was coming away from one of the meetings of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, and I met Constable Wheelan on my way. He wanted to know if the name of any constable had been mentioned as having received presents or anything of that kind. I told him that no names had been mentioned at all, but that a charge had been laid as to the general inefficiency of the police in the district.

1035. Was that before the deputation went to the Colonial Secretary, or after? To the best of my belief, it was after.

1036. Were you present at that deputation? Yes; I was.

1037. You are credited with speaking there of one Chinaman who had made £60,000 a year by gaming, and had sent the money home to China? That is what I was told, but I spoke from hearsay only. I think we got that information from Mr. Goldtown.

1038. From a Chinaman? Yes; a member of our League.

1039. When he made that statement, did he make other statements bearing on the question as well? Yes; he made several; but I cannot call them to mind now.

1040. Was this statement made to any individual members of the League, or was it said in the League meetings? I cannot say exactly where it was made now. I do not think it was said at a League meeting proper, but most probably after we adjourned. We used generally to sit awhile after we adjourned, as the meetings were held in a public-house, and we would have a little refreshment before leaving, so as not to use the landlord's room for nothing.

1041. After Mr. Goldtown made this statement did the officers of the League take any steps to test the truth of what he had told them? No. I think, after he made that statement, Mr. Armstrong, the President of our League, waited on Mr. Quong Tart one day to find out whether Mr. Goldtown was a man to be relied on or not.

1042. Did they obtain any evidence as to whether he was a man of good character and reliability? I did not hear what was said.

1043. Did you personally, as Secretary of the League, not take any steps to test the truthfulness of this man's statement? No.

1044. Do you know who this man is, who was credited with sending £60,000 a year home to China? No; I did not ask him who the person was. I may say I was not correctly reported as to that. I made a statement that the information I was giving was only from hearsay.

1045. I suppose you heard a statement made about the police—for instance, that the police were not content with getting gold watches under three months, but wanted diamond rings, and other statements from members of the League to the same effect? Yes; I know that such statements were made, but I think it was distinctly stated by the members of the League forming the deputation that they were proceeding on hearsay evidence only, and not on their own responsibility. I do not think there were any charges laid against the police directly by any member of the League as to receiving watches, etc.

1046. Mr. Black, M.P., stated: "The police were bribed, not only by chests of tea, but by gifts of money. He had heard that for years?" Mr. Goldtown informed us of that, and said he would take us round, and show us where the weekly dividends were handed over.

1047. Did your League not take any steps to ascertain the reliability of these very serious statements? I do not think so.

1048. Have you had any meeting since then? Yes.

1049. And was the subject brought up at any meeting;—was it decided or considered as to whether you would take evidence or ascertain facts to sustain these statements? I do not think we had the power to do it; we simply claimed the assistance of the Government.

1050. It was not done, you say? No; we had no locus standi to get that information.

1051. Then we are to understand that your League did not discuss the question with a view of obtaining evidence at this point? I do not see how the League could find out the information. They would have been bluffed in every way, as the officers of the Council were, if they had set about trying to find out the facts.

1052. Have you, as secretary, or any other member of the League, any direct evidence to tender that will sustain these serious charges? I have not myself. I do not know what other members of the League may have.

1053. Has the League considered this question with a view of framing suggestions as to how the evil is to be remedied? I do not know that there was a meeting for that purpose, but a suggestion was thrown out that the police should be moved every three months—that is, the inspector in charge of the station, and every man under him, should be shifted every three months, so that they would not get too well known in the neighbourhood and become too familiar with the Chinese.

1054. And do you think that would cure the evil? Yes; and I think also that the Chinamen should be relegated to one place, as, I believe, they are in Melbourne.

1055. You would confine them to one locality? Yes, to one locality.

1056. Do you think the two suggestions you have made would encompass the whole difficulty? I cannot say that altogether. But something must be done if they are to remain in our midst. In none of these places I have mentioned do they carry on legitimate business. They may have a few cases of soap or packets of cigarettes in the window; but I daresay if asked the price of soap they would not be able to tell you, but would ask you straight away to play fan-tan. In passing by these places at night I myself have been repeatedly solicited to go in and play fan-tan.

1057. Having had such experience, have you ever complained to the police on that beat with regard to it? I know the neighbours have spoken to them about it, and they have taken no notice. Personally, having observed their general inactivity, I thought it useless to complain about the thing to them.

1058. Have you spoken to the police about individual Chinamen soliciting you to go in and play fan-tan? No; because I have repeatedly seen the police standing outside these places, appearing to be totally inactive. They could see the people going in and out of the gambling-dens the whole time.

1059. But would it not have strengthened your position if you had reported this matter to the police;—do you not know that the Chinaman you referred to committed a breach of the law, and that he could have been arrested and fined for the offence? Well, these Chinamen are so much alike that I could not swear that the Chinaman who solicited me was the real man or not, not knowing his name.

1060. Do you know anything of the Chinese secret societies? No; but I have heard that my life, amongst others, has been threatened.

1061. Do they keep a banking account? I cannot say that they do.

1062. Have you any knowledge of how many of these Chinese houses are used for gambling purposes? About twenty-three.

1063. Have you got the minute-book of the Chinese Anti-Gambling League? Yes. I may tell you that when we were arranging for the deputation to the Premier I took it upon myself, as a matter of courtesy, to write to the Inspector-General of Police inviting him to be one of the deputation, because I heard rumours of certain charges that were to be made as to the inactivity of the police force on duty in the lower part of George-street, and that I thought it only right that he should be there.

1064. You have spoken of twenty-three Chinese houses in which gambling is carried on? Yes.

1065. Are there any legitimate Chinese places of business in that locality? Yes, such as Mr. On Yik Lee, Sun Kum Tiy, On Chong, and others. There are some whose names I do not remember.

1066. In these places you do not think gambling is carried on? No, unless it is carried on secretly, and that I cannot say.

1067. Is there any opium-smoking in those houses? I cannot say.

1068. You do not know of anything of a similar character to what you have been describing being carried on in these houses? Not in these places I have just mentioned.

1069. Have you heard of any Chinese losing considerable sums of money in the Chinese gambling-dens? Only through Mr. Goldtown's conversation amongst us.

1070. Then it appears the action of the League was principally prompted by the statements received from Mr. Goldtown? No; the League was formed when the names of these sixty-five persons were attached to the petition. We found that the evil was increasing, and in a conversation amongst ourselves we determined that the new party in the House would be able to give us some assistance, and we acted accordingly. The matter was mooted several times, and deputations were got up; but the thing was shelved owing to something being urged about vested interest.

1071. Do you know anything about the ownership of these Chinese gambling-dens? No. I may say that I have been working up a new business for two years; and it was just because my business was gradually falling off, and that people would not come and deal with me in "China-town," that I allied myself with the League.

1072. As a matter of fact, you cannot give any information from your own personal knowledge that would sustain a charge of bribery as against the police? No; I can only speak of their general inactivity.

1073. You have formed an opinion that the police are negligent or inactive in the discharge of their duty as regards this evil? Yes, that is my opinion; and it is the opinion of others besides myself. It seems only natural to suppose from their inactivity that they must be in collusion with the Chinese. If I were a police officer, and could not get my inspector to assist me, I would go straight to the Minister for Justice and report the matter.

1074. Do you know of any police officer who has complained to his inspector, and the inspector has not acted in accordance with his report? I cannot say that; but if I were a police officer, and made a report to my inspector, if he did not act upon my report in a serious matter such as this I would report him to head-quarters.

1075. Is it easy to get admission into these places? Yes; it has been easy, or rather it was when carried on openly; but since the League started it has not been carried on so openly.

1076. Do you know of any police that can give any information to the Commission as to their having made reports

Mr.
R. V. Kelly.

Mr.
R. V. Kelly.

reports to their superior officers about these gambling-dens? How could I. I am comparatively a late resident in that locality, and having to work up a new business I have tried to stick to it, and have not had much opportunity of communicating with the police. The only policeman I have had any conversation with on the subject is Constable Quealy, who informed me that all we had to do was to keep the thing going—to push Inspector Atwill, and we could get the thing removed in a week. That was previous to his being dismissed.

1077. Do you know what he was dismissed for? I have heard he was dismissed for drunkenness, but I cannot say.

1078. Mr. Hawthorne.] You do not know yourself, from your own personal knowledge, anything about the conduct of these Chinese gambling-dens, and their general character? No; I can only speak from outside observation, and seeing the people on the footpath.

1079. Have you been inside any of these gambling-dens? No; and I do not want to.

1080. What was the object of starting the Anti-Chinese Gambling League on this hearsay evidence? Well, some of the members of the League and myself knew for a fact that labouring men were continually in the habit of going into these places and wasting their week's wages, and it was found that they came to the shops and endeavoured to stick things up. Also, there was a general falling off in business. Then, on fresh arrivals coming by one of the P. and O. boats, for instance, we would hear remarks such as, "First impressions are bad," and, "We have arrived in a den of Chinamen," or something like that. Also, in going round to get customers, I ascertained from the Watson's Bay, Manly Beach, and North Shore people that they would not use that part of the town at all. They object to the presence there of what they call "China-town." That was the gist of their refusal to do business with me. Under the circumstances it was felt that something ought to be done.

1081. As business men, you are under the impression that if the Chinese were removed from that part of Lower George-street the European residents would do a larger trade than they do at present? I am positive of it. All we are sorry for is that we cannot get immediate redress, and that we have got to hang on until this inquiry finishes. I suppose some of us will be up King-street before then.

1082. What would you suggest as an immediate remedy for the evil? I would compel the Chinamen to live as Europeans, stick to legitimate business, and not crowd in small houses—sometimes twenty in a house; in fact you cannot tell how many there are. Europeans would not be allowed to carry on in the same way. The stench and filth is something horrible. Of course since the Commission has been started, and since you made your inspection in a body, they have had time to clean up and get the places white-washed, and have everything in prim style.

1083. You think that the starting of this Commission has had the effect of bringing about an improvement in these places? Yes; and I think the Anti-Chinese Gambling League can take great credit to themselves for having brought about the appointment of a Commission to inquire into the misdeeds of these Chinamen, and no praise is at present due to the Commission.

1084. When you formed the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes what special object had you in view? We simply wished to amend the law so that we could get at these Chinamen—so that the police would have power to go in at once and get at the landlord. If he knew that gambling was carried on in the premises he should be summoned and cited for allowing it. That, in effect, is the prayer of our petition. We have 500 or 600 signatures to that petition already, and expect to get a much larger number, as it is desired to make it a general question. If the Chinese were driven out of George-street they would go somewhere else, because if a man had 5s. to spare he would not care where he went so long as he could gamble it.

1085. Mr. McKillop.] The law, you think, is not sufficient at present? If they could imprison Chinamen at Tingha they could do it in Lower George-street.

1086. Mr. Hawthorne.] Are the Chinese a moral class of people? I cannot say myself. I am not conversant with the Chinese language. I hear a lot of hints thrown out about their character in that respect, and have heard complaints of girls being decoyed into these places and drugged, but I cannot say myself.

1087. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say there are twenty-three of these gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes, to the best of my knowledge.

1088. Do you know which is the largest of these places—where the largest number of European and Chinamen go? I think it is that place on which the raid was made.

1089. Moy Ping's? Yes; and another one on the other side of the road. There are five or six places where the shutters are never down in the daytime at all.

1090. Do you understand the game they play? No; but I have had it explained to me.

1091. Do you know anything about the lottery-tickets—what the numbers are, and so on? I have seen them. They contain Chinese characters, indicating that a certain number of marks entitles the holder to so much, and so forth. I am very much averse to gambling, and take no interest in it. Since the League started the Chinese have employed a man to go round every morning with a sugar-bag to pick up the remains of the lottery-tickets flying about the street.

1092. Do you know the names of any Europeans who are in the habit of gambling with the Chinese in Lower George-street? There is one man I know who has gambled there. He told me that he borrowed 5s. and went into one of these places, and, having lost his money, pawned his watch and chain, and lost the proceeds in the same house.

1093. Can you tell us that man's name? Alfred Younger; he is employed on the "Fairlight," of the Port Jackson Steamboat Company.

1094. Do you know any of the respectable Chinese merchants down there who are mixed up with this gambling at all? No; I believe the respectable Chinese merchants down there are totally averse to it, and are sufferers from it.

1095. Are they in favour of your League? Well, Mr. Goldtown told us that he represented twenty-five Chinese merchants who had subscribed £25, which they wanted to hand over to the League, but we refused, on the ground that we were fighting the Chinese, and did not want to take Chinese money.

1096. Do you know any other Chinese merchants down there besides Mr. Goldtown? Yes; there is On Chong and On Yik Lee.

1097. And their houses are kept clean, and so on—there is nothing to complain of? No; I may remark that some six months ago I had to call a policeman on to my own premises; the Chinese residents next door were burning sulphur to such an extent that the family were almost smothered.

1098. Have you noticed any policemen standing outside the doors of these gambling-houses? Yes, repeatedly.

1099. That is, while the gambling is going on? Yes; I have already said that on one occasion some members of our League went into one of these places and took lottery tickets, and afterwards offered to give themselves up, but the policemen only laughed at them.

Mr.
R. V. Kelly.
10 Sept., 1891.

1100. Can you give us the name of the constable? No; I cannot tell you his name. The members of the League were Mr. Christensen, Mr. Armstrong, and another man, an outsider, who used to be in the employ of Mr. Christenson; he goes by the name of "Big Ted."

1101. At what hour is the gambling mostly going on? I have mostly noticed it after shutting up my establishment for the night. I generally go for a stroll up town with my wife, and have noticed it most particularly on Sunday night. I have often noticed the policemen passing up and down outside, and taking no notice of it.

1102. How long is it since you started business in Lower George-street? October, two years ago.

1103. Did you notice any gambling-houses down there when you first started business? Yes; but it has become worse instead of better. I was led to believe that there was a good business to be worked up there; but I doubt if I shall stop there another three months unless these Chinese are driven out. They will come and say, "Me shut you up—me pay more than you." They have been known to offer £150 to induce a tenant to clear out and let them come in.

1104. I notice, by your minute of the 21st August, that you were instructed to give to the secretary of this Commission the names of persons likely to be able to give valuable information to this Commission;—will you do that? Yes; I have only waited for a communication from the secretary in the first place. I shall be happy to give him all the assistance in my power, and I am surprised that he has not had the foresight to ask me for my assistance. I should say that Mr. Nock was told privately from a Chinese friend that his life was in danger—to keep away from meetings of the League, or he would be killed. The names of the secretary and treasurer were also mentioned, together with Mr. Armstrong, the president.

1105. Are you afraid? Not in daylight, when I can see them and deal with them; but that is not when they could do the business.

1106. You will supply the information referred to? Yes, certainly, and trust that you gentlemen will do something to get us redress.

[The witness desires that it should be placed on record that he objected to the presence of Mr. Lisson, the Chinese interpreter, during his examination, and that Mr. Lisson accordingly withdrew.]

Mr. Robert Nolan called and examined:—

1107. President.] What is your occupation? I am an ironmonger's assistant, and am employed at Messrs. Felton and Nock's.

Mr.
R. Nolan.
10 Sept., 1891.

1108. Do you live there? No.

1109. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.

1110. You know that gambling is carried on in a number of Chinese houses in Lower George-street? Yes.

1111. Are you of opinion that the police are well aware of the fact? I believe they are thoroughly aware of it.

1112. Have you ever been into these gambling-houses yourself? Yes; I have gone in, and have seen people of all classes playing there.

1113. It is a notorious fact, is it not, that gambling is carried on to a very large extent in these gambling-houses down Lower George-street? Yes; it is a well known fact.

1114. And you are of opinion that the policemen are well aware of it? Yes.

1115. Have you heard any accusations made against the police of taking bribes for non-intervention in regard to this evil? In the course of ordinary conversation I have.

1116. You do not know of any particular policeman having been convicted of accepting a bribe? No, sir.

1117. If there was corruption amongst the police, and they connived at this breach of the law, then do you think the corruption or connivance must have been general throughout the force? I do not say that. So far as the knowledge of the existence of these gambling-houses is concerned it may be said to be general; but as to corruption, I do not think it is.

1118. Then, how do you account for the police not taking action? Well, as it goes in the course of ordinary conversation, it is on account of the police taking bribes.

1119. In that case, how do you account for the non-intervention of the police you have omitted from the general charge? I cannot answer you there.

1120. You cannot account for the opinion you hold in that regard; you simply say it may not be general? Yes; that is all.

1121. And you cannot give any reason for that belief? No reasons of my own.

1122. Do you know Constable Carson? I do.

1123. And Constable Beadman? Yes.

1124. Did you ever hear them in conversation with Mr. Nock at all? Yes; several times.

1125. Was it lately? No; some time ago.

1126. How long is it when last you heard them in conversation with Mr. Nock? It is some months ago.

1127. Before the establishment of the League? Oh, yes.

1128. Do you know the nature of the last conversation? Well, in a sort of way, I do. Mr. Nock was finding fault with the police in general for not doing their duty.—I did not hear names mentioned—in not clearing out these Chinese, on account of the pest they were, and the reply of the police was, "Oh, we cannot do anything," or something to that effect. Something was also said about Members of Parliament owning the places, and also about "vested interests." I did not pay much attention.

1129. And that is all you can remember about the conversation? That is all.

1130. An important conversation, such as you have told us took place, simply ended with the remark by Mr. Nock, that the police did not do their duty in the matter of putting down these gaming-houses? That is all that took place.

1131. On that occasion? Yes.

1132. Did you ever draw Mr. Nock's attention to these two men being in the gambling-houses? Yes, on many occasions.

1133. Did you ever hear a conversation between Mr. Nock and Constables Carson and Beadman as to their attendance at those shops? I heard a conversation between him and Beadman. I heard Mr. Nock tell Beadman one day that he was surprised to see him going into these places so frequently, and he replied

Mr. R. Nolan. 10 Sept., 1891. replied, "I told you before the property is owned by members of Parliament and other influential men, and if we turn the tenants out they cannot get respectable people to occupy them;" Mr. Nock said, "That's the second time you've told me that, will you allow me to make use of that statement?" he said, "You must think me a bloody fool."

1134. I suppose these constables attended various houses? Yes; I have seen them in several.

1135. Can you give the names of the houses? No. I have seen them in one next "Power's Hotel," and in one next the "American Exchange Hotel." I have also seen them in company with a certain Hing Jang. I have served him several times when behind the counter.

1136. Did he suggest to Constable Carson or Constable Beadman that they were interested in winking at the existence of these gambling practices? I cannot give you any particulars of the conversation further than what I have stated.

1137. Did you ever hear any conversation of that kind in which Mr. Nock insinuated to these men that they took bribes? No.

1138. Did you ever hear any allusion made to the police having received presents of anything in the shape of a diamond ring, a watch and chain, chests of tea, or jars of ginger? Yes; I have heard of chests of tea and things of that kind.

1139. In a conversation which took place between Mr. Nock and whom? I think I heard some words between Mr. Nock and Mr. Inspector Atwill.

1140. You remember a conversation between Mr. Nock and Inspector Atwill, at which it was insinuated that inspector took presents from the Chinese? No, not directly.

1141. Well, tell us in your own way about these chests of tea and jars of ginger, and whom they were given to? It was on the Friday afternoon before the late raid was made on the Lower George-street gambling-houses. Inspector Atwill came into the shop and asked if Mr. Nock was in. I brought Mr. Nock down, and a conversation took place between them. Something was said about who the different places belonged to, and what they were built for. Inspector Atwill said the places were built for Chinese gambling-dens, and, so far as the police were concerned, they could do nothing, because of the difficulties of surprising the keepers of these places. There was, he said, a door here and a door there, and it was a very difficult matter to get into them. During the course of the conversation I heard Mr. Nock mention about half-chests and chests of tea being hawked about at Christmas-time, and there must be someone concerned.

1142. Yes;—and what did Inspector Atwill reply to that? Well, I was passing to and fro at the time, and I could not say what he replied to it. I know Mr. Atwill wound up by saying, "My dear man, the best thing you can do is to come and help us. Will you go into these places at night and let us in?"

1143. Did you ever see Constables Carson and Beadman inside in the room where they play fan-tan? No; only in the front shop.

1144. They do not usually play fan-tan so openly, I believe? No.

1145. And in a back room, as a rule? Yes.

1146. Have you ever seen these constables engaged in gambling themselves? Not with the Chinese.

1147. Among themselves? Yes, with dominoes, I have.

1148. In these Chinese places? No; in the Coffee Palace Hotel across the road.

1149. Would they be on duty when they were indulging in this game? I suppose so, but I cannot say.

1150. Were they in uniform on the occasions you saw them? No; plain clothes. They are always in plain clothes, these two particular men.

1151. You do not know of your own knowledge of any presents having passed between the Chinese and the police? No; not of my own personal knowledge.

1152. Can you tell us of any person who has made a present to any policeman of any grade? No.

1153. You cannot give a single instance? No; not a single instance.

1154. Then the opinion you have formed about the matter is entirely based upon supposition? Yes; quite upon supposition.

1155. Cannot you give us an actual fact? Well anyone going there from half-past 7 o'clock till 10 can see for themselves. I should think that the police could put a stop to it if they like.

1156. Then you have come to the conclusion that there must be corruption somewhere? Well, yes; there must be something in it, I think.

1157. But you cannot mention any particular instance? No, sir.

1158. Mr. McKillop.] You think it looks very suspicious? There is no suspicion about it. If you go by our shop any time after 6 o'clock, you will find a man at each of the doors, and they will ask you to go in and play, if they think you are a fit and proper person. They asked me several times, but they know me well now, and do not do so.

1159. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is that the case every night? Yes; I can guarantee you will find them there to-night.

1160. President.] Could you not remember an occasion when Constables Carson and Beadman were in the back rooms, where they play fan-tan? No.

1161. Could they see the people in the back room through the glass door? No.

1162. Do you know if the police have ever disturbed them at the game? Now and again, occasionally.

1163. Is there generally a stampede when the police make their appearance on the scene? Yes; a regular stampede.

1164. Have you ever been present when there was a visitation by the police? No; but I have seen them come out of the back lane, when there has been one of those visitations.

1165. The exits are very numerous at the back? Yes.

1166. How long have you been in the neighbourhood of Lower George-street? About three years and a half.

1167. During that time can you give a rough idea of how many times the police have made such visitations and disturbed them? Twice or three times, I think.

1168. Only two or three times during the whole of that time? Yes.

1169. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you seen any members of the police force going with a Chinaman into an oyster-saloon at that end of the town? No.

1170. Would that be at the cost of the Chinaman, do you think? Yes; at least that was the impression conveyed to my mind.

1171. Who were the policemen who were in the habit of going into this place with a Chinaman? Constables Beadman and Carson.

1172. Can you give us the name of the Chinaman? Hing Jang.

1173. Have you ever seen any other Chinaman going in with them? Yes.

1174. Who? Moy Ping.

Mr.
R. Nolan.
10 Sept., 1891.

1175. Would you know the man if you saw him? Yes.
1176. Anyone else? Yes; there were two other little Chinamen; I cannot say who they were.
1177. Would the police first go to the houses of these Chinamen, and then go over to the Coffee Palace Hotel? No; they would pick them up on the footpath.
1178. That is, meet them casually? Yes.
1179. And you say the impression conveyed to your mind was that the Chinamen took these constables in to stand treat? Yes; that is the fact, I am sure. I have seen them in the coffee palace at dinner.
1180. And appearing to be on most friendly terms? Yes; very friendly terms.
1181. Are these the policemen who are supposed to have received presents of diamond rings and so forth? They say so—that is the rumour.
1182. Have you ever seen them hold up their hands to show their rings? I have.
1183. What impression was conveyed to your mind by that action? I cannot say, unless it was done in mockery. I have seen them hold up their hands to show rings on fingers and pull out their watches.
1184. Have you seen them gesticulate like that on more than one occasion? No; I have seen them do it to Mr. Nock at our door. They were just like two school-boys.
1185. It struck you that they were guilty of conduct unbecoming policemen? Certainly.
1186. Mr. McKillop.] The Chinamen you saw going in with these policemen for refreshment, were they keepers of these gambling dens or respectable Chinamen? So far as I know they were respectable men.
1187. You have mentioned Moy Ping—he keeps a gambling-house? Yes.
1188. Then when you say respectable I suppose you mean respectable to look at? Yes.
1189. Have you ever noticed girls—mere children, or both boys and girls—entering these gambling-dens in Lower George-street? No; but I have noticed middle-aged women of loose character.
1190. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know anything about the sanitary condition of these places; I believe the smells emanating from them are very objectionable? Yes; the smells from those places are something horrible. Sometimes, as you are passing by, they will be burning something, the smell of which is literally enough to knock you down.
1191. Do you know whether these places are very much overcrowded or not by residents? That I cannot say from actual experience; but I have seen them flock out there sometimes like—I cannot tell you what—that is, I can scarcely describe it. They flock out in droves when there is a row on there with their countrymen.
1192. Is there much opium smoking carried on there? Yes; there is any amount of it carried on in the basement.
1193. Have you ever smoked opium? No.
1194. You do not know the effect of it? No.
1195. Do you know anything about women being interfered with while going up and down Lower George-street? Yes; it is a common occurrence every night. I could point out the Chinamen who do it.
1196. Can you give us their names? No.
1197. But you can point them out? Yes.
1198. Have you ever made any reports to the police about that? No; except on one occasion I spoke to one constable about it, and he said, "Oh, well, I cannot help it; if police officers will go bumming round there all day smoking cigars, it is not our fault."
1199. Do you know the name of that constable? I do; but I would rather not give it to you. I do not think it is necessary.
1200. It is very necessary, and you must give it, if you please? Well, it was Constable Adair.
1201. That was a reflection upon the other constables there? Yes; I suppose it was. It was only the other day he said that to me.
1202. He said, at any rate, in clear terms, that nothing could be done when other policemen went bumming round smoking cigars? Yes.
1203. Do you know if in any of these houses women are kept for immoral purposes? I do not think so.
1204. Have you ever noticed any children—boys and girls—going there for gambling purposes? No; only boys.
1205. Do you know anybody who could give practical evidence with regard to this alleged bribery of the police? Yes.
1206. Be good enough to give us the names, please? A man named Bowker. He lives somewhere in Princes-street.
1207. Mr. McKillop.] He is a carpenter, is he not? Yes.
1208. Mr. Abigail.] Is he often to be found in these places? Yes.
1209. Do you know any others? Yes; there are three or four others.
1210. Can you give the names? I cannot give the names. They went by some names in the Sunday Times. I have heard them sing it out in the street.
1211. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know anything of a bill or account for a wardrobe or cabinet being made out to Mr. Inspector Atwill on behalf of Ah Toy? No.
1212. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have mentioned the Chinaman named Hing Jang? Yes; he lives next to Mrs. Powers' hotel. He is a tall man. He has something the matter with one of his eyes.
1213. Do you know of any respectable Chinese merchants in Lower George-street connected with gambling operations? I do not. I have heard something about Sun Kum Tiy and Sun Hing Jang, I think.
1214. Mr. Abigail.] The Constable Adair you speak of is a senior constable, is he not? Yes.
1215. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever seen Inspector Atwill speaking to the Chinese down in your quarter? Yes.
1216. In a free and easy manner? Yes.
1217. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know anything about these lotteries—the way they are conducted? No; I never went into them.
1218. Mr. Hawthorne. You have seen fan-tan, and played it? Yes.
1219. Did you win any money at it? I cannot say whether I won or lost.
1220. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know how many Chinese there are keeping these gambling-houses? About thirty, I should say.
1221. How many respectable Chinese do you know there? There are two or three men known to us—Mr. On Lee, and two or three others, whose names I do not know.

- Mr. 1222. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know if any prostitution is carried on in that quarter? There is any amount of it—in Queen-street; in some of the houses there they have regular bunks built for them.
- R. Nolan. 1223. Prostitutes? Yes.
- 10 Sept., 1891. 1224. The traffic is confined to Chinamen of a lower order and native girls? Yes; I often see them going there.
1225. Mr. McKillop.] The street is right opposite to your place, is it not? Yes, you turn round by a fruit-shop, up the lane. I have seen them going round there in numbers.
1226. Have you ever been into any of the houses in which these prostitutes congregate? No, never; but I have heard men say who visited those places that they have actually been driven out by the stench.
1227. What day was it on which you had the conversation you have described with Constable Adair? This week, on Tuesday.
1228. Did he seem to be greatly put about by these wholesale allegations which have been made against the police? No.
1229. Did he seem to be a bit annoyed? No; he is not a man to show his annoyance.
1230. Mr. Hawthorne.] How did the conversation arise? We were talking about these Chinese gambling-dens, and nothing being done.
1231. Were you discussing the appointment of the Commission? No.
1232. Mr. McKillop.] All classes of people go to these gambling-shops I understand? Yes.
1233. And gambling is going on during the seven days of the week? Yes.
1234. At night-time also? Yes.
1235. Has it dropped off at all since this Commission started? Yes, it has to a very considerable extent. As I came along to-day the place had quite a deserted appearance.
1236. Is there any particular day on which the gambling is principally carried on? Yes, on Saturday afternoon—pay-day.
1237. On Sunday also? Yes; but I do not think they are so busy on Sunday; the busiest time is on Saturday afternoon, at about 2 o'clock.
1238. You are salesman in your establishment, are you not? Yes.
1239. Has there been any noticeable falling off in your business? Yes; in our place the trade has fallen off considerably during the last two years.
1240. To what do you attribute that falling off in business? Principally to the increase of these Chinese houses. There are twelve of them this side of us.
1241. And people—respectable people—will not pass that way? No. I have heard Mr. Downton, a grocer, and Mr. Johnson say their customers will not go that way to transact their ordinary business, but go up Pitt-street rather.
1242. Do you believe that the police could remove this evil if they liked? I do. I heard a police officer say that he could shift the lot of them.
1243. Do you know his name? No.
1244. Is he serving in that district? I believe so.
1245. Is he a constable or a sergeant? I do not know.
1246. Would you know him if you saw him? Yes.
1247. Would you kindly try and find out this information, and send it to the Secretary? Yes.
1248. Mr. Inspector Atwill, you say, has stated that nothing can be done to remove this evil? The night before the raid I heard him say to Mr. Nock that it was impossible for him to do anything.
1249. Did he give any reason? The only reason he gave was with regard to the arrangement of the doors in the interior of these places, remarking that by the time they could get to the third door, all the people would be away.
1250. Did Mr. Nock make any remark about surrounding the place? Yes; he said it was the simplest thing in the world.
1251. What did Mr. Atwill say to that? Inspector Atwill said, "Let us see what assistance you will give us," and I think Mr. Nock said he would give all the assistance in his power, or something to that effect.
1252. Has Constable Adair the power to enter these gambling-houses? Yes; I suppose so.
1253. Does he frequent these places the same as Constable Carson and Beadman? No; I have never seen him near them.
1254. Have you ever seen in the papers advertisements for woman servants to apply to places in Lower George-street? Yes; several times. I could not say who put them in.
1255. What numbers were they to apply to? No. 192, I think. We are numbered 194 and 196, and young women used to come in to our place to make inquiries as regards the advertisements.
1256. Were they young girls? Yes; young servant girls.
1257. Were they respectable looking? Yes.
1258. Do you think the advertisements were put in by the Chinese? That I cannot say.
1259. But you think it looked suspicious? Very suspicious.
1260. Mr. Hawthorne.] They were put in by your firm? No.
1261. As these advertisements were not put in by your firm, and as the numbers of the houses are similar, the inference is that they were put in by the Chinese;—is that your opinion? Yes. There are no white people nearer to us than twelve or thirteen doors off.
1262. Mr. McKillop.] Your place is next door to Ah Toy's? Yes.
1263. There is no gambling going on there, I suppose? Oh, no.
1264. Are you of opinion that, on account of these Chinese shops in that locality, the rents there have increased considerably? Yes.
1265. If these people want a building they do not care what price they pay for it? No.
1266. Do you know of offers of money being made to European residents to quit their premises? Yes.
1267. Will you mention one? Yes. Mr. Chazell, I was informed, got £150 to clear from one side of the road to the other.
1268. Do you know of any other? I do not know of any other personally, but I believe one or two others were offered similar sums to that.
1269. Do you know anything about a man who kept a shooting gallery? Yes; that is a long time ago. I never heard whether he got anything.

1270. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.
 1271. You do not reside in that part of the City? No.
 1272. Are there any Chinese in the quarter where you live? No.

Mr.
 R. Nolan.
 10 Sept., 1891.

Ah Toy called and examined:—

1273. President.] Where do you reside? In Lower George-street.
 1274. What business do you carry on there? I am a cabinet-maker.
 1275. How long have you been there? I have been thirty-six years in this country.
 1276. How long have you been in business in Lower George-street? Oh, a long time there.
 1277. Do you know Inspector Atwill? Yes.
 1278. Did he ever buy anything from you in the shape of furniture? Yes.
 1279. What did he buy? A book-case.
 1280. What was the size of the book-case? It was 3 feet by 10 feet, I think. It was a long time ago.
 1281. What was the height of it? About 7 feet 6 inches.
 1282. Was it built of cedar? Yes.
 1283. A first-class book-case? Oh, yes. I sold it a long time ago.
 1284. What would you charge me for one of those book-cases? Sometimes I sell them for £6 10s. or £7. If I had it for a long time I would sell it cheap. If it was a friend I would give it him cheaper. If he was a good man, who looked after me in the city.
 1285. Do you make wardrobes? Yes.
 1286. Did you ever sell a wardrobe to Inspector Atwill? No. I sold one to Inspector Anderson.
 1287. When was that? I cannot say—a long time ago. He paid me full money. I sold to Mr. Read, Superintendent of Police, too.
 1288. What did you sell to him? It is too long to remember.
 1289. When did you sell that book-case to Inspector Atwill? About eighteen months ago, I think.
 1290. You say he never paid you for it, I think? Who said so—why would I give it for nothing?
 1291. Did he pay you for that book-case? Yes—£5 cash.
 1292. When did he pay you that cash? A long time ago. I said, "Never mind the bill."
 1293. When you gave him the book-case he paid you cash? Yes.
 1294. You did not give him a receipt? No.
 1295. When the men took the book-case away Mr. Atwill paid him the money, and there was nothing further done? No.
 1296. Do you remember going into Mr. Nock's shop, one day, two or three months ago? Yes.
 1297. That was to get somebody to make out a bill for you? Yes. That was for the book-case, but the money was paid a long time ago.
 1298. How did he pay you, in notes or gold? In notes.
 1299. How can you remember so well that he paid you in notes? I recollect he paid me in notes, and I recollect Mr. Anderson paid me in notes the same.
 1300. Did you say you sold the book-case to Mr. Atwill for £7? No; £5.
 1301. What did you give it to Inspector Atwill for £5, seeing that you were in the habit of selling them for £6 10s. and £7? Well, if I have a friend I sometimes give it to him for less.
 1302. Inspector Atwill is a friend of yours? No; not a friend of mine.
 1303. Then how did you come to sell this book-case for £5? Well, sometimes if people know me for a long time I give them something for nothing.
 1304. Is it true that you are interested in one of those gambling-houses down in Lower George-street? Who said there was gambling in my house?
 1305. Is it true that you are interested in any of the gambling-houses in Lower George-street—answer me straightforwardly? I have nothing to do with that—I know nothing about it.
 1306. Are any of your friends interested in any of these houses? I have no friends in the gambling-houses.
 1307. Not friends among your countrymen? Oh, plenty of friends.
 1308. Have you not friends among your countrymen keeping gambling-houses there? I have nothing to do with gambling—I am a cabinet-maker.
 1309. Do not evade my questions. Tell me, shortly, have you not among your countrymen some friends who are keeping gambling-houses down there? There are some men I know.
 1310. You have been there a long time, and know them? Yes.
 1311. Is Inspector Atwill very kind to any of these friends? I do not know anything about that.
 1312. Do you know a policeman named Quealy? I do not know the policeman.
 1313. Or Carson? No.
 1314. Or Beadman—do you know him? I do not know any of them.
 1315. You only know Inspector Atwill? Yes.
 1316. Do you know of Inspector Atwill making a raid upon a Chinese house down there? I know nothing about that.
 1317. Not Moy Ping's? I do not know.
 1318. Do you not know Moy Ping? Yes, I know Moy Ping.
 1319. Is Moy Ping a friend of yours? He has been a long time in the city, and comes into my shop.
 1320. Is he a friend of yours? No friend of mine.
 1321. Do you speak to him? Of course I speak to him.
 1322. Did he ever lend you any money? What would he lend me any money for?
 1323. I ask you did he lend you any money? No.
 1324. Did you ever lend the inspector any money? No.
 1325. How many men have you working for you in your establishment? I had sixty men working for me at one time.
 1326. All working in the one shop? No, not in the one shop; I have a store next door.
 1327. How many shops have you now? I have one shop now, and a big yard.
 1328. And how many men? Twenty-one, I think.
 1329. All Chinese? Sometimes Chinese, and sometimes European.
 1330. How many Chinese have you there now? Twenty-one.
 1331. Are they all cabinet-makers? No; there are two servants, four polishers, and one cook.

Ah Toy.
 10 Sept., 1891.

- Ah Toy. 1332. Do they all sleep there? Yes.
- 10 Sept., 1891. 1333. How many rooms are there in the house? Fifteen rooms.
1334. When the men have done work what do they do in the evening? I cannot tell you that. I do not know when they go out and when they come in.
1335. You live there? Yes, upstairs.
1336. Are you married? Yes.
1337. Do you allow the men to bring women into your shop? Oh, no; I do not allow that.
1338. What was it Inspector Atwill said to you when he came to ask you for that account? He said, now that there was trouble with these gambling-houses, people might say that he got it—the book-case—as a present if he had not the receipt.
1339. You say he paid you the £5 in cash—in gold? No, not in gold, in notes.
1340. On what bank were the notes? I cannot answer that.
1341. Do you enter these transactions in your books;—when you sell a book-case do you put it down in a book? No; no books for small cash purchases. I keep books for big people running an account.
1342. Have you a banking account? Yes.
1343. Do you pay the notes into a bank? Sometimes; but I pay a good deal of money away.
1344. What did you do with the money you got from Inspector Atwill? I cannot say; perhaps I paid it away for wages and grub—provisions.
1345. Who carted the book-case up to Mr. Atwill's place? It is too long ago to remember.
1346. Is it true that the book-case was taken up in the night-time;—I want you to be very careful how you answer that question? I forget; it is too long to remember.
1347. You can remember that Inspector Atwill paid you in notes, and yet you cannot remember whether the book-case was sent to him in the night-time. You must be very careful. If you do not answer these questions properly we shall have to take steps to compel you to do so. I want you to tell me now if you sent that book-case up to Inspector Atwill's house in the night-time? I am trying to think. I cannot tell which vanman took it away. I think it was about half-past 5 o'clock, or something like that. I could not get a vanman to take it away.
1348. Do you ever deliver your furniture at night-time? Up to 6 o'clock.
1349. Do you deliver after 6? Sometimes half-past 6.
1350. At what hour do you shut up shop? At half-past 6.
1351. Was it not 8 o'clock at night when you sent that book-case to Inspector Atwill's house? No; I recollect it was not.
1352. How can you recollect now, when 5 minutes ago you said you could not recollect anything about it? I know; I am sure.
1353. Did you ever sell anything else to Inspector Atwill? I only polished his furniture.
1354. When did you polish his furniture last? I forget all about it now.
1355. You can form some idea, I suppose? I cannot remember.
1356. Was it twelve months ago, or six months ago? I forget what date, I have such a lot of people working for me.
1357. You must tell me as near as you can the date when you last did work for Mr. Atwill? About three years ago, I think.
1358. How do you recollect now? Well, I do not remember—I cannot swear. He asked for a man to do some polishing about three years ago, I think.
1359. What polishing did you do for him then? It was an old wardrobe, I think, to be done up.
1360. Only a wardrobe? That is all, I think.
1361. Is it not a fact that at Christmas-time before last, or last Christmas-time, you made Inspector Atwill a present? What would I give him a present for?
1362. I want you to tell me that? I gave him nothing.
1363. Did you not, last Christmas, give Inspector Atwill a present? I never gave him anything.
1364. Did you make a present to any other policeman down there at Christmas? No.
1365. What did you charge Inspector Atwill for the job of polishing you did for him? I do not recollect now—perhaps 5s. for the half-day.
1366. Did you get the money for it? The man would get the money when the job was finished to give to me. I forget all about it.
1367. You know there is a Chinese Society in Sydney? I know nothing about it; I have not joined it.
1368. You know Way Kee? Yes.
1369. Is he not treasurer or president of a Chinese society? I do not know anything about it.
1370. You swear that positively? Yes.
1371. Do you not know a society called the "Koong Yee Tong"? No.
1372. Or the "Loong Yee Tong"? I know nothing about it.
1373. When you die do you not wish to have your bones taken to China? I never think about it.
1374. Do not your countrymen wish that done as a rule? Some may like it.
1375. Many of them like it? Yes.
1376. And do they not pay money into a society to have that done? I know nothing about it.
1377. Are you quite sure you have not had visits from your countrymen to ask for subscriptions? Yes; sometimes they come and ask for 10s. or £1.
1378. What is the money used for? To send old bones to China.
1379. Who is the man who keeps the money? I know nothing about it.
1380. Whom did you pay the money to? I do not know. Some Chinaman coming in for subscriptions. I did not ask questions about the man's name.
1381. When anybody came in and asked you for a subscription you would give the money? Yes.
1382. That is very good of you;—if I went into your shop and asked you to subscribe money would you give it to me? Perhaps so.
1383. You know Way Kee? Yes.
1384. Did he not get the money you subscribed? I do not know anything about it.
1385. Have you ever been summoned or proceeded against by the police for anything? What would they summon me for?

[The further examination of the witnesses was postponed until next sitting day.]

FRIDAY,

FRIDAY, 11 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

The MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Ah Toy further examined:—

1386. President.] Did you stay in Lower George-street last night? Yes.
1387. In your own house? Yes.
1388. Did you go out at all? No.
1389. Have you been thinking about the matter during the night? Yes, I have.
1390. Can you tell us anything more than you told us yesterday? No.
1391. You cannot think whether it was in the night or not that you delivered that book-case to Inspector Atwill? No.
1392. Do you always employ the same van-man to take your furniture out? No; I employ two or three.
1393. Can you tell us the name of the van-man who took the book-case to Mr. Atwill? No; I cannot remember.
1394. But he was one of three, was he? No; I cannot say that.
1395. But you have just told us that you employed three men to deliver furniture? Yes.
1396. So that it was probably one of these three men who took the furniture to Inspector Atwill? I cannot say; I have forgotten all about it.
1397. But is it not true that you get three men to do this work for you—you take one man one day, another man another day, and the third man some other time? Yes.
1398. What are the names of these men? One man has not been working for me for a long time.
1399. I do not want to know that—I want to know what the names of these three men are? Well, I have one man called Tom working for me now, and another called William; I have forgotten the name of the other.
1400. Well, will you point all three out to the Secretary of the Commission any time he comes down to ask you to do so? Yes; I will do that.
1401. Were you talking last night to any white man? No.
1402. Did not Inspector Atwill come to see you last night? No.
1403. Did any of Inspector Atwill's men? No.
1404. Did Inspector Atwill know that you were coming here yesterday? No.
1405. Did you see Mr. Way Kee last night? No.
1406. Have you seen Mr. Way Kee during the week? No; I do not speak much to any Chinamen. I keep to myself.
1407. Have you ever heard of any of your countrymen paying money to any of the policemen down there? No.
1408. Or making them presents of rings? No; I have got enough men of my own to look after.
1409. Your countrymen are very good sometimes to their friends, and send them presents of tea and ginger? A Chinaman who has a good heart will give a box of tea or some other present. There is nothing in that.
1410. Do you know a Chinaman named Moy Hing? No.
1411. He is a partner in the firm of Kwong Hing Chong? No; I do not know anything about them.
1412. Did Inspector Atwill come to you again after you gave him the receipt? No.
1413. Did he come himself for the receipt? No; he sent a police servant.
1414. Did you not say yesterday that he came himself to ask you for the receipt? No; he spoke to me in the street, but he sent his servant for the receipt.
1415. It was a policeman that he sent to you? Yes.
1416. Do you know the policeman's name? No, I do not; he was a very old policeman.
1417. Mr. McKillop.] Is he down there now? Yes.
1418. President.] Is he on duty in Lower George-street? Yes.
1419. Was he in uniform when he came for the receipt? Yes.
1420. Had you ever seen the constable before? Oh, I have seen him years ago.
1421. Down George-street? Yes.
1422. Could you point him out to us? Yes.
1423. Will you point him out to the Secretary? Yes.
1424. When had he better go down to see him? Oh, any day.
1425. Will he be on duty this afternoon? He is minding the cells at No. 4.
1426. And what did he say to you when he came from Inspector Atwill? He said that he wanted the bill.
1427. About which the inspector has spoken to you in the street? Yes.
1328. And what did you say? I said "I cannot write it myself, but will get some one else to do it."
1429. Where did Inspector Atwill meet you when he asked you about the bill? At my shop-door.
1430. And tell us now what he said? He said, "Why, when you sold that book-case did you not give me a bill?" I said, "Do you want me to give you a bill?" and he said "Yes, I have got big children and little children, and they will want by-and-by to know how much I paid for it."
1431. He said that he wanted the bill so that his children, when they grew up, would know what he gave for the book-case? Yes.
1432. He said nothing about the Commission? No.
1433. Did you not tell me yesterday that Inspector Atwill told you that he wanted the bill to show to the Commission? No; I never said that yesterday.
1434. You are quite sure you did not say that yesterday? Quite.
1435. And, as a matter of fact, he never said anything about the Commission to you? No.
1436. He simply told you that he wanted the bill receipted, so that his children might know what he gave for the book-case? Yes.
1437. You are quite sure that he paid you for it? Yes.

Ah Toy.
11 Sept., 1891.

1438.

- Ah Toy. 1438. You remember distinctly that he paid you? Yes; he gave me £5 for it.
1439. He paid it in gold, did he not? No; in notes.
- 11 Sept., 1891. 1440. Were they Queensland notes? Oh, I do not know that. I could not remember what notes merely passing through my hands were—could you?
1441. And the only other work you did for Inspector Atwill was some polishing? Yes; he asked me one day to send a man up to his house to polish something.
1442. And he paid you for that? Yes. The man was half a day at it.
1443. Have you sold any furniture to other members of the police force in Lower George-street? Yes, I did, a long time ago.
1444. Can you tell us the names of the other policemen? Inspector Harrison and also Superintendent Read, when he got a new wife.
1445. Do you remember what it was you sold to him? No. It was a book-case, I think, or something of that kind.
1446. I suppose, when you sell furniture to the police you sell it cheap? No; just wholesale.
1447. Mr. Abigail.] You know all about the Chinese in Lower George-street, I suppose? No; not much.
1448. Do you know Pung Nung, who lives at 178-180, Lower George-street? No; I know more European people than Chinese.
1449. Do you know Sing Lee? No.
1450. Do you expect me to believe that you have lived down there for thirty-four years and do not know these people, who are living so near to you? No; I do not know them, and I do not care to speak to them.
1451. But do you know that there is any gambling going on? I see plenty of people going in and going out, but I do not know what they do inside.
1452. Well, do you know that there are a number of your countrymen who keep shops down there? Yes.
1453. Do you know what business they carry on? No; I never asked them.
1454. But do you not see as you pass up and down what they do? No; some keep fruit-shops, I believe.
1455. But how do most of them make a living? I do not know; I cannot tell.
1456. If a number of Europeans kept shops and sold nothing, yet lived comfortably, we should be able to say how they got their money; we want you to do the same with regard to your countrymen; you know that there are a lot of people paying high rents for shops in Lower George-street? Yes.
1457. Do you know what business they carry on to enable them to pay these rents? I never asked them.
1458. But you must know for yourself;—do you see any Europeans keeping shops? Yes; next to me there is Felton and Nocks.
1459. You know what they sell? Yes.
1460. Then do you not know that in the Chinamen's places pak-ah-pu is carried on? No; I do not know anything about it.
1461. Do you not know that if you refuse to give information to the Commission you can be sent to prison? No; I do not know anything about it.
1462. Well, I may as well tell you that you can;—now do you know that there are gambling shops carried on by the Chinese near to where you live? No, I do not.
1463. You have lived there thirty-four years and do not know what is taking place around you? I know that some keep cook-shops.
1464. Come, do you not know that there are a number of Chinese gambling-shops in Lower George-street? I know, but I cannot prove it myself.
1465. Do you know Dung Lee's? I know the place, but I have never been in.
1466. Do you not know that it is a gambling-house? No.
1467. Do you know Han Ah Kee? No, I do not know him. I look after my men working, or perhaps I go into the town to buy something, but I do not hang about the street.
1468. How many Chinamen kept shops in Lower George-street when you first went there? I do not know. I only look after myself.
1469. Have the shops kept by Chinamen not increased very much during the last two or three years? They have increased a good deal, but I do not know about the last two or three years.
1470. How many cabinet shops are there, down there? There is one other beside my own.
1471. And those are the only two? There are only two, or at most three.
1472. You do not know what the business of the other thirty shops is? No.
1473. You do not know that there is gambling carried on in them? No, I do not; I have never been in.
1474. Do you see people visiting these places frequently—boys, young men and girls? I see them in the street outside.
1475. But do you think not that they visit the shops carried on by Chinese? I never notice them.
1476. And during all the years you have lived down there you have never observed them going inside? No; because I know that a number of persons knock about the street.
1477. Have you ever heard of any of your countrymen losing large sums of money in these gambling places? I never heard of any; it has nothing to do with me.
1478. Have you ever heard of any of your countrymen committing suicide in Sydney? No.
1479. You are not yourself connected with any secret society? No; I have enough to do to look after myself.
1480. Do you know a Chinaman named Sing Lee? No.
1481. Were you in conversation with him last week in George-street? No; I do not know him.
1482. You never spoke to him last week? No.
1483. You have had no conversation with any Chinamen in reference to the gambling carried on down in Lower George-street? No, it has nothing to do with me. I mind my own business, and during the last thirty-six years have been doing the same.
1484. Mr. McKillop.] Did any of the Chinamen living down there know that you were coming up here? Yes; some of them asked me where I was going and I said that I was going up town.
1485. When was this? Yesterday morning.
1486. Did not they ask your wife whether you were coming before the Commission? No.
1487. Had not you some conversation with some of the Chinamen in Lower George-street last night after leaving leaving here? No; except with my own workmen, and to them I said that I did not know why I was called up to the Town Hall. It seemed to me to be all nonsense.

1488. You think it is all nonsense? Well, it meant a loss of time to me.

1489. Do you like to see gambling and opium smoking going on down there? No; I never gamble, and never smoke opium.

1490. But perhaps you do not mind seeing other people doing it? Oh, they can look after themselves.

1491. Have you never played fan-tan? Not since I was a little boy.

1492. Have you never played in this country? Yes; I played up country on the diggings, and lost £1, and said I would never play again.

1493. Did you ever take any pak-ah-pu tickets? No.

1494. Do any of the men who work for you smoke opium;—you have pipes on the premises, you know? One or two of my men smoke.

1495. You permit them to do it? Well, they have been used to it, and would be sick if I stopped them.

1496. Do you charge them anything for smoking? No.

1497. What did Inspector Atwill say to you the night he came to your shop-door? He said, "You sold me a book-case long ago, and never gave me a bill for it. You had better do so now, as I want my children to know what I paid for it."

1498. Did you not say yesterday that Inspector Atwill told you that there was a lot of noise made about policemen getting presents, and that he wanted a bill on that account;—you said that yesterday, did you not? No, I did not.

1499. Mr. Hawthorne.] You are quite sure that you did not see Inspector Atwill from the time you left here yesterday until you came here this morning? No.

1500. Did you see any one from him? No. I said to my men, "I have been losing my time";—that was all.

1501. Do you do any trade with private people? Yes; I would sell to you or anybody else.

1502. What price do you usually charge for a book-case like the one you supplied to Inspector Atwill? About £6 10s.; but as I had the book-case in stock for eighteen months I sold it cheap.

1503. Do not people generally pay you by cheque? No.

1504. Are you always paid in cash? Private people always pay cash. Shop people always give me a cheque.

1505. Inspector Atwill paid you in cash? Yes.

1506. How long is it since you saw Inspector Atwill;—be particular, because you know that many people have a chance of seeing you when you do not see them? It was about three weeks ago, I think. I forget exactly, but I remember him saying, "Good evening."

1507. Was that when he asked you about the book-case? No.

1508. How long is it since he asked you about the account? About six weeks ago.

1509. Do you never give accounts when you sell furniture to private people? No, never.

1510. Have you no bill-heads? Yes.

1511. How far is it from your place to Mr. Atwill's house? I do not know.

1512. About a quarter of a mile? Very well, you know better than I do.

1513. Have you not some regular man to do your carting? No. I generally get Tom or Jack. Jack has been working for me for many years.

1514. Was it Jack who took the book-case? I do not know, but I think it was.

1515. Has he got a parcel delivery van? No; I do not think I was at home when the book-case was delivered.

1516. Mr. McKillop.] What rent do you pay for your place? £5 a week to Mr. Merriman. Last year I paid £7.

1517. Mr. Quong Tart.] Now, Mr. Ah Toy, I want to ask you an important question: You told Mr. Abigail a little while ago that you have lived in Lower George-street for thirty-six years, and yet you do not know your next door neighbours. So far as I know your character, you are not connected with gambling, but we want you to say whether or not you know that these are gambling-houses? I cannot prove it.

1518. We do not want you to prove it; we want your impression;—you know whether a Chinaman keeps a cabinet shop, or is a regular merchant, and if he is neither of these, you must know what he does? I think some of the places in Lower George-street are gambling-shops.

1519. You can read Chinese? Yes.

1520. What, besides the name of the firm, is there on the doors of those shops? Oh; I never noticed them.

1521. Does it say, "Day and night fan-tan inside"? Yes, I think so; but I cannot prove that gambling is carried on inside.

1522. Upon how many shops have you seen this writing? I do not know; about twenty I daresay.

1523. Do you think that all this gambling down there does much good to business—to European business or your own? No good certainly. Anybody who gambles is no good.

1524. Can you smell the opium outside the shops? Yes.

1525. If a person does not smoke he does not like the smell? Of course not.

1526. Do you know of pak-ah-pu being carried on down there? Yes; it is the same sort of thing.

1527. Fan-tan and pak-ah-pu are different? Yes.

1528. Are you in favour of pak-ah-pu? I think it is not much good.

1529. Do you know any merchants down there who share in the gambling-houses? I do not know; I do not want all that I say taken down by the shorthand-writers.

1530. Mr. Abigail.] Are you afraid of making direct statements here? I am afraid to let other people know, because I have not much power against the Chinamen, and they would get a "down" on me.

1531. Then, as a matter of fact, you are rather afraid of making a clear statement, lest your countrymen should do you some injury? Yes.

1532. If you were assured that they could not do you any injury, and that you were perfectly safe, you would be able to tell us a great deal more I suppose? No.

1533. Then why are you so anxious that what you say should not be put down? I say everything that is true. I say that gambling is no good, and that smoking opium is no good.

- Alt Toy.
11 Sept., 1891.
1534. Have you ever heard of any of your countrymen being injured by any other of your countrymen for making statements that reflected upon them? Sometimes.
1535. They are very revengeful then if a man speaks the truth, and it happens to be against them? Yes.
1536. Have you ever heard of a reward being paid to the friends of anybody who has been injured or killed by any of your countrymen in that way? Yes; I have heard of such things—a long time ago.
1537. Who paid the money—do you know? I cannot tell.
1538. Have you heard of more than one case of that kind? I have heard of two or three cases perhaps.
1539. Have you ever heard of money being paid to Europeans who have been injured in that way by any of your countrymen? No.
1540. The money is kept solely for the Chinese and their friends who are injured? I do not know that.
1541. And this money comes from the funds of secret societies, does it not? I cannot tell.

Thomas Martin Davis, Esq., M.P., called:—

- T. M. Davis,
Esq., M.P.
11 Sept., 1891
1542. Mr. McKillop.] You are a Member of Parliament? Yes.
1543. And you were present at a deputation to Sir Henry Parkes on the 30th July? Yes.
1544. In your remarks you said that your attention had been drawn to the statement that bribes were given to the police? Yes.
1545. Would you kindly inform the Commission what you know of those statements—whether, as far as you are concerned, they are mere hearsay, whether they are backed by circumstantial evidence, or whether they are known to you as positive facts? Well, I may state that, as a result of my observation of what was going on in Lower George-street for many years, I had always some suspicion that the police received bribes. The fact is that I lived down there for over ten years, in the Sailors' Home, and in continually walking to and fro in that part of the city I saw the thing carried on so openly that it was only natural to suppose that the police, who knew that gambling was going on, and who also knew that it was illegal, must have had some little allowance, or else they would not have winked at it as they did. Before going with the deputation to the Premier, however, I spoke to a number of people on the subject, and asked if they had any reasonable proof that bribes were given by the Chinamen. One of the persons I spoke to was Mr. Maguire, the photographer, in Lower George-street. He told me that Inspector Atwill had come to him on one occasion, and had either asked his sister, who helps him in the business, or had been asked by her (I forget just how the conversation started) whether he was going to get his photos taken. At all events, Inspector Atwill made a remark to this effect: "All you shopkeepers ought to supply the police free for the protection you get." They did not seem to see it in the same light, however, and consequently Mr. Atwill did not get a sitting. Mr. Maguire then told me that a Chinaman who lives, I think, next door, or, at any rate, very close to him, had complained to him that a police sergeant (I think his name was Jameson—he has since retired) used to blackmail him to the extent of a £20-note. He said that the Chinaman had told him that. I think the Chinaman's name is Way Kee. Then I was informed by Mr. Nock that a Chinaman came into his shop one day and asked him to make out a receipt for a book-case supplied to Mr. Atwill, and that he, remembering the appointment of a Commission, thought that it looked rather suspicious, and consequently sent him upstairs to his accountant on purpose that a third party might witness the transaction. Mr. Nock's accountant saw; and, although the goods had been delivered some months before, up to then no receipt had been made out. Whether the money had been paid, however, it will be for the Commission to consider. Well, taking everything into consideration, and knowing as I do that gambling has been going on and gradually increasing for a number of years, for I remember the time when there were only two or three gambling-houses in Lower George-street, I could only come to the conclusion that the police were directly interested in permitting its continuance. I myself took part in it when I was at sea. At that time there were over a dozen, aye, a score of us, living in the Sailors' Home drawn into it. One week I believe that I made £5, but afterwards I lost £15 in about twenty minutes. I have seen the business going ahead since then, have seen the class of people engaged in it, and have wondered sometimes that I really did put up with the nasty smells, and the mixture of nationalities crowding over the table simply to put money on for gaming purposes. I have also wondered how it could all go on with the police walking backwards and forwards a few feet from the door.
1546. You went in and out quite openly, I suppose, just as if you were going into some place of business? Oh, there is no secrecy about it at all.
1547. You held the position of Secretary to the Seaman's Union up to a few months ago? Yes.
1548. Would you inform the Commission of the hardships endured by large numbers of your men who lost their wages in the gambling dens? I have known a man whom I have had acting as delegate on board a steamship to collect the monthly contributions beg of me to let his accounts run on for another month, as he had lost the whole of his own wages and the Union's funds too. On other occasions I have known men come to Mr. Daley, one of the principal coal stevedores, and ask him for the love of God to give them a little money for a bit of meat for Sunday's dinner, and those are men who the day before must have received £6 10s. in wages, for at times coal-lumpers make good pay. These men seem to have been brought under the influence of Chinese methods of gambling to a very striking extent. They do not go to horse-races or put money on "totes," but many of them have a perfect mania for fan-tan; indeed, I have heard Mr. Daley say, when he has paid £700 away in wages on a Saturday morning, "I will guarantee that the Chinese have £500 of it before this time to-morrow morning."
1549. Do you know anything of a police sustentation fund? During the time I was knocking about amongst the Chinese gambling-houses, eleven or twelve years ago, I never heard of such a fund; indeed, I was too much concerned in my own sustentation. I was recently informed by Mr. Armstrong, the tobacconist, that the Chinese set aside a little for the purpose of a sustentation fund, but personally I must say I have seen no proof of it.
1550. What class of people used to frequent these dens when you were in the habit of going there? I have known people in various grades of society go there. I have seen old men, fathers of families, who had a genteel appearance to keep up, slipping in and trying their luck, sometimes to the tune of half-a-sovereign, and I have seen small boys there, hanging on to the shirts of the winners. Of course, when there is plenty of money knocking about, some men are bound to come off winners, but it is only a momentary victory, and these boys look out for the winners, and as soon as a man makes a bit of a haul ask ask him to enable them to try their luck again, if it is only to the extent of a penny. I have known cases where boys have started with a penny and have come off with a pound or two.

1551. Have you noticed the age of these boys? Well, no doubt the vicious life they lead stunted them, but I should say that some were as young as 14 or 15.

1552. Have you ever noticed any women or girls? No; not playing fan-tan.

1553. Do you know ex-Constable Quealy? I know him by sight and also by reputation. I have seen one or two memorials that have been got up in the neighbourhood to have him removed for drunkenness. One memorial was to the Inspector-General, and he is out of the force now.

1554. Did you hear anything about him taking a large amount of money out of the bank? No, I did not hear anything about that. The last information I had about him was that he had applied for a public-house license, and that it was refused, but that a subsequent application was granted.

1555. He is getting it in his brother's name now, I think? Oh! is that it?

1556. Have you ever seen any plain clothes constables going in and out of these dens? Well, that is the beat of Higgins and Senior-constable Adair. They are plain clothes men, and I have heard that Higgins is very well to do. How he got his money I do not know; it might have been left to him by his relations, but he got a lot of property a long time ago at a sale.

1557. Have you ever noticed any of those men going in and out of these dens? No; I have noticed them standing close to them.

1558. President.] What was the value of the property that Higgins bought last;—what did he pay for it. I am not sure of the exact value of it, but I was told that it was worth something like £3,000.

1559. Did he pay for it in cash? That I do not know.

1560. Mr. McKillop.] The property is situated in Cumberland-street, is it not? Yes. It is wonderful how much money some people will hoard up. I have known a sailor in boats on the coast to save considerably over £2,000.

1561. Do you know Carson or Beadman? I know Beadman.

1562. Did you ever see him frequent these dens either in an official capacity or otherwise? No; I have not seen him going into the dens. During the last five or six years I have not seen much of this kind of thing, because I have lived in Balmain, and my office has been in Sussex-street.

1563. While you were in any of these places did you ever see a constable come in and look on at the game? As a matter of fact constables might have come in in plain clothes, and I should not have noticed them.

1564. I suppose the gambling-rooms are pretty well packed? Oh, yes; to overflowing. The excitement is intense. There is more excitement, I believe, when there is a lot of money on the board, and the croupier is picking out the counters, than there is over the Melbourne Cup.

1565. What are the sanitary conditions? Abominable.

1566. Are any of these places in cellars? The one I used to go to was one of the most respectable, and it was none too high.

1567. What was the name of that particular shop? It was a coral shop.

1568. Mr. Quong Tart.] Was it Kum Tiy's? Yes, that is the name.

1569. Mr. McKillop.] You said that the police were not content in getting a gold watch in three months? I did not say "a gold watch," I said "a watch."

1570. "But must have diamond rings on their fingers;—it was a well-known fact that they were paid to keep their eyes shut";—what did you mean by that? I have seen policemen with rings on their finger, and at one time they were not backward in showing them.

1571. But they have disappeared now? Yes.

1572. Mr. Abigail.] How long ago is it since you saw a ring on any of their fingers? About eighteen months ago I saw one on Beadman's finger. Indeed, I was having a drink with him in Montgomery's Hotel. The point that I wanted to bring out about the diamond rings was this: I do not for a moment mean to say that Chinamen have been in the habit of giving bribes direct in the shape of diamond rings, but I mean to say that with money that the police have obtained as bribes, they have bought diamond rings. It is a common saying that if a policeman has not got a watch in three months he is no good to the force—he is not worth having. That is a very common saying in Great Britain as well as here. So I said to the Premier, "They are not content with a watch in three months, but must have diamond rings as well."

1573. Mr. Hawthorne.] At all events, you mean that they receive bribes from Chinamen? And that the police in Lower George-street are much better off than elsewhere.

1574. Mr. McKillop.] You said that the Chinamen, on the night of the raid, were rushing about for crowbars? I was not there on the night of the raid, and simply stated that from hearsay.

1575. Have you ever seen any weapons in gambling dens? Oh, yes; a common thing is to have lime, so that if there is a fight they throw it in the eyes of their assailants and blind them.

1576. Have you heard of respectable females being insulted in passing to and fro in Lower George-street? Mrs. Kelly told me that she was insulted in coming down Lower George-street upon one occasion. Of course it is well known by everyone in the city, I suppose, that Lower George-street is spoken of as "China Town." There is such a nasty smell down there, too, that no respectable people ever attempt to pass lower down the street than Bridge-street; and people wanting to go to the Manly Beach boats invariably turn down Bridge or Hunter Street, and proceed along Pitt-street to the Circular Quay.

1577. I suppose you are acquainted with a good many business people whose places are situated between Bridge-street and the Argyle Cut? I know pretty many.

1578. Have they told you that for the past twelve months their business has been falling off considerably? I have been told that the business is falling off considerably down there, and that it has been doing so gradually. Indeed, Mr. Christensen, who has a fish and oyster saloon, and who is a very old-established tradesman, told me that the night the raid was made so many people were turned out of the gambling-houses on to the streets that his receipts were increased by £5. He knew nothing of the raid, and was quite surprised to find so many persons coming in who had, at one time, been in the habit of visiting his establishment for a plate of oysters or a bit of fish.

1579. Then it is perfectly clear that the falling off in the business of legitimate tradesmen is entirely due to the presence of the gambling-dens? There is not the slightest doubt about that. They could not help suffering, because they depended entirely upon the wage-earning classes.

1580. Mr. Hawthorne.] You said at the deputation that North George-street was looked upon by the police

T. M. Davis, Esq., M.P. police as one of the best beats for making money. On what authority did you make that statement? I know a policeman—it was Beadman—who was shifted from Balmain to Lower George-street, and in conversation with me one day he said that he would rather get back to Lower George-street.

11 Sept., 1891.

1581. Did he give you any reason for it? No; it was hardly likely that he would tell me he was receiving a lot of money from the Chinamen.

1582. Is there any possibility of finding out the names of the shopkeepers to whom the police went on the night of the raid for crowbars? I think Mr. Nock told me that the police went into some of the Chinamen's houses.

1583. I suppose that many of the statements made by you and other members of the deputation were made on the authority of members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Well, they made a lot of statements that were new to me. I did not know that the raid was going to be made until I saw it in the papers on the following morning, and it was then that I was told that the police had been into the Chinese shops for crowbars.

1584. President.] Am I to understand that all that information came from members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League—the information comprised in your speech to the Premier, I mean? No, not all. I knew to a certain extent from my own knowledge of the police and neighbourhood that members of the force were receiving bribes. Mr. Maguire told me about Dawson.

1585. Is Dawson in the force now? No, but he is in the city, I think.

1586. Then you said something about the pawn shops doing a good thing in lending money to persons who have lost their all in gambling? I can speak positively upon that point. I had my own watch in pawn for three months at the time I lost my £15, and scores of others have had a like experience.

1587. And the same thing prevails to-day? Yes, to a great extent.

1588. As late secretary to the Seamen's Union, you knew that? Yes. I can send you out of our body 150 men, I suppose, who could give you a long story of their losses at fan-tan. There are two brothers called Nolan, who work as hard as any other two seamen on the coast, but they work for the Chinese, and for the Chinese alone. They have hardly got a second shirt to their backs, or a decent suit of clothes to put on.

1589. Mr. McKillop.] Are they in ships now? Yes, running up and down the coast.

1590. It would be possible, through the present secretary of the Seamen's Union, to find them, I suppose? Oh, I can tell you of any number of similar cases.

1591. President.] That is not hearsay. It is the result of your personal experience as secretary to the Seamen's Union? Yes.

1592. The members spend a large amount of their money in these shops? Yes.

1593. Notwithstanding that your society framed a rule to keep them out of gaming-houses, and occasioned great destitution to their wives and families? Yes, I know of that from my own knowledge, and I have known even a president of the Seamen's Union to take tickets in the game of pak-ah-pu. That was long after the resolution was looked upon as a dead letter.

1594. Mr. Abigail.] Did the Society proceed against any of the men for this offence against its rules? We had four members up and fined them 10s., but we discovered that we should have to pay men 12s. a day to act as spies, so that the rule became inoperative.

1595. President.] In that way, I suppose, you would have exhausted your funds? Well, the fact of the matter was that we began to look upon gambling as one of those evils that cannot be got rid of. We have come to look upon it stoically.

1596. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is it not a fact that you have had some harrowing scenes between the men and their wives as a result of their gambling propensities? Oh, yes; I have had some harrowing scenes of the kind. I have known instances in which the wives have waited on the wharfs in order to get hold of their husbands' money the moment they received it, well knowing that if they did not it would all be left with the Chinamen. Some of them are regular slaves to fan-tan. I have known a man make a trip to San Francisco in the "Zealandia," receive £23 or £24 in wages, and in a few hours have nothing left.

1597. What would be the best way, to your mind, of coping with this evil? I have made inquiries, and if I can possibly get a Bill introduced—that is, if it is not against the Constitution Act—I should do so, making the landlord participator in the gambling for the purpose of criminal prosecution, because I am perfectly sure that the landlord must know what his premises are being used for. By the rent that a man charges you may be sure that he knows if his place is being used as a hotel, and the same applies to the ownership of these Chinese gambling-dens. No landlord could walk through Lower George-street, and seeing the 2d. or 3d. worth of merchandise that is exposed in the windows, imagine for a moment that he could extort £3 10s. or £4 a week in rent out of the business done. Mr. Christensen was offered £200 by a Chinaman to vacate his own shop, and hand it over to him, to be used as a Chinese gambling-house.

1598. Mr. McKillop.] It would be a good stand for that purpose, would it not? Yes, it would. Mr. Christensen told me that premiums like that were being paid by Chinamen to the landlords down there in order to get shops at all, and as the shopkeepers have to compete against them in rent it is with the greatest difficulty that they can manage to keep their business going on. Then too, the trade of the neighbourhood is greatly decreasing.

1599. So you think that on the whole the best remedy would be to make the landlords as well as the tenants legally responsible for any gambling that might be carried on? Yes, if the police had previously given him proper reasons for suspecting that his premises were being used for gambling purposes. At the present time under the Licensing Act the police merely put down "suspected of constant Sunday selling," although they may never have caught them at it, and at the last sitting of the Licensing Bench licenses were taken away on the ground of suspicion alone. If a similar rule was applied to the owners of gambling-dens who received a big share in the profits of fan-tan (because if you compare the rents paid by the Chinese gambling-house keepers in Lower George-street, with rents paid by persons for similar shops in equally good localities in other parts of the city, you will find that they are most excessive), I think you would be more likely to effect a reform than in any other way.

1600. President.] Have you made this matter a study? Yes, I have, and I find that the Chinese are paying far higher rents for their places in Lower George-street than are being paid by legitimate business men elsewhere. And to those rents you have to add the premiums paid to the landlords in order to induce them to grant leases to Chinamen.

1601. Mr. Abigail.] You heard of course all the statements made by the various members of the deputation to the Colonial Secretary? Yes.

1602. I suppose you read this report in the Daily Telegraph, headed, "Gold Watches and Diamond-ringed Constables"? Yes.

1603. Do you know of your own knowledge one single case which you can point to where a man in the force has received any present of any kind? No; it was never intended that anyone should think so. We give the police credit for knowing a little better how to act than to allow a third party to come in and see them receiving bribes.

1604. It was stated that the police were paid advances by some of the places so that the gamblers should not be convicted? That statement was made by Mr. Armstrong.

1605. You do not believe that the existing laws are sufficient to suppress the evil? I do not think so, because they are not carried out as strictly as it was intended that they should be. These offences are winked at. We have heard the opinion of the Attorney-General with regard to totalisators. It is one and the same thing. The police have at present power to go into any house in which they suspect that a number of persons are gambling, but they do not. They make raids, and that only at wide intervals of time.

1606. At all events, then, from your own personal observation, you believe that the police have, for some reason or other, neglected to enforce the law? Yes, for some reason or other, because if they had enforced the law they would have made more raids. As a matter of fact, there was an interval of two years between the last raid and the previous one.

1607. And gambling going on to the same extent, if not worse? Yes; and that raid only made after our deputation to the Premier—after enough pressure had been brought to bear.

1608. Have you any information about the moral aspect of these places? Well, we know that with gambling there is always prostitution and drinking.

1609. Have you seen any women about these places? Not in the shops, but they live at the back, and I have seen young English girls along with the proprietors of the gambling-houses.

1610. Do you know whether the Chinese keep private houses in Cambridge-street, in Little Harrington-street, and on the Rocks for these girls to live in? It is a very easy matter to go to people who will give you lists of dozens of girls kept by Chinamen.

1611. You have no doubt about the immoral effect of the presence of these gaming houses? None in the least.

1612. How about the sanitary conditions of these places;—are they clean and nice; do you get pleasant smells in them? Just the opposite. The smells are foul. I always avoid Lower George-street myself. When in my capacity as Secretary to the Seamen's Union I had to go round to a ship, I always took the same route that the general public do, viz., down Bridge-street and along Pitt-street to the Circular Quay.

1613. You do not like the smell of opium? No, and I do not like the smell of filthy dens.

1614. Have you ever heard of young girls being decoyed there for immoral purposes? Yes, I have heard of such things, and I have seen girls hanging about—some of them round the Suez Canal, where the very lowest dregs of society in Sydney are to be found.

1615. Mr. Quong Turt.] Can you name the total number of houses kept by Chinese where gambling is carried on? I cannot name them from my own knowledge, for the simple reason that I have not been in that business for ten or twelve years, and when I was I visited a couple of houses only.

1616. About how many gambling-houses should you think are there? Well, before the deputation to the Colonial Secretary, or indeed before the Anti-Chinese Gambling League itself was formed, I always put the number down at from twenty to twenty-five, but now I am told there are thirty-three from Bridge-street to the Circular Quay.

1617. Do you know any respectable Chinese merchants who are connected with gambling-houses? No; I believe such men as On Chong, Tin War, and On Yik Lee, to be thoroughly respectable people.

1618. How many Chinese reside in Lower George-street? I cannot say, but there are a great many persons living in every house leased or rented by Chinamen; as a matter of fact I do not think there are as many Chinamen living in Lower George-street as there were prior to the Act for the restriction of Chinese. I remember what a large number of Chinamen used to lodge down there when they arrived by the Chinese steamers, and also how many returning to China from the country districts used to await the despatch of the boats there.

1619. Have you known any members of the police force guarding any house whilst gambling was proceeding inside? Oh, yes; I have known policemen standing outside whilst gambling was going on inside.

1620. Can you give us the names of any of them? I am speaking of twelve years ago, and the personnel of the force has been changed in the meantime; but I have brushed clothes with policemen coming out of Sun Sam Kee's then.

1621. Between what hours was the gambling carried on? All day long, from the first thing in the morning. If they only get one person inside they will play. They will call him in if they see him standing outside, and say, "Yes, fan is on." I have been in a gambling-house in the middle of the day when there were only a couple of us present, and I have noticed that when they get you in alone, or with only one other person, they invariably win; in fact I was playing alone when I lost my £15.

1622. Did you ever hear that one of the biggest Chinese firms upon one occasion sent £60,000 to China? I heard that statement, but do not know anything about it, and do not see how anybody could know anything about it unless the Chinamen had personally boasted of the matter.

1623. You said something about the gambling-house keepers getting girls over to their places;—do you know the names of them? No; I do not.

1624. Have you been down there since the Commission was appointed? No; I have not.

1625. Have you heard of any complaints since the Commission was appointed? The Europeans down there have said that there was a little change for the better, but that of course is policy. They are purposely keeping quiet, in order not to arouse public indignation too strongly.

1626. President.] Have you made it a matter of study about those Lower George-street rentals? Yes.

1627. Then I would like you to state what comparisons you have made between the rents paid by Europeans and those paid by Chinamen in Lower George-street north of Druitt-street? Well, the comparison amounts to this: that a place for which a European would consider he was paying enough if he gave £2 10s. or £3 a week rental, would bring perhaps £4 or £4 10s. in the hands of a Chinaman. Whilst on this point, too, I may tell you that Mr. Maguire, who will be a very important witness, told me

T. M. Davis,
Esq., M.P.
11 Sept., 1891.

- T. M. Davis, me that his landlord said that he was offered £4 a week in half-a-dozen places, as the Chinamen wanted to get hold of this house.
Esq., M.P.
- 11 Sept., 1891.
1628. So that practically you think the difference between the amounts paid by Chinese and European is about £1 a week on a £3 house? Yes, with the probable addition of a bonus.
1629. Do you know any instances in which "higher" rent has been paid by a Chinese tenant, and a bonus given as well? I did hear of one.
1630. But I want you state any facts within your own knowledge? I cannot speak of any having come within my own knowledge.
1631. Well, where do you get your information from? Mr. Maguire will be able to put you on various cases.
1632. What localities in other parts of the city do you consider as corresponding with Lower George-street? A corresponding locality, to my mind, would be a locality with about equal traffic.
1633. I want you to name a locality comparable to that particular part of Lower George-street? I should imagine that somewhere about Goulburn-street would correspond with it.
1634. Yes; but I mean a locality not inhabited by Chinese? It would be a very difficult thing to do; there are so many points one has to take into consideration.
1635. I know it is; but I fancied that as you had given the matter some thought you might be able to give us a comparison? I was thinking that one of the principal streets in Newtown would be comparable.
1636. You ought to be very careful there, because there are sections of the Newtown Road that are very valuable, and sections that are not; I think, perhaps, you had better say that you cannot think of a corresponding locality? Exactly. I do not know that there is a corresponding locality.
1637. Then, as a matter of fact, you have not thought out the particular question? No; I admit that I have not.
1638. If you had answered the question, I should have asked you what rents were paid in the corresponding locality. Did Mr. Christensen refuse to accept the £200 offered to him to vacate his premises? Yes.
1639. Can you tell me who made the offer? He did not give me the person's name.
1640. Can you tell me what rent he pays? Either £4 or £5—I think £4 a week.
1641. About how many feet of ground does it stand upon? There are two windows—not very large ones.
1642. But you cannot carry in your mind the probable frontage? I should imagine that it must be about 14 feet or 15 feet.
1643. That is rather a narrow frontage for two windows? Yes, but they are small windows. There may be about 16 feet of frontage.
1644. Has he seats on each side of the shop? Yes, and a pathway up the centre.
1645. How many storeys are there? Two storeys. He lives upstairs.
1646. Can you tell me really what rent he pays, or are you speaking from hearsay? He told me himself, but I admit that I have forgotten the exact figures.
1647. The rent that he paid was not one of the factors that enabled you to come to a conclusion when you made a comparison on the rental question? No.
1648. Do you know any of the owners of these properties? No, I do not know them; but I have heard of their names. Mr. Josephson is one.
1649. How many shops conducted by gamblers does he own? I do not know.
1650. Then we have heard of the Hon. Wm. Alex. Long in connection with the ownership of these places;—can you tell me how many places he owns? No, I cannot. Then Mr. Beale and also Mr. Himmeloch own others.
1651. Which Mr. Josephson is it? Isaac.
1652. Would you consider that Mr. Himmeloch is a man holding a high position, and one whom the police have any cause to fear? No; I do not know that I should.
1653. It has been said that the police were afraid to do their duty, because these shops are owned by persons of high position in the country? Yes.
1654. Did you hear that statement? Yes.
1655. But you did not make it yourself? I do not think I did.
1656. Do you know any of the other landlords? No, I do not.
1657. We have four of them;—who is Mr. Christensen's landlord? I do not know.
1658. The number of gaming-houses is about thirty-three? I have been informed, on what I believe to be good authority, that that is about the number. Previously, I had thought that there were about twenty-five.
1659. If you think there are only thirty-three gambling-shops in Lower George-street, do you not think that idea of yours for checking the thing involves rather a drastic scheme of legislation? Well, thirty-three gaming houses are not like thirty-three other houses.
1660. Do you not think yourself, that to bring in a Bill such as you spoke of would be rather a drastic course to adopt, because it is a Bill that would have a general effect all over the Colony? It would certainly have a general effect.
1661. Perhaps that is a matter that you would like to think over? I have looked at it in this way —
1662. Well, you have thought over the matter and come to this conclusion? Yes; I have considered that as a landlord has property he has certain obligations, and such a measure as I propose would make landlords take a little more interest in their tenants than I am sorry to say they do now. We have numbers of landlords who do not reside at all in Sydney, who live in England and who do not care how the money comes so long as they get their annual incomes.
1663. I want you to restrict your remarks to landlords who are interested in gambling-houses? I am talking in a general way.
1664. But pardon me, I want you to confine yourself to this question: Seeing that there are only thirty-three gaming-houses in Lower George-street, and that gaming is illegal, do you not think that the present law is sufficient if the police only put it in operation? I do think that the present law, if it was put into force and kept in force, would be sufficient.
1665. If the law was put into force could not we suppress the whole of these houses? Oh! if there was a thorough determination on the part of the police to get rid of Chinese gambling it could be done.
1666. And the fact that they have not done so is your reason for believing that bribery exists? Yes;

I know that if forty or fifty Europeans were in business carrying on a trade of that kind and didn't give the police something they would very soon be shut up. We give the police credit for being abler men than to walk up and down a street without knowing what is going on inside the shops.

T. M. Davis,
Esq., M.P.

11 Sept., 1891.

1667. You have taken a great deal of interest in connection with Chinese gambling? Yes, in connection with my office of Secretary to the Seamen's Union I have often spoken on the subject. I did so many years ago, and then wondered why the police were so apathetic.

1668. And the peculiarities of the societies you have been connected with is this—that its members resort to these Chinese dens rather than to totalisators or any other form of gambling. You also say that the coal lumpers go in for it pretty strong? Yes; if a man has a few glasses in him he is sure to be drawn in.

1669. Do you know anything about Goulburn-street? No; all the men of our society use Lower George-street, and the evil has been forced upon my attention by the large number of cases of distress that have arisen out of it.

1670. Mr. Maguire is your authority for stating that Way Kee told him about giving £20 to Constable Dawson? Yes.

1671. Mr. Quong Tart.] I suppose you would also like to see opium-smoking put down? Yes, I should, and if I could be of any assistance I would.

1672. And the two are generally found together? Yes.

MONDAY, 14 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Ah Wah called and examined:—

1673. President.] How long have you been in Sydney? Ten years.

1674. Where do you live? Down Lower George-street.

1675. Have you lived in Lower George-street all the time you have been in Sydney? Yes, sir.

1676. What business do you follow? A Chinese merchant's.

1677. In whose employ are you? My grandfather's.

1678. What is his name? Way Kee.

1679. What business does Way Kee carry on? Selling Chinese goods.

1680. He is a Chinese merchant? Yes.

1681. Have you ever seen any gambling going on in his premises? No.

1682. There are no fan-tan tables there? No.

1683. Does Mr. Way Kee do a large business? Pretty fair.

1684. Do you keep his books? Yes.

1685. Can you tell me how much money Way Kee sent home to China this year? Yes—this year?

1686. Yes; in round figures, how much has he sent to Hong Kong, or anywhere else in China? About £7,000 or £8,000.

1687. How did he send it;—in gold? Yes, in boxes.

1688. He sent that amount home this year? Yes.

1689. To whom did he send that? To Quong Fung, a Chinese merchant.

1690. What did he send it for? To buy goods.

1691. Did he send any money to any one else? Yes; to Che Wo another Chinese merchant in Hong Kong.

1692. How much did he send to him? He sent to him about half the amount I have mentioned.

1693. Then the whole of the money you have stated was divided between the two merchants? Yes.

1694. Has he remitted any money by bank draft? Not much.

1695. You always ship the money in gold? Yes.

1696. Did Way Kee send any money to any one else in China? No.

1697. Did he remit any to London? No.

1698. Does he remit to any other place except the place you mention? No, only to Hong Kong.

1699. Does Way Kee bring his countrymen out here? No.

1700. Five years ago did he? No.

1701. Has he any of his countrymen in his employment outside the store in Lower George-street? He has a few—some in the country.

1702. He carries on the business of a storekeeper? Yes.

1703. And nothing else? No.

1704. Has he any market-gardeners employed? He has none now. He had about three or four years ago—at North Shore.

1705. How many country stores is your grandfather interested in? Four.

1706. Where are they? There is one at Bourke, one at Bega, one at Stanthorpe, and one at Hillston.

1707. Has he any branch stores in Sydney? No.

1708. Is he not interested in any in Goulburn-street? No.

1709. Does he sell any goods to the storekeepers in Goulburn-street? Yes.

1710. Are they much indebted to him? Not very much—very little.

1711. What does he sell to them? All Chinese goods.

1712. How many people live in your premises in George-street? Seven.

1713. Only seven? Yes.

1714. How many rooms are there in the house? Six rooms.

1715. What rent does Way Kee pay for the house? £3 10s a week.

1716. Who is the landlord? Mr. Cornwell is the ground landlord.

Ah Wah.

14 Sept., 1891.

- Ah Wah. 1717. Has Way Kee got a long lease of that house? It is a fifteen years' ground lease.
 14 Sept., 1891. 1718. How many years to run? About nine years now. He took it about six years ago.
 1719. Who pays the taxes? Way Kee.
 1720. Do you keep all Way Kee's books? There are two other clerks beside myself.
 1721. But you know all about the books I suppose? I would know all of the accounts in connection with the English business. The other clerk attends to the Chinese business.
 1722. You know all about the English business, that is to say, all the business done in Sydney, and all the sources whence money comes in Sydney? Yes.
 1723. Way Kee is treasurer, or keeps the money, for some Chinese society, does he not? There is some money put there sometimes by the gardeners.
 1724. He gets money from the market-gardeners? Yes; or those who have connection with the gardeners—those who hawk the stuff about—to take care of for them.
 1725. Does he ever get any other money besides the money he gets from the market-gardeners? No.
 1726. Do you think Way Kee himself would get any money that you do not know of? No. It would all be put down in the book, whatever came in.
 1727. You say you have been here ten years? Yes.
 1728. Do you belong to any Chinese society yourself—any charitable or benefit society? I am in the Koon Yee Tong.
 1729. How much do you pay to join it? £1.
 1730. How long is that for? For all time.
 1731. What is the object of that society? To take up dead men's bones.
 1732. Who keeps the money of that society? My grandfather, Way Kee.
 1733. How much money has Way Kee got belonging to the Koon Yee Tong? I would have to see the books before I could tell you that—to see how it is distributed over the books.
 1734. Is that money in Way Kee's banking account, or is it in a separate bank? It is locked up in the safe. The Koon Yee Tong has nearly £2,000 to its credit in the bank.
 1735. Is that society similar to the Loon Yee Tong? I only know about the Koon Yee Tong. I know nothing about the other.
 1736. Who keeps the money for the Loon Yee Tong? That I do not know. I only have an interest in the Koon Yee Tong.
 1737. What other Chinese societies are there in Sydney? That is all I know.
 1738. You know nothing about the Loon Yee Tong? No.
 1739. Do you know that the Loon Yee Tong gets a commission from the Chinese gambling-houses? I do not know it myself. I have heard people say so.
 1740. Do you not know that the Loon Yee Tong will pay the fines of Chinamen who may be prosecuted for gambling? I do not know it myself. I sometimes see in the paper that a Chinaman has been fined, but I do not know where the money comes from to pay the fine.
 1741. Do you know Inspector Atwill? No; I do not know him.
 1742. Do you mean to tell me you have been in lower George-street for ten years, and do not know Inspector Atwill? All the same, I do not know him.
 1743. Would you know him if you saw him passing in the street? I only know that there are inspectors down there, but I would not know him by name.
 1744. Do you know Constable Dawson? Yes.
 1745. Does Constable Dawson go into Way Kee's very often? He used to, about three or four years ago.
 1746. Has he been there lately? No.
 1747. Where is Dawson now? I do not know. I have not seen him lately.
 1748. Was he a great friend of Way Kee's? Not a very great friend.
 1749. Did Constable Dawson ever buy any goods from Way Kee? No.
 1750. Did Way Kee ever pay Constable Dawson any money at any time? He paid him rent. He rented a garden from Constable Dawson about—that was five years ago. The lease was up some time ago.
 1751. Where was that? At Lane Cove.
 1752. How many acres were there? I do not know.
 1753. How much rent did he pay? About £3 a week.
 1754. How long is it since Way Kee took that garden? About five or six years, I think.
 1755. Way Kee had to cultivate and fence it in, had he not? Yes.
 1756. How much had Way Kee to spend on the land before it grew anything? I do not know.
 1757. Would your books tell you that? Yes, if I saw the books I would be able to tell.
 1758. You say he paid £3 a week rent for the garden? Yes; about that.
 1759. Do you know how many acres there were? No; I must see the books to tell you that.
 1760. Have you never been to the garden? No.
 1761. Do you know Constable Beadman, at all? No.
 1762. Do you know Constable Quealy? No.
 1763. Are you quite sure? Yes. I know one constable, named Hughey Adair.
 1764. Quealy was the constable who was sent away for being drunk—he is not a constable now. Are you sure you do not know him? Yes; I do not know him.
 1765. Do you know Constable Carson? No.
 1766. Then you do not know any of the police at all;—is that your general answer? I only know Hughey and Mr. Higgins.
 1767. Is Hughey Constable Adair? Yes.
 1768. Does Constable Adair go into Way Kee's place much;—do you see him often there? Yes.
 1769. That is every day or every second day, I suppose? Yes; perhaps he might come in a couple of days in the week.
 1770. What business has he there? He comes in to see if the boys have been there to sell old lead.
 1771. Did Way Kee ever buy anything from Constable Adair? No.
 1772. Did he ever give Constable Adair any money? No.
 1773. Did he ever give him any tea or sugar, or presents of any kind? No.
 1774. You say you know Sergeant Higgins? Yes.
 1775. Does he go into Way Kee's place much? Yes.
 1776. What does he go there for? Just the same as Constable Adair.

Ah Wah.
14 Sept., 1891.

1777. Did Sergeant Higgins ever buy anything from Way Kee? No.
1778. Did you ever supply him with any groceries? No. We did not sell much groceries there.
1779. What does Way Kee sell mostly? Nearly all China goods.
1780. Does Way Kee ever send anything to the police at Christmas time? No, not at Christmas time.
1781. At Easter? No.
1782. Are you quite sure? Yes, quite sure.
1783. Did he ever give them anything at any time? No.
1784. Not at the Chinese new year? They might at new year's time come in for a drink.
1785. That is when you invite people in? Yes.
1786. Have you ever heard any conversation between Sergeant Higgins and Way Kee about the gambling in Lower George-street? No; but he has come in to tell me about it, and I have said I know nothing about it.
1787. What was the good of his telling you—you had nothing to do with it? Well, Way Kee does not understand.
1788. You represent Way Kee? Yes.
1789. What conversation did you have with Sergeant Higgins when he came in? He came to me and said, "I believe they will not allow you to gamble now, is that the case?"
1790. When was this? About two or three weeks ago.
1791. Did he not tell you that you were not to tell the Commission about the presents he had got? No.
1792. Did any policeman come in and tell Way Kee that he must not say anything? No.
1793. You are quite sure of that? Yes.
1794. You say that you do not know Inspector Atwill? Yes; I do not know him.
1795. Will you swear that? Yes.
1796. You know that there is an inspector there, but you do not know him? No.
1797. Did any inspector of police come in and see Way Kee during the last month? No.
1798. Did any constable come in to see Way Kee during the last month? There was a constable who came in with Sergeant Higgins to inquire about the nature of the business, the number of employees, and the number of rooms. Those were the only policemen I have seen.
1799. Did you not tell me just now that Higgins had been in to see you by himself? These two policemen came together—Higgins and Adair.
1800. Did you not tell me just now that no police had been to see you during the last month? I said that no inspector had come during the last month.
1801. Do you know an inspector from an ordinary policeman? Yes; I know, because the clothing is not the same.
1802. Yet you are quite sure that you do not know Inspector Atwill? Yes.
1803. What Inspector of Police do you know? I do not know any.
1804. Will Way Kee's books show how much money he has received for this society you have mentioned? Yes; the books will show how much has been received, and how much paid out, and also how much is deposited in the bank.
1805. Will the books show how much money has been paid over, and to whom it has been paid? Yes; that is, the money of the Koon Yee Tong. Way Kee is not connected with the Loon Yee Tong; that was put with another man who has since gone insolvent.
1806. Where is that firm now—are they in Sydney? They are away, I believe.
1807. Where is the Loon Yee Tong money now? I do not know.
1808. Are you quite sure that Way Kee is not connected with the Loon Yee Tong as treasurer? Yes.
1809. When did this man you have mentioned go insolvent? About two years ago.
1810. When was it that Way Kee was treasurer of the Loon Yee Tong—he was treasurer at one time I understand? No, he never was.
1811. Was he not an officer of the society, president, or something of that kind? No.
1812. Was he not a member of it? No, never.
1813. Did you not say that the Chinese gambling-houses paid money to Way Kee for the Loon Yee Tong? No.
1814. Do you not know that they do? No.
1815. Did you not tell me five minutes ago that there was money paid in by these gaming-houses? Excuse me, I never said so.
1816. Of this money that is subscribed to send dead bones home to China, is none of that paid away to meet Police Court fines when Chinamen are prosecuted? No.
1817. You know constable Dawson? Yes.
1818. Does he come to Way Kee's place much? No, not much now.
1819. Now, I want you to answer this question. You know how much money Way Kee pays away in Sydney—English money? Yes.
1820. What did Way Kee pay constable Dawson £20 for? How long was it ago?
1821. I think the first £20 was three years ago? I do not know, I must see the books.
1822. What did he pay the last £20 for? I could not say without I saw the books.
1823. Then you do remember that he did pay him some money? It might be for rent.
1824. Rent for what? For the garden.
1825. Had he a lease of that garden? Yes, there was a lease, I think.
1826. Was that the garden at Lane Cove? Yes.
1827. That is the garden you have told me about before—what was the lease of that garden? Five or six years I think.
1828. And has it expired? Yes, a long time.
1829. Do you do much business with the Chinese in Goulburn-street—sell much opium? Not very much; we sell them Chinese fancy goods, rice, and so on.
1830. You sell to the Chinese who are living privately? Yes.
1831. Do you know how many gambling-houses there are in Lower George-street? To my knowledge fourteen or fifteen.
1832. Is Way Kee a partner in any of those houses? No, he would not have anything to do with them.
1833. Does Way Kee lend money to any of the Chinese down in Lower George-street? Sometimes when they want money they come to him.

- Ah Wali. 1834. Do you lend money to some stores in Lower George-street? Yes, sometimes.
 1835. What stores? We Sang Loong.
 14Sept., 1891. 1836. Does he do any gambling? No.
 1837. Are there any others you lend money to? Yes, On Yik Lee.
 1838. What business does he carry on? Chinese goods.
 1839. Does he gamble? No, sir.
 1840. Do you know Doong Lee? Yes.
 1841. Way Kee lends him money, does he not? No.
 1842. Does Way Kee see much of him? He does not go there very much.
 1843. What business does he carry on? A gambling-house.
 1844. Do you know Ham Kee? Yes.
 1845. Does Way Kee know him very well? Way is his landlord.
 1846. I understand Way Kee is a leaseholder—not the owner of the property? No, he has a lease.
 1847. What rent does Ham Kee pay? £3 10s.
 1848. And Doong Lee? £4.
 1849. Do they pay nothing more? No.
 1850. Do you mean to tell me that they pay nothing more than that rental;—you must be very careful about this; I want to know whether Doong Lee and Ham Kee do not pay more rent than that in any other way;—do they not pay a bonus sometimes? No.
 1851. Does Way Kee know that they carry on gambling there? He knows that gambling is carried on.
 1852. Will the books show Way Kee's transactions with these people? They pay ready cash. There is one cookshop underneath Doong Lee's; they run an account.
 1853. Do they owe Way Kee much? About £50 or £60.
 1854. Do you know a man named Pan Num? I know the name.
 1855. Do you do any business with him? No, sir.
 1856. Do you know Ah Toy? Yes.
 1857. Do you do any business with him? No; we never do any business with him.
 1858. He is a cabinet-maker? Yes.
 1859. Do you know Tiy Wor Tong, Tong Tiy, Goon Sing, and Sing Lee? Yes.
 1860. Do they do any business with Way Kee? No.
 1861. They carry on a gambling and lottery business? Yes.
 1862. Do they carry on much opium smoking there? A good bit, I suppose.
 1863. Do you smoke opium yourself? No.
 1864. What is your age? Twenty-two.
 1865. Do you know any places where the Chinese keep women—European girls? Yes; there are one or two I know.
 1866. Do you keep any yourself? No; a Chinese lady.
 1867. Are you married? Yes.
 1868. Where does your wife live? Upstairs, in Way Kee's house.
 1869. Does Way Kee buy much jewellery—watches and chains, and diamond rings? Not diamond rings. Sometimes he has silver watches and silver chains.
 1870. Any gold watches? No, not gold watches much.
 1871. What price are the silver watches? Different prices—from £3 10s. to £5.
 1872. You have charge of that department, I suppose? Yes.
 1873. And have you not got any diamond rings there? No.
 1874. Any rings at all? No.
 1875. What did Way Kee give Sergeant Higgins that silver watch for? He never gave him any watch.
 1876. Was it Constable Adair? No.
 1877. What constable was it then? He never gave a watch to a constable at all.
 1878. Mr. Abigail. From whom does Way Kee lease these three shops—164, 166, and 168? From Mr. Western.
 1879. Where does he live? Outside the city somewhere.
 1880. What rent does Way Kee pay for the three shops? £14 a month for the three. That is ground rent. Way got the land on a lease at £14 a month, and built those three places on it.
 1881. Have you seen a notice up on white paper, that gambling is carried on in these places? Yes.
 1882. At how many of the places is that notice up? There is one stuck up at every place.
 1883. Have you noticed people going into those places pretty frequently? Yes.
 1884. Europeans? Yes, I have seen Europeans going in to buy the lottery tickets, and also Chinese going in and out.
 1885. Is fan-tan played there? I do not know.
 1886. Have you ever visited these places to play? No.
 1887. Have you ever heard of your countrymen losing large sums of money in these places? I have heard of both winning and losing.
 1888. Have you ever heard of any Chinamen committing suicide as the result of his losses? I have never heard of it.
 1889. I suppose anybody would know that gambling was going on in these places by walking up and down the streets, and seeing them from the outside? I would know myself, but I do not know whether others would.
 1890. Do you know anything as the extent of the gambling carried on there—the amount of money spent in it? I do not.
 1891. Have you seen the policemen walking up and down outside these places while the gambling has been going on inside? I have seen different policemen, at all times, up and down the street there.
 1892. While the people were gambling inside? Yes.
 1893. How many real business places kept by Chinese who do not carry on gambling are there in Lower George-street? About ten.
 1894. Do you know that the total number of Chinese places down there is about thirty, or over? I think there are about twenty-five to twenty-six altogether.
 1895. And that more than half of them obtain their living, whatever it may be, from gambling? I cannot say exactly. 1896.

1896. Are more than half of them living respectably? I would not doubt their respectability.
1897. Well, so far as their appearance is concerned? Oh yes, as regards their outward appearance, their clothes, and gold watches and chains, they look alright; but I would not know anything about their pockets.
1898. Do you know whether any of these Chinamen keep women in their premises, at the back? I have heard such is the case, but I cannot tell you which are the houses that have the women.
1899. Would you, as a Chinaman, desire to see gambling and opium smoking done away with? I would rather see them work and be honest.
1900. You are opposed yourself to Chinese gambling and opium smoking? So far as I am concerned, if there was any agitation to put it down, in my own mind, I would like to see it done; but I have to ask my grandfather before giving an opinion.
1901. You do not hold yourself as a free agent to express an opinion upon it at the present time? No; I have to ask my grandfather. I am not free.
1902. But, as regards your own feelings in the matter, you are opposed to it? Yes; I would promise positively that if I were free myself I would help to put it down.
1903. Have you to consult your grandfather on matters of that kind before expressing an opinion during your grandfather's life? Yes; I have to consult him on every particular matter. If the old man was not here I would do it at once.
1904. Do you believe gambling and opium smoking demoralises your countrymen and other people who indulge in them? That is true. Those Chinese who cannot make money honestly, and go home to China, are no good.
1905. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say there are about ten respectable Chinese merchants down Lower George-street? Yes.
1906. I suppose they would be favourable to the removal of these gambling shops? Yes.
1907. As regards any action on your part in that direction, I suppose you would first have to consult your grandfather? Yes.
1908. He has the power? Yes.
1909. Do you ever see any bad women or girls going into these gambling-houses? Yes; some of them.
1910. Do you know whether the Chinese entice them there and corrupt them, or are they bad before they go there? I would not know that.
1911. Are they mostly women, or merely girls? Young women of 14 or 15, or 22 and 23 years of age.
1912. Do you know whether opium smoking is carried on in these gambling-shops? Yes.
1913. Do you remember a row that occurred in regard to gambling in Lower George-street some years ago? Yes.
1914. They nearly killed a man there? Yes.
1915. What was the cause of it? It was about gambling, I suppose.
1916. The man informed on the gamblers, and the latter bailed him up? Yes; it was On Chuck, an informer.
1917. And he was struck with an iron bar? Yes.
1918. Do you know whether the Loon Yee Tong was in existence at the time? Yes; it was in existence about four years ago.
1919. I suppose the respectable Chinese merchants would be glad to have a meeting themselves to put down this gambling? I would not know their minds.
1920. People complain about the bad smells that come from some of the places down Lower George-street; can you tell us the worst of these places? It is amongst the gambling places.
1921. President.] Have you ever attended any meetings of any of the societies established by the Chinese in Sydney? Any meetings for good purposes, my grandfather would be there; I would not. But any meetings in connection with gambling, neither of us would attend.
1922. Have you ever attended any yourself? No.
1923. Do you know of any society connected with gambling that is regularly attended? The only society that I know, and that would have nothing to do with gambling is the Koon Yee Tong.
1924. Are not some of the principal Chinese residents interested, as treasurer, or in some other capacity, in these societies? I only know of the Koon Yee Tong. The Loon Yee Tong, I think, is broken up or dissolved.
1925. For what reason was it dissolved? Perhaps because it had no funds.
1926. For no other reason? Not that I know.
1927. Have you never heard of persons being elected at meetings of Chinese merchants as officers of one or other of these societies? I only know of officers in connection with the Koon Yee Tong.
1928. Has your grandfather, as treasurer of the society, ever paid out of the funds, the fines of any Chinamen who have been prosecuted by the police? It is this way: there might be some friend of a gaming house who would get into trouble, and my grandfather might have some funds in hand of theirs, and he would let them come and pay it themselves. My grandfather is no friend of gambling.
1929. Where would your grandfather get that money—would it be his own money? No; the gaming-house people's friends would leave money with him to keep for them, and if they got into trouble they would come to him, and he would pay out their money, and let them pay the fine themselves.
1930. Does your grandfather charge them anything for keeping the money? No.
1931. How many friends come to deposit money with him in that way? Sometimes more, and sometimes less—I cannot say.
1932. Are those friends not members of the Society, Loon Yee Tong? All my knowledge is confined to the Koon Yee Tong, others do not belong to that.
1933. Does your grandfather pay no interest for the money he holds? No.
1934. Was your grandfather elected by any society to hold this money? It would be this way: On account of seeing that my grandfather was in such a large way of business, and was trusted, these men would take their money to him to keep for them.
1935. He would be elected by a number of other men to hold the money? No; each one would come individually by himself, and leave the money there.
1936. Are any of the proprietors of these gaming-houses among those who deposit with your grandfather? No; those who deposit with him are principally in the gardening or hawking line.

Ah Wah.

14 Sept., 1891.

- Ah Wah. 1937. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know anything about the Chinese in Goulburn-street? Yes.
 1938. Do you know of any gambling-dens down there? No gambling—only a few stores.
 14 Sept., 1891. 1939. Do you know of your own personal knowledge that no gambling is carried on there? No; but I do not think so.
 1940. Have you ever seen little boys and girls going to these gambling-dens in Lower George-street? No; I have seen young girls going in and out of these places.
 1941. Girls of tender age? Some of tender age, and some old, going in to get something to eat; these places have sometimes cook-shops connected with them.
 1942. Did your grandfather pay any fines for the Chinese in connection with the last raid that was made by the police? No.
 1943. Do you remember the raid made by the police previous to the last one? Yes; it was Hoong Lee that was caught on that occasion.
 1944. How long ago was it? Between two and three years. That is next to our place.
 1945. Can you remember the number of times your grandfather has paid the fines of Chinamen—just an idea? I cannot remember him paying the fines, but know he bailed them out on several occasions.
 1946. Stood responsible for them? Yes. If my grandfather did not go and bail them out, being a leading man, it would not look well.
 1947. Do you remember the night the Royal Commissioners went down to inspect some of those places in Lower George-street? I heard of it.
 1948. Is it not a fact that a constable went to Way Kee, and told him, or some other Chinamen, that the raid was to be made? No; it would be no use to tell him. What would they tell him for?
 1949. Have you heard that other Chinamen were told? Some of the gamblers came over to grandfather's shop, and said they had been informed by some of the police that the Commissioners were going round that night.
 1950. Have you any idea who the policemen were? No.
 1951. Do you know the names of the Chinamen who said this? Cheang Yee.
 1952. Any more? Sin Yow. Those two told.
 1953. Do they reside in Lower George-street? Yes.
 1954. What did they say to you? They said, "Some high gentlemen will be round to-night inspecting."
 1955. Was that the night we went down there? It was on Saturday afternoon, I was told.
 1956. Did you have a talk with your grandfather this morning before you came away? No.
 1957. Not as to what you were to say? No. He only showed me the letter, requesting him to attend the Town Hall. And he said to me, "Go and attend the meeting at the Town Hall, and answer whatever way you think is right and just; say just what you know."
 1958. Do you ever play fan-tan in these places? No.
 1959. Have you ever been in to have a look? No. I might go into the cock-shop to have something to eat.
 1960. Do these men who keep the gambling-houses ever go into your shop as friends? No.
 1961. Not into the private part of the house to have a talk? No.
 1962. You have nothing to do with them at all? No.
 1963. Are they the lowest class of Chinamen who keep these gambling-houses—of the larrikin character? Yes.
 1964. If you met them in George-street would you walk with them? No.
 1965. You never go out with those Chinamen who keep the gambling-houses? No.
 1966. You look upon them as a low class of men? Yes.
 1967. I suppose the keepers of the gambling-houses have the low class of women, do they not? Yes.
 1968. Have many of your countrymen got wives of their own nationality out here? There are only about fourteen or fifteen Chinese women out here.
 1969. Are they all living with their husbands? Yes.
 1970. What age were you when you got married? Twenty-one.
 1971. Have you only just come back from China? I came back last year.
 1972. You went home to China and got married there? Yes.
 1973. And brought your wife back with you? Yes.
 1974. How long were you away? About five months.
 1975. What did you go home for specially? To get married.
 1976. Did you take any gold home with you? No.
 1977. No money? No.
 1978. No bank draft? No.
 1979. Are you a member of the firm—a partner of Way Kee? No; I have a little interest.
 1980. You are a partner? My grandfather has given me a little interest.
 1981. So you are really a partner? Yes.

[The witness withdrew.]

Way Kee called and examined through the Interpreter:—

- Way Kee. 1982. President.] Where do you reside? In Lower George-street.
 14 Sept., 1891. 1983. How long have you been living in Lower George-street? For over twenty years.
 1984. Who was your landlord? I forget; my grandson would know.
 1985. What lease have you of your premises? I have it on a fifteen years' lease.
 1986. Was it a building lease? It was this way: The old stores which stood on the ground were pulled down, and I rented the land for fifteen years, and built the new premises myself.
 1987. How much ground rent do you pay? £14 a month.
 1988. What does the ground measure—the frontage? 61 feet 5 inches.
 1989. How many shops are built on it? Three.
 1990. You occupy one? Yes.
 1991. What rent do you get for each of the others per week? £3 10s. per week.
 1992. How much money did you spend on the building? Over £2,000, and with everything complete it would be over £3,000.
 1993. The shop you live in is about the same size as those you let, is it not? Yes; each of them has the same frontage.
 1994.

1994. Considering the improvements you have made on the property, have you considered what you are to get out of the investment? I only know this, that they cost so much, and that they let at a certain rental.

Way Kee.
14 Sept., 1891.

1995. These premises are let to people who carry on gambling-houses—you admit that? Cook-shops and gambling-houses.

1996. Do you know that gambling is contrary to the law? When they came to me first they wanted them for fruit-shops, cook-shops, and lodging houses.

1997. I do not want to incriminate you, I want to know if you understand that gambling-houses are a violation of the law? I did not know when I let them; I did not know what they were to be used for.

1998. Answer the question. Do you not know that gambling-houses are illegal? Yes.

1999. Do you know that gambling is carried on continually in Lower George-street, in other places as well? I know that those places down there with the doors open are gambling-houses.

2000. In your opinion, do the police know it also? I do not know that.

2001. Would not anyone know it—anyone living there, and walking past these places every day? Yes; anybody would know it. I have been there many years, but have never been inside one of these places.

2002. Do you do any business with your tenants? The cook-shop patronises me.

2003. Do you do business with any other of the gambling-houses down there? No; only the cook-shop. No other gambling-house buys from me.

2004. Do you rent any market-gardens? No; not now.

2005. Did you ever rent a market-garden from a policeman? Yes; some time ago I did.

2006. What is the policeman's name? Dawson.

2007. Where is the garden? I have never been on it myself.

2008. Do you know how many acres it contains? No.

2009. Do you know where the garden is? I have never been there. I do not know where it is.

2010. Is it in Europe, Asia, Africa, or America. Do you really mean to say you cannot tell in what direction it is? It is in the North Shore direction.

2011. What rent do you pay? £30 a year.

2012. How much did it cost you before the garden became productive? I do not know anything about it myself. All I know is that I paid £30 a year, and that when the railway was made it went through the land, and they gave me back about £40.

2013. How many men did you have working in the garden? Four.

2014. Do you usually buy market-gardens without having seen them? No; but I never looked at that.

2015. Why did you lease that market-garden from Constable Dawson without having seen it? Some of the men in my employ would go and look at it.

2016. Did you ever lease a market garden before? No; only that one.

2017. Did Dawson press him to take it? It was this way: The other partners in the concern wanted my name to be in the lease, and the lease was accordingly made out in my name.

2018. Answer straight out. Did Constable Dawson come to you about that garden? Yes.

2019. What did he say to you? He came to me, and said, "It is settled now, and I want to make out the lease."

2020. Why did Dawson require him to be a party to the lease when he had no interest in it? The way I got my share was that I provided provisions to the other three.

2021. Did not Constable Dawson come to you first about the lease? Yes; he did come and see me first.

2022. Was this rental of £30 a year all the rental Dawson got, or was there any other rental? It was £30 a year altogether.

2023. The lease is up now? Yes; a long time ago.

2024. Have you any transactions with Dawson now? No.

2025. Do you know Mr. Maguire, a photographer? No.

2026. He lives near you; you must know him? I do not know him. I have been to have my photograph taken, but I do not know the man's name.

2027. Did you not tell Maguire, the photographer, that you owed Dawson some money? No, I never spoke to the man at all.

2028. Did you not tell Maguire, the photographer, that you gave constable £20 as a present? No.

2029. Was it Sergeant Higgins you gave the £20 to? No.

2030. Well, tell me the name of the constable you gave £20 to? I never presented £20 to any policeman.

2031. Did you present a watch and chain—a gold or silver watch, to any policeman? No, why should I. Why should I give to people I do not know, or have no interest in?

2032. Have you ever heard of the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-houses paying policemen money for winking or conniving at the evil? I never heard of it.

2033. When was the last meeting of Chinese held in your store? I do not know; it has nothing to do with me.

2034. Was a meeting never held there at all? No, never.

2035. Do you mean to say that a meeting was never held in your place; will you swear that a meeting of Chinese, or Chinese Society was not held in your store? Never.

2036. It has been sworn that a meeting was held in your store? Oh, yes, the Koon Yee Tong have met there, about taking up dead men's bones.

2037. Do you keep the books of that society? No; at present they are at Quong Hing Chong's.

2038. Will those books show the sources from which the income is derived? Yes. Everything that comes in and is paid out is in the same book.

2039. Is all the money paid away stated too? Yes.

2040. And the purposes for which the money is paid? Yes.

2041. Will the books show any money paid to any policeman? That would not be in it—not in that society.

2042. Do you know of any other society that derives its income from the Chinese, and pays any money over to the police for any purpose? I do not know of any such society.

[The further examination of the witness was postponed till next sitting day.]

WEDNESDAY,

WEDNESDAY, 16 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Way Kee further examined:—

Way Kee.
16 Sept., 1891.

2043. President.] How long ago is it since you were treasurer of the Koon Yee Tong? About the year before last.
2044. You were treasurer of that society the year before last? Yes.
2045. But I want to know how many years you were treasurer before that? A number of years with Sun War Loong—for thirty-two years. All the books have been handed to Quong Hing Chong.
2046. How many books were there? I do not know how many, but the whole of them were supposed to be handed over.
2047. Were there only two, or were there a considerable number? I cannot tell you how many there were. I cannot tell how many books there were.
2048. I think you are telling an untruth, and you must answer the question straightforwardly or you will be sent to gaol? I cannot tell exactly.
2049. I want to know the probable number, whether there were a dozen or a half-dozen, or how many approximately; and I will keep you here all day if necessary, until you tell me. Answer the question? I cannot, but Quong Hing Chong could.
2050. How many do you think? About three or four books. When I was done with them I handed them over; I think there were three or four.
2051. When did you last see Quong Hing Chong? I see him every day; I saw him yesterday.
2052. What conversation did you have with him yesterday? He has not said anything to me this last two or three days about anything.
2053. Did you see Moy Hing yesterday or the day before? He came to my place yesterday.
2054. What did he want? He told me the Commission at the Town Hall had sent for the books.
2055. Did he object to give them up? He said he did not know himself, and would have to consult with somebody else. I told him he would have to let them go.
2056. If there was nothing in the books against the society, what was the objection to allowing us to see them? There would be nothing in it, only for the last thirty-two years it would show how many dead bodies have been taken up, and they are very particular about that.
2058. It is well known that the society is formed for the purpose of sending the bones of these people home? Yes.
2059. But what objection have you to my knowing all about those operations? I will tell you all about it, exactly as it appears in the book, if you ask me.
2060. Did you advise Moy Hing not to deliver the books? No.
2061. Take this book in your hand [referring to a Chinese account book];—I want you to tell me what that book is for? It is a book to show all expenses paid in connection with raising dead bodies to send home to China.
2062. Does it show the whole of the expenses? Yes, everything.
2063. What is the first debit entry in that book? The first is dated 10th March, 1889.
2064. Now, I want you to tell me what that debit is for? It is 4s. 6d. for a ledger.
2065. What is the next item? Thirty small books for collecting, 5s. 10d.
2066. Where is that ledger? It ought to be at Moy Hing's.
2067. Whom were those thirty books given to? They would be handed round to the different stores to collect money with.
2068. In Sydney? Yes, all in Sydney.
2069. Is it not a fact that they collect money for this purpose in the country? Yes.
2070. At Stanthorpe do they collect any? No, not at Stanthorpe.
2071. At Bourke is any collected? Yes.
2072. At Narrandera? No.
2073. Do you not get money from Chinese in the interior? Yes; it is all sent down to Sydney.
2074. What is the next item? 11 yards of white calico; that is used for giving receipts on.
2075. What size is the receipt you give? About the size of the book.
2076. That is about 3 in. x 4 in.? Yes.
2077. How many subscribers are there in the society? About 600.
2078. They are scattered all over the country? Yes.
2079. What is the fifth item in the cash-book? It is 2 lb. of melon seed.
2080. What is the sixth item? A sum of £2 paid out for stamping papers to put inscriptions on, with the names of the departed.
2081. Is it not a fact that these stamped papers were for gambling purposes? No, certainly not, nothing to do with gambling, only in connection with raising dead bodies.
2082. What is the next item? It is 15s. for cigars.
2083. What do they want cigars for? When they come together they talk and smoke.
2084. What is the next item, the ninth? 7s. for postage.
2085. What is the tenth item? 4s. for red calico.
2086. What is the last item in that book? The second day of the first month of the present year, that is the 2nd January.
2087. Have any payments been made since the 2nd January? No, not a penny more.
2088. Since the 2nd January of this year the society has not disbursed a penny of its money to any one? No.
2089. How does he know that, seeing that he is not now the treasurer of the society? He knows, because his clerks write down in this book all the payments.

2091. What money have you now belonging to that society? Over £1,000. It is kept as a separate account in the bank. 16 Sept., 1891.
2092. In what bank? In the Commercial.
2093. In whose name is the account kept? It is in the names of four stores.
2094. Who are they? Way Kee, Quong Hing Chong, Yuen Tah, Chun Goon Fing.
2095. Are these stores interested in any way with the gambling-houses? No, these are genuine stores.
2096. Do you know of any society in Sydney called the Loon Yee Tong? Yes, I remember it some years ago.
2097. Now, I want you to tell me the objects of that society? I would not know myself what it is for. But Tong Fong could tell you all about it.
2098. Where is he to be found? They have gone insolvent.
2099. I do not want to know anything about their financial status. I want to know where the man lives, or where he can be found? There is one of the firm living on the Rocks in Lower George-street.
2100. Now, I want you to tell me the objects of the society? It is not a good object.
2101. But what is the object? To assist with the funds those who are in need. That is all I know.
2102. That is not a bad object—to assist those in need. I want to get definitely from you what the objects of this society are, and you must answer the question? I wish to explain. I remember the time when the society was in existence—as to the objects I am not so sure or clear about. But I know there was a sum of £420 to its credit, and a dispute arose among the members about something. One wanted to do one thing, and another wanted another, and eventually the money was sent back to China.
2103. Do you not know that the Loon Yee Tong is affiliated to certain gambling-houses in Sydney? Yes; I know that they take 3d. or something off to go to a fund.
2104. What is the money used for? One object I know for certain is that they use it to put coffins on board ships passing to and from China.
2105. Is that the only object? No. They also subscribe small sums to the hospitals.
2106. Do you consider that a bad object? No; that is a good object.
2107. Then why did you say just now that the objects, some of them, were bad? The reason I said it was bad was that there were more rows over the money, and they were afraid it would be put to bad purposes; that is the reason.
2108. Do you know if they ever paid any sums of money to the police? I do not know it.
2109. Have you not heard that money is paid to the police by that society? I never heard it. I do not take any interest in it.
2110. Do you not know that this society's money is practically a defence fund? I do not know it at all.
2111. Have you not heard that the society pays the fines of Chinese that are prosecuted? No, I never heard of it.
2112. Did not the society meet in your house in George-street once? About seven or eight years ago they did.
2113. Now then, I want you to tell me straight what are the objects of this society and why the society does not meet with your approval? So far as I am concerned I do not mix up actively in these things. The only objects I really know in connection with the Loon Yee Tong is the putting of coffins on board vessels going to and fro in case a Chinaman dies.
2114. What was the meeting held at your store about seven or eight years ago? It was the Koon Yee Tong.
2115. You said the Loon Yee Tong had met there? That was a mistake, it was the Koon Yee Tong.
2116. Have you heard of a meeting of the Loon Yee Tong being held recently? No.
2117. Do you remember the occasion of the raid being made on Moy Ping's shops? I did not know of it.
2118. Do you mean to say you do not know that there was a raid made at Moy Ping's? I have heard of it.
2119. Was there a meeting of any Chinese society held after that? I do not know. I have nothing to do with that now.
2120. Did you pay the fine of any of the Chinese who were proceeded against on that occasion? No.
2121. You did not assist any of your countrymen on that occasion? No.
2122. Were you asked to assist them in connection with any society? No. With gambling, in any shape or form, I have nothing whatever to do.
2123. How much money have you remitted to China during the last year? I would have to see my book before I could tell you.
2124. Did you remit £5,000 last year? It would be more than that.
2125. Did you remit £10,000? About £10,000.
2126. Was that money all remitted on your own account? Yes. That is the great part of it; but he sent home in the same box some money from Chinamen here who wished to send to their parents or friends in China.
2127. Do you remit any money home for the gambling-houses? No, not for one gambler; only for hardworking men.
2128. Do you know of any of your countrymen remitting large sums of money home? No.
2129. Have you heard of large sums being remitted to China as the profits of these gaming-houses? No.
2130. Do you know Inspector Atwill? No.
2131. Do you know any policemen at all? I do not know them. I very seldom go out. I am in the store all day.
2132. Do you not see the police passing your door? Yes, I see them passing backwards and forwards sometimes.
2133. But you do not know any of them? No. I cannot speak English.
2134. Have you heard of any of your countrymen paying money to the police? No.
2135. That they make presents to the police of jewellery, for instance? No.
2136. Is it true that you made a present, or some of your work-people made a present of a watch, to one of the policemen down there? No, not in any way at all.
2137. At Christmas-time is it not your custom to make presents to some of your friends? No. I may give away a little ginger sometimes; small things. 2138.

- Way Kee. 2138. Is it true that you made presents of ginger, or small things, as you say, to any member of the police force? No.
- 16 Sept., 1891. 2139. Have you friends among the police? No; I do not know one.
2140. Who were the people that you made these small presents to that you spoke of? I would give a little ginger away to different people; but the men in the shop would know my friends. Personally, I would not know who received the things. The people in the Custom-house and people on the wharfs I would give to.
2141. When does the lease of your shops expire? The lease has ten years to run from this month.
2142. I mean the lease you have given to the two proprietors of the gambling-houses? They had no lease—they are weekly tenants.
2143. I want you to tell me now what rent Doong Lee, No. 164, pays? He pays £3 10s.
2144. And the other one—what is the rent of that? That is £3 10s. a week also. [Witness hands in receipts for rent.]
2145. Those receipts are for ground rent; do you not get any bonus from these places besides the rent? No.
2146. Do you not consider that rent very cheap? That was the price of the houses when I built them, and the same tenants have been there ever since.
2147. Do you intend to increase the rent? Not at present—perhaps later on.
2148. Do you know the amount of rent paid by any other of your countrymen thereabouts? Which ones do you wish me to point out?
2149. Any about there of the same size as your own? Well, some pay a little over £2, some £3, and some £4.
2150. Do you know of your countrymen paying the landlord twice £3 10s. a week for the same accommodation as your place? Yes; on the other side the tenants of a lot of places belonging to Europeans pay £6 to £7 a week, I have heard.
2151. Do you consider that rent excessive? Yes, I do think it is too much.
2152. Is it true that these houses which pay such heavy rentals are gambling-shops? I would not know about that; but I think if they pay such heavy rentals they must be gambling-houses.
2153. Do you know any case where a Chinese has paid a large bonus to the landlord when getting a lease of premises? No; I have never heard of it.
2154. You yourself have never received a bonus? No.
2155. Is it a fact that these gambling-houses are run by companies of Chinamen? Yes—syndicates.
2156. How many would be in a company? I could not tell you how many. I know a good many go in.
2157. Do you know Wong Lee Hing? I know him well.
2158. Where is he now? In China.
2159. He is a very rich man, is he not? He has been a very long time in business, but I would not know whether he is wealthy or not.
2160. How did he make his money? He was a partner in the business of Sun Kum Tiy's.
2161. Is it not a fact that he made some of his money at gambling? I do not know anything about it.
2162. Do you not know that Sun Kum Tiy's firm is at present interested in gambling institutions? No.
2163. Do you think so? No. I know nothing in connection with gambling. Anything in that way I know nothing about.
2164. Where do you get your groceries from? I get them in the city; for drapery I deal with M^r Arthur and Co., and I deal at Christopher Newton's and Hoffnung's, and W. Gardiner and Co.
2165. Do you sell any watches? No.
2166. Do you know Sergeant Dawson? Yes; I know him well.
2167. What did you give him £20 for? I never gave him £20 at all at any time.
2168. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? No. I know Dawson through being his tenant at North Shore.
2169. Do you do business with people in George-street? Yes; with the stores.
2170. Do you not sell Chinese goods to the proprietors of Chinese gambling-houses there? No; I have nothing whatever to do with gamblers. If they bring ready cash I will supply them, that is all.
2171. Have you any Englishmen in your employment? No.
2172. Who does your cartage? James Rodgers does all my cartage.
2173. Where is he to be found? He is always in George-street—has a lot of carts waiting there.
2174. What is the exact address of Tong Fong? Somewhere on The Rocks; I do not know exactly where.
2175. Do you know the name of the street? No; I only know George-street; I never go out at all.
2176. Do you know that gambling is carried on to a very large extent in Lower George-street? Yes; very much.
2177. Are you of opinion that the habit of gambling is bad for your countrymen? Yes; very bad.
2178. How can it be bad when they make money out of the Europeans? No matter in what form gambling is bad, whether they win from Englishmen, or anyone else.
2179. Do you know if the proprietors of these gambling-houses make large sums of money? I have heard of it being equal on both sides—that is, heavy losses and heavy gains.
2180. Do you know any who made heavy gains? No; I would not know who the man was. I have heard a name mentioned, but have forgotten it.
2181. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know whether the Loon Yee Tong is in existence now, or has been dissolved? It has been dissolved, from the time I mentioned when they had a row about the money.
2182. Who had charge of the funds at that time? The money was at Tong Fong's prior to their insolvency.
2183. What is this firm of Tong Fong's? Way Shong was one of the partners of Tong Fong's.
2184. Any others in the firm? There was another one, but he has gone out of the city altogether.
2186. Are both these partners connected with gambling? Yes. Afterwards when they had no business, I heard that Way Shong went in for gambling.
2187. Do you know Chow Kum? Yes.

NOTE.—The interpreter explains that the expression, "crooked ways" means insolvency and general bad credit.

2188. What class of man is he—what is he engaged in? He is a carpenter.
2189. Has he been connected with gambling? That I would not know.
2190. Did you receive an invitation to attend a meeting of a Chinese society at the Royal Standard Theatre last year? Yes; I was asked to go, but did not.
2191. Were you told the objects of the meeting, and of what class the Chinamen would be attending it? No; I did not know.
2192. Have you not been repeatedly asked to attend meetings of that kind? I have been asked, but have never gone.
2193. When you were asked to attend these meetings were you not informed of the objects? I have known that there was a meeting of some kind, but would not know what the meeting was for, unless I attended.
2194. Do you understand if you do not tell the truth here, you will be sent to gaol? I understand.
2195. Did you not send one of your partners to attend one of these meetings at the Standard? No.
2196. Have you got a partner or man in your employment named Mok King? Yes; he is in the business with me, at Lower George-street, but so far as I know Mok King never went to the meeting.
2197. You did not ask him to go? No.
2198. Do you not know, as a matter of fact, that this meeting was called by gambling Chinamen? No.
2199. Were you not told that the meeting was called in consequence of a row at a fan-tan gambling-den in Campbell-street? No; I did not know it.
2200. Did you ever hear of a Chinaman being sentenced to three months imprisonment in a case arising out of that row in Campbell-street? No; I know nothing about it. I know nothing about anything connected with gambling.
2201. How long have you been in Lower George-street? Ever since I have been in business, both in the old and new premises.
2202. Twenty years ago how many Chinese were there keeping shops in Lower George-street? About seven.
2203. Were they all carrying on legitimate business? Yes.
2204. How many are there now? About eleven—legitimate shops.
2205. I want to know how many there are altogether? I only know how many legitimate stores. I would not know how many others.
2206. Do you not know there are thirty Chinese shops altogether? No; I do not know it. I never go into those places.
2207. How do the principal number of the Chinese live down there? By cook-shops and gambling-houses.
2208. Then eleven of them would be legitimate shops, and the other cook-shops or gambling-houses? Yes.
2209. Do you see numbers of people, both Europeans and Chinese, frequenting these gambling-houses? I never stand outside the door; I always sit inside my shop.
2210. Have you read the white paper notices in front of these places stating, "Gambling carried on here night and day?" Yes; they are put up plain, so that any one can see them.
2211. There is no secret made of it? No; it is openly carried on.
2212. Have you ever seen any women attending these places? No. I wish to explain to you that I always sit inside myself, and see very little of what is going on.
2213. Is your wife Chinese? Yes; she came over this year. She came with my grandson's wife.
2214. Do you think opium-smoking and gambling demoralise not only your own countrymen but Europeans as well? Yes; it is very bad for every one concerned.
2215. And you would like to see some steps taken to abolish both these evils? I am afraid to express my opinion. That is a matter for the Government to settle.
2216. What are you afraid of? I am afraid to say one way or the other.
2217. Are you afraid of your own countrymen injuring you if you express your opinion? Yes; there are too many poor people here of my nation.
2218. What age are you? I am 67 years of age.
2220. What class of Chinamen are those we have in this Colony; are they of the lower class of Chinese, as a rule? They are nearly all farmers and labourers. There are some few good.
2221. There are grades or classes of people in China the same as everywhere else;—to what class do the majority of the Chinese here belong to—to the lower, middle, or higher class? What I would call the lower class in China are the labourers and farmers. If, when they come here they acquire bad habits, I would call them the lower class here then.
2222. Have you heard of any of your countrymen having visited with vengeance any one who has given evidence against them on any occasion? Yes, I have heard of it.
2223. If you were in China, and a case arose in which you would be called upon to give evidence, would you be afraid to give evidence there as you are here? Yes; I would also be afraid in China.
2224. You say you are afraid of the many Chinamen that are here; does the number affect the matter as to whether they would injure you or not if you spoke of the facts? Yes; it is this way: The greater number of them here are poor people, who have no money at all, and who would be very glad of an opportunity of killing him if he gave evidence against them.
2225. Would you like to see a change in the law to send the worst of your people away to their own country? Oh, yes; that would be good.
2226. Whom do you do your chief business with—Europeans or Chinese? About equal.
2227. Have you got hawkers in your employ—men who go out hawking? No; I do business with branch stores in the country.
2228. Mr. Quong Tart.] This book is only up to 1889. When was the last book, after this one, made up to? That is the last book. But there are other books before this, they are at Moy Hing's.
2229. In this book there is an item paid into the Commercial Bank, at 5 per cent. in 1890? Yes, that is right.
2230. In the names of Way Kee, Yuen Tah, Quong Hing Ching, and Choy Fook Tum? Yes.
2231. These four persons all signed? Yes.
2232. I see here in March 10th, an item of £529 19s. 2s., being the total expense of raising eighty-four dead-bodies? Yes.

- Way Kee. 2233. Is this the last book? Yes. This is the last book that I know of; everything paid out would be in it.
- 16 Sept., 1891. 2234. I know you are against opium smoking and gambling; but I want you to state to the Commission what, in your opinion, would be the best steps to take for suppressing these evils in the interests of the Chinese and Europeans? I would not like to express an opinion one way or the other with reference to the suppression of gambling or opium smoking, but I would be very pleased to see the Government put these things down in any way they like.
2235. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you ever been engaged in gambling at any period of your life? No; I have been backwards and forwards four times since. I have been resident in the Colony, and have never once had anything to do with gambling.
2236. Does any one in your employ to your knowledge engage in gambling? No; none whatever. One has gone home to China. The rest are all respectable men.
2237. Do those Chinamen who do engage in gambling, and who come into your shop to do business with you—do they ever have any conversation in relation to gambling, that is, with your people? No; they would not speak to them about anything of that kind.
2238. You know nothing about your countrymen in Sydney at the present time having made large sums of money through gambling? No; I only heard of one case, where a man won £300.
2240. But that difficulty has only occurred lately? Well, the majority of them who come here are too poor to pay the passage money for their wives.
2241. Do they not indulge in a great deal of immorality in consequence of the absence of their wives? That is best known to themselves. I would not know. I know they are a bit rowdy with the women, but I cannot say myself any more.
2242. How long was your wife living behind in China before you brought her out here? Twenty-two years. I went home to see her four times since I have been out. I only brought her out this year.
2243. Mr. McKillop.] Do you allow opium-smoking on your premises? No.
2244. Do you remember a man named Riley being assaulted by a lot of Chinese for giving information to the police some two years ago? No.
2245. Do you remember any circumstance connected with that riot or row—a man being nearly killed, for instance? No. I know nothing about it.
2246. It is very extraordinary that you can remember some trivial circumstances very well, but anything of a serious character you forget? I am telling the truth; I do not remember anything about it.
2247. You stated a little while ago that you were afraid to give your opinion re gambling and opium-smoking, I want you to understand that you have nothing to fear, as this Commission alone will know the nature of your evidence, at all events, until the report is published? Yes, I am quite aware of that. I would be very glad myself to fall in with anything the Commission might do quietly.
2250. What do you know of this society? I only know that these people who had the money—the £420 I have spoken of—were people of very bad character indeed; they attempted to do a lot of crooked things, and an indignation meeting was held to get the money from them; but as to the objects of the society, other than putting coffins on board ships, I know nothing about it.
2251. Are you quite sure you do not know one other object? Well, I have heard of it being for some kind of protection; but what it was I do not know. I should say that out of the £420 I have mentioned £20 was sent to the hospital.
2252. Mr. McKillop.] Was not this book [Chinese account book of the Koon Yee Tong] prepared the other day when the books were demanded by the Commission? No. The other books can be got if you wish to see them, and I will give instructions to have them sent up.

FRIDAY, 18 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Moy Hing called and examined through Mr. Lisson, interpreter:—

- Moy Hing. 2253. Mr. Abigail.] Where do you live? In Lower George-street.
- 18 Sept., 1891. 2254. Are you a member of a Chinese firm? Yes; of the firm of Quong Hing Chong.
2255. How many are there in the firm? Two; myself and a partner who is in Hong Kong.
2256. You are an officer of several Chinese societies, I believe? I am a member of one society only.
2257. What is its name? The Koon Ye Tong.
2258. You have the books of that society? Only the two produced.
2259. How long have you been connected with it? About three years.
2260. These books only go back two years, where are the others? The old books are at Sun War Loong's.
2261. What are the objects of this society? The taking up of dead bones to send to China.
2262. How much money has the society got? The money is not in my place.
2263. What do the funds amount to? Over £1,000.
2264. Where is the money? In one of the banks in Sydney. 2265.

[NOTE.—The interpreter was told to inform the witness that his confidence would be respected.]

2265. To whose credit? It is lodged in the names of four firms—Quong Hing Chong; Way Kee, Ckoi Fook Loon, and Un Tab. Moy Hing.
18 Sept., 1891.
2266. Are all payments made by cheque? Yes; all payments in connection with the taking up of dead bodies.
2267. And do you state positively that no money is spent by that society for any other purpose than the taking up of dead bones? Quite so; for no other purpose whatever.
2268. Is no money paid in the shape of fines for Chinamen summoned to the Police Court? No.
2269. Who subscribes the money? Every member of my particular community subscribed £1.
2270. What is the name of your community? The Doon Good Community.
2271. And are there no special contributions from Chinese gambling places? No.
2272. Do you know of any other Chinese secret societies in Sydney? No; I have not been here very long.
2273. How long? A little over four years.
2274. Are you connected with any gambling places? No.
2275. Is it not a fact that you are a member of a syndicate that is connected with some of these gambling places? No; I am only a business man.
2276. Are you not the banker for a defence fund arising out of cases before the Police Court? No; I have nothing to do with such a fund.
2277. Then I understand you to say that you reap no profit or benefit of any kind from any of the Chinese-gambling places in Sydney or in the country? No; I have too much legitimate business on my hands.
2278. How long have you lived down Lower George-street? Four years. I have a branch business in Goulburn-street.
2279. What business do you carry on down there? I sell Chinese goods.
2280. Is there a fan-tan table in either of these places? No.
2281. Do you not know of your own knowledge that gambling is carried on very extensively both in George-street and in Goulburn-street? Yes; I know that there are gambling places down there, but I have never been in any of them.
2282. Have you seen printed notices outside the shops, both in Lower George-street and in Goulburn-street, to the effect that gambling is carried on day and night? Yes.
2283. Outside a number of places? I have sometimes seen it outside a good many.
2284. And anybody can see them as they walk up and down the street? Yes.
2285. Are you on friendly terms with any members of the police force? No; I am not.
2286. Do you not know some of them by name? No; I cannot speak much English.
2287. Do you see Europeans as well as Chinese going in and coming out of these gambling-houses in Lower George and Goulburn Streets? Yes, but not much.
2288. What are your own feelings in reference to these gambling and opium-smoking places? I will not say what they are.
2289. Oh, but you must? They do not do me any harm, so I should not like to express an opinion.
2290. Do you gamble yourself? No.
2291. Do you smoke opium? No.
2292. Why;—do you believe they are bad? I would not like to smoke opium myself, but I do not know whether it would be good or bad.
2293. Do you believe that Chinese gambling-dens elevate the community; do they improve the morals of those who gamble? I will not express an opinion.
2294. You must answer my question? They do me no harm, and I would not like to say.
2295. But you must say? Not being a gambler and not being an opium-smoker I do not know whether they are good or bad.
2296. What class of people keep these gambling-houses? They would be cooks or gardeners, or other kinds of working men.
2297. Do you think that attending these places would have upon those who go there an effect similar to attending church, for instance? I have never been to either, so I cannot say.
2298. But you have been to a Joss-house? Oh; it is certainly better to go to a Joss-house.
2299. Have you ever heard of your countrymen losing large sums of money in any of these places? No; I should never hear of it. I am always in my store, attending to my business.
2300. Well, did you not authorise one of your assistants to make a present to a policeman not long ago? No; none of my assistants can speak English.
2301. And you never gave a policeman a silver watch? No; never. I do not know any policemen.
2302. Did you ever advertise for girls to apply at your store for a situation? Never.
2303. Are you married? Yes.
2304. Where is your wife? She lives with me at the store.
2305. Is she a Chinese lady, or a European? She is a Chinese wife.
2306. Mr. Quong Tart.] Now, I want you to tell me whether you approve of gambling? I do not wish to answer that question.
2307. You must not be afraid of telling the truth; are you in favour of gambling or not; if you are, say so; if not, say that you are not? As far as I am personally concerned I should say that it is not good.
2308. Why are you afraid to answer this question; who are you afraid of? I am afraid that some of my countrymen should get me into trouble.
2309. Do you ever see any European women or girls coming into any of these gambling-places? No.
2310. What do you think about opium-smoking; is it any good? It is no good.
2311. You have heard a great deal against gambling from your European neighbours;—can you suggest any means of putting a stop to it; what do you think of a meeting amongst the respectable Chinese merchants for the purpose of helping the Commission to put it down? I cannot suggest anything. As far as opium-smoking is concerned, of course many persons cannot help it; it has got such a hold upon them.
2312. Mr. Hawthorne.] What kind of a store do you keep? I sell English and Chinese goods.
2313. Do you sell opium? Yes.
2314. What price do you usually get for it? We get £1 0s. 3d. for a tin containing about 5 oz.
2315. Who are your principal customers, Chinese storekeepers or private individuals? We sell it to stores and private individuals, and gardeners as well.

- Moy Hing.
18Sept., 1891.
2316. What is a fair average amount for an opium-smoker to get through in a week? About 3 dwt.
2317. But surely he would be a very poor man who could not afford to buy much? A fair amount would be about 3s. worth or 4s. worth in a week.
2318. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you mean in a week or in a day? In a week.
2319. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you allow any opium-smoking on your premises? No—never.
2320. How many men are engaged in your place? Four.
2321. Do they all sleep on the premises? Yes.
2322. Are they all Chinese? Yes.
2323. All single men? Yes; I am the only married man in the house.
2324. Have you ever been inside a gambling-house? No.
2325. I suppose many of these gambling-house keepers in Lower George-street are customers of yours? Very few.
2326. Are you not afraid of giving evidence to-day lest it should offend some of your customers? I am not afraid of giving evidence, but it is none of my business.
2327. Are you not frightened of what you say to-day being made public? No; I am not frightened at all.
2328. Have you been in conversation with any of those who have previously given evidence before the Commission? No; I never saw their faces.
2329. Have you been in conversation with anyone since you had notice to appear here as a witness in reference to what you were going to say? No.
2330. Do you remember the visit that the Commission paid to Lower George-street some few weeks ago? I heard of it, but I did not see anything of it myself.
2331. Did you know that the Commission were coming to visit the district before they actually arrived? I heard that visits would be paid before the Commission came, but I did not know where you would go.
2332. Who told you? Some of the men in my store.
2333. Do you know Inspector Atwill or any of the other policemen? I do not know one inspector or one ordinary policeman.
2334. Mr. McKillop.] Is it not a fact that you said, in answer to Mr. Abigail, you were frightened to give evidence here? Yes; I did.
2335. Who are you frightened of? I do not know anybody in particular that I should be frightened of.
2336. Is it not a fact that the Chinese gamblers are a dangerous crowd, and that it is they whom you are frightened of? I am not afraid of them. I am a business man.
2337. But if you are frightened you must be frightened of somebody. Is it the police you are afraid of? No.
2338. Are you afraid of a secret society, or of anybody in particular? It is not that I am frightened of any body of men at all. I have seen gambling in China, and I have seen it out here, but not being well acquainted with the laws of this country I do not know what I ought to say.
2339. You must speak the truth, and then the law will protect you. Are you opposed to opium-smoking? I do not wish to give a decided answer.
2340. How much do you pay for your house? £3 a week.
2341. How many rooms are there? Four.
2342. Did you see Way Kee yesterday? No; I only saw him on the other side of the street.
2343. Did you see Mr. Way Kee's grandson? Only when I came to the Town Hall.
2344. Were you not talking to him outside the Town Hall? No.
2345. Mr. Abigail.] Is it not a fact that your firm is consulted about disputes and fights that arise in connection with these gambling-dens? We are consulted with reference to the taking up of dead bodies, but very little in reference to anything else.
2346. I am speaking of fights and disturbances in connection with the gambling-dens? I have been asked to give advice, but have refused to do so.
2347. Who sent for you? I do not know who it was, but a slip of paper came to my store one day asking me to go out to give advice about a matter.
2348. Where were you asked to go? No particular place was mentioned.
2349. And nobody's signature was attached to the note? No, there was no signature. All that the note said was, "Fighting (or something of that kind) in connection with a gambling disturbance. Please attend meeting."
2350. How often have you received invitations of that kind? Only once.
2351. How long ago? About two years ago.
2352. Have you not attended a meeting of that kind within the last four months? No.
2353. Has nobody from your firm? No.
2354. Mr. Quong Tart.] Are there books connected with the Koon ye Tong? Yes.
2355. One is from Mr. Way Kee? Yes. Mr. Way Kee pays the money out of this book (a petty-cash book).
2356. Whose writing is in the other book? Mine.
2357. Mr. Abigail.] When did you make these entries? In 1890.
2358. Mr. McKillop.] Did you copy the entries from another book into it recently? The old book is at Sun War Loon's.
2359. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you ever heard what amount of money these gamblers usually make per week? No; I am not sufficiently intimate with them.

Mr. Henry Joseph Maguire called and examined:—

- Mr.
H. J. Maguire
18Sept., 1891.
2360. President.] How long have you lived in Lower George-street? Twenty-two years in one house.
2361. What are you in business? A photographer.
2362. Do you know Way Kee? I do.
2363. Have you had any important conversation with him during the last six months with regard to the police? No.
2364. Did Way Kee ever tell you that he had paid a large sum of money to Sergeant Dawson? No; one of his clerks told me. Indeed it was common talk in the neighbourhood at the time. He did not say that that the money was paid to Sergeant Dawson, but that it was lent, and that there were demands made upon him by Dawson frequently, in consideration of something that was going on. Here is a photograph of old Way Kee himself.

Mr.
H. J. Maguire.
18 Sept., 1891.

2365. We have already seen him in the flesh;—you say that one of his clerks told you that he was in the habit of lending money to the police? To a particular policeman.

2366. Not to the police generally, but only to Sergeant Dawson? Yes, that is the man.

2367. Did you endeavour to get any information out of the clerk as to what the money was lent for, and whether it was lent on security? No; at the time it was general talk.

2368. I do not want to know what was general talk, I want to know about that particular conversation with one of Way Kee's clerks? That is all.

2369. Did you ever ask whether the money was repaid? The statement made by the clerk was that this particular police officer had several times demanded a loan of £10 or £20 (I forget which), for reasons which I never found out until a fortnight ago, and then I found out what the real cause of it was.

2370. How did you discover these reasons;—with whom were you talking? A gentleman had spoken to Mr. Nock.

2371. I want to know whom you were speaking to on the occasion when you found out the reasons for these loans? Mr. Nock.

2372. What did he say to you? He was alluding to a conversation he had been having with a gentleman who had come to him in connection with some matter, and he said, "You know, gentlemen, why it was that the police officer could demand the money?" and then he told me why.

2373. What were the reasons given to you by Mr. Nock for these advances? That Sergeant Dawson had become aware of property in Way Kee's, supposed to be stolen, and that, having Way Kee in his power, he demanded the loan of money under threats of prosecution if he refused.

2374. Then, according to that, this money was lent to Dawson in order to silence him with regard to the discovery of stolen goods which he knew to be in Way Kee's store? Yes; that is the accusation.

2375. And that is the reason why those so-called loans were made to Dawson? Yes.

2376. Then it is not true that those loans were made in respect of the gambling transactions that take place amongst the Chinese and Europeans in Lower George-street? No.

2377. You are of opinion that such payment of money had nothing whatever to do with the bribing of police not to take notice of the gambling in Lower George-street? Quite so. It could not be, because gambling did not at that time exist in Lower George-street.

2378. I want a direct answer. Are you of opinion that these loans had nothing to do with the alleged bribing of the police in order to induce them to overlook the Chinese gambling in Lower George-street? I am of that opinion, for as I have just said gambling did not then exist.

2379. When was it that this £20 is said to have been paid? I am not sure whether it was £10 or £20, but at all events, it was paid about ten years ago.

2380. The particular transaction I am questioning you about is ten years old? Yes.

2381. Do you know whether any payments of money have been paid by Way Kee to any member of the Police Force within the last five years? No, so far as I know.

2382. And the only suspicious transaction between the Chinese and members of the police force with regard to the payment of money is ten years old? Yes, so far as I personally know. I never said that the police were bribed.

2383. Way Kee is, in your opinion, a receiver of stolen property? He was considered to be at the time.

2384. Has his moral character improved lately? I do not know.

2385. When was it that you considered him a receiver of stolen property? Ten years ago.

2386. He purchased old lead, and things of that kind, I suppose? Yes; and scrap iron and brass cocks out of engines, and so on.

2387. You have heard it alleged among your neighbours that the police must have been bribed; otherwise they would have suppressed the gaming? Yes; but you are going away from Way Kee to gaming.

2388. Yes; I am? Well, I have heard that people down there believed that the police have been bribed, but I made no charge.

2389. I do not want you to make any charge; I only want you to answer my questions. Gaming is conducted in a public way in Lower George-street, is it not? Yes; in the most public manner every day and every night, and here is a photograph taken last week, of a shop with a notice to the effect that it is a gaming-house posted outside.

2390. Have you personally made any attempt to discover why the police do not suppress the gambling-houses down there? I have frequently called upon them to suppress it, but the police sergeants have told me that unless the authorities initiate the action they have no power in the matter.

2391. Whom have you spoken to? I have spoken to several.

2392. What are their names? I have spoken to Inspector Atwill before.

2393. You asked him why he did not suppress this public gaming? Yes.

2394. And what did he say? That they had no power to enter, and that there was no use in their trying to. In fact my own opinion was that they did not want to try. Every Chinese gaming-house in Lower George-street has the notice shown in that photograph posted outside.

2395. If the police had been corrupted, and that was the reason why the gaming had not been suppressed, are you of opinion that the corruption would be general throughout the force? No; because there are some good honest men amongst the police, and some who would not get an opportunity.

2396. Why do not these good and honorable men, who might be either officers or subordinates, in the exercise of their duty, endeavour to suppress the gaming? They have all said that they cannot act without the authority of their superior officer, and that if they did they would be liable to dismissal.

2397. Can you give me the names of any of the policemen to whom you have spoken? Oh; I have spoken to lots of them.

2398. I should like the name of one? Sergeant M'Guire.

2399. What did he say? That they had no power of entry, and could not go in without the authority of their superior officers.

2400. Had he reported that gaming was being carried on openly? It was not necessary.

2401. But will you kindly answer the question? I will not answer that question, because Inspector Atwill

2402. You must answer it. Did Sergeant M'Guire say that he had mentioned the matter to Inspector Atwill? No; he did not.

- Mr. 2403. Who would be his superior officer? Inspector Atwill.
 H.J. Maguire. 2404. You see I want to get at the fact that reports were made to Mr. Atwill by his subordinates, if 18 Sept., 1891. that was the case? I have spoken to Inspector Atwill myself.
 2405. But Sergeant M'Guire did not tell you that he had reported the matter to Inspector Atwill? No. You better ask Sergeant Maguire that question.
 2406. What did you say to Mr. Atwill? I asked him if it were not possible to make a raid, and suppress the evil that was doing so much injury to the district, and he said, "No, they could not go in, without order, and they were to a certain extent, handicapped." I then asked him why he did not proceed against the men who loitered along the footpath outside the gambling-dens, but it was like pouring water on a duck's back for me to make such a request.
 2407. Well, could he not get the orders? He could if he liked, I suppose; but it is not everyone who does like.
 2408. Inspector Atwill is supreme in the district, I suppose? Yes; except that Mr. Reid passes up and down every evening, and takes no notice of what is going on.
 2409. But Inspector Atwill is responsible for the way the work is done? Yes.
 2410. Did you ever think that Inspector Atwill was corrupted? No, I did not think that exactly; but there was evidently something wrong in the state of Denmark.
 2411. Never mind Denmark. We are talking about Lower George-street now. Had you ever any reason to believe that Inspector Atwill was corrupted? That is a very serious charge.
 2412. I know it is, and that is why I am pressing you on the point? Well; I will answer it indirectly.
 2413. You must answer it directly. Had you ever any reason to suspect that Inspector Atwill must have been corrupted? I had very grave reasons.
 2414. Now give us as well as you can, and sharply, your reasons? In the first place, gambling was not suppressed as it could have been. In the second place, Inspector Atwill when asked to subscribe 5s. to get his photo. taken, said to me that neither he nor his family had ever had their photos. taken, but that he considered it the duty of the photographer to take his photo, and the photos. of his family free of charge. He considered also that the baker, the butcher, and the coal and firewood man should supply him free of charge for the protection rendered to the community by him. He said that at my own door.
 2415. Have you any other reason? Well, I thought that that was very grave reason.
 2416. Have you any other reason? No.
 2417. Your first reason was that gaming was publicly carried on without any serious attempts on the part of the police to suppress it, and your second reason was that Inspector Atwill alleged that you should take his and his family's photos. free of charge; that the tradespeople down there generally should supply their goods to him for the protection that he afforded them? Yes; and when asked whether the Government did not pay him sufficiently he said "No."
 2418. Now, I want to know what there is between those reasons and the fact that gambling is carried on in Lower George-street. The people who would take his photos. for nothing and the people carrying on the businesses you have referred to down there are white people and would not be concerned in bribing him to connive at Chinese gambling? No; but with one hand if he would accept presents from the Europeans in return for protecting them he might with the other hand accept bribes from the Chinese for protecting them from the law.
 2419. Well, to your knowledge did he ever make an arrangement of that kind? No; the police would not ring a bell all over the town if they were going to accept bribes from Chinamen—that would be done behind the scenes. I have been on the stage before to-day, and I know the ropes. Pressmen do know a little more than the majority of human beings.
 2420. Was Mr. Atwill serious when you had this conversation with him? He was.
 2421. And the conversation arose out of a suggestion of yours that he should have his photo. taken? My sister, I think it was, said to him, owing to some remark or other, that it was time he subscribed 5s. to have his photo. taken; and then the conversation begun.
 2422. What would you charge him for taking his photo.? Well, you ought to know—the same price that you paid.
 2423. What was that? 15s. a dozen.
 2424. You have a large connection down there? I have not got that now; business is very bad.
 2425. And I suppose the Chinese go in for photographs? They patronise me very well.
 2426. Then you are in constant communication with them? I am.
 2427. Have any of them ever told you that they bribed the police in order to secure their connivance? They are conservative in matters of that kind. No, they never have.
 2428. Can you assist the Commission in prosecuting its inquiries—can you trace any bribes? If I put my thinking cap on perhaps I could.
 2429. Have you brought your thinking cap with you? No, I have not; I thought it might be in the way.
 2430. You know Sergeant Dawson personally? I do.
 2431. Do you know that Sergeant Dawson was Mr. Way Kee's landlord at Lane Cove? No; I have heard it.
 2432. Might not that £20 you spoke of not be payment of rent? Sergeant Dawson was in the police force at the time.
 2433. Do you mean to say that he had no land at the time? I do not know that he had.
 2434. Might it not be payment of rent? No; it was after that that he purchased the land.
 2435. How long is it since he left the police force? Nine or ten years ago. I think that your interpreter can give you full particulars of the exact time, because it was then that Dawson took possession of some Chinese premises (On Chong's), on account of the small-pox, and Mr. Lisson resided in On Chong's house, and was let out by Dawson. At the same time all other inmates of the house were kept in close confinement under the police. Mr. Lisson gave me a report for the press, and in that way I startled the city.
 2436. Mr. Abigail.] You have a very intimate knowledge of what is being carried on in Lower George-street? I have.
 2437. The gambling is still being carried on, I believe? Yes.
 2438. These white placards on the shops, of which you have given us a photo., state that gambling is carried on day and night? Yes; Saturdays and Sundays, too, without any attempt to conceal it.

Mr. H. J.
Maguire.

18 Sept., 1891.

2439. And everybody passing along the street can see them? Yes—everybody.
2440. The police passing up and down on their beats could not fail to see them? No.
2441. Are the frequenters of these places Europeans? Yes; labouring men—men working on the wharves, sailors, and others.
2442. Do you see any girls visiting them? No; I should not like to say that I have seen any girls knocking about there, but I have seen youths sometimes.
2443. Have you seen girls visiting the places? No; but my knowledge of life amongst the Chinese leads me to think that they are very moral, because I have seen a woman with a little liquor going into a shop, and the Chinese standing like statues, as though they did not know how to touch her. As a matter of fact, I believe that they are so engrossed in their gambling that they have no time to think of anything of that kind.
2444. What are the sanitary conditions of these places;—are they very clean and tidy? No. I am very sorry you went at night to see them. You ought to have gone by day. The rooms are filthy, and divided into very small cribs.
2445. Yes, we have seen all that? You saw it half by gaslight and half by imagination, methinks.
2446. Are they overcrowded? Well, there are more in a house than I would like to have in a house of mine, but I have never had more peaceable neighbours.
2447. Are the smells bad? Yes.
2448. They smoke opium a great deal, do they not? Yes; and the man who has just been here (Moy Hing) is one of the largest dealers in opium in Sydney. I often go into his place to interpret letters and telegrams for him, and I see numbers of people buying opium.
2449. What rents do the Chinese pay? For one little room they pay £4 10s. a week, and they have never had the shutters down for two years. It is admittedly a gaming-house. There is no sleeping accommodation, or accommodation of any kind.
2450. Are most of the places down there carried on as gambling-houses? For no other purpose.
2451. Do you know of any person who has paid a bonus to the landlord in order to compete with the Chinese for the tenancy of a shop? I do; but with regard to that question I must tell you that some of the landlords are Members of the Legislative Council.
2452. I will give you a chance to tell us about landlords presently. Now, I want to hear about the bonuses? Well, Mr. Chazel, the hairdresser, had to pay a bonus. The Hon. W. A. Long is trustee for his sister in respect of the property.
2453. Do you know what the bonus amounted to? Mr. Chazel gave £10, and I think he said that the agent had to get £30 from the Chinamen.
2454. Does that firm carry on any gambling? No; they do not permit it.
2455. They are merchants? Yes. A sum of £35 was also paid to Mr. Phillip Rech, not as a bonus, but as a present to Mr. Rech's wife and family, as he did not wish it to be known that he had received a bonus. Then a bonus was paid by Lee Hing, of the firm of Sum Kum Tiy, now in China.
2456. Do you know any gambling-houses that have paid bonuses? I cannot give you any instances, only Mr. Williams, the jeweller, when he wanted to get hold of a place, offered £10 bonus, and the agent said, "No; I must have £20."
2457. But do you think that that is owing to the Chinese living there? Yes; because of the nature of the business that they live by.
2458. Then is the business so brisk for Europeans that they will compete with the Chinese for these premises? The legitimate tradespeople are starving. They are doing no business.
2459. What accommodation have you in your own shop? Four rooms and a kitchen.
2460. What rent do you pay? £3. I was paying £1 17s. 6d. a week.
2461. Who is your landlord? Mr. Long is the trustee.
2462. Then the effect of the Chinese living down there has been to increase your rent? Yes; and to injure my business, because we had a good business before the Chinese gamblers came down there, and now it has gone.
2463. What year was it that you paid £1 17s. 6d.? I think it is just about ten years ago; just before the Chinese gambling came into operation.
2464. Chinese gambling has increased very much then in that locality? It is about eight or nine years since the first gambling-house was started.
2465. But have not rents gradually increased all over the city during the last few years? I cannot say that I have heard it. I know that they have gone beyond our limit down in that quarter.
2466. You were not one of the deputation that waited upon the Colonial Secretary? No.
2467. You are not a member of the Anti-Chinese League? No; I am not.
2468. Did you read the statements made in the press about that time? Well, if I did not read them I heard them read.
2469. I am referring principally to the statements that a system of wholesale bribery of the Police Force was being carried on; do you know anything about the gold watches, diamond rings, and so on, that it is said have been given to the police by the owners of Chinese gambling-houses? No; I was no party to the charges; and what is more, I thought that if they wanted to get rid of the Chinese it was a mistake to introduce such a subject, and I condemn it.
2470. President.] Why did you object to those charges being made? Because they went away from the point.
2471. But how if they were true? Because however firmly they might believe them, I did not think that they would be able to prove them.
2472. Do you yourself after living down there all those years know anything whatever of anything that would sustain such a charge? No; excepting that we have got eyes in our head and they lead us to believe a lot.
2473. Mr. Abigail.] Have you any doubt of this; that the police must be cognizant of the fact that gambling is carried on down there to an alarming extent? No; I have no doubt about it.
2474. You know that by passing up and down the street day after day they must know that gambling is carried on down there? They cannot help knowing it.
2475. Do not you think that it is their duty to take steps to suppress it? Yes, I do. That is what they are paid for.

Mr. H. J.
Maguire.
18 Sept., 1891.

2476. Do you think that they have taken every step for its suppression, or do you think that they have neglected their duty? They have neglected their duty, and seriously neglected it.
2477. And do you think that the effect of their gambling places is to injure the locality and demoralise every one who comes in contact with them? The gambling injures the district and impoverishes the people. Wives and children are reduced to starvation and have to fall back upon other people to get something to eat.
2478. Is it a fact that it is almost impossible to get into these places although the police are armed with warrants? Well if I had the management of the force I should not have found it difficult.
2479. You think that if you had control of the Force you would easily find a way to get in? I do; but if I had no desire to get in and drummed it about the country first, then I should not get in. Pardon me if I suggest that your interpreter could give you a lot of information about a testimonial presented to Sergeant Dawson in reference to getting out of a house where they had small-pox.
2480. Mr. McKillop.] Are you sure that you are referring to our interpreter? Yes; I saw him sitting in the next room.
2481. Mr. Quong Tart.] Can you tell us how many houses are kept by the Chinese for gaming purposes? No, I cannot tell now. I never took the trouble to count. I know however that it is too many.
2482. About how many? I suppose there are twenty in Lower George-street.
2483. Were you ever in Goulburn-street or Wexford-street? No, not that I know of. I think I have passed through Goulburn-street in going to catch the tram, but that is all.
2484. How long is it since you first heard about the Chinese gambling transactions? About eight years. Chinese gambling was started in the first instance just opposite Sun Kum Tiy's.
2485. Have you ever taken any part in the game? No, never.
2486. Do you understand at all how it is played? No.
2487. Do you think it is a fair game, or is there any cheating in connection with it? I really do not know the game.
2488. How many live in your house? Four—my brother, my sister, an invalid aunt, and myself.
2489. Can you give us the names of any respectable Chinese merchants who are not connected in any way, as far as you know, with gambling? Messrs. On Lek & Lee, On Chong & Co., Sun Kum Tiy, Tin War, Boo Loong, and Mr. Dobson. There are only about five firms, as far as I can see, who do not participate in gambling.
2490. Mr. Abigail.] The respectable firms do not represent half the total? No; about one-sixth of the houses inhabited by Chinamen are devoted to legitimate trade, and only about 5 per cent. of the individuals.
2491. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say that the Chinese are very dirty? Yes.
2492. Where do you find the most dirt, amongst the gamblers or the merchants? The gamblers are dirty in every way, while the storekeepers' places are as clean as my own. Boo Loong's, for example, is as clean as any place in the city.
2493. Is Ah Toy's a clean place? Yes.
2494. Is any gambling done there? I cannot say.
2495. Do you say that you have seen policemen standing outside the houses whilst gambling has been going on inside? Well, you cannot help seeing them on duty at the door.
2496. Can you give us the names of any of these policemen? Sergeant Higgins, Senior-constable Adaire, Constable Carson, and Constable Beadman, the man who wears the diamond rings. They are going backwards and forwards every day.
2497. Who wear the diamond rings? Beadman, and several others. Beadman wears a very large one, and is very heavy in the paraphernalia of his jewellery.
2498. Have you seen them wear the diamond rings lately? Yes. In fact, I was walking down the road with Mr. Kelly, M.P., when Beadman came along, and said that it was very hard that these charges should be made against the police, and that he bought his diamond ring at a pawn-shop down the street. I said to him, "You seem to be very flurried. If there is nothing in these charges, why should you mind them?" Carson, who was with us, said, "I wish someone would mention my name I would take a Supreme Court action against him for £10,000, and if I could not get it I would take it out of his body."
2499. Had he a diamond ring on? That I cannot say.
2500. How long ago is it that you had this conversation with him? Within the last month, since the Commission was appointed. They have since asked me at my own door where they could get gold watches.
2501. You say that the Chinese who keep gambling places are very dirty;—do you know of any European places in the city equal to them? No, for the simple reason that the Chinamen's places are shut up all day long, and the Chinamen and the great unwashed are standing about smoking very inferior material.
2502. Is there opium smoking going on in every gambling-house? I do not know; I do not go inside.
2503. But you can detect opium when you smell it? No; I do not think that anyone can detect opium from the other things.
2504. Anyone who has smelt opium once can distinguish it always? I have no doubt that they do smoke opium, because I have had to go to the doors of several of their houses with photographs when they have patronised me, and I have seen several of them lying on couches and smoking over a lamp; so that if that is smoking opium I have seen a lot of it.
2505. You say that you do not think the police have done their duty? Not by a long way.
2506. Not because they have no power? In my opinion they have quite sufficient power if they liked to use it. They make one raid in three years, and if they made a raid every week they would soon stop it.
2507. Who is the greatest gambler down there? I do not know.
2508. Surely, as you have lived down there so long, you ought to know? Several houses have been considered at different times the biggest gambling places. The proprietor of a house at the end of the row in which I live—I do not know who owns it, it is No. 181—is supposed, according to rumour, to make £3,000 a year clear profit out of it.
2509. That is Sun Sam Kee's; have you seen many Europeans going into it? That house swarms with people coming out and saying that they have lost every penny.
2510. At what hours? Any time between 7 o'clock and 11 o'clock at night.
2511. Do you know any Europeans who go in there? I have seen a Civil Servant going in to purchase lottery tickets.

Mr. H. J.
Maguire.

18 Sept., 1891.

2512. What suggestion could you make to stop this evil? That if the Government have not the power to suppress it they ought to gain revenue by it; but in my opinion the shortest way, and the sweetest, is to crush it out by an Act of Parliament, and if gambling is carried on hold the landlord equally responsible with the gamblers.

2513. Mr. Hawthorne.] Now about Inspector Atwill. How did the conversation between you and him, to the effect that you should supply him with photos., and that the other tradesmen should supply him with other things free of charge, come about? I was sitting at the door of my shop with my sister, and one of us—I forget which—by way of a joke, said, “I wish he would speculate 5s. in a photo., for he is always looking at them.” He replied, “I never had my photo. or those of my family taken.” I said, “It is near time you had,” to which he replied that he considered that the photographer should supply himself and his family with photos, free of charge, and that the butcher, the baker, and the coal and firewood man should also supply him with goods free of charge for the protection that he afforded.

2514. Did you think he was serious? Yes; he was as serious as though he was on his oath.

2515. What reply did you make him? I asked if he did not consider that the Government paid him sufficiently, because we were surprised that such a foolish suggestion should come from a man in charge of the district; and he said, “No; they do not.”

2516. Are you and Inspector Atwill on friendly terms? We are.

2517. Have you had any conversation with him since the Commission started? No.

2518. Has he had any opportunity of doing so? No; I have not given him any opportunity.

2519. Your object in keeping away from Inspector Atwill was because you thought you were going to be called upon to give evidence? I thought so, as I was such an old resident in Lower George-street.

2520. So you thought at the time that you would probably have to come and give the evidence that you have given this afternoon? Yes; I thought it very likely.

2521. Has you any conversation with the Members of Parliament for West Sydney who introduced the deputation that waited upon the Premier? Before I was aware of the existence of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League the Members of Parliament for West Sydney came to my place to have their photos. taken.

2522. And before they knew that they were going to introduce this deputation to the Premier had they any conversation with you about the matter? Yes; the four Members for West Sydney.

2523. What was the purport of the conversation? It was to draw attention to the Chinese gambling.

2524. Did you state to him or to anybody else anything about the diamond rings? No; I never mentioned anything about diamond rings.

2525. Did you say to anyone else anything about the bribery of the police? No; I only told Mr. Davis about Dawson and Way Kee, and said that it was stated at the deputation that Lower George-street was the best beat in the city. I said that near the door of the hotel that recently fell down one man made £17 in one week for “over-time men-of-war’s men.”

2526. Mr. Abigail.] That was for arresting them? Yes. I have heard that the Imperial Government pays £3 and the Colonial Government £5, or a total of £8 per man and that one constable received £17 in a week and another £27 in a fortnight. I have seen two sergeants throw their handcuffs—“chain shot” as they call it—after the sailors, and say that it was a pity they had not broken their heads, as they had lost £3 by missing them. I then sent a letter to the naval officer in charge on the subject.

2527. That was previous to the deputation to the Premier? Yes, years ago.

2528. Have you seen any of the police going about with Chinamen? Yes.

2529. Have you seen any of the police going into the oyster-saloon? I should not be surprised at it.

2530. You have never seen any of them going in? I might have done.

2531. Have you seen Constables Beadman and Carson going in and buy refreshment with the Chinese? They are always hanging about that quarter; but, unless you dogged them, you could find out nothing definite on the matter.

2532. What induced you to take a photograph of those premises? It was in order to show what sort of houses they were, how distinctly they were labelled, so that you would see that the police really had no excuse.

2533. Were you aware, previously to taking the photo., what was the meaning in English of those announcements? I have known it for years.

2534. You have always known what they meant? I have.

2535. And do you think they are known to the generality of Europeans who frequent the houses? Yes.

2536. And do you think that the police who are on duty in that quarter are aware of the meaning of the notices? Every one of them is aware of it.

2537. You are quite sure? I am. If there is an isolated case in which a man is not aware of it he must be very dull—much duller than I gave him credit for, and ought to be made a Sunday school teacher.

2538. And you think that, seeing the notice, the police ought to have interfered with them? Yes.

2539. You say that you have lost a great deal of business since the Chinese gamblers came amongst you? Yes.

2540. Yet you say at the same time that you have done a good deal of business with the Chinese? Yes, I have.

2541. Well, do you think you have made up from trade with the Chinese what you have lost from the Europeans? Not 1 per cent. Ladies and gentlemen who used to come to me to have their photos. taken have told me that they would come now but for the Chinese nuisance.

2542. You must be doing a good trade, however, to pay the rent you do? Well, we have to be at it from 7 o'clock in the morning till 11 and 12 o'clock at night; and, very often, on Sundays as well.

2543. What is the reason that business men will remain there when there are vacant places higher up the street? They cannot help it. I would have been out of it years ago if I could, but I have an invalid aunt, who has been out of her mind for seventeen years, to look after, and cannot leave.

2544. If the Chinese were removed do you think you could do a larger trade? I do.

2545. Are there any empty houses down there? There are—one owned by the Hon. George Thornton has been vacant for three months, and he will not let it to a Chinaman.

TUESDAY, 22 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSAY MCKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. H. J. Maguire further examined:—

- Mr. H. J. Maguire. 2546. Mr. McKillop.] Do you remember Sergeant Macintosh being in charge of that district—Lower George-street—at one time? Yes.
2547. During Sergeant Macintosh's time, was gambling carried on to the same extent there as it is now? No; it is certainly on the increase.
2548. During the time Sergeant Macintosh was on duty in that district, do you know if he made any raids on the gambling-dens kept by the Chinese there? During the whole of the time I remember only three or four raids being made.
2549. You stated in your evidence at the last meeting of the Commission that you had seen policemen very often going into these gambling-dens;—have you seen them go in there in uniform or were they plain-clothes constables? They were in private clothes mostly, but since this investigation started I have noticed two sergeants going in—one in private clothes and one in police uniform. They went to take an account, so far as I can learn, of the number of persons residing on the premises.
2550. Has Sergeant Maguire ever made it his business to enter these gambling-dens to your knowledge? I cannot say, except it might be on the occasion of police raids being made.
2551. Is he on that beat? Yes.
2552. Do you remember a riot taking place in Lower George-street a year or eighteen months or two years ago? A riot?
2553. A row, then;—do you remember a particular row occurring there about the time stated? Oh, that is a weekly occurrence.
2554. Do you remember a half-caste Chinaman named Riley being assaulted? I heard something about it, but know nothing of it personally. I have seen fights in the streets, and people carried away covered with blood, and I have seen iron bars used in such rows.
2555. You have seen them used? Yes.
2556. Would these rows occur during the day or night? Both by day and night.
2557. Have you ever received any threatening letters? No.
2558. Do you know of anybody who has received threatening letters? No; and if I did I would take very little notice of it. I am not weak-kneed.
2559. Are you aware of any secret societies existing among the Chinese? No; but I have heard of such.
2560. Do you know of any sustentation fund subscribed to for the purpose of making presents to the police, or paying the law expenses of its members who may get into trouble? Not of my own knowledge.
2561. Have you ever had any conversation with any of Way Kee's clerks with reference to such a fund? No; I have not been in Way Kee's store now for six or eight months.
2562. Have you ever taken photographs of policemen and presented them to them free of charge? No; I do not go "on the nod" with any of them. Any policeman who has had his photograph taken at my place paid the full price for them.
2563. Nobody except Mr. Atwill has spoken to you on the same terms as he has done? No.
2564. Can you tell us the number of the house, the shutters of which, as you said, have not been taken down for eighteen months? These [produced] are the photographs of the houses I mentioned. This [pointing to one of them] is the crib for which £4 10s. and taxes equal to £5 per week rent is paid. It was formerly a shooting gallery, and forms part of the public-house, which uses the yard at the back of it. The shutters of that house have not been taken down for eighteen months.
2565. Do you remember the time when Mr. Johnston was Inspector of that district? I do.
2566. Mr. Abigail.] When was this photograph taken? Last Saturday afternoon.
2567. Did Inspector Johnson, while in charge of that district, make any raids, or take special steps to suppress the gambling-dens in that—No. 4—district? I do not remember that. All I remember of any circumstances connected with Inspector Johnson is this: On one occasion—it was on Sunday, between 11 and 12 o'clock—I saw two women going round the street in a half drunken condition, and semi-naked. I drew the attention of a policeman to the circumstance, the women having by that time gone round the back street. I had no other conversation with the constable, but I was seen speaking to him by Mr. Atwill, who was at that time under Inspector Johnson, and he (Mr. Atwill) reported the constable to head-quarters, and he was fined a day's pay. I explained the circumstances to Superintendent Read on the constable's account, but got no satisfaction, and I then spoke to Inspector Johnson, and threatened to have the matter brought before Parliament; but in the meantime the constable had resigned on account of the treatment meted out to him, and I thought it was no use going any further.
2568. Do you know of any cases verging on leprosy having occurred in that part of George-street? Yes.
2569. You are quite sure of that? Oh, yes; I am quite sure, because the place is only a few doors off, and the young fellow who was affected with it made his escape. It was discovered after he came to the country, and he lived there for twelve months or so. He made his escape to China a couple of months ago.
2570. Are you of opinion that, had there been proper inspection of these buildings, the presence of this leper would have been found out sooner? It was well known among the Chinamen there.
2571. Was it known among the police? That I cannot say.
2572. Was it generally known among the European residents, or to any number of them? I do not know.
2573. But it was known to you? Yes; but too late for proceedings being taken. It was through my making inquiries as to what was the matter with this man that the bubble burst, as it were.
2574. You stated in your evidence the other day that you had often seen young lads in these Chinese gambling-dens? Yes.
2575. Any young girls there of 14 or 15 years of age? No; they have been remarkably free from women as far as I could see.

2576. Is it a fact that, on the arrival of steamers from China, the people coming by them principally lodge in these places in Lower George-street? I do not know that; but in years gone by I have seen six or seven thousand of them in the street, occupying from Argyle-street to Charlotte-place, and they would house from five to six hundred in a house. Mr. Nock told me the other day that in one house alone he had fitted out for the diggings no less than 700 Chinamen.
2577. How did they dispose of themselves—did they all lie on top of one another? I do not know that.
2578. How long ago is this, to the best of your knowledge? It is some years back.
2579. Can you not give us an idea—was it four or five, or six or seven years ago? Well, it is now nine years since the £10 poll-tax was put on;—it is ten or twelve years ago, perhaps.
2580. Have you had a conversation with Inspector Atwill since you were here last Friday? No. Indeed, I have avoided him in every respect.
2581. Has Inspector Atwill put himself in your way in any manner? No; I may say that I have not given him the slightest opportunity, for if I saw him coming down the street in my direction, I would walk away.
2582. Have you had a conversation with any member of the police force on matters relating to this Commission? No.
2583. With Constable Adair, for example? No.
2584. Or Sergeant Higgins? No; with none of them.
2585. Mr. Abigail.] You brought two photographs here of Chinese-kept houses in Lower George-street; one of these is kept by Han Kee; you will notice that the tickets are partially torn off the shop fronts;—is that of recent date? Yes; since the Commission started. All the papers have been swept off since then, and the places have been cleaned up.
2586. You produced another photograph of a shop with the shutters up, and on which the papers are distinctly noticeable now; when was that photograph taken? On Saturday evening last.
2587. There is no attempt to interfere with these papers in this particular case, and anyone passing down the street can see them; do you know what these papers contain in writing? Yes; the notice states that “fan-tan is carried on day and night.”
2588. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know Sergeant Higgins? I do.
2589. Do you know if he owns much property? Yes; he is, according to reports, a wealthy man. I have heard that he paid £4,000 for a property a few months ago. Mr. Davis, M.P., told me so. For my own part I do not know anything about it.
2590. Do you think he could have acquired that property from the salary he has received in his official capacity? Well, that is drawing the line rather close.
2591. You can form an opinion, I suppose; that is all I am asking you to do? Well, I have been living twenty-two years in one place of business, and can hardly pay my way.
2592. You have grave doubts that he did obtain the property in that way? I would be very sorry to say that he came by it dishonestly, but he has no business, and with only his salary to depend upon, and having a family of twelve to keep, I do not see how he could become possessed of this property unless somebody left or gave him the money to purchase it or assisted him—(example) a building society.
2593. How long has he been in the force, do you know? Twenty years, I believe.
2594. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know whether he does anything on the “totes”? I cannot say as to that.
2595. Are there any other sergeants or constables in that district who have property to your knowledge? I do not know.
2596. Senior Constable Adair, for instance? I do not know.
2597. You do not know of any case? I know Mr. Atwill told me on an occasion, when I had a conversation with him, to which I have already alluded, that he had sufficient property now, and that he could clear from the police at any time.
2598. He stated that to you personally in conversation? Yes. I do not remember exactly what led up to it. I think it was in talking about Mr. Anderson at the time of his retirement. Mr. Anderson was reputed to be a poor man, and then it was that Mr. Atwill said that he was all right, as he had sufficient property.
2599. Do you know of any constable or police officer who possesses property besides the two you have named? Yes; there is Mr. Carney, an ex-sergeant of police.
2600. When did he leave the force? He is in the Government pay yet.
2601. He has a pension? Yes; and is in receipt of pay also, as caretaker of the dead-house.
2602. When did he leave the force? He left when he met with an accident. He broke his leg hunting after some Chinamen that were supposed to have stolen some tobacco.
2603. Can you not say when he left the force? No; I cannot say that.
2604. Can you not give a rough guess? Well, it may be seven years ago.
2605. Where is the property that ex-sergeant Carney has? Somewhere on the Rocks, near Argyle-street.
2606. And where is the property which Sergeant Higgins has? Somewhere about the same place, I believe.
2607. President.] Who told you about Sergeant Higgins buying property? I cannot remember just at this moment, or how the conversation arose. I think it was about the time this investigation started, and some remark was made about how policemen could get rich, and then the remarks was made about Sergeant Higgins having purchased property, and paid £4,000 for it some time ago.
2608. Do you remember your authority? Mr. Davis, M.P., told me so.
2609. Mr. Hawthorne.] Where did this conversation take place—was it a casual meeting, or did you meet outside your shop door? I think it was somewhere about King-street. The police were terribly annoyed about the remarks which had been made—that is the references to bribery, and I remember saying that it did not affect those who knew they were not guilty, or that they need not wear the cap unless it fitted them.
2610. I suppose the deputation which waited on the Premier on the subject of the Chinese gambling, discussed this matter? Yes; or the neighbours among themselves, such as, “Do you remember this, or that thing,” but no one could give a particular account of it. I may say that the police have charged me with being a chief mover in this matter, because I have the photographs of the Members for West Sydney at the door of my shop. In fact, I have become a target for them in consequence.
2611. Did those gentlemen come to give you a sitting as Members of Parliament? Yes. I may remark that three and a half years ago I did my best to get rid of this gambling evil, and caused a Bill to be prepared for submission to Parliament with that object, but as it touched the interest of the landlords I could not get it through.

- Mr. H. J. Maguire. 22 Sept., 1891.
2612. Do you know Constable Quealy? Yes.
2613. He used to be on that beat—Lower George-street? Yes.
2614. Did Constable Quealy have the opportunity of witnessing the scenes you have described as taking place in that locality? Yes; better I should say, because it was his duty.
2615. Have you ever seen him enter these Chinese gambling-houses? Yes; one cannot help it. They may be seen going in and out every day in the week.
2616. It is a common occurrence? Yes. On one occasion, in conversation with Mr. Higgins, I asked him what the police went in there for, and he replied, "that they went in there to see what was going on." I told him then that it was a mere waste of time to go in there if they made no attempt to crush it out, and they had better not go inside at all.
2618. When did you hear that—since the Commission was appointed? No; it was before the Commission was appointed.
2619. Are you acquainted with the English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered Bank? I know the bank.
2620. Is that your bank? Yes.
2621. You know the Manager? Simply by going in there.
2622. Have you had any conversation with him as to the amount of money banked by Chinamen? No.
2623. Mr. Quong Tart.] I see you have taken photographs of certain Chinese houses;—do you know the occupier of this one [referring to one of the houses in question]? That place is next to the Ropemakers' Arms Hotel.
2624. Do you know the name of the person occupying it? There are half a dozen occupying it—a sort of syndicate.
2625. Do you know their names? No.
2626. There are notices on white paper outside these houses;—I want you to point out where the fan-tan is referred to? That is what I have been informed, it is.
2627. You do not know that it says anything else besides that? No; it has been read by several Chinese for me.
2628. Does it say anything about all transactions only? I do not know that.
2629. President.] You know Mr. T. M. Davis, Member of Parliament, representing West Sydney? Yes.
2630. Do you remember having a conversation with him during the last month or two respecting these Chinese gambling-houses? I do.
2631. Did you tell Mr. Davis that a Chinaman, who lived next door to, or in the neighbourhood of, your house, had complained to you that a policeman used to blackmail him to the extent of a £20 note? Yes.
2632. Did any Chinaman tell you that? Yes.
2633. Who was it? One of the clerks in Way Kee's.
2634. Is he in Way Kee's service now? No.
2635. Where is he? I think he is in China.
2636. Now, I want to know, as near as possible, the conversation that took place between you? I think the conversation I had with him is all in my evidence. It was to the effect that if old Way Kee were called there was no doubt a lot of information could be got out of him bearing upon the police, and that a police sergeant was reported to be blackmailing them for a loan that was never paid. That was after the deputation, and after the charges were publicly made at the interview with Sir Henry Parkes.
2637. Was that the £20 transaction you have given evidence about before? Yes.
2638. And that occurred about nine or ten years ago? Yes.
2639. And the constable in question was Constable Dawson? Yes. I should like to add to some evidence that I gave a little while since, that when I attempted to get this gambling put down three and a half years ago, I was told it was quite impossible to get the Bill through, as I proposed, because it provided that the landlord of the house carried on for gambling purposes should be made responsible if due notice was given, and no abatement of the offence took place within a certain time thereafter. I may add that the police generally go to Way Kee to make inquiries as to anything that may be reported to have been stolen in the line of brass, or anything of that kind. I know a case of a boy whose parents disowned him on account of his stealing, and Way Kee bought the brass that he stole. There are lots of things going on there that we cannot see, though we know they exist.
2640. Do you know if Way Kee's grandson was ever charged with receiving stolen brass? I do not know that.
2641. Do you know Way Kee's grandson—he lives in the shop? I do not know which is the son and which is the grandson.
2642. Do you know if any of Way Kee's men was recently charged with, or convicted of receiving stolen goods? I cannot say.

[The witness withdrew.]

Way Shong called and examined:—

- Way Shong. 22 Sept., 1891.
2643. President.] Where do you live? In Lower George-street.
2644. What business do you carry on? I do nothing; I am a kind of amateur doctor.
2645. How many rooms are there in the house in which you live? Two rooms.
2646. And it is situated in Lower George-street? It is No. 8, in a little street at the back of Lower George-street—Essex-street, I think.
2647. Were you at Moy Ping's on the night the police visited his place? No.
2648. Are you quite sure you are telling the truth? Yes; I heard that there was a raid made.
2649. Do you know Moy Ping? Yes.
2650. What business does he carry on? He has a kind of shop, but what business I do not know. I know they have a lottery there.
2651. Do you not know that they play fan-tan there very largely? Yes, I know about that.
2652. Do you know how much money Moy Ping sent home as the profits on his business last year? I do not know that.
2653. Have you no idea? No, I do not know. 2654.

2654. What rent do you pay for the house where you live? I pay 8s. per week.
2655. From what sources do you derive your income? I make my money by attending to the Chinese who hurt themselves, or who have any malformation.
2656. Have you anyone living with you? There are some people living on the back part of the yard.
2657. Are they Chinese? In my own place there are no others living, but next door there are Englishmen.
2658. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? No.
2659. How long have you been living in Lower George-street? A little over a year.
2660. Where were you living before that? Before that I was living in Harrington-street.
2661. That is in the same direction? Yes.
2662. How long were you living there? A little over a year also.
2663. How long have you been in Sydney? Twelve years.
2664. Where did you live when you first came out? I was on the gold-fields when I first came out—went up the country.
2665. How long is it since you came from the country? Three years.
2666. Where did you live when you first came to Sydney, after returning from the gold-fields? I went straight across to Melbourne first.
2667. How long were you there? I lived on Melbourne side for twenty years.
2668. I want to know where you have lived mostly in Sydney for the last twelve years? In Lower George-street principally.
2669. You were twenty years in Melbourne? Yes.
2670. I want you to tell me the names of the Chinese societies that exist in Melbourne? In Melbourne there is the Hop Fook Tong.
2671. Is that the only one? It is the only one I know of.
2672. Is there a branch of that society in Sydney? Yes; every community has one similar.
2673. What are the objects of the society you mention? It is for taking up dead bones to take home to China.
2674. Does that society get any contributions from the gaming-houses? No.
2675. Where do they get their money from? Each man pays a contribution of 5s., and those who can afford to pay more do so.
2676. Who is the treasurer? At one time the money was at my place.
2677. Who is the treasurer now? Since then, I do not know where it is. At that time I was forced to give over the money in consequence of my business going wrong.
2678. Did you ever pay the police any money in connection with the recovery of the dead bones of your countrymen? No.
2679. Do you ever employ the police in the country districts to help you to get the dead bones and forward them? No. The permits are obtained here, and the rest is done up country, where the graves are.
2680. Now, I want you to tell me the names of the Chinese societies in Sydney? The Loon Yee Tong and the Koon Yee Tong. I only know of those two.
2681. Who is treasurer of the Loon Yee Tong? The money was kept at my place.
2682. Have you ever paid any money to the police out of that society? No.
2683. Have you ever paid out of the funds of that society any fines that have been inflicted upon your countrymen at the Police Court? No; nothing has ever been paid to the police; only to poor, and lame, or sick Chinamen.
2684. Have you got the books of the society? No; when I handed over the money of the society to those people who clamoured for it the books were, all of them, destroyed.
2685. How much money did you then have in hand? There was £420 odd.
2686. When was that money handed over? About three years ago.
2687. To whom did you hand it over? To Way Kee and Yee Sang Toong.
2688. Did the society get much money from the gambling-houses? Wherever the money came from—it might have come from the gambling-houses, or it might not—it came in pretty freely.
2689. Did the money come in from the gambling-houses? I do not know that.
2690. You must know? No; I could not tell you whom it came from. I was in the store all the time.
2691. How long were you treasurer? For two years.
2692. Do you mean to tell me that, being treasurer of the society, you do not know whom you got the money from? I do not know whom it came from. When the money was brought in it would be accompanied by the collecting-books, which would have everybody's subscription in.
2693. Who issued the subscription-books? Four persons in the society went out with them.
2694. Did you issue any? The books were not given out by me. The four persons I have mentioned got the books themselves and went out with them.
2695. Do you not know that some money came from the Goulburn-street stores? Yes.
2696. And from the proprietors of gaming-houses in Goulburn-street? Yes.
2697. Do you not know, as a matter of fact, that money came to you from Moy Ping? Moy Ping is not of my community—he would not subscribe.
2698. Do you not know that money came into that society from the gambling-houses in Lower George-street—some of them? If the gambling-houses were of my own community they would subscribe.
2699. How many gambling-houses are there of your own community in Lower George-street? Five or six, so far as my memory serves me.
2700. What is the name of your community? The Loon Yee Tong.
2701. If one of your community were taken to the Police Court and fined, would not the society pay the fine if it had the necessary money? No; it is only for poor and sick people.
2702. If there was a warrant out for any Chinese of your community would not you or any member of your society try to get the warrant cancelled? No.
2703. Why would you not do that? Each man would look after his own business.
2704. If each man looks after his own business what occasion is there for the society? The objects are to provide a fund for sick people, and people who are unable to pay their passages home; and the other object I have mentioned. Those are the reasons for its existence.

Way Shong.
22 Sept., 1891.

- Way Shong. 2705. Do you know Sergeant Dawson? No.
 2706. Do you know any policeman at all? No.
 22 Sept., 1891. 2707. Were you ever taken to the Police Court and charged with any crime whatever? No; and I have never had a summons in my life.
 2708. Have you ever remitted any money to Hong Kong yourself? Yes; I have sent home some. I have been here a long time.
 2709. How much have you sent home? Over £100.
 2710. Have you any money here in the bank? No; I have nothing. I am very poor now.
 2711. You say you do not know any police at all? No.
 2712. Have you been present lately at any meetings of the Chinese societies in Sydney? No; not now. On account of my being poor nobody would ask me to go.
 2713. Do you know Way Kee? Yes.
 2714. Was there any meeting at his place lately of Chinese interested in gambling? No; not that I know.
 2715. How many members are there in the Loon Yee Tong? Over 500.
 2716. Are they sworn to assist each other? They enter their names in a book, that is all.
 2717. Do they make any promise of any kind when they become members? No; none.
 2718. Do they not promise to shield each other from police prosecutions? No.
 2719. If one Chinaman informs on others, is he not in danger of his life from other members of the society? No; so far as I know, they would not.
 2720. Is there not a secret society of Chinese in Sydney, the members of which promise to shield each other from the police? No.
 2721. There is no secret society of any kind that is opposed to the law? No.
 2722. Do you not know that Chinese coming here to give evidence are in danger of their lives? I do not know it.
 2723. We have been informed that it is so; are you surprised to hear that? I am not frightened.
 2724. Is there a branch of this Loon Yee Tong, in Goulburn-street? There is no Loon Yee Tong now; when it broke up, the money—that £400 I have mentioned—was sent to Hong Kong, to be given to charities.
 2725. Who sent it? Way Kee and Yee Sang Loong.
 2726. Was there none of it distributed here? No.
 2727. How do you know, seeing that you have nothing to do with the society? It is well known to anybody that the money was given into good hands to send home. The odd £20 was sent to the hospital.
 2728. Of what nature are the charities this money was given to? It was sent to Hong Kong for the people there to buy coffins to put on board the boats, so that if any Chinaman died at sea his body would not be thrown overboard.
 2729. Are you sure that none of that money was sent to officers of the police? Yes; I know it was not.
 2730. Do you know of the police paying visits to the Chinese gambling-houses during the last five years? Yes.
 2731. How often? A few times I have heard of it.
 2732. Can you explain how it is that gambling is carried on openly by your countrymen without their being molested by the police? I believe the police themselves have the law in their own hands; if they like to stop them I suppose they can, and if they do not like to stop them it is their affair. It is their work.
 2733. Has it occurred to you that the police must have been bribed? I cannot say. I cannot form any opinion about it. It is their work, and if anything is given to them I would not know of it.
 2734. Is it true that Way Kee has given anything to the police? No.
 2735. Is it true that presents of various articles of furniture have been made to the police in Lower George-street? No, I do not know of any.
 2736. Do you know that one of the police was made a present of a diamond ring? No.
 2737. What other societies are there in Sydney besides the Loon Yee Tong? I only know of one other—the Koon Yee Tong.
 2738. Is that a firmly-established society? Yes, that is a good society.
 2739. Are you an officer of that society? No.
 2740. Mr. Abigail.] Did you carry on business in Lower George-street with Ah Chong? Yes.
 2741. Trading under the title of Tong Fong? Yes.
 2742. What business did you carry on? English and Chinese goods and Chinese chemists.
 2743. How long is it since you started in business in connection with the lottery tickets? I was in business a little over a year when the lottery started there.
 2744. And you were one of the first to take it up? No; there was no lottery at my place then.
 2745. Did you never have anything to do with the lottery as agent? No.
 2746. Do you understand that if you do not tell the truth here you will go to gaol? Yes.
 2747. What is your position with your own countrymen here and the Europeans—do they respect you? I have friends amongst the Chinese, and sometimes, when I am hard up, they will help me; but English friends I have none.
 2748. Do your countrymen here hold you in high respect? Yes.
 2749. Do they make a confidant of you? Not so much now as formerly, because I am poor now.
 2750. You have an intimate knowledge of the way fan-tan is carried on? Yes; I have seen it every day.
 2751. Can you give us any idea of the extent to which both these systems of gambling are carried on in the City of Sydney? Not having much to do with it lately, I cannot give you any idea.
 2752. But you can speak as to the past? Yes; before it was very great.
 2753. Who were the parties that chiefly benefited by the winnings in connection with these gambling-shops? For a long time I have had nothing to do with gambling, and so cannot tell.
 2754. You told the President you had never been charged in any way at any of the law Courts;—do you not remember an action being taken against you for fraudulent insolvency? No.
 2755. Do you not remember a number of Chinese and Europeans—your creditors—meeting together, and deciding to take steps of that kind—about four years ago? Nothing particular was said. They might have met together, so far as I know.
 2756. Were not proceedings instituted? No.

Way Shong,
22 Sept., 1891.

2757. Have you heard of any of your countrymen losing large sums of money at gambling? Yes, I have heard of it.
2758. Have you done, or do you do anything in the way of gambling yourself? No; not now.
2759. Have you at any time? No; I was a storekeeper before. I have never had anything to do with gambling.
2760. What led to your failure in business—was it not losses in gambling? No; we lost a lot of money in country business. At one store in Junee we lost a large amount of money.
2761. Was none of it lost in gambling—I want this made very clear? No; it had nothing to do with gambling at all; only bad debts in the country.
2762. Do you know the syndicates of Chinamen that are running these gambling-dens in Sydney? Yes.
2763. Have you ever been connected with them? No.
2764. Can you give us the names of any persons connected with them? I may know some of them, and I may not know others. I have nothing to do with them now; and I cannot exactly tell you who they are, because I have been so long away from them.
2765. Do you remember a row that took place in a Chinese gambling-den, in Campbell-street, some time ago? No.
2766. Did you not take any part in the Police Court in getting the men out of it? No; I had nothing to do with it.
2767. Do you know Pun Num, of 180, Lower George-street? Yes; I have seen the name on the door.
2768. Have you seen notices on white paper posted up outside? Yes.
2769. Will you look at that [photograph] and read the characters on it for me? It says Pun Num first and on one side a notice about “gambling day and night,” and the same on the other side.
2770. You have seen these notices on the fronts of the houses in question? Yes.
2771. For years past? Yes.
2772. Will you read the characters on this one [referring to a second photograph]? It says: “Day and night, gambling carried on here—cash business done only”; or words to that effect.
2773. Do you know that the notices have been in the front of these places for some considerable time, and that people passing up and down there are bound to see them? Yes, they have been there a long time so that everybody could see them.
2774. Have you ever been in the hands of the police? No.
2775. Do you know anything about the presence and character of European women in the quarter where you live? There are very few of them down there.
2776. Do you smoke opium? No.
2777. Are you personally in favour of the suppression of gambling by the strictest possible means? My feelings are like this: As I do not want to have anything to do with it, or say about it.
2778. Are you in favour of gambling is what I want to know;—as a man you must have some feeling on the subject, and I want to ascertain your views as to whether you are in favour of gambling, or whether you would wish to see it abolished or suppressed by rigorous measures, and I must have an answer to the question? As I am not a gambler I cannot have anything to say about it one way or the other.
2779. You must state distinctly;—are you in favour of, or opposed to, gambling? In every country there is gambling.
2780. That is not an answer to the question. What are your own views or feelings in reference to it;—do you think it has a tendency to elevate or demoralise the people who engage in it? My feelings are this way: As I have nothing to do with them I would not like to press them down or raise them up.
2781. Could a person run a shop in China with notices put up outside like that on the photograph you have been looking at; could a man carry on a business like that with impunity in China for years? There are cases like that in China.
2782. Does the law allow it to be carried on openly like that, with notices on the shop front intimating that gambling is carried on day and night? They regard it as not of much importance there.
2783. As a matter of fact, is it not one of the chief characteristics of Chinese law that gambling is not tolerated there? It is about the same there as here, I think.
2784. Are the people who generally indulge in gambling in your country of a high class—that is to say, respectable, law-abiding, and so forth? All classes gamble there, whether high or low, so long as they have the money.
2785. Are the men who carry on these places here reckoned to be of the best class of Chinese in this country? I cannot say what the class are at present, as I have been away from them so long.
2786. You decline positively to express an opinion as to whether gambling is good or bad? If I said it was good you would not believe me, but I would like to say it is no good.
2787. What age are you? I am 60 years of age.
2788. Do you believe gambling is a good thing? I cannot say straight out what my mind is—what opinion I would like to express.
2789. Do you know what they do to a man in China, who, being in a witness-box, would not answer questions? I was never in a Court in China.
2790. Never mind what has taken place before the commencement of this agitation—that is, the deputation to the Premier, and the appointment of the Commission; we cannot help the past. What do you think is best to be done for the future by way of meeting the complaints of Europeans in that neighbourhood? As I have said before, I have had nothing to do with gambling, and not being in such good circumstances as I was, I do not mix up with the people, and I want to have nothing whatever to do with the matter at all. I cannot say whether it is good or bad. I would rather not express an opinion of any kind.
2791. I suppose you know the Europeans in Lower George-street have been complaining about the existence of these gambling-shops? Yes.
2792. And are the places filthy, and so forth, according to the complaints of people in the neighbourhood? I have not seen much filth.
2793. It is also said that the Chinese encourage young girls into their places;—is that true or not? I have never seen it.
2794. Mr. Hawthorne.] What business do you engage in in Goulburn-street? It was after I went insolvent that I went to live in Goulburn-street.
2795. What do you do for a living? I do nothing at all.

- Way Shong. 2796. If you are enabled to live without doing anything you must have some means put by which you ought to have given up to your creditors? When I moved down there a lot of my friends helped me.
- 22Sept., 1891. 2797. Have you ever practised as a doctor in any way? I used to be a chemist, but I have never practised as a doctor.
2798. Do you possess any certificate or diploma from China authorising you to act as a chemist? I have a paper which entitles me to cure bruised limbs and little surgical operations of that kind.
2799. Do the Chinese visit you when they are afflicted with venereal disease? No.
2800. Do you never have any patients come to you for treatment who are afflicted with bad disorders? No; I cannot cure that.
2801. Do you ever have any European patients? No.
2802. Your practice is confined entirely to your own countrymen? Yes.
2803. Have you any children? I have one daughter.
2804. Mr. Abigail.] Are you married to a European? No; a Chinese lady.
2805. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you had any conversation with any of your countrymen regarding your visit to this Commission to-day? No.
2806. Have you met and had conversation with individuals who have been previously examined by this Commission? No.
2807. What business or employment are you engaged in now? I am simply carrying on that small place I have told you for anyone who cares to come to me.
2808. But I understand there are very few Chinese afflicted, as you state, with deformed limbs;—is that so? Yes; but I have got two nephews, they are gardeners, who help me besides.
2809. About those Chinamen who were assaulted some time ago and got broken heads, did they come to you for treatment? No.
2810. Have you ever met with any cases of leprosy among your countrymen? No.
2811. Do you know of any cases of leprosy existing in or around the City of Sydney? No.
2812. Have you met with any persons among your patients who appeared to exhibit symptoms of leprosy? No; I confine myself to the class of cases I have spoken of.
2813. Mr. McKillop.] How long is it since you went insolvent? Close on five years.
2814. What have you been doing since then for a living? I have earned money by curing people. I can make £50 or £60 a year, and my nephews help me besides.
2815. Did you ever have in your possession any money belonging to the Loon Yee Tong? Yes.
2816. What amount belonging to that society did you have in your possession? £420 odd.
2817. What position did you occupy in that society? I was treasurer.
2818. When was it that you held that position? About four years ago.
2819. Did you have any partner with you in connection with that? I had one partner—Ah Chong.
2820. Why was the money taken out of your hands? They heard I was going insolvent, and they were frightened that the money I held in trust would go too.
2821. They had some doubts of your honesty? Yes.
2822. Where are the books that were in your possession at that time? There are no books now.
2823. But there were books at one time;—do you know where they are now? When I handed over the money the books were destroyed.
2824. Is it a fact that they were burned? Yes.
2825. Is it not a fact that they were burned only recently? No; at the time the money was handed over; they were burned there and then.
2826. Were they burned in your presence? No. After the money was handed over a final meeting was called, and I was invited to be present, but I did not go, and the books were burned straight away.
2827. Do you know any prominent officers of the society who were at that meeting? Way Kee was one who was there.
2828. Was your partner there? No.
2829. Who else was there besides Way Kee? There were a number there whose names I do not know. There was Tiy Yum, and others.
2830. Who were they who asked your firm to be present at the meeting? The heads of the different communities.
2831. Can you give any of their names? I remember particularly that Way Kee was there.
2832. Who were the others—the heads of firms; you were holding the important position of treasurer, and surely therefore you must know who were the persons that asked you to hand over such a large sum of money. I want to know the names of the men you have referred to? I do not know now. Two went to New Zealand, and there are none of them besides Way Kee in George-street or Goulburn-street now.
2833. Is Tiy Yum in George-street? No.
2834. Ah Long—where is he? He is a gardener; I do not know where he is.
2835. What was the accusation laid against you, when they asked you to hand over this money? No accusation. The only reason was that it was known I was going insolvent, and it was thought that this money belonging to the society would go with the smash, unless it was handed over beforehand.
2836. Is it not a fact that you have been a “tout” for the Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street for the last five years? No; I do not go near them.
2837. Is it not a fact that you were one of the parties mixed up in a row that took place (when you were treasurer) when a man named Ah Chook was severely beaten? I heard of it.
2838. Is it not a fact that you were there and took part in it? No; I had nothing whatever to do with it.
2839. We have certain evidence that you were one of the party. We want to elicit the truth, and if you do not tell the truth, measures must be taken to compel you. Do you mean to say you were not mixed up in that affair? I was not there.
2840. What do you know of the disturbance that took place on that occasion? It was over gambling.
2841. Was not the man Ah Chook severely beaten on that occasion? Yes.
2842. Did you see him after he recovered? Yes.
2843. Had he any marks about his head? Yes.
2844. In your opinion were the injuries to his head inflicted by some hard instrument—of iron, for instance? I did not look very closely; I could not tell.
2845. Do you think it was done with the fist? I could not tell.
2846. However you could see the mark of a severe assault? Yes.

Way Shong.
22 Sept., 1891.

2847. Is Ah Chook living in Lower George-street now? No.
2848. Do you know where he is? No.
2849. What was he assaulted for, do you know? I heard it was in connection with gambling, but I was in Narrandera at the time.
2850. What did you hear was the cause of it—why was this man assaulted? I heard it was for something he had informed about, against the gamblers.
2851. You heard that he was an informer? Yes.
2852. Whom did he supply the information to? I do not know.
2853. Do you know of any assault case where a young fellow named Will Riley was assaulted some short time back? No.
2854. Do you know of a young man—a Chinaman—who was suffering from leprosy in the neighbourhood of Lower George-street some short time back? No.
2855. Do you not know, as a positive fact, that the young fellow I refer to had to fly from or left that portion of the city? No.
2856. Do you know a Chinaman named Yo Kum? I knew one of that name some time ago.
2857. What do you know about him? I believe he has been in Brisbane this two or three years.
2858. Was he not one of the principal gamblers in Lower George-street? Oh, no; that man was not a gambler. He was a business man. He had Sun Kum On's business in Lower George-street.
2859. Have you not got a mate, or partner, who was connected with you for five years, similar to the one I have mentioned? No.
2860. How many rooms are there in the house you occupy? Two rooms.
2861. How many persons besides yourself live there? Only myself and my wife.
2862. What is the number of the house? No. 81, Essex-street.
2863. That is off George-street? Yes.
2864. Are you married to a European or a Chinese? A Chinese woman.
2865. Have you seen any children—boys or girls—in these gambling-dens in Lower George-street? No; never.
2866. Where do you go or visit during the day? To Sun Kum Tiy's and other places.
2867. Did you treat Sun Kum Tiy for a deformed limb? Yes.
2868. Is it not a fact that you have visited Sun Sam Kee's place to play fan-tan? I never was in there.
2869. Were you ever in a gambling-den playing fan-tan? No; I never go in now.
2870. What is the name of your nephew? Han Yu.
2871. Where is he now? In Launceston.
2872. When did your nephew last give you money? Two or three weeks ago.
2873. What amount of money did he give you? £5.
2874. How often do you get these remittances? When I am hard-up I send for it, and my nephew will send me something.
2875. What rent do you pay for the house you live in? 8s. a week.
2876. Who is the owner of that house? I cannot remember the landlord's name.
2877. Whom do you pay the rent to? The landlord comes for it. I have the book at home.
2878. Have you no idea of the man's name at all? No.
2879. How long have you been in the house? A little over a year.
2880. And you mean to tell the Commission you do not know the name of your landlord? No; I do not know his name. My wife pays the money over.
2881. Do you allow opium to be smoked on your premises? No; there is no opium-smoking there.
2882. Are you in favour of putting a stop to the gambling that is carried on in Lower George-street? I cannot say.
2883. Why can you not say? I cannot say one way or the other. As I am not connected with it I would not like to give an opinion.
2884. Is it not a fact that you participate in some of the profits that accrue from these gambling-dens? No; I have not any share at all.
2885. Do you not get a benefit from some society for keeping a vigilant eye on the police and others? No.
2886. Is it not a fact that a subscription was raised on your behalf some time ago? No.
2887. Is it not a fact that there was a sum of money collected shortly after you went insolvent? I was helped by some good friends that I did business with before I went insolvent.
2888. Is not Sum Sam Kee a friend of yours? No.
2889. Or Moy Ping? No.
2890. Have you no friends among the gamblers? No.
2891. Do you think it is right to commit murder? No; it is no good.
2892. Why? Everybody knows that.
2893. Is it not right because it is against the law? Yes; that is the reason.
2894. Now, if to murder is wrong because it is against the law, is not gambling also wrong, seeing that it is against the law also? I will not say whether it is good or bad.
2895. Why will you not say so? If I were to say it was good, others would say it was bad.
2896. Never mind what others would say; I want to get it from you;—is it right or wrong; yes or no; that is what I want you to tell us? I will not say.
2897. Is it not because you are frightened of injury being done you by a secret society of Chinamen? I am not frightened. I have nothing to do with it, and why should I say it?
2898. You will have to be committed for contempt unless you answer the questions put to you straightforwardly; what is to prevent you giving an expression of opinion as to whether the existence of these gambling-dens is right or wrong? I wish to explain that I have nothing to do with gambling, and the matter is entirely in your hands. It is for the Europeans to say whether it is good or not.
2899. Have you anything to do with murder? No.
2900. Then why do you express your opinion so freely on that point? It is well known all over the world that murder is against the law.
2901. Yes; and it is well known, also, that gambling is against the law? You would not believe me if I said it was good or bad. I cannot say.

- Way Shong. 2902. Is it not a fact that you are one of the leading lights in the gambling business that is going on in Lower George-street—that you are one of the greatest villains down there? I have nothing whatever to do with anybody in Lower George-street. I have kept away from it altogether. I have my opinion, but I cannot say.
2903. Are you not keeping away because the people who keep these dens will not allow you to go near them? That is not it; only I do not like to go myself.
2904. Is it not a fact that you are an outcast from them? No; I am poor, and it is on account of that I keep away.
2905. Do you know anything about these books [referring to the Chinese account-books produced in evidence];—have you ever seen them before? This is a Koon Yee Tong book. I know nothing about it.
2906. Have you ever seen policemen entering these Chinese gambling-dens? No.
2907. Did you have a conversation with Way Kee about this matter? No.
2908. Was there not a meeting of Chinamen held in Lower George-street one day last week? No.
2909. Did you not get a summons to be present at a meeting? No.
2910. How long have you been in Lower George-street? About two years now—after the insolvency.
2911. How many gambling-houses were there in Lower George-street two years ago, to the best of your knowledge? Over ten.
2912. How many are there now? About the same.
2913. Do you not know for a positive fact that there are three times ten there now? In numbers there might be, perhaps, but, so far as outside appearances go there are only ten that I know of.
2914. Which is the largest gambling-saloon down there? I do not know.
2915. What is your idea of the sanitary condition of Lower George-street? It is pretty clean, so far as I know.
2916. Is it not a fact that the Chinese have been cleaning and scrubbing their places down there since this Commission was appointed? Of course if they are dirty the Town Hall people will fine them. That is their look-out.
2917. Is it not a fact that they have made their places much cleaner during the last few weeks than they were before? Yes.
2918. Do you drink? No.
2919. Do you smoke? Yes—only tobacco.
2920. Have you ever smoked opium? Never.
2921. Are you in the habit of going with low-class European women? No.
2922. Are there any gambling-dens in any other parts of the city besides Goulburn-street and Lower George-street? No.
2923. I suppose you have never left George-street much since you went to live in that locality? No. About two or three times a year I may leave my own place to go up town, but I mostly keep on my own premises.
2924. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know a Chinaman named Goldtown? Yes.
2925. What do you know of him? When he first came out I was introduced to him, and we had conversations together occasionally, but I have not seen him lately.
2926. Do you know where he lives? No; he is not of my community.
2927. Mr. McKillop.] Is Yo Kum in Brisbane now? Yes.
2928. How long has he been there? Two or three years.
2929. Who is your partner now? I have no partner now. In a few months more I shall go home with my wife.
2930. How much money have you got in the bank? I have none now, but my friends are going to send me home.
2931. Have you not a certain sum of money in the bank in Lower George-street? No.
2932. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is your daughter a grown woman? No; she is 3 years of age—a little girl.
2933. How long have you been married? Five years.
2934. Did you marry here or in China? I have one wife in China and one here.
2935. Where did you get the wife you have here? She came from China.
2936. Did you send her money to come out? The reason is the old wife sent this one out, so that I might have children. That is the usual custom in China.
2937. It is the custom in China, where one wife is barren, for her to send another wife to her husband, to enable him to get children? Yes; that is the custom.
2938. Have you ever dealt in brass, or old metal, or anything of that kind? No.
2939. Do you not sometimes go out collecting—picking up such things wherever you can lay your hands on them? No.
2940. Where do you purchase all your medicines? Send to China for them.
2941. Any large orders? Nearly £1,000 worth used to come out through my hands to be distributed here.
2942. But now—do you send large orders home? No. That large amount I have spoken of was while I was in business before my insolvency. Now I get it from the local Chinamen—Chinese merchants.
2943. Do you buy in large quantities? No; about £10 or £11 worth in the year.
2944. Do you keep it on the premises? No; I buy as I want it.
2945. Do you remember the occasion when this Commission paid a visit to the Chinese premises in Lower George-street one night two or three weeks ago? I heard of it.
2946. Were you not there the night we went round? No.
2947. Where were you that night? I was at Sum Kum Tiy's.
2948. Did you hear of the intended visit previous to our going round? No; I never heard of it.
2949. Was there not some talk at Sum Kum Tiy's about the time this visit was to be paid? No; I did not know anything about it until it was over.
2950. Did you hear afterwards that anyone spread the news about that the Commission was going there on a visit of inspection? Yes; I heard it afterwards.
2951. You heard afterwards that people had spread it about? Yes.
2952. Do you know who it was that told it to the Chinese residents—did you hear who it was? I heard that some European people told them.
2953. Is it not a fact that it was the police who told them? I do not know.

2954. Do you know of the Europeans who you say told the news; do you know any of them by name? No; but I suppose some Europeans told some Chinamen, and other Chinamen told me. Way Shong.
22 Sept., 1891.
2955. Did you have a conversation with any Chinamen last night? No.
2956. Since you were summoned to come here, did you have a conversation with any Chinaman as to the evidence you would give here? No; none whatever.
2957. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have ever you heard of any policeman receiving bribes from Chinamen? No.
2958. Do you know any of the police by name? No; I cannot speak to them.
2959. What is the busiest time of these gambling-houses? It goes on day and night.
2960. Any particular day in the week? No; I have heard lately that it is very quiet; not much doing at all.
2961. Mr. McKillop.] Have you had any conversation with the police at all at any time? No.
2962. Is it your intention, when you leave here, to discuss with your countrymen the evidence you have given to-day? No; that is my private business; I shall not say anything.
2963. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did you show the notice you got from the Secretary of this Commission to any of your countrymen? No.

THURSDAY, 24 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSAY MCKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Benjamin Dawson called and examined:—

2964. Mr. McKillop.] Are you in business in Lower George-street, Mr. Dawson? Yes, at 170, Lower George-street. I carry on a fruit and vegetable business, and supply all the men-of-war. Mr.
B. Dawson.
24 Sept., 1891.
2965. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.
2966. Were you one of those composing the deputation to the Premier? No.
2967. Do you hold any office in connection with the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No, I was merely a member of it.
2968. Do you know how many gambling-dens there are in Lower George-street? I took the numbers of some of them this morning.
2969. I do not want you to give the exact number necessarily; tell us roughly, approximately? There are about thirty or thirty-two that I know.
2970. Do you know personally any of the police down in Lower George-street? I know Inspector Atwill and Sergeant Maguire; they are the only members of the force I know by name, but I know others by sight.
2971. You remember the visit of this Commission to the lower end of George-street one night? Yes.
2972. Did you hear anything of that visit previous to it taking place? Yes.
2973. Were you at home that night? No; I think it was the day before, or two or three days before—I will not swear which. I was going up the street, and entering Felton and Nock's shop, I said, "I wonder what the Chinamen are scrubbing and clearing their premises for?" and Felton said to me that he had sold more scrubbing-brushes during the last fortnight than he had sold since he had been down there. He also said in reply to my remark, "the Commissioners are coming down, and they are getting their places clean—that is all I know."
2974. Did you have a conversation with any of the police officers? No, not on that subject.
2975. Have you seen Mr. Inspector Atwill lately? On the 11th September; it was a Friday; he came to my place.
2976. Will you kindly inform the Commission of the nature of the conversation that took place between you and Mr. Atwill on that occasion? On the Friday afternoon I have mentioned I was sitting in the room at the back of my shop. Inspector Atwill came into the shop and asked my wife if I was in. She said, "Yes, he is in the room; you can go in and see him." Inspector Atwill then came into the room. "Well, Dawson, how are you," said he to me, and I replied, "All right, Mr. Atwill." He then said, "Have you been before the Commission yet?" and I replied, "No, I have not." "I hear," said he, "that there is some talk of females being insulted by the Chinese up and down George-street, but there is not a word of truth in it." I said to him, "Do not tell me that, Mr. Atwill, because I know of females being insulted myself." He said, "Dawson, you do not know of one." I said, "Thank you, Mr. Atwill," and I then called out to my wife, who was doing the shop window. When she came in I said, "Do you remember the lady who came to the shop the other day about a letter?" "Yes, said my wife, "we advised her to go to the other fruit-shop, near Bridge-street, suggesting it might be there; and she said she did not like going because she was frightened of being insulted by the Chinamen." I told the lady I would escort her and bring her back again. At this Mr. Atwill said, "I was not aware that there was anything of that kind." I replied, "That is one case, and I could tell you more, but you have doubted my veracity, and I will not tell you now." He pressed me again, and said, "Tell me, Mr. Dawson." I said, "No, I will not tell you one, but you can go and get the information yourself. The chemist's wife has also been insulted, and you can get the information for yourself there." I then thanked him for making the raid, but I said, "You must have some traitors in your camp." "Why?" "Because your business was known. A Chinaman from 181, across the road, came into my shop the afternoon of the day they made the raid." I said, "Well, Jimmy, plenty of money to-night—plenty fan-tan;" and he said, "No fan-tan to-night; the police are coming around."
2977. This was all in your conversation with Inspector Atwill? Yes; and I said to him also, "Some of your subordinates must have given that information, Mr. Atwill, and it was not given for nothing. That was the full extent of the conversation I had with Mr. Atwill, excepting that he said to me—and I had forgotten this for the moment—he said to me, "Mr. Dawson, why do you stop down here; why do you not go to some other part of the town?" and I replied, "Mr. Atwill, you know I have to be handy for the steamers, and the stewards coming in the morning; but for that I would not stay here one hour." I also told him that my business had fallen off a great deal since the last row of shops was built next to Felton and Nocks.

2978.

- Mr. B. Dawson. 2978. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is that because they were better looking shops? No; it was on account of the occupants.
2979. They are occupied by Chinese? Yes.
2980. Mr. McKillop.] Who occupied them when they were old buildings—before they were renewed? The old buildings were pulled down when I came to Sydney, and others erected in their places.
2981. The land was vacant, and these buildings were built on it? Yes.
2982. And since they were built they have all been occupied by Chinese? Yes.
2983. And you say your business has suffered materially in consequence? Undoubtedly. The people will not pass that way; they go down Bridge-street or Hunter-street into Pitt-street in preference. After half-past 7 o'clock in the morning all my business is done with the men-of-war.
2984. Do you do any trade with the Chinese? If they are doing well they are not bad customers.
2985. So that it would be to your interest for them to do a good trade in the fan-tan business? No. I would lose it in another way; for the Chinamen make rows when they come in the shop. My business is chiefly outside among the shipping.
2986. Who attends to your shop? My wife and the girl.
2987. Then you do not do much trade with the Chinese? No; only with a few. We have plenty of rows there—they want to pick the fruit about, and we will not let them.
2988. You object to them on account of their peculiarities of dealing? Yes.
2989. The conversation you have related as having taken place between yourself and Mr. Atwill;—did that represent the sum total of the conversation you had with him on that occasion, the 11th September? Yes.
2990. He did not say anything to you about charges laid against the police? No.
2991. On any other occasion, did he make any remarks to you? I met him a week ago. Mr. Maguire was going up to give evidence for the first time. I was coming up from the boats, and met Mr. Atwill close by Reading's. He said, "How do you do, Dawson; I hear Maguire was up giving evidence before the Commission to-day. I suppose you will put the poor police away." I said, "If the police have done nothing wrong, Mr. Atwill, they have no reason to fear."
2992. Mr. Hawthorne.] What did Mr. Atwill say when you remarked that if the police had done nothing wrong they had no reason to fear? He said, "I thought they were trying to put the police away."
2993. Did he make no other reply than that? No. I met him casually. This was just opposite Reading's, the bootmaker's.
2994. And that terminated the conversation? Yes.
2995. Have you had any other conversation with Inspector Atwill since this investigation started? No, only what I have said.
2996. Did Inspector Atwill come direct to your house to have the first conversation which you have narrated? Yes. I have a room inside, and he came into the room, as I have said, and remained twenty or thirty minutes in the room. He was never in there before.
2997. When he came in, did he tell you the object of his visit? When he first came in he asked me if I had been before the Commission yet. I said, "No, but I expect I will have to go." He then said that there had been an accusation of females being insulted, but that it was wrong, and nothing of the kind had occurred.
2998. Did he say who had made the accusation? No, he did not say anything to me about anyone having made any accusation.
2999. Did he make reference to anyone who had given evidence before the Commission? No. It was then I told him not to come and tell me that, as I knew females who had been insulted.
3000. Did you have a conversation at any time with Sergeant Maguire? Yes; I happened to be out with Sergeant Maguire one Sunday, seeking for a man to give him into custody. We went Miller's Point way.
3001. How long ago was this? Six weeks ago. I was walking round with him to pick the man out. He said to me, "Are you going on with that Anti-Chinese Gambling League." I replied, "We will do our level best," and I then told him the police must have some traitors in their camp from what the man from No. 181, told me in the afternoon of the day when the raid was made. He (Maguire) said, "Well, Dawson, it looks very suspicious, and I wish I knew who it was."
3002. Was that all that passed between you and him? Yes.
3003. Do you know Constable Beadman? No.
3004. Or Constable Carson? No; I do not know them by name.
3005. Do you know anything about any presents being made to the police? No.
3006. Not of your own knowledge? No; only from hearsay, and I did not come here to tell you that.
3007. Are there any gambling-dens close to your shop? Yes; I put the numbers down this morning. The numbers of these shops are, 152, 164, 166, 174½—that is the one that has not had the shutters down for eighteen months; 178, 180—they are above and below me, on the left-hand side going up George-street; 173—that is nearly opposite my place, across the road; 179, which always has the shutters up; and 181, that is where I got the information from about the police going round. I may tell you about this shop 179, that when I have been sitting outside my shop, occasionally I have seen young girls from 18 to 20 years of age, apparently standing on the footpath, and watching the Chinamen's place opposite. Then they would go across and enter this No. 179.
3008. Would they go into the private portion of the house? I have seen them go in.
3009. Did these young women bear a respectable appearance, or were they girls of the lower class? They appeared to be very respectable in appearance. I should be very sorry to put a question to them if I was looking for a woman for an immoral purpose. They appeared to be respectably dressed, lady-like young women.
3010. What do you think was the object of these young women in visiting that house? For an immoral purpose I should say, because as I have told you I have seen them as long as twenty minutes waiting outside before they would go in.
3011. Have you ever endeavoured to find out who they were? No; they are complete strangers to me, and going about as I do among the men-of-war I know a lot of loose characters by sight.
3012. Then in your opinion they are not of the low class of women? No; I should say not, certainly. And yet, as I have said, I have seen them standing on the footpath perhaps for twenty minutes at a time.

Mr.
B. Dawson.
24 Sept., 1891.

- time. Then one or two Chinamen would come across, and have some conversation with them; at times they would put their hands in their pockets and give them something, and then they would go away again.
3013. Have you seen this occur repeatedly? Yes; sometimes they would come two at a time; sometimes as many as four.
3014. They always come in company? Yes; sometimes two, and sometimes four, but I have never seen less than two at once.
3015. Mr. McKillop.] You have said that you told Mr. Atwill that you knew several females who had been insulted by Chinese in Lower George-street;—can you mention any particular cases? Yes; on more than one occasion I have escorted the chief stewardess and the second stewardess of the P. & O. steamer "Oceana," to prevent their being insulted by the Chinamen.
3016. Can you name any other ladies you have escorted? Yes; I accompanied a servant girl one evening—I do not know her name, but my wife does, and I could get it for you.
3017. Will you kindly forward the name of this person to the secretary? I will.
3018. Did the young woman you have mentioned ask you to accompany her? Yes. She said, "Mr. Dawson, will you go with me as far as Bridge-street, past the Chinamen's shops."
3019. Was this in the day-time? It was about half-past 7 o'clock in the evening.
3020. What rent do you pay for your premises? I pay £2 12s. 6d. a week.
3021. How many rooms have you? Two rooms downstairs, and a kitchen and cellar and bed-room.
3022. Three rooms and a cellar? Yes; and a little room I have at the back of the shop.
3023. Who is the owner of the premises? Mr. Tucker, the butcher, leases them, and I rent from him.
3024. Have you ever had a sum of money offered you to vacate your premises? No; but I have had money offered me if I would go and take a shop from Kelso King, manager of an Insurance Company. It used to be a room belonging to the "Ropemaker's Arms Hotel," but it is taken away now. A Chinaman offered me £1 a week over and above the rent if I would take it and sub-let to him.
3025. What was the rent? 35s. a week.
3026. Then he would have given you £2 15s. a week? Yes.
3027. Were any other offers made to you of a similar nature? No. There is another little shop adjoining that again—that is 174½—which has not had the shutters down for eighteen months, which rents for £4 10s. a week, and the rates and taxes. I will tell you how I know this. Two years ago one of the Chinamen who was in the place came to me and asked me if I would go with him to Kelso King to see if he could get the water rates deducted. I went with him, and there was some conversation about it. The result was that Kelso King said he would have to pay the rates and taxes, as well as the rent, every week. That is how I came to know the particulars of it.
3028. Is gambling carried on to the same extent down in Lower George-street as it was before the Commission was appointed? They have been pretty timid lately. But last Saturday, about 8 o'clock, as I was walking up to the corner of Bridge-street and back again slowly, I noticed the very place the raid was made upon last time, crowded with Europeans. I noticed other shops in that immediate neighbourhood crowded.
3029. Have you noticed any young children going into these gambling-houses—boys and girls? No.
3030. Have you ever been in any of these gambling-dens yourself, not to play but to look on? No; I have never been inside their doors.
3031. Is there a great deal of opium-smoking carried on down there? Yes. In this house, No. 174½ for instance; if you pass it in the morning sometimes it is enough to knock you down.
3032. The smell was abominable? Yes.
3033. Have you noticed policemen going in and out of these places? Yes; many a time.
3034. In uniform? Yes.
3035. Do you know ex-constable Quealy? No, not personally.
3036. Mr. Abigail.] Will you take these photographs in your hand, please; they represent houses kept by Chinese in Lower George-street;—do you notice the white papers in front of those places? Yes.
3037. Do you know the meaning of the characters on the papers referred to? I have heard what it is.
3038. What have you heard that it is? I have heard that the interpretation of the notices on the white paper is "Fan-tan and pak-ah-pu played all day and night here."
3039. That announcement is on a large number of stores in Lower George-street? Yes; I saw Maguire with his machine taking these photographs last Saturday.
3040. I suppose you understand that the Commission have to find out, if possible, something about the charges of bribery that have been laid against the police? Yes.
3041. Can you furnish the Commission with any information on that point? Not personally; but—and I assume that what I state here is not going to the world—I know a young man who has said that he knew of bribes being given to Sergeant Maguire. This is not stated on my authority, you understand. I was out last night and the night before trying to find out the man to get his sanction to send the name to you. I will try to get him this week, and let you have the name and address.
3042. The Commission will be very glad if you will do that, Mr. Dawson? Yes; I will do it. The young man was rather backward, I believe, for this reason, that he did not want to implicate his mother, who had seen the bribes as well. In what form it was given I do not know.
3043. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you any respectable Chinese merchants down your way? Yes.
3044. Do you know if any gambling is carried on in the houses of the respectable Chinese merchants? No; it is only in these places where you see the white paper up—in these gambling-hells.
3045. You say you had a conversation with Inspector Atwill on the 11th September? Yes.
3046. What hour of the day was that? Between 2 and 3 o'clock.
3047. Was any one else present besides yourselves? My wife heard part of the conversation in the shop, and the girl was there as well.
3048. Do you often hear of any rows in the Chinese quarters down there? Yes, there are plenty of rows—in No. 181, for instance, I often see rows there.
3049. What is the cause of these rows? Just the gambling that goes on inside, and when the rows occur you will see big crowds come out.
3050. Who keeps that house? I do not know what his name is; they change their names so often.
3051. Which is the biggest gambling-shop down there? Sun Sam Kee does plenty; his shop is No. 173.
3052. Do you consider his the biggest gambling-shop? I have seen as many as fifty or sixty there of a Sunday.

- Mr. B. Dawson.
24 Sept., 1891.
3053. Many Europeans? Yes; all Europeans.
3054. Do Europeans or Chinamen mostly frequent these places, so far as you have observed? Mostly Europeans.
3055. What percentage do the Europeans bear to the Chinese? At least 5 to 1, I should say.
3056. At what hour of the day do these rows generally take place? In the day-time, so far as I know. I go to bed at about half-past 9 o'clock, and sleep at the back of the premises, so that I could not hear the rows then.
3057. You think most of the rows arise through the gambling? Yes.
3058. Do any of the Chinese places carry on immoral traffic down there? Yes. In 179, girls go there. They seem very respectable too.
3059. Do you know any other part besides Lower George-street? No. When I came from New Zealand to New South Wales I took a shop in Lower George-street, and I do not know much about any other part of Sydney.
3060. Can you offer any opinion as to the best method to adopt to put down this gambling evil? The only thing I can suggest is that, if the present law is considered powerless to cope with it, a short Act should be passed to provide for imprisonment for breaches of the law, without the option of a fine.
3061. Do you think the present law is sufficient to meet the case? Yes; I think it is, if they would only put it in force. I think neither the police nor the Magistrates go far enough.
3062. In what way do you think the Magistrates are to blame? In not making the punishment severe enough. In Victoria, I understand, when they take a man up, they do not give him the option of a fine—they imprison him.
3063. Do you know anything about the law in Victoria? That is what I have read in the papers.
3064. Under the Victorian law there is no option, you say? I do not know exactly whether it is optional to fine or imprison; but I know, as a rule, they give the croupier or banker six months' imprisonment without the option.
3065. At all events, you think the Magistrates are not severe enough here? Yes. I would inflict imprisonment instead of fining offenders for this class of offence. With regard to the evidence I gave as to my conversation with Inspector Atwill, I wish to add something that did not occur to me at the time I was telling you of my interview with that gentleman. I thanked Mr. Atwill for making the raid. "But," I said, "it is very strange that, although you have the same law now as you have had ever since I came here, you have not made a raid before, for at least two years and nine months to my knowledge." Mr. Atwill replied to this, "Look where the police have been, and what they have had to do. Look at the late strike, and the trouble with the shearers." I said, "Go and tell that to the Norwegians, Mr. Atwill. You had not the strike during the whole of the time I have mentioned, and yet you have allowed all that time to go without making a raid."
3066. Mr. McKillop.] Was that all that took place? Yes.
3067. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you noticed policemen in these gambling-houses? Yes; while the gambling has been going on.
3068. Do they gamble themselves? I cannot say that; I have never been inside.
3069. Do you know the names of the policemen you have just mentioned as having visited these gambling-houses? I do not know them by name, but I have seen them going in.
3070. Are they doing duty on that beat now? I will not be certain, but I should know them again if I saw them.
3071. Will you inform the Commission of the name of the person who, you have told us, saw the police bribed? I am trying to do my level best to get the information.
3072. Do you think you could supply it by this evening? No. I went to Davies' place last night to see if I could come across him. He was not there; but I will try again to-night.
3073. And will you forward the information as soon as you can? Yes; as soon as I get it I will let you know. I am anxious to have the matter thoroughly investigated as well as the Commission.
3074. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have enumerated ten of these Chinese gambling-dens;—have you been in any of them? No; I have never been in one in my life.
3075. Then how can you tell they carry on gambling there for certain? Because I see them going in and coming out with lottery-tickets.
3076. Did you know what these papers stated on the photographs taken by Mr. Maguire previous to his taking them? No.
3077. Then you could pass up and down the premises without knowing that they were gambling-houses? Yes.
3078. Can you tell me what this is [handing the witness a Chinese ticket]? No; I cannot read Chinese.
3079. Have you seen the people coming out of these houses with tickets similar to that? I have seen them coming out with square pieces of paper in their hands. There is now a box nailed against the wall of No. 173, with two letters in Chinese on each side and in the middle, "Please put all paper in this box with Chinese writing on." That box was stuck up there to-day.
3080. Are you sure that it is not a post-office? Yes; you can go and see it for yourself.
3081. So you do not know a pak-ah-pu ticket to recognise it? No; I only know that it is a square piece of paper with writing on. I have seen a Chinaman called "Old Jimmy," who lives at 166, come out of the shop and get the girls to mark the paper for him, so that it would bring him luck.
- [The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Edward Robert Bowker called and examined:—

- Mr. E. R. Bowker.
24 Sept., 1891.
3082. Mr. Abigail.] What business do you follow? I am a carpenter.
3083. Where do you live? At No. 71, Princes-street.
3084. I believe you have a pretty intimate knowledge of some of the Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? I have played there myself.
3085. In any number of them? Yes; the best part of them.
3086. What games have you played? Both fan-tan and the tickets.
3087. Have you been very successful in your operations? Well, so far as that goes, I do not know any man who could answer you that question. It is give and take. You may win to-day, and lose three times as much to-morrow. I have had some good wins.
- 3088.

3088. Have you seen large numbers of Chinese and Europeans there? Yes; it is well known.
3089. Have you ever seen any of the police in those gambling-houses? Well, I have seen them inside, but never to back anything.
3090. You have seen them inside while gambling has been going on? No; not in the fan-tan room. I have seen them in the front-shop, but no further.
3091. While gambling was on? Yes, but they may have been ignorant that it was going on.
3092. Have you heard anything about charges of bribery against the police? Yes; a lot; but I never witnessed it, and I cannot see how it can be done.
3093. You have no personal knowledge that will sustain a charge of any member of the police force having received a bribe of jewelry? No; but I can say this much, that if I saw it with my own eyes I would only be too glad to say so.
3094. You have no information at all that will sustain a charge of that character against the police? No. If I could I would, because if it lay in their power they would be only too glad to do it to me. I would like to see these places stamped out.
3095. You have been a sufferer by them? Yes; but the temptation has been too strong for me.
3096. It has been a kind of infatuation? Yes; that is the fact. I have made up my mind fifty times, but cannot get away from it, and it has swallowed every penny I have earned.
3097. Do you know if the same feeling has taken possession of other Europeans? Certainly. It is worse than drink. I do not drink myself, but I see a lot of it, and say it is worse than drink.
3098. Then, although you have been engaged in gambling to a large extent, you would be glad to see some law passed that would put a stop to it? I would, heart and soul. I have known men who have pawned their things to gamble away, and not only what belonged to themselves, but the things belonging to their wives, and the money has gone the same way.
3099. As a matter of fact, these Chinese gambling-dens demoralise and impoverish a great number of people? Certainly it does.
3100. Are these places visited largely by Europeans? Yes; if they did not go there the Chinamen would have to go elsewhere to get a living.
3101. Have you seen young women attending these places? No; with the exception of two that are supposed to be married. One of them had a child, and a Chinaman was evidently the father of it.
3102. Have you seen youths about those places? Yes; scores of them. That is the wrong end of the town to look for women.
3103. Where would be the quarter—Goulburn-street? Yes. I do think fan-tan and the ticket game are the ruin of half the people. You should look into the vice of prostitution.
3104. Is that carried on to a large extent? I should say so.
3105. What leads you to that belief? Because I see it with my own eyes; not that I follow it up.
3106. Is Cambridge-street and other streets fairly inhabited by Chinamen and prostitutes? —
3107. Are these the places where the gambling-house keepers have their women? No, but it is where they live. They bring the coin and spend it among these women. I could give you a lot of information about the Chinamen; I have been playing there for nine years, heart and soul.
3108. Have you lost a considerable amount of money? I had a couple of good wins—one £42 and another for which I got somewhere about £24; but what does it amount to?
3109. What do you estimate your losses at? That I cannot tell you. You might as well ask me how much I sweat from the hand.
3110. But you have no doubt your losses exceed your gains? Yes, very much; but, as I have said, the temptation has been too strong for me. Lately I have not done much at it, but I do not know when I might be tempted to begin again, as bad as ever.
3111. Did you know of the raid that was made on one of these Chinese dens by the police lately? Yes; the last raid that was made on the Chinamen. The papers rang with it and gave the police great credit, but I do not see where the credit came in any way. I think it was most cowardly.
3112. In what manner was it cowardly? Well, most of the men there who were caught had never played the game before. They went there casually perhaps, or they might have had a ticket.
3113. You think they went there merely to look on? Yes; and yet they were fined the same as those who played the game.
3114. Were you ever present on any occasion where an alarm occurred in one of these houses, and a scramble took place for the money on the table? No; I have known of such things, but have had the luck to get out just before it took place.
3115. Have you never seen a scramble take place in one of these houses? Yes; but not by the police.
3116. By others? Yes, but that is a good bit ago.
3117. What gave rise to that? Well, there is a lot down there that the police should never interfere with, although they ought to be taken notice of. They neither work regularly or do anything; in fact I do not believe they could work. They live on the game, and if there is a chance at all for coin to be made then if they can plunder they will.
3118. President.] Are these Chinese or Europeans you are referring to? Europeans; and they ought to be looked to. I read an account in the Sunday Times or Truth, where certain names were mentioned in this connection; I do not know where they got the names from; I heard that the reporters gave some of the Europeans so much for the information.
3119. Mr. Abigail.] You have seen these white paper notices written in Chinese and pasted outside these gambling-houses? Yes, plenty of them.
3120. Do you know the effect of those notices in English? Yes—it says “Fan-tan to-night.”
3121. And the police passing up and down the street in front of these houses can see that as well as anybody else, I suppose? I cannot say that; they might be ignorant of it.
3122. They could see the notices? Certainly.
3123. Mr. Hawthorne.] How did you become aware of what is written on the white paper? I got my information from the Chinamen.
3124. Mr. Abigail.] How long have you known that? A couple of years ago.
3125. Then, of course, the police, if they had made inquiry, could have obtained the information as well as yourself? Certainly.
3126. Do you know if there is any difficulty in gaining admission to these places? No; you walk straight in without any trouble. I have always done so.

- Mr. E. R. Bowker. 24 Sept., 1891.
3127. Do you think a plain-clothes constable would find any difficulty in gaining admission? What is to stop them?
3128. At all events, you have never been stopped? No; it has been much more the other way.
3129. That is to say, you have been invited to go in? Yes; hundreds of times. I can give you any information you want about that. They have not only ruined me but hundreds besides me. It is bad enough for single men, but many of them I know are married. I know a man who told me that he sold his horse and van for £26, and knocked that down there.
3130. Your knowledge of these matters, I understand, is confined almost exclusively to Lower George-street? Yes; I live down there, and am more connected that way.
3131. Have you heard anything about respectable women being insulted by the Chinese when passing up and down Lower George-street? No; I know nothing about that.
3132. Do you know anything about the sanitary condition of these places;—are they clean and wholesome, or are they kept in a dirty state, so that offensive smells arise from them? Yes; some of them are fairly clean, and some the other way.
3133. Are those that are clean the gambling-dens or the places occupied by respectable Chinese merchants? Oh, they are out of it altogether—the respectable Chinese. They carry on legitimate business.
3134. They are fairly clean then? Yes; they are all right.
3135. Do you know the name of any person who could give this Commission, with regard to the alleged bribery of the police, any evidence of a direct or practical character? To tell you the truth I do not believe you will get it. It stands to reason. If I am a policeman, and am going to get anything in the shape of a bribe, would I wait until there was somebody else in the room to see that I got it—no.
3136. Do you believe it is done? Yes; but it is a difficult thing to prove.
3137. Do you think it possible for a policeman to be on that beat for a considerable time without becoming aware that gambling is carried on in these places? No; unless he is drunk all the time.
3138. Do you think it is possible for the inspector of the district to be unaware of the fact? No; how could it be possible, when the police come in and turn the people out times out of number.
3139. Do you think that the difficulty of obtaining admission to these places while gambling is going on, is of such a nature as to make it almost impossible to obtain a conviction? I do not.
3140. You think they could easily obtain admission if they desired to? They can if they like. It is the way they go about it. Whenever these raids are made the players know all about it beforehand, as well as the police, and the question is, where do they get their knowledge.
3141. They, some of them, become aware of the intended raid? Yes; on the night when the last raid was made, they were told to shut up at 8 o'clock, as the police were coming down on them; but the Chinaman was so determined to get the money—he wanted to grab it—that he would not be advised by what I heard.
3142. If he had acted on the advice given the raid would not have been successful? No; the police would have gone into an empty house.
3143. Do you know who gave the information? That is the thing. The way it is done is this: I know a few of the police myself, and if they knew I was playing in there I believe they would tell me in a minute.
3144. They would give you warning not to be present? I think so.
3145. Mr. McKillop.] Have they ever done so to you? No; not to me. I have worked my way on the quiet.
3146. But you believe they have done so to others? Yes; I have heard it; but I cannot prove it.
3147. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have the police ever given you secret information which ought not to be given? No; but I have heard it spoken of in shops, as having been given to others.
3148. Have you heard of the police ever telling anyone not to go to these shops when a raid was contemplated? No.
3149. Have ever you heard anything that would lead you to believe that there was truth in the statement that the police have received bribes from Chinamen? No; I have only had it by word of mouth from another man, and I could not contradict him; I would take his word the same as you would take mine.
3150. Do you know any of the police to speak to? I know a few of the old hands; I know Higgins and Hughey Adair, and Kearney.
3151. Have you had a chat with any of them since the Commission started? No; in fact I was not coming here, only I was told that I would be subpoenaed.
3152. Why, is not this an important public question? Yes; I thought of that, and that made me come.
3153. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.
3154. The Commission are anxious to get some reliable information in respect to this police question. Can you furnish evidence of any kind in that direction. We expect you will regard it to be your duty, as a member of the community, with others, to do anything you can to suppress this evil, which you admit has been an injury to you? Yes; I understand that, and I would do anything I could to stop it; but I think you need not trouble much more about it. If you wait until you get any information about the police you will wait a long time. They are too cunning; they are as cunning as the Chinamen themselves, and more so.
3155. Have you ever heard any of the police speak of Lower George-street as being a “good beat”? No.
3156. Have you ever heard anything to that effect? No; I keep very much to myself.
3157. You know several of them? Yes; I could not be off it.
3158. Did you ever get information from them with regard to your visits to the Chinese shops? No; I watch my chance. They go in one way and I go out the other. The reason I stopped it lately was that I had some thought of my character.
3159. With regard to this alleged system of corruption among the police, in order to be effective, would it not have to be of a general character as regards all the police down there. For example, if it were a customary thing for the keepers of the Chinese dens to bribe the police, would they not have to do it to all the policemen doing duty in that quarter? I do not see that; there are pet lams in every flock.
3160. Supposing a man went on who did not receive a bribe, would it not be necessary to quieten him also? It might not; the Chinese are a cunning race of people. No white man can come over them; I do not care where he comes from. A Chinaman would not tell his brother anything if he did not want to.
3161. Have you ever heard of any Chinamen losing large sums of money at gambling? Yes; about £300 in a game and not one go. 3162.

3162. Mr. McKillop.] Do you mean at one game? Yes; and he would then go and have a sleep for a week. That is the way they do if ever they have a big loss.
3163. What is the largest amount of money you have seen on the table in one of these places? If the Chinamen play with themselves, they play a different game from what they do with white men. If they are playing amongst themselves, it takes an experienced white man to understand them. They play with a slip of paper. I do not know what it stands for, but £1 would last him three times as long as it would a white man.
3164. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Nolan on this subject? No; I have spoken to Nock.
3165. Did you mention anything to Mr. Nock to the effect that you knew, as a positive fact, of jewellery being presented to the police? No; not to the police. That was China jewellery, which any person could buy.
3166. Mr. Abigail.] Presented to the police? No.
3167. You did not mention that you had seen jewellery presented? No; but I have seen a watch and chain go for its value in money on the game.
3168. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever seen any watches pass in that way? No; they generally go to the pawn-shop.
3169. Where do they go to? To the Mont de Piété or somewhere else.
3170. Do you live with the Chinamen continually? No, not that far. That is pretty hot.
3171. I only ask the question; there was no intention to hurt your feelings; you can say yes or no? Could I live on their "tucker?" I came here to give information, not to take insults, and if I knew the man who told you that I would pull him for it.
3172. However, the question has been asked, and your reply is "No"? Certainly.
3173. Mr. Hawthorne.] May I ask you if it is a fact that when a man's money goes in one of these houses it is quite open for him to go on playing till he has exhausted every article of jewellery that he may have—that is, that they will take it in payment for his losses? Yes; in some of them. I have seen it done myself. Only a fortnight ago I bought a chain from a Chinaman in one of these places.
3174. What was supposed to be the value of it? The chain was pawned, and I gave him 10s. for the ticket of it.
3175. And with that were you allowed to gamble to the extent of the value of the ticket? No; that was a private transaction.
3176. I understood you to say just now, that if a person was gambling in one of those fan-tan shops, and his money became exhausted, that he could go on playing for the value of his watch and chain or any article of jewellery that he might possess? Of course I could put the chain on the scale and gamble for the value of it; but it is not often done. It has been done.
3177. So that if you were in one of these shops, and you had no money, but you possessed a chain (say) value £1, you could go on gambling up to the extent of the £1? Yes.
3178. And if you lost all you would simply hand it over to the Chinaman? I should have to take it off and put it on the table. There is no working the double with a Chinaman, and when your coin is gone it is like a public-house—the last 3d. being spent, out you go of the game.
3179. Have you ever had any conversation with Coustable O'Sullivan? No; but if I could put him away I would. I tell you straight.
3180. Do you know anything about him? No; I have no connection with him.
3181. Do you know anything detrimental to his character? That is private business.
3182. I understood you to say, if you could do him a "bad turn" you would? Not a bad turn—an equal divide alike. He could never let me go past the street with a young girl without giving me a turn.
3183. You have stated that there is a great deal of prostitution in which the Chinese are mixed up in Cambridge-street? Yes; there must be, or why are they there.
3184. Have you ever witnessed any terrible scenes carried on with these Chinamen? They do not do it in the streets.
3185. Have you ever been in such a position yourself to see anything outrageous in that connection? They carry on there every day, and rows are of frequent occurrence. Only this morning there were some women standing outside a shop with a bottle of rum.
3186. Are there many of them in that locality? Yes.
3187. Any young girls? Yes. I call a girl young until she reaches the age of 24 or 25.
3188. Do many Chinamen live in these houses together? That I cannot say. I have not been in any of the Chinamen's houses; they do all their own work among themselves.
3189. How long have you been living in Princes-street? About five or six years. I am an old hand about the Rocks.
3190. Of what character or occupations are the general run of Europeans who frequent the gambling-saloons in Lower George-street? The majority of them are coal lumpers and wharf labourers.
3191. Are there any seamen among them? Yes; all sorts; but the majority of them are coal lumpers and wharf labourers.
3192. Have you seen much opium-smoking in these places? Not by white people.
3193. Have you ever seen any girls there? No. I can swear that no girls have ever come into one of these place whilst I have been playing. They might in the private buildings. A great deal has been said about these places that is not true—the same as the papers started a cry about all these shops being full of vermin. That was a lie. There is nothing of the sort.
3194. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know ex-Constable Quealy? Yes; he is a "dead bird."
3195. Do you know him? Yes.
3196. He used to be on the Lower George-street beat? Yes.
3197. Do you know whether he ever interfered with or tried to put down the gambling practices there? Yes; he used to do it. He was a terror to them. He is no friend of mine; but if all had been like Quealy they would have shifted the Chinamen. Plenty used to clear out from Quealy; he frightened them. This last raid has frightened a lot of them, and they have gone selling fish and other things.
3198. Do you know Constable Beadman? I do not.
3199. Or Carson? Not personally.
3200. Have you ever noticed any of the constables down there with a considerable display of jewellery, such as diamond rings, and so forth? I have noticed one of them down there with rather a flash appearance; I could not say anything further.

- Mr. E. R. Bowker.
24 Sept., 1891.
3201. How long have you been associated with the Chinese gambling-dens? About nine years altogether.
3202. You know the game pretty well then? Yes, too well.
3203. You told us a little while ago that when the Chinamen play it is difficult for a European to understand them;—do they have a different game? Yes; when they play by themselves. When they play with white people they have a different way; I know that. They have long slips of paper, the same as they use in playing dominoes. I do not know the meaning of them at all, and they play with a Chinese coin. Supposing a lot of Chinamen were playing on a table, I would not be allowed to play with them; and if I were to go in while they were playing they would shift me quick; well, they would ask me to move.
3204. Two kinds of fan-tan, do you say? Yes, to me there are.
3205. Are you sure there are two kinds? I will not swear there are two kinds of fan-tan; but I know they have separate games among themselves and when playing with Europeans, and I know if they are playing together I will not be allowed to play with them.
3206. You say now and then the police make a raid upon the gambling-dens;—do you know who it is that informs these people in the first place of the raids to be made? No; that is the mystery.
3207. Have you ever heard of anyone being informed by the police? No; but I have heard from persons outside when a raid was going to be made—from the outside public. Where they got the information I do not know. I would stop this gambling with all my heart if I could, for I reckon it is ruining half the working-men down there. It not only ruins them, but it ruins their wives and children, and the landlords, and everyone else.
3208. You say there is a great deal of immorality carried on among the Chinese;—of what age are the girls you have referred to? I say that a lot of prostitutes knock about the Chinamen's houses, and carry on in all sorts of ways.
3209. Do you think these were pure, good women before they went with the Chinamen? That would be a hard thing for me to tell; I could not say that.
3210. You cannot say? No; how could I? I have not seen them from lambs.
3211. Have you any suggestion to offer as to the best means of putting down this gambling evil;—can the police do it? The police do it.
3212. Mr. McKillop.] How is that;—it is their duty, is it not? Yes; but I very often go beyond my work.
3213. If you commit a burglary is it not their duty to take you in charge? Yes.
3214. They would do that, because you would be acting against the laws of the country? Certainly.
3215. Well, gambling is against the laws of the country also? What the policeman sees is under the gaslight. He knows what is going on, but what he sees in the dark he is not sure of.
3216. Therefore, that if he knows what is going on, he does not do his duty? You cannot expect one policeman to do it and do his beat at the same time.
3217. Then you think the Inspector at fault? I do not say so. At that rate you would have to have an inspector at every shop.
3219. I want to know how you would stop this gambling for the future? My idea is that the policeman on that beat should be allowed to go in and out of these shops as often as he likes; let him pass in continually. The people who go there would soon get frightened, and would not go near them.
3220. You have said that the police now and then make a raid on the Chinese gambling-dens;—if they could do it at one time, could they not do it at another? I will explain that to you: Every hour there is a bank drawn, and fan-tan is played every minute in the day. The police know what time the bank is drawn; every man who enters the place knows. At night-time, about 8 o'clock, is the best time to be there, and that is the time the last raid was made.
3221. Are they all Europeans, or are there many Chinese there? There must be a Chinaman to draw, and one to pay. They are mostly Europeans.
3222. Would there be many there? Yes; packed on top of one another, almost as many as can get round the table to reach their money over.
3223. You said a little while ago that the Chinese were so very cunning;—how do so many Europeans allow two Chinamen to play against them all? Very easy. They are so clever with their hands. I have seen a Chinaman take forty-five coins, and throw them along the table, into separate fives, with an inch and a half between each five; and yet the Europeans will play with them.
3224. They would be spring coins, I suppose? No; they work it with their fingers. [The witness here illustrated the game of fan-tan.]
3225. Mr. Hawthorne.] So that you argue a Chinaman can always win? He can do what he likes—that is, if he is willing to do it. Some of them will play fair; but if they are out of pocket they cannot stand that at all. They are extraordinarily quick at palming.
3226. Have you been able to detect anything in the shape of manipulation during the progress of the play? There are Chinese you cannot detect.
3227. Nothing in the way of spring coins? No; the coins are all right.
3228. Can you give us the names of any of these men? They appear to have all one name to me.
3229. Do you not think you could name one of the notorious Chinese gamblers, seeing that you have been amongst them such a long time? I have not been such a great gambler as all that; I have stuck to one or two houses.
3230. Can you give us the name of those you have been in the habit of playing with? I reckon that shop where the last raid was made is one.
3231. What is the name of that place? Moy Ping's.
3232. What is the name of the other place where you have gambled? I do not know the name of that.
3233. Mr. Abigail.] Is it Sun Sam Kee's? That is on the opposite side of the road.
3234. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you been in Han Kee's? I have only been in to see the bank drawn there.
3235. Have you been in No. 178, the same side of the road as Way Kee's—that is, Pun Num's? If it is the one that joins the boot shop, I have been in there.
3236. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know the pak-ah-pu ticket? Yes.
3237. Is it like that [handing the witness a piece of paper bearing Chinese characters]? No.

3238. Is it like this [handing him another]? Yes, that is it. [Witness describes how the lottery is drawn.]
3239. Can you say what are the chances of winning? I cannot tell you that, more than that it is a mere fluke. I have been playing for nine years.
3240. How much have you won in nine years? I reckon if I got £60 all the time it is all I ever got out of it; but I know men who have got hundreds out of it.
3241. President.] Do you know Mr. Robert Nolan, assistant in Mr. Nock's, the ironmonger? I know him in a sense.
3242. Have you ever spoken to him on the subject of the Chinese? No; I have spoken to Mr. Nock.
3243. Did you never have any conversation with Mr. Nolan on the subject of Chinese gambling? No.
3244. Did you ever have any conversation with Mr. Nock or Mr. Nolan on the subject of the alleged bribery of the police? Well, at one time Mr. Nock asked me did I think it was done, and I said, "From all I hear, I think it is done, but I cannot prove it."
3245. Then if anyone has said that you could give practical evidence with regard to this alleged bribery; that you could prove it, and knew that bribes had been taken of your own knowledge,—that would be untrue? If anyone swore that, it was untrue.
3246. You cannot give any practical or direct evidence yourself on the subject of bribery of the police? No; not to say I have seen them take it.
3247. Did you ever tell Mr. Nock that any constable or police officer had taken a bribe? No; only I know what you mean and what he means.
3248. Did you say anything that would lead Mr. Nock or Mr. Nolan to believe that you could prove a charge of bribery against the police? The only thing I said to him was this: I was in a shop one day when a policeman came in, and said to the Chinaman "Do you want to fight?" The Chinaman replied, "I will fight you." The policeman walked through into the hall, and the Chinaman went with him. Further than that I cannot say.
3249. Who was the constable? Constable O'Sullivan.
3250. What shop were you in when this took place? Moy Yook's.
3251. What is the address? I think it is about 202, Lower George-street. There is another name over the door, I think it is Sing Lee.
3252. The constable came in and indulged in the conversation you have related, and then passed into an ante-room? No, into the hall. I won't say whether he went down the yard or what took place.
3253. Before he passed through he had this conversation at the counter? Yes; in the front shop, and went through the hall into the back.
3254. Into some interior apartment? Yes.
3255. As if he had private business there with the Chinaman,—was that the conclusion you arrived at? Well, either that, or he went to go into the yard.
3256. What did you say to the Chinese afterwards;—did you refer to the policeman? I did. I said, "What did he want in there—I suppose he is after tip."
3257. Now, Mr. Bowker, I think you have given your evidence in a very straightforward manner so far; this inquiry has no personal interest for me, or any member of the Commission; we are simply desirous of getting at the truth in this matter; and I want you to tell me exactly what took place at this time, because it is very important? I have told you.
3258. This conversation you had with the Chinaman took place after the constable went in, as you have stated, and you said to him you supposed the constable went in there for tip? Yes; it was natural that a man should think it.
3259. What did the Chinaman say to that? I said, "What's the matter—did you give him anything?" and he said, "No fear, no fear"; they won't tell you anything.
3260. Now, will you tell me what time that took place? I cannot tell you exactly.
3261. Was it night-time? No; day-time.
3262. Was it three months ago? It is over that; it was a couple or three months before the raid.
3263. Broadly speaking—was it six months ago? Well, say that; it might be over.
3264. Do you know where O'Sullivan is living? I do not know. When he used to meet me and give me a "jolly," as I have said, he lived in Princes-street.
3265. Is Constable O'Sullivan addicted to wearing jewellery? I do not know. I have never seen the man in private clothes yet. I cannot say that. The only man I have seen wearing jewellery is —
- 3265½. Is it Beadman? The man I mean is a tall man, with a dark moustache.
3266. Is there anything else you can say to substantiate the charge of corruption against the police? I cannot. I do not think you will find out much about the police, because it is done in a curious way. I do not think you will do anything with this Chinese business the way you are going about it.
3267. By the system of raids, you mean? Yes; they only make raids on one or two shops.
3268. Would you have continuous police surveillance—continual attendance on them? Yes; it wants a special man to keep going in and out of these shops.
3269. Do you think the landlords of the houses should be made responsible where gambling is carried on? Yes; the men who own that property ought to be ashamed of themselves.
3270. You cannot give us any private information that would lead to conviction in these cases? No; if I could I would bring it home hot and strong.
3271. Mr. Quong Tart.] Are there any respectable Chinese merchants in Lower George-street? Yes; there are several—Sun Kum Tiy, On Yik, and others.
3272. If all the Chinese establishments were carried on like those there would be no complaint? No.
3273. President.] Who was the man you had the conversation with about the policeman? Moy Yook, Ah Ping's brother; he lives at No. 208.

FRIDAY, 25 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (ALDERMAN MANNING, ESQ., J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, ESQ., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, ESQ., | QUONG TART, ESQ.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, ESQ.

Mr. Edwin Mathers called and examined:—

Mr.
E. Mathers.
25 Sept., 1891.

3274. Mr. McKillop.] Where do you reside? At 15, Bellington-street, Miller's Point.
3275. You are a member of some society, I believe? I am a member of the Coal Lumpers' Union.
3276. Do you hold any office in that society? I am the president.
3277. Have you at any time, since you have been associated with that society, gambled at any of these Chinese gaming-houses? Yes.
3278. How long ago? It is about two and a half years ago since I was last in one of them.
3279. Used you to frequent these places pretty often? Yes, very often.
3280. Were your losses considerable? Yes, very heavy.
3281. Have you won only large sums, or won any money there at all? I have won money, but no large sums.
3282. Have you ever been in one of these gambling-houses when the police have entered? Yes, frequently.
3283. Were they in uniform? At times they were, and at other times in private clothes.
3284. You mean that you have been present when the police have come in whilst gambling was going on? Yes.
3285. Where is this gambling carried on—in the outer room or in the inner room? In the inner room.
3286. Is it ever carried on in the cellars? Yes, sometimes.
3287. Did the police enter the inner room where the gambling was going on? Yes.
3288. Did they come for the purpose of putting a stop to the game? Yes.
3289. Did they stop it? For the time being.
3290. Did they take the names of those who were playing? No.
3291. Was there a rush made for the table? There was a scramble for the money that was on the table.
3292. Did the police take part in the scramble? The police did take part in it. On all occasions when I have seen the police go into the houses they have scrambled.
3293. And they have always been first to make the scramble? I will not say "always." At times they have.
3294. Could you name any particular constable, or constables who did this? I could, but I should not like to mention names.
3295. President.] It is very necessary that you should answer this question;—you must do so just as if you were on your oath in a Court? Yes; but I might make a charge against a constable, and although I knew it to be a fact, might not be able to prove it.
3296. Mr. McKillop.] It is absolutely necessary for us to have the names of the policemen who have taken part in the scrambles;—will you kindly give them to us? I can give you one name, and I do so without the slightest hesitation, because the man is beyond the reach of the police regulations—he is out of the force. I refer to ex-Constable Quealy.
3297. And do you know any others? There are numbers of them.
3298. Can you mention any by name? No, I cannot.
3299. Do you know Constables Carson and Beadman? I have not seen either of them do it, though I have seen them go into the houses and buffet and kick all the Europeans who were clearing out.
3300. Mr. Abigail.] But not arrest them? No; they used brute force to clear those who were scrambling out. I have frequently been in houses when the police have cleared the people out, and unless I have happened to be near the door where I could slip out easily, I have always taken a seat at the table, and waited there until everybody else has cleared out. In that way I have had a few words with the police, and they have occasionally read me a bit of a lecture, and told me to "clear," but in all cases I have got out without the disgrace of a blow.
3301. Mr. McKillop.] Before they had commenced to cuff the people they saw the gambling carried on? They saw the gambling carried on.
3302. Could you possibly name any constable besides Quealy who participated in any of these scrambles for the money that was on the gaming-tables; did you ever see Senior-constable Adair make a plunge for the table, or Constable Wheelan, or Sergeant Higgins, or Sergeant M'Guire, or any of the other constables? I have seen Sergeant—I forget his name—but I refer to the gentleman who is now at Manly Beach.
3303. Sergeant M'Intosh? Yes.
3304. You have seen him make a plunge for the table? Yes.
3305. Have you given up gambling with the Chinamen? Yes; I did so two and a half years ago.
3306. You have stated to the Commission that you are President of the Coal-lumpers' Union? Yes.
3307. Is it since you took office that you considered it would not be consistent with your position to keep up the habit of gambling? No; I gave the habit up before I became President of the Union.
3308. Have you ever seen any bribes given to the police, or presents in the shape of furniture or jewellery made them? No; I have never seen any bribes offered, though I am certain that they are given.
3309. Would you kindly inform the Commission your reasons for holding that opinion? I have seen the police in plain clothes in company with Chinese gambling-house proprietors—or at all events with those who are carrying on the game of fan-tan—in the private bars of public-houses drinking with them.
3310. Drinking with the bankers and croupiers? Yes; and I have seen them in the front shops, where the tickets for pak-ah-pu are on sale, talking to them. I have seen cigars given to them on some of those occasions, but that is the only thing in the nature of a present that I have ever seen.
3311. Have you ever seen the police taking part in the gambling themselves? No.
3312. Have you ever seen them having anything to do with these lottery tickets? No.
3313. I suppose that the police enter these places without any difficulty? In times back, yes. Latterly, during the last five years, it has been very difficult for the police to enter the rooms where the gambling has been carried on.

3314. Was it easy for the police to enter two and a half years ago? No; not two and a half years ago; but it was ten years ago, when I first began to visit the gambling-houses.
3315. But four or five years ago it was very easy for the police to walk in, and they did so with impunity? Yes.
3316. Have you ever seen any of these constables—Sergeant Higgins, Sergeant M'Guire, Senior-constable Adair, Constable Wheelan, Constable Beadman, or Constable Carson—wearing any expensive jewellery, such as diamond rings? No; I cannot say that I have.
3317. You know Mr. Atwill? Yes.
3318. Was he in charge of the district a part of the time you were in the habit of visiting these dens? Yes.
3319. Have you ever seen him in any of them? Yes.
3320. In the inner rooms? Yes.
3321. Whilst gambling was being carried on? Yes.
3322. Did he make any arrests? No arrests.
3323. Were other police officers with him at the time? Yes; they were.
3324. What did he do on the occasions that you have seen him in the inner rooms where gambling was being carried on? He has cleared the men out, and on two occasions, or it might have been more, because, as I have explained, unless I was near the door, where I could get out easily, I used to take a seat at the table, and remain till the last; Sergeant Atwill has read me a lecture, saying that he was surprised to see me there.
3325. Was he a sergeant or an inspector at that time? I will not be sure. He might have been an inspector.
3326. Was he in uniform then? Yes.
3327. Did he wear the same uniform then as now? I do not know. It was too long ago for me to remember that.
3328. At all events he gave you advice? Yes; he said that he was surprised to see me in amongst the crowd that were there.
3329. Did you make any reply to him? Well, I do not remember the reply that I made. Whatever it was it was civil, for I admit that I was a bit ashamed of myself for being found there.
3330. Did he ever threaten to arrest or to summons you? No.
3331. Was there any scrambling for the money whilst he was present? No, I do not think so; at least, not on the part of the police. It was always a rule that, if the police made a raid on the house, or even if there was a cry of "Police," for the people who were round the table to make a snatch for the money, if there was any money on the board at the time, and some would make a snatch for the bank.
3332. How much have you seen on the table at one time? Oh, I have seen over £70.
3333. And what is the smallest amount you have seen them playing for? I have seen them draw the lid for 2d. or 3d., but that was only for amusement—it was not gambling.
3334. When these rushes have been made by the police, have these places been crowded with people? Yes, usually.
3335. By Europeans? Yes, of late years. It is very, very seldom that you see Chinamen gambling amongst Europeans. They generally gamble by themselves, and, where the Chinese have been gambling alone, they have not of late years allowed Europeans to put their money on the board; but seven or eight or ten years ago you would find half Chinese and half Europeans playing round the same table.
3336. Now it is principally all Europeans? Yes; or all Chinamen.
3337. Could you give the Commission any idea of the numbers that used to be present in these dens? Well, of course it would vary.
3338. Would there be forty, fifty, sixty, or eighty persons in at one time, do you think? I should say that, at the outside, round one table there might be thirty or forty. When there are thirty or forty present the room is pretty well crowded, and most of the players have to pass the money they wish to stake over to those who are standing round the table to put on the board for them.
3339. At the time you used to gamble were you aware of any fund subscribed by the proprietors of the establishments for any purpose whatever? No; I know of no fund established by the reduction of money from those who won at fan-tan, excepting the ordinary commission of 1d. for anything over 8d. and under 1s.
3340. President.] That was for the bank? Yes.
3341. That is to say, that, if you won you would have to subject your winnings to a deduction of that amount? Yes.
3342. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever seen women playing fan-tan? Never.
3343. Have you ever seen young boys enter these places? Yes, frequently.
3344. Boys of what age? From 14 years old upwards.
3345. Have you ever seen girls enter these places? I have never seen them gambling.
3346. Have you seen them visiting the places? Yes.
3347. Young girls? Yes; young girls.
3348. What do they visit these places for? I have seen them there to put in pak-ah-pu tickets, and I have seen them there for other purposes.
3349. Mr. Abigail.] Immoral purposes? Immoral purposes—I should imagine.
3350. Mr. McKillop.] Is it a fact that your Union, seeing that this pernicious habit was ruining a large number of your members, and causing a great deal of trouble and distress amongst their wives and children, took a decided stand against it a few years ago? Yes.
3351. What was the nature of that action? In 1888 a resolution was passed to the effect that any member who should be proved to be dealing with Chinamen, or playing fan-tan or pak-ah-pu, should be fined 5s., and that minute passed by our society was advertised for a week in the daily papers—Evening News, the Daily Telegraph, and the Sydney Morning Herald.
3352. Was 5s. the maximum fine, or was the amount increased in the event of a second offence? There was only one amount. That was in 1888.
3353. President.] How long ago is it since you first embarked in gambling? It is about ten years ago.
3354. When did you give it up? About two and a half years ago.

Mr.
E. Mathers.
25 Sept., 1891.

- Mr. E. Mathers
25 Sept., 1891.
3355. Will you tell us as nearly as you possibly can, how many times the police disturbed you in gaming-houses during the period that you indulged in gambling—that is, during (say) about eight years? As near as I can guess, about twenty times.
3356. Did they disturb you very frequently before you discontinued gaming? No.
3357. As a matter of fact, then, during the latter part of your gaming career they very seldom disturbed you? Very seldom; it was more difficult for them to get in during the last five years than formerly.
3358. Will you explain why? The rooms in which they have latterly conducted the games of fan-tan are right at the back of the premises, and these are cut off from the front rooms by strongly-bolted doors, in which there are slides through which they can look to see whom they are admitting, and as soon as the police make their appearance the word is passed to the bankers inside, and the gamblers are then hurried out at the back. That is why it is so seldom during the last five years that raids have been made. Then, too, there is always a watchman kept at the door now, but formerly they could not afford to keep a watchman, I suppose, and any person could come in and out as they liked. In the early days of Chinese gambling-down there—eight or nine years ago—there were not more than about six gambling-houses in the city, and they were nearly all raided every night in the week, and sometimes twice a night. Every one would be cleared out by each raid, and ten minutes afterwards the gambling would start afresh.
3359. But supposing you or I, or any half-dozen civilians, had wanted to get into one of these gaming-houses during the last five years we could have got in, notwithstanding the precautions taken against the police? Yes, we could have got in.
3360. Because we should not be taken for policemen? Quite so.
3361. And so, if any strange policeman—any policeman new in the force or from another beat—had attempted to get in he could have done so easily notwithstanding the precautions? Yes.
3362. It was your custom when there was a raid to remain quiet, and stop till the last? Yes.
3363. Did you ever hear any conversation between the police and the proprietors of the gaming-saloons after the crowd had been turned out? I have heard a conversation between Mr. Atwill and the croupier of one gaming-house.
3364. What is his name? I do not know his name; I know the shop only.
3365. What is the shop? I do not know the number; it is next to a pawn-shop that projects further out on to the pavement.
3366. Sun Sam Kee's? Yes, that is the name, I think.
3367. What was the nature of that conversation? The banker had had most of his money snatched away, and he was in an excited state of mind at the time. Mr. Atwill went to him and said, "How is this? I will have to have you up to the court if you keep carrying on this game. I have warned you before." So the Chinaman turned to him and said, "Well, sir, there were only a few of them here; they will come in, and there were Chinamen playing too." As a matter of fact there were no Chinamen playing at the time.
3368. Were you ever in a gambling-house when Inspector Atwill made another raid? Oh, yes.
3369. Can you give us any conversation that took place between Mr. Atwill and yourself, or Mr. Atwill and anybody else who was present—Chinese or European? No, I cannot.
3370. Do you recollect any time when there was a raid made, and the money was scrambled for, the police participating in the scramble, and taking any of the money? I have seen it done; I was going to say scores of times; but I have seen it done several times. On those occasions, the first thing the police went for was the money, the money belonging to the banker, not the money that was on the table. I was going to explain that on one occasion, I saw a policeman, who is now in the force (I will not mention his name), come in in plain clothes. He was recognised by a few, and directly the whisper went round, and nearly everybody else left the table, and he was left standing over the Chinaman, and made a grab for the money in the bank.
3371. Did he take any of the money? He took as much as he could hold.
3372. And did he immediately leave the room? After the rest left.
3373. Immediately after? That I cannot say.
3374. Did you leave the room? Yes.
3375. But he took the money? Yes.
3376. Was there any altercation between the Chinese banker and himself? I do not know; you see I left the room before he did.
3377. He did all that, by virtue of his being a policeman, and in plain clothes? Yes.
3378. Did you ever hear of him instituting any proceedings against that gaming-house? No.
3379. You never heard anything more about the police action in this matter? No.
3380. Of course I know that there is a disinclination on your part to give us the name of this policeman, but you cannot conceal it. We must insist upon having it. We have all the powers of the Supreme Court, in regard to the taking of evidence, and it will be absolutely necessary for you to give the name. Of course we recognise the goodness of your motives in wishing to withhold it, but we must insist upon having it? No; I will not give the constable's name.
3381. Then unfortunately we shall have to take measures to compel you to give his name. It is very unpleasant for us to have to ask you; but if you will not surrender the name, you will place yourself in a very serious position, and I must ask you to consider that position. I have no hesitation in saying what our duty is. It is to require you to give the name up, and I need hardly say that it will be required. It is absolutely necessary. You are not doing anything that you will be ashamed of. In fact we might promise you secrecy in the matter.
3382. Mr. McKillop.] Witnesses are very much afraid of persecution? I am not; I know this man personally, and it is the only thing I know to his detriment.
3383. President.] Well, if you will give us his name, I shall take care that all the extenuating circumstances are brought to light? No; I shall not do it; because I have great respect for the man myself. I have had many conversations with him since.
3384. Well, but the fact that you give us the name, will not be conclusive proof of anything. It can only give rise to a suspicion that he put the money in his pocket, because you left immediately, and he might have done something else with it. At all events you must give us the name? Well; I shall have to be forced to give it before I do so.
3385. Well then I shall have to force you by formally threatening, as I do, to commit you for contempt of Court.

3386. Mr. McKillop.] Is it Senior-constable Adair? I will not answer that question. I have taken my stand, and I will not answer that question till I am really forced to do it. I am sorry that I spoke about the circumstance in the first instance, and I should not have done so if I had thought that the man's name would have been forced from me.

Mr.
E. Mathers.
25 Sept., 1891.

3387. The question of force only comes in when you are endeavouring to conceal from us the name of a constable who may or may not have been concerned in a wrong action? I still object to give the constable's name.

3388. You have no power to object. You may retire for a few minutes, I have no doubt, to consider your position. You will not go away? No.

Witness retired accordingly, and upon his return,—

3389. The President said: Well, Mr. Mathers, before we go any further, we want you to give us the name of the policeman. I may tell you that the bulk of this evidence will not be seen by the general public? Well, it stands this way with me: I have no personal fear of giving the man's name, but it is because of the respect I have for him that I decline. I know him personally, and in every other respect I know him to be a very decent, honest, upright man. I have had a considerable acquaintance with him, and have known him to do some very good actions, and though I saw him take the money I do not know what he did with it.

3390. I will ask you all about that, and the constable will have had out of your mouth, before you leave the room, as good an opportunity of explaining himself as though he had been here personally; but it will be necessary for us to know his name. You are attaching a little too much importance to the fact of his touching the money, because, as you all left the room you do not know what he did with it. After you have given us his name I will ask you questions in the man's interest, because we are not here to fasten charges upon the police but to discover the whole truth of the matter? Well, if it is not to fasten charges upon the police that you are here why do you require this man's name?

3391. I cannot allow you to ask the Commission that question. We have to get at the root of these charges? Well, it is with very great pain that I give the name.

3392. It is necessary for you to give the name, and you cannot honorably avoid doing so? It was Constable Adair.

3393. Is he in the force now? Yes.

3394. You saw him put his hand over a Chinaman's shoulder and touch the money? Yes.

3395. Have you any idea as to how much money was in the bank upon that occasion? No; it is so far back that I cannot remember.

3396. How long ago is it? About six years ago.

3397. Did the money consist of notes, gold, or silver? Silver; there were no notes or gold.

3398. Had they what you call a big bank? No; a small bank; it was at Ah Moy's gambling-house.

3399. What, in your opinion, would be the probable amount that Adair placed his hand on? At the outside, the most silver he could get his hand upon at one time would be £2-worth.

3400. Well a man could not very easily take up £2-worth of silver at one time? Well, he could not take up more than that, that is clear.

3401. What is Adair's general character—you have known him many years have you not? Yes.

3402. What is his general character? He is a trustworthy officer.

3403. A respectable man? Yes; as far as I know he is.

3404. And you know him pretty well? I know him principally because at the time of the strike I had many opportunities of speaking to him, and at that time I had a good few conversations with him.

3405. And he has always struck you as being a very good public servant? Yes; a very good public servant.

3406. Did you see him put the money he took off the table into his pocket? I did not.

3407. Did he leave immediately after you? I do not know. I left as soon as I could.

3408. Do you think it probable that the Chinamen would have allowed him to keep it? I think it very probable that the Chinamen would have allowed him to keep it if he wanted to in order to get out of trouble.

3409. But you have no knowledge of what occurred between the Chinaman and the policeman after the latter touched the money? No.

3410. Is Senior Constable Adair a plain clothes constable? Yes.

3411. Do you know anything about his circumstances in life? I believe he is a married man.

3412. With a family? I do not know whether he has any family.

3413. Do you know where he lives? I do not; but I believe that it is on the Rocks somewhere.

3414. Do you know if he is possessed of any property? No, I do not.

3415. Did you ever meet him in other gaming-houses? I have met him in several of the other gaming-houses.

3416. Was he in plain clothes then? Yes; he is always in plain clothes.

3417. Did he ever attempt to do anything of the same kind in any other gaming-house? I never saw him.

3418. He never attempted an operation of that kind in any other gaming-house either before or afterwards? Not that I saw.

3419. Did you ever hear of his having done it? No.

3420. Did he stand quietly by in these various gaming-houses whilst the gaming was going on? He did in this one instance.

3421. That is in the one instance where he touched the money? Yes.

3422. But I mean on the other occasions to which you have referred? He came in in accordance with his duty and dispersed the people.

3423. Did he ever make any arrests? Yes.

3424. Did he always stay behind and wait till he had raided the people out of the premises? Yes.

3425. It was your custom to remain till the last, standing quietly by whilst the other people were being turned out and then leaving without any bother? Yes.

3426. Well, did you ever hear him in conversation with any of the proprietors of any of the gaming-houses before leaving yourself? No, I never overheard any conversations between him and the gambling-house keepers.

3427. Have you any reason to suspect that he raided the people out of the gaming-houses for the purpose of levying blackmail on the Chinese? Yes; I always had that suspicion.

3428.

- Mr. 3428. In connection with Adair and the other constables who raided the people? Yes.
 E. Mathers. 3429. Tell me the names of some of the other constables? Ex-Constable Quealy was a great frequenter
 25 Sept., 1891. of the gaming-houses.
 3430. Was he an associate of Adair. Did he go with him on duty? No, he was not an associate of Adair's.
 3431. Was he a plain clothes constable? No; although I have seen him in the gaming-house in plain clothes.
 3432. Any other man besides ex-Constable Quealy and Senior Constable Adair who were in the habit of making these raids? Yes, I know several of them.
 3433. Do you mind giving us their names? I do not mean necessarily the names of men who took money but who visited these houses in the exercise of their duty? There was Senior-constable Adair, Sergeant Higgins, ex-Constable Quealy, Constable Black, and Constable Beard, and two more whose names I do not remember.
 3434. Can you tell me anything about Inspector Atwill in connection with these raids? Yes; he was one who frequently raided the gaming-houses. I have been in pretty well a dozen raids headed by him.
 3435. But they never effected any arrests on these occasions? Never when I was there.
 3436. They simply dispersed the gamblers? Yes.
 3437. Can you tell me anything about Sergeant Higgins? Yes; I know him.
 3438. Is he a man of means? Oh, I have not the slightest idea.
 3439. Did you ever, on any of these occasions, find him attempting to rob the bank or scramble for the money? No; I cannot say that I noticed him doing anything of that sort.
 3440. But it was the invariable custom of the police to drive the people away and to remain behind with the Chinese? Yes.
 3441. Would not that be the natural thing to do in the execution of their duty? Yes; I should say it would.
 3442. So that the fact of its being natural robs it of its suspicious character? Yes; it does.
 3443. You do not know anything about Sergeant Higgins taking bribes from the Chinese? No.
 3444. Did you ever hear of any presents being given to any of these men—Higgins, Quealy, Adair, Black, or Beard, or to any other policemen, by the Chinese? No; I cannot say that I have.
 3445. When did Quealy leave the force? Within the last two months.
 3446. What was Quealy's conduct on the occasion of these raids? He was the most inhuman of the whole lot of constables. He used to kick and punish the people.
 3447. You mean that he treated the people very roughly when he was dispersing them? Very roughly.
 3448. He was engaged in one raid in which a member of our Union who was present broke his foot in jumping over a stool that happened to be in his way, and was laid up for five months, and in the hospital for some time. I helped him into a cab at the door, and took the boot off his foot.
 3449. Did Quealy, in the course of the scramble, attempt to possess himself of any of the money that was on the table, or of any of the banker's money? I cannot say that I ever saw him take the money.
 3450. When the police made these raids was it not the invariable custom of the people about the table to attempt to get the money that was on the table? Yes; they snatched for the money.
 3451. And is it not your impression that the police also attempted to get the money? Yes; it is my impression.
 3452. And they would in that way endeavour to get hold of the gambling implements? Yes.
 3453. So that the police, in endeavouring to get hold of the gambling implements, might have led you to believe that they were also trying to get possession of the money? Yes.
 3454. Have you ever heard complaints made that the police did get hold of the money? Yes.
 3455. Were these complaints made by the bankers? Yes.
 3456. Then that supports you in your suspicion that they raided for the money? Yes.
 3457. Was it a general complaint against the police amongst the Chinese bankers and the people engaged in the play that when the police made a raid they got hold of what money they could? Yes.
 3458. And they never, on any of these occasions, made any arrests? No; they never made any arrests.
 3459. Did you ever hear of any summonses being issued immediately after these raids? No.
 3460. If there had been summonses issued would you have known? Most probably I should.
 3461. But you never carefully sought to know. Did you bother, during the next three or four days, to look in the papers? Yes; and I was a frequent visitor at these houses. I would wait until the raid was made, and then shortly afterwards go in again, and the next night I should visit the same house.
 3462. So that if the police took any action against the gaming-house proprietors you would have known? Yes; because I should have been in it.
 3463. Then that strengthens your opinion that the police raided for money and never made arrests or sought to punish the gambling-house proprietors? Yes.
 3464. Who is Black? A constable.
 3465. A plain clothes constable? No.
 3466. Is he in the Force now? Yes.
 3467. You have been present when he has raided these places? Yes.
 3468. Have you anything to charge him with in regard to conniving at gaming more than the rest of the police? No.
 3469. But the general observations you have made apply to Black, to Beard, to Higgins, and to Atwill? Yes; to all the police who have been on that beat. They have all at times made raids on gambling-houses, and when I have been in gambling and they have cleared the people out they have never made any arrests and never issued any summonses, and when, as has often been the case, the people have returned after the police have gone out one man would say, "Ah Moy, I had 2s. 6d. on the board and it has gone;" another would say, "Ah Moy, I had 2s. on the table and it has gone," and the banker would say, "The police have got it."
 3470. When you returned to the house you found that the money had all been taken away by somebody? Yes.
 3471. And when the gamesters asked what had become of it the Chinamen would answer that the police had got it? Yes.
 3472. The proprietors of the gaming-houses never accounted to you for the loss of the money? No.
 3473. So that the issue as to who really took it rests between them and the police? Yes. 3474.

Mr.
E. Mathers.

25 Sept., 1891.

3473. How long is it since Inspector Atwill read you the last lecture on gaming? About three years ago.
3474. Did you make any reply of importance? No; I felt rather ashamed of myself for being there, and told him a bit of an untruth.
3475. Have you since heard anything about Inspector Atwill's execution of his duty in regard to the Chinese gaming-houses? Oh, yes; I have heard a lot of people say that Inspector Atwill is "tipped" by the Chinamen.
3476. You cannot give us any direct evidence? No, I cannot.
3477. But it is a general impression that, in addition to the profits the police make out of these raids, they are tipped as well? It is my belief that they are.
3478. Would you give us the names of the houses that you frequented? Well I really cannot tell you the names. I used to frequent all of them.
3479. Oh, well, in that case it does not matter;—on the occasions when you were present, the company was composed of Chinese and Europeans, I suppose? Well, the company was entirely European, though there were always Chinese present running the gambling.
3480. But they now generally play with Europeans only? Yes; I am safe in saying that during the last six years I never saw one Chinaman playing in company with Europeans.
3481. They generally make the Europeans their prey? Yes.
3482. Did you walk into these places by yourself or with a friend? Sometimes by myself, but usually with a friend.
3483. Two, or three? Generally with one only.
3484. Have you any particular friend who was in the habit of going there with you? Well I had at times; I usually had a chum.
3485. Would you give us the names of two or three of them, so that we could examine them as witnesses? I can give you the name of one—Harry Saunders.
3486. What is his address? I do not know his address, but I can always find him.
3487. Have you any other friend like Mr. Saunders, or is there anybody else you know who would be able to give us any information about these practices; of course we have no wish to implicate anybody? Well I know several who could give valuable information if they would only do so. But, excuse me, I understood that this evidence was being taken not against the police but to be used against the evil of gambling. At all events I will think of the matter.
3488. Mr. Abigail.] Have you visited any of the places shown in the photographs? Yes.
3489. There are white notices on the front of them, you observe;—do you know what they mean? No; I do not.
3490. Do you know that fan-tan is carried on in them? Yes; I have played there myself.
3491. Mr. Hawthorne.] How did you find out the different places to go to if you cannot read the Chinese notices? Well, a frequenter of Chinese gambling-houses usually finds out when a new house is started. If you do not know yourself somebody else will very quickly tell you.
3492. Do the Chinese themselves ever stick you up outside their shops, asking you to go in and play fan-tan? Yes; that is now the custom, though it used not to be.
3493. They stand outside their shops, just as a tradesman might do, to ask you to buy a suit of clothes? Yes. Of course if you are walking at a fair rate they will not stop you; but if you are sauntering they will.
3494. What is their usual mode of salutation? "Do you play? Fan-tan inside."
3495. And that is on the public street? Yes.
3496. Mr. Quong Tart.] At what hours were these raids made? Always at night.
3497. About what hour? Between 8 and 10 o'clock.
3498. You referred to a number of raids at different places; can you give us the names of the places;—you referred to a constable being the last man to go out of a place;—where was that? At Ah Moy's.
3499. But your observation that the police always stay to the last applies to all raids? Yes; to all raids. I was implicated in a court case that occurred over a row in a Chinaman's shop—a furniture-shop on the left-hand side of George-street.
3500. Ah Toy's? I think it was Ah Toy's. A man called Frank Scott was up for assault and robbery. At that time there was a fan-tan table in one compartment, and six white people on the other side of it, and Frank Scott got into a row with one of the Chinamen and began to fight with him, and the Chinaman took an iron bar to knock him down, and Frank Scott got a piece of wood and knocked his opponent and the rest of the Chinamen out of the establishment. The police then came on the scene, and all the Europeans cleared, with the exception of Frank Scott and another young fellow. Scott then came out, and just managed to escape the police, but the young fellow who was left behind was caught by the police, and he had in his possession a drawer containing a considerable amount of money and also a watch and chain which the Chinaman had taken out of his vest pocket, and locked up inside the drawer. Between them, however—Frank Scott and this young fellow—they had smashed the drawer, and one of them had got the things out of it.
3501. What sort of man is Sun Sam Kee;—can he speak English well? Yes; very well.
3502. Does he dress like a European? Yes.
3503. Any amount of jewellery on him, I suppose? Yes; all the Chinese at his place seem very intelligent.
3504. Are any respectable Chinese merchants engaged in gambling? Oh, that I cannot say. They have been merchants—some of the gaming-house keepers I should think. At all events, the men in Sun Sam Kee's shop seem very intelligent Chinamen, and can talk about up-country towns and districts. I had a conversation with one of them, and he told me that he was store-keeping at Singleton, Narrabri, and other places.
3505. Is fan-tan a fair game;—have you ever made any money out of it? No, except one or two small amounts; but I reckon it is about as unfair a game as there is.
3506. Can you play any European games? Yes; I can play all kinds of games of cards.
3507. Do the Chinese play any other games? No; at least the only other game I have played in a Chinaman's is draughts.
3508. Have you ever known any immorality amongst the Chinese in Lower George-street? No; I never saw anything of it.

- Mr. 3509. Mr. McKillop.] Are you aware that any of these bankers and croupiers came into the Colony very poor, and have made large sums of money by running these fan-tan houses? Yes.
- E. Mathers. 3510. Do you know any of them personally? Yes.
- 25 Sept., 1891. 3511. Can you name one or two? I do not know their names.
3512. Would you kindly forward their names to the Secretary? Yes; one of them is called "Masher."
3513. What is his name? I think it is Ah Kee. He came here just as they began to stop the Chinese coming to the Colony. He was in one of the Chinese boats at Miller's Point, and offered £50 to anybody who would get him ashore. I do not know who earned the £50, but he got ashore.
3514. Is he a rich man? Yes.

Long Pen called and examined:—

- Long Pen. 3515. Mr. Abigail.] Where do you live? In Foster-street.
- 28 Sept., 1891. 3516. How long have you been in the Colony? I have been in this country ten years. Before that I was living in Melbourne.
3517. What business are you in? I used to keep a garden at Albert Gee's place, and since then I have been an interpreter to my countryman.
3518. Have you been employed by the police to do any work for them? Oh, well, I have done work for them in cases where I have been wanted. I used to be interpreter at Parramatta.
3519. You have a thorough knowledge of the Chinese gambling-houses in Sydney? I have heard of them.
3520. You know where they are? Oh, sometimes I have been in the bad places.
3521. You have seen the gambling carried on in these places—in Goulburn-street and George-street? Yes.
3522. And you have seen plenty of Europeans inside gambling? Sometimes I have seen a lot of English people going in and out, but I do not know that they have been gambling.
3523. Have you been in whilst gambling has been carried on? Very seldom.
3524. But you have seen it? I saw it a few weeks ago in Lower George-street.
3525. You saw gambling carried on there? Yes.
3526. At what places? It was at the place from which they were locked up.
3527. You mean Moy Ping's, I suppose? Yes.
3528. Will you look at these white papers posted outside the houses on the photographs;—what do they say? I have not got my glasses with me, so cannot see them very well.
3529. Have you given the police information about gambling being carried on in any of these places? Not about gambling being carried on at the places of which you have photos. About three years ago I reported about gambling being carried on at Sun Sam Kee's.
3530. What was the result of that;—did the police take action against him? Oh, they said, "It is very hard to catch them." The inspector said that he would have to get a warrant out for them. So I went to Mr. Melville, at Newtown.
3531. You are opposed to Chinese gambling, I presume? Yes.
3532. It is a very bad thing? Very.
3533. At all events, you gave the police information that gambling was being carried on at Sun Sam Kee's? Yes.
3534. And the police told you that it was very difficult to get in? Yes.
3535. Did they ever give you anything for the information that you supplied to them;—did they ever pay you for it? No.
3536. Then why did you ever give them the information? Because a friend of mine lost a lot of money there.
3537. Do you know a lot of your countrymen who have lost large sums of money there? Oh, there are plenty besides English people.
3538. Why did not the police take action when you gave them this information? Oh, you see I had no power to compel them to.
3539. But do you believe that the Chinese pay the police not to take action? I am not sure; it looks like it, because they would not do their duty.
3540. How many times have you complained to the police? About a dozen times.
3541. Did convictions ever follow, or did the police take no action in any of those dozen cases? No, sir; they took no action whatever.
3542. And on none of those occasions did they give you anything in the shape of money? No; they never gave me money. I did not ask them to.
3543. What reason did they assign for not taking action? They said, "Well, we will look after that. Do not bother me. We are so busy. You are always against your countrymen."
3544. Mr. Hawthorne.] They did not seem to like you to go and tell them? No, sir.
3545. Mr. Abigail.] Have you any reason for going against your countrymen except that you are opposed to gambling? Because some of my relatives and friends had lost money I advised them to stop gambling, although I could not stop gambling going on. On one occasion I tried to stop them smoking opium.

MONDAY, 28 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.
 RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
 JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Long Pen recalled and examined:—

- Long Pen. 3546. President.] What are you—what calling do you follow? I had a garden, but I sold that, and am now acting as interpreter for my countrymen.
- 28 Sept., 1891. 3547. Where do you live? At No. 40, Foster-street.
3548. Do you go down Lower George-street much? Very seldom. 3549.

3549. I want you to tell me what Chinese societies are in existence in Lower George-street? There is one for sending Chinese skeletons home to China. Long Pen.
3550. Is there not a secret society of Chinese in Sydney the objects of which are illegal? I heard, two or three months ago, that in consequence of the Government speaking about the gambling, the gamblers held a meeting. 28 Sept., 1891.
3551. Where did they meet? At a Chinese store, kept by Sun Sam War.
3552. Where is that situated? In Lower George-street.
3553. Were you present at that meeting? No, sir.
3554. Were many Chinese there? A good number were there.
3555. All the proprietors of the gambling-houses,—were they there? A lot of people were there, so I heard.
3556. What business was transacted at that meeting? They had a talk about the Europeans rising against the gambling, and it was pointed out that they (the Europeans) had gambling amongst themselves, just the same as the Chinese.
3557. What other business did they do? One of them, Pow Chee, an interpreter, said he would answer what had appeared in the newspapers, but he did not do so.
3558. Did they do any business at all? No; that is all.
3559. Was any money subscribed at that meeting? No.
3560. Did they say anything about the police? It was said that people reported about gambling, and said the police got tips, but nobody could prove that.
3561. Do you know, of your own knowledge, whether any of your countrymen who run these gambling-houses have ever paid the police any money? No, sir.
3562. Do you think that they do? I do not know. I cannot say that.
3563. Do you know who called that meeting at Sun Sam War's. Was it called by circular—by a written paper? No, there was no writing—they just called the meeting.
3564. Did you ever get a letter to go to a meeting? No.
3565. Do you know a society called the Loon Yee Tong? Yes; I have heard of it.
3566. What is the object of the society, do you know? I have heard its fund is contributed to by the gambling-shops in this way: For every £1 that is won, 3d. is deducted and given to this fund, and the money saved in that way is used to pay the lawyers' expenses in case there is a row in the gambling-shops and the Chinamen get into trouble.
3567. That is what they pay 3d. in the £1 for? Yes.
3568. Would they not also pay the police to avoid prosecution? I have heard so, but I do not know it of my own knowledge.
3569. Who is the head of the Loon Yee Tong? Kum Sing, and another one named Yuen Tah.
3570. Where are they now? Somewhere on the Rocks.
3571. Have they got much money? I do not know.
3572. You say this money was subscribed to the Loon Yee Tong to supply the lawyers? Yes.
3573. How many times have they paid the lawyers? A few times, I think.
3574. Not many times? No.
3575. Has the society got much money? I have said I do not know how much. You see, it is done privately.
3576. Is there a branch of the Loon Yee Tong in Goulburn-street? It is all round—everywhere.
3577. If one of your countrymen were fined at the Police Court in connection with gambling, would the Loon Yee Tong pay the fine? Yes.
3578. Have you never heard of them paying any money to the police to avoid a prosecution? I have heard of such a thing, but I cannot swear it.
3579. You have heard it mentioned that they would do so? Yes.
3580. Have you heard your own countrymen say so? Yes; Sun Sam Kee has said it, in Lower George-street.
3581. He has said, in your presence, that the funds of that society would be used to corrupt the police? Sun Sam Kee said to me, "I do not care who comes to catch us; if we spend £100 we are right."
3582. Sun Sam Kee said that? Yes. He lives at 381, I think, Lower George-street.
3583. Does he carry on a gambling-saloon? Yes.
3584. Did he tell you this himself? Yes.
3585. And do you know whether he told others of your countrymen? A lot of people heard it.
3586. Do you believe that Sun Sam Kee has paid money to the police himself? I do not say so.
3587. But you have reason to believe so, from what he said to you in the presence of your countrymen? That is the reason. Some time ago I went to the police and told them that gambling was carried on there, but the policeman refused to go.
3588. Has Sun Sam Kee ever been summoned or prosecuted, to your knowledge? Yes; he was fined £40 one time for being a banker.
3589. How long ago was that? Four years ago, nearly. I gave information to Mr. Melville, and in consequence of that they were fined £40. The police refused to take action.
3590. Has Sun Sam Kee ever been fined since? No.
3591. Have you gone to Mr. Melville or the police since then? Not for Sun Sam Kee.
3592. Have you gone on account of anyone else? Yes; in connection with some opium cases in Campbell-street.
3593. Yes, and who did you inform of that? Excuse me, I will tell you all I know about it: In Campbell-street, one time, a European went into Hung On's store to buy some opium, and the European refused to pay what he asked for it. The opium-box was on the counter. They had a dispute about it, and the European called Constable Gardiner and another constable in, and they had a row in the shop. I could see through a glass door, and was watching all the time. I saw Constable Gardiner coming out, and I said to him, "You know opium selling is contrary to the law—it is a slow poison, and that man has no license." Gardiner asked me what my name was, and where I lived, as he might want me, and two days after he served me with a subpoena to give evidence in a case against the storekeeper, who was convicted, and fined £10 and costs.
3594. Who paid the money? He refused to pay the money, and appealed against the conviction.

- Long Pen. 3595. How did the appeal go? The whole of the Chinese storekeepers down George-street were told of it.
- 28 Sept., 1891 3596. Did they pay the money? Let me tell you. After that I think about £5 was subscribed by fifty different subscribers, and a meeting was held, at which it was stated that Long Pen [the witness himself] was going to find out who was selling opium, and stop them carrying on their nefarious calling. After that there was a meeting of the storekeepers three times a week. I went back to Waterloo, but I told Constable Hill how to find out another opium-seller—Tong Yew Chong—and when the case came on he was fined £10. Solicitor Williamson asked the magistrate to reduce the fine, and I think the magistrate took off £2 10s. It cost £14 altogether. That case was also appealed against. After that the Loon Yee Tong called a meeting and proposed to pay £300 to take my life.
3597. Now, I want you to answer this question:—You say they offered a reward of £300 to take your life? Yes.
3598. Who did that? Tong Yew Chong.
3599. Is he a Chinese storekeeper? Yes.
3600. In Goulburn-street? No, Waterloo.
3601. He offered his countrymen, or some of them, £300 to have you killed? Yes.
3602. Were you ever assaulted by any of your countrymen? Yes; I was nearly killed.
3603. That was after this meeting you speak of? Yes.
3604. Where was this assault committed? In the Waterloo Chinese camp.
3605. What were you doing there? I went to see my friends.
3606. And they assaulted and beat you? Yes.
3607. How long ago is that? It is a little over three years ago.
3608. Did you prosecute the men who assaulted you? Yes.
3609. Were they punished? Yes; they got four months hard labour.
3610. How many of them? Two—one Tong Yee Chong and Ah Sing.
3611. Were they members of the Loon Yee Tong? Yes, both of them.
3612. Will the members of the Loon Yee Tong, if they are so directed by the officers of the society, assault or beat any of their countrymen who may have given evidence against them? Yes.
3613. Do you know whether those men got any portion of the £300 for assaulting you? I do not know that.
3614. You think they probably got some payment? I do not know, but I think they must have got some benefit out of it. I did hear that they got £3 a week while they were in gaol from the society.
3615. You have heard that? Yes.
3616. Is the Loon Yee Tong in existence now? I think they had some falling out some time ago.
3617. Is it in existence now—that is what I want to know? Yes, I think they have joined again.
3618. This £300 which you say was offered for your life, was that Loon Yee Tong money, or was it to be subscribed by the Chinese private firms? All the Chinese storekeepers were in it—they would all come and put in together.
3619. Do the Chinese storekeepers in Lower George-street know it is illegal to deal in opium? Yes. It is under the Poisons Act.
3620. Have the Chinese who sell it a license? No, they have tried to get it and cannot.
3621. The Government will not give it them? No.
3622. And yet they sell it to their countrymen? Yes.
3623. Then the cause of your being unpopular with them is that you have informed the authorities of their selling illegally? Yes, that is the cause. I went to Mr. Inspector Potter and Mr. Lee.
3624. Now I want you to tell me about Mr. Gouldtown? I do not speak to him.
3625. Do you know him? Yes.
3626. How long has he been in this country? About four years, I think.
3627. Is he a member of the Loon Yee Tong? I do not know.
3628. Is he a respectable Chinese? I do not think he is very respectable. He puts through any Chinese cabinet-makers who want to go insolvent.
3629. Where is Gouldtown now? I do not know where he went.
3630. Do you know why he left Sydney? I do not know what he went away for.
3631. Was he sent away by any of the Chinese merchants? I never heard that.
3632. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know when he went away? No.
3633. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long is it since you spoke to Mr. Gouldtown? I never spoke to him since I knew him.
3634. You must have spoken to him if you know him? No.
3635. How have you formed this bad opinion of Mr. Gouldtown? When I was in the shop of a man named Han Sing, a carpenter, who was being sold off one time, I saw Gouldtown with him. He was getting him put through.
3636. Do you think Gouldtown would take your business away from you? No, I can look after myself.
3637. How do you live now? I get a living from my business as interpreter for my countrymen, and the English.
3638. You act as interpreter for the Chinese both in Sydney and the country? Yes.
3639. How much do you get for interpreting? Sometimes, when the place is far distant, I get paid by mileage—so much a mile.
3640. If you have been an informer how is it your countrymen trust you to interpret for them? They can employ who they like as interpreter.
3641. Have you never been put out of the Chinese houses you have entered at any time? No.
3642. Where you not thrown out at Waterloo; at the camp there? That was about the opium case.
3643. But you were put out then? That was when they tried to kill me; yes; that was the only time.
3644. Was that because you were an informer? Yes.
3645. For no other reason at all? No.
3646. Have you ever known of a case of a Chinaman giving presents to the police? No; I never saw that.
3647. Do you know Inspector Atwill? Yes; I have been in his office two or three times.
3648. Have ever you been locked up in your life? No, sir. I have been in the country thirty-six years, and I have never stained my name yet.
- 3649.

3649. Have you ever heard of any presents being given to the police at any time? I never saw it.
3650. Have you ever heard of the police being presented with anything? No; I have only heard about Sun Sam Kee, and he says nobody can stop his gambling.
3651. Why did he say that; for what reason; did he say he would know before the warrants were issued, or did he lead you to believe that the police would inform him before they would come and make a raid upon his place? Sun Sam Kee's mate has told me that the police would inform some other of my countrymen.
3652. That the police would always tell them before they made a raid? Yes.
3653. Have you been in any of the Chinese gambling-shops lately? Yes.
3654. Have you been in Pun Num's? No.
3655. Have you ever been in Ting Sing's? No.
3656. Or Han Kee and Doung Lee's? I think about a week ago I went to Han Kee's.
3657. Were they gambling when you went there? Yes.
3658. Was it in the daytime? Yes; about 3 o'clock.
3659. How many do you think were in the room with you? There was not a great number. I did not stop very long.
3660. How many would you say? About seven or eight.
3661. Were they Chinese or Europeans? All Chinese.
3662. Were they seeming to lose much money? They were winning and losing. I did not stay long; about five minutes.
3663. Did they ask you to go out? No.
3664. Did they make no objection at all to your being there? No.
3665. Did they stop playing while you were there? No.
3666. They took no notice of you being there? No.
3667. Mr. Quong Tart.] How long is it since you had the vegetable garden? A little more than four years.
3668. Did the garden pay you? Certainly.
3669. How many partners had you? I had twelve men working for me. The garden was my own.
3670. Did you not have a law suit with your brother over the garden? No.
3671. Not in Parramatta? No.
3672. Are you quite sure? Yes.
3673. Do you not remember one of your partners threatening to take your life unless you gave him a share of the money? No; he never did that. One man who arranged to buy my garden came to lift the deposit of £30, as he could not afford to pay the money, and I had a few words with him; that was all.
3674. Who bought your share when you left? Sing Toong.
3675. That was in Auburn? Yes.
3676. When you left there where did you go to live? In Auburn Grove, about a mile and a half distant from the garden.
3677. When did you go to live at Waterloo? A few months after.
3678. What has been your business since then? I live by interpreting for the Chinese.
3679. You call yourself a Chinese reformer I suppose; you desire to do good for your countrymen? Yes; I want to make them lead good lives.
3680. Tell us a few of the Chinese whom you have reformed? There is one called Mew Chong, and Lee Sam.
3681. In what occupations are those men engaged? They are gardeners.
3682. If they are gardeners I suppose they are industrious men;—how would they want reforming? I advised them not to gamble.
3683. You do not gamble yourself? No; I did at one time, but not now.
3684. How long is it since you left off gambling? A couple of years.
3685. Now, did you not win a sum of money in a lottery last year? No; I never won any.
3686. Did you not win some money in a Campbell-street lottery last year? No; my wife marked a ticket in a lottery.
3687. Who paid for it? My wife.
3688. Is your wife a Chinese woman? No; her father was an Indian, and she is a native of Melbourne.
3689. How much did she win;—£20? Yes.
3690. Are you in debt to your landlord for rent at Waterloo? I can afford to pay the landlord.
3691. You say that you interpret in a lot of cases, and that is how you make a living? Yes.
3692. In what case did you last act as interpreter? In the case of Chong Tee up at Walgett.
3693. What was the nature of that case? I think it was a fighting case—arose out of a row.
3694. How many cases have you interpreted for during the last twelve months? More than a dozen.
3695. Name some of them? There was the case arising out of a row in Wexford-street.
3696. How long ago was that? About eight or nine months ago.
3697. How much did you get for interpreting in that case? That is my business.
3698. I want you to answer the question; you say you live by interpreting, and that you have had over a dozen cases during the last twelve months, and I ask you what remuneration you received for the case you have just spoken of? That case, I think, occupied about two weeks, and I charged a guinea a day—about 10 guineas.
3699. Can you mention any other cases; I want to know a few of them? There was the case of Ting Yow, where an Englishman killed a Chinaman's horse.
3700. How much did you get in that instance? That case was taken to the District Court, and I got about £10. I also got a case at Walgett that brought me £40.
3701. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you get a free pass on the railways, or do you have to pay your own fare? I get paid for mileage—expenses and all.
3702. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say you do not gamble;—do you smoke opium? No; I used to, but I knocked it off.
3703. How long ago is it since you knocked off smoking opium? About eight months ago.
3704. How many years were you smoking opium? About six years.
3705. Now, since you have been such a great reformer, telling the people not to smoke and gamble, and informing on different opium-sellers, tell us where you got the opium from to smoke during the six years you made a practice of it? I got it from different people.

Long Pen.
23 Sept., 1891.

- Long Pen. 3706. Why did you not inform upon them? Because I did not know it was illegal to sell opium at that time.
- 28 Sept., 1891. 3707. How long have you known that it was illegal to sell opium? Only lately.
3708. How long? About four years.
3709. And how long do you say you have knocked off smoking opium? About eight months.
3710. Where did you get the opium to smoke during the time you knew it was illegal to sell it? From China.
3711. Did you import it? My father sent it to me.
3712. How long ago did he send the opium to you? About five years ago.
3713. What quantity did you get in that way? About five tin cases, containing about 100 small tins.
3714. Did you have a bill of lading? My father sent to me through one of the Chinese stores here.
3715. What is the name of the store? The store is no longer in existence.
3716. What was the name? Yuen Fook King.
3717. Where is he now? I do not know.
3718. Did the opium you got from your father last you five years? Yes; if I was short any time, I would send somebody to buy it.
3719. You say you are a reformer, and that you want to put down the gambling evil. I want to see whether you are sincere or not. You say five tins lasted you five years? There were twenty small tins inside the large tins—that made 100 tins altogether.
3720. How much money would that be valued at? About £120.
3721. What duty did you have to pay on that? I never paid it; the storekeeper paid it.
3722. You say your father sent it to you? Yes; he sent it through the storekeeper.
3723. Do you remember the month in which you got this parcel of opium? No; it is a long time to remember that.
3724. Did you get a bill of lading? No.
3725. Did you pay any money? No; my father paid the money. He bought the opium, and sent it through the storekeeper to me.
3726. Is your father living now? No.
3727. How long ago is it since he died? About a year ago.
3728. He was a very good father to you to send you opium, I suppose? Well; I used to smoke. I could not help it.
3729. Do you think it well for a father in China to send opium to his son—is it not a great wrong—a great crime to do so? It is done in a good many cases.
3730. Is it not a fact that you have got money from gambling-house keepers by threatening to inform upon them to the police? No; it is not true.
3731. Do you not go round these gambling-houses from door to door, getting a few shillings from this one and a few from that one? No; certainly not.
3732. Are you not really a disturber of the Chinese, rather than a reformer—do you not make them bad rather than good? No; if that were so, they would report me.
3733. Do you not smoke opium now? No.
3734. Suppose we were to go to your place now would we not find an opium pipe ready for smoking? I have the opium pipe all the time. I never broke it.
3735. Do you keep that pipe for yourself? No; you can go to my place if you like. But suppose you get a ton of opium in my place, you never saw me smoke it.
3736. Have you not got any bribes from the gambling-houses in connection with your informing operations? No; I never got any benefit from the gambling-houses.
3737. Seeing the evidence you have given about yourself, do you consider you have benefited the country, and that your work is appreciated by the respectable portion of the community—European or Chinese? I could not say that; the public would be like a family, some would be benefited and some would not.
3738. Have you any suggestion to make for improving the condition of that section of the Chinese community complained of as being immoral and dirty? I think notices should be put up outside the places, directing them to be kept clean and tidy; I think that would have a good effect.
3739. What do you know about warrants having been issued at one time by the police in connection with some of these gambling-houses? I do not know.
3740. You said here a little while ago that warrants had been issued to your knowledge? Yes.
3741. Were those warrants executed? Yes; they got Doong Ling Kong.
3742. At any time were there warrants issued and not put into execution? Yes; I remember that I went to see Mr. Melville, and in consequence of that they were not executed.
3743. How long ago was that? About five years ago.
3744. Have you heard of any of a recent date? I have heard of it.
3745. You do not know of your own knowledge? No.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Henry Saunders called and examined:—

- Mr. H. Saunders. 3746. President.] Where do you reside? At 59, Gloucester-street, Miller's Point.
- 28 Sept., 1891. 3747. Have you been in the habit of attending the gambling-houses in Lower George-street, for amusement or curiosity? I have visited them on several occasions.
3748. About what time did you first visit them? About 1883 or 1884.
3749. That would be about seven years ago? Yes; it is about eight years ago.
3750. Have you been a constant visitor to those places? No; not a very constant visitor.
3751. How many times a month since 1884 do you think you visited these places? About once a week I should say.
3752. You have a fair knowledge of the customs and practices of the gambling-shops there? Yes.
3753. Were you accustomed to visit the whole of them, or only one or two in particular? Every house very nearly.
3754. Has your experience been confined to the lower end of George-street? Yes.
3755. Have you played the game of fan-tan yourself? Yes.

Mr.
H. Saunders.
28 Sept., 1891.

3756. Have you ever embarked in what is called the lottery? Yes.
3757. Have you lost much money at that? Well there are losses and gains.
3758. On the whole do you think you have lost considerably? Yes.
3759. Were you ever disturbed while playing by visits from the police, either in plain clothes or in uniform? Not to my knowledge.
3760. You were never present when the police disturbed the gamblers? No.
3761. Were you ever present when the police came in and did not stop the gambling? I think I have seen them come into the outside shop, where the tickets are served out when there has been some row on among them.
3762. You have never seen a policeman, either in plain clothes or in uniform, in the room in which they play fan-tan? No; not in my experience.
3763. Have you ever suspected that the police connived at the Chinese gambling—winked at it? They know as well as I do that it is carried on there, of course.
3764. It is a matter of public notoriety? Yes.
3765. Have you ever seen the police in private conversation with the proprietors of the gambling-saloons? No.
3766. Do you know any of the police in Lower George-street? I know all of them.
3767. Tell us the names of those you know have been on duty there while gambling has been publicly carried on? I only know their nick-names, not their proper names.
3768. Do you know Constable Adair? Yes; I know him.
3769. Do you know Mr. Mathers, of the Bootmakers' Society? Yes.
3770. Did you ever visit any of these houses with him? Yes; in years gone by.
3771. Have you ever had any conversation with him as to the dilatoriness of the police in not prosecuting the Chinese for carrying on this gambling traffic? Not to my recollection.
3772. Did he ever tell you that he suspected the police of taking bribes? He might have done, but I cannot remember.
3773. Did he ever tell you of any particular incident that occurred in one of these Chinese gambling-dens when you were not with him? No.
3774. Did he ever tell you of a visit being paid by the police to one of these places while gambling was going on—that is, in the inner room? No; not to my recollection.
3775. Did he ever give you any information, or converse with you upon a certain action of Constable Adair when present at a gambling-table? No.
3776. Did you ever hear it alleged that Constable Adair, when making a raid upon a Chinese gambling-house, took the money that was on the table? No.
3777. You know nothing whatever about any transaction of that kind? No.
3778. And you have no knowledge yourself that the police do take bribes for winking at gambling? No.
3779. Have you ever heard, upon reliable authority, that they do? I have heard rumours about it.
3780. And which you think are reasonable, seeing that this gambling is not suppressed when it might be; is that the view you take? Yes.
3781. Mr. Abigail.] Is gambling carried on at Lower George-street as bad as ever? Yes.
3782. The people walking up and down the street in front of these shops know it? Yes.
3783. And consequently, the police must know it also? Yes.
3784. That being so, and as they are paid out of the public purse to suppress anything which is contrary to law, is it not reasonable to infer that there must be some strong reason why they do not suppress this Chinese gambling? I do not know about that. I know it is carried on at the present moment, and I can prove it. In fact, it is well known. It is going on Saturday and Sunday, and every day in the week.
3785. Do you know the meaning of the white paper notices which appear outside a number of the Chinese houses, like these photographs? Yes; it signifies that gambling is carried on there.
3786. Do you know these shops [Handing witness three photographs]? Yes; I have been in two of them—Doong Lee's and another.
3787. Is there any difficulty in gaining admission to these places? Yes; there is great difficulty unless you are known. If you have a ticket, and if you have got money on you, they will let you in anywhere.
3788. Could a private-clothes policeman obtain admission in the same way? Certainly they could, any time they wanted to, if they disguise themselves.
3789. Are you of opinion that this Chinese gambling has a demoralising effect upon the community round about? From my experience during the last seven or eight years it has, certainly. It has been disastrous to a great many, myself included.
3790. Have you ever seen any women in these places? No.
3791. Any youths? Oh, yes; they are very strong down there, especially in one or two of the houses, two or three doors from Han Kee's.
3792. I suppose when one follows this fan-tan gambling it becomes an infatuation? To some people it does.
3793. Have you known many men to spend the whole of their earnings in these gambling-shops? Yes; a great many have done it this last year.
3794. Married men, as well as single? Yes; married men especially.
3795. You have no doubt whatever that anybody walking up and down George-street in front of these places, can see that gambling is going on there? Yes; because there is no business carried on in these places whatsoever. They may have a few cigars or a little fruit in the front shop-window; but there are no signs of ordinary business with Europeans at all, and yet Europeans may be seen constantly going in and out.
3796. Have you ever heard of any of the winnings of these gambling-houses being set apart as a fund for any particular society? No.
3797. Out of the fan-tan winnings is any portion kept by the bank? They keep 1d. out of every shilling—that is their bank.
3798. Do you know anything about opium-smoking down there? No.
3799. You have not tried it yourself? No. I draw the line at that. It is bad enough to be there.
3800. Have you ever met any of the police there gambling? No.
3801. When off duty, I mean? No.

- Mr. H. Saunders. 3802. Have you noticed whether any of the police who usually do duty in that portion of the city appear to be on very friendly terms with the Chinese residents who keep these gambling-houses? I never see them much down there.
- 28 Sept., 1891. 3803. Have you ever heard anything that would lead you to believe that the police have accepted bribes from the gambling-house keepers? I have heard people talk about it, but I know nothing beyond what I have heard.
3804. What is your own opinion—do you think it likely that they have received bribes? I would not say one way or the other; but I must say to me it looks very curious.
3805. Why curious? Well, I remember one instance, about four or five years ago, when they made a raid upon Ah Ping's place, when they got about twenty or thirty Europeans; and about a month ago they got them again. That is the only place they seem to make a raid upon.
3806. And you know of your own knowledge, as a practical gambler, that there are other places as bad, if not worse, than this place where they made the raid? Yes.
3807. The inference you draw from that is that the men who keep the house upon which these raids have been made do not bribe the police, and the other houses do? I do not know that I can go as far as that. I would not like to say unless I was sure.
3808. So that it comes to this—that you really have no practical evidence to offer that the police have at any time received bribes? No.
3809. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have had a great deal of experience about that quarter, and fully recognise the evil of the Chinese gambling;—can you suggest anything which would effectively put down the evil; or do you think the police could do it under the existing law? If the police followed their duty closely on a Sunday they could suppress it, I daresay. By that I mean that if instead of watching street corners that day of all days, as gambling is carried on more on a Sunday than on any other day, they looked after what is going on in the Chinese gambling-dens they would stand a better chance of dealing with the evil.
- [The witness withdrew.]

WEDNESDAY, 30 SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq., QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Jas. Ireland called and examined:—

- Mr. J. Ireland. 3810. Mr. McKillop.] Where do you reside, Mr. Ireland? No. 14, Gloucester-street, Dawes' Point.
3811. Have you been residing long in that locality? Yes, for twenty-five years. I was born there.
- 30 Sept., 1891. 3812. Have you at any time of your life been connected with Chinese gambling? Not with the gambling. I worked in several of those places when I served my time. I am a gasfitter by trade.
3813. Whom were you working for? Mr. Alex. M'Leod, plumber and gas-fitter, Lower George-street.
3814. How long have you worked for him? Eight years. I served my apprenticeship with him.
3815. Does your employer do much work for the Chinese? Yes; he does all the plumbing work down there.
3816. Through doing that work I suppose you were frequently in their houses? Yes, I was all over them.
3817. Did you see a great deal of what was going on there? Yes, I saw a great deal there.
3818. Do you know any members of the police force? Yes; through living there so long I know a good many of them.
3819. Do you know Constable Carson? Yes.
3820. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? Yes.
3821. Do you know Constable Adair? Yes.
3822. Do you know Senior-constable Beadman? Yes.
3823. Do you know ex-Constable Quealey, who was dismissed from the force? Yes.
3824. Do you live close to any of the policemen you have named? I live next door but one to Sergeant Higgins.
3825. Do you know of any presents being made to Sergeant Higgins, or any other member of the force;—I must tell you that we do not want you to hide anything in this matter? I understand. I will give you all I know.
3826. Have you ever seen Sergeant Higgins presented with any presents in the shape of tea or ginger? No. But I have heard of such things.
3827. You do not know it yourself? No.
3828. Do you know of any presents being given to Constable Beadman? No. I do not know where he lives. Sergeant Higgins is the only one I know anything about.
3829. Do you know of presents having been made by the Chinese to any member of the police force? Not to my knowledge personally.
3830. Is Sergeant Higgins possessed of much property? Yes, he has ten houses, I think.
3831. In the locality in question? Yes.
3832. Has he any other property you know of? I believe he has some at North Shore; but I do not know whether it is his own or not.
3833. You know Constable Adair? Yes.
3834. Has he any property to your knowledge? I cannot say.
3835. Do you know of any other policeman having property? No. ex-Constable Kearney has two houses. He lives next door but two from me.
3836. How long has Kearney left the police force? I cannot say.
3837. Can you not make a rough guess? About four years perhaps. I was lately working at Dalgetty's, where he is special constable.
3838. Sergeant Higgins is still in the police force? Yes.
3839. How many years has he been in the force? He was in the force, before I was born I think—as long as I can remember.
3840. What age are you? Twenty-five.
3841. In following your occupation as a plumber and gas-fitter in these Chinese gambling-houses, have you seen much gambling carried on? Yes.
- 3842.

3842. While you have been working there have you seen any of the police force enter those places? I cannot say I have.
3843. Either in plain clothes or in uniform? No.
3844. In your experience, can persons go in and out of the gambling-saloons with impunity? No. It is a hard job to get in. That was my experience. They had a man at the door, and I had to make him understand I was going there to work.
3845. Did any of the keepers of these dens, or anyone connected with them, ever tell you personally that they had made presents to the police? No.
3846. Can you inform the Commission whether, in any of these places you have been into, there are any underground places or cellars that you have put gas-pipes in, for the purpose of carrying on gambling, or where it could be carried on? Below the street level—yes.
3847. Mr. Hawthorne.] In whose houses were these underground fittings put? Some of them are pulled down now—where the old "Royal Albert Hotel" used to stand.
3848. Are there any buildings in existence now where you have been at any time employed fixing up gas-fittings beneath the ground floor? I think there are one or two there.
3849. Do not think—be sure? It is two years since I worked at them.
3850. But you must be able to tell whether the buildings are in existence there or not? Yes; there is one immediately opposite On Chong's.
3851. Have you been in any of these buildings shown on the photographs [produced]? No; I have never worked in them. The buildings I refer to are further up the street.
3852. Have you any personal knowledge of the gambling carried on in Lower George-street? I have never played the game myself.
3853. But you have been in these places while the gambling has been going on? Yes.
3854. Have you ever seen any policemen, either in plain clothes or in uniform while you have been there? No.
3855. Have you seen any of the Chinese knocking about in a friendly manner with the police? I have seen them speaking to the police.
3856. On very friendly terms apparently? No; I could not say that.
3857. Do you know, of your own knowledge—and I want you to answer this question without reserve—whether any member of the police, at any time, has received a present or presents of any kind from the Chinese in Lower George-street or anywhere else? I have never seen any presents given myself.
3858. Do you know anyone who has seen a present made to the police? No. Of course you will hear in conversation at street corners, perhaps, statements made about the police being bribed. It is a common thing to hear, but that is merely in casual conversation. I have never heard anything definite.
3859. You have heard nothing definite that you could look upon as detrimental to, or reflecting upon, the character of the police force, or any member of it? No.
3860. Of or concerning Inspector Atwill, for instance? No.
3861. Do you think, so far as you have had opportunities of judging, that Inspector Atwill has the diligence and care to be expected of a man in his position? Yes.
3862. You have always looked upon him as a trustworthy and capable officer? Yes; ever since he has been down there.
3863. Do you not think him capable of receiving "tip" either from Chinese or Europeans? No.
3864. Have you had any conversation with any one about your proposed visit here to give evidence before the Commission? I have with one or two.
3865. With men who have been already examined by the Commission? Yes; I spoke to Mr. Armstrong. He told me where to come, and how to get to the room in which the Commission sit.
3866. Was anything said about the evidence you were to give, or the questions you would be asked? No; nothing of that kind.
3867. He did not question or speak to you about the matter in any way? No; I may say I am a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League.
3868. Have you attended the meetings? No; I could not well attend.
3869. Have you paid your subscriptions? Yes.
3870. You have never been a gambler yourself? No; I was only too glad to get out of the places when I worked there.
3871. Can you name to the Commission any places in existence now in Lower George-street, or any part of the lower end of the city, where you have fixed gas-fittings in what we would call the cellar, to enable them to gamble without being detected by the police or any one else? There are one or two places.
3872. Can you give the names? Up towards No. 191 or No. 192 there are places of that kind.
3873. How many? There are four places of that kind there. I worked there.
3874. Are they still in existence? Yes.
3875. And are they occupied by Chinese? Yes.
3876. Are they used for gambling purposes? Yes; I believe so.
3877. On which side of the street are they? On the right-hand side.
3878. Do you know the place on which the raid was made some time ago? Yes.
3879. Are these places you mention anywhere near there? No; they are lower down the street, towards Circular Quay, on the same side of the way.
3880. You do not know the exact number? No.
3881. Could you tell the names of the occupants if you heard them mentioned? No; I never took notice of the names.
3882. Mr. Abigail.] You said just now that when you were working at these places you were only too glad to get out of them, or words to that effect;—I suppose you had a particular reason for saying that? Yes; the smell used to be something terrible. There was one place especially, with a room about 9 feet or 10 feet square, divided off into three or four compartments.
3883. Do you know the smell of opium? Yes; an overpowering, deadly, or suffocating smell.
3884. Was that the smell you speak of? No; it was a kind of muck smell—very disgusting. I could not tell what it was.
3885. You found the place in a dirty state? Yes.
3886. That was the reason you were glad to get out of it? —
3887. You know that gambling is carried on to a large extent in Lower George-street? Yes.

- Mr. J. Ireland.
30 Sept., 1891.
3888. Anyone can see evidence of the fact passing up and down the street? Yes.
3889. And therefore the police must know it is carried on to a very large extent? Of course.
3890. Do you know what is written on the white pieces of paper that are posted up outside these houses, the same as you see on the photograph before you? No; I cannot understand that.
3891. You do not know what it means? No.
3892. Have you ever asked anyone the meaning of it? No.
3893. Do you know Mr. Kelly, the Secretary of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? I know him by sight.
3894. Do you know any prominent member of the League? I know Mr. Armstrong.
3895. Anyone else; do you know Mr. Nock? Yes.
3896. Have you had a conversation within the last month with any member of the League? Yes.
3897. Did you tell any member of the League that you could prove the delivery to Sergeant Higgins or any other member of the police force of parcels of tea or preserved ginger, or anything else? No.
3898. Then, if anyone has said you would be able to enlighten the Commission with regard to any allegation or rumour of chests of tea or other things being presented to Sergeant Higgins by Chinese in the neighbourhood, he would be telling an untruth? I did say that I had heard things were sent up there.
3899. But it was not of your own knowledge? No.
3900. Whom did you hear it from? I heard it from many, that things had been sent up to the different police officers.
3901. You live near Sergeant Higgins? Yes.
3902. Have you ever seen any chests of tea or Chinese preserves delivered to him, or his wife, or any member of his family? No.
3903. Do you know Sergeant Higgins well? Yes.
3904. Is he a respectable, reliable man, in your opinion? Yes.
3905. How many houses did you say he has? Ten houses.
3906. Do you know whether he has any mortgage over them? That I cannot say.
3907. Do you know the value of the houses? There are two which let at 22s. 6d. a week; three at £1 a week; one he lives in himself, and there are two behind at about 15s. a week.
3908. Do you know anything about his property at the North Shore? No; I do not know whether he owns it.
3909. Mr. McKillop.] Have you heard of any presents being sent by the Chinese during the Chinese New Year time? I have heard that they have, through people speaking one to another.
3910. President.] Supposing, for the sake of argument, that these presents were sent that you have heard about during the New Year time; that they were sent to Sergeant Higgins; what, in your mind, would be the value of such presents; do you think they would be very valuable presents? I cannot say.
3911. Was it a jar of preserved ginger, or was it a chest or a couple of chests of tea, you could tell in that way? I do not know.
3912. Supposing such presents as you have heard about were presented, surely you can imagine whether they were valuable or not? That is a difficult question.
3913. Mr. McKillop.] Have you observed any members of the police at any time wearing expensive jewellery, unbecoming men in their station in life, or in other words inconsistent with their ordinary earnings, such as diamond rings? No; I have never seen them with diamond rings.
3914. Mr. Quong Tart.] While you were working in these places you have mentioned, did you notice any immoral practices carried on there? I have seen a few women there in one house.
3915. Were they respectable women, or women of the low class? One of them was supposed to be the wife of the man who kept the house, and there were also two or three young girls there who were supposed to be assistants or servants.
3916. You are a gasfitter? Yes.
3917. Have you worked in any European houses of a low character? No; it was only in that district I used to work.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Alfred Law called and examined:—

- Mr. A. Law.
30 Sept., 1891.
3918. Mr. Abigail.] Where do you live, Mr. Law? At No. 113, Gloucester-street.
3919. How long have you lived there? For the last ten or fifteen years.
3920. What is your business? Clerk in a shipping office.
3921. Are you a member of any society? No.
3922. Any Chinese society? No.
3923. Do you know if there are any Chinese secret societies in Sydney? No.
3924. Have you ever given subscriptions for the defence of Chinamen taken to the Police Court on any charge whatever? No.
3925. Then if anybody has made this statement, that you have subscribed to a fund for the purpose of defending Chinese in court that would be untrue? Yes.
3926. Do you visit the Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? No.
3927. You do not gamble? No.
3928. Do you use opium? No.
3929. Have you any knowledge of the gambling that is carried on in Lower George-street? I have no idea.
3930. President.] Do you know any one connected with a newspaper called Truth? No.
3931. Are you quite sure? Yes.
3932. If anyone has stated that you have contributed to a Chinese Sustentation Fund to provide for the defence of Chinese who may be prosecuted, or pay the fines of Chinese convicted of any offence, or to bribe the police, or for any other purpose whatsoever, they would be telling an untruth, so far as you are concerned? Yes, they would.
3933. I may tell you it has been stated that you have contributed to such a fund? Never in my life.
3934. Mr. Abigail.] You understand that in giving evidence before this Commission you are in the same position as if you were giving evidence in the Supreme Court? Yes, I quite understand that.

3935. President.] Are you addicted to gaming in the Chinese gambling-houses? No.
3936. Mr. McKillop.] Have you a brother, Mr. Law? Yes.
3937. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is he older or younger than you? Older.
3938. President.] Do you know your brother's habits? Yes.
3939. Does he frequent the Chinese gambling-houses? No.
3940. Would he contribute to the Chinese Sustentation Fund? I do not think he would.
3941. What occupation does he follow? He is in the same office as I am.
3942. What is the name of the firm? John Gee & Co.
3943. That is a Chinese firm? Yes.
3944. Are they connected with any Chinese gambling-houses in any way? I do not know.
3945. You have access to their books, I suppose? They are all written in English.
3946. And you speak English well? Yes. All the writing in the office is done in English.
3947. You have access to the firm's books? Yes.
3948. Do the books show that your house has any connection with the Chinese gambling-houses in Sydney? No.
3949. Does your house do business with them in any way whatever? No.
3950. Does the firm do shipping business for them? No; only with the leading Chinese merchants.
3951. You are quite sure that no money comes into your firm's business from the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-houses? Yes, quite sure.
3952. And they have no connection in any way, directly or indirectly, with the Chinese gambling-houses? No.
3953. Does your firm ever execute indents for any of the Chinese merchants? No.
3954. What is your firm's business—is it confined to merely shipping agency business—Custom House business? Yes.
3955. Have you a cousin of the same name as yourself? No; my cousin's name is Moy Mow.
3956. Have you any relative at all whom you know to be addicted to Chinese gambling? No.
3957. Mr. McKillop.] How many brothers have you? Two.
3958. Are they both employed in the same business? No; one is working with Brown & Co., of Woolloomooloo.
3959. Do both brothers live with you? One is living at Balmain.
3960. Where is the other living? With me, at 113, Gloucester-street.
3961. Is that one employed in the same office with you? Yes.
3962. Do you know whether your brother has ever communicated with any person connected with the paper Truth? I do not know. Not to my knowledge.
3963. Do you know whether there are any houses kept for immoral purposes in Gloucester-street, or about the Rocks? I do not know of any.
3964. Have you had any conversation with the keepers of any of the Chinese gambling-dens since you received the summons to attend the Commission? No.
3965. Or prior to it? No.
3966. And you have received no threatening letters, warning you not to give evidence before the Commission? —
3967. President.] Do you know a man named Forder, a reporter, connected with Truth? No.
3968. Mr. McKillop.] Are there any more Laws,—persons of the same name as yourself—besides those you have mentioned, in Sydney? I do not know.
3969. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know whether your father engages in any way in gambling? I do not think so.
3970. You have never known him to? No.
3971. Are you the eldest of your family? No; I am the third.
3972. Which is the second eldest? Thomas.
3973. Is he single? No; he is married, and lives at Balmain.
3974. Where is the third one living? He is living with me and father in Gloucester-street.
3975. Is he married? Yes.
3976. To a European? Yes.
3977. Does he engage in gambling? No.
3978. I suppose you do not know all his habits; he would go about a good deal by himself? I go with him pretty frequently.
3979. Have you never been inside a fan-tan house in your life? No.
3980. President.] Have you had any conversation with anyone about coming before this Commission, either yesterday or the day before? No, sir.
3981. You are a clerk in John Gee & Co., agents for Lorimer, Rome, & Co.? Yes.
3982. They are shipping agents for booking passages, are they not? Yes; they book through Chinese merchants.
3983. That is, if an ordinary Chinaman came to book a passage they would refuse to take his money; he would have to book through a Chinese merchant? Yes.
3984. You have heard serious complaints made against the Chinese houses, and gambling in Lower George-street? I have read of it in the papers.
3985. Complaints have also been made of the dirty condition of the premises, and the bad smells emanating from them, and also about young girls being decoyed there for immoral purposes. I want to know from you if you believe, from your experience, that there is any truth in any of these statements? I only know of the places there by passing by on my way home.
3986. You say you know nothing at all about gambling? No.
3987. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you heard at any time about the police having presents made to them? No; I never heard anything of that kind.
3988. You never heard it mentioned in conversation? No.
3989. Except in business, you have little intercourse with the Chinese;—is that so? Yes; only in business.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr.

Mr. Arthur Buchanan called and examined:—

- Mr. A. Buchanan. 3990. President.] Where do you live, Mr. Buchanan? At 137, George-street North.
3991. You are a hotelkeeper? Yes.
- 30 Sept., 1891. 3992. You have lived there a considerable time? Yes.
3993. Are you one of the officers of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes, the treasurer.
3994. Were you a member of the deputation representing the League, which waited on the Colonial Secretary? Yes.
3995. And you heard a number of statements made there as to alleged bribery of the police, and the existence of the gambling-dens in Lower George-street? Yes, I did.
3996. Well now, the Commission would feel very much obliged if you would give them any direct information upon the question of police bribery;—do you know of any case? No, I do not know of one; in fact no one could be more astonished than I was to hear the accusations made. I may mention that the League was formed, as I took it, to work with the police to put down the Chinese gambling.
3997. You were surprised to hear the charges made against the police? Yes. I had no idea previously that they would be made.
3998. Have you ever heard anything to justify a statement of that kind? I do not know anything personally to justify a charge of the kind against the police.
3999. Has anyone ever communicated to you a statement of that kind? Yes; plenty of statements have been made.
4000. Can you furnish the Commission with the name of anybody who could give practical evidence in support of a charge of that kind? Not as to police bribery.
4001. You know that Chinese gambling in Lower George-street has increased very much during the last few years? Yes; I know that.
4002. And you know that Europeans have visited these places very largely? Yes.
4003. Going into the gambling-houses day and night, during any day in the week; in fact at any time, and quite openly? Yes, every day in the week, Sundays included.
4004. I suppose the public about there are fully aware that this gambling is carried on in an open manner? Yes.
4005. Are you of opinion that the police on the beat must be aware of the fact that gambling is carried on there? Yes, they are aware of it.
4006. Then do you know any reason why the police, being well aware of it, have not taken action to extinguish the evil to a greater extent than they have done during all this time? Well, I have had repeated conversations with Inspector Atwill on the subject, and he has always told me that, in the first place, it was very difficult to make a raid upon these places, and, further, that when they did make a raid and secured convictions, the magistrates let the offenders off with a small fine, which was paid, and they started again immediately. He (Inspector Atwill) has always complained that they have not sufficient power, and has frequently said to me, "Why do you not start to work, and get something done in the shape of fresh legislation to meet the case."
4007. Can you tell us how many raids have been made during the twelve years you have lived in that locality? About three to my knowledge: but I went to England two or three times, and there might have been some in my absence.
4008. You are also aware that young people visit these gambling-houses very frequently? Yes; I am aware of that also.
4009. Girls and boys? I have been told so, but I have not seen any girls.
4010. You have seen young fellows going in there? Yes, frequently; I have seen dozens of them going in and out.
4011. Is there much Sunday business done? Yes; I have frequently called Inspector Atwill's attention to it. They go into these places on Sunday the same as any other day.
4012. You are aware of cases of working men going into these places to gamble, and losing all their earnings? Yes; scores of cases.
4013. And you have heard, I suppose, of the misery entailed upon the families of these men as a consequence? Yes.
4014. During your time in that part of the city, Mr. Buchanan, has business fallen off to any considerable extent, and property deteriorated in value in consequence of the presence of these gambling-houses? I know my own has deteriorated—as much as 50 per cent., I should say. It is gradually getting worse and worse; as the Chinese encroach, and get more shops and premises, so business has proportionately decreased.
4015. About how many of these Chinese gambling-houses carry on this gambling traffic now? At the time the deputation waited on Sir Henry Parkes they were counted and I think there were twenty-three known gambling-shops.
4016. There are some places down there which are kept by Chinese merchants, not gamblers? Yes; they are very respectable persons.
4017. Do you know whether they are as much averse to the presence of these gambling places as the general run of European shopkeepers? Yes; they say so.
4018. As regards rents, do you know whether the keepers of the gambling-houses pay higher rents than the people down there? I believe they do. I believe one row of houses down there was built expressly for Chinese gambling-shops—apparently so.
4019. There is no legitimate business of any kind carried on in them? No; nothing but gambling. There are a few trifling things in the windows; but they are merely a blind.
4020. Do you know the owners of any of these places—the landlords? No.
4021. Do you know who built them? I have heard that Mr. Beale, the pianoforte merchant, is one.
4022. It has been stated that the Chinese gambling-house proprietors make a boast that they will run the Europeans out of that part of the city;—do you know whether that is a fact? Yes; I have been told they do. No respectable persons will come down there. My wife had some experience of that the other day, when she went to a registry office to engage a servant.
4023. Have you heard of females being insulted by the Chinese in that part of George-street? Yes; if I were a female I should not like to pass those places.
4024. Have you heard of any women being kept in or attending those places for immoral purposes? Yes; I have heard so, but cannot speak from personal knowledge, as I have never been inside. 4025.

Mr.
A. Buchanan.
30 Sept., 1891

4025. Do you know anything of the sanitary condition of these places;—are they kept clean or otherwise? I have heard that they are kept very dirty. But as I have told you, I have never been inside. The smell coming from them sometimes is frightful. You could feel it with a stick.
4026. Do you know the smell of opium? Yes; what I take to be opium—a peculiar smell I have never detected anywhere else.
4027. Have you any knowledge of the effect of opium upon persons indulging in it? Only from what I have read.
4028. You never came in contact with any of them? No.
4029. Then you have no direct evidence of any kind to offer that would sustain a charge of corruption against the police; nor can you give the names of any persons who could give information of that kind? No; I can explain about Gouldtown, the Chinaman, if you would like me to do so.
4030. Did you see him on this subject? Yes; he came to me first, and he asked me if the meetings of the League were held at my place. I told him "Yes." He then asked if I was secretary, and I told him no, but directed him to where the secretary lived. He said I would do as well, and I took him into my private parlour, where we had a long conversation, lasting fully half an hour. He told me that he represented twenty-five Chinese merchants, and that they were as much averse to Chinese gamblers as we were; that they had heard about the League, and wanted to render such assistance as they could; that accordingly they had deputed him to come down (and attend the meeting. He also told me that he had been brought up to the law in Canton, that he was a confirmed member of the Church of England, and finally asked to be allowed to attend the meetings of the League. I went to the meeting and explained matters, and he was admitted, and there he told the same story. It was after the meeting he told me about the police in the presence of others.
4031. What was it he said? That there was a sort of assurance fund collected by the Chinese gamblers for the purpose of paying the fines if they were brought before the Court, and for subsidising the police, and he offered to bring the men that collected the money for these purposes.
4032. Did he give you the names of any of them? No.
4033. After Gouldtown was admitted to the meeting was any action taken to test the truthfulness of his statements? Yes. Several of the members asked some of the respectable Chinese down there if they knew this man, and they were told he was no good. He (Gouldtown) offered to go with the deputation and make the same statement to Sir Henry Parkes as he had made to us. I proposed that he should be taken on the deputation, but the proposal was negatived, which I considered at the time, and still consider, was a great mistake. He came there three or four times, and offered to hand over £25, being £1 for each of the Chinese merchants he represented, or said he represented. He said he was a silk merchant, and that he knew Mr. Quong Tart. He spoke excellent English. Some of the League afterwards went to find him at his own establishment, and I believe it was a shady looking place.
4034. Do you know if he has left Sydney? I heard so from members of the League.
4035. Did you hear what sent him away? I have not heard, but I think I can guess. The first suspicion the League had of him was when he went over and paid the fines of the men connected with the house in which the raid was made.
4036. He paid the fines of those men? Yes; those who were taken at the raid. Some members of the League were present at the Police Court and saw him do it. That was when they first came to have a suspicion of him.
4037. And after that he disappeared? Yes. He was down to see us several times after that, and explained that he did it in the interests of the League—that is, paid the fines of the Chinese gamblers.
4038. Did it never dawn upon the members of the League that he was humbugging them? Yes; it did; but we had nothing to conceal.
4039. Is it not a pity that he was not compelled to give the names of the twenty-five Chinese merchants whom he affected to represent? He expressly stipulated that their names should not be disclosed, or his own either, for fear that the gamblers might retaliate upon them.
4040. Has the League taken any steps to ascertain the best means of suppressing these Chinese gambling-houses? They have got up a petition, which has been largely signed, which I suppose others have told you, and they formed the deputation to the Premier, which I suppose led to the appointment of this Commission to find out something about it and suggest a remedy.
4041. The raids on these places do not stop the gambling? No. On the very day of the last case at Court they came away as soon as the fines were paid, and started afresh.
4042. And you say that the police are well aware of this gambling being carried on regularly down there? They must be fully aware of it. I do not know that they deny that they are aware of it.
4043. Do they admit that it is carried on, and contend that they are powerless to stop it? Yes. They say they are powerless under the present law. That is what I have inferred from my conversations with Mr. Atwill.
4044. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say you know of several gambling-houses down your way;—do you know whether the Chinese gamble among themselves or with Europeans? I believe they gamble with Europeans mostly—with any one that comes in, as far as I have been told.
4045. Do you know which is the largest gambling-shop there? No, I do not know which is the largest. There is a whole row of them down there.
4046. I want to know which is the largest, and which the Europeans visit most? I do not know the names of the places.
4047. You say there are respectable Chinese merchants in your neighbourhood;—have you had any conversation as to the best method of putting down this gambling evil? I have spoken to Ah Chik.
4048. Do you know how the gambling is carried on in those places? This Mr. Gouldtown I have spoken of explained to the League how it is carried on.
4049. You found Gouldtown a pretty-well informed man? Yes.
4050. And you say he did not wish to give you the names of the twenty-five Chinese merchants he represented? I do not know that we asked him the names of them. He told us that a meeting had been held of Chinese merchants, of whom he was one, and they had deputed him to come down to the League, but that they did not want their names mentioned.
4051. You say the smell of the opium is very disagreeable? Yes.
4052. Have you noticed the same kind of smell anywhere else? No.

- Mr. A. Buchanan: 4053. You have spoken to the police about the gambling down there? Yes, often; and they all say the same thing, that they have not sufficient power to put it down.
- 30 Sept., 1891. 4054. Mr. Hawthorne.] Previous to the deputation to the Premier, did you have any conversation with the Parliamentary Labour Members for West Sydney? Not with reference to that.
4055. Then, how do you imagine the Members who waited on the Premier and introduced your deputation came to make the outrageous statements they did about the police? I do not know. I have already told you I was surprised myself when I heard it. I believe one of the Labour Members was asked to introduce the deputation. I had no idea that four were going, neither had I any idea that they were going to speak. You cannot ask Members of Parliament what they are going to say when they go on a deputation.
4056. Was there any discussion between the members of the League and the Labour Members in the ante-room previous to the deputation going to the Premier? Not while I was present.
4057. How did the information given about presents of diamond rings and bribes to the police accord with your mind, Mr. Buchanan? Well, I have heard remarks down there of a similar character, and I suppose they heard the same, but, as I have said, I had no idea that they were going to bring those things forward at the deputation. The deputation was principally formed to endeavour to bring the matter under the notice of the Premier without any reference to the police whatever.
4058. With regard to Mr. Davis in particular, at the time he spoke, did it strike you that his assertions were exaggerated? Well, I began to think he must have some reliable information that led him to make that statement. I could not think of anything else at the time.
4059. You have never met with any practical instance of a present being given to the police by the Chinese gamblers? No; indeed, I was sorry it was said at the deputation, because it made the police antagonistic to us whereas we wanted their support.
4060. Have you ever said anything to Inspector Atwill to the effect that you thought the police were acting leniently towards the Chinese gamblers? I have often thought it strange, and have spoken to him on the subject. I have expressed surprise that these people should be allowed to carry on during Sunday as well as every other day in the week, and he has always said the same thing—that he wished he could suppress it, but that they had not the power.
4061. Have you had any conversation with Inspector Atwill or other members of the police force since you were summoned to give evidence before this Commission?
4062. You think from the attitude of the police towards you that they are dissatisfied with what has taken place in this matter? They think the League is responsible for all that has been stated in which there have been reflections upon the force. Previous to that I used to let my large dining-room for the use of the police day and night; they used to wait there till wanted at the station.
4063. Did they have their meals there? No. It was simply a waiting-place for them, to be in readiness when they were required.
4064. Up to that time you were on the most friendly terms with Mr. Atwill and the police? Yes.
4065. And since then you have had no intercourse with them—are we to understand that? Not that, exactly; but they are not so cordial as they were. In fact they have told me that they consider the League responsible for the statements made in the Press and in Parliament concerning them.
4066. I suppose you have as many people going in and out of your place who are engaged in gambling as anyone in that neighbourhood? Yes. I frequently change a shilling or a half-a-crown in pennies. They will ask for change, saying they are going to the Chinamen to play. They can gamble as low as a penny.
4067. Have you met with any person who has said that he has seen the police presented with any article by the Chinese gamblers? No.
4068. All you know or have heard about the matter is simply from hearsay? That is all. Of course there are frequent rumours about the police being bribed, as also about Sunday trading with the publicans. It is said they must be bribed, or the Chinese could not carry on as they do. And it does seem a remarkable thing that this gambling should be allowed to go on so openly for two years without the Chinamen being disturbed by the police or anyone else.
4069. Mr. McKillop.] And the evil growing in extent all the time? Yes. They are gradually absorbing more shops. They have been increasing steadily for years. I have always thought it a monstrous thing that part of the principal thoroughfare of Sydney should be monopolised by these people. It is a public scandal.
4070. Mr. Hawthorne.] The Chinese, as a rule, are a temperate class of people, I believe? Yes; I have never seen one intoxicated in my life.
4071. Their patronage of your business is not on the same scale as the Europeans? We get a few of the better class of Chinese occasionally, but not the ordinary class.
4072. Do you believe there is any truth in the statement that the police have been bribed with presents from these Chinese gamblers? I can hardly answer that question. They might have been for anything I know.
4073. Mr. McKillop.] Are the circumstances suspicious, to your mind? Well, yes, they are; I must say that. I must say the circumstances lead me to infer that there may be something in it.
4074. Mr. Hawthorne.] Might it not apply to the police in connection with the publicans? Yes; just the same in that case. One man is allowed to do what he likes—to keep open all night, and allow gambling and everything else—and no notice is taken; while another man, for the first offence, is taken up and fined. The inference there would be, of course, that in the former case the police were bribed.
4075. Have you found the police annoying to you? No; I never give them a chance. I never serve on Sunday, or after or before the legal hours.
4076. You are under no obligation to feel for or against the police personally? Not the slightest. I have always been on the best of terms with them.
4077. Mr. McKillop.] Did you say, in the early part of your evidence, that on one occasion your wife was insulted by the Chinese in Lower George-street? No. My wife went to a registry office to engage a servant, and the girl said she “did not mind going to a respectable hotel, but she drew the line at ‘China Town,’ ” or something to that effect. I have heard of ladies being insulted. In fact, as I have said before, if I were a female I should not like to pass by the Chinese places there.
4078. Is it a fact that a few years ago the bulk of the passenger traffic from Watson’s Bay and Manly Beach used to pass up that part of George-street? It is a fact. 4079.

4079. And do they go that way now? No.
4080. Do you think the present law is stringent enough to cope with this evil if it were given proper effect to? Well I do not know the law; but I have read that it was put in force some time ago successfully in one of the country districts.
4081. In Tingha? Yes. It was a case in which they were imprisoned, I believe, or heavily fined; and if the law would apply there I should say it would here.
4082. To the best of your knowledge did Mr. Gouldtown leave Sydney after this Commission was appointed? I do not know when he left. I was told by a member of the League some time ago that he could not be found.
4083. Is it eight weeks ago? Yes; I daresay it is.
4084. Do you know of any sums of money being paid to European residents in your locality as an inducement for them to vacate their premises in favour of Chinese? I do not know of such a case, but I have heard of it.
4085. Have you been told by the persons affected? Yes; in one case in which the transfer was prevented.
4086. Was the name mentioned? Yes; it was known to Mr. Christensen. The house is occupied by a man named Williams, who keeps a confectioner's shop there. There was a man in it before who had accepted, or said he would accept, £50; and Mr. Christensen went to Mr. Woolcott, who is the agent, and said, "Are you aware that your shop is being let or leased to a Chinaman?" He said, "No"; and immediately stopped it.
4087. Do you know of any other cases similar to that you have just mentioned? Mr. Dawson told me a case in which a man was offered a bonus to quit his premises in favour of a Chinaman.
4088. Was the name Chazelle? Yes; I think I have heard that he was offered a bonus.
4089. You said a little while ago that you had a conversation with Ah Tik in reference to the gambling evil? Yes; but I do not know that I asked him about the best way to suppress it.
4090. What was the nature of the conversation;—was it in reference to the Commission? No; I have not seen any of them since the appointment of the Commission.
4091. Did Gouldtown give you any reason why he wished to become a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.
4092. Was it through any spleen on his part, do you think, or for the purpose of doing good? He told us that the Chinese merchants were as much averse to the gambling-dens as we were, because they interfered with business. He explained that the Chinese hawkers who dealt with them, when they took to gambling, did not make their payments regularly, but would come with some plausible yarn as to their inability to pay for the wares they had received.
4093. Did he tell you about any secret society of Chinese being in existence from which any person giving information was in danger of bodily harm? Yes; he said he was afraid to walk up to the meeting, and came in a cab on the last two occasions.
4094. Did he tell you the name of the society? No.
4095. Do you remember the case of an assault upon a half-caste Chinese some years ago—a man named Riley, who gave information about Chinese gambling? Yes; I think I have heard of it.
4096. Are there any houses used for immoral purposes in a street at the back of your hotel? Do you mean Globe-street?
4097. Yes;—are there any houses in that street kept for immoral purposes? I cannot say.
4098. Have you ever witnessed any scenes in which Chinamen and prostitutes have figured in that quarter? They frequently come from behind the front street with Chinamen. The "Suez Canal" used to be the worst—that is at the back of Playfair's. But I think some of the houses have been pulled down there. Those people go to live where they can now about the Rocks.
4099. Are you of opinion that Gouldtown has been sent away by a syndicate of gamblers? That is my impression.
4100. You have no idea at present where he is? No. He was asked if he would put his statement down in writing, and he said, no, but that he would go before any magistrate or Commission of Inquiry, and swear what he had said to us. He said he would be only too pleased to do so.
4101. I believe previous to his disappearance from Sydney he used to be seen pretty often in conversation with members of your League? He was at my place about four times altogether.
4102. And he suddenly left off going there? Yes.
4103. During the ten or twelve years you have been in Lower George-street have you noticed any members of the police force wearing expensive articles of jewelry, such as would seem unbecoming to men in their position? Yes, I have.
4104. Have you noticed any of them wearing diamond rings? I have seen them with a good deal of gold chain and locket, and so forth.
4105. Expensive jewelry? Yes, appearing to be expensive. With regard to rings, I have heard that a man named Dawson, who used to be a sergeant of police, received a present, in the form of a diamond ring some time ago.
4106. That was a public presentation from the respectable Chinese merchants, in recognition of services extending over a long time in the district? Yes, I have heard so.
4107. You know of no other instance? No.

[Witness withdrew.]

Jas. Ung Quoy called and examined:—

4108. President.] You are a member of the firm of Tin War? Yes.
4109. Where do you carry on business? In George-street North.
4110. What is the nature of the business? General goods.
4111. Are you aware that a number of your countrymen carry on gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes.
4112. Are you aware that a number of your countrymen carry on gambling-houses in Goulburn-street? That I do not know.

Mr.
A. Buchanan:
30 Sept., 1891.

J. Ung Quoy.
30 Sept., 1891.

- J. Ung Quoy. 4113. Is it generally known by Europeans that Chinese gambling-houses are carried on in Lower George-street? That I cannot tell you.
- 30 Sept., 1891. 4114. Do you not know that Europeans attend these Chinese gambling-houses to a very large extent? I know nothing about that at all.
4115. Do you not frequently see numbers of Europeans going into the Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? No.
4116. Do you mean to say you never do? Sometimes I see a few.
4117. Will you answer the question;—do you know yourself whether your countrymen carry on gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes.
4118. Well, if they carry on gambling-houses there must they not have people to go there and gamble? That I cannot tell you.
4119. They must have people to go there—you must know that? I do not know, because I am not a watchman.
4120. What class of people attend these houses? That I cannot say. Sometimes I see a few go in, but whether they go in to do business, or gamble, I cannot say.
4121. Do you know Moy Ping? Yes.
4122. What business does he carry on? A gambling-house.
4123. Have you been in there? Yes; once outside shop.
4124. Have you seen many Chinese going in there? There are always Chinese going in and out.
4125. Have you ever seen Europeans going in there? No.
4126. Do you recollect the police making a raid on Moy Ping's place? Yes.
4127. Was there a meeting held in Tin War's place when that raid was made? What have I got to do with that; no.
4128. Was there a meeting held in Tin War's place at any time within the last three months? No.
4129. Within the last six months? No.
4130. Was ever a Chinese meeting held there? No; at no time.
4131. Do you know anything of the various Chinese societies in Sydney? Yes.
4132. Are you in any way connected with any of them? Yes.
4133. Tell me the names of the societies you know in Sydney? There is the Pow on Tong.
4134. What is the object of that society? It is composed of a community of our people from a particular part of China.
4135. I want you to tell me the objects of the society? The object is to aid old men, who are unable to work, and send them home to China. Another object of the society is the removal of skeletons of Chinamen from this country to China.
4136. Are you an officer of the society? I am the secretary.
4137. Have you ever paid any money out of the funds of that society to the police for any purpose whatever? Not a fraction. The funds of the society are only used for the purposes I have told you.
4138. What are the other societies in existence here that you know of? The Koong Yee Tong. That was started sixteen years ago.
4139. Do you know what are its objects? Yes; the same as the other I have mentioned.
4140. How much money have you in the Pow on Tong Society? Over £1,000.
4141. Did you get any of that money from the proprietors of the gaming-houses? Not a fraction of it.
4142. Do you not get any contributions at all from them? No.
4143. How do you get your money? From those belonging to our community.
4144. Who are the principal officers in the Koong Yee Tong? That was started some years ago. I do not know.
4145. Do you know of the existence of any other Chinese society? I know one other, but I forget the name.
4146. Do you know a society called the Loon Yee Tong? Yes.
4147. Who are the principal officers of that society? Some years ago Way Key was one.
4148. Who are they now? That I cannot tell you.
4149. Are you a member of it? Not at all. I am out of it altogether.
4150. What are the objects of that society? I am not certain what the objects are. What I have heard is that the gambling-houses collect 3d. in the £ from the winnings, but I know nothing further.
4151. Have you ever heard what are the objects of that society? No. I can only tell you what I know. I am not going to tell you a story.
4152. I want you to tell us what you have heard? What I have heard is this: that the society will send old men away to China, and also the bones of dead Chinamen.
4153. But you have heard that they have some other object, or you would not have reserved it when I asked you the question before, and you gave a different answer;—you have got to open your mind to us;—come, I want to know what you have heard with regard to this society? That I cannot tell you.
4154. You have already said they had another object;—tell the Commission what other object the society had in view when it was established in Sydney? That I cannot tell you.
4155. But what have you heard with regard to it? In fact I cannot tell you. What I know is what I have told you.
4156. I want to know what you have heard—you must tell us that? What have I to tell you?
4157. You can tell what you have heard? I say I cannot tell you, because I do not know.
4158. You have said that you heard something that you did not know of your own knowledge;—now I want to know what it was you heard? What I heard was that the gambling-houses kept 3d. in the £ from their winnings to contribute to the society. What money they saved or what quantity I do not know.
4159. What did you hear the money was contributed for? That I do not know.
4160. You have told us that you heard the society was established for something else besides what you have said;—now I want to know what it was you heard;—if you prevaricate and refuse to answer questions we must commit you to gaol for contempt? You can put me in gaol, but you cannot compel me to say what I do not know.
4161. I want you to tell me what you have said you have heard, and I will have it out of you? I tell you what. The society might do some private business that I do not know. They might give it away, or throw it into the water. I do not belong to their community; how am I to know? 4162.

4162. Because it is a matter of common rumour; you know yourself they would not throw it away;— J. Ung Quoy. you would not be likely to do that, I suppose? I do not suppose anyone has money to throw away.
4163. You have heard something about that society that you are suppressing? That is all I know. They followed us; we started first. J. Ung Quoy.
4164. If they followed your society they have the same objects;—is that it? No; they have other objects.
4165. That is what I want you to tell me;—you know they have some other objects, and you must not sit there and tell me you never inquired what those other objects are, or that you do not know? I am not of their community.
4166. I do not care if you are a Mussulman or a Mahomedan—I want you to answer the question, and I know you can if you like? I cannot answer it.
4167. Why? Because I do not know.
4168. Have not you heard? What I have heard is that they collect 3d. in every £ that they gain; what object they have, I cannot tell.
4169. You have already said that you have heard they have other objects; now I want you to tell us what you heard; that is simple enough, I should think? Perhaps I can remember a little, if I put my mind to it. Yes; I remember they sent some money to the Chinese Hospital in Hong Kong, the Tong Wah Yee Yuen.
4170. Why could not you tell us that before? I did not think. That is all I can tell you on the question.
4171. Are you quite sure that the funds of the Loon Yee Tong were not used for other purposes than those you have named? I do not know.
4172. Would not they help any of their poor countrymen here in distress? No; I do not think they would.
4173. Would they let them starve? I do not say that. Any Chinese, either here or in China, would be helped in that way outside the societies. If they have no clothes they would be given a few shillings, and so on.
4174. Do you know Long Pen? Yes.
4175. What is he now? An interpreter.
4176. When did you see him last? Three days ago.
4177. What conversation took place between you then? None.
4178. You saw him in the street and passed him by? Yes.
4179. Do you know any of the policemen down Lower George-street? Yes.
4180. Tell me the names of those you know, or some of them? The only ones I know by name are Inspector Atwill, Sergeant Macdonald, and Sergeant Higgins.
4181. Do you know O'Sullivan? No; I do not know him at all.
4182. Do you know Beadman? Yes; I know him.
4183. Do you know Carson? No.
4184. Do you know Constable Adair—Hughey Adair? Yes.
4185. What business do you carry on? A storekeeper's business—importer.
4186. Is it the custom of your people, on the occasion of the New Year, to make presents? Yes; when we are in China.
4187. Do you not make presents in Sydney? No.
4188. Did you never make presents to any member of the police force? No.
4189. Is it true that you ever sent presents of chests of tea to Inspector Atwill or Sergeant Higgins? Not half an ounce.
4190. You never sent them any presents whatever? No.
4191. Is it true that you bought some jewellery and presented it to members of the police force? I wish they would give me some.
4192. Is it true? No, sir.
4193. Have you heard of any of your countrymen doing so? No.
4194. Do you know who paid the fines that were inflicted on the Chinamen who were arrested when the raid was made on Moy Ping's place? I do not know.
4195. You heard that some of your countrymen were fined on that occasion? Yes; I heard it.
4196. Do you know Gouldtown? Yes.
4197. Is he a respectable man, in your estimation? I knew him several years ago. At first I thought he was a respectable man, but afterwards I found out that he was not.
4198. Do you know whether he paid any of the fines of the Chinese who were arrested when the raid was made? That I cannot tell you.
4199. You know that there was an Anti-Chinese Gambling League formed in Lower George-street? Yes.
4200. Did you ever attend any meetings of the League? No.
4201. Did you ever authorise Mr. Gouldtown to attend a meeting on your behalf, with the object of suppressing the gambling-houses? No.
4202. Do you know any storekeepers who did;—I may tell you it is alleged that Mr. Gouldtown was authorised to go there on behalf of some twenty-five Chinese merchants, and to contribute £25 to the object of suppressing gambling? That is untrue. No storekeepers ever authorised him.
4203. No respectable storekeepers? No.
4204. If he was authorised to pay any money into the League it did not come from the respectable Chinese? No.
4205. Do you think it might have come from the Chinese gambling-houses? That I cannot tell you.
4206. Do you think the probability is that if it came from that quarter Mr. Gouldtown was nominated by the Chinese gambling-house keepers to throw dust in the eyes of the League? Yes.
4207. You know Mr. Gouldtown attended there? Yes.
4208. And that he offered to pay £25 into the League, representing that it was subscribed by respectable Chinese merchants; but you repudiate that;—it is entirely untrue, you say? Certainly; it is quite untrue.
4209. Do you sell opium? Yes.
4210. Are you authorised to sell it? No.
4211. You know it is illegal to sell it? Yes.
4212. Do you retail it? No; we never sell it retail; we sell it in cases.

- J. Ung Quoy. 4213. You know the sale of opium is not legal? Yes, I know it, because sixteen or seventeen years ago I went to a magistrate in Tenterfield to get a certificate, and he said there was no such thing to be issued.
 30 Sept., 1891. 4214. Do the police know that you sell opium? Yes.
 4215. Have they ever told you that it was illegal? No; they have never said anything to me.
 4216. Did they never ask you if you had a license? No.
 4217. They have never troubled you at all on the subject? No; all the landing-waiters, and collectors, and Customs officers know it.
 4218. You are the resident partner in the firm of Tin Wah & Co.? Yes.
 4219. How long have you been here? About twenty-one years altogether, but I left the Colony for several years.
 4220. I believe you are also agents for a steamship company trading between this port and Hong Kong? Yes; the E. & A. Company.
 4221. Chinese passengers coming to this country obtain their passages through your firm, do they not? No.
 4222. Through what other firm then? When they come here they go to different places.
 4223. But can they come separately, or do they have to come through some firm of merchants? They can come separately.
 4224. You have been here a long while? Yes.
 4225. Are you in favour of suppressing the gambling-houses? I would like to put it down at any moment. I will explain. About fourteen or fifteen years ago, gambling-places were started in different parts of the city. The respectable Chinese merchants of the city held a meeting which lasted several days, and they appointed me to take steps to put down the gambling.
 4226. You are opposed to gambling? Yes; and at the time I am telling you about, I did all I could, so far as getting a committal of the gamblers to the Quarter Sessions. Then Mr. Quong Tart's relatives acted for the other side, and one or two of the storekeepers, or those who appointed me, worked together with Mr. Quong Tart's relatives, and I threw it up. Most of these gamblers are Mr. Quong Tart's relatives.
 4227. Mr. Hawthorne.] What do you mean by relatives? His cousins, or relatives.
 4228. You do not mean to say that Mr. Quong Tart had anything to do with these people? No; they came from his country.
 4229. I suppose Mr. Quong Tart knew nothing about what they were doing? He was in the country.
 4230. But he would be ignorant of what they were doing? I do not know.
 4231. He would not be supposed to know—he would not be responsible for their actions? No.
 4232. Mr. McKillop.] Was Mr. Quong Tart in the country sixteen or seventeen years ago? Yes.
 4233. You know that as a positive fact? Yes; twenty years I have known him.
 4234. We are safe in saying that Mr. Quong Tart never at any time of his life sanctioned gambling? I do not say Mr. Quong Tart did, but most of his countrymen gamble and smoke opium.
 4235. What do you mean by his countrymen? His relatives.
 4236. I suppose you mean that they come from the same part of China? Yes.
 4237. So that when you say relatives, what you actually mean is that the people you refer to come from the same part of China as Mr. Quong Tart; so that, by the same token, if I happened to come from Gloucestershire, in England, you would say any person coming from the same part of England was a relative of mine. The impression conveyed to the general reader would be that Mr. Quong Tart's actual blood relations had been guilty of gambling and opium smoking; but what you mean simply is, that the persons you have referred to come from the same part of China;—is that so? Yes.
 4238. Mr. Abigail.] Have you tried in recent years to suppress gambling in any way among your countrymen? No; after that I never touched it. I just mind my own business. I have quite enough to do.
 4239. How many hands have you in your establishment? We have five now; there used to be seven.
 4240. Are you a married man? Yes.
 4241. Do your hands sleep on the premises? Yes.
 4242. Are they all single men? They are married, but their wives are in China—two married, two single.
 4243. Do you see them indulge in fan-tan in your shop out of working hours? No fear of that.
 4244. You would not allow it? No.
 4245. Do you know of your own knowledge whether they frequent the fan-tan shops in Lower George-street? No; they are never allowed to go there.
 4246. If you knew one of your hands played fan-tan —? I would sack him.
 4247. In other words, you think a man who played at fan-tan would not be a very desirable man to employ in your store? No.
 4248. Have you never heard of the police receiving presents from Chinese to induce them to wink at the gambling that goes on in Lower George-street? No.
 4249. You can read English? Yes.
 4250. Have you read in the daily papers an account of the deputation that waited on Sir Henry Parkes in relation to this matter? I saw an account of the meeting with Sir Henry Parkes, yes.
 4251. Did you see one of the members of that deputation asserted that members of the police force had received presents of diamond rings and other articles of jewellery from the Chinese? Yes; I read that.
 4252. Did you ever meet with a Chinaman who had ever made a present of anything to a policeman? No.
 4253. You do not believe it is true? No, I do not.
 4254. So far as you are concerned, you know nothing of the police having received presents from any of the Chinese residents? No; I do not believe they do it either.
 4255. Mr. McKillop.] Do you remember the members of this Commission coming to your portion of the town some five or six weeks ago? No.
 4256. Were you not there on that occasion? No; I was not there at all. I did not see you.
 4257. Do you live on the premises in Lower George-street? Yes; opposite the Sailors' Home.
 4258. Is there a cellar attached to your place? Yes.
 4259. Is there a fan-tan table down there? What do you ask me that for? I am as good as a European.
 4260. I am not asking you whether you are as good as a European or not; I asked you the question, have you a fan-tan table in your cellar, and you can answer yes or no? No.

4261. Is Long Pen a respectable man in your estimation? No; sometimes he goes in for gambling, too. J. Ung Quoy.
4262. Does he associate with you? No; he does not come to my place at all.
4263. Have you ever known Long Pen to be summoned to court for gambling or any other immoral offence? No. 30 Sept., 1891.
4264. Have you had any conversation with any member of the police force since you received a summons to give evidence before this Commission? No.
4265. Were you talking to Mr. Way Kee at any time lately? Yes.
4266. Was he telling you that he had been before this Commission giving evidence? No.
4267. Mr. Quong Tart.] Now, you are a respectable, intelligent man, and you say that some fifteen or sixteen years ago you tried to suppress Chinese gambling? Yes; I was appointed for that purpose, as I have told you.
4268. What were the firms? At that time I was employed by Tin War & Co. There was Sun Kum Tiy, On Ching, Way Kee, Yuen Fook King, and Sun Kum On.
4269. You say they met on behalf of the storekeepers or merchants to stop the gambling;—how many stores do you think were in the city—amongst the Chinese—about how many? About ten or twelve—not more than that.
4270. You say that members of my community stopped you from doing so? I said they were on the other side.
4271. Do you know Long Pen? Yes.
4272. Where did you see him last? A couple of days ago. There was some case at the Water Police Court. I met him in the street.
4273. Did he say to you he had told us you could tell us all about this gambling? Certainly not.
4274. Do you know Pow Chee? Yes.
4275. What kind of man is he? He is a very good scholar.
4276. Is he not a gambler? I do not say that. Some time ago he has complained to me: "Ung Quoy, I have bad luck; I have lost a few shillings to-day."
4277. You remember about three months ago the Anti-Chinese Gambling League formed a deputation to wait on Sir Henry Parkes, and a meeting of Chinese was held at Sun Sam War's concerning this gambling matter;—have you heard anything about that? No.
4278. You know Long Pen? Yes.
4279. Do you think he does good for his countrymen or the reverse;—is he a reformer or an informer? That I cannot tell you. He is an opium smoker, so far as I know.
4280. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is he still an opium smoker? Yes.
4281. Mr. Quong Tart.] He comes from the same part of China as you come from? Yes.
4282. Do you know his father? No.
4283. Do you think it likely that a father would send opium from China for his son to smoke;—did you ever hear of anything like that in your experience? No.
4284. You know of the complaints that have been made of some of the Chinese in Lower George-street—first, as to the gambling; secondly, about the immoral practices there with women; and thirdly, with regard to the sanitary condition of these places—that they are kept in a dirty state, and give off a smell enough to knock you down. You say that you have tried to put down gambling in the city; it is still going on; what have you done since? Since then one or two have asked me, but I have refused to go.
4285. Who asked you? Mr. On, of On Chong and Co.
4286. Any other? I do not remember the others.
4287. If any Chinaman gambler got into trouble, what would be your feeling;—would you assist him, or go against him? I would be against him.
4288. You are certain none of your men are connected with gambling in any way? Yes; I am quite sure.
4289. You are aware that in all communities there are different classes, good and bad? Yes.
4290. The Commission would like to know your views as to the best means of putting down this gambling evil;—can you make any suggestions? I should be very pleased if you could stop it.
4291. What is the best way to accomplish that? That I cannot say.
4292. You have said that you did so before—that you took it upon yourself to stop the evil;—what method did you then employ? Simply got them arrested, and left the magistrate to deal with them.
4293. Why do not the police do it now? Who goes to them?
4294. Which is the biggest gambling-shop down there? Moy Ping's is a big one.
4295. Any others? Yes; there are some more.
4296. Have you noticed the writing on the doors like those places in the photographs? Yes.
4297. What does that say on the photograph? It says, "Fan-tan night and day"
4298. Have you seen many of these notices down Lower George-street? I have not taken notice.
4299. The reason I ask you that is because you are an observant man, and if you have, as you say, a desire to put down this evil, you would see what is going on around you;—in fact you must see, going down there as often as you do? It is just as I told you a little while ago; the first time I was appointed to stop the gambling those others worked against me, and after that I would not touch it. Even if the Governor asked me, I would not do it. I just mind my own business now.

[The witness withdrew.]

FRIDAY, 2 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Edward Neville Reading Forder called and examined:—

- Mr. E. N. R. Forder.
4300. Mr. Abigail.] You are a reporter for Truth newspaper I believe? I am.
4301. And you made a statement to our Secretary as to a certain Mr. Law who could give us information about a Police Sustainment Fund to which he had subscribed, I think, and which was at all events managed by the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-houses in Sydney? I do not think I made a statement to that effect. The statement that I made was a great deal more direct.
4302. Then what was the statement? The statement that I made to your Secretary was to the effect that Mr. Law had, the day previously, told me that he had seen, with his own eyes, money passing between a delegate from the Chinese and a certain officer in the police force. That was the statement I made to Mr. Blackwell.
4303. There are two or three Mr. Laws I believe. What was the Christian name of the Mr. Law who gave you that information? It was Mr. Alfred Law.
4304. Did Mr. Alfred Law himself make that statement to you? Yes, and I may also say that a month or so before, his brother had stated to me that he (Mr. Alfred Law) had witnessed the transaction, and I called upon him on that occasion to get him, if possible, to make a voluntary statement before the Commission. That was when he made the statement to me.
4305. And he said he had actually seen it? Yes, he said that he was going up Queen's Place on his way from his office when he saw the transaction.
4306. Will you give us the name of the police officer said by him to have received the bribe? Yes, it was Sub-Inspector Atwill.
4307. Did Mr. Alfred Law tell you the nature of the gift? He said it seemed to be a handful—fully twenty sovereigns.
4308. Did he say when this took place? He did not specify the hour. The date however could be fixed because I remember him saying in the course of conversation that it was just before his brother removed from Queen's Place.
4309. Then he made the statement twice, did he? No, the brother (Tom) made it to me in the first instance, and then when I went down to see him about repeating it before the Commission, Tom was not in, and I saw Alfred himself, and he made the statement to me then.
4310. Do you personally know anything about the Chinese gambling? I have frequently been through the places. I have visited them in the capacity of a journalist.
4311. You have seen the gambling carried on? Yes.
4312. Have you ever seen any of the police present? No, never.
4313. And this statement made to you by Mr. Law is the only information you have obtained of the police receiving bribes? I have heard rumours to the effect before, but nothing direct. It has only been hearsay.
4314. What was the effect of those rumours? I was told by Mr. Alfred Law that Sub-Inspector Atwill's New Year's box from the Chinese last year amounted to £150. At least what he said was this: that the Chinese Association had subscribed a sum of that amount, but that the Chinaman to whom it was entrusted was a bit clever and stuck to £30, so that, as a matter of fact, what Mr. Atwill is said to have got was £120.
4315. Did you hear the names of any of the Chinamen who made the subscription, or of the man who took the £30, or the party who paid the balance over? No.
4316. Mr. Hawthorne.] You are sure that you did not hear the name of the Chinaman who stole the £30? Quite sure.
4317. Mr. Abigail.] You know that gambling is carried on? Oh, yes, I have played fan-tan in Lower George-street myself repeatedly when I have been working the question up for different papers.
4318. There is not much secrecy about the game then? Oh, none whatever.
4319. You have seen both Europeans and Chinese playing? Yes, but mostly Europeans.
4320. It is commonly known that this sort of thing is going on? The dogs in the street bark it.
4321. Then the constables must know it? Of course they must know it. They cannot help doing so, for three out of every four of the shops down in Lower George-street are gambling-dens. You can get them of all descriptions, from the low den where the lowest-class lumpers congregate—men who work a day or two, and "booze" the rest of the week—to the swell establishment, where £50 is put down at a time.
4322. You have seen as much as £50 put down at a time? Yes, by one man, on the fan-tan table.
4323. And you draw the inference that if the police are aware that gambling is going on to this extent amongst the population of Lower George-street, and yet take no means to stop it, that they must be paid for neglecting their duty? As a man of the world I should say that that is the only construction you can put upon it. It is to their own interest to neglect their duty, if they get an equivalent for doing so.
4324. Have you ever heard from the police that Lower George-street is looked upon by them as being one of the best beats in the city? I have not heard that said by a member of the police force; but I know that about the city it is generally said to be one of the best beats.
4325. Have you ever heard that some of the police are worth a great deal of property? I have heard it, but not direct.
4326. Did you hear Mr. Alfred Law make that statement? Yes, I certainly did.
4327. And if Mr. Alfred Law has come before the Commission and said that he made no such statement to you, and knows nothing about the matter, he has said what is not true? Yes, if it is the same Mr. Law.
4328. Well, we will send for him. Of course you would know him again? Certainly I should.
4329. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever seen any females entering these dens? I have frequently seen them in the dens. Some have been there almost whenever I have gone in.
4330. Have you ever seen them engaged in gambling? No.
4331. Have you ever seen young lads playing fan-tan? Yes, any number of them.
4332. Any of what you might call young girls? No.

4333. Have you ever noticed any policemen going in in plain clothes? No, not that I know of.
4334. What is about the average number of persons you would find in a gambling-den when they are in full swing? Well I have been down on a week night, and in the very first place I have entered there must have been about sixty men. Indeed the crowd was so great that it took me about a quarter of an hour to push my way through it, to lay my money on the table.
4335. Have you ever seen any rows down there? I have seen nothing in the nature of a serious disturbance; but I have seen the sudden blow, the general bustle, and the ejection of a rowdy individual. When that occurs, somebody is generally "dead broke," and being turned away. Then there will, as a rule, be a general complaint about unfair play, and, of course, a rush for the money on the table.
4337. What is the sanitary condition of these places? There is no such thing as sanitation at all down there. They never think of such a thing.
4338. Have you ever seen any harrowing scenes between men and their wives—the women beseeching their husbands not to play any more? No, that has not come within my experience.
4339. Have you, in your rambles, noticed any scenes about the Rocks between the Chinese and the prostitutes who are kept by them? I have not seen any worth special comment—nothing more than you would see in any European quarter where there were a good many prostitutes.
4340. Have you seen much opium smoked? Oh, a great deal of opium-smoking.
4341. And do Europeans smoke it? Yes, a great many. It appears to be a growing habit amongst the Europeans of that neighbourhood. I am personally acquainted with young women who have been brought to a fearful state of degradation through it.
4342. Are the gambling-dens in Lower George-street on the increase? I do not think they are.
4343. Do any of them do any legitimate business? Well, there are generally a few articles in the shop front as a sort of blind, but judging from the kind of stuff they keep, as an old tradesman, I should say that they do not do any legitimate business.
4344. Have you ever visited any respectable Chinese places? Yes, I have done business with a few of them.
4345. Have you ever seen any fan-tan tables in a respectable Chinese merchant's place? No. There are two or three Chinese merchants down there who in the conduct of their business would be a credit to any European community.
4346. Have you ever had any conversation with the Chinese merchants about any of the low-class dens we have been referring to? Only with the Laws.
4347. Did they, in their conversations with you, lead you to believe that they are in sympathy with this sort of thing? No, quite the contrary. They expressed themselves as keenly opposed to it, and that was what led me to say to them that they should volunteer evidence before the Commission.
4348. They are a respectable family? They are a very respectable family indeed, with a large circle of acquaintances in a very respectable walk of life.
4349. Are you of opinion that if the present law was put in motion it would do away with these gambling-dens? Well, if it is plainly stated in the present law that fan-tan is illegal, they should turn the Chinamen neck and crop out of the place.
4350. President.] Do you know the law on the point? I have not made a study of it.
4351. Then you cannot express an opinion upon the question? Yes, I do not think there is any doubt about it.
4352. Well, is pak-ah-pu illegal? Yes, certainly it is illegal.
4353. Well, as a matter of fact it is not illegal. We know that? Yes, it is a lottery and as such it is gaming, and therefore must be illegal.
4354. But it is not? Well, I was of opinion that it was.
4355. Mr. McKillop.] At all events you were talking of fan-tan? Yes.
4356. Have you ever heard anything about the state of trade down there? Yes, that on account of the presence of these Chinese gambling-houses the tradesmen are gradually losing their business, because the streets are not fit for females to traverse. There is so little legitimate business doing that the few who do have any cannot make a living. They have no customers.
4357. Do you know of any European tradesmen who have been offered a bonus to leave their premises in order to enable Chinamen to take them? No.
4358. Mr. Quong Tart.] How long ago is it since you had that conversation with Mr. Law? Quite recently.
4359. When? Last Monday.
4360. What sort of women gather about these dens;—are they virtuous women? No, the lowest class of prostitutes.
4361. They are not girls just come out of their shell? No—not by any means.
4362. Did you ever talk to any respectable Chinese merchants upon the question? I have already answered that question to Mr. McKillop; the feeling of the respectable Chinese merchants upon the matter is very strong.
4363. Can you name a few of the respectable Chinese living down there? I have named the three Laws, but of course, they are not full-blooded Chinamen. Then, I think, I had a conversation with Mr. On Sing—I believe that was his name—two or three years ago. He is a very well-to-do man, and lives just below Charlotte-place.
4364. You say that you have been several times to play fan-tan. Do you think it is a fair game, or is there a good deal of cheating about it? I know that it is played very unfairly. If the game is going against the bank they cheat. Indeed the qualifications of a banker are gauged by his abilities to manage a "situation" by manipulating the coins.
4365. Are the majority of persons who frequent these places Europeans or Chinese? There are about three Europeans to every one Chinaman; but, as a matter of fact, the company consists of persons of pretty well all nationalities under the sun—Chinamen, Indians, Lascars, and Europeans.
4366. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long is it since you have been in any of these places? The last time was about four months ago; but that was only a casual visit. I went to see if I could not work up something more for the Press. I wanted to get an article for the Truth; but as I did not see anything fresh I abandoned the idea.

Mr. E. N. R.
Forder.
2 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. E. N. R. 4367. Did you disguise yourself at all? No; not at all. I went in my ordinary every-day clothes. Indeed I was only stopped upon one occasion during a score of visits. Then I had a tall man with a full beard with me, and they would not let us pass because they thought that he was a policeman.
- Forder.
4368. And on other occasions you have had no difficulty in going in and playing fan-tan? None at all. Upon one occasion they had not a game in progress when I arrived, but one of the Chinamen rushed up to us and said, "Me start game; me start game."
4369. How do you know that any particular shop is a gambling-den? Oh, there is no difficulty whatever in finding that out. Anyone who knows anything at all about Lower George-street can tell at once.
4370. Did you ever notice whether the Chinese were more frequent winners than the Europeans? Well I have noticed that the banker has a very large share of the winnings.
4371. You think that the Chinese representing the bank, as a rule win more than anybody else? Yes.
4372. Do you think there is anything in the manipulation of the coins? I know there is.
4373. You think there is something in the way of spring coins? I know there are spring coins. If the players are backing the three very heavily, and the banker sees that there are going to be three counters left, he will give one of them a flip with his finger; it will split into two, and the winning number will be four.
4374. So that according to your explanation, the Chinese can win the game whenever they desire? Not whenever they desire. They cannot make a certainty of it any more than any other gaming-table shark can; but they can generally manage to work it. And, besides, they have another advantage. By constant practice they can tell with some degree of accuracy how many coins are under the cup.
4375. Coming back to the charges against the police, have you ever heard anything upon which you, as a sensible man, can rely as trustworthy evidence connecting the police, or Inspector Atwill, as the head of the force in that quarter of that town, with having received bribes from the Chinese gambling-house proprietors? Speaking as a judge, certainly not.
4376. Have you ever met any person who has told you that he has given the police anything? No; I have not.
4377. Have you met anyone who would go as far as to say that he had seen a present given to any member of the police force? Yes; I have given you the name of a young man who told me that he saw a present given to Inspector Atwill.
4378. But all the evidence on that point will come through another person? Yes; I only know what he told me.
4379. Have you ever had any conversation with Inspector Atwill on the subject of the Chinese gambling-dens? Several.
4380. And what has been your impression after them? The impression that I gathered after a lengthy conversation with him was that he was perfectly cognisant of all that went on around him, but that he was bent upon trying to excuse the conduct of the local police. He seemed to me to think that they were harshly judged by the public at large, and that the district was not so bad as it was painted.
4381. I suppose that as the officer in charge of the district he was trying to make it appear to you that the police were doing all they could to suppress gambling? Yes; that is about what it was.
4382. President.] Does your experience apply to the Chinese quarters of Goulburn-street as well as Lower George-street? I have been there two or three times.
4383. What I want to find out is whether gaming is carried on with as much impunity in Goulburn-street as it is in Lower George-street? My experience is not such as to enable me to say whether it is as easy to enter the places there, but they are as numerous. About every second house you come to is a Chinese gambling-house. There are notices in the Chinese language outside the doors in Goulburn-street saying that gambling is carried on day and night.
4384. Then, as a matter of fact, it is carried on with as much impunity in Goulburn-street as in Lower George-street? Yes; I should say so.
4385. Have you ever visited Goulburn-street with the express intention of inquiring into the question of gambling? No; I have never been there about gambling; but I have been to inquire into the debauching of females by the Chinese.
4386. Well, allow me to examine you about the debauching of females by the Chinese in the southern end of the city. When did you undertake that inquiry? Oh, it is about three years ago.
4387. What did you discover upon that occasion? I had heard of a particular case, and visited the district for the purpose of tracing the facts, but I failed to discover anything in it. I was after one particular person who, we had received instructions, had been led astray. I spent a whole day in the locality, and found the same terrible neglect of sanitation, the same amount of gambling and opium-smoking that I had seen in Lower George-street, but absolutely nothing about that particular case. The women we did see were all opium fiends and drunkards. Where they were young girls it was evident that they had been hopelessly led astray before they went to live with the Chinamen. I have inquired into the details of Home of Hope cases, and the women have told me that it is a perfect haven of rest for them to go and live with Chinamen.
4388. What is their particular virtue? Well, having no women of their own out here, and being unable to get along very well without them, the European women who live with them are prized accordingly. The Chinamen treat them with great kindness in order to keep them. They dress them much better than their white bullies do, and they do not kick them as they do. They give them all sorts of luxuries, pamper them in every way, and treat them to opium and grog until they are utterly degraded.
4389. Did you make many visits to the southern end of the city in connection with your duties? No.
4390. And you did not see many young girls who were not deeply versed in the ways of vice before they went to live with the Chinamen? No; my experience is that there is a tremendous amount of exaggeration upon the subject.
4391. Exaggeration you mean as to their being degraded by Chinamen? Yes. As a rule the young girl who goes to the Chinamen has been a kind of hack for all the larrikins in the district for years, and when she becomes ripe for the Chinamen her own conduct is worse—she swears more and drinks more, and makes a more shameful exhibition of herself in the street than her male consorts.
4392. Would you regard the Chinaman as a destroyer of female innocence, or even a danger to female virtue in the southern end of the city? I shall certainly say that the presence of all these unmarried men and an alien race with a code of morals so different from our own is very bad for the women and children of any locality.
- 4393.

4393. But although you have visited the district for the purpose of inquiring into the matter, you have no tangible evidence that the women and children in the neighbourhood of Goulburn-street are being degraded by the Chinese population there? I have no actual evidence of it I admit.
4394. Such evidence as you obtained all leads to the conclusion that these women were old in the ways of vice before they began to consort with the Chinese? Yes. I should say so. I have heard a great deal about Chinamen being destroyers of female virtue, but have seen nothing of it.
4395. Have you ever seen women under the influence of opium being used in a beastly manner by Chinamen? No.
4396. You do not want to put in evidence any particular scenes that you may have witnessed in your tours of that end of city? No.
4397. You have seen women under the influence of opium however? Yes; just as I have seen women elsewhere under the influence of drink.
4398. You have never seen men in the same room? Yes; I have seen a woman asleep in a bunk with men in other bunks around the room; but I have never seen men in the bunk with women senseless, under the influence of opium.
4399. The men you saw in the same room were taking no notice of her? No; just looking upon her as a chattel.
4400. Did you ever make any attempt to discover whether there were secret Chinese Societies in Sydney? No.
4401. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know how many gaming-houses kept by Chinese there are in Lower George-street? No; I do not. I never attempted to count them.
4402. About how many do you think? I really do not know. It is a big contract to undertake to say how many shops of a certain kind there are in a given space.
4403. Would there be twelve or twenty should you think? More like fifty or eighty I should think.
4404. And who keeps the largest? Well, the largest is on the left hand side going from here, just above Jones' pawn-shop.

Mr. E. N. R.
Forder.
2 Oct., 1891.

Mr. Alfred Law called in:—

4405. President.] Mr. Forder, you got certain information concerning matters of interest to the Commission from Mr. Law. I want to know if this is the Mr. Law who gave you the information? This is the gentleman I saw on Monday morning at the office of his brother with whom I am well acquainted.
4406. Would you mind restating the information he gave to you? I went in to see his brother and found this young man sitting in the office. I told him who I was.
- Mr. Law:* You never told me who you were?
- Mr. Forder:* I thought I did; but possibly I am mistaken. I am not certain about that. At all events, you made me welcome until your brother came in. [To the President.] I first heard of his name from his brother, who happened to say in my presence, "Do this, Alfred." In that way I heard the word "Alfred," or otherwise I should not have known his name at all. It is due to Mr. Law that I should say that much in explanation. [To Mr. Law.] I have stated to the Commission that in conversation with me you said that you had seen yourself, on one occasion, in Queen's-place, when your brother's office was there and you were leaving at night, Inspector Atwill standing in the road receiving from a Chinaman a handful of sovereigns—about 20 sovereigns altogether.
- Mr. Law:* I never said anything of the kind. When Mr. Forder came to the office he said that he came to see my brother, and I asked him to sit down. He did so, and I then asked him to have a glass of whisky, and he said he would. Then we began talking about pugilism and the Rocks champion, and he subsequently said to me, "How did I think the Chinese Inquiry Commission was getting on." I replied that I thought it would end in a farce. Of course I did not know who Mr. Forder was. I had never seen him before.
4407. President.] He came to your residence I understand? No; not to my residence, to the office.
4408. Whose office was that? John Gee and Co's.
4409. Did Mr. Forder ask to see your brother? Yes.
4410. He did not see your brother? No.
4411. But he saw you? Yes.
4412. Did you ask him what his business was with your brother? I did not.
4413. But you did invite him to have a glass of whisky? Yes; I did.
4414. But why should you invite Mr. Forder to sit down and have a glass of whisky when you had never seen him before, and did not know anything of his mission? I asked him in a friendly way.
4415. Is it your custom to treat people so hospitably? It is a Chinese custom to treat people with hospitality.
4416. Did he not tell you who he was? He did not tell me anything.
4417. Did he not even tell you that he represented a newspaper? No, he did not tell me anything of the kind.
4418. And the first thing you did was to ask him to sit down and have a glass of whisky? Yes, you see he was waiting to see my brother.
4419. But, surely, you asked him what he wanted to see your brother about? No.
4420. What did he say to you first. What was the first serious conversation he had with you? I do not remember what it was.
4421. Then why should you have entered into conversation with him, or detain him, or taken up your own time with him? He asked me if he was detaining me, and I said "No." Then he said, "This is Monday—it is not a busy day with me. You do not mind me staying a little."
4422. Have you got a private office at John Gee and Company's? No I have not, but my brother has.
- 4423-4. And are you entitled to ask anybody who happens to come in to drink whisky with you? Yes, I, have permission at the office to do it if I please.
- Mr. Forder:* Let me explain that I asked for his brother, and stated that I had frequently promised to call upon the brother, and on seeing Mr. Alfred Law at the window of the office, I mistook him for his brother.
4425. President.] (To Mr. Law.) What is your age? Twenty-four.
4426. What is your brother's age? My brother is about 30.

Mr. A. Law.
2 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. A. Law. 4427. Does he wear his hair like you? Yes, and in other respects he is very much like me. We are often mistaken for one another.
- 2 Oct., 1891. 4428. Proceed with your account of the conversation. What occurred after you asked Mr. Forder to have a glass of whisky with you. Of course, you know you are on your oath, and have to-day to speak the truth, just as if you were on your oath in a Court of Law. What were you talking about when the conversation drifted on to the question of the Commission? He was talking about the different fighting men.
4429. Mr. Hawthorne.] Are you in the habit of indulging friends with information about the pugilistic science? I take an interest in it. Mr. Forder asked me how the Chinese Gambling Commission was going on, and I said that it would be a farce.
4430. President.] What led you to that conclusion? It is a mere opinion of mine. I came to it by what I had read about the Commission.
4431. Had you any discussion with him about the scope of the inquiry? I had no discussion with him whatever.
4432. You did not give him your views? No.
4433. You simply said that you thought the whole thing would end in a fiasco? And he said that he thought so too.
4434. Did the conversation end there? Yes; my brother came in then.
4435. And what did you say when your brother came in? I never said anything after that.
4436. Had you any private conversation with your brother whilst Mr. Forder was in the office? No; he brought a friend in with him, and introduced him to Mr. Forder.
4437. Did your brother know Mr. Forder straight away? Yes; he knew him at once.
4438. What is the name of your brother's friend? Andrew Suttie.
4439. Is he a European? Yes.
4440. What is his address? I do not know.
4441. What is his employment? He is a broker.
4442. Then don't you employ him sometimes on behalf of your firm? Occasionally.
4443. Where do you address his letters? I do not know his private address.
4444. Where do you send his letters? They come to the office.
4445. To your office? Yes.
4446. Then, that is his business address? Yes.
4447. What conversation took place between your brother and Mr. Forder in your presence? My brother went outside after that.
4448. Who with? To speak to a boy in the office about a little business I think.
4449. What business? I do not know.
4450. How long was he away? About five minutes.
4451. And Mr. Forder was there all the while? Yes.
4452. I want to know what took place between your brother and Mr. Forder? They went out a little while after.
4453. What took place in your presence, between Mr. Forder and your brother when they were in the room? Nothing took place between them.
4454. Did you explain to your brother what Mr. Forder's mission was—what he wanted to see him about? No.
4455. How came it that your brother and Mr. Forder should go away without any explanation from you? I do not know. Mr. Forder simply shook hands when he was going away.
4456. And no conversation took place between your brother and Mr. Forder in that room? No; they simply shook hands—that was all.
4457. Your brother never had any conversation with you after the interview in that room as to what Mr. Forder came about? No.
4458. And you never asked him what conversation he had with you? No, not any.
4459. You know you said the other day, when we questioned you about your brother's habits, that he never visited any of the gaming-houses? Yes, I did, and it is perfectly true.
4460. Would you be surprised to hear that Mr. Forder went to the office to see whether your brother could give him information as to what took place in certain gaming-houses? I should. He certainly is not in the habit of visiting any gaming-houses.
- Mr. Forder: Pardon me; you are putting me in a wrong light. I never said that I went to see Mr. Law for that purpose.
- Mr. Law: The next day Mr. Forder came to ask me where my brother was, and I said that he was out. I was busy writing at the time. He put out his hand and said, "Feel at my little finger; see how it is jumping." I took hold of his little finger, and then went on with my writing, and he went out.
4461. President.] Now, Mr. Forder, you have heard Mr. Law's version of what took place between you and him;—will you now give us your version of it? Mr. Forder: The previous day I had met the elder Mr. Law (this one's image) a little higher up the street than their office, and he had said to me, "You never called as you promised," and with that pointed to the place. The morning that I had the conversation with Mr. Alfred Law I happened to be down in that end of the city, and seeing him at the window mistook him for his brother William, and went upstairs. As he came away from the light of the window I found out my mistake, and as I did not know him, apologised and explained that his brother had asked me to call. He thereupon asked me to sit down and wait till his brother came in, saying that he would not be long. As he has told you, the conversation turned amongst other things—on pugilists, and the Rocks champion, Griffio. Whilst we were discussing these things he asked me to have a glass of whisky, and I had a glass with him. All along I had intended to lead up to the subject of Chinese gambling, and particularly to the statement about Inspector Atwill and the 20 sovereigns, but as a matter of fact, he (Law) turned the conversation upon the Chinese question by asking my opinion of the probable result of the Chinese Commission. That brought on the general conversation, in the course of which he made the statement that I have retailed to you this afternoon.
4462. Will you repeat it now in Mr. Law's presence? I have already done so since he entered the room.
4463. Mr. Hawthorne.] The statement about Inspector Atwill receiving the 20 sovereigns? Yes.
4464. Mr. Abigail.] Is there any possibility of a mistake in respect of what took place about this particular incident? There is not the slightest mistake on my part. 4465.

4465. Then Alfred Law, who swears that nothing of the kind took place, is not telling the truth? I Mr. A. Law, would not put it that way. He may himself, in the course of a rapid conversation with an older man who drew him out, have gone rather further than he intended to, and without being aware of it have made this statement and then forgotten all about it; but I am willing to repeat the statement on oath that these were the words he used, "It was a pretty solid handful; there must have been 20 sovereigns." 2 Oct., 1891.

4466. Now, Alfred Law, having heard Mr. Forder make that statement, do you deny it? Mr. Law: I do. Mr. Forder came to the office the next day and told me and my brother he had had a grand old spree, and that he was so tight when he left my brother that he did not know how he had jammed his finger. He said that my brother had put him on board the Balmain steamer, and he did not know how he had got home that night.

4467. Mr. McKillop.] Was he sober when he had this conversation with you? Yes, quite sober.

4468. Mr. Hawthorne.] As a matter of fact did you ever see anybody give Inspector Atwill anything? Never.

4469-70. And you are prepared to swear that you never told Mr. Forder that you did? Yes; I never said anything of the kind.

Mr. Forder: Will you ask Mr. Law if he remembers me asking him why, as a good citizen, he did not proffer his evidence on that point to the Commission.

Mr. Law.] No he did not say so.

4471. Mr. Hawthorne (to Mr. Law).] Do you mean to say that after you told Mr. Forder that, in your opinion, the Commission would be a fiasco you had no conversation with him on the question of Chinese gambling? Mr. Law: No—my brother came in then.

4472. Was it not a very singular thing then that you should have spoken to him about the Commission and said that it would end in nothing, and have no further conversation with him about it? No, as I told you before, my brother came in then.

4473. Just at that moment? Yes, just at that moment.

4474. Did your brother leave the room with Mr. Forder? No, not immediately, He first left the room himself to tell the office boy to do something, and then a few minutes later on I followed him out, and he came in and asked Mr. Forder to go out and have a smoke.

4475. Where did they go to? I don't know where they went to.

4476. And you did not see your brother or Mr. Forder till the next day? No.

4477. What time in the day did your conversation with Mr. Forder take place? It was in the afternoon.

4478. What time in the afternoon? I don't know exactly.

4479. Was it 6 o'clock? No, not so late as that.

4480. Was it 5 o'clock? No; I should think it would be about 3 o'clock.

4481. Is your brother engaged in the same firm as you are? Yes.

4482. What are his hours of attendance at the office? From 9 to 5 o'clock.

4483. And what are yours? From 9 to 5.

4484. What time does your brother usually leave the office? About 5.

4485. Would he not come back if he left at 3 o'clock? Sometimes he goes out broking.

4486. But would he not generally come back to the office even if he went out on broking business? Well, he might go straight home after concluding his business.

4487. Is it not a fact that he has to come back to the office and report his business before going home? In that case he would report it the next morning.

4488. That is if he left at half-past 4. But suppose he left at half-past 2 would you expect to see him again that afternoon or not till the next morning? I should expect to see him again that afternoon.

4489. What did he do on that particular occasion? He came in the next morning.

4490. What is his position in the firm? He manages the business for John Gee.

4491. Who is John Gee? One of the firm of Sun Kum Tiy.

4492. Who shuts up the office? I do.

4493. Does Sun Kum Tiy know that your brother conducts their business in that way? Yes, they do.

4494. Mr. Quong Tart (to Mr. Forder): Did Mr. Law mention any Chinaman's name in connection with the 20 sovereigns said to have been given to Inspector Atwill? No.

4495. Mr. McKillop.] You have always been on good terms with Mr. Law have you not? I never saw him until that morning.

4496. I mean his brother? Yes, it was through his brother Tom that I first heard of the matter.

4497. And it was through the communication that you had with Mr. Alfred Law that you first mentioned the matter to our secretary? Yes.

4498. Not voluntarily, I believe? No.

4499. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long do you think the communication that you had with Mr. Alf. Law lasted? About five or six minutes.

4500-1. Did any other conversation take place between you after he told you about the 20 sovereigns? I felt my way to see whether, having some Chinese blood in his veins, he had any racial prejudice in the question of Chinese gambling, and I soon found out that he was quite opposed to it. I then asked him why he had not given information to the Commission, and he said that he did not like to do so. Then I dropped the matter, and in my own mind thought that if he knew all this he ought to have communicated with the Commission. Indeed, without making myself appear to be personally interested in the business, I strongly urged him as a good citizen to come forward. He said that he was going away from his brother's office in Queen's Place, and when going out of the back he saw Inspector Atwill and a Chinaman together; the Chinaman was handing a handful of sovereigns to the Inspector. "There must have been fully 20, he said."

Mr. Law: He never asked me anything about the Chinese gambling-houses.

4502. Mr. Hawthorne (to Mr. Law).] You swear that you never saw the circumstance detailed by Mr. Forder? Yes, I do.

4503. You will swear that you never described anything of the kind to him? I will swear it most positively.

4504. But does it not seem strange to you that he should have invented a story of this kind? All I know is that he did not get the information from me.

4505. Do you give everybody who comes to the office a glass of whisky without knowing who they are? No, not everybody. I do sometimes, but I knew that Mr. Forder was waiting to see my brother.

- Mr. A. Law. 4506. Mr. Quong Tart (to Mr. Forder): Was Mr. Law's brother present when you had this conversation with him? No, there was nobody but ourselves in the office.
- 2 Oct., 1891. 4507. Mr. Hawthorne.] Would you like to ask Mr. Law any questions, Mr. Forder? No, I have asked him whether what I have said is not true, and he says that it is not.
4508. To Mr. Law: Would you like to ask Mr. Forder any questions? No; I have nothing to ask him. I should like to go now if you will allow me. I have a lot of work to do at the office. [Mr. Law retired.]
4509. Mr. McKillop.] Have you had any conversation with anybody in the firm of Sun Kum Tiy about this matter? No, I have not.
4510. Nor with any of the other Chinese merchants? No.
4511. The President (to Mr. Forder): You do not think you could be mistaken, do you Mr. Forder? No; there is no doubt about that. We were talking face to face, and his brother and I spent the whole afternoon together; indeed we went out to lunch together. The conversation between Mr. Alfred Law and myself occurred at 11 o'clock in the morning, and not at 3 in the afternoon as he has stated. Then his brother and I went to the City Buffet and had lunch together at 1 o'clock, I may say as I explained to Mr. Blackwell, that it was the brother who first mentioned this matter to me, and he told me that Alfred had himself witnessed the circumstance. I said to Mr. Blackwell that I knew nothing but what would be hearsay evidence, but that I might be able to get the information direct from the party who had seen the incident, and it was in consequence of that that I went to the office and saw Mr. Alfred Law.
4512. Can you tell me whether either of the brothers are in the habit of gambling? No, I do not think either of them has anything to do with it.
4513. Then it was quite an accident, according to the statement you say that Mr. Alfred Law made to you, that he saw the money given to Inspector Atwill? Quite so.
4514. Did he say when it occurred? In Queen's Place, at night.
4515. And he witnessed it from his office window? No, he was just coming out of his office. Mr. Atwill was standing with his hand open like this, and the Chinaman was putting sovereigns into it.

Mr. Patrick Landon called and examined:—

- Mr. 4516. President.] What are you? A 'bus driver.
- P. Landon. 4517. Do you know our secretary? No.
- 2 Oct., 1891. 4518. You never saw him in your life before? No, not to my knowledge.
4519. Did you ever have any conversation with anyone about the business of our Commission? Not that I am aware of.
4520. Have you ever been in a Chinese gambling-house in your life? Never! so help me God. I have sworn that.
4521. You swear that you do not know this gentleman? I do not know him.
4522. Do you think that you never saw him before in your life? I could not swear it. You gentlemen must know that in my avocation it is very hard to remember everybody.
4523. Do you remember ever having a conversation about the Commission with a gentleman sitting beside you on the box of your omnibus? I could not possibly swear either that I had or had not. Gentlemen get on the top of the 'bus with me, and when they bring up a subject whatever way their views go I generally side with them to please them.
4524. But you are sure that on the box-seat of an omnibus you never told any gentleman (to please him you know), that you were ever present in a Chinese gambling-house? I have never been in one at all.
4525. Alone or with a detective? No, never in my life.
4526. How long have you been driving an omnibus? About five years.
4527. Where were you before that? In New Zealand; I am a native of Auckland.
4528. And during the whole five years that you have been here have you been driving an omnibus? Not all the time.
4529. How many months have you been idle? I have never been idle in Sydney.
4530. Well, you say that you have not been driving all the time you have been in Sydney? I had employment previously at the Carrington Mews in Phillip-street.
4531. How long have you been in the employ of the S. T. & O. Co.? I cannot possibly say to a month or two, but to the best of my belief it is between four years and four years and a half.
4532. Have you been constantly employed all that time? Yes.
4533. What are your hours. When do you commence duty? We have a different time-table every day.
4534. So you have some leisure? Oh, yes, I get a day off in the week.
4535. And do you ever get a night off? I get one. If I am off on a Monday then I get Monday night off, and also the following Friday night, and that is like two nights in the week.
4536. How do you generally pass these off nights? At home.
4537. Are you a married man? Yes.
4538. Have you got a family? No, I have no family.
4539. Where are you living? In Glebe Road.
4540. Where were you living twelve months ago? In Bay-street.
4541. The Glebe also. Where were you living this time three years? In Bay-street.
4542. Did you ever live at this end of the city, in Gloucester-street, or Lower George-street, or Goulburn-street, or near there? No.
4543. And you never visited a gambling-house in mistake? No, I never visited a gambling-house in my life.
4544. Mr. McKillop.] I suppose you did say all this, but it was merely to kill time? I beg your pardon. I might give him an answer.
4545. President.] Did you ever make a statement to any passenger on your 'bus to the effect that you had ever visited these places? I cannot conscientiously say that I did not.

Sam Tin called in and examined:—

4546. President.] Where do you live? I have a private house at Enmore.
4547. Where do you carry on business? I carry on business in Lower George-street.
4548. What number Lower George-street? No. 181. I work for wages there.
4549. At Sun Sam Kee's? Yes.
4550. What do you do there? I carry on business, dealing in rice, Chinese goods, and tea.
4551. Is it not a fact that Sun Sam Kee's is a gambling-house? No.
4552. Do you mean to tell me that 181, is not a gambling-house? Yes.
- [As the witness, who could speak English fairly well, persisted in answering the questions in Chinese, through the interpreter, Mr. Lisson was asked to retire, and retired accordingly.]
4553. You work at 181, George-street? I want the interpreter.
4554. Do you work at 181, George-street? Yes.
4555. What sort of business does Sun Sam Kee carry on? He is in China.
4556. What business is carried on at 181, George-street? Dealing.
4557. In pak-ah-pu I suppose? I want the interpreter.
4558. You can speak English very well, and if you won't answer our questions we shall have to send you to prison. Is fan-tan played at Sun Sam Kee's? I want the interpreter.
4559. Mr. Hawthorne.] What does Sun Sam Kee do for a living? He is in China.
4560. Who is head man there? There is no head man. There is only one man working, and I am managing a little while for him.
4561. Are you managing for him now? Yes.
4562. What is your name? Sam Tin.
4563. You are married to a European woman, I believe? Yes.
4564. She does not speak Chinese, does she? No.
4565. Then how do you understand her when she speaks to you? I understand a little bit.
4566. What do you do in business? I deal in tea, rice, and Chinese goods for Sun Sam Kee.
4567. And what else do you deal in? There are generally two or three of my countrymen on their way to China stopping there.
4568. How many are stopping there now? Two or three.
4569. How many have you had at a time? As many as fifty, when they have been going away to China, or going into the country.
4570. So that your house in Lower George-street is really a lodging-house, is it? Yes.
4571. Not for everyone? Only friends and countrymen stop there.
4572. You have a fan-tan table there? No.
4573. You had one there two months ago? Yes.
4574. Had not you a fan-tan table there one month ago when the Commission went down there? You ask for the interpreter to come in.
4575. You had a fan-tan table—we know that;—how long is it since you took it away? What you call a fan-tan table I do not call a fan-tan table at all.
4576. How long is it since you gambled there? About two years or more.
4577. And you mean to tell me that you had that fan-tan table there two months ago and did not allow fan-tan to be played on it? No; not now. It is about two years ago since Sun Sam Kee went away, and not much play since then.
4578. What do your countrymen do when they are stopping at your place at night? If the Government make a great noise, we stop playing, and if they not make great noise we play a little. When my countrymen come to stop at my place, some go out to enjoy themselves, and some stop in the house, and some of those who stop in the house play fan-tan, but since two years nobody has stopped.
4579. Do you not make a lot of money out of gambling? I am an agent for a house.
4580. What kind of a house? I am agent for Mr. Josephson.
4581. Do you collect his rents? I collect the rents for fourteen houses, and get the commission out of it.
4582. All for Mr. Josephson? I do not get all the commission from him, but a good part of it.
4583. How much commission does he allow you? It is not a fixed amount. I take a house from Mr. Josephson and I sublet it.
4584. How many houses have you got? Fourteen.
4585. All belonging to Mr. Josephson? Yes, and one big shop.
4586. How much do you pay for the shop a week? £5.
4587. What number is it? I cannot remember.
4588. Is it the shop in which Sun Sam Kee carries on business? No.
4589. Who occupies it? Some of my countrymen. It is No. 173, and Sun Sam War lives there.
4590. You pay Mr. Josephson £5 a week for the house? Yes.
4591. And you let it out to Sun Sam War? Yes.
4592. What do you get a week for it? I get nothing from that shop.
4593. Do you let Sun Sam War live there for nothing? I only just oblige him.
4594. You give Mr. Josephson £5 a week for this house 173, and you let Sun Sam War have it for nothing? No; for £5. I get nothing out of it.
4595. What do you get for the other fourteen houses? I get £8.
4596. Are they all the same size? Pretty well—some are a bit bigger than others.
4597. What do you let them for? Some for 18s., some for 15s., and some for 14s. a week.
4598. How much do you make out of the lot per week? About £120 or £130 a year.
4599. Do you pay the rates and taxes? Yes.
4600. Out of that? No; I make about £120 clear.
4601. What do they do in the shop;—what does Sun Sam War do? I do not know. I never go in.
4602. But you said just now that you collected the rents for the fourteen houses? Yes.
4603. But don't you collect the rent of Sun Sam War's house? No; I get nothing out of it.
4604. But does not Mr. Josephson hold you responsible? Oh, Sun Sam War pays him every week.
4605. Are you not a partner in Sun Sam War's? No.
4606. Are you not a partner in his gambling business? No.

Sam Tin.
2 Oct., 1891.

- Sam Tin. 4607. Will you swear it? I will swear that I never go in there, and that I never get anything from it.
- 2 Oct., 1891. 4608. What do your other tenants in the fourteen houses do? They are in Queen-street, and are all basket carriers or dealers. They make very little money. There are lots of ups and downs.
4609. But the houses are never empty down there? Sometimes they are.
4610. How long are they empty for? Sometimes for two or three weeks. I said to Mr. Josephson, "I make very little money out of your houses. You take £1 a week off," and he said, "Very well, I let you have them for £7 a week."
4611. Mr. Josephson has great confidence in you, has he? He knows me.
4612. You have known him some time? Yes; about five or six years.
4613. And you talk to him? A little.
4614. Then why would you not talk to the President just now? He asked me one big word, and I could not understand it.
4615. Mr. Abigail.] Do you know what fan-tan gambling means? No.
4616. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long have you been in this country? Seven or eight years.
4617. Who are in the firm of Sun Sam War? I cannot tell you.
4618. Some one else besides Sun Sam War? I do not know.
4619. Who was the man who took the house from you? I do not know his name. I shall have to find it out.
4620. Are you sure that you let it on the same terms that you give for it? Yes; quite sure.
4621. Now, I want the name of the man to whom you let this house, in which Sun Sam War carries on business? I said just now that Sun Sam War has gone out of it.
4622. What is the name of the new man? I do not know. That is what I want to find out. They have only been in about a week.
4623. Is it not a fact that they left because they were afraid of carrying on the gambling business any longer on account of the appointment of the Commission? I cannot tell you that.
4624. We must have the name of the man to whom you let the house? I cannot tell you his name. He is a new man.
4625. Did you not let the house? No; I take the house. I let Mr. Josephson go and collect the rents. This man goes away and another man comes, and Mr. Josephson goes and collects the rents. I will find out the name of the man for you.
4626. You must give us the name to-day? I do not know.
4627. Can you not write it down in Chinese? There is the name of the firm, and I will give you that, but I do not know what the name of the individual is. Shing Goong is the name of the firm.
4628. Have they put any stock in the place? I do not know. I have not been in for ten months.
4629. Mr. McKillop.] Is it next door to you? It is a few doors further down.
4630. What were the names of the partners who occupied the house before the new firm went there? There were three men there then, and they went away about a week or ten days before the new men came in.
4631. What was the name of the old firm? Sun Sam War.
4632. How long have you been in the firm of Sun Sam Kee? I am not in the firm. I am only the manager for them.
4633. Do you know Foster's pawn-shop? Yes; we are next door.
4634. And you tell the Commission that there is no gambling going on down there—that there was none going on, for instance, the night they visited the place, and saw half a dozen Europeans in the inner room? I heard of it, but I was sick at the time, and the doctor had told me not to be out after 6 o'clock, so that I was not in town that night.
4635. Who was there? I have a man there managing for me when I am away, and he would be there. His name is Ah Bung.
4636. Where is Sun Sam Kee? In China.
4637. How long ago did he go away? Nearly eight years ago—between six and eight years ago, though it might be only five years ago.
4638. You do all his business for him? Yes.
4639. What do you do with all the money that you gather in Sydney? I only get £2 a week.
4640. And your board? No; only £2 a week altogether.
4641. Then who is the representative of the house over here? I cannot understand that.
4642. How many partners has Sun Sam Kee? He has no partner. There is only one man in the firm.
4643. What do you do with all the money you get for selling rice and tea? Oh, business has got very bad.
4644. How long is it since business has been getting very bad? Ever since Sun Sam Kee went away.
4645. You mean the business that you look after for yourself? No, for Sun Sam Kee.
4646. How much money do you send home to China? None—not a penny.
4647. How long ago did you stop playing fan-tan in your shop? Two years ago.
4648. But you allow fan-tan to go in the back part of your premises? No, not now.
4649. Do you keep any account books? No, I don't keep books.
4650. You know very well that there is plenty of gambling going in Sun Sam Kee's premises. We want you to speak the truth? No, not now.
4651. Perhaps not to-day nor yesterday, but up to two or three weeks ago? No.
4652. Do you know a man named Charlie Fisher—a man who lost £300 or £400 there? No.
4653. He is a thin man and has got a public-house now. Do you know him? I may have seen him, but that is all, I do not know his name.
4654. You have to tell the truth. Let me caution you. Do you want to go to gaol? I tell the truth.
4655. Did you not have gambling carried on in the back premises up to a few weeks ago? No—not up to a few weeks ago.
4656. You remember the night that the Commission came round? I heard of it. They said some gentlemen on a Commission came round with Mr. Atwill and a policeman, but that is all I know about it.
4657. They did not tell you that fan-tan was being played at the time, and that the Commission saw many white people playing in the room behind the shop? No.
4658. President.] You are a very respectable Chinaman, are you not? Oh, I have not been so long in this country.
4659. You would not play fan-tan in this country? No. Long while ago, up the country, I played a little, but since I worked for this man I never played at all.
- 4660.

4660. You live upon the commissions that Mr. Josephson pays you? I have got a share in a cabbage garden at North Shore, worked by my countrymen. Sam Tin.
4661. Of course you have no share in any gambling-house? No. 2 Oct., 1891.
4662. You would not take any share in the business of, or commission from, your tenants Sun Sam War? No.
4663. Of course if you speak what is true you will not be hurt, but if you speak a lie it will be very bad for you? I swear that I took the place for £5 a week and started my business, and then let it again for the same money.
4664. Would you mind telling me about these Chinese Societies. You know the Loon Yee Tong, though of course you are not a member yourself? No, I come from a different part of the country.
4665. Of course. I know that it is a very bad society and you would not belong to it? I might be in it, but as I do not belong to that part of the country they would not let me in it.
4666. But you would not belong to it anyhow, would you. It is a very bad society. They pay money into the Police Court to cover fines don't they? No, I do not know what they do. I having nothing at all to do with it.
4667. Mr. Abigail.] Were you taken to the Police Court two years ago? Yes, more than two years ago.
4668. What was the charge made against you? Oh! When I was on the other side of the street I was taken there. I went inside a place and it happened to be a gambling-house and they took me in.
4669. Were you fined? Yes.
4670. How much? Five pounds.
4671. Who paid the fine? I did.
4672. Was it not £40? No, only £5.
4673. How many people were found on the premises when you were charged that time with gambling? I was never fined for gambling on my premises.
4674. You were fined for gambling, were you not? Yes, on the other side of the street. I had gone there for lunch.
4675. And is it since you were fined for gambling that you have become so very moral, that you do not allow anything of the kind now? No.
4676. Was there no one gambling in your place last night—Europeans and Chinamen? No.
4677. Mr. McKillop.] Understand we will bring witnesses to prove it, and you will find yourself in gaol, where you ought to be. If we went down there now should we not find a fan-tan table? There is a table there of course. Tea-pot, cups, and saucers on it. It is for breakfast, dinner, and tea. We have our meals there.
4678. Are these not the coins and the cup used for playing fan tan on it? No.
4679. President.] Does not the Loon Yee Tong pay money to the police? That is not my business, you see.
4680. I know it is not your business, but have you never heard that your countrymen pay money to the police? No.
4681. Your place is Sun Sam Kee's? Yes.
4682. Well do you not pay money to the police? No.
4683. You know Inspector Atwill, don't you? Yes, I know him.
4684. Don't you know that your tenants are paying money to him? No.
4685. You are quite sure of it? Yes.
4686. Do you know of any of your countrymen giving money to him—not because there is anything wrong, but because Inspector Atwill is a very good man? No.
4687. I suppose if we ask you to come again you will come? Oh, yes.
4688. We should like your assistance, you know. You tell us you are a very respectable man. Then will you give us all the help you can? Oh, yes, I will come whenever I am called. I must come, of course.
4689. But we do not want you to come because you must. We do not want to put pressure upon you. We want you to come willingly? Yes, I will come.

Yuen Tah called and examined:—

4690. Mr. McKillop.] Where do you live? My private house is in Queen-street; my business in Pymont. Yuen Tah.
4691. What is your business? I am a furniture manufacturer. 2 Oct., 1891.
4692. Do you belong to any Chinese society? Yes, I belong to the Kooney Tong.
4693. What office do you hold in it? I do not hold any office in it, I am only a member.
4694. What are the objects of that society? To take up dead bodies.
4695. What else? Nothing else.
4696. How much money have you got to the credit of that society in the bank? I think it is about £1,700 or £1,800.
4697. Do you subscribe every week, month, or year to this society? We do not give periodical subscriptions. We paid a lump sum at the beginning. Nobody was allowed to pay less than £1, but many of the merchants paid as much as £5, £10, and £50.
4698. How much did you give? I gave £5.
4699. Have you given any money to the society since? No; we only paid once.
4700. How often does that society meet? Not very often. We have a meeting when we are taking dead bones home.
4701. Has that society any other objects? None.
4702. Do you know of anything else that was done with the money. Do you ever have to pay any sums of money in the shape of fines? No, we do not do anything of that kind. We save the money for the legitimate objects of the society.
4703. How many Chinaman do you employ? About fifty.
4704. Have you any fan-tan tables at your place in Pymont? No.
4705. Do you know Lower George-street? I know Queen's Place and Lower George-street too.
4706. Did you ever live in Lower George-street? Yes, when I was manager for Sun Kum Tiy I lived in Lower George-street. 4707.

- Yuen Tah. 4707. How long did you live there? I lived there for fifteen years or thereabouts.
 4708. How long is it since you left there? About six or seven years, I think.
 2 Oct., 1891. 4709. When you lived down there did you notice a large number of Chinese gambling-dens in the neighbourhood? There might have been five or six.
 4710. Do you know that since then they have increased? No, I cannot tell.
 4711. Have you had any conversation with any of the Chinese gambling-house keepers about the Commission? No, I do not know any of them.
 4712. Do you know that this great evil exists to a very large extent amongst your fellow-countrymen down in Lower George-street? Yes, I have heard of it.
 4713. Are you in favour of gambling, or would you like to see it done away with? I do not like to say.
 4714. We want to get an expression of opinion from you, and must have it. Remember you are on your oath, and say either yes or no? When I am not in the habit of visiting these places surely I have nothing to do with it.
 4715. That is an evasion. I want you to say "yes" or "no" in answer to my question as to whether you would like to see this gambling done away with. Do you think it is a very great evil? I do not know that it is very bad. They gamble in China just as they do here.
 4716. Do you know that gambling is against the law? I would not like to say out what I think of it. In China there is some gambling; in this Colony there is some gambling. If a person wins money he says "gambling very good," if he lose money he says "gambling no good."
 4717. But do you not know that it is against the law to gamble? No, I do not know that it is against the law, but if the law says it is wrong then it is wrong.
 4718. Are you connected with gambling? No, I am a business man. I heard of somebody winning £300 last week.
 4719. Where? In Lower George-street.
 4720. Was he a white man or a Chinaman? He was a Chinaman; and he says that gambling is very good.
 4721. You are afraid of speaking on this point, I see? No, I am not afraid.
 4722. President.] I want you to tell me about the Loon Yee Tong? I know nothing about the Loon Yee Tong, my dear sir. The Koon Yee Tong I know about, but nothing about the Loon Yee Tong.
 4723. Do you know there is a Chinese Society called the Loon Yee Tong? I heard about it three years ago; but it does not exist any more now. I heard at one time —
 4724. Tell me what the objects of the Loon Yee Tong were. I dare say it is all done away with, but what were the objects that they combined for. What did they do? I heard that they got about £400 for coffins to keep on a steamer for skeletons to take back to China.
 4725. But all the Chinese societies do that. Was not the Loon Yee Tong a society that helped the Chinese gambling-house keepers to defend themselves against the police? I know nothing at all about that. Look here; I heard that £400 went to buy coffins to put on board the Chinese steamers, and that there was a balance which was given to the hospital.
 4726. Did not they ever pay Police Court fees out of it? I do not know at all.
 4727. Suppose a Chinaman were sent to gaol for keeping a gambling-house, would they not pay him a sum of money when he came out? I do not think so.
 4728. What makes you think that if you do not know anything at all about it? Oh, I do not know; I only say that I do not think so.
 4729. Supposing that one of your countrymen were caught gambling and sent to gaol, would not the Loon Yee Tong pay him £1 a week when he came out for every week that he had been in prison? I never heard anything about that.
 4730. Well, supposing the Chinese were to kill a European, would not the Loon Yee Tong find the money to pay him with? I do not know; I do not think it would do that. It was a very good thing for them to send money home to buy coffins for ships, and I do not think that the society that would do that would pay for killing people. If they would kill people they would not send money home to China to buy coffins with.
 4731. Well then, how was it that the society came to an end? It was, I understand, because the trustees fell out, or something of that kind, but I really do not know myself.
 4732. Do you know Tah Sing? Yes; he is my cousin.
 4733. What business does he carry on? It is a general store.
 4734. Numbers of Chinamen visit there, do they not? Yes.
 4735. Is there any gambling carried on there? I never saw any gambling there.
 4736. Do not Chinamen visit the place to decide the plan of campaign? Oh, no; you see no gambling there.
 4737. That firm are agents for lotteries, are they not? No.
 4738. Is it not a fact that they are the bankers for various gambling-places? No; I never heard that.
 4739. Do you not know that the money is placed there by several gambling-houses? I never saw it.
 4740. How often do you visit there? One or twice, or three times a week.
 4741. When you are visiting there do you see plenty of Europeans there? I see them buying there.
 4742. And do you not see them there buying lottery tickets? I never saw any.
 4743. What time of the day do you visit there? At different times.
 4744. Do you remember their being taken up by the police and fined some two years ago? No; I do not remember.
 4745. Try and remember if they were not fined £50 in the lower Courts on that occasion, and then appealed to the higher? I do not remember.
 4746. Who is the keeper of that place? Ah Sing.
 4747. And you do not know of your own knowledge that a fine of £50 was paid out of funds kept at that very place? No.
 4748. How many are connected with that firm of Ah Sing? There are two partners.
 4749. Who are they? Ah Choy and Ah Sing.
 4750. They are reputed to be rather wealthy, are they not? Yes; they have plenty of goods always coming in.
 4751. Do you know that a portion of their wealth has been made out of syndicate shares in gaming-houses? I cannot say about that. All I know is that they do a very good business.
 4752.

4752. And you know that a large number of Europeans visit there day and night? I never saw any. Yuen Tah.
4753. What are your own opinions in reference to Chinese gambling and opium-smoking? Opium spoils the constitution. It is no good. I myself have nothing to do with it, but it is bad for those who do smoke it. 2 Oct., 1891.
4754. Do you think that gambling-dens improve the character or degrade it? I have heard that gambling is good when they win and bad when they lose.
4755. You are a mature man of a good age. I want your opinion—not what you have heard? I have nothing to do with it, and so I cannot say.
4756. Are you in favour of it? I shall not say either way.
4757. You must say; you must answer the question? I don't know, and so I cannot say.
4758. You are before a Court and must answer the question? It is no use asking me, I have nothing to do with it.
4759. You are a member of the community, and are responsible for its good government? I do not go myself, but my heart would say that it is no good.
4760. What age are you? 47.
4761. Are you as reticent upon other questions as you are upon this? Well, I like to mind my own business.
4762. Well, can you explain why it is that your countrymen are so desirous of evading a direct answer to this question? I am a neutral man as far as gambling is concerned, and having nothing to do with it, don't want to answer that question at all.
4763. Supposing the people of this country were to rise up and assault your countrymen, would that be good. Would you object to giving an expression of opinion as to whether that would be good or bad? I should say that it would be bad.
4764. Well when we are told that Chinese gambling is degrading the youth and manhood of this city have we not right to an expression of opinion from you as a citizen who are protected by the laws of the country, as to whether it is good or bad? Excuse me, but there are consultation-sweeps carried on by Europeans in this city.
4765. We are not talking about consultation-sweeps now, we are talking about Chinese gambling. We think that one is as bad as the other, but we want an expression of opinion from you regarding the latter? Gambling of all kinds has its good and it has its bad.
4766. Where does its goodness lie? It does those good who win. Suppose in a sweep you draw for £1 £25,000; then it is good.
4767. Did you ever get any of that kind of goodness? I buy tickets sometimes.
4768. Did you ever win anything? No.
4769. Then, according to your own code, you should say it is bad? Yes; when I lose it is bad.
4770. How many times have you bought tickets? I have bought one ticket.
4771. Do you know that there are some of your countrymen in this city who would hurt those who told the truth in answer to these questions? I am a business man, and have nothing to fear.
4772. If you were in a Court in China and refused to answer these questions, what would they do to you? It would be just the same.
4773. Would they not bamboo you? No; they could not punish me. I am not a criminal, and I cannot tell them more than I know.
4774. But if you were before the Court, would they not compel you to answer the questions? It would be just the same.
4775. Do you not feel responsible for seeing the laws of this country that is protecting you carried into effect? Yes.
4776. Do you not know that the fan-tan is against the laws of this country? I know that they can be caught.
4777. Then, being contrary to law, do you not think it is bad? Yes; if the law says it is bad then it must be.
4778. At all events, then, you understand that the laws are passed for the good government of the country? Yes.
4779. So you admit that gambling being contrary to law must be bad? Yes.
4780. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have heard a great many complaints, firstly, about gambling, secondly, about opium-smoking, and thirdly, about bad smells in the houses? Yes.
4781. Now, you are a man of standing and respectability, always representing your community at meetings of the Chinese citizens, and I want you to say whether it is a fact that there is a great deal of gambling, filth, and opium-smoking, in the Chinese houses here? In some cases there would be filth; but I am not aware that there is gambling and opium-smoking to any extent.
4782. You remember that through these complaints, the Government appointed the Commission, and it is our duty to inquire into the truth of the statements made by the deputation that waited upon the Premier. There has already been a great deal of evidence sent in to the Commission—so much gambling, so much opium-smoking, and so many filthy places, and we want you to furnish us with all the assistance in your power, to prosecute the inquiry? I want to explain how opium was forced upon the Chinese. It was forced upon them by Englishmen.
4783. What percentage of the Chinese in Sydney are gamblers and opium smokers, and what percentage are good respectable citizens? How can I tell that? You can tell as well as I can.
4784. Can you tell how many communities from China are represented here? Chang Sing, Toon Goon, Heong Shang, See Yip, Sam Yip, Har Kar, and Go You.
4785. Which is the worst class—the class that smokes opium and gambles the most? I cannot tell that. I only know that I do not smoke. I suppose Europeans of one community cannot tell with regard to other European communities.
4786. We want to see the Chinese places carried on properly in future—no gambling, and no opium-smoking; and we want you, as a leading Chinese citizen, to make any suggestions you can as to how to do this? That rests with the Commission itself.
4787. But I am asking for your opinion? I would be glad to follow the lead of the Commission.

TUESDAY, 6 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Thomas Playfair called and examined:—

Mr. T.
Playfair.
6 Oct., 1891.4788. President.] You are an alderman of Gipps Ward, in the City of Sydney, Mr. Playfair? Yes.

4789. And an ex-Mayor of Sydney? Yes.

4790. How long have you been an alderman of the City of Sydney? Sixteen years next December.

4791. How long have you been located in Lower George-street? About thirty-two years.

4792. That is, carrying on business there? Yes, about that.

4793. You are aware that there has been an outcry of late amongst the leading European residents of Lower George-street with regard to the Chinese gambling-houses in that locality? Yes.

4794. And these gambling-dens are situated in Lower George-street? Yes.

4795. From the nature of your business, I suppose you have ample opportunities of observing the doings of these people? Yes.

4796. Is it a fact that the gaming in these places is carried on publicly? I do not know that it is carried on publicly; but I do know that it is carried on there, because I have been told by one or two people that have been victimised through it.

4797. In your opinion, do the police know that it is carried on largely? I will not say that, because I do not know.

4798. In your opinion, I am asking; in other words, do you think the police must have known all this time that gambling has been carried on extensively in the Chinese establishments we are referring to? Certainly, I believe they must have known that it has been carried on.

4799. And you arrived at that conclusion because it is carried on without any attempt at concealment—is that the case? All I know about the matter is from hearsay.

4800. Have you from time to time observed a number of Europeans going into what are reputed to be gaming-houses? No; although I have lived there so many years I do not know one gambling-den in the place.

4801. You know nothing about the proclivities of the Chinese in the direction of gambling? No; I have heard of it, of course.

4802. Are you a property owner in the neighbourhood of George-street North? Yes, I am.

4803. How many houses have you in George-street? Four.

4804. Can you give us the numbers? My own place is No. 103, and there are three others adjoining the watch-house.

4805. Are any of these places let to Chinese? No.

4806. Have you ever been offered a bonus to let one of your houses to Chinese for gambling purposes? No; I have never heard of such a thing.

4807. What rents do you get from your three houses adjoining the police station? I receive £3 a week for each of them.

4808. What rent did you get from the same houses five years ago? The same rent—£3 a week.

4809. You have always got £3 a week for them? Yes, ever since I built them.

4810. The rent has not varied during five years? No.

4811. Of course you have an intimate knowledge, or some knowledge, of the police who do duty in the locality? Yes, I have lived for a long time within a few doors of them. There are several new hands there lately.

4812. Do you know Inspector Atwill? Yes.

4813. How long has he been on duty in Lower George-street? He has been down that end of the town for many years—I forget how many years—as inspector. He was in the Water Police Court before that. I cannot tell you the time.

4814. Can you not give an idea? I cannot.

4815. Has he been there ten years? I think he has; the years go by so quickly that one loses count.

4816. You do not mean to assert that time travels now quicker than it did ten years ago? With me it does.

4817. However, do you think Inspector Atwill has been there ten years? Yes; I think he has.

4818. Do you know anything about Inspector Atwill's private affairs? No.

4819. Do you know whether he was well off when he came there? No; I do not.

4820. Do you know where Inspector Atwill lives now? He did live in Kent-street until recently.

4821. What sort of house does he live in? He lived in a small house in Kent-street.

4822. Is he, in your opinion, a man of any means? I would not like to say so. I never heard so. I should not think, from his appearance, that he was a man of any great means.

4823. How many children has he, do you know? That I could not tell you.

4824. Do you know how Inspector Atwill got the property he owns in Princes-street? No. I may say I merely know him as a neighbour, and I would not like to say much about his private affairs; but I should not think he was a man of very large or considerable means.

4825. Does he own any property to your knowledge? I know nothing about that.

4826. Do you know anything of the Chinese merchants in Lower George-street? Yes; I know several of them.

4827. Will you kindly name them? I know On Chong, and On Chik—he has moved away now—Gee Hick, and others.

4828. Are any of those you name keeping or connected with Chinese gambling-houses? No; Gee Hick, I may mention, has been a neighbour of mine for five years. He has nothing of that kind, I am positive.

4829. Did you ever hear it suggested that Inspector Atwill, or any other member of the police force, had been bribed, to induce him to connive at the carrying on of Chinese gaming in that locality? No; I never heard anything of the kind. 4830.

Mr. T.
Playfair.

6 Oct. 1891.

4830. Did it ever occur to you personally, that the police must have been bribed to permit of gaming being carried on in that open manner, to such a large extent down there? No; I cannot say it ever entered my mind.
4831. Did you reflect upon it yourself, or inquire in your own mind how it was, or is, that such a state of affairs should exist there without any interference from the properly constituted authorities? Yes; I have.
4832. And what conclusion did you come to? The conclusion I have come to is that the men who patronise the Chinese gambling-dens work with the keepers of them, and go in on the quiet; in fact they help to keep it going by co-operating with the Chinese, to defeat exposure. The Chinamen know their customers, I suppose.
4833. Then you think the police must have known that this gaming was carried on publicly down there, and that you or I could go in and play? I cannot say they must have known; but they may have known—it is very likely they do, just as well as I, or better for the matter of that.
4834. Do you know if it is a fact that anyone—you or I, for instance—might go in to one of these places at any time without molestation? I would not say that exactly. I have seen one or two standing in front of the places pointed out to me as gambling-houses, but you would not know that gambling was going on there.
4835. Does your business require you to be in Lower George-street the greater part of the day? Yes.
4836. Have you ever been accosted by any of the Chinese keeping these places—in other words, have you ever been solicited to go in and play? No, never.
4837. Have you ever heard of persons going down Lower George-street being accosted by these Chinese? No.
4838. Have you ever heard of females being insulted by the Chinese in that locality? No, I never heard of it in my life; and Lower George-street, you may say, is a kind of village, in one sense, for when anything takes place everyone knows it at once.
4839. Do you know Sergeant Higgins, Mr. Playfair? I do.
4840. How long have you known him? Oh, I have known him for twenty years.
4841. Is he in the police force now? Yes.
4842. Is he a man of any means—does he possess property? Yes; he has several houses, I believe.
4843. Is it a suspicious thing, in your mind, or have you any reason to suspect, that he acquired the property by reason of bribes received from the Chinese, or from money obtained in some discreditable way? No; certainly not.
4844. Do you know how he acquired this property—Mr. Higgins? I do.
4845. Tell me how he acquired it? It was this way: About eighteen or nineteen years ago there was a lot of land to be sold at the back of Kendall's mill. It was offered at auction, but they could not sell it, and it was afterwards sold for £5 a foot. I bought three or four allotments myself. The land was sold very cheap there. I was offered very liberal terms; in fact people would hardly believe it now; and I know that Carney and Higgins were offered and obtained unlimited terms.
4846. Did Carney buy at the same time? Yes.
4847. What did he do with the land he purchased? He built on it.
4848. Must he not have had a considerable amount of money to build? No, not a great deal, because first of all they had the land on such easy terms, being given an unlimited time to pay; then they bought their bricks cheap, and did a lot of their own work, when off duty, such as laying out the gutters, and putting up the closets. I have seen them there dozens of times. These men were saving and industrious, and got their property in that way. The houses took a long time to build. They bought the bricks by small lots, and all the drainage works and the water-closets were done by themselves.
4849. This man Carney, you speak of, is not in the police force now, is he? No; but he was a great many years in the force.
4850. Has he any other property that you know of? I do not know of any other.
4851. How many houses has he there? They have two apiece in Playfair-street, and have built one or two in Upper Gloucester-street.
4852. Have you heard of Sergeant Higgins buying property to the extent of £2,000 or £3,000, lately? No; I have heard nothing of that kind; but this property which I have told you of must have paid very well, for they were renting at 18s. and £1 a week not long ago, and they were built very cheap. I know if I had to build the houses they would have cost twice as much.
4853. Has Sergeant Higgins got any mortgage over his property? I don't know anything about it.
4854. You are sure he did not buy the land subject to any mortgage? Yes; he was given ample time to do it.
4855. How long ago is it since he bought that land? It is nearly twenty years, I should think.
4856. Do you know Constable Adair? I do not know him by name.
4857. He is called Hughey Adair in that quarter;—do you know him by that name? I know a great many constables, but not by name.
4858. He is always, or frequently, in company with Sergeant Higgins? I know him—yes.
4859. Do you know where he lives? No.
4860. You know nothing of the circumstances of Constable Adair? No.
4861. Have you ever heard that he, or any other member of the police force, was ever presented with gifts of watches, chains, or rings—diamond rings—or presents of any kind by way of bribes? No; I never heard anything of that kind.
4862. Did you ever hear that Sergeant Higgins was presented with groceries, or anything of the kind, by the Chinese in that quarter? No, never in my life.
4863. Did you know Sergeant Dawson? Yes; he has been out of the force some time.
4864. Has he acquired any property, do you know? I know nothing about his private affairs. I have not seen him for years.
4865. Do you know Constable Beadman? Yes.
4866. Is he in the force now? That I really cannot tell you. I do not look out for them.
4867. Have you seen or had any conversation with any members of the police force during the last month? Conversation about what?
4868. About the Chinese gambling and the appointment of this Commission? No.

- Mr. T. Playfair.
6 Oct., 1891.
4869. Have you had any conversation with any person outside of the police force with regard to this Commission? Well, it is a general matter of conversation with everybody down there.
4870. In any of those conversations has anything transpired of importance. Have you been requested, for instance, to advocate the cause of any of the policemen down there? No; they would not come to ask me to do anything like that. Why should I advocate their cause?
4871. Having regard to your long residence in the locality, they might have asked you to reply as to what you knew of them? One or two did ask me if I had been examined, and I replied that I had not.
4872. You only got your summons to appear about two days ago? Yes.
4873. Have you seen any members of the police force to speak to since then? No. I hope the Commission does not think that I am here in any sense as an advocate of the police. I know and appreciate them as constables, nothing more, and I would not take their part more than anybody else. I have no friends among them.
4874. Have you heard or do you know that the fact of these Chinese places being established in Lower George-street has to a considerable extent raised the rents of properties north of Bridge-street? No, I don't think so.
4875. You do not think it has? No. Lower George-street is not so good a business place as it was thirty years ago—not as to have generally.
4876. Is that in consequence of the advent of the Chinese in that quarter? No; other things have tended to produce the change I speak of. Thirty years ago Lower George-street was the outlet for all the traffic from Balmain, Pyrmont, North Shore, Watson's Bay, and Manly Beach. The people coming in the boats from these places would go to Lower George-street and buy all their goods there, particularly in wet weather. Since then the trade has been either localised by the development of the suburbs, or has been extended to the other end of the city, where so many attractive shops have been established. It is in consequence of all that that the change has taken place.
4877. When the A.S.N. Co. came down there it gave a fillip to business in that quarter, did it not? Yes, it brought some trade certainly, but it did not increase the traffic to any extent, as the people came to and from the steamers in cabs or 'buses.
4878. Did it not tend to increase the rents in the neighbourhood? No; the fact is that those who did come there with the idea of a marked development in trade taking place, were disappointed. Those who came and took houses down there over the heads of other people, at a higher rent, did so under the impression that the A.S.N. Co. being established there would bring the people to that quarter, and so improve it from a business point of view; but it did, as it turned out, and, as I have said, Lower George-street to-day is practically not so good a business place as it was 30 years ago.
4879. Are you down there much at night, Mr. Playfair? No; very little lately.
4880. How many years have you been in Lower George-street? I resided there twenty-six years. I do not live there now.
4881. Up to what year did you reside in Lower George-street? Until 1886.
4882. That is five years ago? Yes.
4883. During the last five years where have you resided? In Darlinghurst Road.
4884. I believe you have lived in Argyle-street for some time? Yes, I lived at my shop twenty years, and in the Argyle House six years.
4885. Are you ever down Lower George-street at night-time now? No, unless it might be on the occasion of a West Sydney election, or that sort of thing.
4886. You are not much there on Saturday either? No; my son does the business there.
4887. I suppose you have had conversations with some of the Chinese down there occasionally? Not much. I only know a few of the merchants, such as I have already mentioned.
4888. Do they not buy their meat from your shop? No; they do not buy any meat from white men, they buy from their own countrymen.
4889. Did you read the statements which appeared in the papers lately, with regard to the Chinese in Lower George-street—particularly the statements made by the deputation which waited upon the Premier on that subject, in July last? I did read some of them, but I forget what they were about.
4890. If it was stated that the Chinese in that part of the city made themselves such a nuisance that ladies would not pass there, that the business of bona fide shopkeepers was seriously affected, and that trade had greatly fallen off, as compared with five years ago, would you think that a highly-coloured statement? Yes, I should think it was, certainly.
4891. Supposing one of your shops were empty now would you not get more rent for it now than you would have got five years ago? No.
4892. Suppose you let it for a gambling-house do you think you would get more? I have had no transactions with those places. In the first place I would not let one of my shops to a gambling-house keeper. I cannot give you an idea whether they pay more than other people. I may say that there is not much shopping, in the ordinary sense, down there; most of the trade is with butchers, bakers, oilskin and tarpaulin makers. No large fancy shops thrive by the shipping trade, which is the principal trade down there. You may gather an idea of the state of things down there from the experience of Mr. Beale, who has four shops in Lower George-street. He paid a big price for a property, and determined to clear the Chinese out, do up the houses, and make them attractive as business places, in the hope of securing European tenants, and thus improving the neighbourhood. The consequence was that he had those four shops empty for six months.
4893. He could not let them to Europeans? No; and at last he let them to Chinamen again, after keeping them empty for six months.
4894. Is it likely, in your opinion, that Mr. Beale refused to let shops to European tenants? No. On the contrary he refused Chinese tenants, and cleared them all out.
4895. What rent does he get for those houses do you know? That I cannot say. They are nearly new houses, and stand opposite to On Chong's. But they remained empty, as I have said, for six months, simply for the reason that there is no outlet from Lower George-street. At Miller's Point, for instance, the people have shops near to them, and the same with Dawes' Point.
4896. Shops extend from George-street to Miller's Point, and that affects the George-street business? Yes; and the people like to go up town and do their shopping at Hordern's and other places.
4897. Would they not go there 10 or 15 years ago? Yes, they did so then. The butchers and bakers do

- the big trade down Lower George-street. But the working man, and particularly their wives, like very much to take a walk up-town and buy for themselves whatever they may want; in other respects the ordinary weekly supplies they obtain close by, or near to their own dwellings. There is no scope for retail trade down there. The only safe investment is in large stores in that locality.
4898. Who was in charge of that division prior to Inspector Atwill? Mr. Johnson, I believe.
4899. Where is he now? He is retired.
4900. Has he made his fortune? I do not think so.
4901. What is his age? He is over 60 years of age.
4902. Is he in receipt of a pension? Yes. He was a great many years in the service.
4903. Can you assist the Commission in any way in tracing acts of bribery on the part either of Chinese or Europeans with a view of influencing the police to wink at Chinese gambling in Lower George-street? No; I have never heard of such a thing. I have never heard that there was any suspicion of bribery as regards the police; and I think it could hardly be kept secret, where you have to deal with a large body of men. Something would be sure to crop out. In the case of a body of men like that they are the best detectives of themselves.
4904. Do you think, yourself, that the police must have been bribed, seeing that this gambling has been carried on so long, almost if not quite openly, without interruption? I do not think so. That is my opinion. Considering the body of men there, surely something would have slipped out among them if there had been anything of the kind going on. At the same time you must understand there might have been a bribe without my knowing it.
4905. In your opinion, for bribing to have been effectual, must it not have been general among the police patrolling Lower George-street? I cannot give an opinion like that.
4906. Well, let me put it in another way. Supposing you and I were members of the police force, one being on duty during the day, and the other being on night duty, for bribery to be effectual in our case—that is, on our beat—would it not be necessary that we should both be bribed as regards the day and night? Certainly they would have to bribe the whole lot.
4907. Then you think the bribing, if such there was, must have been general? Yes, I think so.
4908. The constable would report to his superior officers, and the latter would be to blame if he did not take action? Yes, they would certainly have to bribe the whole lot, and the Chinese are pretty wide awake, they would not pick one man out of a crowd.
4909. You are a keen man of the world, Mr. Playfair; do you know of any policeman, either in the force or having left it, reported to be rich? No, I do not know of any such.
4910. You do not know of any? No.
4911. This Mr. Atwill, who has been on duty in Lower George-street ten years, is he a man of means, do you know? I should not think so.
4912. Do you know if he owns any property? I do not.
4913. Does he own the house he lives in? I cannot say that. I have always looked upon Inspector Atwill as a man of small means.
4914. Has he a large family? Yes. I may say at once that I never heard any rumour or intimation whatever that Inspector Atwill was a wealthy man.
4915. Have you, in the capacity of Mayor of the city, ever made any visitations to the opium-dens in any part of the city? When I was Mayor I visited a number of places, which I condemned.
4916. In what part of the city? All over the city. We condemned some horrible places in the northern end of the city. I could never have believed that any human being would or could live in such places. I was told at the time that they were used as gambling-houses. All I can say is, that if any white man went into such dens as those to win money he deserved to lose it. I should think they would lose their lives if they stopped there long. I never saw such places as those we condemned. The stench was something abominable. They have been pulled down long ago—the same year they were condemned, I believe.
4917. Was there much overcrowding in the houses you condemned? I only went into the houses recommended to me to be condemned. Of course I know gambling is carried on to a large extent in Lower George-street—every one knows it. I know the case of one man, a tenant of mine, who owed me rent, and who, nevertheless, was earning £4 or £5 a week as a coal-lumper, or something of that kind. He was working for Mr. Daley, stevedore, who told me so. On one occasion I saw him in the street, and his wife pointed him out to me, as he was going towards the Chinamen's. I walked up the street, followed by the woman, and the man, when he saw me, put his hand in his pocket and gave the poor woman £1. He then went away to gamble the money with the Chinamen. He had £4 or £5 that week, but was paying, no one.
4918. Mr. Abigail.] You know gambling is contrary to the law of the land? Yes.
4919. And yet it is known that fan-tan is carried on in these places; you know that? I only know it from hearsay. They keep it very quiet.
4920. Do you think the fact of these Chinese congregating in the dens of Lower George-street is degrading or demoralising to the whole of the locality? Oh, certainly. If we could get rid of them it would be a good thing. They do not improve the locality, that is certain.
4921. You know, I suppose, that a large number of the places down there carry on no legitimate business whatever, so far as appearances are concerned? I cannot say from personal knowledge; but I know that you will see nobody in the place, except perhaps, one man standing at the door; and it stands to reason that there must be something going on to keep them going.
4922. And in some instances they keep their shutters up like the houses represented in the photographs produced? Yes. As a business man you would not think that was a reasonable mode of doing business, or one likely to succeed; in a word, they could scarcely carry on a legitimate trade in that way? Well, you would think not—that is from a European's point of view; but then the Chinese have a peculiar way of doing business. For instance, On Chong does an enormous business, and yet he shows nothing at all, or scarcely anything at all in his place.
4923. Does he not show merchandise in his window? I do not think so. Chinese merchants do not put much in their windows. Gee Hick does a large business; but he follows the usual style of Chinamen so far as stocking the windows is concerned.
4924. We have been informed that 25 out of the 32 or 33 Chinese houses down there have no business but gambling; can you say whether that is the case? That you can only tell by experience. As you go by these places everything seems very quiet, and it is very hard to tell what business they do. Of course, there is no doubt but that these places are gambling-houses.

Mr.
T. Playfair.

4925. Are we to understand that from your experience of them they are quiet people down there? As a general rule they appear so from the outside. You may see one of them standing in the shop there, looking as if butter would not melt in his mouth.

4926. Have you heard of any disturbances taking place in these gambling-dens? No. They may happen of course, for I am away a great deal.

4927. Would you like to see the gambling suppressed, Mr. Playfair? Yes; I would be glad to see them cleared out of the neighbourhood altogether.

4928. You stated something about the sanitary condition of places in that part of the town—something about bad smells, and so forth? Yes, that was in regard to the places I condemned during my mayoralty.

4929. Have you noticed any smells emanating from the Chinese shops in Lower George-street? Yes; I have noticed the smells peculiar to Chinese establishments—it is a kind of mixture of bad cigars and opium.

4930. Mr. McKillop.] Is it not a fact that some of the rents in the locality are much higher than they were formerly? On the northern side of Argyle-street they are.

4931. But towards Hunter-street, or between Church-hill and Gallows-hill? I cannot tell you about that.

4932. On the northern part of George-street you say the rents are higher? Yes. A lot of property has changed hands there, and the rents have risen from 35s. to £3 and £4.

4933. You say Sergeant Higgins has property in Playfair-street. Has he not several houses in Cumberland-street? No. He has property in Gloucester-street, alongside the steps—he has one house there.

4934. That is not the property you alluded to previously? No. That is in Playfair-street.

4935. You do not know how he acquired the property in Gloucester-street? No.

4936. You know Felton and Nock? Yes.

4937. How long have you known Felton and Nock to be located in Lower George-street? I have known Mr. Felton longer than Nock.

4938. How long has Mr. Felton been there? He has been a long time down there. He is over at the North Shore now, I think. I never knew Mr. Nock personally.

4939. Then, if it has been stated by several persons in evidence here that business men in Lower George-street do not do the trade there now that they formerly did, that would not be the fact according to your statement? Well, I cannot go so far as to say that.

4940. Do you think they do the same amount of business there now that they did in years gone by? It is impossible for me to tell you that.

4941. Were you on intimate terms with Mr. Felton? Yes; I knew him very well.

4942. Did he do a large business? Yes; when I knew him first he did a pretty extensive business everywhere—extending to the North Shore and other places. Then he started a house in North Sydney himself. That might have taken part of his business away, but this is only supposition. I know nothing about his private business.

4943. How long is it since Mr. Felton left off taking a practical interest in the George-street shop? Several years, I think.

4944. At the time you have been speaking of he had only one shop? Yes.

4945. They—that is Felton and Nock—have two shops now in that locality, have they not? Not that I am aware of. Their place is right opposite Gallows-hill.

4946. You have referred to the case of a coal-lumper who spent his earnings, some £4 or £5 a week, in a gambling-den. Do coal lumpers average £5 a week? No; I should say they could not average that. I only told you what Mr. Daly stated to me.

4947. You do not know what the average earnings would be? Well they could not all earn £5 a week. As I have said, in this case I only went by Mr. Daly's statement, and what the man's wife told me.

4948. Are there any other cases within your knowledge where men, being in your debt, not only as to rent, but for goods from your shop and other things, have been unable to pay you what they owe through their gambling propensities? I have been told indirectly that has been the cause of it; and I have known men to be earning good wages who would not pay anybody. I am a bad landlord in one way—I never put the bailiffs in; if the tenants will not pay I simply turn them out.

4949. Regarding these Chinese gaming-houses, if the same amount of gambling had been carried on in the same open manner by Europeans, without any check being put upon their operations by the proper authorities, would you not think or have some suspicion that there was something rotten in the administration of the police force somewhere? Well, you see it is difficult to consider the two cases in the same light. Where Europeans gamble it is done more openly. The Chinese, on the other hand, are exceedingly cunning. I can only speak of their gambling from hearsay.

4950. Are you aware that there are notices, in writing, placed outside a number of these Chinese gambling-shops, announcing that gambling is carried on night and day? Notices in Chinese writing, do you mean?

4951. Yes? No; I did not know they went as far as that.

4952. Are you aware that the Government employ a Chinese interpreter? Yes.

4953. Therefore it would be easy to ascertain through an interpreter what these notices signify? Certainly. I tell you, gentlemen, I have been surprised myself that this gambling has not been put down. I have long ago thought that something must be wrong. But then, as I have said, I suppose that people who patronise these places assist the Chinese to escape detection.

4954. You have stated that you do not see people going in and out of these Chinese houses the same as they would in the case of an ordinary place of business. Is it not a fact that you have heard on good authority that people walk in and out of these places for the purpose of gambling, and that quite openly? Yes; it certainly is common talk down there, that gambling is carried on in these places to a very large extent.

4955. And with impunity? Yes.

4956. Now, if the same were carried on by Europeans in like manner, would not the police have stepped in long ago and put a stop to it? Yes. But, as I have said, the Chinamen keep it as quiet as they can, and are evidently assisted by the people who go to their places. For instance, I go by there several times

Mr.
T. Playfair.
6 Oct., 1891.

- times a day, and I never see a body of white men going in at one time. On the other hand, look at the tote-shops kept by Europeans. You will see a number of men always congregated about the doors.
4957. But is it not a fact that this congregation of people outside the tote-shops has only taken place since the police prosecutions against the running of totes inside were instituted; did they not previously carry on the game inside? Well, I am not a good authority on the subject. I have never gambled in my life.
4958. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say there are a number of Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? I do not say so from my own personal experience. I only go by what I have heard.
4959. Can you form any idea how it is they are allowed to carry on so freely down there? I cannot tell that; it is because they are not caught, I suppose.
4960. Well, do you think the police do their duty in that respect? I have never heard any complaints against them. I believe the white men who visit those places assist the Chinese to keep it quiet.
4961. Is there much of it going on at night-time? I cannot answer for the night-time; I am only there in the day-time; and you may see people standing about there occasionally, but you cannot tell whether they go in to buy anything or not. As I have said, I believe the white men assist to keep the game secret.
4962. Do you think the respectable Chinese assist the gamblers? I cannot say. I have no reason to think so.
4963. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you ever had any of your houses occupied by Chinese? Yes, one of them. I bought it while a Chinaman was occupying it; but as soon as his lease was up I cleared him out.
4964. Have you ever had a bonus offered you to let one of your houses in Lower George-street or its vicinity? No.
4965. If it has been stated that a bonus has been offered to different landlords down there to let houses to Chinese at a higher rate than European tenants pay, would that be true, do you think? I do not think so. My opinion is that the Chinese are pretty cunning fellows. They would rather wait till a landlord had his house a long time empty, and then would go and make an offer to get it cheaper. I think they are far too cunning to give a bonus.
4966. Then you think if any person living in that district has stated that it is almost impossible to obtain a house down there, on account of the high prices asked for rent, that such statement is exaggerated? Yes; I think so, certainly. When we have the fact that houses have stood empty there for a long time—in Argyle-street, or any other part, when a house has been empty for some time, a Chinaman, who has been waiting his opportunity to get the place, will make an offer, and the landlord, tired of keeping his house empty, will let it to him. That is the way I have looked at it.
4967. You have frequently seen a house empty for months down there? Yes, there is one there now.
4968. From your knowledge of the Chinese character, you do not think it likely that while there are empty houses about they would offer a bonus of £100 or £200 to get into one? No; I think they are the wrong marks for that sort of thing.
4969. You have referred to Mr. Beale's buildings, and I think you said it was his original intention not to let the shops to Chinese? They were occupied by Chinese at the time.
4970. And did he give them notice to quit? Yes.
4971. Intending to let them only to Europeans afterwards? Yes. He had them done up at great expense, with marble slabs outside, and so forth.
4972. This object was to make them generally attractive and suitable for European occupation? Yes; but he could not let them, and they remained empty for some months.
4973. And at last he had to let them to the Chinese? Yes.
4974. Do you know what rent he receives for the shops? No, I cannot tell you what the rent is.
4975. Among the statements made by members of the deputation that waited on the Premier in regard to the Chinese gambling evil, was one to the effect that ladies could not pass along Lower George-street without being insulted. Have you any opinion to offer upon that; or do you know if it is true? I have no personal knowledge of any such thing. There might have been some particular case, but it is a question of proof. It might be true.
4976. You have a daughter, Mr. Playfair? Yes.
4977. I presume she used to have occasion to pass up and down George-street, when you lived in that locality. Was she ever insulted by any of the Chinese there? No.
4978. You would have heard of such a thing had it occurred? Naturally. But my daughter would not go out unattended there in the evening, and ladies would not be likely to be insulted, having a gentleman to escort them. Besides I have not lived there for three years.
4979. Is it true, that several ladies came to you for succour on one occasion? No.
4980. So you think the statement that ladies could not pass along George-street, without being insulted, is an exaggerated statement, if not untrue? I would not like to say that; some persons might have seen it.
4981. Have you ever heard of a case of the kind? No, I never heard of such a thing.
4982. So the percentage of gambling is now greater than it was about three years ago? That I cannot say. I should say there was just as much then as now, but you hear more about it now.
4983. Was the Anti-Chinese Gambling League in existence while you were member for that district? No.
4984. Were you asked to use your influence in the matter? No. But I tried myself, and brought the matter before the City Council.
4985. Did it ever strike you that there was no necessity for this wonderful stir among the residents of Lower George-street, for the suppression of gambling among the Chinese? I cannot say that there was not. Because there are many hard working labouring men who spend all their money in these gambling-dens. If you can drive out the gambling-dens do so. But sometimes I blame the white men as much as the Chinamen, for they assist them to carry on, and we know that if they could boycott the Chinamen as competitors in the fields of labour, there would very soon be no Chinamen here.
4986. Have you ever suffered much from bad debts, owing to your customers spending their money in the gambling-houses? Well, I have more about it lately than ever I did before.
4987. Has it been your experience in the past that you lost much in that way? I have made bad debts in the cases of a few men. I have three or four houses for which I did not get paid for twelve months. But I do not know that those men gambled their money away. I think the strike had a great deal to do with it.

- Mr. T. Playfair.
6 Oct., 1891.
- 4987 $\frac{1}{2}$. As a landlord or a business man do you think you have lost much money through the existence of these Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street? No. I have not looked upon it that my business has been greatly affected by the Chinese gambling-shops.
4988. Do you think there is likely to be any truth in the statement as to the police receiving bribes of diamond rings or other articles of jewellery from the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-shops? All I can say is, that I have never heard of such a thing.
4989. You think that if there was any truth in the statements, you would have heard something of it? Well I think it stands to reason, seeing that I have lived within a few doors of the watch-house, especially where there is a body of men always stationed there—you would think it would leak out somehow. That is the common experience in such cases, I think.
4990. Have you ever found the Chinese liberal in the matter of making presents? No. They may sometimes give away a jar of ginger to show a neighbourly feeling, but nothing more, so far as I know.
4991. You have never known them to make a present beyond that in value to any one that you have come in contact with? No, I have never known of them being liberal. It has always been the other—they are too cunning to give much away.
4992. You are in Lower George-street every day, I suppose? Nearly so, with very few exceptions.
4993. Do you remember the visit of the Commission to Lower George-street lately? I saw about it in the papers.
4994. Do you know Inspector Atwill intimately? Oh, yes. I have known him for twenty years.
4995. If you meet him in the street you speak to him? Yes.
4996. Do you think he is a man capable of accepting a bribe to induce him to be more lenient in the execution of his ordinary duties as Inspector of Police? No. On the contrary, I have always looked upon Inspector Atwill as a strict man.
4997. Do you think he would be incapable of receiving a bribe? Yes, I should say so. In matters of that kind you will find out more by experience what a man is like, and as I have said, I have always found Inspector Atwill to be rather a strict man. For instance, men get into trouble sometimes, and they will come to the representatives of their district to get them out of it. I do not mean for any serious breaches of the law, but some small matters. In such cases occasionally I have gone to Inspector Atwill, and spoken to him, and I have always found him a very strict man indeed.
4998. Instead of being over-lenient you think he is very severe? He is very strict in carrying out his duty, always, in my experience.
4999. So that any statement which may have been made to the contrary, you would characterise as exaggerated, or contrary to fact, so far as your experience has gone? I would not answer for any other statement, one way or the other.
5000. You never met with any man who has stated to you that he ever gave a bribe, or knew of a bribe being given to Inspector Atwill, or any other member of the police force? No.
5001. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know Sergeant M'Intosh? Yes, I knew him when he was in charge there.
5002. Do you remember any particular raid he made in the district? I forget now. I know he was a smart officer.
5003. Do you know if there was less gambling in Lower George-street then than now? No; I do not know anything about it.
5004. What is your opinion of the morals of the Chinese down there? Well, I have no chance of studying that, but I do not believe they are a very moral class of people, so far as I know.
5005. Do you know if there is much prostitution carried on down there? That I cannot say. Of course I have heard reports of girls being found there. I hope the Commission will not think me in favour of keeping the Chinese in Lower George-street. They are by no means a desirable class of people to have in a main street of the city. But then again they would be just as bad in a back street. In fact it is a question whether there is not an advantage in having them in Lower George-street in one respect, for you can see better what they are doing than if you had them in small back lanes.
5006. You stated a little while ago that you knew these places were frequented by working men. Have you not also heard of a large number of respectable people going into these Chinese gambling-dens? Yes; I have heard so. I know when I saw the accounts of the Police Courts proceedings in connection with the late raid, and saw that a number of young fellows whom I knew to be respectably connected had been there, I was rather surprised.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Henry Davies called and examined:—

- Mr. H. Davies.
6 Oct., 1891.
5007. Mr. Abigail.] Where do you live, Mr. Davies? At No. 1, Gloucester-street.
5008. Do you keep the "Oriental Hotel"? No; I keep the "Mercantile Rowing Club Hotel."
5009. How long have you lived in that part of the city? About thirteen years.
5010. Have you always occupied the same position? Within 100 yards of it.
5011. Then you have a very tolerable knowledge of what is going on in that particular neighbourhood? Yes, a very fair knowledge.
5012. You know that this Commission has been appointed to deal with the matter of Chinese gambling? Yes.
5013. We want you if you can to assist the Commission with any information that may be useful to the purposes of this investigation. In the first place, were you a member of the deputation that waited on the Colonial Secretary? No.
5014. I suppose you read an account of the statements that were made on that occasion? I did.
5015. Certain members of the deputation made statements as to the bribery of the police? Yes.
5016. Do you know anything of a definite character that would support such a statement? No, decidedly not.
5017. Have you heard anything definite with regard to bribery of the police? No, never in my life.
5018. Do you know the members of the police force in that district? I do.
5019. Do you know Inspector Atwill? Yes, I did know him well.

5020.

5020. How long have you known him? Before he was inspector—when he was up the mountains, years ago. Mr. H. Davies.
6 Oct., 1891.
5021. Do you think he is a man of property? I should think he was. If he is not, he ought to be. A man in his position should have money or property. He does not live up to his means I should say.
5022. You think out of his salary he ought to have accumulated wealth? Most decidedly. Unless he accumulates property, what is the good of the position he holds. It is only natural to suppose that a man would.
5023. From your knowledge of Mr. Atwill, if it has been stated that his acquirement of property is the result of bribes given him for overlooking the Chinese gambling, is that correct do you think? No; I should think it very unlikely indeed from what I have seen of him. I have had no favours from Inspector Atwill. I have been summoned by him. I am a law abiding citizen, so far as I can possibly be within my calling. Still I have to break the law sometimes on Sunday, and I have been caught and fined, but I have no grudge against Mr. Atwill on that account.
5024. You believe he conscientiously discharges the duties of his office? Yes; I do not think there is a man in Sydney, so far as I know him, that does his duty more honestly.
5025. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? Yes.
5026. How long have you known him? About sixteen or seventeen years.
5027. What sort of a man is he? I have always found him very diligent in the discharge of his duty. He arrested me once.
5028. Do you know if he is a man of property? Yes.
5029. He possesses property? Yes.
5030. Do you know how he acquired his property? Well, by being a steady, saving man, I suppose, and having an industrious wife to look after it. It is natural that a man of his position and years should acquire property for his family. He never spent 5s. in his life since I have known him, so to speak.
5031. Have you ever heard of him receiving bribes or presents of any kind? No, and I do not think he would, from what I know of him. I know that I offered him something on one occasion—not as a bribe, but to do something for me—and he told me that if he received anything it must go through the Inspector-General of Police.
5032. Do you think he would take a bribe from one of these Chinese gambling-houses? No, I do not think he would stoop to take it from anyone.
5033. Do you know, or have you heard of any member of the police force receiving any presents of watches chains, or jewellery, such as diamond rings, from any one in that part of George-street? Not as bribes, certainly. I know Sergeant Dawson received a present of some kind some time ago.
5034. The presentation in that case was publicly made, I think? Yes.
5035. My questions have relation to matters on a different footing to that. In connection with our investigation into the matter of Chinese gambling in the lower part of George-street, we have to consider certain charges which have been levelled at the police, and our object accordingly is to elicit information that will sustain or refute those charges. Hence the questions I have been putting to you on the subject? All I can say is, that I know nothing of the kind, and I think those people who say these things should be made to prove who gave the presents, or said that they were made, so that it could be proved or disproved. For instance, it might be all very well to say, “You have had so-and-so given to you, and you had no right to receive it.” But no one has any right to say that unless they can prove it. The members of the League should be the ones to prove these statements.
5036. Mr. Hawthorne.] Are you not referring to members of the deputation? Yes.
5037. Mr. Abigail.] I am asking you these questions because we are dependent upon the evidence of those who have lived a long time in the locality? Well, I have given you my opinion, and that has been entirely without prejudice. I have been summoned by them for selling after hours, but I have nothing to say against the police.
5038. You know nothing to justify the statement that they have received bribes for winking at the existence of these gambling-dens? No, I do not.
5039. And, of course, you have a good knowledge of what is going on in that part of the town? Yes, a fairly good knowledge.
5040. Are there a large number of Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street? About twenty or thirty.
5041. Do any of those places carry on legitimate business? No, I do not think they do.
5042. You think most of them carry on gambling and nothing else? Yes.
5043. And is that carried on in an open manner, so that anybody may see what is going on? No, it is not. I cannot get in there.
5044. You could not get in one of these places if you tried? No, because I am not known. The Chinese are just as clever as other people. They only admit such as are always going there, and who, consequently, are well known to them.
5045. Do they never let in any one whom they do not know? No.
5046. Have you ever tried personally? Yes.
5047. And you have been refused? Yes.
5048. Was that recently, or some time ago? It was about eighteen months or two years ago.
5049. Have you tried to enter one of these places recently? No.
5050. What object had you in trying to visit one of these places some time ago? Simply to see how the game went. I have played a bit at the box myself, but it was no good. You cannot enter there without being known. It is just the same in European betting clubs. You cannot get into a certain room in Tattersall's without being known.
5051. Have you remarked that most of these places have white paper notices posted outside? Yes.
5052. Have you ever taken the trouble to ascertain what those notices mean? No.
5053. Would you be surprised to learn that those notices announce that fan-tan is carried on there day and night? No, I would not be surprised after what I have seen in that place next to the “Exchange Hotel,” where the police made the raid some time ago. These places are so arranged inside as to make it very difficult to effect an entrance suddenly. The number of doors is quite confusing, and they are so arranged that escape is easy.
5054. Everybody down there knows that gambling is carried on in these places, I suppose? I suppose so.
- 5055.

- Mr. H. Davies. 5055. And that it is contrary to law? Yes; everybody knows that it is contrary to law, just the same as everybody knows that Sunday-selling is contrary to law, but the thing is to catch them. It is all very well to say, "Go and do this or that," but it is another thing to do it.
- 6 Oct., 1891. 5056. You think that the Chinese are more clever than the police? I think they know quite enough. You know very well yourself that if you carry on an illegitimate trade—an illicit still, for example—you would try to work it as quietly as possible, and have the place barricaded so that nobody could get in, if possible. I may say that I was one of those asked to wait on the Premier in connection with the deputation, but I thought it was out of place.
5057. You thought they should have made an effort to prove the charges which were made on that occasion before making statements of the kind regarding the character of a body of men? Yes. They should certainly have done so before making charges against a body of men like we have in the police force here.
5058. Have you noticed young people going in and out of these gambling-shops all day long, Mr. Davies? In the afternoon I have noticed them.
5059. Have you remarked any young girls? No.
5060. What is your opinion as to the influence of the Chinese in Lower George-street upon the surrounding neighbourhood—do you think it is of a demoralising character? I do; and I believe if the citizens would assist the police it would be easy to suppress them.
5061. How do you mean? Let them assist the police to get into these places. It could easily be managed, for the police being once inside would not arrest those who were in their confidence.
5062. If we have been told that anybody can pass in and out of these gambling-places without let or hindrance, is that correct? No; you have been told a falsehood.
5063. That is your opinion? I am sure of it. I have tried myself, and could not get in.
5064. Have you any knowledge of the extent of the losses or winnings in these places? I have known men to go there and gamble their whole week's wages away, and then come to borrow a £1 to give to their wives.
5065. Have you known many such cases? Yes; several. If they want to suppress the gambling, the citizens will have to go and assist the police—it can soon be suppressed if they do that.
5066. Do you think the law is sufficiently stringent? I am sure it is not. You can go and buy one of those tickets any time, and the law cannot touch you.
5067. It is not contrary to law? No; or if it is the law does not touch them.
5068. Mr. McKillop.] Are you sure that it is not illegal? I would not say that, but I know that the law would not touch them for it. I have tried it to find out for myself.
5069. Do you know anything about the sanitary condition of these places? I know nothing about that.
5070. Have you heard that the people who keep these gambling-houses pay excessively high rents? I believe they do.
5071. Have you heard of any of them giving bonuses to landlords to secure possession of houses down there? I have heard so, but I know nothing of it personally.
5072. Mr. Abigail.] Have you any information whatever that would support the statements which have been made to the effect that any of the police referred to—namely, Inspector Atwill, Sergeant Higgins, Dawson, Macintosh, or Constable Adair, or others, have been bribed at any time by the Chinese who keep these gambling-houses? No. I have lived as a neighbour alongside Constable Adair for some years, and a more straightforward and honest man I never had dealings with. The same with Sergeant Higgins. As to his having some property, why should he not have it. He has been in the service thirty years, and bought land when it was cheap. When a man raises a family he naturally puts by for a future day, unless he is a mere brute, and nothing else.
5073. Did you ever hear about a book-case being presented to Inspector Atwill? No.
5074. Or that chests of tea were sent to his place at any time? No.
5075. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did ever you hear of the police in your district being presented with articles of jewellery or furniture of any kind? No; never. Only in the case of Mr. Dawson, to which I have referred.
5076. How long have you been in business in Sydney? I have been in business in Sydney for twenty-two years.
5077. How long have you been in business in Lower George-street? In that district I have been in business thirteen years.
5078. How many times during the last five or six years have you been fined for breaches of the licensing law? Twice, I think.
5079. Was that for Sunday selling? Yes.
5080. Do you find the police in that district particularly strict? Yes; rather too strict. You must imagine I find them strict when I tell you that I keep watch at my door all day long on Sunday, and when I see a policeman coming I shut my door, or when I see a stranger coming I shut the door also.
5081. Then we are to infer from your answers that you are in the habit of breaking the law? Yes.
5082. Have you, since you received your notice to attend here, been in communication with, or have you had any conversation with any member of the police force? No.
5083. You have had no conversation with any member of the police stationed in that district? No. I have not spoken to one of them since.
5084. Have you had any conversation with Inspector Atwill, or any of his men since this Commission started? No.
5085. Mr. McKillop.] Are you a registered bookmaker, Mr. Davies? What has that got to do with the question?
5086. I am asking you the question, whether you are or not a registered bookmaker, and I must trouble you to answer yes or no? I am not going to answer it.
5087. I must refer to you, Mr. President.
5088. President.] It will be necessary for you to answer that question. I see no reason why you should object to it.
5089. Witness.] I refused to answer the question because it has nothing to do with what I came here to give evidence upon.
5090. When a witness comes here to give evidence, he has to be examined as to his calling. You will therefore answer the question, yes or no? I was registered, but I have given over betting. 5091.

Mr. H.
Davies.
6 Oct., 1891.

5089. Now, if the same amount of gambling were carried on by Europeans running totes, in the same open manner, do you not think the police would have stepped in long ago and stopped it? Well, I think there is just as much carried on by Europeans, and, so far as the totes are concerned, if you understood it, there is not a bigger system of robbery in existence in Sydney. These totes are the biggest swindles ever known in the world.

5090. Is it not a fact that the police are continually making raids upon the totes? Yes. But they are hard to get at. And you know that the Chinese are still more difficult to deal with, because their language is different. But with regard to the totes, they are the biggest swindles in the Australian Colonies. I believe George Adams' consultations are conducted legitimately, but the smaller ones are nothing but gross swindles from start to finish.

5091. Your place is situated at the Dawes' Point end of George-street? Yes.

5092. Therefore you are in a position to see what is going on, and you can see the people going in to these places? Yes.

5093. You have said that only those persons who are well known are allowed to enter these places? Yes. If you are not known to them they will not allow you to go in.

5094. What class of people mostly frequent these places? All sorts—working men, young clerks, and civil servants. You could tell that from the persons who were found there on the occasion of the late raid. There was Mr. Oliff's son, who put the advertisement in the paper to say it was the first time he had been there. I wanted the League to take it up, and prove that he had been there dozens of times.

5095. Do you know of your own knowledge that the keepers of these Chinese gambling-houses make large sums of money? I have heard that they make large fortunes, and go home. I do not know it personally.

5096. Do you know, or have you heard that policemen have walked in and out of these gambling-houses both in plain clothes and in uniform? No, I have not. Nobody could go in there except they were known as frequenters of the place. You can go in and buy lottery tickets.

5097. Do you think if those lottery tickets were similarly marked in English, and the places were run by Europeans, that the police would allow them to proceed without interference? Well, you would be able to get at them sooner than these Chinamen, who are a cunning race of people.

5098. It is a lottery to all intents and purposes? Yes.

5099. And if the same section of paper were marked in English so that you and I could understand it, and it was exposed in the same manner, would not the police swoop down on the place so running a lottery? Yes; I suppose they would.

5100. Do you know anything of the rents that are paid in Lower George-street, Mr. Davies? I cannot say I do.

5101. Do you think they have increased during the last four or five years? I think they did during the last four or five years, but latterly they have been coming down. There is a house next to me which was 2 guineas a week some time ago, and it is now 30s. a week, and they cannot get a tenant for it.

5102. You think rents are decreasing? Yes.

5103. And if anybody has stated that rents are increasing in the neighbourhood, that would not be correct? I cannot say as to places up by Gallows-hill, and in that direction.

5104. We are speaking of George-street North? In George-street North they are decreasing.

5105. Then if anybody states that they are increasing in George-street North, that is not correct? No; it would not be, according to my experience.

5106. What other house have you had? The "Harbour View Hotel."

5107. Did you ever keep the "Oriental"? No; that is another Davies.

5108. You have said that working men have frequently lost their week's wages at these gambling-houses. Have you been a sufferer through such men owing you for refreshments as a consequence? No; I have lent them money when they have gambled away their week's wages, but I have got it back again.

5109. Do you know if it is a fact that respectable females fear going down Lower George-street, because of their liability to insult from the Chinamen there? No.

5110. You have never heard of anything of the kind? No. My wife goes up and down there very often, and I have never heard of her being insulted by any one.

[The witness then withdrew.]

Mr. William Law called and examined:—

5111. President.] Where do you reside, Mr. Law? At No. 113, Gloucester-street.

5112. Are you in business? Yes.

5113. Where is your place of business? No. 236, Lower George-street.

5114. Have you been in business there long? For some months. I am at present managing the business of John Gee & Co.

5115. How long have you been there? About 15 months.

5116. Do you know Mr. Forder? Yes.

5117. Do you remember being in his company the week before last? Yes, I think it was last Monday week.

5118. Where was he on the day when you met him? He was at the business place of my employers.

5119. Was there anybody else with him when you came on the scene? He was in conversation with my brother, who is employed as an assistant in the same office.

5120. Was he acquainted with your brother? No, it was the first time they had met.

5121. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Forder, regarding the Chinese gambling-houses, on that occasion? No, not a word.

5122. On any occasion did you have a conversation with him on that subject? Not until last Saturday.

5123. Will you state the nature of the conversation which then took place? It was touching the evidence given here by my brother, and I expressed some surprise at my brother having given expression to some words concerning a constable in the police force, as I was with him the whole of the afternoon of the same day, and he never said a word to me about it.

5124. Did you deny it in his presence? There was nothing for me to deny.

5125. Mr. McKillop.] What was Mr. Forder's reply to that statement of yours? He said that my brother did say it.

Mr. W. Law.
6 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. W. Law. 5126. On the occasion when you went into the office and found your brother sitting in company with Mr. Forder, did you have any conversation with Mr. Forder? No, not a word.
- 6 Oct., 1891. 5127. Did he state to you that your brother had told him certain things? No.
5128. Do you know of any instance yourself where the police have received presents from any of the Chinese? No.
5129. Did you ever see Mr. Atwill receiving a present from a Chinaman, in the shape of money, near to your place? No.
5130. Did you ever tell Mr. Forder at any time, that you did see such an occurrence? No; I never mentioned anything at all to Mr. Forder, until last Saturday week.
5131. You and Mr. Forder were on intimate terms, were you not? Only so far as meeting one another in the street, and saluting one another. Last Saturday week we dined and spent the evening together, and nothing transpired more than I have said.
5132. Was Mr. Forder sober on the occasion when you saw him in company with your brother? Yes, so far as I know.
5133. Were you sober? Yes.
5134. Did you and he leave the office together? Yes.
5135. You were in his company the whole of the afternoon? Yes, we dined together.
5136. When you parted with Mr. Forder, had he his senses about him? Yes.
5137. Was he perfectly sober? He knew what he was doing.
5138. Did you know what you were doing? Yes, quite.
5139. You have lived in the northern part of George-street a number of years, I suppose? Yes.
5140. Have the Chinese gambling-houses been on the increase during the last four or five years? I am not in a position to say.
5141. Why? Because I have never visited them, or interested myself in them.
5142. Can you read Chinese writing? No.
5143. If you were to see these notices appearing outside the Chinese gambling-houses, such as you see in the photographs before you, would you know what they meant? No; I could not read the characters.
5144. Have you never had them explained to you? No.
5145. And your curiosity never led you to inquire? No.
5146. You know, I suppose, that gambling is carried on there? Yes. I simply know they do exist, and I see people go in and out as I pass by.
5147. Are those you see Chinese or Europeans? Chinese.
5148. Have you noticed any Europeans going in there? I have noticed some Europeans going in occasionally.
5149. Have you ever noticed any riots or rows taking place in that locality? I have known of rows there—yes.
5150. Of what character were they? Oh, rows among seafaring men.
5151. Did they arise out of gambling transactions, do you know? That I cannot tell you.
5152. Do you know the house kept by Pun Num—it is shown on the photograph? Yes, I have seen the place.
5153. Do you think, as a man of the world, that these people carry on a legitimate business? I am not in a position to say.
5154. You must surely be in a position to say; you go to your business there daily, and as a man of common sense you must know whether they carry on a legitimate or not? I have never had occasion to ask or to visit the place.
5155. But from your own observation—I daresay you scrutinise these places from the outside? I never trouble myself about them.
5156. You pass them by, do you not? Yes.
5157. And yet you do not know whether they carry on a legitimate business or not? No.
5158. Were you not asked last Friday by a police officer whether you were summoned to appear before the Royal Commission? No.
5159. Have you not been in conversation with anybody relative to the Commission—that is, outside of Forder and your brother? No.
5160. Not with any member or the police force? No.
5161. Who was it asked you about the Commission? I was not asked.
5162. Not by anybody? No.
5163. Are you sure of that? Yes, quite sure.
5164. Do you know if there are a number of houses of ill-fame, kept by Chinamen, on what they call the Rocks? I do not.
5165. You know of none? I know they do exist, but cannot say personally, or from my own knowledge.
5166. I do not mean to say that you frequent them; but men go up and down there;—have you ever seen anything particularly revolting in that connection? No, I have seen nothing of that kind.
5167. Have you received an anonymous letter, threatening you if you should give evidence before this Commission? No.
5168. Are you in favour of the existence of these gambling-dens, Mr. Law? Decidedly not.
5169. You would like to see them abolished? Yes.
5170. Does the existence in these places injure the legitimate trade in that part, to the best of your belief? I am not in a position to say.
5171. Well, does it interfere with your trade? No.
5172. Do you receive any benefit in any way from any of these places? No.
5173. Do you know of any Chinese Sustentation Fund being in existence, where they stop so much from every £ of the winnings in the gambling-dens referred to? No.
5174. As to the Chinese that run these places, do you know any of them personally or by sight? I only know them by sight.
5175. Do you know Moy Ping, who keeps the place where the raid was made? Yes.
5176. Have you had any conversation with him? No; not on the subject of the raid. I meet him occasionally and salute him, that is all.
5177. Do you know Sun Sam Kee? I know Sam Tin or Sun Sam Kee.
5178. Have you had any conversation with him relative to gambling? No.
- 5179.

5179. Where is Sun Sam Kee now? That is the name of the firm. There is no such person as Sun Sam Kee. Mr. W. Law.
5180. Who is the head of the firm? Sam Tin.
5181. Is he in Sydney? Yes.
5182. Do you know the firm of Sun Sam War? I do not.
5183. Are you sure that Sam Tin is the head of the firm of Sun Sam Kee? I would not be sure that he is the head of it, but I know he is connected with it.
5184. Has he the same power that you have as manager of your firm? I cannot say.
5185. Are your powers limited as manager, if so, to what extent? My powers are limited as manager.
5186. The same as the manager of a European business? Quite so.
5187. Is it a practice among the Chinese for the managers to have unlimited power in the conduct of business? I should say not.
5188. Supposing the head of the firms are absent in China? In that case they have parties here to represent them.
5189. And they hold a power of attorney in the same way that European business is conducted? Yes.
5190. Do you know anything of any respectable females being insulted going up and down George-street, Mr. Law? No; I have never heard of it.
5191. And you say that at no time have you ever told Mr. Forder anything about Inspector Atwill or any other member of the police force receiving any presents or bribes? Yes; I am quite positive. The only time I had anything to say to him in connection with this Commission was on Saturday week last.
5192. Did you know what paper he represented when you became acquainted with him? Yes.
5193. How long ago is it since you first became acquainted with him? It is about three years.
5194. And was it only on one occasion that you made so free with him as at this time you have told us of, when you made yourself so agreeable? We have generally been sociable when we have met.
5195. Did Mr. Forder say to you in the course of conversation about this bribery, that it would be advisable for you, as a law abiding citizen, to give the Commission the information you were possessed of, or that it was your duty to do so? I have already explained that no such conversation took place.
5196. I am putting my questions in my own way, and I repeat, did Mr. Forder, on hearing from you that such bribes were received by the police, say to you, "Well, William, as a law-abiding citizen, I consider it is your duty, if you know that these things are carried on, to give some evidence to the Royal Commission on the subject." Did he at any time say that to you? No.
5197. Do you know anything about opium-smoking down there? I know that there is opium-smoking, but I know nothing about it in that locality. I never visit these places.
5198. How many respectable Chinese are there down in that portion of the city? I should say about twenty:—Sun Hing Jang, King Hing Co., Sun Kum Tiy, On Chong, Boo Long, Quing Hing Chong, On Yik and Lee, Sam War, Sam Chong, S. C. S. Dockson, Way, Kee & Co., Tin Wah & Co., Gee Ick, and Ye Sang Loong.
5199. Do you know Mr. Gouldtown? Yes.
5200. Is he a respectable man? I do not know him personally.
5201. Do you know where he is now? I do not.
5202. Have you any idea where he is? I heard that he was in Brisbane.
5203. Do you know who sent him away? No, I do not.
5204. Mr. Quong Tart.] You have given the Commission particulars of the respectable Chinese in Lower George-street. You know also that there are Chinese gamblers down there do you not? Yes.
5205. But you say that you have not been in any of them? No.
5206. Now, I want you to endeavour to tell us what in your opinion is the best way to put down this evil—in the first place have you any idea as to how this gambling can be carried on with so little interference? I can only account for its being carried on to the extent it is by reason of the patronage it receives.
5207. You know it is against the law? Yes.
5208. Then, how is it, do you think, that being against the law, it is carried on to such an extent—do the police not do their duty, or have they not power under the law to stop it? I think the police do their duty as far as I know.
5209. You know that the gambling is carried on openly in the face of complaints from the residents of that part of the city? I do not know of any complaints.
5210. This gambling is against the law, and is still carried on openly, and the people have complained to the Government about that, and the bad sanitary state of some of these premises down there. Now, if the police do their duty, how is it that the gambling is not put a stop to? I cannot answer that.
5211. But you think all these respectable Chinese merchants that you have named would be glad to see it stopped? Yes.
5212. Mr. Hawthorne.] What is your idea in regard to that statement which Mr. Forder has made, that he saw a handful of sovereigns handed to Inspector Atwill by a Chinaman—do you think it was imagination on Mr. Forder's part? I do.
5213. You think your brother never stated that? Yes; I do not think he ever said it.
5214. Were they discussing the Chinese question when you entered the room on that occasion and found them in company together? No; they had been about five minutes together before I arrived.
5215. And they were not discussing it when you entered the room? No.
5216. Did your brother mention to you before this about Inspector Atwill having received money or any other present from a Chinaman? No; I am positive he never did.
5217. You do not know of your own knowledge whether Inspector Atwill, or any other member of the police force, ever received a present of any kind, either from a Chinese merchant or any other person in Lower George-street? No.
5218. You think that Mr. Forder, in making that statement about your brother, was labouring under some hallucination, or, at any rate, that he was stating what was not a fact? I should say so.
5219. I suppose you think if your brother had seen this present made to Mr. Atwill he would have mentioned it to you sometime or other? I think he would have done so, certainly.
5220. You and your brother are frequently together in the same office. Have you ever discussed the appointment

Mr. W. Law. appointment and work of this Commission with your brother? No; except in a casual way exchanging our opinions as to what the outcome of it would be.
 6 Oct., 1891. 5221. And you think that in such casual conversations on the subject he would have mentioned about this matter of Mr. Atwill, if it had taken place as stated? I do. I may mention in regard to the statement of Mr. Forder, that after being in conversation with my brother he was in company with me the whole of the afternoon, and he never mentioned a word to me about this matter.

T. M. Davis, Esq., M.P., recalled and examined:—

T. M. Davis, Esq., M.P. 5222. President.] We understand that you wish to correct a portion of your evidence, Mr. Davis? There is only one matter, and that is with regard to the statement I made about having a drink with Mr. Beadman, and seeing a diamond ring on his finger. I wish to retract that portion of my evidence, because I have discovered since that Beadman is a man of fair complexion, whereas the man I had the drink with, and who had the ring on, was a dark man.
 6 Oct., 1891.

5223. Has Beadman seen you since, or have you acted in this matter entirely on your own motion? It is entirely my own action, taken in justice to the man and myself.

5224. Mr. Hawthorne.] How did you come to discover the difference in the complexion, Mr. Davies? Well, I was speaking to a personal friend of mine who happened to know Beadman some years ago in Balmain, and I mentioned the circumstances of my meeting Beadman, as I thought, and having a drink with him, and also the fact of his having had a diamond ring on his finger at the time. My friend then said that Beadman was not in West Sydney eighteen months ago, and asked me to describe the man I meant. I then told him that the man I had the drink with, and who I understood was Beadman at the time, was a man with a black moustache and small side-whiskers. I told him that I always understood that man was Beadman. He said: "That is not Beadman at all; he is a man of fair complexion—not black, or even dark in any way."

5225. And you have not seen Constable Beadman since? No; but I have spoken to two other friends of mine, who know Beadman, and they corroborated the statement I have just given you. So I thought it was good enough for me to come and say I was wrong. I have not been down at the Police Station or anywhere else to talk to the police since I gave evidence here.

5226. President.] Perhaps you may find out something else about it, Mr. Davies, and then you can let us know, if you will, please? Yes; I know the party I had the drink with—I am perfectly certain of that.

5227. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is the person you mention, who corrected you in regard to the appearance of Beadman, a friend of his? No; the party I have referred to is driving the engine in connection with the electric light at the Town Hall here. He belongs to Balmain and knows Beadman.

5228. If you find out anything more about it, you will let the Commission know? Yes, with pleasure.

[The witness withdrew.]

WEDNESDAY, 7 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

The MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Felton called and examined:—

Mr. Felton. 5231. Mr. McKillop.] Are you in business, Mr. Felton? I am.

5232. In what part of the city? In George-street North.

7 Oct., 1891. 5233. What is the nature of your business? That of an ironmonger.

5234. How long have you been in business in that end of the city? Since 1865.

5235. Are you a partner in the firm of Felton and Nock? I am.

5236. And you have been there for fifteen or sixteen years? Yes; upwards of that.

5237. Do you know the number of Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street now? It would be difficult to know the number of them, there are so many.

5238. Do you think they have been on the increase during the last five years? Yes; very much so.

5239. Has the presence of this evil affected your business prejudicially to any extent, Mr. Felton? It has, very materially.

5240. Will you kindly inform the Commission in what way it has affected your business? It has affected our business, because the traffic there is considerably less than it was; there are not the same number of people passing to and fro.

5241. And you think that the falling off in the passenger traffic of that part of George-street is due to the existence of the large number of gambling-dens in that locality? Decidedly so. That is the opinion I have held for some time.

5242. Has your loss been considerable of late? Yes; very great, the last eighteen months or two years.

5243. Have you enlarged your establishment during the last few years, Mr. Felton? Yes; about six or seven years ago.

5244. Have the rents been on the increase in that portion of the city? Very much.

5245. And has that affected you materially? Of course we have had to pay increased rent.

5246. What rent did you pay for your establishment about five years ago? Our present lease, I think, as far as I can remember, only covers a term of six or seven years.

5247. Well, what was the rent under the old lease? I should explain that it is rather mixed up. Six or seven years ago there was one of these gambling-dens next door to us, and we suffered great annoyance and inconvenience in consequence; so I made up my mind that I would, if possible, get them out of it, and lease the place myself if necessary in order to secure my own tenant. Mr. Merriman owned the premises then, and he was anxious to get these people out. Eventually we succeeded in doing so, and I then leased the place myself.

5248. At an increased rate? Yes, of course. I simply took it for the purpose of getting a respectable tenant. Mr. Felton,
7 Oct., 1891.
5249. What was the amount of the increase in rent? I cannot say what the Chinaman was paying before I took it.
5250. In comparison with your other shop, was the rent higher than you paid before? No; it was a smaller shop, and both are included in the one lease.
5251. You are perfectly sure the rent of this place was increased when you became a tenant? There is no doubt of it. All the vacant shops in the street were snapped up by the Chinamen at once.
5252. Do you think the rents have increased throughout that portion of the city during the last few years? Yes, I think so.
5253. If any one stated that the rents in the locality have decreased of late years would that be correct? No. For years past the rents have been increasing in that locality, and I attribute it to the cause I have stated.
5254. Were you offered a bonus to vacate your premises at any time? No.
5255. Do you know of anyone who was offered a bonus to vacate their premises in favour of Chinese? No; I do not remember anything of the kind.
5256. Have you been residing in Lower George-street of late years? I do not live there. I have another business at North Shore now, and I live there. I come over every week, sometimes three times a week.
5257. I suppose you have a pretty good knowledge of the gambling that is carried on there? It is a matter of common knowledge, I think.
5258. Have you ever known of any females being insulted while passing up and down George-street North? No. I am never there at night.
5259. Well, during the day or afternoon? I cannot say I have.
5260. Have you ever entered one of these gambling-houses, Mr. Felton;—not to gamble, but from curiosity? Never.
5261. Have you remarked people going in and out of these places? Yes; I have seen people going in and out frequently.
5262. Those you saw, I suppose, would be mostly of the working class? Yes; mostly of the working class, and clerks.
5263. Have you ever seen policemen enter these gambling-dens? No; I cannot say I have.
5264. Do you know anything, to your own knowledge, with regard to a policeman having been offered or having received a bribe of any kind? Not the slightest of my own knowledge.
5265. What is your opinion with regard to this gambling evil;—do you not think it should have been put a stop to long ago? Certainly I do.
5266. Have you ever noticed outside these gambling-houses white paper notices in Chinese characters? Yes.
5267. Do you know what those notices signify? No; I have no knowledge of the Chinese language. I tried to learn it some years ago, but did not succeed very well.
5268. And you think if the law had been put in motion down there the gambling could have been suppressed? I think it could have been, certainly.
5269. Do you think if the same amount of gambling had been carried on by Europeans in the same open manner, the police would have stepped in long ago? Yes; I should think it was palpable to any one.
5270. You think there has been neglect on somebody's part? Yes; no doubt.
5271. Mr. Abigail.] You know that gambling is carried on in these places even now during the day and night? Not personally, as I have not been inside to see.
5272. You say that you have seen people going in and out of the houses in question;—what do you infer from that? Well, as they are reputed to be gambling-houses, and as they do not appear to carry on any other business, the only inference is that the people go in to gamble.
5273. The public passing up and down can see evidence of the fact that they are gambling-shops? Yes; from the general outside appearance.
5274. The police, for example, cannot avoid knowing what is carried on there? Of course not. Every one knows: the police and everybody else down there. The only question is whether the police can do anything. Certainly everyone knows.
5275. Supposing that Europeans engaged a number of shops—say twenty or thirty—in Lower George-street, and stuck up notices: “Gambling carried on here day and night,” do you think the police would pass up and down day after day, and take no proceedings against them? They would be exceedingly lax in their duty if they did so.
5276. Then the inference is that they have neglected their duty, or that they have been paid to pass by these places—in other words, to wink at the breach of the law, one or the other? I should be very sorry to say anything about their being paid to avoid doing their duty.
5277. Then you must have come to the other conclusion, that they have neglected their duty? I have always been told that the police cannot interfere with the Chinese gamblers in consequence of their game not coming under the Act.
5278. Who told you that—any member of the force? I have heard it from members of the police force at different times.
5279. The police have told you that this game—fan-tan—is not contrary to the law? That they cannot interfere in consequence of the game not coming under the Act—I do not know the name of the Act exactly. That is the reason they have given me for not being able to interfere with them.
5280. Can you tell us the name of the policeman, or any officer, who made that statement to you? I cannot. I am now speaking of what was told me five or six or seven years ago.
5281. But some member of the force told you that? Yes; several of them.
5282. Do you know Inspector Atwill, Mr. Felton? Yes.
5283. Do you know him intimately? I know him very well. I speak to him every time I meet him.
5284. Do you know how long Mr. Atwill has been in that division? I cannot say—I remember him there years ago.
5285. At all events, he has been there a number of years? Yes.
5286. Is he a man of means, do you know? I do not know anything of his private affairs. I know him simply as the inspector of that division. 5287.

- Mr. Felton. 5287. In your opinion, is he zealous and efficient in the discharge of his official duties? Yes; so far as I know he is an efficient officer.
- 7 Oct., 1891. 5288. Have you ever heard anything as to Inspector Atwill receiving presents from Chinamen of furniture or anything else? I have heard it mentioned, but I know nothing about it of my own knowledge. Therefore I should be very sorry to say anything about it.
5289. Have you had any conversation with any member of the police force recently? No; not for a long time past.
5290. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? Yes; he has been there for a number of years also.
5291. Have you ever heard Sergeant Higgins say anything about Lower George-street being the best beat in the city? No; I have never spoken to him on the subject.
5292. Have you heard any policeman make a statement of that kind? No.
5293. Do you know anything about the immorality carried on in that quarter? No. As I have said, I am not there at night. I come over about 2 o'clock, stay for two or three hours, and go back again.
5294. Are there any Chinamen on the North Shore? Very few.
5295. They have not started any gambling-dens there? No.
- 5295½. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know Goulburn-street and Wexford-street, Mr. Felton? No; I know nothing about those places.
5296. Can you tell me the number of gambling-houses in Lower George-street? No; I cannot give you the number.
5297. Do you know which is the biggest of them? No; I do not know their names.
5298. None at all? No. Some years ago I was pretty intimately acquainted with the more respectable section of the Chinese, but not lately.
5299. Have you any knowledge of the opium-smoking carried on in these gambling-houses? No; I cannot say anything about that, as I have never visited them.
5300. Mr. Hawthorne.] You say you have been twenty-six years in your present premises in Lower George-street? Since 1865.
5301. What rent did you pay when you started there? I had only the one shop at that time.
5302. What rent did you pay then? I think it was £2 10s. per week.
5303. Have you paid the same rent for the shop ever since? No; it has gone on increasing.
5304. What rent did you pay ten years ago? About £3 a week.
5305. What are you paying now? About £6 a week for the one.
5306. You are giving £6 a week for the premises now? No; about £41 a month for the double shop.
5307. But what rent do you pay for the first one? I cannot say that. We hold the two places under one lease now, and pay £41 3s. 4d. a month for the two.
5308. You think, if the Chinamen had not located themselves in that particular part of the city where your business is centered, that the rents would not have increased to the same extent? I am sure of it.
5309. And your business has been injured besides? Yes.
5310. What frontage have you to your premises? About 30 feet, I think.
5311. How do the rents in your immediate neighbourhood compare with the rents on the southern side of Bridge-street, where there are no Chinese residents—do you think they are lower? The rents are much higher further up the town.
5312. There are no Chinese this side of Bridge-street to interfere with the rentals? Certainly not.
5313. Then does it not seem anomalous to say that the presence of the Chinese has caused the rents to go up on one side of Bridge-street, and yet they are very much lower there than they are on the other side of Bridge-street, where there are no Chinese? What I said was, that the rents get higher as you go further up George-street; and in my opinion, if the people on this side of Bridge-street were subject to the same annoyance from the presence of the Chinese as we are, very possibly the rents would be much higher than they are at the present time.
5314. Is it not a fact that there are substantial looking shops in Lower George-street which have been to let for months? I think there are two or three shops almost immediately opposite our place that have been to let for some time. I do not know whether the landlord would let them to Chinamen, but at any rate they are empty.
5315. Does not the fact of their being empty seem to suggest that there is no great demand for houses in that locality? It all depends upon circumstances. For instance, I do not know but what the present agitation may have something to do with it. It is only a matter of opinion.
5316. Is it not a fact that before any agitation of this kind was started Mr. Beale had several shops which were unoccupied for six months, because he would not let them during that time to Chinamen? I am not aware of it.
5317. Do you think, if the Chinese, and with them the gambling evil were removed from Lower George-street, the rents in that locality would be lower than they are at the present time? I certainly think so, for a time, until that end of the town had time to recover itself.
5318. Do you not think that the altered condition of things in Lower George-street has been largely due to the European population having removed from that quarter as a place of residence? There may have been something in that certainly, but if they did shift I should think it was in consequence of the objectionable class of neighbours.
5319. You have lately started a branch store at North Shore, I understand? I have had a store there for a number of years.
5320. Did you do that in consequence of your customers shifting from Lower George-street to North Shore? No; that was not my reason.
5321. The population has largely increased on the North Shore, and I suppose a great number of the residents there who used to deal at places in George-street would now trade with the shops at North Shore;—is that not the case? Not so far as I am concerned; that is, it did not influence me. I cannot remember anyone who lived in Lower George-street having gone to North Shore.
5322. During your long residence in Lower George-street did you know anything definite as to the police having received bribes or presents of any kind from the Chinese residents there? No; I never heard anything of that kind of a definite character.
5323. Do you think there is any truth in the statements which have been made with respect to the police having been bribed? I cannot say at all. I have no reason, from my own knowledge, to think so. I have heard it said, but I should be very sorry to say that I know of it. 5324.

Mr. Felton.
7 Oct., 1891.

5324. Have you, in company, ever met a person who has said that he gave a present to the police; or have you ever met with a policeman who has admitted having received one? No; that is hardly likely.
5325. You think the statement is exaggerated, if not untrue? I would not say, one way or the other.
5326. Were you surprised at the statements made by members of the deputation to the Premier in this connection? I cannot say that I was. I was not surprised at it, because I had heard something of it.
5327. Would you be surprised to learn that your partner had stated that the police had been receiving bribes? No; he has told me so frequently.
5328. Do you think your partner is in a more likely position to receive information of that kind than yourself? Most decidedly, because he is there every hour of the day, and I am there so seldom.
5329. You think Mr. Nock has had more opportunities of mixing up with these gambling-dens than yourself? He has more opportunities of knowing what is going on in the neighbourhood, but I should be very sorry to hear that he was mixed up with them in any way. He is certainly in a position to hear more about it.
5330. Has your partner ever said anything to you on this subject to lead you to believe that the statements as to bribery were founded on fact, or on idle gossip, passing from one to another? I should be sorry to suppose that he would be guilty of idle gossip.
5331. Supposing your partner had said to you that he had heard that the police had received a bribe, you would naturally ask if he had received his information from an authentic source;—you know very well that customers will gossip sometimes when they go into a shop, and they might say, "I have heard that one of the police received a gold watch, or a ring," or something of the kind;—that is what I call idle gossip, and now I want you to tell me if your partner ever said anything to you, or told you anything to lead you to believe that the statements as to bribery were founded on fact? I never heard anything of the kind.
5332. But you say Mr. Nock has often told you that the police received bribes? He has told me that he had good reason to believe such was the case.
5333. That they had received bribes? Yes.
5334. From your knowledge of Mr. Nock, as a sensible business man, do you think when he made the statement that he was speaking from some knowledge, and speaking the truth? Yes, certainly.
5335. Then you must really believe that the police have received bribes? I believe that he was speaking the truth, and that he had reason to believe so.
5336. Then you believe the police received bribes? I believe his statement was true, because he would not say so unless he had reason to believe it was true.
5337. And you think he was in possession of information to warrant him in making that statement? Yes; but what the facts were I cannot say.
5338. Mr. Abigail.] Do you believe the presence of the Chinese, as they exist in Lower George-street, is prejudicial to the social and moral condition of the people in the district? I certainly do, sir.

[The witness withdrew.]

Robert Lee Kum called and examined:—

5339. Mr. Abigail.] Where do you live? I have lived at Gundagai and Tumut; I have two places.
5340. Do you carry on business there? I grow tobacco and run a garden.
5341. How long have you been at Gundagai? About four years.
5342. Do you employ men to work for you? Yes; I employ men to work in the garden.
5343. How many men do you employ? In the summer-time about three generally; in the winter-time none.
5344. Before you lived at Gundagai where did you live? I lived at Hay and Hillston. I was a contractor for scrubbing.
5345. How long ago is it since you resided in Sydney? About twelve years ago.
5346. When you were in business what business did you follow? I was a storekeeper.
5347. And you had a pretty good knowledge of the Chinese gambling-houses I suppose? I know something of them.
5348. Have you visited any number of them? Oh, yes; I came down last November at the request of some merchants to try and stop the gambling. I got two telegrams about it. [Telegrams produced.]
5349. This telegram is addressed to Wong Lee Kum and signed Jack Houng Ying, 64, Wexford-street, Sydney? Yes.
- [Telegram read, as follows: "Come down at once. Particular business. No money for fare. Answer at once."]
5350. What did that refer to;—did you understand what it meant at the time? Not till I came down, and then they told me it was about the gambling.
5351. Whom did you see when you came down to Sydney? I saw nine or ten Chinamen altogether.
5352. Where did you see them? I called at 64, Wexford-street.
5353. Then you saw nine or ten Chinamen there;—and what took place at the meeting? They asked me if I would go to Inspector Mackay and set the law in motion against the Chinese gamblers—take out warrants against them.
5354. Did they indicate any particular places? Yes; 48, Campbell-street, and 52, Goulburn-street.
5355. And what did you say? I said at first, "No;" that I was too busy, as that was the time or season to put the plants in the ground, and that I did not think I had time to do it. They said they would pay me for it. I said I did not care for money, but I said I would be glad to do it as a public duty.
5356. Well, what was done then? After that I went to Inspector Mackay, and he said, "Oh, yes; I know those places; they carry on gambling there."
5357. He told you that he knew they were in the habit of gambling in those places? Yes. He did not seem to take much interest in what I said, so I went to the Inspector-General of Police.
5358. You then went to the Inspector-General of Police;—what took place there? I told him what I had to say, and that I had been to Inspector Mackay. The Inspector-General wrote a few words for me to the Superintendent of Police, and spoke to him through the telephone, making arrangements for me to see him.
5359. And did you see the Superintendent? Yes.

R. Lee Kum.
7 Oct., 1891.

5360.

- R. Lee Kum. 5360. What took place then? The Superintendent wrote a few words on a piece of paper and told me to take it to Inspector Mackay. I took the paper to the Superintendent, who wrote something on the other side of it, and sent me to Inspector Mackay. Inspector Mackay said, "Very well, but I have not time just now," or for a few days, or something to that effect.
7. Oct., 1891. 5361. Do you know what was on the paper you delivered to Mr. Mackay? It was just a few words saying I wanted to see him, I think.
5362. Was it giving instructions to take proceedings against the gamblers? Yes; to take steps to prosecute them. After waiting a few days I called again, and he said he would go with me to have a look into it; but he did not do so. Therefore, I went to the Inspector-General again, and said to him, "I do not think Inspector Mackay takes much notice of what I say, and I do not think he will go with me on this business." The Inspector-General then telephoned to the Superintendent again.
5363. That was the second time you went to the Inspector-General? Yes.
5364. Then as a result of your action and all this correspondence a prosecution arose I suppose;—did they lay any information against any one? Not then. I gave information that gambling was carried on in those places, and about the opium smoking, and the way they blocked up the footpath. Inspector Mackay said to me, "I know all about it, but when we take them in charge they get off again." Then I went to the Inspector-General for the third time, and I met Detective West there. The Inspector-General said, "Won't Mr. Mackay do that for you?" No; I said he talks about it, that is all. Then Detective West said to wait a few days till the Quarter Sessions were over, and he would take the matter up.
5365. Did he do so? Yes; he visited half a dozen places with me.
5366. Name some of the places? We visited 52, Goulburn-street, and 48, Campbell-street.
5367. You visited 52, Goulburn-street first? Yes.
5368. When you visited that place in company with West, were they gambling? Yes; in a small front room upstairs.
5369. Did Detective West see it going on? Yes.
5370. Did they stop gambling when you went in? No; the first time I went in they took no notice. After waiting a few days we went in again.
5371. You made more than one inspection? Yes; we were several days going round.
5372. After visiting 52, Goulburn-street, where did you go? I forget the number of the shop—it is next to a cookshop.
5373. Well, when you went into this second place were they gambling? Yes; there was fan-tan and the lottery tickets too. There were three doors to this place on the ground floor, one in front, and two after others, which lead into a room where Europeans were playing at a table. No Chinamen were allowed to play there. Upstairs there were some Chinamen and Englishmen with the lottery tickets.
5374. Well, after visiting these two places where did you go next? The next night I went in again; but as soon as I went in the Europeans went out.
5375. They evidently knew then that you were there for the purpose of informing against them? Yes.
5376. Then as a result of these visitations with Detective West, were these gamblers brought before the Police Court? We got a warrant out for 48, Campbell-street.
5377. Against how many did you take proceedings? Three Chinamen.
5378. What were their names? Ah Poy, Ching Ah Tong, and Ning Ting.
5379. What were they charged with, playing fan-tan, or the lottery? The lottery, pak-ah-pu. [Lottery ticket produced.]
5380. You bought the ticket? Yes; Mr. West gave me 1s. to buy a ticket.
5381. Well, what was the result of those proceedings? They were committed for trial.
5382. Did you say on that occasion that the bank for carrying on this affair was in Goulburn-street? Yes.
5383. And that they had several hundred pounds to their credit? I did not know that.
5384. You did not hear of any bank having any money for carrying on this gambling? No.
5385. Are we to understand that you are strongly opposed to gambling? Yes. When I gave the information to Mr. Mackay, he said, "There is no money for you," and I said, "No, I do not come for money, for the sake of a few pounds, but to prevent others losing their money."
5386. Your action was of a purely benevolent character—you wanted to benefit other people? Yes; I told him if there was any money coming to me they could give it to the hospital.
5387. You say these men were committed for trial? Yes.
5388. You had a conversation with a representative of one of the papers on the subject of those Chinese kept places, did you not? What paper do you mean?
5389. The Evening News? Oh, yes.
5390. And you stated how many Chinese houses there were;—do you know how many pak-ah-pu houses there are in Sydney? There were eighty-three when I counted them.
5391. And how many fan-tan or other gambling-houses? I have got a list of them here. Twenty-two in Wexford-street; thirteen in Campbell-street; twenty-five in Goulburn-street; thirty-four in Lower George-street; nine in Castlereagh-street; nineteen in Waterloo; six in Pitt-street; and five in Robinson's Lane.
5392. How did you become aware of the fact that all these places were gambling-houses? I had been inside to look for myself.
5393. About how many Chinese do you think are engaged in this gambling—living on it? That is hard to say. You see some of them dealing in the daytime and gambling at night.
5394. I refer more particularly to those connected with the gambling-houses? I should say about 100. But if you counted all the gamblers there would be more like 600, because they deal in the daytime, hawking vegetables and fancy goods.
5395. Were these men you have mentioned brought up for trial afterwards for playing pak-ah-pu? Yes; and they were convicted and fined £5 each.
5396. Did your countrymen take any action against you for that? They tried to frighten me. Some of them said, "We will get a few men to hammer him and kill him, and throw him in the water."
5397. You were not influenced in this matter by any thought of pecuniary gain to yourself? No; certainly not.
5398. You were not doing it out of spite, either—you had no grudge to satisfy, on account of not being paid a lottery ticket, or anything of that kind, for instance? No; certainly not.
- 5399.

- 5399-400. You were actuated by purely philanthropic or benevolent motives? Yes.
5401. What was the meaning of the telegram which you received from 64, Wexford-street—I mean that part of it which says, “No money for fare—answer at once?” That was to say if I had no money for travelling expenses to answer at once.
5402. Did you pay your own travelling expenses? Yes.
5403. Did you get no money at all from these persons who sent for you? I got about 30s. back again. I spent my own money all the time; but I got sick, and lost my voice for six months.
5404. Can you mention the names of the persons who sent you the telegram? It was Houg Ying, a storekeeper. He said he lost a lot of money in gambling, and he sent for me to stop the gambling, because if he did not stop it he would never go to China any more.
5405. What is the next name? Sheak Yin.
5406. Where does he live? At 54, Wexford-street.
5407. Did he lose a lot of money? Yes; a lot.
5408. And he looked to you as a saviour, to stop the gambling, and remove the temptation from him. What is the next name? There are no more—only the two. I think there were more than these in it, but he would not tell me. They were merchants in Lower George-street, and they gave money to help to stop the gambling, but did not want their names mentioned.
5409. Why was that—were they afraid? They were afraid the gamblers would go against them.
5410. Do you know of the existence of any secret societies of your countrymen here, established for punishing persons who give evidence against them? Oh, yes. That is frightful.
5411. Do you know the names of any secret societies of that kind? There are two or three. They will blow about what they will do, and get money to carry out the idea, but do not really do it. They had a council meeting not long ago, and wanted me to go to it.
5412. Did you get a notice? No.
5413. Who asked you to go? Two or three asked me.
5414. Give us the names? Pow Chee was the leader of the meeting.
5415. Where does he live? I do not know where he lives now.
5416. Did he ask you to go to the meeting? No. He sent out the names for all the Chinamen to go down to Sun Sam War's place, in Lower George-street.
5417. Did he say what they were to do there? He said he had read in some paper about the Government trying to stop the gambling, and the meeting was called to collect a few hundred pounds to go to law with the Government; but I think it is very likely he wanted to get a few hundred pounds to put in his own pocket.
5418. Have you seen any policemen in any of these places while gambling has been going on, in any part of the city or suburbs? I have seen them often in the gambling-houses, and mostly they do not take much notice.
5419. Have you seen them inside? Yes.
5420. And was the gambling going on while they were inside? No.
5421. Have you ever heard as a reason why the police do not take much notice of the gambling-houses that they are paid by the keepers of these places not to trouble them? No; I do not know that. It would be hard to tell.
5422. Have you played at fan-tan yourself? Yes; some years ago.
5423. Before you took such a noble stand against it, and were visiting these places, did you ever win any money at the game? Sometimes I won, but mostly lost.
5424. Whenever you won how much was taken out of the shilling? One penny out of each shilling.
5425. What was that penny kept back for? For the banker's expenses.
5426. When you were playing in these places did you ever see a scramble for the money on the table? Sometimes, when they put their money and lose, they will take it back again and clear out.
5427. Where did you gamble when you indulged in the evil practice? At Han Kee's, in Lower George-street.
5428. Is he there now? Yes.
5429. And carries on a gambling-house there? Yes. I lost about £200 in three months.
5430. Did you ever see any large sums of money lost at these places? Yes. I saw a fellow lose £3,000 in one night. He turned insolvent, owing £6,000.
5431. He was very likely brought to bankruptcy by gambling? Very likely.
5432. Did you ever know of any of your countrymen committing suicide in consequence of having gambling losses? I know of a case where a man lost a lot of money on a steamer, and committed suicide.
5433. You are a Christian now? Yes. I did belong to the Wesleyan Church, and now belong to the Salvation Army.
5434. Are you married? No. I have a wife in China.
5435. Have you not a woman living with you here now? Yes.
5436. You are not living in or about Sydney at the present time? No; I am living at Gundagai, carrying on a garden there.
5437. What is the extent of your garden? Five acres.
5438. How long have you been in Sydney this trip? I have been in Sydney three months now.
5439. How have you been living during those three months? I have some money in the bank, and then I have a garden, and sell the tobacco.
5440. You do not gamble now? No; I have given up gambling about nine years.
5441. Did you ever carry on a large business in Sydney? Yes. I went insolvent myself for £3,500.
5442. What led to your misfortune—did you lose a large sum in gambling? No. It was through bad times. The trade was very much cut up, and everything was selling at a loss.
5443. How long is it since you joined the Salvation Army? It is four years.
5444. Do you speak of the evils of gambling sometimes at the Army meetings? Yes. I have spoken up at Mudgee about four months ago.
5445. Have you often gone round amongst your own countrymen in Sydney and told them of the evils of these things, and taught them your own religion, and tried to bring them round to it? I have told them often.
5446. Have they ever run after you and threatened you? Well, mostly when you tell them about it they kick your arse.

R. Lee Kum.
7 Oct., 1891.

- R. Lee Kum. 5447. They evidently do not give you credit for good motives;—do they think you are sincere? They do not believe in the Christian religion.
- 7 Oct., 1891. 5448. Take these photographs in your hand;—do you know what those white paper notices announce? Yes, “Fan tan carried on every day and night;” also, “Fan-tan up stairs” too.
5449. What is the name over the door? Pun Num.
5450. What is the name of the place next to it? Way Kee.
5451. Is there any gambling carried on there? I do not know.
5452. Is there any ticket on his place? No.
5453. What is the next place? Han Kee, commission agent.
5454. Is there any ticket there? No.
5455. Have you noticed whether similar notices to these are stuck up on a number of places in Lower George-street, Wexford-street, Goulburn-street, and Campbell-street? Yes, I noticed plenty stuck outside the doors.
5456. Do you know anything about women frequenting some of the houses in Wexford-street? I did not trouble myself about the women.
5457. Have you seen them there? Oh, yes; I have often seen them playing in the street with the Chinamen, and knocking them down, and one thing and another.
5458. Do they smoke opium? Yes, some of them.
5459. Do you smoke opium? No.
5460. You regard it as a bad habit? Yes, very bad.
5461. You are thoroughly sincere about your opposition to gambling;—you think it ought to be suppressed? Yes, certainly.
5462. You think it injures or demoralises the people of the district where it is carried on? Yes.
5463. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long is it since you commenced working your garden at Gundagai? Over four years. I had a contract in Narrandera for some years.
5464. Have you given up the garden now? No, I still carry it on.
5465. When you were contracting who did you get to look after your garden? I finished the contract before I took up the garden.
5466. How long have you had your garden? Four years.
5467. Where is your wife? In China.
5468. Mr. McKillop.] You have said, I think, that you live with a woman here? Yes.
5469. And you are a member of the Salvation Army? Yes.
5470. As a Salvationist, do you think it right to be living with a woman as you are? I am not in the Army now.
5471. How long is it since you left the Army? About eleven months.
5472. Did they expel you, or did you leave of your own accord? I left. I had a bad throat, and lost my voice.
5473. But you did not leave the Army because you had a bad throat? I suppose I am going to marry the woman.
5474. How long has she been living with you? Three months.
5475. Is she in the family-way now? No.
5476. Will you swear that? Yes.
5477. Was this woman also in the Salvation Army? No.
5478. Did you meet her at the Salvation Army? Yes.
5479. Was that were you first met her? No.
5480. Where did you first meet her? I met her in the street first.
5481. Did you ask her to go and live with you right away? No; she kept company with me.
5482. Did you tell her you had a wife in China? Yes.
5483. And have you promised to marry her now? Yes.
5484. Have you ever received any money for giving information about these Chinese gambling-houses? No.
5485. Never? No; never one penny.
5486. Your only object was a good one—to try and benefit your countrymen? Yes.
5487. Is it not the case that you lost a lot of money at gambling? Yes.
5488. And is that not the reason you are opposed to it? Yes, that is the reason.
5489. You won a lot of money, and they would not pay you? No, not me.
5490. You won some money at a lottery, did you not? No.
5491. Did not you win some money at one time playing fan-tan, and they would not pay you? No, not me.
5492. You always got your money when you won? Yes.
5493. How long is it since you played fan-tan—recollect you are on your oath, we have it all taken down here, and I want you to speak the truth;—how long is it since you played the game? I gave it up four weeks ago.
5494. You had a place of your own? No; I had a share in it.
5495. How long did you keep it on? For four weeks.
5496. That is since you left the Salvation Army? Yes.
5497. Did they not turn you out of the Salvation Army? No.
5498. Did they not find out that you were a hypocrite, and so turned you out? No; I did not go to the meetings lately.
5499. Did you wear the uniform—a red shirt? Yes; some time ago I did.
5500. Were you a sergeant? No.
5501. An ordinary soldier? Yes; an ordinary soldier.
5502. Did you speak in the barracks here? Yes.
5503. And at Gundagai? Yes; I led the meeting at Gundagai; also at Wagga Wagga, Junee, and Narrandera.
5504. What was the reason of your leaving the Salvation Army;—did your countrymen inform the Army that you had a gambling-house? No; it was after I left the Army that I had the share in the gambling-house.

5505. Did you not leave the Army because you wanted to go back to gambling again? No; I did not. R. Lee Kum.
 5506. Now, if gambling is bad, and you say you came down from the country to try and suppress it, how was it that you went back to gambling four or five weeks ago? That was a syndicate, who had the 7 Oct., 1891.
 Campbell-street place. I had a share, and lost 35s. over it.
 5507. You admit that since you left the Salvation Army you kept a fan-tan establishment with your countrymen? No; I had a share.
 5508. How many were in it? Thirteen.
 5509. It was a company? Yes.
 5510. And you were one of the thirteen? Yes.
 5511. Can you give us the names of the other twelve members? No; I never went among them much.
 5512. You could not have a share in the business without knowing the names of your partner, come? I can give you the name of the boss. It is Ah Bye, 46, Campbell-street.
 5513. Is he there now? No; he has gone home to China.
 5514. How long is it since he left? About three weeks ago—the Saturday before last.
 5515. Did he make a lot of money by gambling? I suppose so.
 5516. Did he gamble fan-tan? Yes.
 5517. He was the boss of the place in which you had an interest? Yes.
 5518. Can you not give the names of some of the others? No.
 5519. What was your share during the month you were there? In one month I lost 35s., and then I gave it up.
 5520. How much did you make? Nothing; I lost 35s. during the month.
 5521. And what have you been doing since you gave up the gambling? I have been doing nothing.
 5522. Where are you living now? I live in Swan-street.
 5523. With the woman you are going to make your wife? Yes.
 5524. I suppose it must cost you about £3 a week to live? Oh, no.
 5525. What rent do you pay? About 4s. a week. There are four other men living in the house besides me.
 5526. How many rooms have you got for the 4s. a week? One room, with a kitchen which is used by the others also.
 5527. Are the other men married, and do they have their wives there? There is one single man, a Scotchman; the other men have women with them.
 5528. Now, how long is it since you have been in a gambling-house? I have never been in one since I gave it up.
 5529. How long, I asked you? One month.
 5530. Exactly one month? A month, more or less.
 5531. Have you not been in a gambling-place during the last fortnight? No.
 5532. You have not been inside one of your countrymen's places? Well; I have gone in.
 5533. Now, be very careful, we have got a lot of evidence here. Have you not been into any of these places during the last fortnight to play fan-tan? I have been in plenty of times; but not to play fan-tan.
 5534. Have you not put some money on the table? No.
 5535. What were you doing in the place you went to? I went to see one of my countrymen who asked me to give up gambling, and go into a store with him as a partner; and I went to Newcastle last Friday to try to get a shop there. I also tried Woolloomooloo.
 5536. Did you not go into the houses of your countrymen at Newcastle? Certainly, I went in there.
 5537. Were they playing fan-tan? Yes.
 5538. Well you have been a tolerably useful witness to the Commission. We have got a certain amount of information out of you, and to a large extent, I believe you have told the truth? I have told you all the truth. I have told you all about myself. I need not have told you.
 5539. Now how many places are there in Newcastle engaged in gambling—just think? There are only four fan-tan places.
 5540. Are you sure there are not more than that? I won't swear that.
 5541. I suppose you had not a chance of going round much? Oh yes; it is easy going round.
 5542. Did they know you when you went among them? Oh yes. They asked me what I came there for, and I said to play fan-tan.
 5543. Did they ask you if you had left the Salvation Army? No.
 5544. Did they know that you had left the Army? Yes.
 5545. Did they seem frightened of you when you went amongst them? Well, they did think I had come seeking information—that the Commission sent me there.
 5546. They thought you had come there to see whether they were gambling? Yes.
 5547. Did you have a chat with your countrymen about the Commission? We spoke of it. They all know about it.
 5548. What did they say about it? They asked if I thought the gambling was going to be stopped, and I said I did not know, but it might.
 5549. What did they say to that? I think they said you cannot stop it. They say the Englishmen play very heavy, and they cannot stop the Chinese.
 5550. That is the opinion up at Newcastle? Yes.
 5551. Do you say you never played a single game there? No; not one.
 5552. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know the largest gambling-place in Sydney? Quong Lee, storekeeper, 358, Pitt-street, is one; he carries on largely in lottery-tickets. They carry on a large business, and get all their money through gambling.
 5553. What is Quong Lee doing now? He has a gambling-shop in Goulburn-street yet.
 5554. Has he made a lot of money? Yes.
 5555. Has he made more money than anyone else, do you think? Yes. I have heard a Chinaman say he presented £300 to the police officers in Sydney, and that is how he has carried on so well.
 5556. What Chinaman said that? All the Chinamen say it—it is common talk among them.
 5557. Can you call to mind any Chinaman who told you that? I cannot. But that is the fact. They say you cannot find them out till just before Christmas-time comes; then you must watch about the places where the policemen live, and you will surely find something there.

- R. Lee Kum. 5558. You were told that just two or three weeks before Christmas you will find a large number of presents sent to the police officers each year—is that it? Yes.
- 7 Oct., 1891. 5559. And do you believe that to be true? Yes.
5560. I understand there was no information laid against these Chinamen you have spoken of till you came down? No.
5561. Is that what your countrymen sent to you for? Yes.
5562. Do you think their motives were pure in the matter, or were they acting in a spirit of revenge? They said they won a lot of money, and these people would not pay them.
5563. So they brought you down to institute proceedings out of spite? No; I do not know that, but I did not know this that I am telling you till after the men were committed for trial.
5564. So you freely admit now that you actually got these men convicted and fined £5 simply because your countrymen won some money from them and they would not pay; in fact they (your countrymen) telegraphed up to you, at Gundagai, asking you to come down and act the part of informer against these people? Yes.
5565. But now you say that at the time you were acting that part you did not know the object or the motive that prompted your friends in the matter? No.
5566. You thought it was a good and honorable motive, and afterwards you found out it was only spite? Yes.
5567. And you would not have given the information if you had known what your countrymen were doing it for? No.
5568. And do you think these men were improperly dealt with? Yes.
5569. Mr. Abigail.] When you say these men were improperly punished, do you not know that they were convicted of gambling, which is contrary to the law? Well, I daresay.
5570. Do you not know that, seeing that you gave evidence against them to that effect? Yes.
5571. Were they carrying on gambling? Yes, in 48, Campbell-street.
5572. How could they have been improperly punished when they were convicted of carrying on gambling? Well, anybody could know it. They were drawing the lottery tickets so many times each day.
5573. Do you mean to say that the Chinese engaged in this lottery business did not know they were acting contrary to the law? They said they knew all about it. That is all I know.
5574. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did you join the Salvation Army simply as a blind, to make people believe you were good, whilst all the time you were not? No. Because before that I gambled very heavily, and during the four years I was in the Army I did not.
5575. During the time you were in the Army you were a better man? Yes. I believed the Lord saved me during the time. No one could say I was a bad man.
5576. No one could point the finger of scorn at you during four years? No. I was mostly trying to do good to other people.
5577. How long did you belong to the Wesleyan Church before you joined the Salvation Army? Only about six months.
5578. Can you read English? A little.
5579. Do you read the Bible? I do the best I can.
5580. Do you know the Lord's Prayer? I can say some of it. You will find it in the 5th chapter of St. Luke.
5581. Who induced you to join the Salvation Army? Only myself. I believe they do good.
5582. What age is the young woman you live with? Twenty-four.
5583. Is she respectable? Yes.
5584. She is not one of the lower order of women? Certainly not.
5585. Were you keeping company with her while you were in the Army? Yes.
5586. Were you living as man and wife then? No.
5587. What was the reason of your leaving the Salvation Army;—was it so that you could go and live with this woman? No. Because I talked and sang too much, and it hurt my throat. I still go to the meeting every Sunday.
5588. You have not had a quarrel with the Salvation Army? No, I have not.
5589. Do you intend to marry the woman you are living with now? Yes, as soon as I go up country.
5590. Do any of your wife's people live in Sydney? Her sister.
5591. Are her father and mother here? No.
5592. Where are they? I do not know.
5593. Were they respectable people? I never inquired.
5594. Is she a steady woman? Yes.
5595. Does not smoke opium? Oh, no.
5596. Were you gambling last night? No.
5597. Were you in any fan-tan place since last Thursday? No.

[The witness withdrew.]

Moy Yook called and examined:—

- Moy Yook. 5598. Where do you live? In Castlereagh-street.
- 7 Oct., 1891. 5599. What business do you carry on? I keep a boarding-house for the accommodation of market gardeners.
5600. Have you a fan-tan table on your premises? No.
5601. Do the people in your place engage in opium-smoking? No.
5602. Have you ever lived in Lower George-street? No, I never lived down there. I have always lived in Castlereagh-street.
5603. Are you connected with any Chinese establishment in Lower George-street? No.
5604. Do you know Constable O'Sullivan? No.
5605. Did you ever make a money present to a policeman? No.
5606. Remember you are on your oath, and we have evidence touching this matter;—did you never make a present to a policeman? No, never.
5607. Do you know a Chinaman named Ah Ping? Yes; my brother. 5608.

Moy Yook,
7 Oct., 1891.

5608. Does your brother live in Lower George-street? Yes.
5609. Did your brother ever tell you that he had made a present to the police? No.
5610. Are you connected with any establishment in Sydney other than the one you live in? No.
5611. Do you derive any benefit whatever from any of these Chinese gambling establishments? No.
5612. How many Chinamen are staying at your place? About eighteen.
5613. What is the size of the place? Six rooms.
5614. Do you mean to tell me that you have never visited Lower George-street, and had a conversation with any policeman down there? No; I do not know any policemen.
5615. I suppose you have an intimate knowledge of the existence of the Chinese gambling-houses in the city? No, I have not.
5616. You know that gambling is carried on in a number of such places? No, I do not.
5617. Mr. Abigail.] Take these photographs, and see if you know what those paper notices mean on the shop fronts? I am not much of a scholar; I cannot read them.
5618. Surely you can read Chinese? No; I cannot read it very well.
5619. Have you not seen papers of that description in front of a number of Chinese-kept places? Yes; the gambling-houses put these up.
5620. How do you know that since you cannot read? I know that those notices mean that the place is a gambling-house.
5621. And there are a number of those places in the northern end of the city? I have not seen many.
5622. Now, what is your feeling in the matter;—are you willing to assist in any effort to suppress Chinese gambling? [To this question, and repetitions of it, the witness returned no answer.]
- 5623-4. Mr. Abigail.] (To the Interpreter.) Tell him that if he does not answer we shall send him to gaol for contempt.
- Mr. Lisson.*] I cannot get an answer from him—he persists in making comparisons between Chinese and European gambling.
5625. Mr. Abigail.] (To witness.) Do you believe gambling is a good thing? From a Chinaman's point of view it is good.
5626. Did you ever see this gentleman (the Secretary, Mr. Blackwell) before? I do not know him.
5627. Did he not come to your place and tell you to attend the Commission? No; somebody did come and bring a letter.
5628. Who brought the letter? A young man who took it to a Chinaman's shop, and it was brought to me.
5629. Where were you at the time? I was at home. A Chinaman brought it to Castlereagh-street. [Further examination postponed.]

FRIDAY, 9 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.
RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Robert Lee Kam further examined:—

5630. Mr. McKillop.] How long is it since you became insolvent? About twelve years.
5631. Where were you carrying on business? In Cambridge-street, in Sussex-street, and at Mudgee.
5632. You had about half a dozen different stores at that time, had you not? No, only three.
5633. Did you pay all your creditors? No; the creditors gave me the money back again, but my partner cleared off with the cash up the country.
5634. How much did you use at fan-tan during the time you were in business? I did not gamble at all then.
5635. And how long is it since you say you took to gambling? Oh, you see I was playing a little on the Victorian side when I was there.
5636. And how many years ago is that? Oh, it would be fourteen or sixteen years ago.
5637. How long is it since you were a partner in a gambling firm? The first time was about a month ago, in Campbell-street. That was the first time.
5638. And your profits amounted to something like £300? I say I lost about £1 15s.
5639. You lost that amount in the course of the entire transaction? Yes, in about one month.
5640. You did not make any profit out of it? No; a dead loss.
5641. Are you still a member of the firm? No.
5642. How many partners were there in it? Thirteen altogether. We each had a thirteenth share.
5643. Are the whole thirteen of you in Sydney now? I do not know.
5644. But surely you must know? No. I did not stop at the gambling-shop. They said they would give me a share.
5645. You were a sleeping partner then? Yes.
5646. Used you not to go there and gamble yourself? No; I never gambled there myself.
5647. Is it not a fact that you have been seen gambling at that place up to very recently? Oh, yes, I saw that all these places were gambling.
5648. Is it not a fact that you have yourself been seen gambling in these places in Goulburn-street, Campbell-street, and Wexford-street till very recently? No, it is not a fact.
5649. Is the labouring portion of the Chinese community out here brought out under contract at the charge of the wealthy Chinese merchants of Sydney? That I do not know.
5650. Who brought you here? I brought myself.
5651. Who paid your passage money? I paid it—42 dollars.
5652. But do you know whether it is a fact that large numbers of your countrymen are brought here by Chinese syndicates or companies to work under contracts extending over a term of years on the vegetable gardens? No, I do not know that. I do not know anything about that kind of business. 5653.

R. Lee Kam.
9 Oct., 1891.

- R. Lee Kam. 5653. Do you know if there is any gambling carried on in Botany? Oh, yes, plenty. I was there before Christmas—last Christmas. I went down there myself. I had often before that asked Inspector Bell to come down there with me, but he had always refused. He said to me, "Well, now leave gambling alone."
5654. And is there a great deal of gambling going on at Botany? Yes, the Chinamen play among themselves there.
5655. But do not the Europeans play there too? No, I never saw any Europeans playing there.
5656. Are they Chinese gardeners? Yes, a good many of them, and Chinese shop-keepers too. There are some shops down there with lotteries belonging to Quong Lee, of 358, Pitt-street, Sydney.
5657. The shops you refer to as gambling-dens in Botany are only kept open as business places for a "blind," I suppose? No; they do some legitimate business. About half their proceeds come from gambling and half from ordinary trade; but they have only very small stocks.
5658. And there is plenty of gambling inside? Yes, plenty of gambling inside.
5659. I suppose they sell a package of tea once in six months? Well, I believe they sell things every day, but not very much.
5660. Is there any gambling over at North Shore? I was never over there. There is gambling in the vegetable gardens. I will not swear that there is at North Shore, but there is at Botany.
5661. You have been in Gundagai? Yes; and in Hay and Narrandera.
5662. Is gambling carried on there? Oh, my; any quantity—any amount.
5663. Who gambles there? Very few Europeans—mostly Chinamen.
5664. Do not the shearers go there? No; the shearers go amongst the girls—the prostitutes of the Chinese camp—but they do not do much gambling.
5665. Mr. Hawthorne.] Where is that? At Narrandera, at Hay, and at Wagga Wagga.
5666. At Gundagai? No—not at Gundagai.
5667. At Tumut? There used to be plenty of gambling there, but the people down there have no money now.
5668. Is there a great deal of prostitution amongst the women in the Chinese camp at Hay? Oh, yes; I counted over thirty-two prostitutes in the Chinese camp at Hay.
5669. Have you ever seen any cases of leprosy in Narrandera or Hay? No; I saw no leprosy at either of those places.
5670. What are the ages of these prostitutes—are there any young girls amongst them? Their ages vary from 18 to 35 years.
5671. Any younger than 18? None younger than 18, as far as I saw. Of course there might be. I could not swear that there were not. I could not ask them that kind of question.
5672. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know any cases in which boys have been tampered with in any of these Chinese places in the city or the country? No.
5673. I want you to tell the truth? I tell the truth.
5674. Do you know of any cases in the city or the country where boys have been tampered with by the Chinese? No; I do not know any cases.
5675. Do you know a man named Goldtown? Yes; I have seen him once or twice. I saw him once before at Gundagai.
5676. How long ago was that? About three years ago.
5677. Where is he now? I do not know where he is just now.
5678. What was he doing in Gundagai? You know the Chinese camp at Tumut. An information was laid against a Chinaman for selling sly grog there, and he was convicted and had to pay a fine of £30. Then there was an appeal, and Goldtown was working up the case for the defendant. Kung Chong, a half-caste, came to me about the matter, and I said, "You will never get this man off. You see most of them will be fined. You have all lost the case." The Chinaman said, "Send to Quong Tart or Goldtown. He (Goldtown) is a wonderful man. He has been eight or nine years in a college in Hong Kong. He is a very clever young chap. If they get him they will win all the cases. Send £40 down to Quong Tart for Goldtown to come up."
5679. And Goldtown was there for the purpose of working up the case? Yes—for the barristers.
5680. At that time had he the reputation up there of being a respectable man? When I saw him in Court I did not think he was much.
5681. What is your opinion of Mr. Goldtown now? I think he is a duffer, because he borrowed 35s. from me, and never paid it back. He said to me, "I go up the country as an interpreter, and will pay it back when I come to town again."
5682. Do you know if Mr. Goldtown was ever in business? I do not know, myself. He told me that he was a tea merchant about two years ago.
5683. Do you know whether it is a fact that he was himself an extensive gambler? No; I do not. I never saw him gambling.
5684. But did you ever hear that he was? I was told that he had lost £35 by gambling.
5685. When did they tell you that? About two months ago.
5686. They said that Goldtown was a great gambler? Yes—a great gambler.
5687. Do you remember this Commission going down Goulburn-street about six or seven weeks ago? No; I was up the country, at Wilcannia, then.
5688. Have you had any conversation about the Commission with any of your countrymen in Lower George-street since last Wednesday? No; I have never been down Lower George-street for about three months.
5689. Were you talking to anyone in Goulburn-street, or Campbell-street, or Wexford-street last night? No, not last night.
5690. Were you talking to anybody down there the night before last, or at any time since you were last before the Commission? Well, I talked to some of my countrymen about the Commission. Some told me to come, and others told me not to come, and threatened to kill me. He said, "You are giving everything to the Royal Commission."
5691. Who said so? I cannot tell you.
5692. Cannot you give us his name? No. I want to find him out for my own satisfaction, and then I will set the police on to him.

5693. Have you had any threatening letters from any one? No; but they said that they would try to injure me, and I said, "If I must die, I must die." R. Lee Kam.
5694. How much money have you in the bank now—£500 or £600? No, not so much as that. 9 Oct., 1891.
5695. How much have you in the bank? Well, what I have there is not in my own name; it is in the name of the woman I am living with.
5696. What bank is it in? At Gundagai.
5697. What is the amount you have in the bank? I should have to see the book.
5698. Cannot you make a rough guess for us? No, I cannot.
5699. Do you say that it belongs to the woman with whom you are living? Yes.
5700. The hallelujah lass? Yes; the woman who was in the Salvation Army.
5701. And you have made it over to her? Yes; because I thought I might be tempted to gamble.
5702. Do you intend to go insolvent again? No. A lot of people owe me money now.
5703. Have you obtained your certificate since your last insolvency? No. I have been up the country under contract.
5704. Is gambling carried on in Goulburn-street, Wexford-street, Campbell-street, and other places now just the same as before the Commission was appointed? Yes, just the same.
5705. Do Europeans gamble in the streets that I have named? No, I will not swear that Europeans go there.
5706. Well, what do you mean by saying that gambling is going on there just the same? Well the night after the Commission went round I saw a few Europeans there.
5707. How did you see that, as you said you were not in Sydney? Well, somebody told me. They said that the Commission had been round for the purpose of stopping the gambling, and I said, "I do not care, let them stop it."
5708. Did these people also tell you that they knew beforehand that the Commission was going round that night? Yes, some of them said that they read it in the newspapers.
5709. Did anybody tell you that they knew that this Royal Commission was going round the night we made the inspection? Yes.
5710. They knew all about it? Well, I read the papers myself.
5711. But I am asking you whether these people told you? No.
5712. Did you read in any paper that the Commission had decided to go to Goulburn-street on a certain night? Yes. I take the Evening News myself every day.
5713. And you are sure that you saw that in the paper? Yes, I think so. It was a long time ago.
5714. Will you tell the Commission, to the best of your knowledge, how many women and how many Europeans generally indulge in the habit of opium-smoking in the city? Well, I never travel on that game much, because when I smell opium it makes me sick. I hate any man to smoke tobacco or opium.
5715. You hate any man who gambles too, do you not? Yes, I do hate him. I hate myself for gambling, because it is most of it losing and very little winning.
5716. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did ever you live in Victoria? Yes.
5717. How long is it since you lived in Victoria? You see, at that time I was 24 years old.
5718. And how old are you now? Thirty-seven.
5719. Then it is thirteen years ago? Yes, since I left there. When I went there I was eighteen years old, and at twenty-four I came over to New South Wales with my cousin to serve in a store.
5720. What part of Victoria did you live in? In Maryborough and in Sandhurst.
5721. Is it not a fact that you were a gambler over there? Oh, yes. There is plenty of gambling over there, and plenty of bad women too.
5722. Did you knock about amongst the bad women as well as gamble? Oh, yes; I did in those days.
5723. How long did you live at Narrandera? It is four years since I left there.
5724. How long did you live there? I did not live in the Chinese camp at Narrandera. I was living on a contract job in the bush.
5725. About how long? You see I stopped there over three years, always living in the bush, and coming in to town sometimes on horse-back.
5726. Do you know a countryman of yours named Ah Chong? There are plenty of Ah Chongs. I do not know which Ah Chong you mean.
5727. A countryman of yours at Narrandera named Ah Chong? Oh, there are two or three Ah Chongs over there.
5728. Do you remember one of your countrymen giving you a cheque for £6? No.
5729. You never received a cheque for £6? No.
5730. And do not you remember having cashed it for £60 of a Jewish storekeeper at Narrandera; you made the cheque, which was originally made out for £6, into £60? Yes.
5731. How did you come to do that? I do not know. That man gave me the cheque.
5732. And it was for £6, was it not? No; he gave me the whole £60.
5733. Will you swear that the cheque was not made out for £6? Yes.
5734. Will you swear it was £60? Yes; I will swear it was £60.
5735. Were you not apprehended on one occasion, and taken before a magistrate, and committed for trial? No; I was not committed for trial. They brought it in "no case."
5736. You were locked up for a while, were you not? Only for one night.
5737. On a charge of altering a cheque from £6 to £60? Yes.
5738. And what did they do with you? The magistrate said that there was no case at all.
5739. As a matter of fact, did not Ah Chong clear out of Narrandera after you cashed the cheque? Yes; he cleared away.
5740. And was not that the reason the case against you broke down? Well, I do not know. I tell you he gave me the cheque for £60.
5741. Was it not because you had altered the amount of the cheque that Ah Chong cleared out, and is not that the reason why the case broke down in Court? Well, Ah Chong went into the store and cashed the cheque with me.
5742. He went in with you? Yes.
5743. Was he a partner of yours? No.
5744. Then why was it necessary for you and Ah Chong to go in to cash the cheque together? I do not know. 5745.

- R. Lee Kam. 5745. Which of you was it who altered the cheque;—you or the other man? I do not know. I swear that I did not alter it.
- 9 Oct. 1891. 5746. Well, did your partner alter it? He was not my partner.
5747. What did he say about it? He said that I altered it.
5748. And why was the case dismissed? Well, because it broke down.
5749. Was it tried before a jury? No; there was no case for a jury.
5750. That was because Ah Chong went away, was it? Well, I do not know. You had better bring Ah Chong here now and ask him.
5751. Did you not know that Ah Chong was clearing out? No.
5752. Do you not know where he went to? No; I have never seen him since.
5753. Could Ah Chong write English? Well, I think so. He came here a long time ago. He speaks very good English.
5754. But he could not write English as well as you? Yes; I dare say he could. You cannot swear that he could not.
5755. Can you swear that he could? Can you swear anything about it?
5756. Were you ever charged with passing a cheque upon a Mr. Keshan that was afterwards dishonoured, and was there not, in consequence, a warrant issued for your arrest? No, no.
5757. Now, did not some of your friends afterwards pay Mr. Keshan £1 to settle the matter, so as to prevent you being prosecuted—yes or no? I want to know exactly what you mean.
5758. You drew a cheque once and gave it to Mr. Keshan, and it was dishonoured when he presented it at the bank? What is Mr. Keshan?
5759. He is a publican in Foster-street? Oh no. What are you giving us? No, no, no.
5760. Now, did not your friends settle that cheque? No, no.
5761. Will you swear it was not you who gave that cheque? I will swear that it was not me.
5762. Did you at a later date than this give cheques to the value of £100 to tradesmen and see them all dishonoured? When I went insolvent one cheque was dishonoured.
5763. Only one cheque? Two or three cheques there might be.
5764. Amounting to how much? Oh, I do not know.
5765. A hundred pounds? No, no. It was only promissory-notes that were dishonoured.
5766. Have you ever lived with any other white woman than the one you are living with now? No.
5767. Will you swear it? No; never. Sometimes I slept with one, but I cleared out afterwards. This is not gambling business though.
5768. Have you not kept women? No; never in my life.
5769. Have you not kept women, and allowed them to go about with other Chinamen? No.
5770. Will you swear it? I swear before the Holy Bible that I never did.
5771. You are living with some people in Swan-street? Yes.
5772. Are they respectable people or common prostitutes? They are all respectable people.
5773. Will you swear that there are no prostitutes in the house? No; I will not swear that they are or that they are not.
5774. Will you not swear that they are not? No, no. I will swear that they have never, to my knowledge, been knocking about with people. They are poor people, but that is no reason why they should not be respectable. You see all sorts amongst poor people, and high people too. Some people who have women live in grand palaces, and are called Mr. So-and-so; but if they live in a poor place they are nobody.
5775. I see; those are some of your opinions upon social life. Tell me this: have you never persuaded any of your countrymen to visit the gambling-houses in which you have had a share? No, no; never.
5776. Well if we can bring men here to prove that you did, you will be committed for perjury, you know? I do not care about that; I speak the truth.
5777. Have you never persuaded any countryman of yours to go and visit any of the fan-tan places in which you have had a share? No, no; never. I hate people who ask me to go into a public-house and have a drink, and so I would not like to ask people to go and play fan-tan. It would be just the same.
5778. Now, Lee Kam, do you not think you played the part of a hypocrite when you were in the Salvation Army? No; I was really good whilst I was in the Army. I felt good.
5779. Whom were you supposed to have been converted under? Under Captain Templeton.
5780. And did you really become a changed man? I tried to be changed.
5781. And did you not go with prostitutes at that time? No.
5782. You had nothing to do with gambling? No, nothing to do with gambling either.
5783. All your gambling was done before and since you were connected with the Army? Yes.
5784. How many times did you go and inform the police of your countrymen gambling during the four years you were in the Salvation Army? Well, you see, often times I have put the police on to bad girls at the camp at Gundagai, or if I saw any gambling there I have stopped the police and told them that there was gambling every night, and that it was a shame. Then the police would swear at me, and say, "You used to gamble before you joined the Salvation Army, and now you are trying to be good; but I do not think you will be good very long."
5785. I see—the police thought you were a hypocrite? No, I do not think so. I used to keep away from bad company.
5786. All that time you were attending the Salvation Army meetings? Yes; and every night, wet or dry, I would be in the streets marching.
5787. Mr. Quong Tart.] Mr. Robt. Lee Kam, after listening to all your evidence, I want you to answer me a few questions? Yes, I will, if you answer me properly.
5788. We are thoroughly investigating all the charges of gambling and immorality against the Chinese of the city and suburbs? Yes; you have over forty cousins gambling, too.
5789. Now, I ask you civilly, and I want you to answer in the same way. Do you know that the chief complaints made by the Europeans against the Chinese are about gambling and filthy houses, and matters connected therewith, and that it is into that that we have been appointed to inquire? Yes.
5790. Now, first, tell us every particular that you have not mentioned—no matter who it concerns;—you say that there are over 600 Chinese gamblers in Sydney? Yes, I believe there are—more or less.
5791. Very well; how many Chinese are there in Sydney altogether? Oh, I cannot tell you how many.
5792. Well we want to know about how many there are—you have a good idea? A lot are growing vegetables. 5793.

R. Lee Kam
9 Oct., 1891.

5793. How many Chinese would there be in Sydney altogether, do you think? I never counted them.
5794. Do you think there are among the Chinese more gamblers, or people engaged in legitimate commercial pursuits? Oh, there are more gardeners, and so on.
5795. You said that there were over 600 gamblers in Sydney and the neighbourhood? Oh, some work in the day-time and gamble at night.
5796. How many are good? There are very few really good ones.
5797. Do you think you are a good one? No; but no one can prove I ever stole anything.
5798. You think that your countrymen are mostly bad? Yes; even I am a hypocrite.
5799. You say there are over eighty lottery-houses? There are eighty-three; I counted them myself. Sometimes there are as many as four lottery-banks in one store.
5800. How many fan-tan houses are there altogether? Altogether there are thirty-three, I think. I have the book with me. Oh, after looking at the book I see that there are in Waterloo and Botany and in the city too, there are 133 altogether.
5801. Are there any over at North Shore? I do not know. I never go over there.
5802. If, as you say, you are only down from the country a short time, how do you know about all that you have told us here? Well, the first time I was down was for four months, and then after I had been in the country again I came down again.
5803. Did you find out all about this gambling yourself, or did anybody tell you about it? No; I found it all out myself, because I wanted to make a true report to the Inspector-General. I wanted to get the whole truth before I sent in the report to him.
5804. You did it as your duty;—you wanted to put down the evil? Yes; I would try to be good if I could.
5805. How many Chinese communities are represented in Sydney? There is the Chong Sing community, the Doon Goon community, the Hung Shang community, the Sun Wing community, the Sun Wiy community, the Hoy Ping community, the Ying Ping community, the Hoek Sang community, the Go You community, the Go Ming community, the Sun On community, the Poon Yee community, the Nam Hoy community, the Sun Tack community, the Par Yoon community, the Sam Soon community; but there are very few individuals belonging to the last-mentioned clan.
5806. Then there are sixteen communities represented in Sydney altogether? Yes.
5807. I want you to mention the clans that are principally connected with opium-smoking and gambling, and immorality, in Sydney and the suburbs? Oh, the See Yip community smokes opium most and gambles most, I think. There are not many storekeepers amongst them.
5808. You say that the See Yip community is in your opinion the worst;—is the Rev. Soo Hoo Ten a gambler then? No.
5809. Is he an opium-smoker? No, but some say that he is drinking.
5810. Who told you that? Sum On told me that the Rev. Soo Hoo Ten drinks.
5811. Yes, but he is out of town;—did anybody in Sydney tell you that? No; only this person up the country, because Soo Hoo Ten pretends to be religious.
5812. And how many See Yip people are there? I could not tell you how many.
5813. Are there 1,000? No, not 1,000.
5814. A hundred? More than 100.
5815. About how many then? I could not swear how many there are.
5816. You say the See Yip people are the greatest opium-smokers and gamblers;—I want you to tell me about how many members of that community there are in Sydney? I tell you I do not know. I never counted them. You can tell as well as me.
5817. President.] You know the clan See Yip? Yes.
5818. I want you to tell me, as near as you can, how many there are in that clan? I cannot tell you.
5819. I want you to tell me as near as possible? As near as possible, I should say there are about 300.
5820. Mr. Quong Tart.] Now tell us some of the houses they occupy? They live at 228, 226, 224, 222, and 220, Lower George-street. Those houses are entirely occupied by See Yip people.
5821. Now give us some more? Han Kec, 166, Lower George-street, and 152, Lower George-street, and also two shops opposite Sun Kum Tiy's of which I do not know the numbers.
5822. Do they carry on fan-tan? Yes; fan-tan in two places upstairs, and they sell lottery-tickets too. The European larrikins go there.
5823. Whose place are you speaking of? Moy Ping's. His is the principal place for larrikins. He says he is a little bit of a king.
5824. How many lottery-banks are there in those places? There are three lottery-banks at 152, Lower George-street, and three lottery banks at 228.
5825. How many lottery-places are there altogether in Lower George-street? There are six altogether connected with the See Yip community.
5826. How many in Wexford-street and Campbell-street? At 52, Goulburn-street there were twelve lottery-banks, but since I gave information the number has been reduced to four. Mr. Goldtown has a share in the one at No. 90. He has half a share there. There were four lottery-banks in Waterloo, but two were given up two weeks ago.
5827. Any more? Yes. There are four gambling-houses in Goulburn-street belonging to the See Yip people. There are four fan-tan places in Goulburn-street, and twelve lottery-banks; thirty-six lottery-banks there previously, belonging to Quong Lee. Since I came to Sydney, however, a lot of them have been given up. At present there are also eight at Botany and two at Waterloo.
5828. We are talking about the gambling-places in existence, and belonging to the See Yip at the present time you know? There are twenty-four, I think, altogether belonging to Quong Lee, but different agents look after them. Four new ones started this week in Lower George-street.
5829. President.] I want to know how many lottery-houses there are at present belonging to the See Yip clan? I cannot tell.
5830. Well, how many do you think? There were eighty-three before, but I do not know how many there are now.
5831. How many do you think there are now? About twelve, I think.

- R. Lee Kam. 5832. Understand, you must answer these questions to the very best of your belief, and without any unnecessary consumption of time. If you do not we shall have to send you away, and get a warrant out for you, and have you fined £20, but we do not want to do that? No; but you see —
- 9 Oct., 1891. 5833. You are to answer the question, sir? —
5834. Mr. Quong Tart.] Are there any more in Campbell-street belonging to the See Yip people? Only a place in Campbell-street, in which Moy Ping has a store.
5835. How many gambling places has the Heong Shang community in Lower George-street? There were three, but as I do not like to tell a lie you had better take round a book and count them.
5836. How many do you think? Oh, I could not say.
5837. More than a dozen? Oh, more than a dozen.
5838. How many lotteries are there there? There are two lottery-banks at Sam War's.
5839. What does Sam War do in connection with them? Oh, he manages the bank.
5840. Is he connected with the firm of Sun Sam War? No; he belongs to the firm of Yet See and Year See. Tiy War Tong is also a lottery proprietor.
5841. Had Pow Chee anything to do with them? No; I will not swear that he has anything to do with them.
5842. Now come back to Goulburn-street, and tell us what there is there? No lottery in Goulburn-street belongs to the Heong Shang community.
5843. Are there no members of the Heong Shang community there? Oh, yes; there are two fan-tan places belonging to the Heong Shang community there, but they have only a share with the See Yip in the lotteries.
5844. Is there anything of that kind in Campbell-street belonging to the Heong Shang community? Yes; there is a gambling-house belonging to Sam War there. It is at 52, Campbell-street; Sun Lee runs it, but Sam War is responsible for the money.
5845. Have you heard lately that Gut See and Goy Lee, belonging to Sam War, have a lottery? No; I believe they closed their establishment lately.
5846. Are there any gambling-houses in Wexford-street belonging to the Heong Shang community? Yes; there are five gambling-houses in Wexford-street belonging to that community, that is all.
5847. Now we come to the Go You Yap community? Yes.
5848. To what society does Mr. Goldtown belong? He is a representative of the Go You Yap people.
5849. How many fan-tan shops belong to them? Four in Lower George-street, I think:
5850. And how many lottery places in Lower George-street? They have only got two or three in Lower George-street.
5851. How many fan-tan houses have the Go You Yap colony in Goulburn-street? Eleven, I think, in Goulburn-street.
5852. Are you sure? No; but I think the number is eleven. Several different colonies have a share in some of them, however.
5853. You told me how many belonged to the See Yap, now I want to know how many belong to the Go You Yap? Yes; eleven I think.
5854. How many lottery-banks have they in Goulburn-street? Oh, I meant that there are eleven lottery-shops belonging to the Go You Yap in Goulburn-street;—they have only six gambling-houses.
5855. What do you mean by "gambling-houses"? Houses set apart for fan-tan.
5856. How many are there in Campbell-street belonging to Go You Yap? They have no gambling-houses at all there, and only one lottery-bank.
5857. Now we come to Wexford-street? They have none in Wexford-street.
5858. What do you know about the gambling-houses carried on by the Tung Yap community in Lower George-street? I think they have six or eight fan-tan houses in Lower George-street.
5859. And how many lottery-banks are there connected with them? I think about six, but I am not sure.
5860. Now come up to Goulburn-street—how many fan-tan shops are there there? There are one or two gambling-houses and four lottery-banks.
5861. Are you sure that there are only one or two houses where fan-tan is played belonging to the Tung Yap community in Goulburn-street? Yes; quite sure.
5862. Give us the name of them? One belongs to Goon Hing, and the other to Goon Sing.
5863. How many lottery-places are there there? Four in Goulburn-street and two in Campbell-street. There are four fan-tan houses in Campbell-street.
5864. Are there any in Wexford-street? There is one belonging to the Doong Coon community there.
5865. How many lottery-banks are there in Lower George-street belonging to the Chang Sing people? They have no lottery-banks and no gambling-houses in Lower George-street.
5866. Now I want to know how many they have in Goulburn-street? None at all. There might be individual members of that community engaged in gambling there, but as a community they have no house set apart for that purpose.
5867. Have they any in Campbell-street? There is only one, and it has only been open for a fortnight.
5868. How many of your people are there in Sydney? About 260. There are a lot of storekeepers belonging to them, but not many gambling people. They have a lot of money too.
5869. Will you name some of the leading members of your community? Well, there are On Chong, and Sun Kum Tiy, and various other good firms.
5870. Has each community a society of its own? No; My Yup has no Society.
5871. Does each Yap have a society? No; I cannot swear that they have.
5872. What Yap does the Loong Ye Tong belong to? Oh, that society broke down a long time ago.
5873. Who did it belong to? The Chang Sing and Doon Goon communities.
5874. Is that the Yap that beat Ah Chuck with an iron bar? The Doon Goon did that. I was up in the country at the time, but I heard about it.
5875. What interest have you in the gambling-houses in Waterloo? I have no share at all in them.
5876. About how much do you make in a week? I am making nothing by gambling.
5877. But I am referring to your ordinary business—what is it? I keep a garden and grow tobacco, and I also sell cabbages. Here are the bills of lading from the Railway Department.
5878. How long have you known Sark Yin? Oh, he is my relation—my countryman.
5879. What business is he in? He sells tickets for lotteries.

5880. And he keeps a fan-tan place, does he not? No; he only sells lottery-tickets. If they shut up the lottery places he will have to go and do some work. You want very particularly to know all about him. R. Lee Kam.
9 Oct., 1891.
5881. I see that you and he wanted to shut down other gambling-houses, so that you could get better trade for your own, I suppose? No.
5882. Do you receive part of the fine in all cases in which your information leads to a conviction? No.
5883. Have you ever received anything? No; you can go to the Quarter Sessions and ask them.
5884. You say that the information you have given to the police about gambling-houses has not been taken any notice of;—do they suspect you of having tried to mislead them? No. They say, “Oh, you go back to the country and we will do it by-and-bye. We have got all the information we want. Don’t you trouble yourself about it.”
5885. You said the other day that Quong Lee gave the police a lot of presents about Christmas time;—I want to know what was the nature of those presents? I did not say that they gave presents to the police, but I have heard a lot of people say that they did so.
5886. Can you give me the name of any person who saw them give the presents? No; no person in the world could say that he saw the presents given. Is it likely?
5887. You say that there was a meeting at Sun Sam War’s after the deputation of the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League to the Premier? Yes; they had a meeting convened through Pow Chee.
5888. You say he was the principal speaker for the gamblers? Yes; he was the leader.
5889. And what amount of money was subscribed at that meeting? They wanted to get £400 or £500.
5890. How many persons were at the meeting? I was not there.
5891. No, but you must have learned what took place in conversation with others who were there? No, nobody told me; but I heard that the people from the various gambling-shops had given so much money.
5892. How does Pow Chee make his living? I do not know; he is a stranger to me.
5893. How long did the meeting last? I do not know. I did not take much notice.
5894. What decision, with regard to gambling, did they come to at that meeting? All I know is that afterwards Pow Chee collected a few shillings from the gambling-tables for the purpose of covering advertising and preliminary expenses.
5895. What community does Pow Chee belong to? Pow Chee is of the Heong Shang community; so does James Ung Quoy.
5896. You say that Shop Yin and Han Yin tried to put down gambling, and that some merchants subscribed money to enable you to do that;—now we want to know their names? Oh, no; they will not give you any names.
5897. You must give us their names? Oh, no; I cannot. They gave the money to these people whilst I was down here.
5898. Do you think that Long Pen would be a good man to help you to put down gambling? No. At the time that I tried to put the gambling-houses down Long Pen was on the gamblers’ side.
5899. Upon leaving Sydney after your insolvency where did you go to in the first place? The first place I went to was Hay. I went there for the wool was lively. A gentleman gave me a character to enable me to go into the bush and get a contract.
5900. Is the tobacco farm at Gundagai your own? No; I have three shares in it. It belongs to Dr. Marston, and we owe him a lot of money on it yet. The crops have failed during the last year or two, but we guarantee rations to the men.
5901. You say you have not sworn for four years;—how is it that you were brought up in Wagga Wagga and fined £2 for using bad language? Oh, they put me in wrong. I was there selling potatoes, and I said to the constable, “You keep away from my store.” Then they brought me before the magistrate, and I was fined £2, but it was through false swearing, and I said that I would have the constable up for perjury.
5902. Is it not a fact that you have two shares in a gambling-house in Wexford-street at the present time, and one share in Wong Sark at the present time also? No.
5903. Also a share in a gambling-house at 46, Campbell-street? No.
5904. Mr. Abigail.] Have you no share whatever in any gambling-place in the whole city? No.
5905. Had you within the last month? No.
5906. Mr. Quong Tart.] Besides two shares in houses in Waterloo—one in the house occupied by Goon Chug Tong, and the other in Neal Teang’s? No.
5907. Have you not often played fan-tan in those two places? No.
5908. Were not two shares given to you to induce you not to inform the police, also to secure your services in their defence if they should be informed against? No.
5909. You swear that? Yes, I swear it. What about the £100 that you got for sending the new chum countrymen back to China?
5910. Did you not guarantee these people, as soon as you got these shares that there should be no prosecution? No.
5911. Is it not a fact that you are now living, and for some considerable time past have lived upon the gambling-houses alone? No; I never receive a single farthing from them. I swear that. What about the £100 for the new chum countrymen?
5912. Mr. Abigail.] Did you say that you had £250 in the bank to the credit of the woman with whom you are living? No; not so much.
5913. How much? I cannot tell.
5914. Is it £60? Something like that.
5915. Between £60 and £100? Something like that.
5916. How did you make that money? Out of contract work.
5917. And you swear that you did not get it from any of the Chinese gambling-places? Not a farthing. Ask Mr. Quong Tart where did the money go for the new chums?
5918. Mr. Quong Tart.] I want you to make a full statement about it? —
5919. President.] What does it refer to;—is it about the business of the Commission?
5920. Mr. Quong Tart.] No; it has reference to another matter.
5921. President.] Then we cannot be bothered with it.

You re-examined, through the interpreter:—

- Yon.
9 Oct., 1891.
5922. President.] You want to correct your evidence, I believe? Yes.
5923. In what respect? I am represented to have said that the police grabbed the money on the fan-tan tables when they were making raids on the gambling-houses, and I wish now to say that that is a mistake. The police did not grab the money.
5924. Listen to this: Question 368 reads as follows:—"Did the police ever make a raid and snatch up the money that was on the fan-tan board?" And to that question you are reported to have given this answer, "Sometimes when a raid of that kind is made the police and everybody present snatch whatever they can lay their hands on." You now wish to say that that answer is wrong? Yes. The police do not snatch the money.
5925. With whom were you going through the evidence? With the Secretary to the Commission, and it was then that I pointed out the mistake.
5926. Since giving the evidence have you conferred with any of the police about the matter? No, sir.
5927. You are perfectly sure? Yes.

Moy Youk called and examined, through the interpreter:—

- Moy Youk.
9 Oct., 1891.
5928. President.] Where do you live? In Castlereagh-street.
5929. How long have you lived there? For more than ten years.
5930. Were you ever present in any of the gaming-saloons in Lower George-street? I have been in and out once or twice.
5931. Will you swear that you are not a frequenter of some of them? Sometimes I go in, but only on business.
5932. But you are a frequent visitor on business only? No; I do not go in very often.
5933. Do you know Mr. Bowker? No; I do not know him.
5934. Were you ever present when a policeman came into a gaming-saloon in Lower George-street? No; I was not.
5935. And you will swear that you are not connected with a gambling-den at 202, Lower George-street? Yes; I will.
5936. Who keeps that particular gaming-house? I do not know.
5937. Does not Ah Ping keep it? No; not 202, Lower George-street.
5938. Then what is the number of his place? It is No. 226.
5939. And Moy Ping is your brother? Yes.
5940. Well, you have been at your brother's place a good many times? I have not been there for a long time.
5941. When were you last there? Over a year ago.
5942. Will you swear that it is over a year since you were last in your brother's house? It is about a year.
5943. Will you swear positively that you were not there three months ago? Yes; I have not been there within the last few months.
5944. You have not, within the last six months, been to see your brother? No.
5945. Now, were you not there only a fortnight ago? No.
5946. Where did you receive the notice to attend as a witness before the Commission? I went down below a couple of nights ago, and got it then.
5947. But you have just sworn that you had not been at your brother's place for six months? I went down to 208, Lower George-street, not 206, where my brother lives.
5948. Did not you swear when last you were here that the letter was sent to you in Castlereagh-street by a Chinaman? Yes; I did swear that. Altogether I received two letters, however. The first was sent to me down there. The next time the messenger called (with the second notice), it was left at 208, and it was there that I got it.
5949. My opinion is that you have perjured yourself by making these contradictory statements, and if you do not tell me what occurred when the policeman came into Moy Ping's I fear that we shall have to send you up to Darlington Gaol to reflect? I am telling the truth.
5950. Were you telling the truth when you told us a lie the other day? I did not tell a lie.
5951. Well how do you explain the discrepancy between the evidence you have given before the Commission to-day and the evidence you gave the last time you were here? When the letter was taken down to Lower George-street I could not be found, but as some of my countrymen down there knew me it was left at 208, and from 208 it was brought to me.
5952. Were you ever in your brother's gambling-saloon when Constable O'Sullivan came in? No.
5953. Have you seen any of the policemen connected with the Lower George-street district during the last fortnight or the last month? No; I do not know any policemen at all.
5954. Where did you sleep last night? At Toy Lee's, in Castlereagh-street.
5955. Who is Toy Lee? He is the proprietor of a boarding-house that used to belong to my father.
5956. How long have you been living there? A little over one year.
5957. What do you do for a living? There are stables for horses, and it is also a boarding-house that I live at. I am connected with both.
5958. Do you carry on the business? I am carrying it on for my father.
5959. And where is your father? He went home to China during the last few years.
5960. Does your brother keep a gaming-house in Lower George-street? He used to have one.
5961. How long ago was that? I do not know how long ago it is since he left it off.
5962. Can you tell me how long it is since your brother kept a gaming-house? I do not know, because I am up at the other end of the town.
5963. I want to know how long ago it is to your knowledge? It is two or three months ago.
5964. How do you know that it is only two or three months since your brother left the boarding-house? I have been told that.
5965. Had you been down there yourself? People came down to my place from Lower George-street, and told me that my brother had been arrested, and since then they have told me that the gambling-house has been given up.
5966. It is about seventeen months ago since you visited your brother's place, you say? I do not speak to my brother. I am not friendly with him.
5967.

Moy Yook.
9 Oct., 1891.

5967. Is it a year ago since you were last in his place? Yes; it is about a year ago.
5968. Do you remember a policeman coming in one night, and disturbing you at the game there? No.
5969. Do you remember a man in plain clothes coming in and disturbing the game? No.
5970. Did you ever, when you were present there, offer to fight any one when he came in? No.
5971. Did you ever have any conversation at any time with a policeman in uniform or in plain clothes? No; I did not. I know none of them.
5972. Do you know of any gambling-houses in Castlereagh-street? No; I do not know of any.
5973. Do you know of any gambling-houses in Sydney at all? Yes; I know of some.
5974. Where are they? Down in Lower George-street.
5975. Are there many of them down in Lower George-street? I cannot tell exactly how many. I have never counted them.
5976. Can you give us an idea? I cannot say how many there are.
5977. Would you kindly try;—we should be very much obliged to you if you would? I cannot say certain. I never counted them.
5978. Are you a member of the Loon Ye Tong Society? No; I know nothing at all about it.
5979. Do you know anything about any society? I do not savey them.
5980. You are not a member of any of them yourself? No.
5981. What is your opinion about this gambling;—should it be suppressed? I should not like to say what my opinion is.
5982. But if you would not mind, the Commission would be so much obliged to you? No; I would not like to give my opinion as to whether gambling is good or bad, or whether it ought to be stopped or not.
5983. Why will you not say? No; I will not say.
5984. Are you afraid? I will not say one way or the other.
5985. Do you live with any woman? No.
5986. Do you allow opium-smoking in your house? No.
5987. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you smoke opium yourself? No.
5988. President.] What is the number of the house you live in? 327, Castlereagh-street.
5989. And what do you do there? I keep stables and a boarding-house.
5990. And you never visit fan-tan or any other kind of gambling establishments? No.
5991. Do you take any interest in the well-being of your countrymen here? I take this interest: that if any poor people want to go home to China I help them to do so.
5992. And are there not a number of societies that do the same? Yes.
5993. Is not the Loon Ye Tong one of them? I do not know anything about the Loon Ye Tong.
5994. What societies are there then that do this charitable work? I do not know anything about them at all.
5995. How long have you been out here? Between six and seven years this trip.
5996. Is it your opinion that gambling is pernicious to your people? I cannot say myself whether it is or it is not.
5997. Do you consider that you are possessed of the brains of an ordinary man? As far as gambling is concerned, if people like to go and gamble that is their business, but I prefer to keep myself to myself.
5998. Then let me ask you this: Do you abstain from gambling because you think that the practice is pernicious as far as you are concerned? There are plenty who mix themselves up with gambling, but, personally, I do not want to have anything to do with it.
5999. Why;—is it because you think it is bad for you, or because, on general principles, you think it is bad? I cannot answer that question.
6000. If you do not answer that question we shall have to adjourn and bring you here again, and if you do not come you will be summoned to the Police Court and fined £20. I have asked you whether you do not play fan-tan, because you think it would be pernicious for yourself, or because you think that gambling is bad for anybody. You can answer it entirely as a personal question if you like? I think that the matter rests entirely with the Government. If the Government wants to stop gambling it can stop it. As far as I am concerned, I care nothing at all about it.
6001. Mr. Abigail.] Are you a free agent? I will have nothing at all to do with it.
6002. Are you a free agent or under a pledge not to give any evidence? —
6003. Mr. Quong Tart.] The Commission wants your opinion. You must say one way or the other. If you do not answer the questions put to you the Commission has the power to send you before a magistrate, and get you fined £20? I am afraid to give my opinion upon the question.
6004. President.] That is a better answer. If you will tell me why you are afraid I will let you go? No; I will not say why I am afraid.
6005. Well, are you afraid of some of your countrymen being angry with you? No; I will not answer that question one way or the other.
6006. Well, the meeting is adjourned, and you will have to attend here at 11 o'clock on Monday morning, and if you do not come we will summon you, and you will be fined £20? I take no interest in gambling one way or the other.
6007. You are to attend here at 11 o'clock on Monday morning? Very well.

MONDAY, 12 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.
RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Walter Jeffery called and examined:—

6008. Mr. Abigail.] What position do you occupy, Mr. Jeffery? I am sub-Editor of the Town and Country Journal.
6009. You know the purpose of this Commission? Yes.
6010. It has been appointed to take evidence as to the question of Chinese gambling; as to the moral and sanitary condition of these places; and further, as to a charge of bribery made against the police.

Mr.
W. Jeffery.
12 Oct., 1891.
We

Mr.
W. Jeffery.
12 Oct., 1891.

We are endeavouring to obtain evidence which will enable us to report on these several matters, and we have summoned you to attend here this morning to assist us to that end, by giving any evidence you may have to offer on the subject generally. You have, I believe, some knowledge of the Chinese gambling-houses existing in different parts of the city? I have seen something of them. I may explain that I was in San Francisco some time ago, and having seen the Chinese there I took some interest in them in Sydney; and when I came to Sydney I wrote some articles on the subject for the Evening News. That was about four years ago. Just about three and a half years ago there was an agitation against the Chinese in Sydney, and as I was reporting on the Evening News at the time, it became my duty to go about among the Chinese a good deal, particularly in Goulburn-street, Waterloo, and Botany. I did not see so much of them in Lower George-street.

6011. Then, in following up the question, you visited a number of these places in Goulburn-street? Yes.

6012. In whose company did you go to these places? Generally with another newspaper reporter. But I went on one occasion with a detective officer of No. 3 police division.

6013. What is the detective officer's name? Goulder.

6014. When you visited the Chinese houses in Goulburn-street first, Mr. Jeffery, what did you find them engaged in? On no occasion did we catch them in the act of gambling. Briefly, what struck me most in regard to these places was their filthy condition; the entire absence of any approach, even, to the observance of ordinary sanitary laws. The occupants were always smoking opium, and on each occasion had evidently just stopped gambling immediately prior to our entrance. I never succeeded in getting in while they were gambling.

6015. Did you see all the implements of gambling on the table when you entered? I cannot say that. We found them assembled round the tables, but did not see any of their brass coins. I know how the game is played from my experience of the Chinese quarters in San Francisco. From what I saw as we entered the houses in Goulburn-street, I have no doubt that they had just finished, or stopped playing as we got in.

6016. You found all of these places in a very bad sanitary condition? Yes; that is the case.

6017. Have you noticed any women about these places, or noticed anything indicating immorality between the sexes? Well, yes; I have seen women there; but I noticed more men than women—I mean European men.

6018. Going from Goulburn-street to Waterloo, did you find the same state of things existing there? Yes. The places there were in a filthy dirty condition.

6019. Did you witness any gambling going on there? No.

6020. Or in Botany? No.

6021. Then the result of your inspection of the Chinese premises in Goulburn-street, in the city, and Waterloo, or the impression made upon your mind was chiefly with regard to their bad sanitary condition and the evidences of immorality amongst the occupants of these places? Yes. Of course I know a lot from hearsay, but I am now simply giving you the results of my own personal observation.

6122. Did you then hear, or have you since heard, anything in reference to the police not suppressing these things? No.

6123. Have you looked up the law as it relates to these gambling-houses? Not specially; but I have heard that great difficulties exist in the matter of obtaining convictions when any attempt has been made by the police to deal with them. I have not studied the law on the subject; but I have always understood that the police authorities labour under great difficulty. That is to say, when they have succeeded in arresting some of these gamblers, and proceeded against them in one of the courts, they have found considerable difficulty in securing convictions against them.

6124. When you went round in company with the detective police officer, did he make any remarks on the practices carried on in these Chinese quarters, or did he express any desire to suppress them? Well, he took me round chiefly with the object of showing me the filthy condition of the dens the Chinese lived in, and did not refer to the gambling. In fact I may tell you it never struck me that the gambling was an objectionable feature of the business. I was more impressed with the opium-smoking and the filthy state of the places they inhabit.

6025. You say it never struck you that gambling was an objectionable feature? No; it certainly did not occur to me in that light.

6026. Do you know that hundreds of Europeans, men and boys, are under an infatuation as regards Chinese gambling, and frequent these places whenever they can, every day in the week, and spend every shilling they get there? I have not seen the state of things you describe in Goulburn-street. I have not seen so much of them in Lower George-street.

6027. If such a state of things as I have described does exist, do you think it would present a permanent objection to the Chinese gambling-dens, and be a reason for suppressing them? Well, it might be a little worse, perhaps, than the gambling which is carried on at any of our race-courses; but really I cannot see very much difference.

6028. Generally, what is your feeling with respect to gambling, Mr. Jeffery? I object to it strongly. But I have said I was not much impressed with that aspect of the question at the time I visited these places. What I did see, and what has astonished me for a very long time, was the condition of the premises in Goulburn-street—the entire absence of anything like sanitary precaution or cleanliness. If such a state of things is contrary to law, why is not the law enforced; and if there is no law at present to adequately deal with it, why is not one quickly passed? There is a regular barracks for Chinese there, and the state in which they live is abominable.

6029. That is a place called Robinson's-lane, is it not? It is on the left-hand side going towards the Trades' Hall.

6030. Robinson's old coach factory? It is evidently something of that kind. The ground utilised for water-closet purposes was also used for storing the vegetables which the Chinese sell about the streets during the day.

6031. You are of opinion that the state of things you saw there must be detrimental to the health and well-being of the surrounding neighbourhood? Yes; I am certain of that. I believe I may say without exaggeration that there were nearly ninety or 100 Chinamen in that place. The houses consist of walls with a lean-to, and they sleep in sack bunks. I went into another place divided off into five or six rooms, with four or five Chinamen in each room, and in some cases two or three Europeans as well. In each of these cases the detective routed the Europeans out.

6032. Did you notice any women there? We found a number of women hanging about outside. They evidently belonged to the Chinamen. They were prostitutes.

6033. You have no evidence to offer as to neglect of duty on the part of the police in connection with the continued existence of these gambling-dens in the state you describe? No; on that point I can only speak from hearsay, and it struck me, as far as I could see and learn from them, that the police were rather chagrined because they could not catch these people. The Chinamen are so very cute, and have most elaborate arrangements to prevent anyone getting in to surprise them. They have men on guard, and a stranger could not get admittance. The police complain of the difficulty of getting at these people, and also that when they do bring them to Court it is fifty to one if they secure a conviction.

6034. Do they complain that the offenders are let off too lightly in Court, or, in other words, that they are fined instead of being imprisoned? The law is somewhat complicated on that point, I understand. I may mention that it is fully two years since I was doing reporting work outside, so that I have had less opportunity of studying the question practically. But I understand, that is, I have always understood the police to complain, in the first place, that they have great difficulty in getting into the Chinese gambling-dens, and, secondly, that when they do proceed against them, the law is so complicated that they frequently get off, because it is provided that they must be caught in the act.

6035. I understand you to say that you have not visited any of these places within the last two or three years? No.

6036. Therefore you cannot say anything as to their condition since the time you went round as you have described? Not directly, but I may mention that I wrote an article at the time descriptive of what I had seen in Goulburn-street, and I find that they cannot be much altered, because an article appeared in the Daily Telegraph much less than a year ago showing that the places in question were in much the same condition as I found and described them three and a half years before. I recognised the places as being the same when I read the Daily Telegraph article.

6037. Mr. McKillop.] Have you ever visited any of the country towns of New South Wales, Mr. Jeffery? Yes; I have never seen them play fan-tan there.

6038. Do you think, if the same amount of gambling was carried on by Europeans as the Chinamen indulge in, that the laws of the country would be put in force against them? Well, I think there is quite as much gambling among Europeans. Take Race Clubs for example, and all such places. There is as much gambling there as among the Chinese.

6039. But the police harass the people who run totes, and looking to that fact, do you not think it singular that these Chinese gambling-dens should be allowed to run such a length of time without a raid being made upon them? No, I do not, considering the difficulties in the way; and there is not much difference as far as that goes; they make a raid now and then on the Chinese places and do the same with the tobacconists who run the totes.

6040. Have you been in any of those places shown on the photograph before you with white paper notices posted in front? No; but I have seen those places.

6041. Did you ever hear what these notices or tickets signify? I have heard that it means that fan-tan is carried on inside.

6042. Yes, "fan-tan day and night." Now, if the same public notices were put up outside European establishments, do you not think the police would prosecute them? Not necessarily in the existing state of the laws.

6043. But if they placed notices up stating that gambling was carried on in the premises? If the notices were in English I imagine they would.

6044. Well there are two Government interpreters of the Chinese language;—could not the police therefore easily find out the meaning of the notices I refer to if they were curious enough to inquire? Doubtless they could; but, as I have said before, I did not intend in coming here to say anything about the gambling. I have paid more attention to the sanitary question, and there can be no doubt that the state of the Chinese quarters I visited was something disgraceful, and a reproach to any civilised community. It should be somebody's business to see how many people live in these places and if proper sanitary provisions are complied with, if not they should be routed out.

6045. Have you seen much opium-smoking? Yes. That is another matter that has struck me as demanding serious attention; that and the sanitary condition of these places.

6046. Have you noticed Europeans smoking opium in these places? Yes, and always under the influence of it. The result seems to be to make them regular outcasts of society, and as the vicious habit takes hold of them it prevents them being reclaimed. Once they take to smoking opium they are fairly lost. Strong measures should be taken to prevent the drug being imported except under the most stringent regulations.

6047. You have spoken about being in San Francisco;—did you spend much time there? I was there about five months.

6048. Were you connected with the Press in San Francisco? No; I was there on other business.

6049. And you visited the Chinese gambling-dens there, out of curiosity, I suppose? Yes; they are very much worse there.

6050. Are you of opinion that there is a likelihood of the Chinese gambling evil assuming equally large dimensions here if the Government do not take some steps to check it? No, not since the poll-tax has been introduced. That, in connection with a vigorously-enforced sanitary law, equal to the circumstances I have mentioned, should have the effect of causing it to die out gradually. Very few of this class, I imagine, would remain. Of course there are numbers of highly respectable Chinese in the country.

6051. Have you heard of any cases of criminal assault upon young boys in connection with the life in these Chinese dens? No.

6052. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did you make the Chinese question in San Francisco a study while you were there? No, I was merely a casual observer, but I took considerable interest in the Chinese here in consequence of my visit to Frisco.

6053. They are quartered in one particular part of the town there, are they not? Yes; that is one great advantage there.

6054. And they have municipal laws in San Francisco which compel the Chinese inhabitants to conform to certain sanitary conditions? Yes. I believe that is the case.

6055. Do you think a similar law should be applied to the Chinese here—that is, that they should be compelled to live in one particular portion of the city? Yes. You may go down Lower George-street and and Goulburn-street and see small houses occupied by Chinese on either side, with no other supervision than the accidental visit of a policeman now and then. This is manifestly a wrong state of things. With such a laxity of supervision in the case of the class of Chinese referred to you can expect nothing better than the experience we have. With a proper system of inspection, backed up by strict sanitary laws, the state of things I have referred to in particular could not exist.

6056. From your knowledge of the Chinese here you regard the sanitary aspect of the question as being of greater importance than the gambling propensities of the race? Yes, for there can be no doubt about the necessity of sanitary laws on the score of the public health and common decency; but I cannot see how gambling on the part of the Chinese can be regarded as such a terrible evil in a community where there is so much gambling in every shape and form.

6057. You think that the Europeans are as bad as the Chinese in that respect? Yes; I have always looked upon it in that light. It has always seemed to me that it does not matter to any one if a Chinaman gambles in his own house. So far as the gambling question itself is concerned—without reference to the mode of living, or vicious habits like opium-smoking—I fail to see that the Chinamen require to be specially dealt with more than the European section of the population who indulge in similar practices. For example, the Chinaman, to my mind, is no more a spider to catch European flies than the European bookmaker, and people of that class.

6058. Mr. McKillop.] In San Francisco the Chinese inhabitants are confined to a particular part of the town? Yes; and they are consequently kept under much better control. You come upon them suddenly, as in some cities in India you do Coolie Town—a small Colony in itself.

6059. You think it would be well to adopt that principle in Australia? Yes; because you could look after them much better.

6060. In your opinion it would be better to keep them isolated? Yes; and special laws made to apply to them. I am under the impression that the existing law is the same for the Chinese as for the white population. That is absurd. Because the proof required to secure conviction of a white man in respect to gambling it is next to impossible to obtain in the case of a Chinaman. For example, there is the initial difficulty of getting into those places. Why, in one of the houses which I visited in Goulburn-street it took us five minutes to reach one room. We passed three guards at each of the doors, of which there was quite a number. It was like entering a gaol. We passed through half a dozen of these doors, and then up a ladder, through a trap-door, to a room, or loft, under the roof. It was more like the kind of thing you read about in novels than a reality of life in our midst. I could hardly have thought it possible had I not seen it, and gone through it. It called to mind places like Radcliff Highway, where they used to rob and murder sailors, and that kind of thing.

6061. Did you find any Europeans there? Yes; hidden away in the loft—wretched white men, crowded with the Chinamen, and smoking opium.

6062. Have you, in your experience as a journalist, ever heard anything of charges against the police of receiving bribes from the Chinese in Lower George-street? No. I do not know much about Lower George-street. I have hung round there, and talked to the police and others; but I never saw anything of consequence there.

6063. Have you noticed Europeans going in and out of the Chinese establishments there? Yes; you can see that by walking down the street any time during the evening.

6064. Have you ever seen any of the police enter these places? No; I have not.

6065. Did you ever know the Chinamen down there to induce men to go into the gambling-houses? No; not to my knowledge.

6066. Have you known or heard of respectable females being insulted by the Chinese in that quarter? No.

6067. Have you been through any of the Chinese settlements in the country? No.

6068. You have said, I think, that the police experience considerable difficulty in procuring convictions against the Chinese gamblers whom they prosecute from time to time? Yes.

6069. That is, I suppose, mainly by reason of the inaccessibility of the premises, as you have described? Yes; because that prevents them, in the majority of cases, from obtaining sufficient evidence to prove their case.

6070. Did I understand you rightly to say that you did not visit the dens of Lower George-street yourself? Yes; I did not visit them.

6071. Did you try? Yes.

6072. You tried at various times, and failed? Yes.

6073. To what did you attribute your failure? To respectable appearance, I suppose.

6074. Then these Europeans whom you saw going in were not of respectable appearance? No; certainly not.

6075. They were habitués of the place, I suppose? Yes; I have not the slightest doubt.

6076. They had the entrée? Yes.

6077. Would that incline you to the opinion that the police have great difficulty in procuring convictions against the Chinese gamblers in Lower George-street? Yes. Indeed it seems to me that the only way to get at them is to give the police greater powers altogether.

6078. Are you acquainted with the police by-laws on the subject now? What I understand is that if they have reasonable grounds for supposing that gambling is carried on they may enter the premises, and arrest the persons they find there, and charge them with gambling, but in order to prove the gambling they must swear that they saw them in the act. It is not sufficient for a policeman to say, for example, "No. 41, George-street, is a gambling-house. I know it to be so." That ought to be sufficient, I think, but it is not under the existing law.

6079. You have evidently given some study to the subject, and, in your opinion, the remedy for this Chinese gambling is to extend the powers of the police, and give greater facilities for proving a case;—you think if the police prove generally that a house is used for gambling purposes, then the presence of people in the room at a fan-tan table, with the implements of the game, should be sufficient to procure a conviction? Yes, I think so, certainly.

6080. Mr. Hawthorne.] If such a law were introduced to apply to the Chinese, do you not think it should be made equally applicable to the European population and their gambling clubs? Yes, I should say, but I have not given that aspect of the question much attention, except that it has always seemed to me to be sheer hypocrisy to complain of Chinese gambling when there is so much of it going on among the Europeans. With regard to the Chinese gambling, I think the best way you can go about suppressing that is by doing as the President has put it. I quite agree with that.

6081. But you think it would be unfair to make one law apply to the Chinese gambler, and exempt the European? That is what has always occurred to me, certainly.

6082. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you ever seen any of the well-known respectable Chinese merchants entering the places where these gambling notices are stuck up? No.

6083. You think the police could ascertain the meaning of these notices if they liked? Yes, they probably do know; and I have no doubt myself that the police have made frequent attempts to catch these people.

6084. And you never saw any respectable Chinese in these places? No; the respectable Chinese merchants are altogether different, as I know from personal experience.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr.
W. Jaffery.
12 Oct., 1891.

Wm. Pow Chee called and examined:—

6085. President.] Where do you live? At No. 318, Sussex-street.

6086. What is your business or occupation? I am a schoolmaster and interpreter. I used to keep a night-school.

6087. Of what class of the community are your pupils? I teach any of the Chinese who want to learn English.

6088. And you are interpreter, you say? Yes.

6089. By whom are you employed as interpreter? By my own people who want anyone to look after their business, and also I have been employed on different occasions by the Government.

6090. How long have you been in this country? Close on thirteen years.

6091. Are you married? I am.

6092. Have you only one wife here? Yes.

6093. Are there any Chinese societies in Sydney that you know? Yes.

6094. Will you tell me the names of them? There is one very old society called Quong Sing Tong; there are also Koong Yee Tong, Loon Yee Tong, Chung Fook Tong, Yum Tak Tong, and Bo On Long. Those are all I know.

6095. What is the object of No. 1—the Quong Sing Tong? Most of these societies were instituted for charitable purposes, to assist any of our countrymen in poverty, difficulty, or sickness. Also in the case of old people who have no money to go home, they will pay their expenses.

6096. Then the objects of most of them are good? Yes.

6097. Are you a member of the Loon Yee Tong? No; I am a member of the Yum Tak Long and Chung Fook Tong. I know the society you mention has done some good, but I do not know very much of it.

6098. Do you know how many members there are in the Loon Yee Tong? It belongs to two districts, and I think about 80 or 90 per cent. of those districts belong to the society.

6099. It has a pretty numerous membership? I think it is about 1,500.

6100. Mr. Quong Tart.] In Sydney? Yes; in Sydney, and some in the country. I think it has about that number.

6101. President.] Has the society any other object besides the charitable purposes you have spoken of? That I cannot say, because I do not belong to it.

6102. What you heard then—do you not know, as a matter of fact that they have some other object? I have heard nothing about the Loon Yee Tong.

6103. Do you mean to say that you do not know the Loon Yee Tong has other objects besides assisting sick and aged people? I know it once sent a large amount of money to the hospital in Hong Kong.

6104. Tell me under what circumstances they sent that money to the hospital in Hong Kong? They sent the money to prepare coffins, and —

6105. Come, do you not know that they sent the money home because they had a dispute here among themselves? Yes, they had. I know there was some dispute—I heard so.

6106. You can very well distinguish between what you know and what you heard. You must not conceal anything? No; I do not conceal anything.

6107. You had better not. Now, do you not know that they sent the money home because they had a violent dispute among themselves? I do not know that they had a violent dispute. All I know is that that society belongs to two districts, and they could not agree; I cannot tell you what the disagreement was; but I know there was some dispute, and so the society was dissolved.

6108. Remember you are on your oath, and if you do not speak the truth the consequences will be unpleasant. Do you not know, or have you not heard, that one of the objects of the Loon Yee Tong is to defend members of the society against prosecutions by the police, or against attacks by any other persons, when they consider it right to use the funds for that purpose? I cannot say that. I never heard anything of that kind.

6109. You have never heard that they have employed, or may use their funds for defending the members of the society from the police? No; I never heard that.

6110. Or to pay the fines of members proceeded against at the Police Court? No.

6111. Will you swear that the funds of the Loon Yee Tong are used only for charitable purposes? I will swear they have done some good things, but will not swear that they have not done some improper things.

6112. What makes the doubt in your mind? Because there was a case between two districts, Ton King and Hong Chong, and from what I heard the parties could not supply the expenses for the law, and the society assisted them.

6113. Can you tell me what particular case that was? I cannot tell you that. That is what I heard.

6114. I want to know what the case was? No. I remember the case was settled after all.

6115. What were the names of the people? There were a good few altogether in the case.

6116. Tell me some of the principal? Wong Kong, Chung Cheong, and Chung Kum.

6117. Now tell me what the case was about? It arose out of a gambling-house.

W.
Pow Chee.
12 Oct., 1891.

W.
Pow Chee.
12 Oct., 1891.

6118. Whose gambling-house? I do not know the name.
6119. Tell me where it was? It was in the old premises of Samuel, the pawnbroker's establishment, in Lower George-street.
6120. Who was it that first appealed to the Loon Yee Tong? I do not know that.
6121. What was the nature of the dispute? Something connected with the fan-tan gambling.
6122. Was it a dispute about the division of the profits—the winnings? No; it was not that.
6123. Then what was it? Wong Kong went into the house to play fan-tan, and they had a dispute about something, and there was a fight.
6124. What was it about;—what did they fight for? They fought for the money.
6125. How much money was involved? Not a large amount. They had some words, and could not be satisfied, so they went and brought some people from outside to fight.
6126. Are all these disputes settled by the Loon Yee Tong? I cannot say they are settled by the Loon Yee Tong, but by the Loon Yee Tong people.
6127. By the officers of that society? Yes; I think so.
6128. How much do the gambling-houses contribute out of the stakes to the Loon Yee Tong; how much in the shilling or £? I cannot say that.
6129. You do not know how much? No.
6130. You know, of course, that they do contribute? I cannot say that; I do not know it.
6131. Have you not heard so? I have heard that there was something.
6132. Have you not heard that the gambling-houses regularly contribute so much to the Loon Yee Tong? No; I have not heard it that.
6133. What societies do they contribute to? Do you mean the gamblers themselves?
6134. Yes? They subscribe 3d. in each £ to a fund which they afterwards divide among themselves.
6135. Is it not a fact that they subscribe that money to defend each other from the police? I do not know that.
6136. Why do they subscribe among themselves 3d. in the £ to a fund to be afterwards divided among themselves? Because that money belongs to the gambling-house keepers, do you not know?
6137. No, I do not know; I want you to tell me—to make it plain;—what do they apply the fund to? Just to divide among themselves.
6138. But that would be an unnecessary proceeding—to put their own money into a fund to divide among themselves again? But sometimes there might be a good business in one house and not so good a business in another.
6139. Therefore they put it into a common fund? Yes.
6140. Then I want to know what they do so for—there must be some use for it? I do not know that.
6141. Will you swear that? I do not know it.
6142. Have you not heard? I have not.
6143. Do you not know that it is to pay the expenses incurred by the Loong Yee Tong? —
6144. Do you not know that the money is used to pay the police court fines of your countrymen? No; I do not know that.
6145. Have you ever told any of your countrymen that you knew they used the money to bribe the police? I am quite sure I never said anything of the kind.
6146. Would you be surprised to know that it has been alleged that you are conversant with the fact that the police have been bribed? I have never heard anything like that among my countrymen.
6147. And you never said so yourself? No.
6148. You are quite certain? Yes.
6149. That the Lower George-street gambling-houses had “squared” the police;—did you never say that? I never said that myself.
6150. Are you quite sure? Yes; quite sure.
6151. Now, tell me how they get the funds for the Loon Yee Tong? They get it from the different members.
6152. How much? I think they get 5s. from each. Then they make a second call; they subscribe twice.
6153. Who are the officers? The business people; Way Kee and Ye Sang Loong might have taken charge of the money.
6154. Have you any idea how much money there was? No; I have no idea.
6155. Do you know Moy Ping? I do.
6156. Do you think Moy Ping ever bribed the police or made them any presents? I do not think that.
6157. You are often down in Lower George-street, I suppose? Yes; very often.
6158. Do you play fan-tan yourself? I have played, but it is my business to go into these places whenever I want to.
6159. I understand. You have been in many times, at any rate? Yes.
6160. Have you ever seen any policemen in there? I have seen them in these places.
6161. In uniform? Yes.
6162. What did they do when they went in? They went in to have a look round, and turn the Europeans out.
6163. Did you ever know them to arrest anyone there? I heard of one raid that the police made upon a gambling-house in Lower George-street.
6164. When was that? Not quite three years ago.
6165. But you have been in a gambling-house since then? Yes.
6166. And have you seen the police go in and disperse the people? The police go in, because very often Europeans are found there, and when the police find them there they turn them out.
6167. Have you ever seen the police take the money that has been on the gambling-table? I have not.
6168. What becomes of the money on the fan-tan table when the police turn all the white men out? There might not be any money on the table. The Europeans may only go in there to have a sit down and a smoke and have a yarn.
6169. On the occasions when you went into these houses the Europeans were simply sitting down and smoking? Yes.
6170. Now do they not gamble when they go in? Yes; they do gamble.

6171. Have you not been in there when the police have come in and disturbed them gambling? No.
6172. You just now said they did? No; I said the police came in, and seeing the Europeans there, just turned them out.
6173. Surely the police would not do that unless they were doing something improper or illegal? Whether they are gambling or not they turn them out.
6174. Is it not a fact that you were present in some of these gambling-houses when the police came in and the money on the table was taken up? No, never.
6175. Are you quite sure? Yes.
6176. But you remembered a little while ago that you were present when the police came in, and they were disturbed and turned out? No; not while they were gambling. I never was present on any occasion when the police made a raid on the gambling-houses. Only a couple of times I saw Europeans turned out, and then they were in the shop, where the police could see them from the street, and they came in and turned them out. There was no money on the table, and no gambling business done then.
6177. Are all these other societies that you have mentioned innocent of the charge of contributing to a defence fund? I know nothing about that.
6178. Have you not been charged with any offence by the police? Not I. I do not frequent the gambling-houses myself. I have played fan-tan, but I do not make my living there. I do not frequent them in the same way that the others do; but as they are my countrymen I often go in there.
6179. Are you an opium-smoker? I have smoked opium, but I am not a general smoker.
6180. How many people have you living in your house? Only myself and my wife. I am living in Sussex-street. There are no other Chinamen in that neighbourhood.
6181. Do you smoke opium at home? No.
6182. Where do you go to smoke opium? I go out for it. It is only when I am in the company of my countrymen that I smoke opium.
6183. Is it not a fact that you are yourself connected with some of these gambling-houses in Lower George-street? No; I am not, and never was.
6184. Have you not an interest in No. 198, Tiy Wah Tong, Lower George-street? No.
6185. In no way connected with it? No. I have never had any interest in or connection with any gambling-house in Sydney.
6186. Are you in any way whatever connected with the business carried on in No. 198, Lower George-street? Not in any way.
6187. Who lives there? Tiy Wah Tong is the name outside the shop. He is no gambler. The gambling is at the back.
6188. What does he do? It is a chemist's shop, kept by a Chinese doctor.
6189. Do you visit him much? Yes; the doctor is my friend.
6190. Do you know Tin Sing, 174, George-street? I know the people who are living there; they are gamblers.
6191. Is he a friend of yours? No; no friend of mine.
6192. When did you see him last? A few days ago.
6193. What had you to say to him then? Nothing particular.
6194. Do you know No. 177, George-street—Fook Wah Tong? Yes, I do.
6195. What is he? It is a gambler's shop.
6196. Do you know 179, Lower George-street—Bow Sing Tong? Yes.
6197. What is that place? That house is kept by several gamblers.
6198. They are friends of yours, are they not? No; they are simply my countrymen. I know them all, but they are not what I would call my friends.
6199. Tiy Wah Tong is your friend? Yes.
6200. Now, is it not a fact that you have had conversations with him about the police and these gambling-houses, and about this Commission being appointed? I might have had.
6201. Do you not remember saying that it would be impossible for the Commission to do anything, that the police were all right; just think if you did not say that? No.
6202. Are you quite sure you said nothing of the kind? Quite sure.
6203. Did not your friend tell you that the keepers of the gambling-houses in Lower George-street made presents to the police of jewellery, or anything else? No.
6204. You never heard of the police getting anything at all from them in the shape of bribes, or presents of any kind? No, I never heard that.
6205. But you conversed with your friend about the Commission? Yes.
6206. What did you say about it? I said that the people who kept the gambling-houses would not like it stopped, but I was sure if the gambling was stopped it would do more good than harm to my countrymen.
6207. Did you not talk about the police not suppressing it? No; I said nothing about the police.
6208. Did it never occur to you as a strange thing that the police took no steps to suppress the gambling? I did say to my friend that I knew that the Government had heard that the police had taken bribes from my countrymen, and I supposed that the police were in a great way about it, if they did not receive any bribes; but if they did do anything like that, then of course they knew their own business. I never knew that the police received anything from my countrymen.
6209. That is not the question;—did it not occur to you as being strange that the police did not suppress the gambling in Lower George-street—you have only to say yes or no? No. No such thing ever arose in my mind.
6210. What do you mean by that;—did it not appear strange to you, as a sensible man, that the police took no steps to put down the gambling in Lower George-street—I must have an answer to that? Well, I knew they did try it.
6211. Tell me how many times you have known the police to make raids on the gambling-houses in Lower George-street during the last three years? I can only remember three times.
6212. When was the first? When they visited Koong Sun Goon.
6213. How long ago was that? About three years ago.
6214. When was the second occasion? When they raided Tong Sing Goon.
6215. And the third case? Moy Ping.
6216. Did they prosecute anyone on the first occasion that you have mentioned? Yes, and they were committed for trial.

- W.
Pow Chee.
12 Oct., 1891.
6217. Is it not a fact that some of your friends on that occasion were saved by the Loon Yee Tong? No.
6218. How do you know? Because I do not know it myself.
6219. You first said "No" directly to the question I put to you, and you must have had a reason for saying that;—you must give proper answers to the questions I put to it. Now were not some members of the Loon Yee Tong prosecuted on that occasion? Yes; I think there were.
6220. Was the money found by themselves or by the society? By themselves I think. I know I was employed by the defence. It was at the Quarter Sessions.
6221. Is it not true that in connection with some of those prosecutions you said that Mr. Inspector Atwill would let the men off easily? No; I knew he was a different man altogether from that. I do not think he is a man to take a bribe.
6222. You know Mr. Atwill well? I do not know him.
6223. When did you see him last? Some time ago. I have frequently seen him in the street.
6224. Have you seen him to speak to within the last month? No.
6225. Have you received any message from him? —
6226. Have none of your countrymen come to you and spoken to you about him? They might have done in regard to some Court cases—I cannot remember.
6227. I suppose Inspector Atwill employs you as interpreter sometimes? No; he never did.
6228. Do you know any of the police in Lower George-street? I know a few.
6229. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? I do not know their names. There is one sergeant I know, and one constable and detective I know down there.
6230. Will you swear that you are not connected in any way with any of the gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes; I will.
6231. And you do not derive any profit from any of them? No.
6232. Do you know Sam War? Yes.
6233. Is he not banker for the three or four houses I have mentioned? I do not know.
6234. Have you had any business transactions with him at all? Yes, I have.
6235. What have been the nature of those transactions? Simply, I have gone there to buy things—provisions.
6236. What business does he carry on? A storekeeper, wholesale and retail. All the wholesale Chinese stores do a retail trade as well.
6237. Does he sell opium? Yes.
6238. In small quantities? That I do not know.
6239. Have you not bought opium from him in small quantities? No, I have never done that.
6240. If you have not bought it there where do you get your opium from? I bought it in tins. I have not smoked for a long time.
6241. Where do you keep the opium? At home.
6242. Did you not tell me a little while ago that you do not smoke at home? I did not smoke at home.
6243. Then what did you keep the opium at home for? I could not carry it about with me. I have not smoked for a long time.
6244. Now did you not buy small quantities of the drug in Sam War's when you were smoking? No, I have bought small quantities, but not in Sam War's.
6245. You have only been married once out here, you say? Yes.
6246. Have you always lived with your wife? No, I parted with her six years ago, or more.
6247. Where is she now? I do not know.
6248. You are living with a woman now? Yes.
6249. How long have you been living with her? For three years.
6250. Are you married to her? No.
6251. Mr. McKillop.] Before you came to New South Wales, where did you reside? I have never lived in any other colony. I visited Brisbane once.
6252. Were you educated in English in your own country? Yes, in Hong Kong.
6253. Were you ever in business? I was.
6254. In what kind of business? Storekeeping.
6255. Where was your business? In Cooma. It only lasted a few months. I also kept a small grocery store in the place where I am living now. I only gave it up a few months ago.
6256. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long ago is it since you were in Cooma? Ten years ago.
6257. Mr. McKillop.] What business were you in there? Agent storekeeper.
6258. Were you in a large way of business? No; I was employed by Chen Ah Tik.
6259. It was not your own business? No.
6260. Had you not a business in Sydney? No.
6261. Were you not set up by the respectable Chinese merchants? No.
6262. Nor by the Chinese gambling-house keepers? No.
6263. Are you quite sure of that? Yes.
6264. How do you gain a living at the present time? I earn a good deal by interpreting. That alone would pay all my expenses. And I kept a night school until a fortnight ago.
6265. You found that a bad spec? No, I got tired of it. I made an average of 30s. a week by the school.
6266. What do your earnings as an interpreter average? Not less than £200 a year.
6267. Do you act as interpreter for the Government? Occasionally, when they require me.
6268. Who engages you when you interpret for the Government? I have been employed by the Sergeant of Police at Penrith. He sent one of my countrymen to Sydney to engage the services of an interpreter.
6269. Were you ever engaged in Sydney. Yes.
6270. Who engaged you then? The Inspector-General of Police.
6271. Did he send for you privately? No, I was recommended by Chen Ah Tik.
6272. Have you been engaged by anybody else? I have been employed by the police several times down George-street way, but I cannot remember the names; and there was nothing particular about it; they simply said, "Come along, we want you."
6273. You stated distinctly that you had been engaged very often by certain policemen down in that district? I do not say that I have been engaged very frequently in interpreting business; not by the police so very often, but by the public.!

W.
Pow Chee.
12 Oct., 1891.

6274. But you have been engaged by certain police officers in that district? Not lately, but during the last two years I may have been.
6275. In that district—Lower George-street? Yes.
6276. Who generally engaged you—Inspector Atwill? No, he never did.
6277. Sergeant Macintosh? No.
6278. Constable Beadman? No. I know him. He never engaged me.
6279. Were you ever in company with him? Yes.
6280. Did you ever make a present to him? No.
6281. Did you ever see him receive a present? No.
6282. Did he ever talk to you about the Chinese gambling-dens? Yes.
6283. What did he say to you? He complained to me about it being said that the police received presents. He said to me, "You are a Chinese, and know all about the business of the Chinese, and you know whether they have given me presents." That was the complaint he made to me.
6284. What did you say to that? I said there were some bad people among my countrymen, who were jealous of each other, and would make up lies to tell.
6285. Were you greatly shocked to hear of such a charge being made against Beadman? No, I do not say I was shocked.
6286. You think it quite possible that bribes might have been received? It is possible—anything is possible. I have known magistrates to receive bribes.
6287. In this country? No, not in this country. In China I knew that. Anybody might take a bribe who liked to risk it.
6288. Were you ever insolvent? No.
6289. How many white women have you lived with since you have been in this Colony? Two—my wife whom I parted with, and the woman I am living with now. I found I was not satisfied with my wife, and as I could not make better terms with her we parted.
6290. Was she given to opium-smoking? No. I have heard she does now, but she did not when with me.
6291. Is it not a fact that she knocks about Goulburn and Sussex streets now? Yes; since we parted.
6292. Have you seen her lately? No, not for two and a half years.
6293. Is she in gaol now? I heard she was for one month.
6294. How long ago is that? Some twelve months ago.
6295. Do you not know as a positive fact that she is out of gaol now, and living in adultery with certain of your countrymen? No; I do not like to know. I do not inquire anything about her. I do not keep such things in mind.
6296. Have you not been told by any of your countrymen? No; my friends would not like to tell me things like that.
6297. Are you married to the woman you are now living with? No.
6298. Is she a respectable woman? Yes.
6299. Where was she employed when she went to live with you? In some public-house.
6300. Do you know the public-house? No.
6301. Do you not know the name of it? No. She did not tell me where she was employed. She was living with her mother at that time.
6302. Where did you become acquainted with her—in the public-house? No; through an intimate friend.
6303. Was the intimate friend a countryman of yours? No; a countryman's wife—a European.
6304. What is her name? Mrs. King.
6305. Is Mr. King a Chinaman? Yes.
6306. Where does he reside? He is dead, and she is married again.
6307. You received an introduction to the woman you are living with through this Mrs. King? Yes.
6308. Where did the introduction take place? I think it was in some store down Lower George-street.
6309. Some Chinaman's store? Yes. Mrs. King was in company with my present wife at the time.
6310. Did you ever see your present wife previous to this introduction you spoke of? No.
6311. Did you ask this Mrs. King, the wife of your Chinese friend, to get you a nice young girl? No.
6312. Was it quite by accident that you came on the scene in this store in Lower George-street, or was it by arrangement? It was by accident. I was introduced to her, and made her acquaintance in that way.
6313. Did you live with her straight away, as man and wife? No. I was acquainted with her nearly twelve months before that.
6314. What is your reason for not marrying her? Because I cannot.
6315. Why cannot you marry her? I have been married once already.
6316. It is against the law of the country? Yes.
6317. Not in China? No; but in this country it is.
6318. You know well that your own wife has been living in adultery? Yes.
6319. Is it not possible to free yourself from her? It is quite possible, if I liked to apply to the law, and get a divorce.
6320. Do you not think it would be very sensible for you to do so, and make this woman you are living with your wife? Yes; but what I am doing is quite respectable in my race, and many gentlemen would do the same in my circumstances.
6321. Are there any other occupants of your house beside yourself? No. After I closed the shop I let it to a fruiterer, and he kept it open for a few months only. I then let it to another party, who ran what he called "The International Importing Company"; but he left in a few weeks time.
6322. What did the Company import? Nothing; it was a fraud.
6323. How many rooms are there in your house? There are two rooms downstairs, the shop and a sitting room; upstairs, a front bedroom and a back room that was formerly used as a servant's room. That room is now vacant.
6324. Have you had any lodgers there since you have lived in that house? Yes; I had three ladies, a mother and two daughters.
6325. Were they respectable? Yes. They came down from the country, and they said they could not afford to go to large expense.

- W.
Pow Chee.
12 Oct., 1891.
6326. Was it a furnished room? Not properly furnished, just a bed, and I supplied them with blankets.
6327. What rent do you pay? I pay £1 a week. When I had the shop going it was 25s., but when I gave up business the landlord reduced it to £1.
6328. Who is your landlord? Mr. Doyle, solicitor, Elizabeth-street.
6329. Did you say you had at one time held some office in the Loon Yee Tong? No; in the Bow On Tong—that is a different district altogether. They would not admit me to the Loon Yee Tong if I were to pay £100.
6330. Did you ever attend one of their meetings? No.
6331. Do you remember a difficulty occurring amongst the members of the Loon Yee Tong concerning a large sum of money? No.
6332. You do not remember anything about that? No.
6333. Do you remember a row or riot taking place in Lower George-street, when a half-caste Chinese named William Riley was assaulted? No.
6334. Do you know of a row taking place there at any time, when a Chinaman was beaten for giving information to the police? No; at that time I was not in Sydney. I came to Sydney in 1884.
6335. Do you know of any case where one of your countrymen was beaten for giving certain information to the police? I heard of one lately. A man told me that he gave the police certain information, for them to make a raid upon a gambling-house in Newcastle, and—I forget how the case resulted—he got a beating. That man is a gambler himself.
6336. What is his name? Wong Sing.
6337. Is he at present in Sydney? I do not know.
6338. Was he beaten very much? He did not show any marks.
6339. Do you know Sun Sam Kee? I do.
6340. Where does he reside? In George-street North.
6341. Do they carry on a legitimate business there? I think so.
6342. Is not gambling carried on there to a large extent? I have not been there for some twelve months.
6343. At the time that you used to go there, was gambling carried on to a large extent? I cannot say a large extent, but I know it was carried on.
6344. Who carries on the firm of Sun Sam Kee? A few of them. Sun Sam Kee has gone home to China.
6345. How many are in the firm? It is very hard for me to tell other people's business—it is not a nice thing.
6346. I want you to tell the Commission who the persons are that comprise the firm of Sun Sam Kee, and I know you can tell if you will? The masters are Lee Jue Kum, Lee Hang Kee, Ching Quong Ling, and Sam Lin.
6347. Who is manager? Lee Jue Kum; but he has gone home to China, and left his nephew to take charge of his business.
6348. What is the name of Lee Jue Kum's nephew? Lum Hing; but they are all equal. When there is any business to be done they all consult together.
6349. They are free agents, to do what they like? Yes.
6350. If anyone has stated that he is manager of the firm then that is not correct? It might be so, that one has more power than the other, but to my idea they are all about equal.
6351. Do they do a legitimate business? They have some customers from New Zealand who come and stop there.
6352. What, is it a common boarding-house? They board no one.
6353. They do not do anything in the grocery line? No.
6354. Then it is a common lodging-house—a free and easy, is that it? —
6355. And gamble to their heart's content, I suppose? Yes; I think so.
6356. You stated, when you were being examined by the President, that you have gambled yourself. Have you ever lost a large sum of money? No; I do not gamble now. The largest sum of money I ever lost was £20.
6357. Have you ever won a large sum of money? No.
6358. While you have been gambling have you been a loser or a gainer in the long run? I have been a loser.
6359. Are you in partnership with any of the gambling-houses in the city or suburbs? No.
6360. Are you sure? Quite sure.
6361. Did you at any time invite Robert Lee Kam to attend a meeting of your countrymen? No.
6362. For the purpose of collecting money to fight the Government? No; never.
6363. You are quite sure? Yes.
6364. Will you swear that? Yes; positively.
6365. Is it not a fact that some of your countrymen after giving evidence here have come to you and talked the whole matter over? I had a conversation with Yung Yow, who was here last Friday.
6366. Who else—Way Kee, or his nephew? No.
6367. You have not had any conversation with any other of your countrymen? No.
6368. You are quite positive? Yes; I think I had a few words with Wong Lee Kum.
6369. What was that about? I said you have been to the Commission, and he said, yes, and then he told me something. I do not remember what.
6370. What was that something—you must remember? He said that he asked Mr. Quong Tart certain things, and he did not answer him.
6371. I want to know what he said to you—did he tell you to ask the question again when you came here? No. He said he asked Mr. Quong Tart about the time when he acted for the Chinese who were not allowed to land here—about the expenses—and Mr. Tart would not answer him. That is all.
6372. Did he not say something about £100;—remember you are on your oath? No.
6373. Did he not tell you that Mr. Quong Tart got £100 from the Government to send the Chinamen away, that he did not send them away, and that he and his partner stuck to the £100? No; he did not tell me that.
6374. Now be very careful? He did not say a word of £100; he said the sum was £1,200. It was to send some Chinamen away back to China. That was the indemnity paid by the Government to the Chinamen, because they were not allowed to land.
- 6375.

6375. And what did he say about this £1,200? He told me he asked Mr. Quong Tart what was done with the money; that was all.
6376. Did he say he asked Mr. Quong Tart if he had stuck to the money or not? I do not think he told me that.
6377. Do you object to gambling yourself? I do.
6378. Strongly? Yes, strongly.
6379. And you would like to see it put down? Yes, from my heart. It is a bad thing for the people. There may be a few who get a living by it, but it damages the poor people very much.
6380. Would you assist in any effort to put it down? Yes.
6381. Have you ever done so hitherto? No.
6382. Why did you not do so since you knew it was wrong? It is like this: I know gambling is a bad thing, but I do not think any good man would go to the authorities, and give information against those who were gambling; I do not believe in that. If any one was appointed to act on behalf of the Crown, that is a different thing altogether.
6383. Suppose you saw a woman being beaten to death would you not step in and inform the authorities? I would so.
6384. That is because you consider it would be wrong? Yes.
6385. And you consider gambling wrong also, I suppose? Yes.
6386. Then why would you not inform on the gamblers? I would like to stop it, but —
6387. Is it not because you are afraid of your life? No; I have a little more courage than that. But the thing stands like this: If I did such a thing I would be going against my countrymen, and I would not like to do it.
6388. I suppose their hand would be against you—you would be regarded as an outcast? I would be looked upon as being against them, and they would not trust me in any way, and I have to earn my living among my countrymen.
6389. But you say the public support you in earning your living, and therefore is it not your duty to suppress any evils that exist in the community? It is quite true, but most of my countrymen think differently.
6390. In fact you have not that amount of moral courage? No.
6391. Do you remember the night that this Commission paid a visit to Lower George-street? Yes, I remember the occasion. I was teaching a school at the time.
6392. Where were you on that occasion? In Queen-street.
6393. That is off George-street? Yes; at the back of George-street.
6394. Did you hear that the Commissioners were to pay a visit to Lower George-street? No.
6395. You did not hear that previously? No; only at the time the Commissioners were passing, the people where I was informed me that the Commissioners were with Mr. Quong Tart visiting the Chinese houses in Lower George-street.
6396. You heard it at your school that night? Yes.
6397. Do men frequent your school? Yes, all grown up people.
6398. Is there any opium-smoking carried on there? No.
6399. It was a strictly moral place? It was not to say very strict. They came there to learn, that is all.
6400. But nothing indecent was carried on there? No.
6401. Do you remember the Commission paying a visit to Goulburn-street? No, I do not remember that; but I know the Commission did go to Goulburn-street.

[The further examination of this witness was postponed till next sitting day.]

WEDNESDAY, 14 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Wm. Pow Chee further examined:—

6402. Mr. McKillop.] What rent do you pay for the house you live in? £1 a week. I paid 25s. before, but the rent was lowered.
6403. Do you allow any gambling on your premises? No, I never have at any time.
6404. Have you had any conversation with Long Pen with regard to this Commission? No.
6405. Not at any time? No.
6406. Have you heard him say anything in your hearing as to what he intended doing with members of this Commission, more particularly with Mr. Quong Tart? No; I had no conversation with him whatever.
6407. Are you allowed a certain percentage commission by the keepers of some of these gambling-houses? No, sir.
6408. They do not give you any commission? No, never.
6409. Are you quite sure? Yes; I have never received anything from them.
6410. Not from Sam Kee? No, not from any of them. I have no interest whatever in the gambling-houses.
6411. Have you lived in Lower George-street at any time since you have been in Sydney? Not in George-street. I lived in Harrington-street. When I first went to that end of the town I lived in Little Essex-street, and kept a school there. I remained there for nearly one year, when I removed to Harrington-street, to a bigger house, and also kept a school there.
6412. Did you at any time, when you lived in the direction of the Rocks, keep a brothel? No.
6413. Were you ever connected with a house kept for immoral purposes? No, never.
6414. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? Yes.
6415. Do you know if at any time he received a bribe or present of any kind? No.

- W.
Pow Chee.
14 Oct., 1891.
6416. Are you sure? Quite sure.
6417. Do you know Constable Adair? I do not know him. I know nearly every one of them by sight. I can tell what station they belong to.
6418. Do you know anything about the Chinese being brought to this country under agreement;—do they come under a certain agreement to the merchants here to work the gardens, &c.? I think not many. I do not know of more than forty of my countrymen who have been sent out by the merchants, or any people of substantial position.
6419. Are they brought out under a special agreement from China? Some of them I know have been.
6420. In the cases you know of, for what length of time did they sign, do you know? I know Dr. On Lee engaged, I think, thirty from China, and every one of them signed an agreement for a term of five years.
6421. What remuneration (wages) were they to receive? I was acting as interpreter for the employees, but they showed me no agreement. They said they agreed to come here to get fair wages.
6422. What were the wages? I do not know what the agreement was, but they signed for £1 a week.
6423. Was that £1 a week and found? Yes; they were to live in the garden.
6424. Did they win the action against Dr. On Lee? No.
6425. And you did not see any agreement? No.
6426. Was no agreement produced in Court? No.
6427. Was it owing to that that they lost the case? I think the Judge did not believe the employer ever agreed to give such good wages, because some of the witnesses said that the Chinese working class in their own country received low wages, and it was not likely that Dr. On Lee would engage the men at such a rate.
6428. What was your opinion—did you think the wages were £1 per week? They told me so.
6429. What did Dr. On Lee say he had agreed to pay them? He said he agreed to pay them 60 dollars a year, and that included everything.
6430. Did it include clothing and all? No; they had to find their own clothing.
6431. Do you know of any other cases where the Chinese merchants in Lower George-street or Goulburn-street have brought Chinamen to this country under a similar agreement? I know a couple, but I cannot think of their names now. They brought out some men, but they did not impose upon them as Dr. On Lee did. They let them do as they liked.
6432. What wages did they pay them? I think they paid them 100 dollars a year, and everything found.
6433. Are there a great number of Chinamen brought here under similar agreements now? I do not think so. I do not know of any.
6434. I suppose if there were such cases the person or persons bringing them here would have to pay the poll-tax? Yes; Dr. On Lee did.
6435. Did he deduct that amount from the wages of these men during the course of the five years for which they were engaged? Yes; he did.
6436. I suppose the poll-tax was deducted also in other cases where the men were brought out under agreement? I do not know the terms of any others.
6437. But you are certain of the terms in the case of Dr. On Lee? Yes.
6438. Have you ever travelled about Botany and Waterloo, and North Shore? Yes.
6439. Is there a great deal of gambling carried on in those places? Not on the North Shore.
6440. In Botany? In Waterloo there is, but not in Botany. I only know one in Botany.
6441. Can you give us the name of that one? I forget the name. It is next door to the Chinese Church.
6442. A Christian Church? Yes.
6443. Have you ever been up country in this Colony? Yes.
6444. In what part? I have been in Narrandera. I was in the township—not in the part where the Chinese live; and I have been in Wagga Wagga.
6445. Mr. Hawthorne.] When you were in Narrandera did you not get down to the Chinese camp, close by the river? No; I was in a store there, and it was in the township.
6446. Were you not tempted, out of curiosity, to visit the Chinese quarters, the same as Europeans do there? No; I have no curiosity, because I understand all about their ways.
6447. Is there not a great amount of gambling carried on in the Chinese camp at Narrandera? I am under the impression there is.
6448. You say you were in Wagga Wagga;—are there a large number of Chinese there? Not very large I think. I stayed there only two days.
6449. Did you ever stop for any considerable length of time in any of the inland towns of this Colony? I was in Tingha for twenty-two months.
6450. There are a number of your countrymen there? Yes.
6451. They are working in the mines there? Yes.
6452. How long ago is it since you were there? About 1883.
6453. Used there to be a great deal of gambling going on when you were in Tingha? I knew three houses there.
6454. Were they large establishments? They were large huts—about as large as a medium sized house.
6455. Did the Europeans go there to gamble? No.
6456. Were all the gamblers Chinamen? Yes.
6457. Were there many white women there mixing with the Chinese? No; at that time I knew only one bad woman there.
6458. Were there any white women married to Chinamen? There were two, including a half-caste.
6459. Did they live in the camp? No; they lived with respectable Chinese.
6460. Do you know a person named Gouldtown? I do.
6461. How long have you known him? I have known him, I think, about two years.
6462. What do you know of him? I know he acts in cases for the Chinamen.
6463. Do you know him to be a respectable man? He appears to me to be respectable.
6464. At any time since you have known him has he done anything to your knowledge that would bring discredit on him? I do not know anything like that.

W.
Pow Chee.
14 Oct., 1891.

6465. You do not know anything against his character? The only thing I know against his character is his living in the gambling-houses.
6466. He used to live in the gambling-houses? Yes.
6467. Did he work on commission for the gambling-houses, or was he a partner in any of them? I think he was.
6468. Can you tell me the name of any firm in which he was a partner? I cannot swear that he was a partner, but that was my opinion. I cannot swear positively that he was.
6469. Was he held in high estimation and respect by the respectable Chinese in Lower George-street and other parts of the city; that is, did he visit their houses, and associate with them? Yes.
6470. Now, tell me the name of any partner, or supposed partner, of Mr. Gouldtown;—you must know the house he used to reside in? Yes; I used to visit there.
6471. Well what house did he reside in? One house I know is Lee On's, and he used to live upstairs.
6472. Was it Goulburn-street? Yes.
6473. And he lived there, you say? Yes; he told me he had a share in it.
6474. Do you know if he has still got a share in that house? Most likely.
6475. Do you know where Gouldtown is at present? No. I did inquire among his own countrymen. He is of a different district to me. I said, "Where has Mr. Gouldtown gone to." Some of them said, "He has cleared away on account of this gambling affair." One friend of his told me that he did not believe Gouldtown had cleared away on that account, and said he had received a letter from him.
6476. What is that man's name? I forget just now.
6477. Where does he live? In Goulburn-street.
6478. What is the number of the house? I do not remember the number.
6479. Does he live at Lee On's? I suppose so.
6480. You are supposed to tell us all you know about this man? I do not like to tell other people's business; it is not a nice thing to do.
6481. But it is your duty to assist this Commission in every way possible, in justice to all parties;—what did this man tell you? He said that Gouldtown was to come down in a week's time.
6482. How long is it since you had this conversation? A couple of weeks ago.
6483. Have you seen or spoken to the person who told you that since? I might have seen him, but I do not remember.
6484. Did you have any conversation with him after that? No.
6485. Have you seen Mr. Gouldtown in Sydney since that? No.
6486. Have you any idea where he is? I heard that he had been at Emmaville, and I heard, also, that he had been in Brisbane.
6487. Is it a fact that you have great influence with those of your countrymen who hail from your own part of China? No; I wish I had. I should be doing a good business for myself if I had influence with them.
6488. Mr. Abigail.] Who is the most influential Chinaman of your class in Sydney? I think they are very nearly all alike—one would not be ruled over by another.
6489. What I mean is, do they not look up to one individual among them to counsel or advise them when they are in difficulties? They generally go to someone who understands English.
6490. Do they not come to you? Some of them do in regard to cases of difficulty.
6491. Is there any other Chinaman who understands English to whom they go for advice—those of your class, or "district," I am now referring to more particularly? There are a couple I know who speak English. It is not likely they would come to me, you know.
6492. Why not? Well they come to me for any advice in matters of law that I understand, but they go to others for other things.
6493. If they got into any difficulty—suppose, for example, they were summoned by the police, would they not come to you? Some of them would.
6494. Have any of them come to you lately to ask your advice on any matter? I do not remember any particular case lately—only one in Waterloo.
6495. When was that? It is a few months ago. They were fined, and then they came to me. They asked me was it a fair thing the way the police acted, and I said no, it was not fair.
6496. Where did the unfairness come in—were they taken up for gambling contrary to the law? In the matter of law the police were right, but in one particular point they were not. They swore there were three different gamblers connected with the house, but that was impossible. There were only two—one was the banker and the other the croupier. There could not be three.
6497. Was not the third man the keeper of the house, and did they not know that he was aware gambling was carried on? I did not find out that much from the person who consulted me. When he got my opinion he went back to his own people, and they brought the case into court again to be tried.
6498. Did you advise them to appeal against the conviction? I did.
6499. Did they appeal? They brought the case on again to be tried.
6500. Let us have it perfectly clear; they were proceeded against in the Court for gambling? Yes.
6501. And they were convicted and fined? Yes.
6502. Then how did the case come before the court again? The magistrate agreed to reopen the case for them.
6503. They applied for a rehearing after the fine was imposed? Yes.
6504. How long ago was that? About ten weeks, I think.
6505. Do you know the names of the parties in that case? I do not.
6506. What is the name of the party who came to consult you? I do not know his name, but I can find out if you want it.
6507. Yes, it will be as well to have his name. The case was reported in the Press, I suppose? Yes, I think so. They were acquitted after all.
6508. You are making a living as an interpreter? Yes.
6509. When did you have your last case? The last case I had was in the Criminal Court.
6510. When was that? Last week.
6511. How many have you had during the last six months? I have had, I think, close on twenty cases during the last six months.

- W. Pow Chee.
14 Oct., 1891.
6512. What remuneration do you receive for your services? It depends upon the distance I have to travel and the length of time occupied by the case. I got £90 for one journey, but that was not during the last six months.
6513. Where was that? In Queensland; it was a case in which one of my countrymen was supposed to have been murdered by others.
6514. In Sydney have you acted as interpreter in any of the gambling cases tried in the courts here? I have.
6515. When did you appear? I had work at the Quarter Sessions some time ago.
6516. Who employed you? There were two cases. I was for the defendants.
6517. You appeared for the gamblers? Yes.
6518. What do they pay you when you appear for them generally? In the higher court, if it is an important case—that is, a long case—they pay me £5 5s. for the day's work; that is at the Quarter Sessions.
6519. Have you been employed by the Government? Yes.
6520. That is for the police? Yes.
6521. In connection with gambling cases? Not in the gambling cases for the Government.
6522. In gambling cases you were not employed by the Government? No.
6523. So that in all gambling cases you appeared for the gamblers? Not in all cases. They do not always employ me.
6524. In all cases of gambling where you have been engaged it has been for the defendants? Yes.
6525. Are you not a member of a syndicate—a company of Chinese running some of these gambling-houses at the present time—now, be careful? No, sir.
6526. You are sure? I am quite sure.
6527. How long have you ceased to be a member? I never was connected with the gambling-houses.
6528. You have never received any of the profits arising out of them? No. Whenever I have gone into these places and gambled I have mostly lost.
6529. Then you do go into these places to gamble now? Now and then I do.
6530. Occasionally? Yes.
6531. Even right up to the present time? Yes.
6532. Do you receive a general retainer from these gambling-houses—that is, do they contribute a certain sum of money to pay you to advise them in any difficulties that may arise in connection with their business? No.
6533. You have a tolerably intimate knowledge of what is going on in Lower George-street at the present time? Yes; I know a good deal.
6534. You know that a number of gambling-houses are carried on down there? Yes.
6535. And that European workmen and others frequent them in considerable numbers? In most of the houses only the Chinese gamble, but in others all take part.
6536. And is all this being carried on down there now? During the last two months they do not appear to have done much business, and some of them have given up.
6537. The trade has fallen off during the last two months? Yes.
6538. And some have given up their places of business altogether? Yes.
6539. Tell us how many? Some have given up, and others have commenced again.
6540. Do you know of any of your countrymen having made large sums of money out of gambling, and gone home to China? I have heard of it.
6541. Have you never heard of the police being bribed by some of these gambling-house keepers? No.
6542. Have you not heard of them receiving even a present? I have heard of it as a rumour—people talking.
6543. Have you never heard of a Chinese banker at one of these places giving so much to one of the police to square him? It is not likely that they would tell me.
6544. They would not tell you, but you think it is quite possible that it is done;—is that it? I know nothing like that. I have no interest in those houses, and if they did anything of the kind they would not tell me.
6545. I suppose you talk with your countrymen about the affairs going on down there? I never heard anything of that kind there.
6546. Have you never heard that there are societies of Chinese in Sydney who undertake the punishment of such of their own countrymen as give evidence against them? I am not quite sure I understand your question.
6547. Suppose a Chinaman was taken up for gambling, and one of his countrymen was called upon and gave evidence against him, would they not take the first opportunity to pay him out for it—to beat him for giving evidence against the gamblers;—have you not known of a case like that? I believe that has been done.
6548. In your own mind, I understand, you are opposed to gambling? I am.
6549. And opium-smoking? Opium-smoking is a very bad thing, of course. I hope it will be stopped in China if there is any chance at all.
6550. You think it is highly injurious to those who indulge in it? Yes; very.
6551. Do you consider the sanitary condition of these gambling-houses good? It appears very fair to me compared to the places of the same class of Europeans.
6552. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know Ung Quong? I do.
6553. Have you been a partner of his in any gambling concern? No; I never was a partner of anybody connected with a gambling establishment.
6554. Were you never a partner in the firm of Ko Lee? I do not know anybody of that name.
6555. Were you never in partnership with any firm that carried on gambling? Never. I never had any interest whatever in a gambling-house.
6556. Not the slightest interest whatever? No.
6557. Will you swear that? Yes; I will swear I never had any interest or was concerned in any partnership of a Chinese gambling-house in Sydney or any other part of New South Wales.
6558. And, therefore, if any witness has sworn that you were a partner in a gambling concern that witness has perjured himself? He has.
6559. You are prepared to swear that? Yes; I am.

W.
Pow Choe.
14 Oct., 1891.

6560. That you have never at any time been a partner in a gambling concern? Yes; it is quite untrue if any one has stated that. I have never been connected with one in any part of the Colony.

6561. Were you connected with gambling previous to coming here? No; I never entered a gambling-house before I came to Sydney. During the time I was in the country I was greatly against gambling. I did all I could against it.

6562. You were strongly opposed to gambling? I was.

6563. But since you have come to Sydney you have taken to gambling? Yes; I have mixed up with the gamblers.

6564. You stated just now, in reply to one of the Commission, that you were very much opposed to gambling? Yes.

6565. And yet you say you have gone into these places and gambled? It is like this: When I came down from the country I had not many friends in the city, and those who knew me came from the country and were gamblers. Those are the people I went to visit.

6566. Had you nowhere else to meet your friends—nowhere but the gambling-dens? No. If I did not go into the gambling-houses to see my friends I would not have more than four or five places to go to, and most of these being respectable business houses I could not expect to be much there, because I would be in their way.

6567. Do you mean to say that there are not more than five houses in Sydney occupied by Chinese that are free from gambling? No; what I mean is, that if I did not go into the gambling-houses I would not have more than five houses that I could visit, because there are not more than five among my friends that are not gambling-places.

6568. All the other friends of yours except about five are engaged in the trade of gambling? Yes.

6569. But there are many Chinese houses in Sydney where gambling is not carried on? Yes; many of them.

6570. Have you lived for long in any of the country districts of New South Wales? I have lived in Tingha.

6571. How long did you live there? From twenty to twenty-two months.

6572. What business were you engaged in there? I was an interpreter. I also kept a school there.

6573. Had you a large connection there? Yes; at that time the Government called upon me in almost every case; there were not many interpreters there at that time.

6574. At the time you were resident in Tingha you were almost entirely occupied as a Government interpreter? Yes, and also for my countrymen; I used to be in most of the cases.

6575. Did you engage in gambling in Tingha? No, sir.

6576. Did you not play fan-tan there? No.

6577. Have you lived in any other settlement besides Tingha? Yes; I was at Skelton Creek, 8 miles from Glen Innes.

6578. Are there many Chinese there? At that time there were over 200.

6579. They were chiefly engaged in mining, I suppose? Yes.

6580. Which is the largest Chinese settlement in New South Wales in your experience? Tingha is, I think.

6581. Is it larger than Emmaville? Not much larger, but it is larger.

6582. I suppose you make a tolerably good living out of the fees you charge your countrymen? I do.

6583. Do you ever tender advice to them to knock off the habit of gambling? I have done so. I remember there was one came to me about a gambling affair, and I said to him, "You are in difficulties; why do you not give it up, and the people cannot bother you any more."

6584. How is it that the police in Sydney always pass you over when they have any gambling cases on hand in which your countrymen are concerned? Because there is one called Ah Chong who is recognised to be a Government interpreter, and they always call upon him.

6585. But you say they have engaged you in other cases? Yes; when the regular interpreters are engaged in some other way they have to employ me.

6586. I suppose you learnt English in Hongkong before you came out here? Yes.

6587. Have you seen any of the police to have a conversation with them since you were summoned to give evidence on this Commission? No; I have seen many of them in the streets, but have had no conversation with them.

6588. Mr. Abigail.] Take this photograph, and tell us what is the name on the front of the shop? It is Pun Num.

6589. Read the Chinese notice on white paper there? It means "day and night fan-tan"; and also "change to be delivered after the gambling is finished."

6590. Mr. Hawthorne.] That is the profits of the game are to be handed over immediately the game is concluded? Yes.

6591. What is the meaning of the other notice on the left side? It says, "fan-tan on the present day."

6592. Mr. Abigail.] That is a daily notice? Yes; the next one is "cash transactions."

6593. What does that mean? It means that when the people win the money they can have the cash at once. It means cash for both sides.

6594. Look at the notices on the other photograph—what is the name? Tin Sing; that is the same as the others. And this [referring to a small shop in the same neighbourhood] is the same.

6595. Have you noticed these white paper notices in other places in Lower George-street, and in Goulburn-street, and Campbell-street? Yes.

6596. And have they been exhibited there for some considerable time? Yes; I think so.

6597. Anyone passing up and down the streets could see them, and if they were curious enough could get an explanation of their meaning—it would not be very secret, I mean? Of course it is no secret to the Chinese themselves.

6598. Do you think the people who carry on these gambling-houses know they are breaking the law? I think they ought to know that. You must know all the gamblers are not bad characters. A good man might gamble. In the city of Canton fan-tan is a legal game at the present time; and about twenty years ago it was a legal game in Hongkong.

6599. Do you know that the keepers of these gambling-houses take great precautions to prevent the police going in to see what they are doing;—that they have a number of doors securely barred, and so forth? Yes.

6600. You know that it is so? Yes; I know they try to prevent the police going in.

6601.

W.
Pow Chee.
14 Oct., 1891.

6601. That is clear evidence that they know they are breaking the law? Yes.
6602. Mr. Quong Tart.] I suppose you know what this Commission has been appointed for? Yes; I understand the meaning of it.
6603. The European population in George-street have been complaining to the Government of the gambling-houses in that locality, and of the bad sanitary state of the Chinese dwellings. Tell me how many fan-tan houses there are in Lower George-street? More than a dozen, I think.
6604. Mr. McKillop.] Are you sure there are not more than twenty? There might be.
6605. Mr. Quong Tart.] Which is the nearer—one dozen, or twenty? Nearer twenty I should say.
6606. Are the gambling-houses visited both by Europeans and Chinese? I do not think there are any where they are mixed up together. The fan-tan houses must be kept by Chinese. Where the Europeans are allowed to go in of course they are mixed up. In some houses where the Europeans play they do not admit the Chinese—they have another room or a separate table.
6607. Is Moy Ping's place larger than Sun Sam Kee's? I do not think so. Moy Ping may have a good number of gamblers going in there, but they are all Europeans there.
6608. In Moy Ping's? Yes.
6609. What about Sun Sam Kee's? All Europeans there too. There might be some Chinese coming from New Zealand whom they would allow to have a few games.
6610. Are there any other Chinese gambling-houses where they have only European customers? There were a good few a couple of months ago, but during the last two months I do not think there are more than two that play with Europeans alone.
6611. Are the fan-tan houses run by companies? Yes, mostly.
6612. What would be the capital of one of these companies? I cannot tell.
6613. How much do you think? They might have not more than £10 to start with, and from that it might be from £100 to £200. I have known a house started on £300 in Sydney.
6614. How many lottery-houses are there in Lower George-street? About as many as there are fan-tan houses.
6615. Would you say ten or fifteen, roughly speaking? What I call a house is the name. There might be three or four lottery-banks in the same company. Moy Ping has one or two.
6616. Loon Kee has a lottery? Yes.
6617. And Doong Lee? I think so. There are two on the opposite side—on the left-hand side as you go down—Took War Tong and Bo Sing Tong. The Took War Tong Company is wound up, because I saw a notice put up that they wanted to get rid of the house.
6618. Give us the names of the lotteries? Kum Lee, Tum Lee, Tin Lee, Yuick Ki, Chew Lee, and Covey Lee.
6619. What is the name of the lottery in Took War Tong's? Chew Lee and Covey Lee.
6620. And Tiy War Tong? They have no lottery there. There was once, but not now.
6621. What was the name of that one? Yet Lee was in Tiy War Tong's, but not now.
6622. Do you know how many gambling-places there are in Goulburn-street? I think about ten.
6623. How many lotteries are there there? About an equal number to those in Lower George-street, carrying on the lottery and fan-tan together.
6624. In Campbell-street how many are there? Only a few.
6625. How many? About four houses, I think.
6626. Is any lottery carried on there? I do not know that.
6627. I suppose the lottery must be formed into a company? Yes.
6628. Do you know how many gambling-houses there are in Wexford-street? About half a dozen.
6629. How much are these lottery companies worth;—how much capital do they have? £300 is the highest amount the winners can get.
6630. Suppose they won £600 by the tickets would they not get that amount? No; only £300.
6631. Who are the shareholders in these lottery-places; give us a few of their names? The principal that I know are Yip Tiy, Chum Seak, and Moocy Miy Chey.
6632. Does one man stand responsible for the whole of the £300? Yes; I think so.
6633. Give us the name of one man you know who acts as banker? I cannot tell you exactly their names; they may change them. They used to put up a notice, but latterly they do not.
6634. Give us the names of the good Chinese citizens in Sydney? Way Kee, Yee Sang Loong, Tin, War, Sun Chong Sing, Sam Choy, Sam War, Quong Hing Chong, Sun Hing Jang, King Hing, On Chong, Sun Kum Tiy. These are the respectable business houses.
6635. President.] Was there not a meeting at Sun Sam War's shortly after the deputation to the Government in reference to this Chinese gambling business? Yes; I was at the meeting.
6636. Were you not the principal speaker on that occasion, when you urged the raising of a fund to defend the gamblers? No; I was not.
6637. What was the meeting called for? It was about the agitation of the Europeans against the Chinese gambling.
6638. Is Sun Sam War's a business house? No; a gambling-house.
6639. And you were spokesman there? I was not the principal, but I did speak.
6640. What was it about? They wanted me because something had been published in the papers about the Chinese gambling, and they wanted me to read it for them, and give them the interpretation. When I had done so some of them said, "I suppose we are to be prevented gambling now." I asked if there was anybody at the meeting who did give a present to the police, and nobody said they did.
6641. Mr. Abigail.] Did they shout out "No" all round? A good few said so, but most of them did not speak. They are not like Europeans in their meetings. They have a few members to do the talking. I also asked who it was that was in the habit of insulting ladies in the street, and I was told there were two young men (Chinamen) who were in the habit of calling out after the Europeans. They were cautioned by the meeting very strongly. That was about all that occurred. One of them said, "Is it likely we would give money to the police?—we would not do it."
6642. How many were there at the meeting? About thirty or forty.
6643. Were there any respectable Chinese merchants there? No; they were all gamblers. There were a few who had some business, but they were also connected with gambling-places.
6644. Then there was not much done at that meeting? No; there was not much done.
6645. Is that true that they raised a sum of money for your benefit? No, it is not true. I never got any money, and I never asked for any. There was no such thing raised at the meeting.

W.
Pow Chee.
14 Oct., 1891.

6646. How came you to be at the meeting;—who asked you to attend there? I met a few of them in the street, and they said they were going to call a meeting, as from what we have been told the papers said a lot about the Chinese, and they wanted me to read the paper to the meeting.

6647. Was Gouldtown present at that meeting? Yes; and also the next night; there were two meetings.

6648. Did they ask Mr. Gouldtown to read the paper? No, because they were satisfied with me. He went down there the second night to tell them what he had done.

6649. Was nothing else said? Some of them said, "You must be the one,"—meaning Gouldtown—"as there was no other Chinaman among the Europeans." They said to him, "All this nonsense has come from you."

6650. What did they mean by that? They meant all that was said by the deputation to the Government.

6651. Mr. Abigail.] What did Gouldtown say to that? He said, "No, I did not tell anything that might injure the Chinamen."

6652. Did he ever tell you how he had fooled the Anti-Chinese League? No.

6653. Did he ever tell you he had been to their meetings, and had a talk with them? Yes; he told me he had been there several times, and he told the meeting that as well.

6654. Did he relate to the meeting that he was authorised by certain Chinese merchants to attend the Anti-Chinese League, and to tender them twenty sovereigns to assist in stopping Chinese gambling? No.

6655. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did he say what he had been doing at the League? Yes. They taxed him with saying about the 3d. being deducted from every £, and what it was done for, and he was asked for an explanation. He denied that he had said anything about it, that he had never mentioned the 3d. They then said, "Well, 2d"; and he replied, "I did mention to the League that 2d. in the £ was subscribed or saved up for the purpose of assisting poor Chinamen."

6656. What was their reply to that? They seemed satisfied, but I think they daubed him.

6657. Did he seem to say that he was only acting as a kind of spy, or informer, in going to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.

6658. So that while the Anti-Chinese Gambling League thought Mr. Gouldtown was giving them a lot of useful information about the Chinese, he (Gouldtown) led the meeting to believe that he was only fooling the League? Yes; and the reason the Chinese had to doubt him, was because it appeared in the paper that some gentleman had said he was told by a Chinese merchant that there were only two Chinese fan-tan houses in the form of European gambling clubs, and there was no such thing at all. They thought he wanted to do this out of spite and told lies to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, so as to have those two shops started while the others were put aside.

6659. They took that for granted that his object was to give information to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League so that all the other gambling-shops might be cleared away, and only those retained in which he had an interest? Yes; that is it.

6660. Did Mr. Gouldtown, by his manner, at the meeting, seem to lead the Chinese to believe that he was only humbugging the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Well he did not seem to be very clear in his way of answering the questions put to him.

6661. Did they seem to treat him with contempt, or to be vexed with him for going to the Anti-Chinese League meetings? Yes; they did treat him with contempt. They looked at it in two ways; they thought he was a fool to tell such lies, and some said if he had any grounds for saying they had bribed the police they would not mind, but they did not care as it was, so long as they could get a living.

6662. They were vexed that anyone should have said that they had been giving presents to the police, and they thought Mr. Gouldtown had been giving this information to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes, and he denied it.

6663. But the meeting thought that he was humbugging them the same as he had done the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes; they thought he acted only for his own profit, and not in the public interest.

6664. Did the meeting arrive at any conclusion as to what they would do with Mr. Gouldtown in the future? No. I remember that I heard one voice cry out, "He wants a beating."

6665. That he wanted a good hammering? Yes.

6666. Did they make up their minds as to what they were going to do in regard to the gambling—whether they would alter their previous methods, for example? No; because they were suspicious one of the other. They thought, what is the use of us having any meeting—we know that Moy Ping is very friendly with Gouldtown, and most likely he is at the bottom of it. Therefore they never met again.

6667. Was Moy Ping at the meeting? Yes.

6668. What did he say? He put some questions to Gouldtown.

6669. What do you think of Mr. Gouldtown—do you think him a straight-going man? I do not think so. I have always had a suspicion of him.

6670. You think him an unreliable man? I do.

6671. You think he went to the Anti-Chinese Gambling League for the purpose simply of making fools of them? Yes.

6672. Was there any hint given to Gouldtown at the meeting that he should leave Sydney? No; I never knew anything of that sort.

6673. How do you account for the fact of his going away immediately after that meeting? I have been told that Gouldtown cleared away on account of being frightened that the Chinese would give him a good hammering, though in fact there was no such thing at all mentioned.

6674. You think he got frightened, on account of the deceitful part he was playing, that some of the Chinese would give him a thrashing? Yes; that is my impression.

6675. Now can you not state definitely to the Commission where Mr. Gouldtown is at the present time? No; I cannot.

6676. And you cannot think of the name of the man who told you he had received a letter from Gouldtown? No; but I can find out.

6677. Will you find out and forward the address of the man to the Secretary of the Commission? Yes.

6678. What object would this man have in stating that he had received a letter from Gouldtown, if he did not? I should say on account of being one of his countrymen, and not liking to hear such things said of him, as to his running away because he was frightened of people beating him.

6679. Then you really do not think he received the letter at all? I do not think so, because if he had he would have told me straight where he was.

W.
Pow Clcc.
14 Oct., 1891.

6680. You stated at an earlier part of your examination that you believed Gouldtown was either at Emmaville or Brisbane? I said I was informed so; that is by a person who said he had received a letter that Gouldtown had arrived there. You see he is a very remarkable man among my countrymen, on account of being such a good English scholar, and therefore he would be more noticed than an ordinary man.
6681. Does he speak English better than you do? He is a better scholar than I am; I admit that.
6682. You think he is one of the best educated Chinamen that has come to this country? I do.
6683. You said just now that you thought the man's story about receiving a letter from Gouldtown was not correct, because if he had received the letter he would have told you straight out where Gouldtown was;—how did you come to know he was at Emmaville or Brisbane? A man told me he had received a letter from Brisbane mentioning that Gouldtown was there. He went to Emmaville first, and Brisbane afterwards.
6684. Do you think we are safe in conjecturing or believing that Gouldtown is either in Brisbane or Emmaville? I do not think it likely.
6685. Do you think this countryman of his told you a lie? I do not doubt that he was in Brisbane, but there has been a letter since to say that he is not there.
6686. What is the reason they are keeping the whereabouts of Gouldtown so secret? Because they, being his friends, do not like the outside talk about him. If I had a friend I would not like to hear it said, "Pow's friend is frightened of so-and-so, and is keeping away on that account."
6687. How long has he been in Sydney? A few years. He arrived at about the time the Chinese agitation was first beginning.
6688. And he remained up to the date of this meeting you have spoken of? Yes.
6689. How long was it after the meeting when he cleared out? About two or three weeks.
6690. Did he not clear out since this Commission was appointed? I do not know exactly.
6691. Mr. Quong Tart.] When did you know Mr. Gouldtown to become a gambler? Since he gave up the tea-shop in Barrack-street.
6692. Before that time he was respectable? Yes.
6693. Did you ever write any letter to the Press defending the gamblers? No.
6694. And if anybody says that of you it is not true? No; I never wrote any letters.
6695. You say you would like to see the gambling stopped? Yes, I would.
6696. Then why do you still take part in it? I do not take part in it like that. It is my business to go to the gambling-houses. Gambling is not my business, but I do business for the gamblers. Many lawyers do the same when they are defending thieves.
6697. Do you think the majority of the Court cases among the Chinese arise out of these gambling-houses in the city and suburbs of Sydney? I think so, certainly; but for the gambling they would be a good deal more peaceable.
6698. Can you suggest any means of lessening or putting a stop to this evil? Well, I do not think there is any trouble about it.
6699. I want you to suggest anything that occurs to you in this matter, to raise the lower class of your countrymen in the estimation of the public? There are a few old people who cannot work among those who make a living at gambling, because it is easy for them; and if the Government put a stop to gambling there would be complaints from some of the lower class, but everybody knows that it would be a good thing for them generally.
6700. Can you suggest any way to put down the gambling? It can easily be done; if the Government instruct the police, and give them authority to visit any of the Chinese gambling-houses whenever they like, it will very soon be stopped.
6701. You consider the police have no power now? No; they cannot do anything unless they have a warrant.
6702. And that is the reason that gambling is carried on so largely at the present time? Yes.
6703. Mr. Hawthorne.] You think that the law wants amending so that the police, knowing that gambling is carried on in any house, can enter and arrest the people they find there, and get them heavily fined? Yes.
6704. Do you not know that the police can enter these places? I do not think so.
6705. Do you not know that the police have recently gone in and arrested them? The occupants of the houses can insist upon seeing a warrant.
6706. Do you think the Chinese informers decrease the opium-smoking and gambling? No; they do no good; they only do it for their own selfish ends. They may act from jealousy, or if they try to borrow money from some of those people and cannot get it they will go and inform upon them for spite.
6707. Do you know how many informers there are in Sydney? I know one named Ah Man, and Hong Lee Kum, and Cheong Son, and Long Pen. These four are well-known informers against our countrymen for sly grog-selling, and gambling, and opium-smoking.
6708. Mr. Abigail.] Do you ever give information to the police of these things? No.
6709. Although you know they are carried on? Yes; but I would not do such a thing as to go and inform upon anyone. That is mean.
6710. Mr. Hawthorne.] Are these people who act as informers held in respect among the Chinese? No, not at all.
6711. Mr. Quong Tart.] What character does Mr. Lee On bear? He is highly respectable.
6712. And On Yiek and Lee? Very good characters.
6713. And Ung Quong and Sing Lee? Yes, very good.
6714. Are you good friends with them? Yes, both of them.
6715. Have you ever had a chat with Ung Quong about the best way of putting down the gambling? No.
6716. Did you ever hear that he tried to put down gambling at all? He did say something to me a long time ago, when I first came down from the country. He asked me what I thought of this gambling, and I said I thought it was very bad; it was carried on too openly.
6717. Is he connected with gambling at all? No.
6718. Or Yiek Lee or Way Kee? No; none of those I gave you a list of—the respectable Chinese merchants—have anything to do with gambling.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr.

Mr. Samuel Sarsin called, and examined :—

6719. Mr. Hawthorne.] You are a half-caste? Yes; my father is Chinese, and my mother European.
6720. Where are you employed? At On Chong's.
6721. In what capacity? I am a clerk.
6722. How long have you been a clerk there? About seven years.
6723. Are you in the habit of gambling at all? No.
6724. Have you never gambled at all? No.
6725. Never in your life? Well, not much.
6726. That is scarcely definite enough;—have you never gambled? Very little—not what you call gambling.
6727. Have you ever played fan-tan? No.
6728. Have you ever gone into the lottery business? Yes; I have gone into that.
6729. How long is it since you went into a lottery? A few weeks ago.
6730. Were you successful? Yes. It was through a friend I won that.
6731. Were you not in the habit of going into lotteries? No; I was invited by a friend.
6732. You were invited to go into the lottery? Yes. I met my friend in the street. He had bought a ticket, and said he would go me halves.
6733. What did he pay for the ticket? Six shillings and sixpence.
6734. How many subscribers were there in that? Only two. I gave him 3s. 3d.
6735. You stood in to share with him? Yes.
6736. Did you win anything? Yes.
6737. How much did you win? My share came to £135. We won £270.
6738. Was that the first time you ever won any money in the lotteries? Yes; I do not go in for it.
6739. Had you ever taken a share previous to that? Yes; I had taken shares before.
6740. Did you ever win anything previous to this occasion you have told us of? No; not a large amount.
6741. Were you paid the money as soon as you won? I was paid the following day.
6742. How were you paid? In gold.
6743. Did they pay you the £270 in sovereigns? The gentleman who bought the ticket paid me £135 in gold. My friend was paid the full amount, and he gave me my share.
6744. And that was the result of your investment in the 6s. 6d. lottery-ticket? Yes.
6745. Were the tickets like this [handing witness a ticket]? Yes; that is the bank.
6746. What is the name? Yet Lee. He purchased through an agent.
6747. Who was the agent? You Lec.
6748. Is that the agent you always purchase tickets from? I very seldom purchase one.
6749. When you have purchased tickets have you always purchased through this one? No.
6750. Through other agents? Yes.
6751. I suppose the agents purchase for the different banks? I do not know.
6752. Did you go to Yet Lee's on this occasion? I do not know where it is.
6753. But you say you went into the lottery? I said I met an agent in the street—You Lec. He got the money, and paid me at his place.
6754. Are you quite sure you had the money paid down that day? It was the following day.
6755. And he paid you £135? Yes.
6756. And he got the other £135? I did not see him paid.
6757. Was there not a balance left unpaid? No.
6758. Will you swear that? Yes.
6759. Will you swear the £270 was paid? Yes.
6760. In gold? I do not know how my mate got his.
6761. But you got yours in gold? Yes.
6762. And you believe your mate got his in gold? I do.
6763. There is nothing owing to you now? No.
6764. What was the amount of the win altogether? It was £300; the bank is limited to £300.
6765. How is it you only got £270? The commission had to be deducted.
6766. There is 10 per cent. ticket commission, and the bank got the other £30? Yes.
6767. Then, the possible winnings reached £300, less 10 per cent.? Yes.
6768. Have ever you been in the lottery at Tiy War Tong's? No.
6769. Have you never been up-stairs at 198, George-street? No.
6770. Are you quite sure? Yes, quite sure.
6771. Where is Yet Lee's lottery carried on? I cannot tell you.
6772. Have you no idea? No.
6773. Do you know the firm of Sam War? I know him.
6774. Do you know who comprise the firm? No.
6775. Do you know anyone else at Sam War's? No.
6776. Do you know Mr. Ting Quong? Yes.
6777. Do you know whether he engages in gambling? I do not know.
6778. Do you think he does? I cannot say.
6779. Did you ever meet him in any gambling place? No.
6780. Do you know Robt. Lee Kum? I know the man when I see him. I do not know him personally.
6781. What do you think of him—is he a respectable Chinaman? I know nothing of him at all.
6782. Do you know Long Pen? No.
6783. Do you speak Chinese? A little.
6784. You do not speak it fluently? No, not fluently.
6785. Have you been in any other lottery since you won the £270? No, I very seldom go in.
6786. And you would not have gone in on the occasion you won this money only that your friend asked you to go halves with him? No.
6787. Mr. Abigail.] Are you a native of Sydney? No, I am a native of the country.
6788. Where were you educated? At Wagga Wagga.
6789. How old are you? Twenty-six years.

Mr. S. Sarsin.

14 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. Sarsin.
14 Oct., 1891.
6790. You know Chinese gambling is carried on to a very large extent in the city? Yes.
6791. Do you think it has a tendency to improve the moral tone of a community? I cannot say.
6792. Are you perfectly free to express an opinion upon any question brought under your notice? Oh, yes.
6793. Do you ever smoke opium? No.
6794. Do you think it a good thing? I do not know. I do not know what it is.
6795. Do you know any people who smoke opium? I know some, yes.
6796. Does it improve or injure them, do you think? I cannot say.
6797. With regard to gambling, I want you to give me your opinion;—do you think it would benefit the community to have it done away with? I cannot say.
6798. Do you think it elevates them—improves or makes them better men? I cannot say that; I do not know.
6799. Have you any knowledge of the gamblers as a class? No.
6800. With what class do you associate? With Europeans.
6801. You know you have taken oath on the Bible to speak the truth? Yes, I quite understand that.
6802. The Commission has power to commit you if you do not answer straightforwardly. I have asked you a very straight question in a very plain way—are you in favour of gambling? No.
6803. Why not? I have a dislike to it myself.
6804. Do you think it would improve you to go in for gambling largely? No; I do not.
6805. Do you think it would injure you? —
6806. Then, if it would injure you, do not you think it would be likely to injure other people? I do not know about other people.
6807. Are you different from Chinamen generally in that respect? No.
6808. Then, how do you suppose it would injure you, if you indulged in it every day in the week? If I lost, it would injure me.
6809. If you could win £135 two or three times a week, I suppose you reckon it would not injure you? No; not if I played every day in the week at that rate.
6810. Do you very often go into the company of the Chinese? I am always in their company.
6811. Do you ever hear them talk about gambling—about losing or winning money? Not in the place where I am.
6812. There is no gambling carried on there? No.
6813. No opium-smoking? No.
6814. Do you visit any other Chinese places? Very few.
6815. You spend most of your time in the company of Europeans? Yes.
6816. Where do you live? In George-street.
6817. Do you live on the business premises? Yes.
6818. How many hands are there employed there? I think there are ten.
6819. Are they all Chinese? Yes.
6820. Have you heard them speaking about the police at all, and discussing how much they get for carrying out their duty in that part of the city? No; I have not.
6821. You never heard anything of the kind? No.
6822. Did you never hear them say anything as to what a good thing it was for the policemen to be on that beat? No.
6823. You are quite sure? Yes.
6824. Have you ever heard of a policeman receiving presents of such things as a gold watch and chain, or diamond rings, or anything of that kind? No; I never heard of such a thing.
6825. Has not your firm ever made a present of any kind to the police? No; I am quite certain they have not.
6826. Could they have done it without you knowing of it? I do not think so.
6827. Mr. Quong Tart.] The firm of On Chong is considered one of the most respectable in Sydney? —
6828. They would not allow any of their people to gamble? No.
6829. You have never played fan-tan? No; I never did.
6830. You have only gone into the lottery? Yes.
6831. When was it you made that lucky hit? About three weeks ago.
6832. What day in the week? Thursday I think; but I will not be certain.
6833. And when did they pay you? On Saturday.
6834. Where is the place? I did not go; I do not know the place. My friend came to Harrington-street and paid me.
6835. At whose place? At Chee Foo's.
6836. Did Chee Foo have any interest in it? No; he had nothing to do with it. The agent simply came to his place to pay me.
6837. How was it he came to pay you there? It was so arranged between us.
6838. Have you heard that Wong Lee Kum, the informer, has been abusing this Commission, and threatening to give me a dressing down, and to throw me in the river? No; I have not heard anything like that.
6839. One of your firm is Yee Hing? Yes.
6840. He is a good character—an excellent man? Yes.
6841. And has always been very much against gambling? Yes.

[The witness withdrew.]

FRIDAY, 16 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.
 RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
 JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. William Loo Lisson called in and examined:—

6842. President.] You have been a resident in Sydney for a great many years, I believe? Yes, for twenty years.
6843. You have an extensive acquaintance with the Chinese residents in Sydney? I have.
6844. We have a list of the houses in Lower George-street occupied by Chinese [Exhibit A]; the information comprises the nature of the occupations and pursuits of the tenants, and also statements with regard to their personal characteristics;—you have already made yourself acquainted with the contents of the exhibit? I have.
6845. Are the statements in the list true statements? Yes, perfectly true.
6846. Your knowledge is considerable upon the point, and enables you to speak with certainty? Yes.
6847. This [Exhibit B] is another list of houses in another part of the city;—you have read that list also, I believe? I have.
6848. Are the statements made in that, to your knowledge, correct and worthy of the credence of the Commission? They are.
6849. And you speak with a thorough knowledge of the subject? I do.
6850. I hand you now another list [C];—you have read that also? I have.
6851. Are the statements contained in it true? They are.
6852. And you have as equally good a knowledge of the statements in that list as you have in those of the other two lists? I have.

Mr.
W. L. Lisson.
16 Oct., 1891.

The Rev. Peter Le Rennetel:—

6853. You are a Roman Catholic priest? Yes; in charge of St. Patrick's parish, Church Hill.
6854. How long have you been located there? Twelve years. During that time I was absent on one occasion for seven months.
6855. Have you had any experience at all of the gambling habits of the Chinese in Lower George-street or the locality? Yes; I have experience of it every day.
6856. Would you recount your experience? Every day at lunch-time, between 1 and 2 o'clock, you can see young men (clerks especially) going into these Chinese dens by scores. I never pass there about that time of day without seeing about twenty young fellows coming in or going out of those Lower George-street dens.
6857. There is no doubt in your mind that the young fellows you refer to go into these places for the purpose of gambling? No doubt whatever. Nothing else could bring them to those places.
6858. Are you prepared to say that gambling is carried on in these Chinese dens publicly? I would not say publicly, but it is known to everybody.
6859. It is known generally that the houses are used for that purpose? Yes; everybody knows that.
6860. Is there any doubt in your mind as to the police knowing the purpose for which these houses are kept? I believe that the police know as well as we do what the houses are kept for.
6861. It is within the knowledge of the police that they are gambling-houses? It is, I believe.
6862. Have you ever had any conversation with any of the officers of the police with reference to the conduct of these houses? I had a conversation on the subject with Inspector Atwill two years ago. I went to see him about it, and told him that I had asked a Member of Parliament to bring in a Bill dealing with the matter. He begged me, however, not to do anything, as the police themselves were preparing a Bill on the subject.
6863. When did that conversation take place? Two or three years ago.
6864. Did Inspector Atwill explain to you in what respect the present law was defective? He explained that the gamblers must be caught in the act of gambling, and that, excepting in very extraordinary cases, it was impossible to do so. As a matter of fact it is practically impossible, for there are so many doors by which people can get out. There are both European and Chinese gamblers there, and I believe myself that there are more Europeans than Chinese.
6865. Is it a fact that considerable distress results from the gambling-houses to the people in the locality where your Church is? My opinion is, that the men who visit these places lose all sense of honor, all sense of affection, and all sense of duty. That is my opinion, and it is not an opinion merely; I am sure of it. Every day I can witness cases of the greatest distress arising from the frequenting of these places by people in my district. For instance, I have known a father with a family of six children going there every Saturday night, and taking all his money, and week after week the family having to be supported by public charity. I have had myself to come to the relief of that family. That is one case. I have known another in which a young man who was very well off—I believe he was making something like £7 or £8 a week in business—was one day invited to go into one of these Chinese dens. He did so, and within three months of that day he had lost everything, and is now a confirmed gambler, the efforts that I and his friends have made to induce him to give it up being of no avail whatever. Indeed, I never knew of more than two cases in which men in the habit of frequenting these houses have been able to give it up. That is my experience after twelve years' work in the midst of it all.
6866. The evil effects of Chinese gambling, then, are not confined to the class of young men whom you see going into the dens in such numbers between 1 and 2 o'clock? No; the evil brings misery into the homes of families.
6867. Do the Europeans who attend the gambling-houses come from all classes of society? Yes.
6868. From which class do they principally come? I believe from clerks and young men in offices.
6869. What about the seafaring population and the wharf labourers and coal-lumpers, and men of that class? I must say that I have known few cases of them going there. I have known perhaps five or six cases of wharf labourers, married men, going there—only five or six cases.

- Rev. P. Le Rennetel.
16 Oct., 1891.
6870. Is that all? Yes; of course I would not know so well those who were not married, because I have not the same opportunity of seeing them. They are only a floating population.
6871. Is the practice of gambling general amongst the class you meet with down in your district? It is not. It is the exception, anyhow, amongst my flock. There is not one out of a hundred of them who goes into those places, I think.
6872. Then from what district do you suppose the frequenters of these gambling-shops come? I cannot tell you.
6873. But you think that they do not come so largely from your district as one would imagine? Judging from my own people, I should say not. I know the whole of my people, and I can point out every one who is in the habit of going to the Chinese gambling-dens. As I have already said, I do not think there is one out of a hundred. That is my opinion.
6874. Have you had any conversation with any of the other police besides Atwill on the subject? Oh, many a time.
6875. Would you name some of the police with whom you have had communications? I really could not mention any by name.
6876. But you have spoken to policemen of various positions in the force? Oh, frequently. In passing along Lower George-street, often when I have met a policeman I have said, "Why do you not stop these people; you see them going into these houses?" He said, in reply, "We cannot do it; the law is not sufficient"; and I believe myself that the law is not sufficient. My opinion is, that the law will never be successful until not only the gamblers are fined but also the landlords, after having received warning two or three times from the police that their houses are being used for the purpose of gambling. I would go further than that, too,—I would say that it is not enough to put on the same fine of £20 or £40 each time that a conviction takes place, because the gamblers would pay the fine beforehand. My opinion is that it should be increased, in the same way that fines for drunkenness are increased, in proportion to the number of convictions recorded,—the first fine 10s., the second £1, and so on. If the same fine is imposed on the Chinese gambling-house proprietors every time it will have no effect.
6877. You cannot particularise any of the police that you have spoken to on the subject? No, because I have spoken to so many that I should not know who they are.
6878. Then you are prepared to swear positively that this gambling is carried on with the full knowledge of the police? Yes.
6879. And the police have confessed to you their inability to cope with the evil by reason of the state of the law? Many a time. I do not believe anything about the police being bought up.
6880. You do not believe that any of the reports about the police being bribed are true? No, I do not believe them.
6881. Do you know the circumstances of any of the police in charge of your district;—is Mr. Atwill, for instance, a man well off? I do not think he is well off.
6882. Have you ever heard it alleged that he has received presents from the Chinese? I must say that I have heard it said that he received a present, but I did not believe it.
6883. What was the nature of the present? I forget now; it was said to be a piece of furniture, or something like that.
6884. How long ago? It was about a fortnight ago that I heard the statement made, but I did not believe it all the same. I have heard rumours about policemen receiving bribes before, but never a word about Inspector Atwill being bribed. The person who made the statement to me had it second-hand, and from my knowledge of Inspector Atwill I do not think he would do a thing of that kind.
6885. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? I do.
6886. Is he a man reputed to be well off? He is not well off, but he might have £7 a week coming in from houses of which he is the owner. It is my opinion that he has about that amount, but his property is mortgaged to my knowledge. He would have about £7 a week if his property was not mortgaged.
6887. Have you ever heard it stated that he received bribes from the Chinese, or from anyone else? No.
6888. Do you know him personally? Yes, I know him personally.
6889. Is he a steady, sober man? Yes, I think so. I never saw him under the influence of drink.
6890. A man of character? Yes.
6891. From your knowledge of him, do you think that it would be likely that he would accept bribes from the Chinese? No, I think he would not. I do not think that any sergeant of the police would accept bribes from the Chinese in Lower George-street.
6892. Your remarks apply to all the police, do they—to Constable O'Sullivan, for example? Yes. I know O'Sullivan personally.
6893. Is he a man of much property? No, I do not think he has much. Indeed I do not think he has anything at all.
6894. Do you know any member of the police force who is reputed to be at all wealthy? No, excepting Sergeant Higgins, and I know how he made his money; he made it by successfully buying land about twelve years ago. I remember it very well. He bought a property near the "Shipwrights' Arms," and afterwards sold it at a good profit.
6895. It is within your knowledge, then, as far as Sergeant Higgins is concerned, that whatever money he has made he made it by successful business speculations? Yes, and I wish you to understand that my opinion with regard to Inspector Atwill is equally high. He is a very respectable man.
6896. But I understood you to say that he has not much property? No, he has not much.
6897. Have you ever noticed women going into these places? I have seen women going into the houses to buy lottery-tickets, but not inside to play fan-tan, except, perhaps, bad girls, and I have seen them going in and out in Lower George-street and Cambridge-street.
6898. Are there any gambling-houses in Cambridge-street? Some of them have been closed, and I do not suppose there are any there now, except that I fancy gambling is carried on in one house, and it is difficult to find anything out about that place, because it is a house in which there are a number of bad girls.
6899. Then, so far as your knowledge goes, gaming-houses are not used by women? No, except for the purpose of buying lottery-tickets.
6900. Is that practice indulged in to any extent? I have not noticed it so much lately, but it used to be a very common thing. 6901.

Rev. P.
Le Rennetel,
16 Oct., 1891.

6901. Has it ever been your experience that young girls have been decoyed into the houses of Chinamen where opium-smoking and gambling go on? Yes; I have known of many such cases, unfortunately—cases where girls have been decoyed by presents from the Chinamen, and then drugged with opium.

6902. With regard to the question of purity, would you say that the Chinese population of Lower George-street and its neighbourhood was conspicuously immoral, or are they no worse in that respect than the European residents? When Chinamen are married they are excellent husbands, to my knowledge. That I have found out, but when they are unmarried they try to get girls by inducing them by every possible means to smoke opium, and when they have once smoked opium they are irretrievably lost. We can never get them out of the Chinamen's clutches afterwards—absolutely never. There is, perhaps, not a man in the whole district, not even amongst the police, who goes into as many houses as I do. I go into all these Chinamen's houses and opium-dens, and when they see that we are pretty successful with the girls they send them off to Waterloo, and we do not see them any more.

6903. It is within your knowledge that when any attempt is made to reclaim these fallen girls they are at once sent by the Chinese out of the district to Waterloo, so as to keep them away from your influence? Yes. It is a great degradation when they begin to smoke opium. I have seen seven or eight of them lying upon the table of a Chinaman's house, half covered and in an intoxicated state, as the result of opium-smoking.

6904. The scenes that you have witnessed, then, may be simply described as beastly? Yes, beastly, indeed.

6905. And it is harmful to the morals of the people of the district that the Chinese should be there? Yes; it is a great calamity to the district, although, to be just, I should say this: That the majority of the girls who are in the Chinese dens in that locality come there in the first instance from Woolloomooloo.

6906. You wish to say that, as a matter of fact, the majority of the girls and women living with the Chinese have fallen before they came to the Chinese? Yes.

6907. But it is also a fact that before they come to the Chinese they are not irreclaimable;—they can be rescued? Yes; it is the opium-smoking that does the ultimate harm. They can be rescued before they become opium-smokers.

6908. But after they once begin there is nothing to be done? Absolutely nothing. Neither persuasion nor kindness nor anything else is of any avail.

6909. It is your opinion, then, that the moral phase of this question, as it affects women, is quite as much worthy the consideration of the Government as that of gambling? Yes.

6910. Are the houses of ill-fame to which you have referred connected with the gambling-houses? No, I do not think so.

6911. Have you ever heard that it is the custom of the proprietors of the Chinese gaming-houses to build up a fund for their defence in case of prosecution? Yes, I have frequently heard it.

6912. What would the fund be used for? I imagine from what I have heard that it would be used for the payment of the lawyers, and also for the payment of fines, and so on.

6913. Have you ever heard that that fund is used for the purpose of corrupting the police? I heard that from a person whom I did not trust.

6914. Then, notwithstanding that you have heard it, you do not believe it to be true? No, I do not think it. There might be two or three cases of individual constables having been bought.

6915. But you do not know of any such cases? No, I do not know of any.

6916. I understood you to say just now that one of the remedies that you think are necessary for this evil is the making of the landlords party to the gambling transactions of their tenants, and punishing them for their acts? I believe that that is the only remedy. It is certainly the most important step to be taken.

6917. You think it is practically the only remedy? I do not quite mean that. I mean that all the other remedies will fail unless there is a law which will fine the landlord along with the tenant.

6918. If you were to say that the landlords should be punished in that way, would it not imply that they were receiving in some way or other a share in the profits of the gambling-houses—in the shape of high rents I mean? Yes; and that is the case.

6919. Can you give us any instances in support of that statement? I have heard of many cases from people living in the district, and not only that but I have heard of the Chinese gamblers bribing an agent—giving £30 or £40 to an agent in order that he would eject a tenant who had been there for ten years or more, the consequence being that the Chinese have always paid £2 or £3 a week more for the house when it has come into their hands than the former European tenant paid.

6920. How many gambling-houses are there in Lower George-street? There are only seven or eight there now; there were more.

6921. Do you think then that seven or eight gambling-houses can only be procured by the Chinese buying out the other tenants, as you have described, and paying higher rentals for the houses for themselves? I know that that was done in one or two cases.

6922. Would you mind mentioning a particular case? I could mention some, but I would not care to do it, because it would do harm to the particular agent.

6923. Still you have known of cases? I have known of two or three cases in which it was done.

6924. What was the amount of the bonuses then? In one case the agent got £30 for letting the house to a Chinese gambler, and in another case £45 was offered by a Chinese gambling firm but refused by the agent to whom the offer was made.

6925. What business is carried on in the Chinese shops to which you have been referring? Oh, with the exception of the premises occupied by the Chinese merchants, the places are used for nothing but gambling. There is no stock, and no one is ever seen going in to make purchases.

6926. Then, in addition to the bonuses, there would be a higher rental, would there? Always a higher rental of £2 or £3 a week.

6927. Can you give us an instance of a particular house which was previously let at £3 a week being let at £5 a week? Yes.

6928. Can you tell us what house it was? I do not care to give you the name of the house, because that would involve the name of the individual who owns it.

6929. We should like to have the name, if you will give it to us, because your evidence is to a large extent a matter of opinion, and a reference to actual cases would strengthen it? I am giving my evidence on oath, and I can say that in two cases to my knowledge bonuses were accepted, and in another case a bonus of £45 was refused.

6930.

Rev. P.
Le Rennetel.
16 Oct., 1891.

6930. And you know that the rentals were increased? Yes; in one case the rent was increased from £3 15s. to £6 a week.
6931. Have you made a study of the rentals in Lower George-street? No, I cannot say that I have; but what I can say is that the presence of the Chinese gambling-houses there decreases the value of the shops occupied by Europeans as business places.
6932. Makes them less lettable, that is? Yes.
6933. Well would not that have the effect of reducing the rents? No doubt in some cases that happens, but when the Chinese gamblers are in a hurry to get a house they must do so at all costs.
6934. I understand you to say that there are eight Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? There are eight that I have actually been in.
6935. And one of your remedies would be to make the landlords all over the Colony responsible for the conduct of their tenants with regard to gambling? Yes; after they have received proper warning in the first instance. I would give them two warnings by the police, and if they did not send their tenants away after that, and the police had a case against the gamblers, they ought to have power to proceed against the landlords too.
6936. Can you tell me the names of the landlords who have received this higher rental from Chinese tenants? I did not say that the money was given to the landlords.
6937. That is not the question. I want to know the names of the landlords. You say that you know of cases in which there has been an increased rental, and I want you to give us the names of the landlords who have received that increase. Let us have the name of the property-owner who raised his rental from £3 15s. to £6 a week? I do not know who really is the landlord. The shop adjoins some property of the Hon. W. A. Long, but as I do not know how far Mr. Long's property extends, I cannot say whether it comprises this particular house.
6938. You would not swear, however, that it did not belong to the Hon. W. A. Long? No, I would not, and as I have said I could not swear that it did.
6939. Would you swear that the agent who took the money was not Mr. Reech? I do not know him.
6940. No, but will you swear that he was not the man who received the bonus? I would not be justified in swearing that it was not, and I would not be justified in swearing that it was; I do not know.
6941. I do not ask you to swear that he was—I ask you to swear that he was not? I would not swear either way.
6942. And you would not swear that the house that you have mentioned does not belong to the Hon. W. A. Long? I could not swear, because I do not know how far the property of the Hon. W. A. Long goes.
6943. Do you know anything about the Chinese in any other part of the city? Not much.
6944. Do you know anything about them in Goulburn-street or its neighbourhood? No; I occasionally visit that part of the city, but I know very little about it.
6945. You think that opium-smoking is most pernicious in its effects upon the virtue of women, and prevents their being reclaimed when once they have fallen? Yes; that is my experience, and it also destroys young men too. I do not mean that to be injured by opium young men must necessarily smoke it, but the young fellows who go into these places and breathe atmosphere full of opium smoke night after night very soon become stupid. It affects their brains. I have known of many such cases.
6946. Then you think that the European habitués of Chinese gambling-dens have a very easy transition to become opium-smokers? Yes. I have known, I say, several cases in which young men, after being in these places for three or four months, have become quite stupid, and some of them are young men of very good family too.
6947. Mr. Abigail.] You have visited these places? Yes.
6948. Up to how recently did your visits extend? Habitually, almost weekly, up to the present time.
6949. Do you find them clean;—are the sanitary arrangements good? All the places where they smoke opium are very unclean. The lodging-houses of the Chinese are also very bad.
6950. You know the smell of opium, do you not? Yes.
6951. It is very sickening? Yes, very offensive.
6952. And you find opium-smoking in most of the places that you have visited? Yes.
6953. Do you find any overcrowding in any of these lodging-houses? Oh, yes; a great deal. In many places they have three or four beds one on the top of the other.
6954. In reference to the alteration of the law necessary for the conviction of these gambling-house keepers, you have given, of course, very direct evidence to the effect that, after having received due notice, the landlord should be held responsible? Yes.
6955. That is a somewhat similar rule to that carried out in reference to the hotelkeepers, is it not? Yes, it is something like it.
6956. Do you not also think that it would have very salutary results if the law provided for the punishment of these Chinese gambling-house keepers by imprisonment, without the option of a fine? That would be most useful, because its operations would limit the number of people engaged in carrying the houses on, and there would be some hope that within a few months many of the gambling-houses would be closed.
6957. Have you heard of any of the places being closed during the last few weeks? Yes; and I have noticed that there are fewer Europeans going into those houses, especially since the raid.
6958. They seem to be afraid of being caught? Yes, they are afraid.
6959. Comparing the condition of the Chinese gambling-houses and the class of Chinamen you find in them (I am speaking of the whole surroundings) with the same class of Europeans, do you think the former are much worse? I admit that the Chinese gambling-house keepers are superior to the Europeans when the Europeans have been frequenting the houses for five or six months.
6960. Yes, but I want to ascertain your opinion as to the comparative condition of the same class of Europeans who have not been brought under the influence of the Chinese? Well, I believe that the Chinese are much more cunning. They are cleverer than the Europeans.
6961. Do they show the same willingness and desire for space and decent sanitation and cleanliness that Europeans of the same class would show? No, they do not.
6962. Did you read the newspaper accounts of the great deputation that waited upon Sir Henry Parkes on this question? I must say that I did not read it. I was invited to make one of the deputation, but did not attend.

Rev. P.
Le Rennetel.
16 Oct., 1891.

6963. That deputation consisted of a number of Members of Parliament and leading tradespeople carrying on business in Lower George-street? Yes.
6964. They made statements very largely bearing out what you have told the Commission? Yes.
6965. But they went beyond that, and stated that the police were not content with getting gold watches and diamond rings in three months, but that it was held to be one of the best beats in the city? I do not believe it. I heard of that remark having been made, but I did not believe it at the time.
6966. Have you ever noticed outside the shops white paper notices? Oh, yes; it is well known what they mean.
6967. Would you tell us what they mean? I cannot give you the exact meaning; but they are known to be the sign-boards of gambling-houses.
6968. That is commonly known, you say? Oh, yes.
6969. And those notices are up in a great many places? Oh, yes, that is a well-known thing.
6970. And the police passing up and down in front of the shops know what the notices mean as well as the public, one would imagine? Yes; but it is not easy for the police to catch the gamblers, because very great precautions are taken by the proprietors of the establishments. I have known the Chinese post sentries all along the street, with instructions to give a signal as soon as a policeman comes out of the police station in Lower George-street. Immediately the signal is given the doors are locked.
6971. Inside the shops themselves we are informed they have taken precautions of having strongly-bolted doors and additional partitions? Yes; and I know the place in that photograph very well. Gambling has been carried on there for a number of years.
6972. Do you not think it would also be a wise provision in an amended law that the finding of gambling-implements on the premises should be made evidence against the keepers of the house? I believe that that ought to be one of the conditions, because otherwise, except in extraordinary cases, there is no means of getting at the gamblers; but the very fact that they have there implements for gambling ought to be a sufficient reason to convict the tenant of the house of being the keeper of a gambling-establishment.
6973. Have you heard of any considerable sums of money being won in those places? Very seldom.
6974. Have you ever heard of any disturbance arising out of them? I have heard of them, and I have seen them too. I have seen young men coming out of these houses in a fearful state.
6975. With excitement? Oh, yes, and all covered with blood. I have known of a young man having to be sent to the hospital at Parramatta in consequence of the injuries he had received in a row at a Chinese gambling-house, and then, as soon as he was cured of erysipelas, going at it again. It was impossible to cure him when once he had begun to play. That is my experience of the fascination of the game.
6976. So that it would be a public benefit if the law was strengthened sufficiently to stamp the evil out? I believe that such a course is absolutely necessary for the good of the Europeans as well as the Chinese.
6977. And as to opium-smoking, its suppression demands our best attention on account of the women and young girls who fall victims to it? Yes; otherwise we shall never be able to reclaim the girls who frequent these places. It is absolutely impossible to do it as long as the Chinamen have the opportunity of drugging them with opium.
6978. Mr. McKillop.] In your opinion, if the European portion of the community were to post notices to the effect that gambling was carried on within outside their premises, would not the police put the law in motion? Yes; I think they would.
6979. Do you consider that it was the duty of the police, even although they did not know what the notices meant, to get them interpreted for them? Oh, yes. I believe that the police knew the meaning of the notices, and that they know these houses to be gambling-houses, but at the same time that they were prevented from taking action, owing to the difficulty of getting evidence sufficient to procure conviction. So that I really believe that the police are not so much to blame as the law. The law is insufficient, and the insufficiency of the law is, in my opinion, the reason why the police have not taken action.
6980. Do you not also consider that it is very singular that in the course of four or five years there have been three raids made by the police, the police knowing all the while that gambling is carried on to a very large extent? It is strange; I grant that.
6981. And these three raids were successful, so that it is quite possible that raids more frequently made would have been the means of checking the evil? That is my opinion.
6982. The police have the power to enter these premises, and they should use the power whenever suspicion arises? Yes; they do not visit the gambling-houses often enough. If only they were in the habit of visiting them (say) once a week, in all probability they would shut them up eventually.
6983. And are you of opinion that it is through this laxity on the part of the police that these rumours to the effect that they have been bribed, have got into circulation? That may be so; and it may also be that rumours have got about owing to some people having a grudge against the police. In fact it is my opinion that that is the case. They are, I think, people who have for some reason been interfered with by the police, and out of spite set these rumours on foot.
6984. Do you remember Sergeant M'Intosh, who is now at Manly, being in charge of that district? I do.
6985. Do you also remember that he was greatly feared by the Chinese evil-doers down there? Yes, I believe that he was.
6986. He used to make single-handed raids, do you know that? No. I do not know anything about that.
6987. But, at all events, he did make frequent raids on the Chinese gambling-houses? Yes; but the gambling-evil was nothing like as extensive then as it is now. It is a regular evil pervading the whole district now, whilst then it was confined to a few people.
6988. Are you of opinion that, through the growth of the evil, and the objectionable associations consequent upon it, that respectable people, who used formerly to make Lower George-street the regular route to the Circular Quay, now go down Pitt-street, or along some other thoroughfare? I am fully convinced of it. That part of the town has a very bad name, and there are many ladies who will not dare to go to a shop in Lower George-street—not even to a shop kept by a European. They call it China-own, and they are afraid of being insulted by some low scoundrel or other. As a matter of fact, the presence of these Chinese gambling-houses has destroyed the trade in that part of the city. There is no trade there now. The Chinese do not seek for ordinary business. They have a lot of boxes in their windows, but they do no trade. There is not a day that I do not pass there two or three times, and within the last twelve months, excepting the places kept by gamblers, I have not seen three Europeans go into shops or houses kept by Chinamen.

Rev. P.
Le Rennetel.
16 Oct., 1891.

6989. Do you know any instances of respectable families being insulted, or has your attention never been drawn to any distinct cases? No; I do not know of any actual cases of the kind.

6990. But you know that there are some very respectable Chinese merchants in that part of the city? I do, and I have a great respect for the four or five that I know. They are quite distinct from the keepers of gambling-houses.

6991. Can you give us the names of the respectable merchants whom you know? Well, there is the firm of On Chong, that of Sun Kun Tiy, and also On Yeek and Lee. There are about five or six Chinese merchants in Lower George-street who are really respectable people, and I do not think that anybody ever said a word against them.

6992. Has it at any time been brought under your observation—not perhaps in connection with your own church, but in the course of your work and residence in the district—that there are large numbers of coal-lumpers, and wharf labourers, and seamen, and men of that class who systematically gamble their wages away when receiving them on a Saturday;—I am referring particularly to cases outside your church? Yes; I know the people at that end of the city outside my church almost as well as I know those within my church. It is a frequent occurrence. I have known myself of many cases such as you refer to. Wharf labourers and coal-lumpers and seafaring men have during the last three or four years taken greatly to Chinese gambling—not so much the married men amongst them as the single ones.

6993. There seems to be something perfectly infatuating in fan-tan;—has the game ever been explained to you? Yes, it has, but from the explanation I have received I cannot understand the infatuation, because there seems to be so little chance for anybody but the bank to win.

6994. Is it because the stakes are so very low that they cannot lose much? Yes; I suppose so. At the same time men go into the gambling-houses with £3 or £4 in their pockets and often come out with nothing.

6995. You stated in reply to Mr. Abigail that most of the girls who go there and get under the influence of opium are girls from Woolloomooloo;—are you of opinion that when these girls go there first they are chaste? Some that I have known of were certainly respectable before they went there. I believe that they were first brought under the influence of the Chinamen by the present of a fine dress, or something of that kind. After that they are invited to take a trip to Waterloo or Alexandria, and whilst there to smoke opium, and when they have once smoked opium they are lost. The girls themselves have told me so.

6996. I suppose from what you have said that, judging from experience, you consider that the craving for opium is stronger than the craving for drink? Oh, yes, there is no doubt about that. You can cure a man of drunkenness, but your only chance of rescuing an opium-smoker is to remove him from the thing.

6997. Is it your opinion—I do not ask you the question because it applies to your own church more especially than to others; but it is your opinion that the girls in your own part of the town have been kept away from the influence of the Chinese by reason of the watchfulness of the clergy? Well, with regard to the girls of my own church, I am compelled to say what may have the appearance of self-praise. That is that they would not dare to go to these places because they are afraid of being met there by me, and that is really what keeps our girls away. I do not think there is any other reason. They know that I visit these places, whether it is a house of good or ill-fame I go there, and they would be afraid of meeting me. If they wanted to prostitute themselves to Chinamen they would go to other districts. That is my opinion, and I think it is the opinion of other people too.

6998. Are you of opinion that a clean sweep should be made by the Government of all the barricades erected by the Chinese gambling-house keepers for the purpose of preventing the police from the execution of their duty? Yes; apart from the social phase of the question, it is absolutely necessary from a sanitary point of view. They completely stop ventilation. No air has any chance of passing through there, and it is especially necessary to have these places kept open.

6999. Would you also consider it necessary that this class of Chinamen (I am not alluding to the respectable Chinese merchants) should be kept in one centre, as they are in San Francisco? Yes; I think that would be a good thing.

7000. You think that it would be far better, in the interest of the health and morality of the city, that they should be all kept together? Yes; that is my opinion. I think that it would be very much better for everybody. Under those circumstances, any girls who went there would go on their own accord. They could not be enticed there as they are enticed now.

7001. I suppose that the Chinese, who are proverbially so cunning, have very suave manners towards women? Oh, yes; they have always smooth tongues. You never hear them quarrelling. Superficially, they are the best behaved people you could see. I remember only one row caused by Chinamen. It originated in regard to a man (a Chinaman) who was supposed by his countrymen to have been playing the part of an informer, and he was followed down the street by seven or eight of them with a crowbar. I remember that case well. It occurred in Queen-street; it may be three or four years ago. That is the only case of quarrelsomeness that I remember.

7002. Did you see the assault committed? No; but I saw the Chinese following the man with an iron bar, and asked for an explanation, and that is what they told me.

7003. The assault had been committed then? Yes; it had been committed before I came on the scene.

7004. Did you see the unfortunate victim? Yes; he was in a terrible state at the time.

7005. Mr. Abigail.] What was the nature of the explanation you obtained from the onlookers? The people told me that they had followed him up because they thought he was an informer.

7006. Mr. McKillop.] Would you, as a clerical gentleman, like to see the whole of Chinatown cleared of the keepers of gambling-houses;—do you think that it would be for the good of the community? I would, for many reasons. In the first place, it would remove an evil from the district, and in the second place, because the girls who live with the Chinese become prostitutes at night to sailors. They will give themselves to the Chinese at other times, but every night between 8-30 and 9 o'clock they may be seen soliciting sailors. The sailors I refer to are men from the ships who happen to be lodging in the neighbourhood; and if they had to go very far for the women they would often not go at all.

7007. I suppose that in that way they contract terrible diseases? Yes; I have seen most horrible cases of disease among these women. I have seen girls with their hands and their faces covered with most horrible scars.

7008. Venereal disease, I suppose? Yes; but not ordinary venereal, because these women gave themselves to the Chinamen, to the blackfellows, and to the sailors, and it is only those who actually visit the houses where they live who can see them, because the girls I refer to are so far gone in disease that they never appear in the streets in the middle of the day.

7009.

Rev. P.
Le Rennetel.
16 Oct., 1891.

7009. Then do you think it is necessary for the good of the community that medical men should have the right to examine these girls? Oh, I think so; otherwise the disease will spread, and it is the very worst form of venereal.

7010. Mr. Hawthorne.] You have just said, in answer to Mr. McKillop, that you thought it very necessary that the Government should introduce a system of compulsory inspection of these women? That is a debatable point I know. In my country they do that, and by that means they have pretty well stamped out venereal disease. There is evidently, therefore, something good to say for it although, I know that it is altogether against British opinions. But for my own part I think this: that those women who have fallen so low, and who will undoubtedly communicate their venereal disease to other members of the community, ought to be examined by medical men, and shut up in a hospital until they are well. That is my opinion.

7011. You think that for the protection of the general health of the community of Lower George-street these women ought to be shut up if suffering from venereal disease until they are cured? Yes; they are destroying the health of a lot of people.

7012. You think that in many cases these girls have been ruined by Europeans before the Chinamen got hold of them at all? Yes, in very many cases.

7013. You said that Inspector Atwill asked you a few years ago not to proceed with the drawing up of a Bill to submit to the House, as the police were already preparing one? Yes.

7014. Has Inspector Atwill ever spoken to you on the subject since then? Oh, many a time—expressing his sorrow to see so many young men going into these gambling-houses.

7015. Have you ever had any conversation with him since about the probability of such a Bill being introduced? Well, I spoke to Inspector Atwill about it two or three months ago. I said, "What about your Bill; it has not been brought before Parliament yet," and he replied "Well, I think that legislation will be brought forward very soon to deal with the question." I should explain that on the former occasion he did not say that the police had actually prepared a Bill of the kind; what he did say was this, that the police were asking that such a Bill should be prepared. That was what I understood.

7016. You also stated that you could not trace more than one or two in a hundred out of your flock who were addicted to gambling. Are we to take it as your opinion that none of your flock go in for gambling? Oh no, that is not what I mean; I mean that not more than one or two in a hundred go in to those places.

7017. I suppose the reason is this, that when they once begin a career of gambling they lose all sense of spiritual health? Yes, they lose all sense of self-respect, and love, and duty.

7018. They care for no church then? Not only for no church but not even for their families. If they have a family it counts for nothing.

7019. So long as they can get money to gamble with nothing else counts for anything? Yes; that is all they care about.

7020. You said that you heard something from someone who was summoned before the Commission about a present of furniture to Inspector Atwill;—from whom did you hear it? It was from Mr. Maguire, the photographer.

7021. President.] He is a very reliable witness, is he not? Yes; he knows a great deal about the Chinese.

7022. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know anything about any other member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League besides Mr. Maguire? I know Mr. Christensen, and one or two Members of Parliament.

7023. Did it not strike you as being rather strange that nobody should do anything to put down this Chinese gambling until the deputation from the Anti-Chinese Gambling League waited upon the Colonial Secretary? Well, you see I tried to do something myself. I wanted to introduce a Bill into the House, and I went to see the Sub-Inspector of Police about it, saying how fast the evil was spreading, and how necessary it was that something should be done.

7024. Did the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League previously exhibit a large amount of interest in regard to moral reform? No; I never noticed anything of the kind.

7025. You are aware that they are taking to themselves the credit of having started the insurrection against the Chinese gambling-houses and other places of immorality in Lower George-street? Yes.

7026. I suppose that as a clergyman residing in that district for something like twelve years you have been able to notice a wonderful difference in the residents, as well as in the amount of business done in the neighbourhood? Well, I must say, that the most respectable residents have left the district owing to the invasion of Chinese gaming-house keepers.

7027. You think then that the principal cause of the respectable residents leaving the district has been the great influx of this class of Chinese? Yes; because it gave the part a bad name, and respectable people did not care to associate themselves with a place where there was so much gambling that their friends could hardly come to visit them.

7028. But do you think that if the Chinese had been kept away from there the prosperous state that formerly characterized Lower George-street would have been kept up? I do not think so—I am sure of it.

7029. Have you not frequently noticed houses to let for months at a time in Lower George-street? No; I do not remember having seen them.

7030. If a witness told us that he had stated that he had seen houses to let for months at a time down there he was mistaken? The only instances of the kind that I can call to mind have been when the houses have been in the middle of a terrace occupied by Chinamen.

7031. How would you account for the statement made by yourself a little while ago, to the effect that bonuses had been given by Chinamen to the agents in several instances if shops ever remain vacant for any length of time? Because the Chinese want to scatter themselves. They do not want to be too near each other. If they are too close together the same cordon of police might surround the two houses and catch the occupants of each.

7032. Then the object of selecting shops in scattered parts is to give the gamblers every chance to escape? Yes; exactly.

7033. Mr. Kelly stated that the Anti-Chinese Gambling League was the outcome of a number of shop-keepers who had banded themselves together in order to get rid of the evil. I suppose that before the Anti-Chinese

- Rev. P. Anti-Chinese Gambling League started, the clergymen of all denominations in the district had shown a desire to get rid of the evil? I believe so. I think that we all did our best to put a stop to it.
- Le Rennetel. 7034. Did you ever give a hint to any member of the League that you were incapable of dealing with the evil, or of lessening it in any way before they organised the League? I never did. In fact I always thought that the evil could be coped with by proper legislation.
- 16 Oct., 1891. 7035. You stated a little while ago that you thought there were about seven or eight Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street. Would you be surprised to know that some of the witnesses have stated that there are between thirty and forty? Yes; I should be surprised, because that would mean that nearly all the houses occupied by Chinamen in Lower George-street are gambling-houses. By Lower George-street I mean all the houses between Bridge-street and Queen's Wharf.
7036. Then are there many Chinese houses in Lower George-street that you think carry on a legitimate business? From my own observation I should say about seven or eight.
7037. Well would you not think that there are more houses occupied by Chinamen in that part of George-street than fifteen or sixteen—I should certainly think so, and I do not go down there very often? Well, there are several shops in which they might do a legitimate business—such as joinering and furniture-making establishments, but there the men work a great deal at the back of the premises. I know a house there in which they have furniture made.
7038. Mr. Quong Tart.] I have listened to your evidence with a great deal of interest, Father le Rennetel. I think you have given very straightforward evidence on the question of gambling, and with regard to opium-smoking you say that no evil on earth would come near to it? That is my opinion.
7039. You are a clergyman in a poor part of the city, and necessarily come in contact with a great many different nationalities—not only Chinamen, but seafaring men and others, from all countries. I want to ask you whether you have found the lower class of any other nation equal to or worse than the Chinese you have been referring to? Well it would not be the same kind of evil that others indulge in. Some people would be worse than the Chinamen in the matter of theft. For instance, amongst blackfellows, you would find thievery more prevalent. The Chinese would not rob people unless by means of the gaming-table. The blacks, especially the Malays, would. As far as sexual corruption is concerned, I believe that the Chinese would not be worse than any other people if they did not smoke opium, but that is what degrades them, and makes them give way to all sorts of vices.
7040. The Chinese always have the name of living in crowded houses? Yes.
7041. Do the lower classes of any other nationality crowd the houses in the same way? No; I have not known many houses tenanted by people of other nationalities where there were so many occupants in the same house. I knew of a house in Gloucester-street occupied by Cingalese, where there were too many people—sometimes nine and ten in a room; but the Chinese overcrowd to a greater extent than that, because they are not satisfied with one row of beds, but must have one row on the top of the other.
7042. You said that there were six or more respectable merchants in Lower George-street? Yes.
7043. If the other Chinese residents acted as they acted no one would complain? No; nobody would say a word about it.
7044. You have just said to the President that you know of your own knowledge a great many Europeans going to the gambling-houses in Lower George-street;—can you name any particular house as being the worst? I should know the house if I saw it. For instance, I have seen them going into Han Kie's, No. 156 (shown in this photograph), and also into the small one (shown in the other photographs). I have seen a regular stream going in and out.
7045. Do you know Sun Sam Kee's, next to the pawn-shop, on the left-hand side, as you go down the street? Yes; there are a lot of Europeans always going in there.
7046. You say they go in about 1 o'clock? Especially about that hour.
7047. One o'clock in the morning or at mid-day? One o'clock at mid-day, and at night, about 7 o'clock.

MONDAY, 19 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

The Rev. Wm. George Taylor called and examined:—

- Rev. 7048. Mr. Abigail.] You are Minister of the York-street Wesleyan Church, Mr. Taylor? Yes.
- W. G. Taylor. 7049. How long have you been there? It is nearly eight years since I first went there, of which time I was two years absent in England and elsewhere.
- 19 Oct., 1891. 7050. That district embraces a considerable portion of Lower George-street, I believe? Yes; my district extends from Liverpool-street in the south, to the extreme of Miller's Point.
7051. It includes the whole of Lower George-street? Yes.
7052. You are, I suppose, conversant with the objects of the Commission? Yes; I believe so.
7053. We are appointed to inquire into three or four distinct matters, arising out of the deputation that waited on the Premier, about the 30th July last; in the first place, we are charged with an inquiry as to certain allegations which have been made against the police of receiving bribes to allow Chinese gambling to be carried on; in the second place, to collect information as to the extent of Chinese gambling in the city; and following that to deal with the moral and social aspects of the question; and we have invited you here to-day to see what assistance you can render the Commission, in following out these objects. I believe you were a member of the deputation that waited on Sir Henry Parkes in July last? Scarcely a member of the deputation. I was present. I went voluntarily.
7054. And you heard what was said in reference to the police? I did.
7055. Several members of the deputation—representatives in Parliament of West Sydney—made statements to the effect that it was a well-known fact that the police were in the habit of receiving bribes from the Chinese to induce them to wink at the existence of the Chinese gambling-house. Can you give the Commission any information on the question? No. All that I would say, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen,
- is

Rev.
W. G. Taylor.
19 Oct., 1891.

is this: That though I was present on the occasion of that deputation the statements that were made about the police were perfect news to me.

7056. You heard it there for the first time? Yes; and it was a very great surprise to me to hear it; because I had the impression until that day that, although there might have been a want of vigour displayed by the police in some matters, they were, in connection with the Chinese gambling evil, exceedingly vigilant.

7057. Have you had frequent opportunities of observing the police in the execution of their duty in that part of the town? Yes; I think so. I have been very frequently down in that neighbourhood, and have gone for the express purpose of trying to find out for myself the state of things actually existing.

7058. As a matter of fact you have never heard of the police receiving presents of watches and chains, or rings, to induce them to allow the gambling to be carried on without interruption? No; nothing of the kind.

7059. And you know nothing of your own personal knowledge to justify any such charge? No. I may say further, that I know sufficient of one or two officers of that district to be perfectly convinced in my own mind that, so far as they are concerned, it is utterly without foundation.

7060. Kindly name the members of the police you specially refer to as being, in your opinion, above suspicion? Inspector Atwill is the officer I know most intimately. I have known him for eight years past.

7061. And your knowledge of him would lead you to the conclusion that he could not be guilty of an act of that kind? I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that I believe him to be above suspicion in regard to anything of the kind.

7062. Do you know any other policeman on that beat? Not personally.

7063. You know something of the Chinese gambling evil, Mr. Taylor? Yes; I do, unfortunately.

7064. How have you acquired that knowledge? In several ways. In the first place, I have been President of the Boys' Club, nearly all the members of which—there were at one time some 300 or 400 lads connected with the club—live in the district, and I know that to a very great extent all these young fellows have been exposed at every point to the temptations of Chinese gambling.

7065. Have you known them to indulge in it to any great extent? Well when we first opened the club our greatest difficulty was to keep the gambling out of the club-rooms. Many young fellows were so inoculated, as it were, with the gambling spirit that they brought it into the club.

7066. You refer to Chinese gambling? Yes, more particularly; but you cannot separate the one from the other. I have been down in Lower George-street myself, and I have seen a good deal of the Chinese quarters, my object having been to gather information as to the kind of people who go into these places; and I know that the frequenters consist to a very large extent of young lads. I know this from the lads connected with our club; the class whom we have tried to influence to adopt a better mode of living are of the class who go into these places.

7067. Have you seen any women or young girls visiting these places? No; I cannot say that I have.

7068. But large numbers of European men are always there, I suppose? Yes; working men, and lads—just such lads as are to be seen in the streets. I have noticed these more particularly.

7069. The habitués of the Chinese gambling-houses consist largely of wharf labourers and seafaring men, I presume? Yes. I do not know whether I am allowed to say anything in regard to these places but what I have seen for myself. But I may state that I am President of a Social Reform League, which deals with this gambling question. I have fifteen agents in the York-street mission, whose time is wholly devoted to visiting in the Miller's Point and North Sydney districts, and I am in a position to state that to a very large extent sailors, especially those on the small craft engaged on the coast, are in the habit of taking their earnings to the Chinese gambling-houses.

7070. You have gained that impression from the reports of your agents who are engaged visiting the homes of these people? Yes; from the reliable reports which come to me officially.

7071. Do you know anything about the law as it affects these gambling-dens? All I know is this, that I have conversed with Inspector Atwill and other police officers on the subject, and they have always informed me that the state of the law is so unsatisfactory that they have found themselves nonplussed in their endeavours to cope with the evil. I will give you one instance: One night when I was in Lower George-street I saw a man, whom I took to be a sailor from his appearance, going into one of the gambling-dens. He was considerably under the influence of liquor at the time. He had no money, and took out his watch to hand it to the man who kept the den, and the watch fell on the ground, the man being very drunk. I was much impressed by the scene, and I spoke to a policeman at the time about it. His reply was exactly similar to the remarks made to me on the subject by Inspector Atwill; he told me the police were practically powerless in the matter, for these people knew the law and could defy them. He also told me that on one occasion lately he had gone round these houses at night, and turned out fully 200 men and lads from the various dens, but within an hour they were in again. It was, he said, with extreme difficulty that they could obtain evidence upon which to base a charge.

7072. The police have made it clear to you that there is urgent need for amendment in the law of a stringent character, to enable them to deal with this evil? Undoubtedly. I know one of the leading police officials in speaking on that point, begged of me that whatever influence I might have as an individual, to use it in the direction of securing an amendment of the law, so that the police could act as they wished to act.

7073. Did they indicate what form the amendment of the law should take? The feeling seemed to be that the police had not sufficient power.

7074. That the police should have greater power as to entering those places? Yes.

7075. Has it ever been suggested that the owners of these houses should be held responsible—that is, after due notice being given them, that the tenants carry on gambling-establishments in such houses? I cannot say that the police have made that suggestion to me; but I have long held the conviction that other methods seem to be as a mere scratching of the surface of the evil, and if the Colony is to grapple with the evil successfully it must be in that direction.

7076. You would make the owners of the houses responsible after due notice? Yes; I have studied the thing for years past, and can see no other way of dealing effectively with that phase of the gambling question.

7077. Have you heard anything about the amount of money lost and won in these dens, Mr. Taylor? I heard the remarkable statements made by the deputation to the Premier, and other things that have been said

Rev.
W. G. Taylor.
19 Oct., 1891.

said with regard to the working-men who visit these places; for instance, that it is a common thing for sailors on receiving their pay for a trip down the coast, instead of taking it home to their wives, to go straight to the gambling-dens and empty their pockets there.

7078. Have you been inside these places, and can you speak as to their sanitary condition, or anything of that kind? I have never gone into the gambling-rooms, that is whilst gambling has been going on; I have been on the premises.

7079. Has it struck you that the premises have been particularly clean and wholesome, or the reverse? Some of those I have visited have been little better than fever-beds in my judgment.

7080. You noticed bad smells and a filthy state of things generally? Yes; they were in a wretched condition, the wonder to me has been that the occupants have been able to live in them.

7081. Some of them are occupied as lodging-houses, are they not? I do not know that.

7082. Have you not seen a number of people about when you have visited some of these places? I know that a large number of Chinese residents congregate in them, but nothing further.

7083. Has it occurred to you that they are overcrowded? Yes, that is my impression.

7084. Do you think that in any amendment of the law relating to these places they should be compelled to give the same amount of accommodation as is provided in European establishments of a similar character? Yes. I do not see why it should be otherwise. I think all foreigners coming to an English settlement should conform to the laws of the country.

7085. If such an amendment of the law were adopted it would materially improve the health of the community? Certainly. If our medical authorities state that so many feet of air or breathing space is necessary to the European it must I presume be necessary to the Chinaman.

7086. Have you heard anything as to immorality in connection with these Chinese dens, or have your agents reported as to that? Unfortunately they have. But I do not know in what form I can present it to the Commission. Perhaps I had better state it in this way: I have four or five young men, evangelists, and ten young ladies, who give the whole of their time to visiting such places, and one young man has for some time past given considerable time to working among the Chinese, and his reports to me of the state of immorality are simply shocking—of lads and girls in considerable numbers being housed in one place, and that sort of thing.

7087. Do they report to you the use of opium-smoking among Europeans to any extent? No, nothing definite. Reports have been brought to me that such is the case, but I cannot furnish any definite information on that point.

7088. It has been reported to you that a number of young European girls have been living among the Chinamen? Yes. I do not venture to give the exact figures, but I think there were eight or nine young girls, one of my agents saw, in one of these rooms on one occasion.

7089. You are speaking now of what came under his personal observation? Yes. I speak from memory as to the number.

7090. At any rate you have no doubt whatever as to the need of some very stringent law to deal with the state of things existing in that part of the city; and I suppose you bear in mind that such a law would beneficially affect any other parts of the city where the Chinese congregate in considerable numbers? My conviction is simply this: That what we need in this Colony is a comprehensive anti-gambling law that will deal with the whole community; not only with the Chinese, but with all phases of the gambling evil; because what applies to the Chinese gambling-dens will apply equally to the tobacconists' shops and places of that description, where gambling, in one form or another, is carried on.

7091. Does question of immorality in the way you have described enter into these European establishments to the same extent as in the Chinese gambling-dens? I do not think so.

7092. President.] Explain why there should be any more immorality in connection with Chinese gambling as compared with European gambling. Opium-smoking, I take it, is quite apart from Chinese gambling? Yes. I have stated that I believe there is a considerable amount of immorality practised in connection with the Chinese gambling-dens, and I know for a fact such is the case amongst the Chinese in the back streets. I can see that there are greater temptations to immoral proceedings in connection with the Chinese gambling-houses than among the "totes," because the latter are carried on in shops among the business places, and are closed at night, the proprietors mostly living elsewhere, and immorality cannot to the same extent be carried on in the daytime; whereas the Chinese live on their premises, and their places are open night and day, and they are very different in consequence of that.

7093. Mr. Abigail.] So you believe any amendment of the law should be of a comprehensive character, including Europeans as well as Chinese? I am sure of it.

7094. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do not you think that the Europeans in the matter of gambling are quite as bad as the Chinese? Yes. My impression is that the great majority of those who visit the Chinese gambling-dens are Europeans.

7095. You think they are kept going by the patronage of the European population? Unquestionably.

7096. Have you ever been inside one of these Chinese gambling-dens when they have been playing fan-tan? No.

7097. You have never seen the game played? No.

7098. Have you, in the course of your ministerial life in the city, ever met with anybody within the limits of your mission who has assumed to know that presents or bribes have been given to the police, to induce them to keep dark the Chinese gambling or other immoral practices? I never heard of anything of the kind.

7099. Did it very much surprise you to hear the statements which were made by members of the deputation to the Premier to that effect, or did you think those statements were exaggerated? I had no evidence to go upon, either for or against. The whole thing was a revelation to me.

7100. Did the members of the deputation, while in the ante-room and before going to the Premier, have any conversation as to which part of the question each should touch upon? I cannot say. The deputation was in the Minister's room when I arrived. I had no communication with them beforehand. I went voluntarily and independently.

7101. You are aware it very often occurs, when a deputation is to wait upon a Minister, that previous to going into the room the speakers are arranged, to take up the different phases of the subject? Yes.

7102. And that was not done in this case? Not to my knowledge.

7103. So that the statements referred to came upon you as a surprise? Quite.

7104. So far as you know, Mr. Atwill and the members of the police force under his control in that portion of the city, are above suspicion as regards receiving bribes? I cannot speak for the ordinary policemen, because I do not know them; but I believe Mr. Atwill to be above suspicion, and I speak from an intimate knowledge of him, having known him intimately for eight years.

Rev.
W. G. Taylor.
19 Oct., 1891.

7105. Regarding the immorality in your portion of the city, Mr. Taylor;—is it, in your opinion, worse there than in other parts of the city, where the Chinese are not so numerous? I do not think for one moment that there is more immorality amongst the Chinese, judging from my intercourse with the people, than there is among the lower class of Europeans. It is about six of one and half-a-dozen of the other.

7106. Do you think the depravity at present existing in Lower George-street is attributable to the presence of so many Chinese in that neighbourhood? In part it is, of course. Wherever the gambling element is it must have a pernicious effect upon the neighbourhood, and that to a very alarming extent.

7107. Have you met with many cases of distress among the wives and families of the labouring class, whose impoverished state has been brought about by the head of the house spending all the money in these gambling-houses? Yes. If I had had time I could have supplied you with names and facts ad nauseam as to that.

7108. You have met with many such cases of distress? Through my workers I have known of a great number.

7109. And personally? Yes.

7110. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say you have had conversations with the police about the difficulty of putting down this evil;—when? Some time before this question arose—about twelve months ago. I had long conversation with Mr. Atwill on the subject.

7111. How many different nationalities, do you think, gamble with the Chinese? I cannot say. My fear is that it is the youth of our own city who are most seriously affected. My experience among these places is that frequenters of them are, for the most part, the youth of our own city and working-men, many of whom, I presume, are sailors—Swedes and Danes, as well as Englishmen.

7112. How many persons have been ruined through visiting these places within your knowledge? I could not say from my memory; but I know that one of the greatest difficulties we have to contend against in our work in that part of the city is that so many people have been injured by drink and gambling.

7113. Do you know of any cases of opium-smoking? No.

7114. Which do you think the greater evil, drinking or opium-smoking? Drunkenness is more widespread.

7115. That is among the Europeans? Yes.

7116. And among the Chinese, opium-smoking? Yes, I should think so, but I have no evidence to furnish on the point.

7117. In your mission work among the young lads you say you have had a great difficulty in keeping them from gambling? Yes, that was when the club was first started—we gathered 300 or 400 of these lads from the streets, and they brought their packs of cards with them. We found them hidden behind the doors and screens, and so forth.

7118. Regarding the women you say who have been seen in the Chinese quarters which would you blame most, the women or the Chinamen? I should blame them both.

7119. Do you think they are generally bad women before they go to the Chinese houses, or have they lost their virtue after going there? I think for the most part they are lost women before they go to these places.

7120. What would you do to stop this particular evil? All that we can do is to pass stringent laws to apply to such cases. It can never otherwise be stamped out entirely. I have lived long enough to come to that conclusion.

7121. You consider the police do their duty, but think the law is not sufficient? I would like to answer that question carefully. I do not know that the police do not do their duty. I can only state what I know personally, but I have arrived at the conclusion that the police of the city as a body ought to have exhibited a greater amount of energy than they have shown. My impression is that the law ought to be so framed that it would be easier for the police to get into these places; that the police should have more power. But I am perfectly convinced in my own mind that whatever law is passed it will have to reach the landlords in the first place to be effectual, making it a penal offence to own a building used for gambling purposes.

7122. You have said that you knew a case of a sailor who went into a gambling-house, and was so drunk that he actually dropped his watch on the ground;—do you know what place that was? I cannot swear to the exact shop. There are two or three shops down there very much alike. I can go very near to it, but cannot tell the name of the occupant.

7123. Have you any idea of the number of Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? I heard it stated at the deputation, but I do not remember the number. I never counted them. I know there are a large number.

7124. Do you know any of the respectable Chinese in that quarter? I am not personally acquainted with them, but I know there are some.

7125. Do you know any other police officials personally besides Inspector Atwill? No.

7126. Do you know what rents are paid for the houses in Lower George-street? I have heard statements made by one or two of the occupiers.

7127. Do you know if rents have been on the increase or decrease there of late years? I cannot answer that question. I understand that the landlords are able to get a larger rental from the Chinese than from the European business people. One or two of the tradespeople down there have stated so to me. One went so far as to say that he was almost made bankrupt through being made to pay a large rent for a shop that was next door to his own shop, the front door of which, in fact, was so near to his own that had it been let to Chinese it would have practically ruined his business, and so he was compelled to rent it for his own protection. He kept the place closed for a considerable time rather than have a Chinese neighbour, and it nearly made him bankrupt.

7128. From what you have gathered as to the landlords being able to obtain a higher rent from the Chinese than from the European residents, and looking to the number of Chinese in the neighbourhood, I suppose it would be only fair to assume that the rents have been on the increase, rather than the other way way about, would it not? That is the point they have stated very definitely; and one or two instances have been mentioned in which the Chinese offered the landlords a very considerable amount over and above what other people were prepared to pay, by way of a bonus, in order to get the premises.

7129. Do you know of any cases of respectable females being insulted by the Chinese down Lower George-street? No.

7130. Do you know that the passenger traffic of Lower George-street has been considerably reduced of late years through the Chinese flocking into that portion of the city? I have no evidence of the kind to give the Commission, but I can quite believe it would be so. I believe that a very much larger number of people go up Pitt-street from Circular Quay than go up George-street.

7131. Is that because Pitt-street is a shorter route, do you think? I cannot say.

7132. Has it occurred to you that people do not travel up George-street because of the noxious smells that pervade that portion of the city? I cannot otherwise account for it.

7133. Do you know the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Not personally.

7134. Do you know Mr. Nock, of Felton and Nock? Yes; he is the only one of the League I do know.

7135. Do you regard Mr. Nock as a straightforward man? Yes; exceedingly so.

7136. Would you take him to be a man of extremely excitable temperament, and liable to exaggerate? No; I have seen nothing of the kind to warrant that conclusion.

7137. Do you know of any serious cases of destitution where families have applied to you for assistance, and the wives have stated that their husbands continually gambled away their earnings;—have any cases of that description come under your notice? Yes; as I said in answer to Mr. Hawthorne, if I had time, I could, I believe, bring a long list of such cases. In connection with the Central Mission we are simply at our wits end to know what to do to relieve the cases of that kind. My workers come to me day after day to know what to do to relieve the poor and destitute in this district. We have ladies who come down every Tuesday morning to investigate the cases of distress caused by gambling, drink, and other causes.

7138. Have you noticed the white paper notices posted up outside the Chinese shops in Lower George-street—like those you see on the photographs before you? Yes; I have been often curious to know what they meant, and have been sorry that I had no one to translate them for me.

7139. Would you be surprised to know that they announce that gambling is carried on inside day and night? Not in the slightest; I should be quite prepared to believe that it was so.

7140. Do you think if such notices were placed outside European places of business, that the police would charge the tenant of the premises with keeping a common gaming-house? I should think so indeed.

7141. Do you not think the police, knowing well that they have a Government Interpreter at command, should have made it their business to ascertain the meaning of these notices, especially in view of the well known reputation of the houses themselves? I presume they do. I know from conversation with them that they know what is going on in these places.

7142. Is it not strange that the police take action against the persons who allow "totes" to be carried on in their premises against the law, and yet take no notice of these Chinese gambling-houses which are carried on so openly? Certainly; I put the same point exactly to one of the policemen in Lower George-street and he said that fan-tan was so different from the ordinary gambling arrangements in connection with the "totes," that they found it exceedingly difficult to take action upon it. That was stated before the late raids, and therefore I suppose the police were wrong.

7143. Do you remember any raids being made upon Chinese gambling-dens, previous to the last one? I do not remember. I have heard of one or two Chinese gambling raids; but not in Lower George-street, I think.

7144. Does it occur to you, in view of those successful raids, that the police should have put the law in motion against the gamblers who have been carrying on so openly in Lower George-street? I think so, certainly.

7145. Now, this is a pertinent question: Do not you think there must have been dereliction on the part of somebody in that district to have allowed the gambling evil to be on the increase there for the last four or five years? That has been my feeling, as I stated in answer to one of the other gentlemen of the Commission. I believe there has been neglect on the part of the police force right through the ranks, from the Inspector-General downwards. There ought to have more repressive agencies employed for years past.

7146. Have you ever been in America, Mr. Taylor? No.

7147. Do you consider it would be advisable that the Chinese—and especially that class of the race more immediately under consideration—should be confined to one particular part of the city, instead of being scattered over different parts of it as at present? I do not think so. I think they keep pretty well together now, and I think perhaps that is one reason why there is so much of it, that is, the gambling and so forth. The Chinese have got into districts of their own. I believe there would not be anything like so much gambling if the conditions were different.

7148. You think they should be more scattered? Yes; that is my feeling. If they were kept in one part of the city together, the whole of them, the evil would be far greater, unless you kept a posse of police continually on guard to keep the Europeans away.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. David Rip called and examined:—

Mr. D. Rip. 7149. Mr. McKillop.] What are you, Mr. Rip? I am a van proprietor.

7150. Where do you reside? At 56, Kent-street.

19 Oct., 1891. 7151. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.

7152. Did you never attend any of its meetings? Never.

7153. Did you at any time, in conversation with some members of the League, give them any information or speak with them relative to the Chinese gambling carried on in Lower George-street? No. The only thing I remember having mentioned was to Mr. Nock. I said to him, "You remember Quealy, the policeman who was dismissed; there is a rumour going about—I hear people say, 'Quealy has done a fine thing; he has got £600 or £700.'" It was this way: I live on Miller's Point, and passing down the street I saw a crowd collected, and I went in the same as the rest. Then I heard someone say, "Quealy has got £675 or £670; he has drawn that amount of money out of the bank and is going home." That was all I heard.

7154. Did you at any time have a conversation with Mr. Black, a Member of Parliament? No.
7155. Not at any time? Not that I am aware of.
7156. Do you know anything of the police having been bribed or given presents of any kind? Not the slightest; I know nothing about them in any way.
7157. Mr. Abigail.] Have you never visited the Chinese gambling-places yourself? Never in my life.
7158. President.] Are you quite sure you never had a conversation with Mr. George Black? I do not know him.
7159. Do you remember having a conversation with anyone on the Circular Quay stand, and giving him information about the Chinese gambling-houses? No.
7160. Did you ever say to any man, on the stand or anywhere else, that you had reason to believe that the police connived at the Chinese gambling? I remember nothing whatever of the kind.
7161. Would it be probable that you said such a thing? I do not see why I should.
7162. I am simply asking you the question—I take it that you are a man of sober habits; you look like it? I have been thirteen years a teetotaler.
7163. And you think you would not have been likely to say anything that would give colour to the idea that you had reason to believe that the police took bribes to allow of Chinese gambling to be carried on? Well, I have heard such things said, and I may have said something of the kind, but I certainly do not remember it.
7164. Do you know Inspector Atwill? I know him by sight.
7165. You are not personally acquainted with him? Not more than to bid him good day, or anything of that kind.
7166. However you are quite sure you never told Mr. Black, or anyone else down there, that Ex-Constable Quealy drew £600 or £700 from the bank? No, I did not.
7167. You did say something of the kind to Mr. Nock? Yes—what I have told you.
7168. Had you any idea how he came by such a sum of money? Yes, I had; not out of his wages.
7169. Give us your idea? Well, I do not think a man would be able to save it.
7170. Mr. Abigail.] He could not save it out of a common constable's wages, you think? No; I should think not.
7171. President.] Do you know which bank Quealy was supposed to have drawn the money out of? No. As I have said, I was passing a number of persons in the street and overheard the conversation I have related, and repeated it to Mr. Nock.
7172. Mr. Abigail.] As a matter of fact, you do not know that he did withdraw the money? No; Mr. Nock was speaking to me about this affair, and I mentioned what I had heard.
7173. Now listen to what Mr. Black has stated before this Commission:—He was asked by Mr. McKillop this question: "I believe you have seen it published in a weekly paper that a constable who has been dismissed from the force had a large amount of money in the bank;—do you know for a positive fact that he had the money to his credit?" and Mr. Black replied: "That information was supplied to me by the van-man, David Rip, whose name I have mentioned." Is that the case? No; I remember nothing of the kind.
7174. Mr. McKillop.] Where is your stand? I have the privilege of the Manly Beach boats, and go very little on the stand at all.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. E. A. Swinbourne called and examined:—

7175. President.] You are a bootmaker? Yes.
7176. Where do you live? At 217, George-street.
7177. I suppose you take some interest in the police in regard to the Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes.
7178. You regard them, the gambling-houses, as a nuisance to you in the conduct of your business? Yes.
7179. You were concerned in the agitation to suppress these gambling-houses? Yes.
7180. You are a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? I am.
7181. Do you remember some twelve months ago, having a conversation with Inspector Atwill, when you interpreted to him the notices which appear outside the Chinese gambling-houses, as to fan-tan being carried on day and night; did you translate those notices to Inspector Atwill, or tell him the effect of them? Not twelve months ago.
7182. How long was it? Since we formed the League. A Chinese merchant told me that the notice was to the effect that gambling was carried on night and day; and, in conversation, I informed not only Inspector Atwill, but other police, too, about it.
7183. When was that? A couple of months ago, perhaps.
7184. Was it before or since the appointment of this Commission? I cannot say that, but it is since we formed the League—very recently.
7185. The League is not much older than the Commission? No.
7186. It is not true that you told this to Inspector Atwill twelve months ago? No.
7187. It was within the last three months? Yes.
7188. And you told him the meaning of the notices? Yes.
7189. Mr. Abigail.] What did Inspector Atwill say when you told him that? I cannot say, but I remember that he did not seem to think there was anything in it. I told him he could easily find out by getting an interpreter to read them.
7190. Did he say he would do so? No; he did not seem to take much notice of it. I have often had conversations with members of the police force about these matters, but I do not remember the words.
7191. Did the police, when you had these conversations with them, seem desirous to stop the whole thing? No; some of them seemed to be quite the reverse, to my idea.
7192. How long have you lived down there? I shall have been in business eleven years next February, and I lived there nine years previously.
7193. That makes twenty years you have been living in that part of the city? Yes. I was in the Artillery for nine years.
7194. Then you have seen the growth of the Chinese gambling-houses down there? Yes.

Mr. D. Rip.
19 Oct., 1891.

Mr. E. A.
Swinbourne.
19 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. E. A. Swinbourne.
19 Oct., 1891.
7195. Has that growth been rapid? It was until recently.
7196. There has been a falling off recently? Yes.
7197. Has that been since the appointment of the Commission? Yes—since that, and the formation of the League.
7198. Then, before the League was formed and the Commission appointed, it was in full swing? Yes; it was.
7199. What class of men usually frequent these places? Those who mostly visit them are wharf labourers, coal-lumpers, and sailors.
7200. Do youths or boys visit them? I have seen lads go in.
7201. And girls? I have seen women about the place, right opposite my premises. Whether they are married to the Chinese I cannot say. I have seen several women about, but they have disappeared lately.
7202. You think there is still room for improvement? Oh, yes.
7203. You would like to see them rooted out entirely? Yes; because they spoil business altogether.
7204. Do you think they taint the moral atmosphere also? I do.
7205. Is the sanitary condition of these places generally good? I cannot say that—I have not been inside to see. Judging from appearances outside, I should say there has lately been an improvement in that way too.
7206. There has been a run on scrubbing brushes? Yes; though they do not appear to be very clean from what I can see, except the Chinese merchants, like On Chong, Sun Kum Tiy, and places like that. They are quite unobjectionable. It is the gambling-houses I am speaking about.
7207. Are most of the places down there gambling-houses? Yes; some of them have the shutters up all day, and no lights in the evening except inside.
7208. There is no difficulty in recognising these places as gambling-houses, you think? No; you cannot help knowing it.
7209. And the police cannot help knowing it? No.
7210. But, in your opinion, they never show any anxiety to deal with it? No.
7211. Do you know how many raids have been made by the police during five years? Three, I think.
7212. Was each one of those a success? I never heard of one being a failure.
7213. That is to say, the parties who were arrested were convicted? I think there was one case in which they failed to get a conviction. I believe it was something to do with the warrant being wrongly dated.
7214. That would be the fault of the police authorities? Yes.
7215. It was not because of failure to prove that gambling had been carried on? No; I believe not.
7216. If they could make three raids in five years, and succeed in their prosecution of the defendants, does it occur to you that they might have made twelve raids during the same period? I should think so; in fact I have often mentioned the same thing to members of the police, and I have pointed out that even if the raids were to some extent unsuccessful, they would be a check upon the evil, I considered.
7217. You have frequently complained to the police? Yes; not exactly as a matter of complaint, but in the way of conversation.
7218. Have you thought of any amendment of the law that would be the means of effectually suppressing this evil? There is one way I have thought perhaps would be effectual. I am told they do it in San Francisco. That is, for the police authorities to be given power to go into these places and arrest all persons they find there.
7219. You mean without the form of a warrant? Yes; so long as they know it is a gambling-house.
7220. Has it ever suggested itself to you that the landlords of these houses should be held responsible, after due notice being given that the places were being used for gambling purposes? Yes; I think that would help to stop it, too.
7221. After due and proper warning that illegal proceedings were being conducted in a house by the tenants of it, the owner of such house should be held responsible? Yes; that would be a very good idea, I think.
7222. Do you think the Chinese houses in that locality are very much overcrowded—some of them that are supposed to be lodging-houses? They are all about the same, it seems to me.
7223. Well do you think it would be an advantage if they were compelled to give a certain amount of air space to each lodger? I think so. I cannot say of my own knowledge what the interior arrangements of these houses are like—I only go from hearsay; but I know there appears to be a considerable number in each house.
7224. But you are of opinion that they should be brought under some provision, or subject to certain regulations of that kind—that the Chinese lodging-houses should provide the same accommodation as to space as is required of European houses of the same description? Yes.
7225. Have you heard anything of the police receiving bribes or presents of any kind? Only from hearsay.
7226. It was a matter of common rumour? Yes; that is since the deputation waited upon the Government.
7227. Did you never hear of it before the deputation? Never.
7228. Then you were very much surprised when you heard the statement made at the deputation? When I say I never heard of it before, I do not mean that I heard nothing of the kind, because I had heard insinuations thrown out, but nothing definite.
7229. You know nothing of your own knowledge that would sustain a charge of that kind against the police? Nothing at all.
7230. Do you think the police have been paid to overlook or connive at this Chinese gambling? I should not like to say that.
7231. Do you think it strange that the gambling-shops are allowed to carry on, although the police are passing up and down in front of them every day? Yes, I do.
7232. Would the general public draw from that the inference that these gambling-house keepers pay for the immunity from police interference which they enjoy? Yes; that is what I hear. People will say, "There must be something in it," or something to that effect.
7233. Have you heard, or do you know, that some members of the police force on that beat have acquired considerable property? Only from hearsay.
- 7234.

Mr. E. A.
Swinbourne,
19 Oct., 1891.

7234. Do you know any member of the force who has a terrace of houses? I have heard that Sergeant Higgins has, but I do not know of my own knowledge anything about it.
7235. Of your own knowledge, do you know anything that would sustain the statements made by members of the deputation to Sir Henry Parkes, about the police having received bribes, or presents of gold watches, or diamond rings, or anything of the kind? Not of my own knowledge.
7236. Mr. McKillop.] Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.
7237. Do you hold any official position in connection with it? No.
7238. Have you seen any riots occur outside these Chinese gambling-dens? I have seen plenty of rows—fights, and all that kind of thing, repeatedly.
7239. Where men have been maltreated, and struck with iron bars or bludgeons? Yes; I have.
7240. Have you ever seen women—wives of working-men—going down there to beseech their husbands to leave the gambling-dens, where they were losing all their earnings? Yes; and have had them come to my shop, and ask me to let them stay there and watch for their husbands to come out.
7241. Have you noticed children going into the Chinese houses to purchase pak-ah-pu tickets? I have had men tell me that they sent children in to try their luck. I have not seen children going in as a common thing.
7242. Do you think the gambling evil has been on the increase during the last three years? I do not know that it has been on the increase. It has just been about as bad as it is now.
7243. Was it as bad five years ago, do you think? Hardly. No; I do not think it was.
7244. Can you inform the Commission of the number of Chinese dens in that locality? There are over twenty, I should say.
7245. Has the passenger traffic of Lower George-street fallen off greatly in recent years? Yes.
7246. At one time, I suppose, the passenger traffic from Manly Beach, North Shore, Watson's Bay, and such places, came by way of George-street? Yes, principally. There used to be a good deal more than there has been lately.
7247. In your opinion, to what is that falling off of traffic attributable? One reason is the absence of shops to attract people there. No proper business places; and also numbers of people do not like going down there at all because of the Chinese—the character of the place. Men have told me that their wives do not care about going down there.
7248. Have you heard of respectable females being insulted by the Chinese down there? Yes; I have complained about it in the case of a man opposite to my place, always whistling and chirping after the women.
7249. Does he do it now? No.
7250. He discontinued it after your complaint? Yes.
7251. Do you think, if Europeans kept gambling-houses there, and had these placards outside, announcing that gambling was carried on day and night, that the police would swoop down upon them and put the law in motion? I think they would certainly.
7252. Does it not appear strange to you that these places have been on the increase, and that the police have taken so very little notice of them? It does appear strange.
7253. You know that where "totes" have been run by Europeans the police have been on their track right throughout the city, but that for some reason or the other the Chinese have been able to carry on their fan-tan shops with impunity? Yes; that appears to be so.
7254. Are you of opinion, seeing that the Chinese are allowed such latitude, that there must be something radically wrong somewhere? I should say so.
7255. Do you think the police have done their duty in the past? They have not, I consider.
7256. Would you care to express an opinion as to whether there has not been something else besides a mere neglect of duty? I do not care about expressing an opinion—I do not know.
7257. But you think the circumstances are suspicious? Yes; I do.
7258. If a publican was breaking the law, and the police knew of it but did not interfere, I suppose the first idea that would occur to an ordinary man's mind would be that the publican was very kind to the police? Yes.
7259. And I suppose the same thing would apply to these gambling-houses? Yes.
7260. Do you know anything of the amount of opium-smoking carried on in your end of the town? I have no idea.
7261. Do you think the presence of these Chinese shops has affected your business during the last five years? It has.
7262. Will you inform the Commission of the extent to which your business has depreciated since this gambling evil has been on the increase? During the last couple of years it has decreased, I should say, about 20 or 30 per cent. I could not tell you with certainty unless I had my books to refer to; but I know it has decreased considerably.
7263. At a rough guess you would say 20 or 30 per cent.? Yes.
7264. What rent do you pay? £3 per week.
7265. Have you paid that all along? Yes.
7266. Had you a long lease? No; I rent from week to week.
7267. Who is your landlord? Mr. Wentworth. I may explain: he own four shops there, and I am one of his oldest tenants. I started at £3, and he never raised the rent. The three houses next to me were rented at £3 also, until new tenants came in, and he then raised them 10s.
7268. Do you know any instance of the Chinese paying a bonus to secure premises there? I have had Chinese come in and want to buy me out.
7269. Did they state any given amount? Yes; they told me they would give £40 or £50.
7270. Can you give us the names of any of the Chinese you refer to? No; I do not know them.
7271. Do you know if they wished to carry on a legitimate business? They did not tell me. Two or three years ago there was a great demand by Chinese for shops in that locality, more than there is now, and rents went up. The Chinese bought several people out down that way.
7272. In your long acquaintance with that portion of George-street you must of necessity have seen large numbers of Chinese domiciled in some of these houses? I have.
7273. Would you care about domiciling the same number of persons in your house? No; I would not.
7274. Do you know anything about the extent of immorality that is carried on in Lower George-street? I cannot say anything about that.
7275. Are you acquainted with any other portion of the city where the Chinese are resident? No.

- Mr. E. A. Swinbourne. 7276. Do you know a person named Gouldtown? I have seen him at two meetings of our League.
 7277. It was he who supplied you with some valuable information respecting the Chinese gambling, I believe? I was not present then.
 19 Oct., 1891. 7278. Have you heard where he is now? No; I have not.
 7279. Have you ever noticed any policemen on that beat wearing valuable jewellery, of a kind that you would think unbecoming in men receiving the pay of an ordinary policeman? I have seen them with jewellery, but I did not think whether it was unbecoming or not. It never struck me in that way. Some people are fond of jewellery, you know, and will wear it, though they are not really in a position to buy it or afford it.
 7280. Has it ever come within your knowledge that any of the police who were fond of jewellery discontinued wearing it because remarks on the subject created a scare amongst them? No; I will not say that.
 7281. Have you had a conversation with Inspector Atwill during the last few weeks? No; I have seen him, but have not spoken to him.
 7282. Not in relation to this gambling-house question? No.
 7283. Have you had a conversation with any other policeman? I have had a chat with them as they have gone past. Some of them are customers of mine.
 7284. Do you know ex-Constable Quealy? Yes.
 7285. Do you know whether he lately withdrew a large sum of money from the bank? I have heard of it. I have heard that he started a hotel, or something, in Woolloomooloo, but I do not know that it is the case myself.
 7286. Have the rents been on the increase in Lower George-street within the last few years? Yes.
 7287. Then if anyone has stated that rents have been decreasing that would not be correct? They may have been just lately.
 7288. If anyone has stated that rents in Lower George-street have been on the decrease during the last few years, would that be correct or not? Not within the last few years, it would not, certainly. At the present time they may be decreasing, because I see several empty shops there lately, but during the last few years I should say they have been on the increase decidedly.

[The witness withdrew.]

MEMORANDUM :—If an Act was passed making it illegal to sell pak-ah-pu tickets, I think it would be the means of closing numbers of these Chinese gambling-houses.
 To the Secretary Chinese Gambling Commission.

E. A. SWINBOURNE.

Lin Yow called and examined :—

- Lin Yow. 7289. Mr. Hawthorne.] What are you? I sell tickets for the lottery.
 19 Oct., 1891. 7290. Is that the occupation you usually follow? I have been selling tickets for the last fifteen months; before that I was working in a store in Goulburn-street.
 7291. Whose store? Tiy Sing Loong's.
 7292. Do you find the gambling business pay better than being in a store? I always used to work in a store, but I got sick, and left because I could not do heavy work.
 7293. How are you paid—so much per week, or a commission? I am paid a commission.
 7294. What commission do you receive? Ten per cent. on all winnings.
 7295. You make 2s. out of every £ of the winnings? Yes; and no win no commission.
 7296. Does the bank pay you nothing? No.
 7297. You only get 10 per cent. on the winning of persons outside the bank? Yes.
 7298. How much do you average per week? Sometimes £2 or £3; sometimes, if there is very good luck, I have made £30.
 7299. What is the largest amount you have made in any one week? Over £30.
 7300. Have you ever made £50? No.
 7301. Or £40? No; I never made that much.
 7302. Did not you make £135 on one occasion? That was not commission—that was a win. I took a ticket myself.
 7303. You took a share yourself when you got the £135? Yes.
 7304. Do you often do that? Yes; I often do that.
 7305. How often have you been a winner? I have won more than £100.
 7306. How much did you win altogether last year? Sometimes £5, sometimes £10, and sometimes £20.
 7307. What was the largest amount you won—did you win £300 with another man? Yes. Taking off some of the smaller wins—five marks and six marks—it was £267.
 7308. What was the exact amount of money you won on that occasion? I gave him £135 of it.
 7309. That was not half? He is an old friend of mine, and I gave him a few pounds more than the half share after the expenses were taken off.
 7310. Do the police ever trouble you in Lower George-street? Sometimes they come in and clear the fellows out.
 7311. Do you play fan-tan as well? No.
 7312. Is there not a fan-tan shop in the place where you are located? There was one, but not now.
 7313. How long has it been closed? Since the raid was made on Moy Ping's.
 7314. Now are you quite sure it was not in existence when the Commission started? I cannot exactly remember how long.
 7315. How many weeks is it since it was stopped? About six weeks.
 7316. They do not play at all there now? No.
 7317. What is the reason—are they frightened of the police going in, or are they frightened of the Commission? They are frightened of the police for one thing, and for another they have no capital.
 7318. Will not your countrymen go in for fan-tan or pak-ah-pu now? No.
 7319. They will not invest any money? No.
 7320. How do you manage to do now? There is a cook-shop, and fruit-shop there. The cook-shop pays 25s. a week, the fruit-shop is 10s. a week, and my share is 30s. a week. The rent is £3 10s. altogether.
 7321. You have only accounted for £2 5s.;—who pays the other 5s.? That comes out of the pocket of the man who lets the place.
 7322. Who lets the place? I do not know who the landlord is.

7323. Do you mean to say you live in the house and do not know who the landlord is? We give the money to Way Kee. Lin Yow.
7324. Then you rent the place? No; I pay to another of my countrymen; he keeps the cook-shop— 19 Oct., 1891.
Shing Kee.
7325. Do you know Inspector Atwill? No; I have not been there long.
7326. Do the police ever come in to see you now? No.
7327. How long is it since they have paid a visit to your place? It is about five or six weeks ago—they came in to clear the men out.
7328. Were they playing fan-tan? No; not fan-tan—the tickets.
7329. Did the police clear them out when they saw them buying lottery-tickets? Yes.
7330. Who is the man that kept the fan-tan shop up to five or six weeks ago? The shop was kept by a company of ten persons.
7331. Who was the principal? I do not know the name of the boss, they had all got an equal share.
7332. Can you not give the names of some of them that kept this shop you speak of? They have knocked off now: Duck Chong, Wong Yun, Duck Hong, Chun Tiy, Kee On, Ah Diy. These are all I can think of.
7333. Had you not a share yourself? No.
7334. Are you quite sure? Yes. I was two or three years ago in a fan-tan place, but I have not had one for some time.
7335. Where are they all living now—the men you have mentioned? Chun Tiy is in Sydney, acting as a cook; Ah Diy is hawking; Wong Yun, Kee On, Duck Hing, and Duck Chong are doing nothing.
7336. Then four out of the six you have mentioned are now living on their means? All those I have mentioned are out of work now and very poor.
7337. Do they not make any money at fan-tan? No.
7338. Did you ever make much money at fan-tan? No; I lost.
7339. Have you known any of your countrymen in Lower George-street to make much money at fan-tan? No.
7340. But somebody must win. Who makes the money at fan-tan? I do not know anything about it. I never inquire of other men.
7341. Still, I suppose you do not go about with your eyes shut. Are you a married man? Yes.
7342. Is your wife here? No; she is in China.
7343. Are all of your countrymen married? They are all married in China.
7344. Is your place not frequented by prostitutes? No.
7345. Have you any children? Yes; one boy.
7346. How long is it since you left China? Over six years. I was here before. I went home and came back again.
7347. Have you been keeping company with any European women here? No.
7348. Do not your countrymen have prostitutes hanging about their places down there? No; there are none at my place. Sometimes some of them go into the cook-shops to eat.
7349. Mr. Abigail.] You worked for Tiy Sing Loong as a clerk? Yes.
7350. Did you get a testimonial as to character when you left? No; the Chinese do not do that.
7351. You left to start as a lottery agent? Yes; I was in bad health—that is the reason.
7352. And you have your quarters at Doung Lee's? Yes.
7353. That is a well-known gambling-house, is it not? Formerly it was; it is now a cook-shop.
7354. How many lottery-banks are you agent for? Sixteen.
7355. Are you sure it is not twenty? I sell tickets for sixteen lotteries.
7356. Now, how much per week do you receive for these sixteen lotteries? From 600 to 900 tickets—that is from £30 to £45.
7357. Does that represent the whole of the takings of the sixteen lotteries or banks? On an average during the week I receive that amount.
7358. How often have you made a commission of £30 in one week? Only once.
7359. In that week how much did you take for tickets? I cannot tell from memory. I could tell you by my books.
7360. Do the whole of the sixteen lotteries belong to the ten men you have spoken of? No; those ten men were shareholders in the fan-tan table.
7361. Who are the owners of the sixteen banks you refer to? I do not know whether it will implicate me or not; I am afraid to say.
7362. It will not implicate you in any way, and you must tell us the names? Sam War guarantees the funds of three I think; and there are Yet Lee, Yean Lee, Look Lee, Giek Lee. Of the remaining six I do not know who the bankers are.
7363. Who pays you the commission for the six others? The clerk in the banks gives it to me.
7364. You are evading the question, and we shall have to bring you here again and compel you to answer. From whom do you receive the money for these tickets—men, women, or children? From the English and Chinese, old and young.
7365. Do you sell any to women or girls? No.
7366. And your commission amounts to about 10 per cent.? Yes.
7367. How much did you make last week? A little over £3.
7368. Then business has fallen off with you? There was not much business last week.
7369. What is the largest amount investors can win for 6d.? £75.
7370. What is the highest amount a man will pay for a ticket? Sometimes a Chinaman will buy seventy pieces—that is, 35s. at 6d. a ticket. Some buy eighteen at 6d. a ticket—9s.
7371. What is the highest ticket you can get? Thirty-five shillings.
7372. Then how does that work out? You mark twenty tickets for the 35s.
7373. What is the highest amount you could win for that 35s.? You could break the bank.
7374. What amount does it take to break the bank? £300—that is the limit of the bank.
7375. What is the highest amount a man can draw up to in the purchase of these tickets? Seventy times seventy, that is £4,900.

- Lin Yow. 7376. You could draw up to £4,900, and yet the amount in the bank is only £300 to pay all demands upon it? Yes.
- 19 Oct., 1891. 7377. Is there no fund available at the back of that £300 to pay the balance if any? No.
7378. Do you know that you are receiving money under false pretences when you issue these tickets whilst you have no funds to meet the possible winnings? That is the standing rule of the banks.
7379. Do you explain to every one that comes in for 35s. worth of tickets that if they win a larger amount they can only get the £300? Yes.
7380. If they win £4,000 all they will get is £300? Yes.
7381. Do you tell them—every one that? I do not tell them all; but the banks have printed rules showing it.
7382. Rules printed in Chinese? Yes.
7383. Do European customers understand that? Europeans never buy so high as that. They only buy a few shillings worth of tickets, and there is no need to tell them.
7384. To what extent do the Europeans buy? About six pieces—that would be 3s.
7385. Six times seventy is 420—that would be £420? It could be done, but I have never heard of it.
7386. You admit it could be done, it is possible? Yes.
7387. And in that case all the winner would get would be £300? Yes.
7388. Do you issue printed notices in English to Europeans in cases of that kind? No.
7389. The ticket that you and Sarsin bought was purchased through you, was it not? Yes.
7390. Who marked the ticket? I marked the ticket. I marked it myself.
7391. Can you, as a matter of fact, so mark a ticket that it is bound to turn up a winner? No.
7392. Now, as a matter of fact, would not that ticket, according to the amount paid, namely 6s. 6d.—if the limit you speak of did not exist—represent over £900? It would be over £1,000, including the commission.
7393. Then they issued tickets carrying a liability of over £1,000, when they had only £300 to pay out? Yes, that is so. The banks show that rule to all agents.
7394. Do you not know that that is a very dishonorable proceeding, and that if a European did that he would be taken up, and possibly transported? I do not know anything about that.
7395. Do you not know that men have been taken up for issuing these tickets, and been convicted? I have not been there very long; I have not heard of it.
7396. You say you are paying 30s. a week as your share of the rent for the place where you live? Yes.
7397. I suppose you pay that out of your commission? Yes.
7398. Have you issued many tickets to-day? No; I have been sick these last few days.
7399. Did you issue any yesterday? No.
7400. Did you issue any on Saturday? No.
7401. When you won that £300 were you not told that the bank had not got the money to pay you? They said to me, "We will pay you to-morrow."
7402. Who was it told you that? A Chinaman named Took Quong.
7403. Did you accept a guarantee from the bank for your winnings? Sam War guaranteed the amount.
7404. So that as a matter of fact you did not receive the whole of the amount? The whole of it was paid on the following day.
7405. You know, I suppose, that they are in full swing now—both the lotteries and fan-tan, in Lower George-street? I cannot say about the fan-tan, on account of my being sick for the last few days.
7406. Did you not give the police something out of that £135—your share of the winnings? No.
7407. Are you quite sure? Yes; quite sure.
7408. Did you never make the police a present? Never.
7409. How long have you been a resident of Lower George-street? Fifteen months.
7410. Have you heard of any of your countrymen winning large sums of money in gambling down there? I have heard of it.
7411. Independent of that £300 win of your own, what is the largest sum of money you have heard of any one winning down there? I know that the bank has been broken several times through the Chinamen winning down there, but I cannot remember how many times.
7412. That is winning up to £300? Yes.
7413. And the liability might have been £3,000? No; I have only heard of it being broken up to the limit two or three times.
7414. Who is at the head of Sam War's place? I do not know.
7415. Have you ever heard of any rows occurring through gambling down there? No.
7416. Is it not a fact that women do visit your place for immoral purposes? No.
7417. What is your opinion of fan-tan gambling;—is it good, bad, or indifferent? I cannot say that. I suppose if it were stopped it would not hurt me, and if it is not stopped it will not make me any better.
7418. Do you believe in obeying the law? Yes.
7419. Then you must be opposed to fan-tan because that it is against the law? I cannot say.
7420. What do you think of the lottery, is it good? It is fair enough.
7421. Have you ever won anything at fan-tan? No.
7422. Then you cannot speak so confidently about that being fair as you do about the lottery? As I have several times been in the lotteries I can say that it is fair enough, but having nothing to do with fan-tan, I cannot speak of that.
7423. Are you afraid, so far as your countrymen are concerned, of saying anything about fan-tan to this Commission? I am not frightened.
7424. How often have you subscribed to the fund which is raised for the purposes of fighting the Government, or paying fines inflicted on your countrymen connected with gambling? I have never subscribed anything.
7425. Have you never attended a meeting of your countrymen to discuss the question in Sydney? I have never gone to one of these meetings at all—I am not very healthy—strong.
7426. Do you smoke opium? Yes.
7427. Is not opium-smoking the cause of your being unwell? The doctor instructed me to smoke opium to prevent blood spitting.
7428. Do you think opium-smoking is good, generally speaking, for your countrymen, or anyone else? It is not very good.
- 7429.

7429. Would you like to see a law passed here to do away with opium-smoking? I will not say whether it is good or bad. Lin Yow.
7430. Would you like to see a law passed to do away with the lottery and fan-tan? I will not say—it is nothing to me either way. 19 Oct., 1891
7431. Would you like to see a law passed to export all your countrymen here to China? That would be very good, to let us go and see our relatives.
7432. Do you think fan-tan a fair game? Yes.
7433. And the lottery you think particularly fair? Yes.
7434. Mr. Quong Tart.] You know the European population of Lower George-street have complained about the Chinese carrying on gambling very largely, and also about the opium-smoking and immorality carried on down there? I do not know. I have never heard anyone say anything about it. I never go out.
7435. You have heard about the Europeans calling a meeting down there about the gambling, and waiting on the Premier to complain of the way the Chinese houses are carried on? I have not heard anything. I am always inside.
7436. And about the places being dirty? They are all very clean now.
7437. Would you like to assist to put down this evil? No. I would not sign my name to anything like it.
7438. You say you are connected with the six lottery places? Yes.
7439. And you have given us ten of the names already? Yes.
7440. Now if you are a ticket-seller you are bound to know the names of the responsible parties? Some of them are old banks that were there before I came down.
7441. If you win any money to whom are you to look for it—you can tell if you like? They bring it to me. At Moy Ping's there are four banks—Loong Lee, Yuen Lee, Shong Lee, Sun Yick; at Fook War Tong's, two—Gick Lee and Look Lee; at Bo Sang Tong's, two—Chew Lee and Govey Lee; at Govn Yick's there are six—Yet Kiy, Kum Lee, Tin Kee, War Lee, Tong Lee, and Kem Lee. The Yet Lee and Yut Lee are "broke." There are fourteen altogether.
- [The witness withdrew.]

WEDNESDAY, 21 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,
JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Mr. Peter Decker called and examined:—

7442. President.] Where do you live? At No. 43, Goulburn-street.
7443. What are you? A fruiterer.
7444. You carry on business in Goulburn-street as a fruiterer? Yes.
7445. How long have you resided there? Five years and eight months.
7446. In what part of Goulburn-street is your shop situated—between what streets? Between George and Pitt Streets.
7447. I suppose you know a great deal about the occupants of the various houses in that block? Yes.
7448. They are principally occupied by Chinese, I believe? Most of them are at the present time.
7449. Do the Chinese carry on the gambling business there? All of them carry on the business with the exception of two.
7450. Is there any difficulty in obtaining access to their premises? Not the least.
7451. Is it your opinion that the police must be aware of the use to which these premises are put? Oh, yes.
7452. Do you know any of the police on duty in that street? Yes, several.
7453. What is the name of the inspector in charge of that division? Inspector Reid.
7454. Do you know him personally? No.
7455. Do you know Mr. Mackay personally? Yes, I have seen him very often.
7456. You have seen him on duty in Goulburn-street? Yes, very often.
7457. Have you had any conversation with him lately? No.
7458. Do you know the sergeants in charge of the locality? I know Sergeant Broderick and Sergeant Collins.
7459. Have you had any conversation with either of them as to the Chinese gambling? I have told Sergeant Collins that they are a nuisance in that street, and destroy our business.
7460. How long ago is it that you told him that? Eighteen months ago.
7461. What reply did the officer make to you? He said they had no power to suppress it.
7462. Did he explain the reason—in what respect the law was defective? He said it was the people's own fault that they did not pass stricter measures to suppress it.
7463. He acknowledged that the police were aware of the offence being carried on there? Yes; I have seen the police go in on several occasions, and chase the Europeans out of the house.
7464. You have seen the police go in? Yes. One of them told me himself that the law would not allow him to.
7465. Who told you that? Constable Fullerton told me that, and several other constables have told me. I do not know the names of the others.
7466. Did they tell you that they could easily obtain access to the gambling-places, but that their superior officers would not allow them to? One constable told me they were not allowed to—that only plain-clothes constables could do it; and then they had to get a warrant to arrest the people. They generally get detectives to do that work.
7467. Have you noticed women and children going into these Chinese gambling-dens? Yes; I have lived five years next door to one, and I have seen children going in to spend 6d. or 1s. on the tickets.
- Actually

Mr.
P. Decker.
21 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. P. Decker. Actually I have known children spend their fathers' money which they get by selling firewood, on tickets and fan-tan. The lottery is the worst curse at the present time.
- 21 Oct., 1891. 7468. These children you speak of, were they mere boys and girls? Yes.
7469. Girls of tender age? Yes, of tender age—from 12 and 13 up to 18 years.
7470. Do you know whether the Chinese have induced any of these girls to stay when they have entered the premises to buy tickets? That I cannot say.
7471. You do not know whether any young girls have been induced to visit any of these Chinese quarters for immoral purposes? Yes, I have in those places in the back lanes, a little further on. Several young women sleep there with Chinamen, that I know of.
7472. Do you think that in those cases the intimacy started with the girls going first to the gambling-houses in the way you have described? Yes.
7473. Being there accosted by the Chinese and induced to visit the houses at the back? Yes. There are a great many of them at the back.
7474. Were any of the girls in question who have taken up with the Chinamen originally respectable—that is, of fairly respectable position? Yes; I have known some young girls—16 years of age, or thereabouts, of respectable parents who have been in there; and their mothers have told me they cannot keep them away; that the Chinamen gave them plenty of money, jewellery, and clothing, and that they (the parents) were entirely powerless to do anything with them.
7475. Do you know many cases of that kind? I have known three or four. I know one Chinese house in Sussex-street—there was a girl there. She told me that she was living with a Chinaman. She had been living at Balmain, and ran away from her parents, and the Chinaman induced her to run away with him.
7476. What inducement did she say he offered her? Plenty of money and clothing—flash dresses.
7477. Did you ever acquaint the police with the fact that these immoral practices were being carried on in the premises you refer to? The police know it well enough. It is carried on every day, and is under their eyes continually.
7478. In short, the police must of necessity have known it? Yes.
7479. This immorality is practised openly in the locality? Yes; the police have chased them out themselves.
7480. The white women and girls go about among the Chinese there without any attempt at secrecy? Yes; they go there both in the day and night time.
7481. You have never had any conversation with the police on the subject? Not specially; it is a common thing.
7482. Is it a fact that the Chinese in your locality make presents to the people about on certain occasions—at the time of their New Year, for instance? Yes.
7483. Have they ever given you a present? Yes; they gave me a small box of tea and some ginger at one time.
7484. They gave you that because you were a neighbour I suppose—just in a neighbourly spirit? Yes.
7485. Do you know if they have ever made any presents to the police of ginger or groceries of any kind? I do not know whether they give anything to the police or not. I know, on one occasion, a Chinaman wanted to buy me out of my premises to use it as a gambling-house, and I had a conversation with him like this: I said to him, "Why do you go on gambling here? the police will chase you out." He said, "Oh, no; we pay £10 a week for Goulburn-street." I asked him whom he paid the £10 to, but he would not tell me.
7486. Can you tell us the name of the Chinaman you had the conversation with? No. He is not there now. He has been gone from that street about eighteen months.
7487. Can you not remember his name? No; I do not know any of them by name. I told the sergeant what the man had said, and I told Constable Fullerton, and he said he never got a penny of it.
7488. You told the police that you had heard they were corrupted? Yes; I said, "The Chinamen say that they pay £10 a week for Goulburn-street and the lane, and no wonder they can carry on." Their reply was that they received nothing of it.
7489. You do not know the name of the Chinaman who told you that? No.
7490. Where did he carry on business? In Goulburn-street.
7491. At what number? I think it was 42 or 44; it was on the opposite side from my place.
7492. And he left there eighteen months ago? Yes; he offered me a good price for my premises.
7493. And did you decline because your business was turning you in a good profit? No, not for that; I knew the landlord would not allow him to go in.
7494. He would not consent to your transferring your lease;—who is the landlord? Mr. Thompson, publican; he keeps the family hotel.
7495. Do you know the landlords of any premises occupied by Chinese as gambling-houses? Mr. Seal lets his premises to them.
7496. Do you know of any others? No.
7497. Do you know of any act of bribery affecting the police in your neighbourhood? Not of my own knowledge.
7498. Did you ever hear of the police being bribed at any time? Yes; a blackfellow one time told me He was a great gambler.
7499. What is his name? He is a big American. He lost all his money one Saturday night—it was £5, I think—and he came to me for 3d. to carry him to Balmain. I said to him, "It is a shame of you to go and lose all your money like that, and leave your wife and children to starve; I wonder the police do not put a stop to the gambling." He said, "Oh, the police are bribed, and the Chinamen can carry on as much as they like." I asked him how he knew that, and he said, "We hear everything in the fan-tan shops."
7500. Do you know how the business is conducted in those gambling-houses? I have had a look at it.
7501. Have you ever seen the police in one of these places making a raid? I have seen the police go into the place next door to me several times to put the people out, but they did not arrest them.
7502. Have you ever been present when the police have gone there, and there was money on the table? No.
7503. When the police go in and disperse the gamblers, what becomes of the money on the table? I cannot say.
- 7504.

7504. Have you ever heard that the police took it? No; I never heard that. I have heard many times about the police going in, but not about the money on the table, or who took it. I know there is often plenty on the table—I have seen it.

7505. You had a conversation with Mr. McKillop? Yes; I told him that a Chinaman had told me that they paid £10 a week to certain people, but did not say to whom. It must be to the police, of course. At least that is what I make out of it.

7506. Your informant was the Chinaman you have spoken of? Yes, and the blackfellow.

7507. Are you quite sure you cannot give us any information that would enable us to trace that Chinaman? I could not. He has been away from Goulburn-street a long time.

7508. Would you know him again if you saw him? I doubt it. There are so many of them from all parts—Waterloo and Botany—come into my premises, and they are all very much alike.

7509. Do they carry on the gambling day and night? Yes; up to about 11 and 12 o'clock.

7510. On Sundays, too? Yes; all day. They come from all parts—Newtown, Petersham, Balmain, and other places.

7511. You mean Europeans and Chinese as well? Yes; but mostly Europeans.

7512. Are there many opium-dens in the locality you live in? Yes; there are several at the back of my place. I asked one of them the other day if he was not frightened of being fined for selling opium, and he said "no."

7513. Do you know if there are any women opium-smokers? Yes; there are several who go there to smoke opium regularly.

7514. There are not a great number? No; they are bad characters, mostly, who go there to smoke opium.

7515. Have you ever heard of young girls being brought by the Chinese into these opium-dens? I know for a fact that girls have been there smoking opium and lying down with nearly all their clothing off.

7516. Have you been present at any beastly exhibitions in these places, where the women have been lying under the influence of opium? No; but as I say, I know there are young women who smoke opium. One of those who smoke it comes to my place now, and she has told me she cannot knock it off; that she must go there to smoke, and that she smokes as much as 5s. or 6s. worth of the drug each day.

7517. The sanitary condition of these houses at the back is very bad, is it not? Yes; very bad. The place is very crowded, and there are nine or ten houses occupied by Chinese in the back there, with only one or two closets for all.

7518. And a number of men and women assemble there and smoke opium? Yes; they are principally Chinese vegetable hawkers, and they always have women with them at night there. In Robinson's-lane there are about 250 Chinese in one place.

7519. That is a very big building? Yes.

7520. Are women allowed to go there? I have never seen women in it.

7521. Have you been there often? Yes; I have gone there to buy vegetables.

7522. Is there much opium-smoking carried on there? Oh, yes; they smoke opium there. They have tables like this on the ground floor, and they smoke their opium and sleep on the tables, the vegetables being placed underneath the tables.

7523. Do you say the vegetables are in the bed-room? In the place where they sleep; yes. They sleep on these tables, and the vegetables are underneath on the ground.

7524. When did you last visit the place? Only the other day. Underneath the tables is usually full of vegetables, and the Chinamen smoke opium on top of the tables, with a mat for a bed. I spoke to the police about it one day, and said it was a terrible thing for the people to eat vegetables which were kept like that. He retorted that I went there myself, but I pointed out that I went there, not for myself, but for other people.

7525. Does the sanitary condition of the place compare favourably with the sanitary condition of other Chinese places about there? Yes. It is cleaner kept than some.

7526. The only owner of property occupied by Chinese that you know of is Mr. Seal? Yes.

7527. Where are the premises situated,—on which side? On the left-hand side, going towards George-street.

7528. That is the lowest side, nearest the Haymarket? Yes. He (Mr. Seal) lets four shops in the front, and nine houses at the back.

7529. Have you taken the trouble to inquire how the proprietors of the Chinese gambling-houses arrange their financial affairs at all? Well, some Chinamen have told me that they generally have what they call a sustentation fund, which is collected by taking so much out of every shilling of the winnings. That is for a defence fund, to pay the fines of the Chinese brought up at the police court.

7530. A Chinaman told you that? Yes.

7531. That contributions were levied on the winnings of the gambling-houses to furnish a fund for paying the fines inflicted on the gamblers for breaking the law? Yes.

7532. Can you tell us the name of the Chinaman who told you that? No; I know none of them by name.

7533. How long ago is it since you had that conversation? It is a good while ago.

7534. However it is well within your knowledge that there is a fund established for some such purpose? Yes.

7535. When you heard that £10 per week was paid, presumably to the police, did you ask whether it was paid out of that fund? No; I did not. I never thought of such a thing until it was mentioned to me.

7536. If a system of bribery was carried on there, would it not have to include all the members of the police force on duty in that particular part? I do not think it.

7537. What I mean is this: Supposing this £10 a week was paid to the police down there for winking at certain things, it must have been divided among all the policemen who were on duty there;—it would not do to bribe one and not another, or a link in the chain would be lost—that is the point I want you to answer? I do not think all of the police would be bribed. From what I can hear of it ———

7538. Suppose you and I were policemen on that beat, what would be the good of bribing you if you were on duty to-day, and not bribing me if I were on duty to-morrow;—do you not see that for the bribery to be effectual it should be extended to both of us? I do not think the constables on the beat are paid. I believe it is paid to their superiors.

7539. You were led to believe that the bribe of £10 a week must have been given to some of the superior officers? Yes; that is my belief.

Mr.
P. Decker.
21 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. P. Decker.
21 Oct., 1891.
7540. And I suppose you were confirmed in that belief by what was told you by one of the ordinary police officers, namely, that they were told not to interfere, and that they could not enter those places without warrants? Yes.
7541. Are you quite sure you are not personally aware of any groceries, furniture, or jewellery, or anything of value, being given to the police by the Chinese gambling-house keepers? I am not aware of anything of that kind.
7542. Have you never heard of it? No. I have seen the police on very good terms with them—going in and shaking hands with the Chinese, and all that sort of thing.
7543. Have you seen any of the police drinking or dining with or being entertained by the proprietors of any of the gambling-dens? I have seen the police called in by the Chinese, and I have noticed the police go in, and shake hands, but for what purpose they were called in I cannot say.
7544. Did you never inquire? No; but I have remarked to certain people sometimes, the police seem very intimate with the Chinese, seeing the way they shake hands with them.
7545. You are quite sure they are on terms of intimacy with the proprietors of these gambling-houses? Yes, I am sure of that.
7546. Give me the name of any officer you know on duty there, whom you have seen shaking hands with those Chinamen, or whom you know to be on terms of intimacy with them? There is plain-clothes Constable Lewis, he was on terms of intimacy with them.
7547. Any others? Yes; West and Rae.
7548. Are they plain-clothes constables? Yes; I have never seen constables go in there in uniform.
7549. Did you notice any of the officers—one of the sergeants for instance? No.
7550. Or the inspector? No; never.
7551. Now, I want to ask you another question Mr. Decker; might not the plain-clothes constables or detectives you have referred to, have gone into those places in the execution of their ordinary duty, looking after thieves or bad characters? They have done so.
7552. They might have gone in for that purpose? They have done so I know.
7553. Is it part of their duty to go and inspect these places in the back lanes to see if there are any bad characters concealed there? Certainly.
7554. And on the occasions you have referred to might they not have been visiting these places in the discharge of their duty? Yes; I have seen constables going into the places at the back, and arresting people there many times.
7555. Have you seen the constables visit the houses where they play fan-tan to look for offenders outside of gambling altogether? Yes. Detectives West and Murdoch look after the people there.
7556. Those places are the resort of thieves, bad characters, and suspected persons? Yes; a great many of them mouch about there.
7557. The moral atmosphere of the place is very bad? Yes.
7558. Has the state of things been much worse during the last five years? Well it has been a great deal worse than it is at present. Since this agitation has been raised they have become frightened.
7559. That is during the last three months? Yes; but still the premises I occupied have been let to Chinese during the last fortnight. I had to leave because I was between two of them, and I found I could not do the trade.
7560. Have you visited Wexford-street at all? Yes.
7561. Have you been in any of the Chinese habitations there? Yes; I have gone there with the police.
7562. You went from curiosity? No; we were looking for certain persons on account of some stolen property.
7563. You were interested in some property that had been stolen? Yes.
7564. And you went to these places to search for it? Yes.
7565. Were you present when fan-tan was going on in any of those places? Yes; fan-tan was in full swing, and also the lottery.
7566. Did you notice many Europeans there? Yes; Europeans and Chinese mixed.
7567. Were any women there? No; with fan-tan there are no women. In the lotteries it is mostly women who buy the tickets.
7568. Mr. Abigail.] You have a good knowledge of what is going on in Goulburn-street, between Pitt and George Streets? Yes.
7569. Is there much legitimate business carried on there among the Chinese? No; there is no legitimate business at all.
7570. Do you think the presence of the Chinese there tends to drive business from the street? I do. Four years ago—you might have noticed yourself, sir—all the houses on the northern side of George-street were tenanted by Europeans, carrying on business, and they have been crowded out by the Chinese. The Europeans were paying 14s. a week rent, and they were bought out by the Chinese, who took a lease, and paid £1 a week, and the Europeans had to quit.
7571. Referring to the small houses at the back of your premises, and occupied by Chinese, you think they are very much overcrowded? Yes; undoubtedly.
7572. Do you think they should be compelled to afford the same amount of accommodation as European houses? I do, certainly.
7573. And that they should be compelled to conform to the same sanitary laws? Yes.
7574. I suppose the smells are very offensive there? Yes; that is the reason I had to move from my place. I could not live there any longer. There is always a smell of opium or some other kind of stuff. I do not know what it is, but I know it is very disagreeable. It has frequently made my wife sick.
7575. What has affected you in that part would equally affect other residents of the locality, I suppose? Yes.
7576. You say that part of Goulburn-street is much frequented by women of bad character? Yes.
7577. You can see them about every day? Yes. They are there with the Chinese every day, and stop there at night.
7578. In your experience that goes to show that the Chinese treat them better than Europeans? Yes; they give them more money, and treat them better.
7579. That is the explanation of the bad girls going about there? Yes. They can always get money out of the Chinese.

Mr.
P. Decker.
21 Oct., 1891.

7580. These gambling-dens are largely frequented by labouring men, are they not? Yes. On Saturday night I have seen poor women and children waiting for the men to come out from places near to my shop, the men having lost all their money at gambling.
7581. Have you noticed those placards on the fronts of the Chinese houses? Yes.
7582. Do you know what they mean? Yes; it says that gambling is carried on there.
7583. Mr. Hawthorne.] How did you come to know that the placard announced gambling? The Chinamen told me. I would often have a chat with them.
7584. You have found them pretty open with you? Yes. I may say that the Chinamen in general were very good customers to me. They bought a great deal of fruit. They spend their money freely.
7585. They are fair neighbours? Yes; very quiet. They are very fair people.
7586. Is there much whore-mongering there? Yes; I think so.
7587. Mr. Quong Tart.] You stated, in answer to the President, that you got information from a Chinaman about £10 a week being given to the police. What is the number of the shop where this Chinaman carried on business? It was a company of Chinamen carried on the place.
7588. Would you know him again? I think so; he was a tall young fellow. He lived somewhere in Pitt-street, but was always in Goulburn-street, with his mates.
7589. Could he speak English very well? Yes, he spoke very good English.
7590. Could he write English? I cannot say. He could speak English very well. He said he could afford to give me £50 for the premises.
7591. You have said that young girls frequent these Chinese houses—where are they? At the back of Seal's places; there is a wine-shop at the corner of the lane, and there is another lane turning off that.
7592. What are the Chinese in those places? They are hawkers.
7593. You say some respectable girls go there? Yes; they used to some time ago; not now.
7594. Would you think they were pure, virtuous women before they went there? I cannot say anything about their purity; they looked respectable.
7595. You have stated that the lottery is the greatest curse down there—will you explain your reason for saying that? They are a great nuisance. The larrikins buy tickets in the lottery and stand outside the Chinese houses, blackguarding anyone that passes, waiting for the banks to be drawn.
7596. How often do the banks open? Every hour or hour and a half, perhaps. The larrikins stand outside on the footpath, and people cannot pass there.
7597. How many banks are there? About twenty in Goulburn-street.
7598. How many respectable Chinese are there carrying on business there? Two or three altogether. One is Ko Ping; he has a respectable mien; I have known him for a long time; and there is another one; I do not know his name.
7599. At which of these gambling-houses do most Europeans congregate? There is a place three doors from my place—a very hot shop.
7600. Have any Europeans complained to you about the gambling carried on there? Yes, several; they have come into my shop to talk over it. They have said it is a shame that it should be allowed to be carried. I have given seven or eight of the larrikins in charge of the police for standing in front of my door and annoying people.
7601. There is no complaint against the respectable Chinese? No, there would not be any complaint against them. The great nuisance is caused by larrikins that come about these places, and the rows that occur there. I have seen big stones and bricks coming across the road and flying out of the windows and doors.
7602. Have you formed any idea of the best way to put down this evil? That I do not know. The only way I can think of is to keep the Chinese in a district by themselves, as they do in California. They should not be allowed to live amongst the European population at the present time, the way they do live.
7603. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long is it since you were in California? It is a good many years ago.
7604. Did you visit the Chinese quarter when you were there? No, but I know from shipmates of mine. I have not been there for twenty-four years, but I have read and been told how they manage with the Chinese there.
7605. Mr. Quong Tart.] If the Chinese were kept entirely by themselves do you not think it would rather increase the evil? So long as the European men and girls were kept away it would be better. The only question is, could you keep them away?
7606. You have referred to the dirty premises and so forth in that part of Goulburn-street;—do you think the Chinese are better or worse than the people of the same class of other nations? Well the Chinese who live next door to me are very clean; the only thing is, they have a peculiar smell about them.
7607. Which is the largest gambling-shop in Goulburn-street? There is one at the corner of Robinson's-lane and one about three doors from my place; a very large one, always full.
7608. Have you known many rows to occur there? Oh, yes, I have seen the doors burst open and young fellows with their hands smashed.
7609. What has been the cause of these rows? They arise out of the gambling.
7610. Do you know any Chinese informers? No.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. John Dawson called and examined:—

7611. Mr. Abigail.] You have been a police officer, Mr. Dawson? Yes; I retired ten years ago from the police.
7612. What rank did you retire on? The rank of sergeant.
7613. About how long had you held the rank of sergeant? About fourteen years, I think.
7614. You rose to that rank from the position of an ordinary constable? Yes.
7615. In what part of the city did you pass most of your time during your connection with the police? Most of my time was spent in the northern part of the city.
7616. Then you have an intimate knowledge of Lower George-street? Yes; at that time I had.
7617. That is ten years ago? Yes; I retired on the 3rd October, 1882.

Mr.
J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.

7618.

- Mr. J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.
7618. You are invited here by the Commission, I may tell you, to give any information you may possess with reference to the gambling carried on in Lower George-street? I shall be most happy to give the Commission all the information in my power.
7619. What was the state of Lower George-street ten years ago? It was in perfect order then. Do you mean with respect to the Chinese?
7620. Yes;—with regard to the gambling question, and the condition of the Chinese residents generally? In my time there were no complaints against the Chinese. They were a law-abiding and industrious people.
7621. Were there many gambling-dens in Lower George-street at that time? Gambling was not carried on to any extent there at that time.
7622. But there were, I suppose, some gambling-places known to you? One or two places there were, in which the Chinese used to gamble amongst themselves, but no Europeans played in those places. The Europeans did not frequent the places at all, and no complaints were made to the police.
7623. Were women in the habit of visiting the Chinese houses then? Very seldom, indeed; and whenever the police found that any such thing was going on, they quickly put a stop to it. The inspector was very particular about that. Inspector Anderson was there during my time, and Inspector Taylor succeeded him; then came Inspector Johnson, and Inspector Atwill took his place. He has been in charge of the northern part of the city for nine years.
7624. Do you remember an inquiry that took place sometime ago by a Select Committee of Parliament into the condition of the common lodging-houses of Sydney? I did not have anything to do with that.
7625. You were not called as a witness? No. That was more with regard to this side of the city—a lot of common boarding-houses in Clarence-street, which were done away with years ago.
7626. Do you know anything about what has been going on down there since you left the force? No. I have no knowledge of anything since then.
7627. Do not you know that Chinese gambling has increased very largely in the locality since that time? No; only what I saw from the reports in the papers of the deputation that waited on Sir Henry Parkes. I went to live at North Shore, and have been some years there; I reside at Lane Cove now.
7628. You have read in the papers the statements made by several members of the deputation to the Premier? Yes. I saw leading articles in the two morning papers; on the 1st August last, I think; and I was very much surprised.
7629. Did you see the reported statement at the deputation as to certain members of the police in Lower George-street having received presents from the Chinese residents there of gold watches and chains, or diamond rings? Yes, I did, and I believe it to be untrue. I do not think the police have fallen so low as to do the like of that.
7630. You believe there is no evidence to justify a charge of that kind against the police? No. I am well acquainted with the police, and know them to be a most honorable, respectable class of men.
7631. Have you heard of any members of the police on that beat accumulating considerable property? Of course they have property, which they have accumulated by their own industry. I have accumulated property myself through my industry, and making good speculations in land, and through my own frugality. I bought land when it was cheap, and got good prices for it.
7632. And you think that any of the police who have acquired property have obtained it in a similar way? Yes; I consider them a most respectable and honorable class of men; and I ought to be in a position to say, for I served with them a number of years.
7633. You can neither give any information, nor offer any opinion to justify a charge of that kind against the police? No; certainly not.
7634. Do you believe that the statement or charge is untrue? Yes; I believe it is untrue that they would take a bribe in any possible shape. I may say when I was leaving the police force the Chinese merchants of Lower George-street presented me with a testimonial in the shape of a gold watch and chain, and an address, and Mr. Quong Tart was one of those who signed it. I suppose that is what caused all the talk about the gold watches, and so forth. This [taking it from his pocket] is the watch, gentlemen.
7635. Mr. Hawthorne. [Reading the inscription]:—"Presented to Mr. John Dawson, on his resignation of the position of Sergeant in the Metropolitan Police, by the Chinese residents of Bourke Ward, Sydney, November, 1882." This testimonial, I understand, was presented to you in the most public manner, Mr. Dawson? Yes.
7636. And was that the only presentation you received throughout your connection with the police force? That was all.
7637. And it was done in the most open manner? Yes; after I left the force.
7638. During the whole time you were connected with the force I suppose you did your duty fairly all round as a police officer? Undoubtedly; I may say when I first went to the Northern Division the Chinese were badly treated by the larrikins, who assaulted them, and we put a stop to it. At the time of the Chinese scare I took an active part in visiting the Chinese quarters, and getting them disinfected.
7639. You never showed any partiality to the Chinese in any way? No; I did my duty simply in an honorable and straightforward manner.
7640. What, may I ask, are the names of the policemen in the force now who were also in the force when you were a member of it? One is Mr. Higgins, an old friend of mine—a most honorable man.
7641. Do you know whether he acquired a good deal of household property? Yes; I am glad to say he has done so, through his industry and frugality.
7642. And having bought land when it was cheap, I suppose? Yes; and he afterwards put up houses on the land, and got tenants for them.
7643. And any statement that may have been made that he (Sergeant Higgins) and others engaged in the police force have accumulated a large amount of property through treachery to their office you believe to be utterly without foundation? Well I do not believe a word of it.
7644. However, you believe there is plenty of evidence to prove that what they have got is the result of their own industry and frugality? Yes; I do believe that. There was another man named Carson got property in the same way.
7645. Do you know Constable Quealy, who was at one time in the force? He was not in the force in my time; but I think I know the man you mean—he is outside now.
7646. Besides those whom you have named are there any others now in the force who were members of it in your time? Yes; there are a good many—Sergeant Macdonald, Senior-sergeant Kenny.
7647. All honorable men? Yes sir.

7648. You think they would be above taking anything in the shape of a bribe? I do. It would not be very safe for the police to do that. It would not last long, you may be sure.
7649. If bribery were carried on, as has been suggested, would it not be necessary to bribe every man parading that portion of the city? It would; if they could not give it to one as well as another it would break down.
7650. Has the ordinary police constable as much power in suppressing crime as his superior officer? Yes; in fact he has more, because he is brought more immediately into contact with the people. He is up and down all day long; on the other hand, the non-commissioned officer has not half the time, because he has to go round to all the places, and divide his time between them.
7651. Then it would be more necessary to bribe the ordinary constables than the officers? I believe it would. They (the constables) have more to do with them, and see more of them. But at the same time I cannot believe that the statements I have seen in the papers are true. If so there must be bad supervision down there—that is all I can say.
7652. How many years were you in the police force, Mr. Dawson? Twenty-two years.
7653. In that particular part of Sydney? From Erskine-street to Dawes' Point all the time. I was in charge of the watch-house in Erskine-street for seven years.
7654. When you saw the statements reported in the paper, those that were made by the deputation to the Premier, you thought they were incredible? Yes; it struck me as being disgraceful, malicious, and false.
7655. Have you any Chinese in your neighbourhood, and do you have any trouble with them? All the inhabitants of my neighbourhood are law-abiding people.
7656. You have no disturbance from the Chinese? Not the least. I have my garden let to them.
- 7657-8. How many are there living up there, about 200? Yes, in Willoughby and Lane Cove.
7659. They make no disturbance there? No; they are not any trouble whatever.
7660. They never interfere with the women and children? No. As I have said already, they are a law-abiding people there.
7661. And the Europeans make no complaint as to their residence in the neighbourhood? No.
7662. Do you know Inspector Atwill? I do.
7663. Had he been appointed to that district previous to your removal? He came there in 1881.
7664. Did you ever serve under him? No; and I would not like to.
7665. What was, or is, your opinion of his conduct as an officer;—do you think he would be capable of receiving a present as an inducement for him to overlook his duty? I do not know anything about him.
7666. You are not on friendly terms with him? I am not. He comes from the same place at home as I do. When he came to the country I was a good friend to him, but he behaved a bad friend to me.
7667. Have you ever heard anything about Inspector Atwill's character, in regard to the terms upon which he has lived with the people of his district—Chinese or otherwise—that would lead you to doubt his character as an honest upright man? Since I left the police I have had nothing to do with him at all.
7668. Have you ever heard anything that would affect his character as a police officer? No. But I do not think he would do anything dishonorable. I had forgotten to say when speaking of presents that the Chinese on certain occasions are in the habit of distributing small presents. At Christmas time I have received many little things from them, such as preserved ginger, for instance.
7669. During your time in the police force you have received small presents of ginger, and so forth? Yes. Mr. Quong Tart and all the big Chinese merchants in Sydney do that. They are very hospitable at Christmas time.
7670. You generally found them a hospitably inclined people? Yes, sir.
7671. And do you find them so still? I do.
7672. Mr. McKillop.] How long have you been living in Lane Cove, Mr. Dawson? Over two years.
7673. I think you stated that you have property in Lane Cove? Yes, I am happy to say I have.
7674. Did you acquire that property while you were in the police force? Yes.
7675. Do you know Way Kee? Yes. He had a garden of mine for a number of years. He paid £30 a year for it.
7676. Did you at any time get a loan from Way Kee? Never in my life. I never got a shilling from any of them, and I never required it either. Way Kee is the wrong man to give you a loan anyway.
7677. Did the rent which he paid you for that land never exceed the £30 a year? He only paid £30 a year. After he gave it up I let it again, and get £50 for it now.
7678. Have you had any conversation with any of the police officers of the northern division recently? No, not with any of them.
7679. You have not been in that portion of the town? No. I have nothing to do with the police; I do not often come to Sydney.
7680. Are you aware that the number of Chinese gambling-houses in that portion of the city has been on the increase during the last few years? According to the papers it would seem so.
7681. You do not know that it is so from personal observation? No. I was eight years in the service of the Gas Company after I left the police, and I was up and down there pretty often, but I could never see any great annoyance from gambling in Lower George-street.
7682. Was Sergeant Macintosh on duty in that district when you were there? No; not in my time.
7683. I believe he kept the Chinese, and the gambling portion of the larrikin element, pretty well in subjection there, did he not? I do not think he did more than anyone else. In fact one man could not do it; he must be assisted by all parties.
7684. Did you at first refuse to be present here when you were served with a summons to attend? Yes; I did not know what they wanted me for.
7685. Did you not know as a police officer? I am not a police officer.
7686. Well, as an ex-police officer—as a citizen, that being summoned by the Commission you were bound to attend? I came here out of respect to his Worship the Mayor—I did not know who the Commission were.
7687. Do you not know, sir, that being summoned by the Commission, you were bound to attend? I got no summons—it was only a memo. from the secretary.
7688. That was quite sufficient? Well, I make no apology—I am here, anyhow.
7689. I do not think your answers respectful to the Commission—I must leave the matter in the hands of the President.

Mr.
J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.

- Mr. J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.
7690. Mr. Abigail.] Do you not know that a Commission is clothed with all the authority of the Supreme Court, and it has power to compel the attendance of anybody it may want? The notice does not show any penalty.
7691. President.] As a matter of fact, Mr. Dawson, I suppose your real objection, or disinclination to attend upon the summons of the Commission, was because you have been a long time out of the force, and you thought it a hardship to be brought to town? That is it, Mr. Manning.
7692. Well, I would like to say this—and you will bear with me when I tell you that it savours of rudeness for you to say you have come merely out of respect to me, because I am merely the Chairman of the Commission; although I do not think you intended it. But you must recollect that we have had certain evidence here, and it is about that we wish to examine you. Mr. McKillop is now traversing that evidence? Very well, sir; I do not wish to be disrespectful to the Commission, I am sure.
7693. Mr. McKillop.] Has an ordinary constable the power to enter these gambling-dens at any time he feels inclined? No; a policeman has no power to enter any man's house without a warrant. But I do not believe the Chinamen ever refused a policeman permission to enter their premises.
7694. Do you not know for a fact that policemen in uniform have entered these places frequently? Yes; and I have myself.
7695. Have you seen gambling going on inside? Yes; they used to play fan-tan.
7696. You have seen that? Yes.
7697. Were you not aware that it was illegal to play fan-tan? No; I was not. There was no Gambling Act as to that then in force.
7698. Not nine years ago? No; I have never heard of such a thing.
7699. How long is it since the Gambling Act was passed? I forget. I think there was a Gambling Act as regards Europeans, but I never heard anything about a law applying to Chinamen. So far as the police were concerned, there was no complaint made about those people. Mr. Anderson and I used to go the rounds repeatedly.
7700. You must understand, Mr. Dawson, that I can speak from seventeen years' experience of that portion of the city, and have seen the evil growing? Well, I am sorry it has come to such a pass.
7701. You have said that an ordinary police constable has as much power as a senior officer? Yes, just the same.
7702. Would he not have to wait and consult his senior officer on the beat before he could take action against anyone? He could not take action unless he had a warrant.
7703. Not in the case of gambling? No. I remember there was a raid made on one occasion, when the Chinamen were locked up without a warrant. Mr. Driver defended them, and he beat the police.
7704. Am I to gather from your answers that the law at present is not sufficiently stringent to enable the police to effectively deal with this evil? Yes.
7705. And that you would impose imprisonment without the option of a fine? Yes.
7706. In your opinion, as an old servant of the State and police officer, that would have a tendency to minimise the gambling evil in our midst? It would, both European and Chinese.
7707. Has a constable or non-commissioned officer in the police force the right to enter a tobacconist's shop or any other place where Europeans gamble if he has reason to think it is carried on there? Not without a warrant.
7708. In answer to a question a short time back, you said you would not like to serve under Inspector Atwill? I would not.
7709. Do you think the police in the northern division of the city are as efficient at the present time as they were in years gone by, or during the time other inspectors were in charge of that division? According to the reports that have been lately circulated they cannot be, but I know nothing about that.
7710. You must be a judge, after all the service you have seen? I have nothing to do with the police now, and therefore am not in a position to offer an opinion.
7711. I merely want to elicit your opinion—surely you have formed an impression upon the subject? No; I have no opportunities of doing so, and I have no connection with the police now. I have not been in George-street three times these last two years.
7712. President.] As a matter of fact you cannot give an opinion upon that point? No, I cannot.
7713. Mr. McKillop.] You have said that great changes have taken place in the district since you were on duty there? Yes. There are few men I know there now.
7714. Do you not think it possible that there may have been some dishonest men on the staff of that station? I will not say as to that. But I suppose the police are like others—there are good and bad among them.
7715. Did you at no time receive any money from Way Kee in the shape of a loan? No; he is the wrong mark for that. I found him a hard, though honest man.
7716. Was there a great deal of prostitution carried on in the neighbourhood of Lower George-street during your time? No; we would not allow it, sir.
7717. You put it down with a strong arm? Yes; we dealt with them quickly. Mr. Anderson made us attend to them specially. His instructions would be that if we found any of that class of women in the Chinese dwellings to put them under the Vagrant Act, and they would have to go to gaol.
7718. In that way you "nipped it in the bud," I suppose? We did.
7719. Was Lower George-street noted for a large amount of business—the trade carried on, I mean—in your time? It was largely a Chinese population; but there were also a number of European places of business.
7720. Were there as many Chinese shops there then as there are in that locality now? Yes. The old houses were pulled down and new ones built to replace them.
7721. Have you remarked that the respectable portion of the passengers by harbour ferries—from places like Watson's Bay, North Shore, and Manly Beach—had an aversion to travelling up town by way of Lower George-street? No, not in my time; the people then used to patronise that part of George-street to a very large extent, indeed.
7722. Were the sanitary conditions of that portion of George-street very good in your time? We used to make the people clean up their places.
7723. Were the sanitary arrangements of the locality under your control? No; but we used to do it on behalf of the public. Inspector Seymour and his staff used to visit their premises also.

Mr.
J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.

7724. Do you know Mr. Nock, of the firm of Felton and Nock, in Lower George-street? I do. I have known him since the time he was just able to walk.
7725. He is a respectable, trustworthy person, I suppose? Yes, he is a very nice young man.
7726. Are you of opinion that Mr. Nock would be likely to carefully consider any statement that he would make with regard to any matter of importance? Certainly. He is a business man, and an honorable man. He has been a partner of Mr. Felton's for some years now.
7727. He worked his way up to his present position through his own energy, industry, and attention to business? Yes; he worked his way up from the door.
7728. By that you mean, I suppose, that he was originally employed as a boy at the door? Yes.
7729. Do you know Mr. Buchanan? I do. He is a very respectable man.
7730. And you think any evidence he might give would be evidence that could be relied upon? I do.
7731. He would not do any man an injustice? No. I do not think it would do him any good to do it.
7732. I want your opinion on the point as I put it, if you please? All I can say of Mr. Buchanan is that he is a very respectable man, and his wife is a very nice woman.
7733. Supposing that the same amount of gambling as goes on in these Chinese quarters were carried on among Europeans, and done as openly, do you not think the police would take prompt measures to suppress it? I believe they would.
7734. Do you remember whether in your time similar placards to those shown in the photographs produced used to be exhibited outside the Chinese houses? Yes; I have seen them.
7735. Did you not have command of a Chinese interpreter? Yes, in the Court. But there was no complaint about them.
7736. The evil was not so great then? It was not, or we would have put a stop to it.
7737. Did it never strike you, either through curiosity, or from your position as a police officer, to make inquiry as to what those notices meant? No; and I did not know anything about it until I saw it in the paper the other day.
7738. Well, supposing the Italian shopkeepers were to put out certain signs or notices of that kind—in their case it might have reference to the Mafia, or some other objectionable organisation;—would it not be the duty of the police to make some inquiry on the subject? If there was any apparent nuisance or complaint no doubt they would. For my own part I would sooner have the Chinese than the Italians to deal with; they, the Chinese, are a better class of people.
7739. I was not comparing them. Now, with regard to opium-smoking, Mr. Dawson, was there much of that carried on in the northern end of the city in your time? Yes, any amount of it. Some of the Chinamen were convicted for selling opium; there was a small penalty attached to it. I do not think they could get a license for selling opium.
7740. Then opium-smoking used to be carried on to a large extent? Yes, and is now. They smoke opium in the locality where I reside now.
7741. Which do you think is worse as a habit, drinking or opium-smoking? I think drinking is the worse, decidedly. When a Chinaman smokes opium it does not cause him to go and kick up a row in the street; and in all my experience I never saw but two drunken Chinamen.
7742. The drink has a tendency to rouse or excite a man's blood, and opium to make him sleepy, or comatose—that is what you mean, I suppose? Yes.
7743. But surely opium-smoking must injure the health? I think bad grog is equally as injurious as opium.
7744. Did you ever see any woman under the influence of opium while you were on duty in that district? No; I think the only case within my experience was in a lane off Goulburn-street, when I was in charge of the gasworks. In Durand's Alley there were two or three women, but the police hunted them out.
7745. Do you think it would be well to confine the Chinese to one particular part of the city? I think they are pretty well together as it is; that is, they reside near each other.
7746. Supposing they were kept somewhere in the suburbs, how would that do? Yes. Of course I am not speaking of the merchants or business people;—they are a very good class of people;—but those who smoke opium, and so forth. I think it would be well if they had a place to themselves.
7747. At the time gambling was carried on in any of these tenements during your official career in Lower George-street, who were the greatest frequenters of such places? The Chinamen.
7748. Were there no Europeans? No; probably not more than one in twelve months.
7749. Would you be surprised to know that the Chinese gambling-dens are patronised by hundreds of Europeans in one week at the present time? No; I heard it is; that is, I suppose the lotteries have been introduced; they go in for lotteries.
7750. Did you ever take a ticket in one? Never in my life. It has come to the front since I left.
7751. It is a new game then? Yes. I think they have taken the cue from the Europeans.
7752. President.] Now, Mr. Dawson, I want to give you an opportunity of refuting certain statements that have been made affecting you. I think you said you have never had any transactions with Way Kee since the one you have mentioned? That is all.
7753. Was Way Kee, to your knowledge, a receiver of stolen property, in the shape of old metal, say? No; he buys old metal and all kinds of stuff.
7754. Does he receive old metal from boys, and have you, as a police officer, been to search his premises for stolen property of the kind? Well, when a report came to the police of property being missed, we would go round to all the Chinese places where they bought such stuff.
7755. Was Way Kee, in your opinion, a likely man to knowingly receive stolen property? I believe him to be an honest man.
7756. If anyone has stated that you were aware of Way Kee being a receiver of stolen property, but refrained from prosecuting him for reasons best known to yourself, that would be a falsehood? It would. How could I? Supposing you lost some property and reported the matter to the police, and we went round together to make search for it, and suppose that we saw the property in some person's place, how could I be a party to it?
7757. Would you be surprised to learn that Way Kee's clerk has alleged that Way Kee paid you £20 over and above the rent for the garden he leased from you? He never did so in his life. If his receipt-books were here you could see for yourselves. I gave him a receipt for everything he ever paid.
7758. Then you would be surprised if such a statement was made? Yes, indeed.
7759. And it is utterly untrue that any money was lent to you? Yes.

- Mr. J. Dawson.
21 Oct., 1891.
7760. You never had any transactions with Way Kee other than the renting of the garden at North Shore? No; never in my life.
7761. And if anyone has stated that any money was paid to you by way of a bribe, to corrupt you in your official capacity, that would be a lie? Yes.
7762. You give it a distinct denial? Yes, I do.
7763. You acquired your property in a perfectly honourable manner? Yes; I can show you. Seventeen years ago I bought 50 feet of ground at 25s. a foot, and the same ground is worth £9 or £10 a foot today. I bought the garden at North Shore for £230—that is 9 acres, at £25 an acre,—and Way Kee took a lease of it. Then the railway went through about three years ago, and I was paid £1,200 compensation for the resumption of 3 acres and 14 perches of it. To make that purchase I took the money out of the Barrack-street Savings Bank. I was enabled to put by money out of my earnings, being a saving man and living rent-free in the watch-house, and not spending my money in the public-house, or otherwise foolishly.
7764. Do you know Sergeant Higgins? I do.
7765. Has he acquired some property? He has.
7766. What was the origin of his good fortune—do you know? He began by buying a piece of cheap land.
7767. Whereabouts? In Gloucester-street—near Kendall's mill.
7768. And he built some houses there? Yes; he built them very cheap too.
7769. How long has he been out of the force? Four or five years. He is a special constable on the wharf now. He broke his leg while hunting a Chinese smuggler, and was pensioned off.
7770. Then you know pretty well how Sergeant Higgins did acquire his property? I do, undoubtedly.
7771. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know how long ago it is since the game of pak-ah-pu started in Sydney—the Chinese lottery, I mean? It must have been five or six years ago. When I was in the Gas Company's employ I used to go round among the Chinese collecting money from them for the company.
7772. Did you ever know of any of the respectable Chinese merchants club together for the purpose of putting down gambling in your time? Yes; and I know you took a very active part yourself.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Thomas Quealy called and examined:—

- Mr. T. Quealy.
21 Oct., 1891.
7773. President.] Where do you reside? At the "Shannon Hotel," corner of Riley and Stanley Streets.
7774. You have been in the New South Wales police force? Yes.
7775. When did you retire from the force? In August last.
7776. How long were you in the police force? Six years and ten months.
7777. In what part of the city were you mostly on duty? In Lower George-street.
7778. I suppose you know there are a number of Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? I do.
7779. Has the gambling been carried on publicly? Yes.
7780. That is within your knowledge? Yes.
7781. And within the knowledge of the police? Undoubtedly.
7782. Did the police make any raids on these gambling-houses during your term of service? Well, I think they made three raids in about six years.
7783. Were you present on any of those occasions? I believe I was present on one occasion.
7784. Who organised the raid? I cannot tell you.
7785. In the ordinary course of police duty who would organise a raid—would it not be the inspector in charge of the division? I suppose it would.
7786. You were present on one occasion when a raid was made? I think so.
7787. Where was that raid made? That I cannot remember now.
7788. What was the Chinaman's name? Moy Ping. It was next to the "Exchange Hotel," and took place three or four months ago.
7789. That was the last raid. I am asking you about any raid at which you were present as a police officer? It was at Moy Ping's, about three or four months ago.
7790. Were there a number of Europeans present? There were.
7791. Was there any money on the table when the police entered? That I cannot say.
7792. You have been in these gambling-houses at various times, have you not? Yes; I have been in them.
7793. That is, not when raids have been made, but in the ordinary exercise of your duty? Yes.
7794. And I suppose you have seen money on the table, but on this particular occasion when the raid was made you did not? No.
7795. The probability is that the money was there? Yes, undoubtedly.
7796. I suppose the people all scampered away when the raid was made? Yes.
7797. And the gas was turned off? Yes.
7798. So that if there was money on the table you could not have seen it? No; personally, I could not.
7799. Did the police on that occasion light the gas? I do not understand you.
7800. On the occasion when the last raid was made I understood you to say the gas was out when the police went in? No, it was not.
7801. And yet you saw no money on the table? Personally, I did not.
7802. Were you not left in possession of the room? No.
7803. Did not the players clear away and leave the police there? They did.
7804. But there was no money on the table? At the time I left there was not.
7805. Then you did not go in first? No; there was no money on the table when I went in.
7806. Did you while you were in the force ever receive any instructions from your superior officers as to how you were to conduct yourself with regard to these gambling-houses? No.
7807. You never received instructions to enter these gambling-houses and disperse the people you found there? No; and I do not think I could receive any from them.
7808. Why not? The law would not allow them to do so.
7809. As a matter of fact, your attention was never directed to these gambling-houses by your superior officer? No.

Mr.
T. Quealy.

21 Oct., 1891.

7810-11. Did you ever hear of your superior officers having received any presents from any of the Chinese residents in Lower George-street? So far as I am concerned, I cannot say that with reference to more than one, and only one.

7812. And who is it? Mr. Atwill.

7813. Did he ever receive a present to your knowledge? I do not believe he ever did. In fact I think I could go so far as to say he never did.

7814. Did you ever receive any present? No; I did not.

7815. Are you a married man? I am not.

7816. Did you never hear of any furniture being presented to Inspector Atwill? No, I did not; and I do not believe he received a single item from anyone in Lower George-street, and I say that though I think he is an enemy of mine now.

7817. You are not on good terms with him? I am.

7818. You just now said he was an enemy of yours now? Well, I do not know.

7819. He is not a friend of yours, is that it? So far as I am concerned, he may be.

7820. Was he the cause of your leaving the force? No, he was not.

7821. What particular reason have you to think he is antagonistic towards you? Really, I do not know; I cannot offer you an explanation.

7822. Did not I understand you to say just now that he was no friend of yours, and that you had no reason to speak well of him, or something to that effect? I say at the present time.

7823. I do not care about the present, past, or future;—I want to get at the fact as to whether you regard him as a friend of yours? A friend, do you say?

7824. I am speaking plain English, I think;—I want you to tell me whether you are on terms of friendship with Mr. Atwill or whether you are not? Well, so far as I am concerned, I am not an enemy of his.

7825. Did you not say just now that you had no cause to speak well of Mr. Atwill, because he was no friend of yours;—what did you mean by that? I do not think he ever treated me unfriendly.

7826. That is what I want to get at; and it means, I suppose, that what you are saying is all the more likely to be true? That is what I have told you.

7827. You will tell me again if I wish you to tell it;—now, do you know Way Kee? I do not think I do personally.

7828. Will you swear you do not know Way Kee? I will not swear that I do not know him; probably if you brought him before me I might identify him.

7829. You do not know Way Kee, who carries on business in Lower George-street. [Position of premises explained]? Yes; I know him now.

7830. Is he a man of good character? I do not know anything about his character.

7831. Were you ever instructed to search his premises for stolen property? No.

7832. For old metal, or anything of that kind? No.

7833. Where did you bank when you were employed down in that part of the city? At various banks.

7834. At various banks? No; I beg pardon;—I should say at the Barrack-street Savings Bank and St. Joseph's Building Society.

7835. Were they the only places at which you had an account? Yes; they were in my time down there. I have banked at various building societies.

7836. Where did you bank when you joined the force? At the Permanent Building Society, and the Equitable.

7837. You put your savings into those institutions? Yes.

7838. What were you before you became a policeman? Well, I worked for about nine months at a wholesale druggist's store.

7839. What druggist's store was that? Prosser's, in O'Connell-street.

7840. How long were you in that employ? Between six and nine months.

7841. Then you left there to enter the force? Yes.

7842. Had you any private means when you left Prosser's? I had.

7843. Would you mind telling the Commission what you were possessed of at that time—how much you had invested in the building society? It was not invested in a building society at that time—it was cash.

7844. How much? About £175.

7845. You had saved that amount from your wages up to that time? Yes; from the year 1878 until 1884.

7846. At the time you joined the force how much were you getting as a wage? At the time I left I was getting 8s. 6d. a day.

7847. I suppose you got something like that all the while? No; I did not. You may average it at 7s. 6d. a day.

7848. Would that be counting Sundays? Yes.

7849. Then your average wage would be what? About £2 15s. per week.

7850. Then you had an allowance for clothing, and so on? Yes.

7851. You saved money while you were in the police force? Yes.

7852. Now I want you to understand that I am not going to deal unfairly towards you or the police. It has been alleged that you drew £600 or £700 out of the bank? It is not true.

7853. Wait a minute. It has been alleged that you drew out such a sum of money, just about the time you left the force;—is that true? It is not true.

7854. Is it true that you are possessed in any way of £600 or £700 worth of property? No; I wish I was.

7855. I am asking you these question because of certain allegations that have been made concerning you and your late comrades, and I want to give you an opportunity of explaining yourself? So far as my comrades are concerned I know nothing. I am here as an independent witness. Do not connect me with my late comrades. I do not know who you are.

7856. You must not bandy words with me; and if you do not answer the questions properly I shall have to take steps to compel you. You say you have been a single man, employed in the police force of the Colony, and have saved money out of your wages? Undoubtedly I have.

7857. And what money you now possess you became possessed of by honourable means? Undoubtedly so.

7858. And you are not ashamed to show this Commission—you have, in fact, explained how you came by some of it—how you have acquired anything you may possess? I should think not.

7859.

- Mr. T. Quealy.
21 Oct., 1891.
7859. You say it is not true that you drew £600 or £700 out of the bank? It is not true.
7860. And it is quite untrue that you accepted any money or presents from any of the Chinese residents in Lower George-street? It is not true. I think the only witness who told you that is Armstrong.
7861. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you read his evidence? I did; and I think it is all corrupt.
7862. How did you come to read that? I got it from the Government Printing Office.
7863. How was that—did you go up to the counter at the Government Printing Office, and ask for a copy of the evidence? I did not.
7864. How did you come to get a copy of the evidence? I saw it at the place where I live.
7865. We must know how you came possessed of it—this is important? I got it from a man who comes to the place where I live.
7866. Does he work at the Government Printing Office? I cannot say.
7867. Does he live with you? He does not.
7868. How come he to give it to you? I cannot tell you.
7869. You know the man? I do.
7870. What is his name? I cannot tell you his name.
7871. Tell me how he came to show it to you? He came in, and asked me if my name was Quealy, and I replied that it was, and then he asked me if I was the person referred to in the evidence.
7872. Does this man work at the Government Printing Office? I cannot say.
7873. Since you know him, it seems strange you should not know where he works;—are you quite sure now? I did not know him until about six weeks ago.
7874. How is it he came to imagine that you were interested in the matter? He came in to have a drink at the place where I live. He was introduced to me; he then asked me if I was the Quealy referred to in the examination before the Chinese Gambling Commission, and I said I did not know.
7875. And I suppose he then produced a copy of the evidence, and handed it to you;—is that it? I do not know what he did produce.
7876. Did he hand you the evidence as it was printed? Well, I cannot swear to that.
7877. But you got a copy of the evidence—you have it at home? No, I have not. But I read the statement in print that Armstrong made concerning me.
7878. President.] Do you know Mr. Armstrong? Yes, well, sir.
7879. Was it Mr. Armstrong who came to see you at your lodgings? No.
7880. Who was it? I cannot tell you his name—Sid. something. I forget the other name.
7881. Had you seen him often before? Two or three times.
7882. You will have to come here again, and give us an opportunity of finding this man? I will give you all the information I can. I am not frightened.
7883. We must know about this copy of the evidence you have seen, and you had better save yourself the trouble of coming here again by telling us now? All I know is that Armstrong said I drew something like £600 out of a certain bank, and that I applied for a license of an hotel in Balmain, and also in Woolloomooloo, all of which is untrue.
7884. There is no doubt from what you say that you have read the printed evidence? I have.
7885. Then did the man take the copy of the evidence away with him, or did he leave it with you? He did not leave it with me.
7886. How long did the man stay with you? I cannot tell you.
7887. Did he stay a whole day? No.
7888. Half-a-day? He did not.
7889. Was that before or after breakfast that you saw him? It was after breakfast.
7890. Did he stay till lunch-time? He did not.
7891. Where was it that he came to see you? At the place where I am staying.
7892. Where is that? At the corner of Stanley and Riley Streets.
7893. Did he tell you who sent him? No.
7894. Did you ask him? No.
7895. It did not occur to you to ask him? No.
7896. Were you sober at the time? I was.
7897. And it never occurred to you to ask who sent him? No. But I think he came of his own accord.
7898. But what caused him to come to you. I suppose he would not do so without a reason? Well there are two or three persons of the same name keeping hotels in Woolloomooloo; and he came into my place and asked me if I was the person concerned in this.
7899. And it never occurred to you to ask him what interest he took in you? No; I do not see why I should.
7900. That would depend entirely upon the mental constitution of the person. At all events I want to know who the man is that brought that evidence to you? I cannot tell you at all. I could identify the man.
7901. Can you find him? That I cannot say.
7902. Can you try, or can you tell me where we are likely to find him? Yes, in Woolloomooloo.
7903. In what part of Woolloomooloo? I think you would be likely to find him at the corner of Francis and Stanley Streets.
7904. Is that a hotel? There is a hotel there.
7905. Is that the place I am to send to? I cannot say where the man lives.
7906. Well shall I find out something about him there? You might.
7907. It strikes me very forcibly you are drunk, sir; if you do not give your evidence in a more straightforward and becoming manner we shall have to take you to the Police Court. I have the greatest difficulty in getting any information out of you at all. But I am determined to have this information, so you had better make up your mind quickly? What information?
7908. I have told you what I want to know, and if you are not very careful I will give you an opportunity of thinking over it in solitude;—come, what is this man's name? It was a man by the name of Syd. something. I forget the second name.
7909. Who sent him? He came voluntarily to the place where I live, and said, "Are you the man connected with this Chinese inquiry?" and he had the printed paper in his possession. I think he said it was some mistake he had to correct in it. I will give you all the information I have about it.

{[Further examination of the witness deferred till Friday, at 11 a.m.]

FRIDAY, 23 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (ALDERMAN MANNING, ESQ., J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, ESQ., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, ESQ.,

QUONG TART, ESQ.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, ESQ.

Gerald Sibthorpe called and examined:—

7910. Mr. Abigail.] What occupation do you follow? I am a printer.
7911. Where? At the Government Printing Office.
7912. What do you mean by a "printer;"—are you a compositor? No, I am a machine-printer.
7913. How long have you been in that position? About seventeen years.
7914. You have been occupied in some way in getting out the evidence of this Commission in the Government Printing Office have you not? I think so.
7915. Do you know Quealy? Yes; I know Quealy.
7916. When did you see him last? I have not seen him I think for three or four months.
7917. You saw him with some of the evidence of the Commission in connection with a statement made by one of the witnesses with reference to him, and asked him whether it was correct, did you not? Well, I can explain that, gentlemen: I picked up a page of this evidence in Hordern Brothers. It was a spoiled copy. I put it in my pocket (I thought there was no harm in doing it), and I showed it to Quealy. I did not know that the job was not worked off. I had been away from the office for three weeks.
7918. When did that happen? About a month ago. I did not know that the sheets were not worked off. I found it in the water-closet, and knowing that Quealy kept an hotel in Woolloomooloo I took it to him to ask whether it was him, and he said that it was not him. He wanted me to give him a page of it, but I tore it up.
7919. Mr. Hawthorne.] What water-closet did you find the copy of this evidence in? In the water-closet at the Government Printing Office.
7920. About how long ago? About four or five weeks ago I should think, though it might be more.
7921. And how was it that you took it to Quealy? Knowing him, I thought it might be his name that was mentioned in it.
7922. Did you not think at the time that in handing him this copy of his evidence you were committing a great breach of custom—that you were breaking a rule in connection with your office? I did not think so at the time, because I did not know what had become of the evidence.
7923. But is it usual in connection with the Government Printing Office to allow important evidence to be placed in the water-closets for use there? No, it was not placed there.
7924. Then how did it come there? Well, you see in running the sheets through the machine some of the corners of the paper might turn up, and they would throw the spoiled sheet into the waste-paper basket, and anybody might pick it up and take it to the water-closet.
7925. Are they in the habit then when a sheet of evidence is a little disfigured in the printing, no matter how important it is, to throw it into the waste-paper basket, and allow it to find its way into the general dust-heap? Well, I do it myself, and I suppose others do it too.
7926. You are in the printing branch? Yes.
7927. And whenever you meet with a copy of evidence that is a little disfigured owing to the turning down of a corner, or anything of that kind, you throw it into the waste-paper basket? Yes, if it is torn a little as well.
7928. So that according to your evidence no document is safe, however important it may be, if some little accident has happened to it? Well it may be thrown into the waste-paper basket.
7929. Then any document, however important, may in this manner find its way from the Government Printing Office into the hands of the public? Yes, I suppose it might.
7930. So that under those circumstances no document is secure in the Government Printing Office? Well, I suppose it might find its way into the waste-paper basket.
7931. I want you to be perfectly aware of the importance of the evidence you are giving; we are now inquiring into a matter of the gravest consideration in connection with the discipline of the Government Printing Office;—documents of the highest importance and secrecy are constantly passing through that establishment, and if it is possible for them to find their way into the hands of the public, all sense of security will inevitably be gone; I say this in order to lead you to be particularly cautious in the evidence you are giving to the Commission; it will be all published, and the matter will be pretty sure to be ventilated before long in the Legislative Assembly? Yes; I understand that.
7932. Mr. Abigail.] Have you ever acted in that way before in connection with any other matter? No; I never showed anything to anyone else.
7933. Did you ever get any instructions in the Government Printing Office that you were not to show papers or anything of the kind there for the purpose of being printed to any one outside the office? That is the rule.
7934. Did you not know when you showed this paper to Quealy, that you were breaking that rule? No; I thought the evidence had been worked off long ago.
7935. You did not take any trouble to ascertain, did you;—were you not aware that the Commission was still sitting? No; I did not know that at the time.
7936. Mr. McKillop.] Did you not see some reports in the papers a few weeks ago about a charge of bribery being made against members of the police force in Lower George-street? No; I did not notice anything about it.
7937. Is it not a fact that you are often at Quealy's of an evening? No; not often.
7938. Not in your leisure time? No; I visit there very rarely.
7939. Did not Quealy ask you to get the evidence for him at the Government Printing Office? It is so long ago that I do not remember. I know he asked me to read that to him.
7940. Is it not a fact that Quealy asked you to get a copy of the evidence given by certain witnesses called before this Commission for him, knowing, of course, that you were working at the Government Printing Office? He may have done.

G. Sibthorpe.

23 Oct., 1891.

7941.

- G. Sibthorpe. 7941. I wish you to be sure of that, because we have Quealy's evidence here? I would not be sure at the present time. It was a good while ago.
- 23 Oct., 1891. 7942. Did you ever have any conversation with Quealy about the evidence given before the Commission previously to your showing him that particular piece of evidence? No. I showed him this little bit. It was only about a couple of lines.
7943. How long did he have it in his possession? He did not have it in his possession at all.
7944. Was it a sheet of evidence like this—sixteen pages? No; it was only one page.
7945. Which page was it; how did you come across Quealy's name unless you had previously read more of it? I saw his name on the page I found in the water-closet.
7946. Look at these pages, and tell me which page it was that you showed to him? It was page 21.
7947. Was it not more than that, or only this one page? This one page doubled over, and a piece torn off the corner.
7948. How was it that it was only one page when several pages are printed together? It was only this one page.
7949. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long ago is it that you took it to Quealy? It must have been five or six weeks ago. I have not been in his house since. Yes; I am wrong. I have been in there once since.
7950. What made you think that the Commission had closed its labours, or that the job was finished;—did you mean by that that the evidence was not likely to be required again? Yes.
7951. What made you think that it was struck off? I thought that the job was complete.
7952. It did not seem like an old paper to you, did it? I could not say exactly; I do not know whether I printed it or not.
7953. How long did you think that it had been printed? I could not tell you.
7954. Would you be surprised to know that it is only six weeks now since that evidence was printed? I could not tell you at all when it was printed.
7955. Well it is only six weeks ago since that was printed; even assuming that it was printed the day after he gave his evidence, which is hardly likely to have been the case? Since who gave his evidence—Quealy?
7956. No; Mr. Armstrong? I do not know.
7957. Now is it not a matter of fact that you were in Quealy's house having a drink, when Quealy said to you, "I would like you to get me a copy of the evidence that has been given to that Royal Commission inquiry into the Chinese gambling question, because I understand that my name has been mentioned"? He may have said so.
7958. So that it was acting upon instructions given to you by Quealy that induced you to search for and obtain a copy of that portion of the evidence affecting himself? No, sir.
7959. Well, you have admitted that Quealy did ask you for it? He may have done when I showed him his name. He may have then asked me to let him see a copy, but I do not care what he may have said in his evidence; I would not believe Quealy upon his oath, so much as I know of him.
7960. And did not you give him one? No.
7961. Well why did not you let him have the piece of paper that you showed to him when he asked you for it? He wanted to keep it, but I tore it up.
7962. Well but if it was only a useless bit of paper, there could be no harm in letting him have it. Surely you would not object to letting a friend of yours have a useless bit of paper? He is no friend of mine.
7963. But you thought that it was only a useless piece of paper? I thought so at the time.
7964. Did you not think that you were committing a great crime? I did not think so then, but I see now that it was wrong.
7965. Was he sober when you showed him the evidence? No, I think he was pretty well on.
7966. Did he not give you anything for showing it to him? No; I would not have taken anything from him.
7967. Did he not give you a drink? No; I would not have taken it if he had offered it to me.
7968. Does he not ever "shout" for you? Oh, perhaps, when first he went into the house he may have done so.
7969. Well which of the Quealys is it who keeps the house? There are two of them there.
7970. I am speaking of the ex-constable—we have been alluding to him all the while? Oh, then, he did not see the evidence at all.
7971. Mr. McKillop.] Who did see it? It was his brother—the man with the red moustaches. His name is John Quealy.
7972. Who is the owner of the house—in whose name is the license taken out? John Quealy is the landlord.
7973. You said just now that you would not believe this Quealy;—how was that? I am judging from the reports that I have heard of him.
7974. Is it John Quealy you are speaking of now? Yes; the man with the red moustaches.
7975. What was he before he took the house? I do not know; I could not tell you.
7976. He is a stranger in Woolloomooloo, is he? Yes.
7977. Mr. Hawthorne.] What is your Christian name? Gerald.
7978. He calls you Sib? Yes, they all call me Sib in Stanley-street.
7979. Then he must be on pretty intimate terms with you? No, he is not.
7980. And if he says that he knows you intimately, that is not true? If he says that he knows me intimately he tells a falsehood. I have not spoken a dozen words to him.
7981. Mr. McKillop.] And if he swears that he saw the whole of Mr. Armstrong's evidence it is untrue? Yes, that is the man with the black moustaches that you are speaking of now. I hardly know him at all.
7982. And if he said that he asked you to show the evidence to him he said what was untrue? Quite untrue. I never had any conversation with him on the subject at all.
7983. Is there much difference in the height of these two men? Not much; they are both about the same height.
7984. Are either of them married? That I cannot tell you. I only know that they talked about not getting their license, being single men.

Senior-constable James Beadman called and examined :—

7985. Mr. McKillop.] You are a member of the police force? Yes, I am a senior constable.
7986. What district are you stationed in? I have been about eight and a half years in the police force altogether. During that time I spent two years in Balmain, doing uniform duty. From Balmain I was transferred to Sydney, and for the last three and a half years I have been doing plain clothes duty in No. 4 district (Lower George-street), under Inspector Atwill.
7987. Has the gambling amongst the Chinese and Europeans in Lower George-street increased since you first came into that district? No.
7988. How many gambling places are there in Lower George-street? Well, to the best of my belief there are about four or five in which Europeans are in the habit of gambling.
7989. Do you know the names of the proprietors of those houses? Well there are so many Chinese names above the shops down there that I cannot remember them all, but I know the places themselves very well. There is Moy Ping's, however. I know that. Moy Ping's name is not over the door, but it is No. 226, and the number is over the door. I believe there are about four such places altogether.
7990. That is four places in which Europeans are in the habit of gambling. Is that all;—how many gambling-dens are there altogether in Lower George-street? Do you mean how many places in which the Chinese gamble among themselves?
7991. I mean in which either the Chinese gamble among themselves or with Europeans? To the best of my knowledge there are some four or five in which Europeans gamble, and the Chinese gamble among themselves in pretty well all the places I think; but in those places they do not allow any Europeans at all.
7992. Have any raids been made by the police since you have been in the Lower George-street district? Yes.
7993. How many? Three or four.
7994. Three or four in the course of three years? Yes, about three years.
7995. Have any arrests been made as a result of those raids? Yes, a number—forty or fifty in some instances. I think we made fifty-one arrests in the last raid—fifty-one including both Chinese and Europeans.
7996. What has been done with them in the Court? They have been fined—some fined £50, some 40s., and so on.
7997. Have any been sentenced to imprisonment without the option of a fine? No, none.
7998. Have you ever frequented any of these gaming-houses in your capacity as a plain clothes constable? I have. In fact I have had instructions from Inspector Atwill to visit them every week. He has spoken to me specially about it.
7999. Have you been in the habit of going there single-handed? No, Senior-constable Carson and I go together.
8000. You say that you have frequently visited these places in your official capacity? Yes, for the purpose of seeing if there are any small boys or young girls there. It has often been said that children are decoyed into the Chinese places, and then drugged with opium.
8001. Have you ever seen any gambling going on when you have been in any of those places? No; that is, I have never seen any Europeans playing with them.
8002. Is it not a fact that Europeans go into these places morning, noon, and night? No, they used to.
8003. I am not speaking of the last few weeks since the Commission has been sitting, I am speaking of two or three months ago, and still further back? It is true that they used to some two or three years ago, but there have been three or four big strikes in Sydney lately, and we have had very little gambling since. They have made a great difference to that part of the town. Nobody has had any money to gamble with lately.
8004. You are sure that there have been three or four big strikes in Sydney within the last year or two? Well, there have been three strikes, I think. There was the great maritime strike about this time last year.
8005. And it is in consequence of those strikes that the gambling has decreased? Yes; anybody could see the difference. People have not had the money to spend lately. The strikes have had a ruinous effect upon business generally in that part of the town.
8006. Have you ever received any presents from the Chinese, either in money or in kind? No; I have not.
8007. Have you ever received any trivial gifts at the Chinese new year for instance—presents of jars of ginger or chests of tea? No, I have not.
8008. Then if anybody says that you have would they be speaking the truth or saying what is false? No; they would be saying what was false. I defy any man to say that since I joined the police force I have had anything presented to me except what has been presented to me in a public manner, and has found its way immediately into the Press. When I left Balmain for example, I had an address and a diamond ring presented to me. The Mayor made the presentation publicly, and the address was signed by the Mayor and aldermen.
8009. Have you received any presents at all since you were transferred to No. 4 district? No.
8010. Have you received nothing from the Chinese? No; nor from anybody else in Lower George-street.
8011. Have you any property? Yes; I have some horses and cattle, and that sort of thing. They are up the country. You can find out exactly how I came by them if you care to inquire into the matter.
8012. You had that before you joined the police? Yes; I can give you all the facts in connection with it. I have a small farm at Ulladulla.
8013. Are you a native of this country? Yes, of Braidwood. Mr. Quong Tart knows my wife's people—the Finches; they keep an hotel at Braidwood, and he has stayed with them sometimes.
8014. Do you know a Mr. Gouldtown? Yes; I know him a little.
8015. What sort of a reputation does he bear? I do not know anything against him, except that he tendered a valueless cheque to the proprietor of No. 2 Coffee Palace on one occasion.
8016. What sort of people visit these gambling-dens in Lower George-street? They are principally working men.

Sen.-constable
Beadman.
23 Oct., 1891.

- Sen.-constable 8017. Do clerks and shop-assistants, and people of that kind, go there to play very much? Well the Beadman. night that we made the raid on Moy Ping's place we caught a number of well-dressed people.
- 23 Oct., 1891. 8018. What is the number of gambling-dens in that part of the town altogether—places where Chinese and Europeans gamble together, and where Chinese gamble alone? Well, I suppose, altogether (including the places where the Chinese gamble amongst themselves), there must be about eighteen; but when we see the Chinese gambling among themselves we cannot tell whether they are gambling for money or not. I have seen large numbers of them playing round a table, and they were playing with the same kind of counters as they use when they are playing with Europeans.
8019. Is it a fact that you have entered these places when gambling was in full swing between the Chinese and Europeans? No; I never caught them actually playing.
8020. Do you remember ever having seen that place [a photograph of a Chinese gambling-shop]? Yes; that is near Parker's Hotel.
8021. Do you know what those white placards, outside the shop, denote? Well I made inquiries from the Chinese interpreter, and he told me what it was in English.
8022. How long ago was that? I reported upon the matter four or five weeks ago. What the interpreter told me was this: That in English the placards meant, "Fan-tan played here morning and evening." That is how he interpreted it to me. Of course I did not understand it myself.
8023. But do not you consider that it was your duty as police officer to make inquiries with regard to notices appearing on the outside of buildings, especially when those notices were in a foreign language which you did not understand;—was it not your duty as police officer, knowing that you had an interpreter at your back, to find out what the notices meant;—did it never strike you in that light? No. I cannot say that it did.
8024. Did your superior officer ever instruct you to make inquiries on that point? As to the interpretation of the notices, no.
8025. Then for all you knew there might have been notices posted up there for the purpose of causing a revolution, and you would still have been ignorant of the fact? Quite so. There are a number of cook-shops in which the Chinese play among themselves, and there are a number of these notices stuck up in each of them, so they might have been notices to show that they were cook-shops or something of that kind.
8026. Mr. Hawthorne.] You mean that they might have been business advertisements? Yes, ordinary business advertisements.
8027. Mr. McKillop.] Do you think that the law relating to gambling is stringent enough to check this particular evil? No, I do not.
8028. You think that the police have not sufficient power vested in them? I think not. In order to effect an entrance it is necessary that we should have a warrant, and each warrant only lasts a month; when the month is over it is no good; then before we can make a raid we are obliged to arm ourselves with sledge-hammers in order to get in; the doors are so strong and so securely fastened. That is how we got into Moy Ping's place. We took crow-bars with us to break the doors in. Previous to making that raid we were watching that place for several nights. Inspector Atwill told men off especially for that duty, so that we could catch them at the game. Sometimes they were playing and sometimes they were not. We made the raid when a great number of people were inside, and we had to burst the doors.
8029. Mr. Hawthorne.] Is it a fact that the day before you made the raid some of you policemen went round, saying that you wanted to borrow implements to break into Moy Ping's, because you were going to make a raid there? No, it is not.
8030. Then if anyone has stated in evidence that you did so they would be telling a deliberate falsehood? Yes, they would. We had strict instructions from Inspector Atwill that we were not to go for the crow-bars until late that evening. My mate, Senior-constable Carson, went to the Water Police Court, where some men were taking up drain-pipes, and borrowed some crow-bars from them. I went to Foster Bros.' pawn-shop and got a crow-bar there. They are very respectable people, and I have frequently to visit the place in search of stolen property, which might have been pawned there. I took my macintosh with me, so that I could slip the crow-bar under it to prevent people from seeing it.
8031. So that if anybody said that a few days beforehand you went to get crow-bars, and explained that you wanted them because you were going to make a raid on Moy Ping's, it would be telling a deliberate falsehood? Yes.
8032. Mr. McKillop.] You have been in the Lower George-street district for three years and a half? Yes.
8033. And during that time there have been three or four raids made? Yes; I have been in three of them myself, and on one occasion during my absence they made a raid, I believe.
8034. What were the intervals between each raid? I think about six or seven, or perhaps eight months.
8035. Do you not think that if these raids had been more frequent they would have had the effect of suppressing the evil to a very great extent—if only by harassing the gambling-house proprietors? There is no doubt that if they had been playing during all that time there would have been more frequent raids, but during the strike the Europeans did not play at all. They had no money to play with. The people did not frequent the gambling-shops at all. There is one place in Beale's buildings, a little lower down than the Coffee Palace, opposite to Williams' the jeweller, which has been rebuilt since I came to Sydney. The landlord would not let it to any person except a European, and kept it idle for some months, but he could not let it to anybody, so he had to let it to the Chinese after all.
8036. I daresay you have given this matter a good deal of thought? Yes, I have.
8037. What plan do you think it would be advisable to adopt for the purpose of checking the evil? Well that, of course, I cannot say.
8038. Mr. Hawthorne.] Has it ever occurred to your mind what would be a good method to adopt on the part of the authorities for the suppression of gambling. Of course it is only your opinion that we are asking for? Yes; it is only my opinion, but that is of very little account, and it might be thought that I was giving expression to too much.
8039. Mr. McKillop.] But when you are before a Royal Commission it is your duty to give expression to opinion if you are asked to do so, and in this instance you have an intimate knowledge of the subject, and your opinion may have a good effect? I think that if the law was more severe it would be better.
8040. Do you think that it would be better if the law said that if any gambling implements were found in these places the occupants of the house ought to be indicted? Yes, I do. 8041.

8041. Do you also think that the landlord ought to be punished if, after receiving due notice from the police that gambling is being carried on on his premises, he pays no attention to the warning, but allows his tenants to continue the evil? Well there is no doubt that if that was the law property-owners would not let their premises to that class of Chinamen at all.

8042. Well, as you know, if a public-house is carried on badly, and the police find it necessary to interfere, the man loses his license, and the landlord has to suffer. Would it not be much the same in the case of gambling. Do you not think that the landlord after getting due notice should be punished if he still allows the occupants to carry on the gambling business? Yes, if he is aware that gambling is carried on.

8043. And you think that the police ought to have more power to enter the premises about which they have suspicion without going to the unnecessary trouble of getting a warrant? I do.

8044. So that they could then pounce down upon these men at any moment, and catch them red-handed? Yes; it would be better.

8045. Because by having to go for warrants it gives the delinquents time, and by when you are ready to put the warrants in force it frequently happens that the birds are flown? Yes.

8046. Did you ever have lunch with the keepers of any of these gambling-houses? Not with the keepers. I may tell you that I have been into Moy Ping's place, and received valuable information in connection with thefts. In fact Moy Ping's brother, Moy Youk, gave me information that led to the discovery of a watch stolen by a man named Brown. Moy Ping drew my attention to it. I asked him if anybody had been in with the watch, and he said that he had bought a pawn-ticket from a man. I looked at the number on the ticket and found that it represented the stolen watch. He gave me the watch, and Brown was brought to justice. Moy Ping has given us a good deal of information.

8047. You do admit that you have had lunch with some of the Chinese? Yes.

8048. Would you name some of them? Yes; I have had lunch with On, of the firm of On Chong & Co.; I have had lunch with Sam Ying. He used to be in Braidwood, and had race-horses. In fact I rode his horse for him once or twice.

8049. You knew him intimately, then, before you joined the police force? Yes.

8050. You never adjourned to a public-house with any of these gambling-house proprietors, did you? Yes; I have had drinks with Moy Ping. He has shouted sometimes, and I have shouted sometimes.

8051. That was the keeper of the house where the last raid was made? Yes, of course. When we find that people are willing to assist us by giving us information we like to be courteous to them.

8052. That is, for policy's sake? Yes; we have to do that sort of thing. We have to mix up with prostitutes and thieves, and all sorts of queer characters. In fact many a 5s. and 10s. I have given to thieves in order to get information out of them.

8053. From what you say I conclude that you and Senior-constable Carson are always in company? Yes, every morning and every night. We meet at the station every morning and arrange our plans there for the rest of the day, as we think best.

8054. Is there a great deal of prostitution carried on in that part of the town? No, not a great deal. There is some, no doubt. Some have been brought up for being common prostitutes.

8055. And you were never presented by any Chinaman with a diamond pin or a diamond ring? No. I bought and paid for the ring I have, and the breast-pin too. I can mention the names of the persons I bought them from, if you like.

8056. It would be just as well? I bought the ring from Mr. Alexander Smail.

8057. Alexander Smail, the baker? Yes; he is living privately now.

8058. Was that the diamond ring alluded to by members of the deputation, do you think? Perhaps it was; I do not know.

8059. President.] Have you any more rings? Yes; I have the diamond ring presented to me by the Mayor and aldermen of Balmain. Then I have a watch presented to me by Mr. G. R. Dibbs (the Premier), Mr. T. A. Dibbs, Mr. T. B. Gaden, the Hon. John Lackey, and other gentlemen. They gave me that soon after I joined the police force.

8060. Mr. Hawthorne.] You had a diamond ring presented to you by the Mayor and aldermen of Balmain? Yes.

8061. The watch-chain you are wearing now you bought, I suppose? Yes.

8062. The medal attached to it you appear to have won at the Balmain regatta? Yes; in 1885. I was an amateur sculler. It was a wager-boat race. The inscription is as follows:—"Won by James Beadman, junior, wager-boat race, November 5th, 1885." The other one I won at the New South Wales Rowing Association regatta.

8063. And the diamond ring you have on your finger you purchased from Alex. Smail, of Miller's Point? Yes; and I paid him £10 for it.

8064. And the silver watch you are wearing was presented to you, as the inscription on the inner case denotes, by a few gentlemen, to mark their appreciation of your courageous conduct in rescuing a lad from drowning, on the 14th August, 1883? Yes. I got promotion to the rank of first-class constable through that. It was brought under the notice of the Inspector-General.

8065. Mr. McKillop.] Those are the whole of the presents that have been made to you? Yes.

8066. And that is the ring you have been in the habit of wearing? Yes. I have not mentioned where I got the pin from yet.

8067. Where did you get it? I bought it from Foster Bros.' pawn-shop. I do not know whether it was 5 guineas or £5 10s., but I think it was £5 10s. that I paid for it.

8068. Do Foster Bros. do much pawning for the gambling-dens? That I cannot say. We are in there pretty often, and I have seen a number of Chinese go in at different times to pawn things.

8069. Is it not a fact that a large number of wharf labourers, coal-lumpers, seamen, and others lose the whole of their wages there on a Saturday night? I have heard that they do, but do not know from personal experience.

8070. Have you seen men's wives standing in the street begging of their husbands to come out of the dens? No; I have not.

8072. Have you got a large banking account? Well I do not see, with all due respect to the Committee, that

Sen.-constable
Beadman.
23 Oct., 1891.

Sen.-constable that I should be called upon by any person to answer questions relating to my private business. What money I have got I can fully account for if necessary, but I do not see that I should be asked to make my private affairs public.

23 Oct., 1891.

8073. Let me explain to you, Mr. Beadman, that I am putting these questions to you for your own benefit. Aspersions have been cast upon your character which it is to your interest to disprove, and it is only by our following this line of examination that you will have a chance of doing so; otherwise, as far as we are personally concerned, we should very much prefer to say nothing about your private affairs? I know that, gentlemen. I quite understand your motives in putting these questions to me, but of course nobody cares to have his private business made known to the public. As a matter of fact, I have a few hundred pounds in the bank. Then I have property which has been bringing me in a few pounds for a long time. That property was left to me when I was 16 years of age.

8074. And now, as to the salary you have been receiving while you were in the police force. You were in the service a very short time before you were promoted to the rank of senior-constable? I was only in the service a very short time before I was promoted to the rank of first-class constable for getting the boy out of the harbour. Then I was made a non-commissioned officer, and then an inspector under the Licensing Act. That position, however, I had to resign when I began to do plain clothes duty, because we have frequently to get information from the publicans.

8075. What is your salary at the present time? From the police it is about £3 7s. 6d. a week.

8076. Are you a married man? I am. I have a wife and three children, and one dead.

8077. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you seen a copy of the evidence given before the Commission in regard to yourself? No; I have not.

8078. Have you seen a copy of any of the evidence at all? No; I have not.

8079. You have seen none of the evidence given before the Commission since it started? No; I have seen none of it.

8080. Do you know Mr. Nock, of the firm of Felton and Nock? Yes; I know him well.

8081. What kind of a man is he? He has always been a decent sort of man, so far as I know. He and I had a little bit of an altercation some time ago.

8082. What was it about;—was it about a diamond ring? I will explain it to you if you wish.

8083. Go on? At one time Senior-constable Carson and I arrested a man in Lower George-street, carrying an iron last under his coat. We took him to the station and made inquiries, and found it was stolen from Felton and Nock's shop in Erskine-street. He was a loafer—a man about whom we had entertained suspicions for a long time. I asked Mr. Nock about the last, and he identified it as his property. The next day I asked him to come to the Court for the purpose of prosecuting this man, and he said, "I shall not go over to the Court losing my time over it," I said, "If every man were like you and would not prosecute these loafers, people would be robbed right and left." He said, "If you and your wooden-headed inspector would go and prosecute the Chinese more than you do it would be more to your credit."

8084. How long ago was that? It was about six months ago, I think.

8085. That was the first time that you and Mr. Nock had any altercation? Yes; and since that he has seemed to be quite indifferent to me. I think no less of him, however. He is a decent and respectable citizen.

8086. He refused to go to the Court to prosecute the thief? Yes; but he sent his man after all.

8087. He spoke in disrespectful terms to you of Inspector Atwill? Yes; he spoke of "you and your wooden-headed inspector, or your wooden-headed force." I forget which—and I lost my temper I admit, and said something that I do not think I should have said.

8088. You know Mr. Nolan, one of the shopmen at Felton and Nock's? Yes; I do.

8089. Do you remember having been in the shop in company with Senior-constable Carson, at any time, having a conversation with Mr. Nock or Mr. Nolan? Well, I have been in Felton's and Nock's very often. Some bad notes (Commercial Bank notes) were passed on him at one time, and I had a conversation with him then; but since we had that bit of tiff I have gone in as usual and bought things from him.

8090. Did he, on the occasion of any of your visits to his establishment, say anything about the police being presented with jars of ginger, or chests of tea, or watches, or watch-chains? No; he did not.

8091. He never confronted you with a charge of having received bribes? He never did. If he had done so I would not have let it rest at that—not likely.

8092. Did you and your mate on one occasion stand opposite Mr. Nock's establishment in a defying mood, exhibiting your rings? Well, we had heard that Mr. Nock had been casting aspersions on the character of the police force, and my mate stood opposite his shop, and said, alluding to his ring, "There is no doubt that it is a good ring, only it is not as good as yours. It is not a diamond."

8093. And he happened at that time to be in front of Mr. Nock's shop? Yes; I do not think that he did it to insult Mr. Nock in any way. He has a very large ring, and generally wears it on the end of his watch-chain as a seal. If he gives evidence here you will see it.

8094. Have you been in the habit of going in and out of any of the refreshment-rooms in Lower George-street with the Chinese, allowing them to shout for refreshments for you? Only with the one or two that I have referred to. By going into the refreshment-rooms I suppose you mean the oyster-shops. I have been there with On.

8095. Have you been in the oyster-saloon with any other Chinese resident except On? Yes; with the other one whom I have known so long at Braidwood. He is an old Chinaman that I have known for twenty-six years.

8096. What is his name? Sam Ying.

8097. Is he connected with gambling in any way? No; not that I am aware of. He used to have plenty of money at one time. I do not think he has any necessity to gamble.

8098. He is a man of means, is he? Yes; when he was at Braidwood he had plenty of money.

8099. But you admit having been in the oyster-saloon with these two men, and they have shouted? Yes; when Sam Ying was in Sydney, at 227, George-street, a big merchant, he had a valuable watch stolen from him, together with some money and something else; and I went in a cab with him on several occasions to Waterloo to try and arrest the Chinaman suspected of the theft, but we always failed to get him. I think he went home to China.

8100. In fact you knew him when you were almost a boy? Yes; I have known him since I was a boy so high. I respect him as much as any man I know in Sydney, European, or anybody else. He is a thorough gentleman. Sen.-constable
Beadman.

8101. Do you remember having met Mr. Maguire, the photographer, on one occasion, when he was walking down Lower George-street with Mr. Andy Kelly, the Member of Parliament? Yes; I do. 23 Oct., 1891.

8102. Did you say to him on that occasion that it was very hard that these charges should be made against the police? I did.

8103. And did you inform him that the diamond ring you were wearing was bought at the pawn-shop down the street? No; I could not say that.

8104. If Mr. Maguire said that you, in an apologetic manner, said that you bought it at the pawn-shop, he was stating what was not a fact? Quite so. I was wearing this pin at the time, and I said, "I expect I am the man referred to by the Anti-Chinese Gambling League as the policeman with the diamond pins and jewellery." I said to him, "To the best of my recollection, I bought this pin at Foster Brothers' pawn-shop," but I do not think that I told him where I got the ring.

8105. But at all events you are positive that you did not buy the ring in a pawn-shop? No; I did not buy the ring I was wearing in a pawn-shop. I did buy a ring in a pawn-shop—a diamond ring too. It had been pledged for 30s., and I paid £2 for it, and paid up the interest due upon it too. It was a ring worth £5. I bought it from a man named Moss.

8106. Was he the proprietor of the pawn-shop? No; he owned the pawn-ticket. He was the man who had pledged it at Foster Brothers'. It stood me in altogether 42s. 6d. I have the ring, but the stone I have lost. It was a claw setting, and one of the claws broke off one Sunday a few weeks ago, and I do not know what became of the diamond.

8107. Did Mr. Maguire say to you, "You seem to be very flurried. If there is nothing in these charges why do you mind them?" He said nothing of the kind.

8108. At the same time do you think that if he had made such a remark it would have had sufficient effect upon you to make you annoyed? Yes, I do.

8109. You are friendly with Mr. Maguire, I suppose? Yes; on one occasion he took me by the arm and wanted me to go into one of the Chinese places to have a drink with him. That was during the Chinese new year.

8110. And you were not flurried on the occasion to which I allude? No; I have always looked upon Mr. Andy Kelly as a gentleman, and Mr. Maguire and I have always been the best of friends. I have had the photographs of my family taken at his place. I dare say I said to him, "It is very hard that they should make these charges against the police, but that is all I did say."

8111. Was Carson with you on that occasion? No.

8112. Just think over it—I fancy he was? No; he was not with us. I am quite certain of that.

8113. Did not Carson say, "I wish somebody would mention my name. I would bring a Supreme Court action against him for £10,000, and if I could not get the money I would take it out of his body"? No; I am positive that he was not there.

8114. Well, it is down in the evidence? If Mr. Maguire said that he is telling a deliberate falsehood, because Carson was not with us on that occasion. He was some distance down the street; I remember that distinctly, because Mr. Kelly was going up Church Hill, opposite Alt's place, and I walked across the street and shook hands with him and Mr. Maguire. I have, therefore, no hesitation in saying that Carson was not present when the conversation occurred.

8115. So that if anybody has said that Carson was there, and said that he wished somebody would make a charge about him, and he would take a Supreme Court action against him for £10,000, and if he could not get it he would take it out of his body, it is not true? No; not at all. Carson may have said that upon some other occasion, but he did not say it then, and he did not say it in my hearing at any time. There is no doubt he was very much annoyed about the charges against the police.

8116. Did you, or Senior-constable Carson, ever ask Mr. Maguire at his own door where you could get gold watches? No; I do not recollect it. When the matter came out in the papers we both looked upon Mr. Maguire as a friend, having known him so long, and we used to chaff our friends about gold chains and watches, so that it is possible that we may have said something of that kind, but there was nothing offensive about it. If we did ask the question it was only by way of a joke.

8117. I suppose that after the deputation to the Colonial Secretary there were many jokes cracked about diamond rings? Yes; dozens of people used to stick me up in the street and say, "What about your diamond rings. I suppose you have got dozens to sell"?

8118. Have you ever met Mr. T. M. Davis, M.P.? Yes; I have known him for a number of years, but I have never spoken to him since he has been a Member of Parliament.

8119. Have you ever had a drink with him in Montgomery's hotel? Never; I had a drink with him in Buchanan's hotel. That was some few days before the election, but since then I have never spoken to him.

8120. Were you wearing the diamond ring on that occasion? Yes; I always wear it.

8121. And you have never attempted in any way to disguise it? No.

8122. You have never left it off on a single day since the Commission was started, or since the deputation waited upon Sir Henry Parkes? No; not once. I never leave it off; I always wear it.

8123. Have you ever met with a person who told you that Mr. Atwill had received a present from a Chinaman in Lower George-street? No; I never have.

8124. From your knowledge of Mr. Atwill, do you think that he is a man likely to accept a present of any kind from persons he was looking after in his official capacity as a member of the police force? I am positive that he would do no such thing. There is not a straighter man in the New South Wales police force, and I should not like to be the man who had received 6d. in property if he found it out. If he were a man to be guilty of anything of that sort he would never forget it. He is a very particular man in that respect.

8125. Your wages stand you in about £3 7s. 6d. a week? Yes.

8126. And in addition to that you have a farm in the country? Yes; I have property in the country—cattle and horses, and a farm.

8127. And you have had that for many years past? Yes; and at present it is in the charge of my father and brothers. It is on the Clyde River, near Ulladulla.

8128. And you reap an income from that in addition to what you get from the police? Yes, in good seasons I get a little from it. Sometimes I get something out of it, and sometimes I do not. 8129.

- Sen.-constable 8129. At all events what money you have in the bank has always been received in an honest straight-forward way? Yes, just so.
- Beadman. 8130. And you have never received a present from any Chinaman in Lower George-street? No, nor from any other person in Lower George-street.
- 23 Oct., 1891. 8131. You have accounted for all the jewellery you wear, and you do not own any other? No.
8132. You never received a present of jewellery from any Chinese resident of the Colony? I never did.
8133. And the statement made by the deputation to the Colonial Secretary was false so far as you were concerned? So far as I am concerned it was false. Mr. Maguire said to me on one occasion, "I know a certain sergeant who used to receive money from the Chinese," and I said to him "Why do you not name him. It is very unfair to the rest of the force to make a statement of that kind without saying whom you allude to."
8134. When was it that Mr. Maguire said that—since the deputation waited upon the Colonial Secretary? Yes, and he said, "There is another man got a diamond ring and gold watch," and I said, "Well for the honor of the other members of the police force you should say who it is." He then said, "Well, Sergeant Dawson is the man"; and I have heard on several occasions since, that he is the man they refer to, and not myself.
8135. But you are aware, of course, that Sergeant Dawson received a present of a gold watch, and that it was made in the most public manner by the Chinese residents of Lower George-street, upon his retirement from the force? Well, I never saw the watch, but I heard that it was presented to him by Mr. Quong Tart.
8136. If any one has told the Commission that you and Senior-constable Carson are always loafing about the Chinese quarters in Lower George-street, would they have stated what was correct? No, they would not. We often have to go to the Chinese places.
8137. But you are simply about there when duty calls you? Yes, we have instructions from Inspector Atwill to keep a sharp look-out upon them. You may have seen stories in the papers about young girls and boys going in there and smoking opium, and Mr. Atwill has said to me, "You and your mate go in there and watch them closely, and if you see any small boys or young girls going in bring them to the station," and of course, as plain clothes constables, we have to mix up with all sorts.
8138. So that, as a matter of fact, you are often in the company of questionable characters for the sake of getting information out of them? Yes.
8139. Are your brother constables all good honorable men? Yes; we have one or two who drink a little, but they are good men in the prosecution of their duty, otherwise they would not remain a month under Mr. Atwill. Three or four men have been dismissed during the last month or two.
8140. Would it not be necessary, in order to make bribery effectual, that all the men in the district should be bribed from the Sub-Inspector downwards? I think not.
8141. Who have most to do with the Chinese in Lower George-street and of the city? Well the uniform men do not have a great deal to do with them. The plain clothes men have most to do with them, and I think if anybody would be bribed it would be the plain clothes men.
8142. How many plain clothes men are there? Four—Sergeant Higgins, Senior-constable Adair, Senior Constable Carson and myself.
8143. And if there was any bribery attempted you think it would be necessary, in order to make it effectual, to bribe the four men you have named? Well I think it would be more likely that that would be the case than that the uniform men would be bribed.
8144. And Higgins, Adair, and Carson are three men whose characters are above reproach? Yes; Sergeant Higgins is one of the most honorable and right-minded men in the police force. I have known him ever since I have been in the force.
8145. And what about Adair? The same applies to him. He is a most honorable and upright man.
8146. Have they both property? I do not think Adair has any, but Higgins has. I know how he got it too. He is a very industrious man; I have often seen him, after he has put in his time on duty, go home, and putting a suit of working clothes on, work about his property repairing his home and doing odd jobs of that kind.
8147. You have no doubt that any property that he has got has been obtained in a very honorable manner—through his own industry in fact? Quite so. He has a lot of property I know, but whether he owns it all I cannot say.
8148. You have never had any complaints made against your character? No, I have never been fined a shilling since joining the police, nor have I received a single reprimand.
8149. And you have had 8½ years service? Yes.
8150. And during the time you were in Balmain you conducted yourself in such a manner as to receive a presentation at the hands of the Mayor and aldermen upon your transference to Sydney? Yes.
8151. Mr. Abigail.] You have been in the Lower George-street district for three or four years, I understand? Yes.
8152. Then you have a very intimate knowledge of what transpires there in connection with these Chinese gambling-places? Yes.
8153. Gambling has increased there very much during the last four years, has it not? No. A portion of that time these great strikes were on, and some of the places were untenanted.
8154. The strikes, of course, destroyed the means of gambling? Yes.
8155. As a result of your observations, do you believe that the Chinese gambling-dens in Lower George-street are a curse to the men, women, and children of that neighbourhood? No doubt it is injurious to the community that has in its midst these places in which Europeans play. Sometimes I have heard that they say they win a lot of money, and I dare say they do. There are not always as many gambling as anybody passing along the street might imagine. There will often be only three or four people playing fan-tan, but a great number buying lottery-tickets. A lot of people seeing them go into the shop would suppose they were going in to gamble, but a great many of them only go in for the lotteries. I have seen men go in and come out again with £30 or £40.
8156. Had you anything to do with the raid at Moy Ping's? Yes; it was Carson and I who got the crow-bars.
8157. Did you go into any of the shops the day before and say that you were going to make the raid? No, we did not.

8158. Did you go into any of the shops the morning of the day that the raid was made and ask for crow-bars, saying that you were going to make a raid? No, we did not. Mr. Atwill said that we were to be very careful as to how we got the implements to break into the place, least anyone should get wind of it. Carson went to the Water Police Court where they were taking up the pipes and borrowed a crow-bar from there, and I went to Foster Bros., the pawn-shop, and got a very strong steel one and put it under my macintosh, so it would be quite impossible for anyone to see it.
8159. Mr. McKillop.] Would that be the night that the raid was made? Yes.
8160. President.] But, as a matter of fact, a great many people were at Moy Ping's at the time the raid was made? Yes.
8161. Well that would go to show that they did not know that a raid was going to be made, would it not? Yes. We had men watching for four or five nights previously; and on this particular occasion Mr. Atwill told off a man to give us the office when there were a great many people inside, and told the others that upon getting the word they were to rush in. As soon as we saw the man come out and give us the tip, Mr. Atwill, who was waiting for it, said, "Now come on," and we made a rush with the crow-bars and broke in the door.
8162. Mr. Abigail.] Have you ever been afraid of performing your duty because of the owners of some of this property being Members of the Legislative Council? No; never. I believe that the owners of this property would give the police as much assistance as anybody.
8163. You complain that you cannot enter these places without a warrant? Yes.
8164. Then what would you suggest;—would you give the police unlimited power to go in whenever they thought fit, as long as they were known gambling-houses that they went into? Yes; I think it would be better than the present arrangement.
8165. Have you seen much immorality amongst the Chinese in Lower George-street? No; I have not. There are cook-shops down there, and I have sometimes seen women of the lowest class go into them. I have followed them in to see what they went there for, and have seen them buy a basin of soup, and take it out and go away.
8166. Are the sanitary arrangements of these places good? Yes; we have been all through them, and I have never seen anything that would be injurious to any person. They keep them all clean. Mr. Seymour's men are always down there.
8167. You read all the statements made by the deputation? Yes.
8168. And you know of nothing to justify what was said to the Colonial Secretary with regard to the bribery of the police? Nothing whatever.
8169. Mr. Quong Tart.] Which is the principal game, fan-tan or pak-ah-pu? Well, pak-ah-pu is the principal game. More play in that than fan-tan.
8170. Which of these games is the worst? Oh, I think fan-tan is the worst. Pak-ah-pu is a game of chance. I think it is fair enough.
8171. Do you not think that pak-ah-pu is the worst, inasmuch as little children can go in the gambling-shops and play it? I do not think so. I think that fan-tan is the worst. If you go in and play pak-ah-pu for a sixpenny ticket you may get £30 or £40 for it, whereas if you play fan-tan you might lose £20 or £30 in five minutes.
8172. Do many Europeans play pak-ah-pu? Yes; great numbers do.
8173. Who play most, Europeans or Chinese? Oh, great numbers of Europeans play.
8174. Have either Europeans or Chinese residents of Lower George-street ever complained to you of the gambling evil down there? No; not before the Anti-Chinese Gambling League was formed.
8175. Since then have they? Oh, yes; several persons have since.
8176. And do you know of any Chinese informer? I do not at present. There was a man named Lee Wood at one time. I believe he used to go to the police and tell them about his fellow-countrymen gambling, because they would not give him any money.
8177. Do you think that that class of men inform for the good of the community, or to serve their private ends? Oh, I think it is to serve their own ends.
8178. What do they do for their living;—what did Lee Wood do? He used to go about from one Chinese place to another asking for money, and if they would not give it to him he would threaten them with all sorts of things.
8179. Do you know Robert Lee Kum. He is, or was, a member of the Salvation Army, I believe? I do not know him, but I have heard that he was just such another man as I have described.
8180. What district is he in? I do not know. He does not come down to our end of the town very often.
8181. What do you think of him, from what you have heard? I do not think he is much good.
8182. Did you ever hear that he laid an information to the Inspector-General? No; I never heard that.
8183. Do you know any other Chinese informer;—do you know Long Pen? No; I cannot say that I know that man.
- 8183½. He is living on the Waterloo and Botany side in Wexford-street, now? No, I do not know that man.
8184. Are there many respectable Chinese merchants down in your quarter? Yes; a good number of them. In fact I know nearly all the merchants down there.
8185. And how do they keep their places? First class.
8186. Will you name a few of the best? Sun Kum Tiy, Sun Hing Jang, On Chong, Ung Quoy (of the firm of Tin War), Sam War, On Yeck and Lee—all those are highly respectable Chinese merchants.
8187. What sort of a character does On Yeck and Lee bear? A good character.
8188. None better? No better in the country. In fact we look upon him as one of the best Chinamen in the country.
8189. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you think Ung Quoy is connected with any of these gambling-places? No, I do not think so. He is too respectable for that.
8190. Mr. Quong Tart.] You know Sam War? Yes.
8191. You do not think he is connected with any gambling-places? No, I do not. I am sure he is not.
8192. You do not think that he is connected with any of the lottery places? No; I do not think so.
8193. How long has he been in business in Sydney? When first I came here he was carrying on business at the corner of a little lane off Lower George-street.
8194. What was the name of the firm then? I do not know. It has a different name now.

- Sen.-constable 8195. How long has he been in his present place? Two and a half years.
Beadman.
- 23 Oct., 1891. 8196. Mr. McKillop.] Were ex-Constable Quealy and Mr. Atwill on very good terms previously to Quealy's dismissal from the force? Well there is no doubt that it was through Mr. Atwill that he was dismissed, simply because he got drunk. He was a very good man for doing his duty, and Mr. Atwill spoke to him on two or three occasions, but at last he got that way that he used to drink and was reduced, and when he got drunk again Mr. Atwill had to report him—it was his duty to do so—and I do not know what kind of friends they were then.
8197. Who makes the arrangements in connection with the raids? Mr. Atwill.
8198. Have any of you subordinate officers the power of making raids? No.
8199. The sub-inspector in charge of the district is the responsible party? Yes.
8200. Have you had any conversation with any person who has given evidence before the Commission? Relating to the evidence that they gave?
8201. Yes? No; none whatever.
8202. Have you had any conversation with any of the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? With reference to what?
8203. With reference to any of the charges that have been made against the police? Yes. I have spoken to members of the League on several occasions, when I have asked them if they know of any person who has received a bribe, to say who he is, so that the rest of the men may not be injuriously treated. Of course there may be a black sheep in every fold. They have replied that they do not know any individual men who had received bribes, but they have a suspicion that it is done.
8204. Have you noticed that since you have been down in that district the passenger traffic has fallen off—that people who used to go down Lower George-street to the Manly and North Shore boats at the Circular Quay, now go down Pitt-street to avoid passing the Chinese dens? I do not think that the foot traffic has fallen off in the slightest degree. I have noticed that business has fallen off in many parts of the town, but I think that it has been entirely owing to the heavy strikes we have had. They are the ruin of the town.
8205. Do the Chinamen insult women as they pass? No; they are most harmless people. They never insult anybody.
8206. Do you know that the Chinese on the Rocks procure girls from Waterloo, Woolloomooloo, and other places? I was never aware of it, and I go there every night, as the other plain-clothes constables do. There is one house—I think it is in Hanson's buildings—where there are a number of women of the very lowest type, and I think the Chinese go with them sometimes.
8207. And you are positive that a large number of girls are not brought from these places by the Chinese for immoral purposes? Yes; I am quite certain of it. In fact I have been called in by the Chinese to put girls out when they have come in to the gambling-places under the influence of drink.
8208. Do you not think that if the police were to take drastic measures in a large number of the European touts who frequent these dens it would tend to check the evil? I do not know. I never saw any touts about the place.
8209. Then if any one has given evidence to the effect that there is a large number of young men of the larrikin element acting as touts for the Chinese gamblers it would be false? Yes; at all events I am not aware of it.
8210. You are not aware that larrikins are posted up and down the street so as to give the Chinese notice when the police are seen coming out of the office? It may be done, but I am not aware of it. It may be that they arrange like the publicans do, to have the tip given them when the police are about.
8211. Do you know Henry Davies, of Dawes' Point? Yes.
8212. Does he conduct his house in a very decent manner? Yes. I think on the whole he does; he has been caught once or twice selling at illegal hours.
8213. Do you know Mr. Buchanan? Yes.
8214. Is he a respectable publican? Yes; a very respectable publican.
8215. Has he ever committed an offence against the Act? No; not to my knowledge, at all events.
8216. Do you know any members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League—Mr. Armstrong, for instance? Yes.
8217. Has he always borne a good character? Yes, ever since I have been down there.
8218. Did you know Mr. Kelly? Yes; I have spoken to him once or twice.
8219. Do you know Mr. Dawson? Yes.
8220. Is he a man of good character? Yes, I think so; I do not know anything against him. In fact I do not know anything against any member of the League.
8221. Mr. Hawthorne.] Who is the high priest of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Well, as soon as the new Parliament came in they seemed to take up the running directly. I do not know who was the principal instigator, but I heard it mooted before the Parliament were returned that the Chinese would not be allowed to remain very long in Lower George-street.
8222. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know the Laws? Yes, very well.
8223. They are two very respectable young fellows, are they not? Yes, very decent young fellows. I know them personally.
8224. And you have stated that you found Mr. Atwill a very respectable, upright, and straight-dealing officer? Yes; I know that he is.
8225. And if anybody had stated that they would not care to serve under him it would be very strange? Yes; if he found any man taking Gd. from anybody I am quite sure that he would not remain two hours in the force.
8226. Has anybody shown you any of the evidence taken before the Commission? No; I have not seen any of it.
8227. Mr. Quong Tart.] You say that you have been in several raids in your time? Yes; I think three, Mr. Quong Tart.
8228. How did you get the informations? I think the first raid we made was at Sun Sam Kee's place. We used to see people coming out of the shop, and we tried to get in at the door several times but failed, so Mr. Atwill said that the best thing we could do was to try again in a few nights' time, and on that occasion come down through the sky-light. When the time came we broke the sky-light, and jumped down upon the table, a distance of about 10 feet, knocking everything over.
8229. Did you get information in the case of the other raids in a similar way? Yes.

8230. Did you ever get any information from any Chinese informers? No.
 8231. You acted upon your own information? Yes. Mr. Atwill and several of us went up on a number of occasions, and tried to get in but seeing that there was no chance of doing it we abandoned the idea. In fact there has always been thirteen or fourteen warrants lying in the office ever since I have been in the district.

Sen.-constable
 Beadman.
 23 Oct., 1891.

8232. Mr. McKillop.] Do you think that if these strong doors and intricate passages were swept away the police would have any difficulty in getting in then? Quite so. There would be no difficulty then.

8233. Do you remember the Commission going there some few weeks back—to Sun Sam Kee's? Yes; I recollect. I think I was away on leave at the time.

8234. Had you heard anything about the intended visit of the Commission before they got there? No; I only heard of it afterwards. I think I remember Mr. Atwill speaking to me about it.

8235. The next day? Yes; telling me that the Commission had been there.

8236. Mr. Abigail.] Have you ever given the Chinese any warning not to play because of the Commission? No.

8237. Mr. Quong Tart.] Is there much gambling carried on now? No; very little. In fact we have been through the places every night for the last three weeks, and the tables are all covered up.

8238. Mr. Abigail.] Do you not think that the mere finding of gambling implements in these places should be sufficient evidence to secure conviction? I think not.

8239. You think that they should be caught red-handed at the game? Yes; I think so. I think that you would have to go in and find them playing, with the money on the table. If you only found the coins on the table I do not think that you could get a conviction.

8240. Mr. McKillop.] I want you to be quite clear in the answer you give upon this point, because I asked you the question a little while ago, and understood you to concur that it should be sufficient for a policeman to find the gambling implements in any of these places.

8241. President.] To make the thing perfectly clear, whilst at present it is necessary to catch the gamblers in the act of playing, and that is a very difficult matter, I understand that you would suggest an alteration in the law by which the mere possession of gambling implements would be evidence against the proprietors of the house sufficient to secure their conviction? Yes.

8242. I do not wish to ask you any further questions, but I would like to say this—that your evidence has been exceedingly satisfactory. So far as you have been the subject of serious charges you have answered them, I personally consider, quite satisfactorily. Now I have only to ask you to be good enough not to repeat any of the evidence you have given to the Commission to any of your fellow-constables. We do not wish them to be prepared in any way for the questions we may put to them.

MONDAY, 26 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Senior-constable W. H. Carson called and examined:—

8243. Mr. Abigail.] You are a member of the police force, Mr. Carson? Yes; I am a plain-clothes officer, and hold the rank of senior-constable.

8244. How long have you been in the force? Five years and two months.

8245. During that time in what part of the city have you chiefly been on duty? Principally in the northern part of the city—Lower George-street.

8246. Then you have an intimate knowledge of the quarter where the Chinese gambling-houses are situated? I have a very good knowledge of all that part of the city.

8247. You have visited these Chinese houses, I suppose—have you not? Yes; I have visited them frequently, both by day and night.

8248. That is, in the execution of your duty? Yes.

8249. How have you obtained admission to those places? I have simply gone in of my own accord, with Senior-constable Beadman.

8250. You are both plain-clothes men? Yes.

8251. Have you visited a number of the houses in that locality? Yes; a number of them.

8252. What did you observe in those places—tell me what class of people you found there? In those shops where they run the pak-ah-pu tickets there are generally a mixed class of people, but mostly confined to the lower order.

8253. Europeans and Chinamen? Yes. There are four or five of these shops, I think—there might be six; but I know there are four or five that the Europeans frequent.

8254. Those places are kept for the issue of lottery-tickets? Yes.

8255. Have you seen them playing fan-tan there? I have never seen them playing fan-tan in any of those places I have just referred to. I have seen them play fan-tan in the places confined solely to the Chinese.

8256. Do you mean to say that Europeans are not to be found gambling in any of these places? No.

8257. How is that;—do you not know that these Chinese places are frequented by large numbers of Europeans? Certainly not in large numbers—I can say that. There may be some Europeans in from time to time.

8258. But we have had evidence here to the effect that hundreds of Europeans are continually in these places in Lower George-street, for the purpose of gambling by the fan-tan process? I do not think that is at all likely. I think the largest number of Europeans ever known to be in a fan-tan shop there was on the occasion of the last raid, when we found forty or fifty there.

8259. That was in Moy Ping's? Yes.

8260. During your five years' experience in that quarter of the city have you noticed any very great increase in the number of Chinese places in Lower George-street? Decidedly not, sir; I have noticed a decrease.

Sen.-constable
 Carson.

- Sen.-constable
Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.
8261. During the last five years? Yes; more particularly during the last two years. I was in the office at No. 4 station for three years, when I joined Senior-constable Beadman in plain-clothes.
8262. You have been on active duty for the last two years? Yes.
8263. And during that time you have been in constant attendance, for one purpose or another, on these Chinese places? Yes. Sometimes of course we would be after suspected criminals; and other times we would go in consequence of complaints being made, such as occurred two or three years ago, if you remember.
8264. Complaints made by shopkeepers? Not by shopkeepers of the locality particularly; but complaints generally about that side of the city, as to females of tender age being induced to go there for immoral purposes, and so forth; and our duties were for a time almost confined to investigating such matters.
8265. You say you have never visited one of these places and found Europeans' as well as Chinese playing fan-tan? I never saw any Europeans playing fan-tan yet.
8266. You have seen the Chinamen playing fan-tan? Yes, I have seen them playing amongst themselves in the afternoon sometimes.
8267. What was the result of your inspection, in reference to the allegations or complaints about women visiting these places for immoral purposes; were you able to sustain these complaints by what you saw? No; I never saw any women in these places, with the exception of one cook-shop, when I have seen women go for soup in the night-time, and carry it away in jugs.
8268. Were you connected with the party who made the raid upon Moy Ping's place recently? Yes, I was one of the men who made the raid that night.
8269. You found a number of Europeans there on that occasion? Yes, most of them were Europeans.
8270. And many of them, I understand, were persons of respectable positions? Well I do not think so. Most of them were of the labouring class, or lower order; a couple of them I believe gave their occupations as "clerks."
8271. The others were mostly labouring men? Yes, or seafaring men.
8272. Then you think the class of persons visiting these places may be generally described as working men and sailors? All classes of the lower orders I should say.
8273. Are you on intimate terms with any of the Chinese down there—that is, do you know them well? Yes; I know them well.
8274. Have you often had a drink—taken refreshments with any of them? Not often. I have had a drink on two or three occasions, with some of them.
8275. Now can you tell us the names of some of the Chinese keeping these places, that you know of down there? There is Moy Ping, the man whose place we made the raid on; and there is Sam Kee, and there is another man who is mixed up in it—"Canary" they call him.
8276. Do you know Doung Lee's, 164, Lower George-street? Yes, I know that place.
8277. Do you know that it is a noted Chinese gambling-house, frequented by both Europeans and Chinese No.
8278. You do not know that? No; I am not aware of that.
8279. Do you mean to say you do not know that gambling is carried on at all hours there, even up to the present time? No, I am not aware of it.
8280. Do you know Pun Num's? No.
8281. It is also a gambling-house, pure and simple—the gambling being carried on in the back, with the lottery in front? I do not know it particularly. But I know all the Chinese places there.
8282. Nos. 178 and 180? I know the two numbers.
8283. And so you think gambling has decreased in the neighbourhood? I am sure of it.
8284. Then if the business people down there state that the gambling has increased to an alarming extent in Lower George-street, you would say that is incorrect? It is quite incorrect I believe.
8285. Have you ever been presented with anything as a recognition of the efficiency with which you have discharged your duty on that beat? Never.
8286. Not by Chinese or any other persons? No, sir. The only presents I ever got were rewards for the apprehension of prisoners.
8287. You never received a present of a gold watch, for example? I never possessed one in my life.
8288. Or a ring? No; the only ring I have is suspended from my chain.
8289. Are you married? Yes; I was married twelve months ago.
8290. Have you any family? One child.
8291. Do you own any property? I have a house, on the Metropolitan Road, Enmore.
8292. How long have you had that? Since last January. I purchased it on terms.
8293. I was going to ask you that. You must understand that these questions are put to you in the discharge of our duty, and not in any offensive way? I understand you, sir.
8294. Then how did you become possessed of this property in Enmore? I purchased it from another party who had mortgaged it to the Metropolitan Building Society—£100 down and so much per week. There is a tenant in it now paying 15s. a week.
8295. You are paying it off now? Yes, the tenant is paying it off.
8296. Is that the only property you have? Yes.
8297. You remember a deputation having waited upon the Premier in reference to the Chinese gambling question? I remember it quite well.
8298. You read the press reports of the statements made by one of the members of that deputation? I did.
8299. Where he charged the police with receiving bribes for allowing the Chinese gambling-houses to carry on their business without interference? Yes, I remember reading it quite well.
8300. Now, you are on your oath, sworn to speak the truth;—do you know anything that will sustain that charge? I know nothing whatever that would sustain a charge of that character against the police.
8301. Have you never heard of any constables receiving presents of any kind from these people? Since the deputation was formed I have heard it talked about at the street corners, and people have chaffed us about diamond rings and so forth. I have heard statements made about the police, but no names mentioned.
8302. You know nothing of your own knowledge to justify or sustain such charges? I do not know anything whatever of the kind, neither do I believe it.
- 8303.

8303. You know all of these Chinese dens, I presume? Yes, I know them very well.
8304. Look at these photographs;—you will notice some placards bearing Chinese character stuck up outside the houses thus represented? Yes.
8305. You have seen those I suppose on the fronts of these places in Lower George-street? Yes.
8306. Do you know what those white paper notices mean? No, but I have heard of it lately.
8307. You have been three years on that beat and never heard of it before? Well, I never took any interest in the thing. I have seen such notices stuck up on a number of houses, some of them cook-shops.
8308. Do you not think it is the duty of constables to make themselves acquainted with notices put outside reputed gambling-shops, particularly when they are in a foreign language? It did not occur to me in that light.
8309. Do you know that the notices in question informed the public that fan-tan is carried on in those places day and night? I cannot swear to it.
8310. Well that is the literal translation of the notice. Now, suppose that I put up a notice in English outside a shop that gambling was carried on there day and night, do you think I would be allowed to go on without interference from the police? I am pretty sure you would be interfered with if you put the notice in English; but, as to these particular notices I do not understand the Chinese characters, and I do not think any of the police do.
8311. The police have a Chinese interpreter at their command, have they not? Yes.
8312. Do you not think it would have been well to apply to him for an interpretation of these notices? It never struck me that there was anything in it.
8313. But if you do not inquire you cannot know; notices might be put up that women were kept there for immoral purposes? That could not well be, for we have visited the places frequently, and I am quite sure there are no women in them kept for immoral purposes.
8314. Do you remember the night when the Commission visited Lower George-street? Yes.
8315. They visited the place kept by Sun Sam Kee? Yes.
8316. You know that place? Yes, I know it well.
8317. That is reckoned to be one of the worst of the gambling-houses, is it not? Yes. That is one of the places frequented by Europeans.
8318. Do you know that when we visited that place on that occasion we saw Europeans there? Yes; I heard so.
8319. And they made their way out before we could get proper admission? Yes; I heard that, too.
8320. How many raids have been made during your term of service? Two or three—I cannot exactly remember.
8321. And were they successful in each case? I think so; though I only took part in one myself actually.
8322. Do you think that the gambling was not carried on in the intervals between those raids—say there were fifteen to eighteen months between each raid? I am sure it was carried on to a certain extent.
8323. And what did the police do to stop it? Well you see, besides the raids that were actually made, there were raids in contemplation, and I am sure there are warrants in existence now, lying in No. 4 station, ready to be executed.
8324. You can only proceed by warrant? Yes; whenever a raid is contemplated, Mr. Atwill gets the warrants out at the Water Police Court. Then you must have some one—a policeman disguised or other person unknown to be connected with the force in any way—to go in and prove that the game is played, and that money passes, and identify the banker and croupier. It is often impossible to get any one outside the force to undertake this duty.
8325. Do not some of the Chinese act as informers on occasions of that kind? No.
8326. Have you never heard of a Chinaman visiting the police authorities—the Inspector-General and others, and complaining of gambling being carried on in these Chinese houses? I have heard of one—Lee War, I think. He used to try and levy blackmail upon them. He would go to these gambling-houses and try to extort money from the owners, and if they would not “dub up” he would go to the police station and inform upon them.
8327. Have you ever heard of any other Chinaman making complaint against the gamblers? No.
8328. You never heard of a Chinaman going to the Inspector-General’s office, and being hunted out because he made complaints about these things? Never.
8329. Do you know Senior-sergeant Higgins? Yes; well.
8330. Is he a good officer? Yes; a thoroughly good, reliable officer. I have known him since I joined the police force.
8331. He is reputed to be well off, is he not? He owns some houses, I believe.
8332. Do you know how he acquired his property? I do not know; but I suppose he got them through his own industry. He is a man of good character in every way.
8333. Have you heard of him winning money in sweeps or anything of that kind? No; I never did. He is a very strict kind of man.
8334. Did you ever hear of him receiving presents of any kind from the Chinese residents of Lower George-street? No; I never heard of anything of the kind.
8335. You say there has been a great reduction in the gambling in Lower George-street? Yes; I am of that opinion.
8336. And you know nothing whatever to justify the charge that the police are bribed to overlook the gambling that is admittedly carried on down there? No; nothing whatever.
8337. You simply say that it has been carried on, and that two raids have been made in the course of three years? Two or three—I am not positively sure which. But I know that during the past three years it has decreased noticeably, at least since the Chinese Restriction Act was passed. There are more Chinese leaving the country than there are coming in. The fan-tan gambling used to be almost confined to the Chinese, and the late strikes had a great effect upon it.
8338. Is it not a fact that the shops kept by the Chinese down there have largely increased in number during the last three years—that numbers of Chinese have taken shops to carry on the gambling business during that time;—are there not a greater number now, in fact, than there were three years ago? I cannot swear that. I do not think so. Some of the houses there are idle now.
8339. How often are you up and down the street in the course of your duty? Several times day and night

Sen.-constable
Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.

- Sen.-constable Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.
- night when I am on duty. As I have said, there are some houses there idle now, and there was a terrace of houses idle for a considerable time—Beale's Buildings, they call them.
8340. You have not seen women or young girls visiting these places? No.
8341. Have you not seen women go into the Chinese shops to buy lottery-tickets? Never.
8343. And in the case of fan-tan gambling, the main obstacle consists in your not being able to gain admission to these places? Yes.
8344. You have to get a warrant, in the first instance, and then the Chinese are so clever they shut you out? Yes; they have the place thoroughly barricaded.
8345. If you have good reason to believe that gambling is going on inside, have you not power, without a warrant, to break open the door and get into these places? No, sir, not without a warrant. If I broke into a place without a warrant, and could not sustain a conviction, I should hear of it afterwards.
8346. Then any amendment of the law, to be effective, would have to give the police increased power to enter if they had reason to believe anything wrong was going on inside—that is, without a warrant;—is that your opinion? Yes.
8347. Have you any knowledge of the Chinese quarters in other parts of the city? I have been through places about Goulburn-street and Bathurst-street, and other places, in pursuit of offenders and persons described as "wanted."
8348. You immediately visit the Chinese quarters in search of supposed criminals, although they may be Europeans? Yes. We often go there to look for Europeans, and also for Chinese when they are wanted.
8349. In your visits to these places have you found the sanitary conditions good? Yes.
8350. That is clean and nice? Well, not scrupulously clean; but they would compare favourably with the same class of European habitations. I have never seen anything obnoxious on their premises.
8351. Have you ever known of any disturbances—quarrelling and fighting—in these places? I have heard of two or three cases of ordinary broils, where drunken men go in and make a row. Sometimes they go in and demand money from the Chinamen, or force themselves upon them, and then the Chinamen would put them out by force; and sometimes there might be a row in the street; but very seldom.
8352. Has it seemed to you that Inspector Atwill is anxious to have your duties performed strictly in all these matters? Undoubtedly.
8353. Is he a strict officer? Yes; strict and conscientious.
8354. You never heard of him receiving presents of any kind? No.
8355. Such as a piece of furniture, for instance? I never heard of such a thing.
8356. Or a chest of tea? No.
8357. Or a purse of twenty sovereigns? No; I do not think he would accept a present from what I know of him. He is a strict disciplinarian, and very just.
8358. Did you ever hear, on your rounds, of any large sums of money being won or lost in these Chinese gambling-dens? I have heard of men losing money, and also winning on the lottery-tickets, and also at fan-tan.
8359. Have you heard of labouring men losing all their weekly wages, and leaving their wives and families to want? No; I have heard no complaints of that kind.
8360. You have had no complaints to that effect? No; not in all my experience in that district; the sergeant in charge of the station might be better able to give evidence as to that; but it did not come within my experience while I was on duty in the station.
8361. Have you not remarked a falling off in the business in that part of Lower George-street, between Circular Quay and Bridge-street during the last few years? No; I cannot say that I have.
8362. Have you not noticed that the people travelling by steamers to the Quay do not go that way, but turn down Bridge-street instead, and reach Circular Quay by way of Pitt-street? Some do. But I think Pitt-street is more in a line with the steamboats than George-street.
8363. Have you heard anything about the insulting conduct of the Chinese towards respectable females in that locality? I have heard the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League complain—they complained to me, some of them; I forget who they were, but Mr. Maguire was one.
8364. Did Mr. Nock complain? No; not to me.
8365. Maguire did, you say? Yes, about the Chinese insulting ladies passing to and fro; but none of the general public outside have complained; in fact we have paid a lot of attention to the Chinese in that respect, and have never heard any complaints.
8366. Have you noticed any falling off in the street traffic in that locality? No; I have not.
8367. Are there not a number of houses of bad repute kept by Chinese up Cumberland-street? I am not aware of any being kept by the Chinese. There are a few Chinese up there who have women living with them in the ordinary way. They may be married to them for all I know to the contrary; but there are no reputed bad houses there.
8368. Mr. Quong Tart.] Can you say how many gambling-houses kept by Chinese there are in Lower George-street? I cannot say the exact number; but I should say somewhere about twelve or fifteen, or perhaps seventeen.
8369. How many of them are patronised by European gamblers? About four or five, I think.
8370. What kind of game do they carry on? Principally the lottery business—this pak-ah-pu.
8371. Do you understand anything at all about the game of fan-tan? Yes; I understand how it is played.
8372. Is it a fair game? Fan-tan is simply a game of chance.
8373. And pak-ah-pu? I do not understand it; but I have heard men say it is fair.
8374. What is the least they can spend on a pak-ah-pu ticket? I think it is 6d.
8375. Up to what amount can they win? I cannot tell you exactly, but at 6d. or 1s. I think they can win up to £57, or something like that.
8376. Is it a fact that members of the police force continually pass these houses well-knowing that gambling is carried on? I do not know.
8377. We have evidence here on that point, and we want to know whether it is true or not? Well, there are houses in which it is suspected that gambling is carried on; but I do not think they will admit you while they are playing fan-tan.

8378. Do you know of any member of the police force having accepted a bribe to refrain from interfering with the gamblers? No, I do not.
8379. And if any one has stated that such has been the case, do you believe it is untrue? I do.
8380. Suppose we have had evidence to the effect that a bribe has been accepted by a member of the police, do you say it is untrue? I cannot swear it, of course, but I believe it is untrue from my knowledge of the police down there.
8381. Can you say whether opium-smoking is carried on in these gambling-houses? Yes; it is used by some of those who inhabit those places, but in the majority of the places I do not believe it is used.
8382. It is not used as a rule, you mean? Well, I can only speak as to a few of the houses, and I have not paid particular attention to it.
8383. Now, how is it that they only make raids now and then on these houses, with long intervals between? In some instances Inspector Atwill has contemplated raids, and they have turned out a non-success. It has been found impossible to get persons and fit them up properly so that they can go in and find the gamblers at play. The last one was nearly a failure because we had two or three of the police for the purpose, and they were objected to, being recognised.
8384. You think the gamblers are more clever than the police? I consider they are, so far as preventing the police from making raids upon them is concerned.
8385. Have you ever found any immorality as between the sexes carried on in these Chinese gambling-houses? I have not.
8386. Have you heard of any young women being decoyed by the Chinese to their houses? I have never heard of it.
8387. Do you remember any rioting or fighting taking place in connection with the gambling-shops in Lower George-street a few years ago? No.
8388. I refer to a row where a Chinaman was nearly killed with an iron bar;—do you remember that case? I do not remember the particulars of any case. A row does occur occasionally, from time to time. I never take particular notice of them. They are mostly public-house broils. A man may come into one of these places very drunk, and kick up a row, and the Chinamen will eject him.
8389. You have heard of the gambling that is said to be carried on in the Chinese quarters of Lower George-street, Goulburn-street, Wexford-street, and Campbell-street? Yes.
8390. Do you think it is true that so much gambling is carried on? I do not think there is so much as is represented.
8391. Can you suggest any means of putting down this evil? I cannot throw out any suggestion—wiser heads than mine might do so.
8392. But you can give your opinion? Well in my opinion the powers vested in the police at present are not sufficient to enforce the law, because if you get a warrant to enter one of those places you must then force your way in, for these places are generally barricaded, and you have to smash down doors and barricades to get an entrance, and the delay enables them to make their escape.
8393. Then do you think, if you had the power to enter without a warrant, you would be able to stop the gambling much quicker? I do, undoubtedly.
8394. Have you ever known any of the respectable Chinese merchants connected with these gambling-shops? No.
8395. Do you know anything of their opinion with regard to gambling? The Chinese merchants in general, I believe, are opposed to gambling.
8396. Do you not know of any other informer besides Lee War whom you have mentioned? I heard of another man whose name I do not know. I have heard him spoken of;—he is living in Goulburn-street somewhere now, I believe. He became a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, and said he represented twenty-five Chinese merchants.
8397. Was it Gouldtown? Yes; that is the name.
8398. Did you ever see him? Yes; once.
8399. Did you ever have any conversation with him? Not to my recollection.
8400. Were you on duty in Lower George-street last Saturday night? Yes.
8401. Did you and another constable accompany two or three gentlemen on a visit to the Chinese quarters that night? Yes.
8402. Did you find anything particular going on? No. Mr. Fred. Leslie, the actor, was anxious to find out how fan-tan was played, and Detective Cocking met me and Beadman and asked us to show them round. We went in and asked the Chinaman if they would show how the game was played, and they did so.
8403. You did not actually find them in the act of playing? No.
8404. What did those gentlemen think about it—did they express an opinion? They seemed to think it was a fair game.
8405. Whose place was it you entered? I do not know the name of the house. A big fellow called Fred lives there.
8406. Have you found those places much quieter since this Commission was started? I cannot say that the Commission has had any particular effect in that direction; but I am sure the last raid we made has had some effect.
8407. Do you think if you frequently made such raids the effect would be to stop the gambling there altogether? I cannot say, because it might be a considerable time before we could succeed in making a raid again. The warrants are in existence now, and Inspector Atwill is only biding his time to make another raid. But it is a difficult matter, as I have told you.
8408. Do you know Goulburn-street well? No; it is not in our division. Sometimes I take a run through the houses there in search of offenders.
8409. Have you ever received any complaints of young women being decoyed from their homes by the Chinese in your division? No; no complaints whatever of that kind.
8410. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know Mr. Nock? Yes.
8411. Have you had much intercourse with him? Well, Mr. Nock and I used to be intimate friends at one time.
8412. What time was that? Up to the time the Commission was appointed. He took umbrage at some remarks that were passed about a ring. It used to be a by-word there. One day Mr. Nock was standing

Sen.-constable standing on the footpath, and I passed some remark upon this cameo ring, which I wear suspended from my watch-chain. Beadman, who was with me, said it was a fine ring, only it had not got a diamond in it. I heard afterwards that Mr. Nock complained about it.

Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.

8413. How long have you had that ring? A long time. It is an heirloom, and belonged to an uncle of mine. That ring was all through the American war.

8414. You never received a ring as a present from any of the Chinese in Lower George-street? No.

8415. Are you in the habit of frequenting the Chinese houses in Lower George-street? Yes; I visit them occasionally.

8416. Have you ever smoked opium in any of these places? Never in my life.

8417. Then if anyone has said that you were seen in one of these places, leaning over the counter smoking opium, he would be saying what was untrue? He would be committing deliberate perjury.

8418. Now listen to this: It has been stated in evidence here (Q. 178) that he "saw Constable Beadman and Constable Carson leaning over the counter in a gambling-house in Queen's-place, and smoking opium." You say that is deliberate perjury? Yes; deliberate perjury. I never smoked opium in my life, and Beadman never did in my company.

[NOTE.—The evidence referred to (Q. 178) was subsequently corrected on revision, by the withdrawal of the statement that the officers in question were seen "smoking opium."]

8419. Do you know Moy Ping's place? Yes.

8420. Are you in the habit of going in and out of the inner department there? No; not in the back part.

8421. Whenever you go into Moy Ping's and other Chinese places in Lower George-street, you go in officially? Yes.

8422. Have you been in the habit of receiving refreshments from the Chinese down there at any time? Not in the habit of doing so. I have in a few cases—from On Chong, a Chinese merchant, for instance, and Sam Hing. Beadman is well acquainted with him—has known him for a considerable number of years.

8423. Have you never taken refreshments with any other Chinamen? Yes, on two or three occasions, with Moy Ping.

8424. What was the object of going in with Moy Ping to take refreshments—was he the shouter? He shouted, and I think we returned the compliment. He has often given us information in connection with parties who were wanted. I remember one occasion in particular, some months ago, when he put us on the track of a man who had stolen a watch, and we arrested him. In fact he pointed out the man for us.

8425. In reality then, when you have gone into refreshment places with Moy Ping, or other gambling-house keepers, it has not been for the purpose of receiving bribes, or currying favour with them, but merely for the purpose of obtaining information to assist you in tracing and arresting suspected persons? Yes; in fact, as plain-clothes officers we mix and drink with all classes of society. We should be a non-success if we did not do so.

8426. You are practically detectives? Yes.

8427. So that you may very often be seen in the society of disreputable persons, and be apparently on familiar terms with them, and in that way you are really showing diligence in your calling, inasmuch as you are compelled to adopt that method of extracting information concerning the criminal classes which you would not otherwise be enabled to obtain? Yes, that is the case.

8428. Do you remember being in company with Beadman on one occasion when you met Mr. Nock, and the latter said to Beadman, "I think it is a shame to see you in this place"—referring to the house in Queen's-place? No.

8429. Do you remember ever having been in company with Beadman when Mr. Nock made such a remark? No; never in my life.

8430. I will read you the exact words (Q. 180) given in evidence here: "On the occasion to which I was referring . . . I went up to Beadman and said to him, "I think it is a shame to see you in this place." He replied, "You cannot do anything, Mr. Nock." I said, "Why can't I; and, for that matter, why can you not?" His answer was, "Most of these places are owned by Members of Parliament and influential men, and they tell us that if we turn these people out we cannot get respectable persons to replace them as tenants." I said, "I can quite believe that; they cannot get decent tenants for their premises under the circumstances, but that is no reason why you should not do your duty." Were you present when any such conversation took place? No, I never heard anything of the kind.

8431. If Mr. Nock has said that he has seen you and Constable Beadman pat Chinese gamblers on their backs, and ask who won this hand, and who won that, would that be untrue also? Undoubtedly it would.

8432. You are quite sure on that point? Quite sure.

8433. On no occasion did you ever pat a gambler on the back, and ask who won or lost the game? Never in my life; or Beadman in my company.

8434. If it was also asserted, as in the case at question 182, that he had seen you "drinking and having dinners with the boss gamblers," would that be true? Not to my knowledge. We have been in with the Chinamen once or twice having oysters, and on one occasion we had dinner in the Coffee Palace with Sam Hing.

8435. With any other Chinamen? No, except to take refreshments with Moy Ping.

8436. What kind of refreshments? Drinks.

8437. Was that while you were on duty? Yes.

8438. With any other Chinamen? Mr. On Chong.

8439. Any others? Not to my recollection; but it is quite possible. I never contemplated that any questions of this kind would arise; but as I have said before we mix up with all classes in the course of our duty to get knowledge and information.

8440. Have you ever been charged by any person, either you or Constable Beadman, with taking bribes or accepting presents from the Chinese gamblers? Never, sir.

8441. Has Mr. Nock charged you either directly or indirectly with having been the recipients of bribes or presents? Never in his life.

8442. Has he ever talked to you seriously about the, to his mind, easy going style of the police in dealing with the Chinese gamblers in Lower George-street? I do not remember such a thing.

8443. You do not remember any allegations being made against the police as to their method of dealing with the Chinese gamblers? Never. 8444.

Sen.-constable
Carson.

26 Oct., 1891.

8444. You are quite sure? Yes.

8445. Do you think it is true that warning was given to the Chinese residents previous to a raid being made upon them? No.

8446. You think it unlikely that any policeman, by instructions from Mr. Atwill or otherwise, went to one of the places down there and said that a raid was to be made that evening, and that they would require the use of a crowbar? Well some time previous to the raid being made Mr. Atwill asked Beadman and I to get some crowbars if possible.

8447. Where did you get them? I accompanied Beadman to Foster's, and got one there.

8448. Did you say what it was for? No; Beadman said he wanted it to knock a hole in the yard for a clothes-prop. We got another crowbar from the Water Police Station from the man engaged in some sewerage work there.

8449. So that the statement of Mr. Nock, that many more arrests would have been made if the warning had not been given, is to your mind incorrect? Quite so. I think the fact of fifty men being found on the premises at the time the raid was made was quite sufficient to show that no information leaked out regarding it.

8450. Have you seen any copy of the evidence taken before this Commission? No.

8451. You have never had a look at it at any time? No.

8452. Have you ever been offered anything at all in the shape of a present by any Chinese residents? No.

8453. Now I want you to be very particular in regard to your answer to this question: Do you remember having, in company with Constable Beadman, met Mr. Maguire (who has already given evidence before this Commission) when he (Maguire) was walking down the street in company with Mr. Kelly, M.P.? I remember seeing Mr. Kelly with Mr. Maguire on one occasion, when he and Beadman had a conversation, and I took a walk some little distance away while they were talking.

8454. Did you and Beadman have a conversation with him? I did not join in the conversation at all. I was standing some distance away. Mr. Kelly, and Maguire and Beadman, were standing at the intersection of Church-hill and George-street.

8455. That is the corner of Charlotte-place and George-street, I suppose? Yes.

8456. How came you to stand such a distance off—was it a conversation you were not expected to listen to? Well, Beadman left me somewhat abruptly, and went to speak to them; I do not know what he wanted to say to them.

8457. Did you not play any part in what took place on that occasion, either directly or indirectly? I am positively sure I did not join in the conversation while Mr. Kelly was present.

8458. Will you swear that you did not say to Mr. Maguire that you wished someone would make a charge against you; or, to be more accurate, and giving your own words as conveyed to the Commission by Mr. Kelly, do you remember having said that on this very occasion, when Mr. Maguire was in company with Mr. A. Kelly, M.P.? No; I did not join in the conversation that day with Mr. Maguire. I might have said something to that effect casually, afterwards, in passing down the street, but as to making such a remark in conversation with Mr. Maguire, I certainly did not.

8459. Don't you think you must have been engaged in some conversation with them for Mr. Maguire to connect you in this way with it? Certainly not while Mr. Kelly was present. I only spoke to him once in my life.

8460. When was that? I got an introduction to him some time ago, when he was returned to Parliament.

8461. You are quite sure you did not speak to him on this particular occasion? Positively sure.

8462. Do you deny having made that statement to Maguire? I am positively certain I never expressed those words.

8463. Or that you would take it out of his pocket? I am quite positive I never said a word like that, or anything that could be construed into such a meaning. I do not think they are worth £10,000 if they were all boxed up together—Mr. Maguire in particular. I do not think he has 10,000 shillings.

8464. Then you positively deny the truthfulness of the statement? I positively deny it.

8465. And you swear that no such conversation took place? I do.

8466. Or at any other time, supposing that a mistake has been made as to the exact time? No; I am positively sure.

8467. You will swear positively that the day Constable Beadman met Mr. A. Kelly with Maguire you had no conversation with any of them? I may have spoken to Maguire, but I am positively sure I had no conversation about the £10,000.

8468. Since you are not quite sure whether you had a conversation with them or not, do not you think you might also be mistaken in regard to this matter of having an action for £10,000? I am quite sure. I always looked upon him (Maguire) as a friend of mine. I did not know he was connected with the League until quite lately.

8469. Did Beadman appear to be at all flurried on that occasion, or that day? No, not in the least. Of course I cannot say how he appeared when in conversation with Kelly and Maguire—I was some distance away.

8470. If he had been flurried while in conversation with them do you think he would have shown signs of it when he returned to you? I suppose so, certainly.

8471. Did he (Beadman) make any statement to you as to what the conversation had been about? Not exactly. He said they were talking about the deputation, or something of that kind. I did not pay much attention at the time.

8472. He gave you no particulars of the conversation that took place between them? I do not remember that he did.

8473. You do not remember whether he told you that Mr. Maguire had said to him, "If there is no truth in these charges why should you mind them"? No.

8474. Has he ever said anything that led you to believe that he was frightened of an investigation? No, not in the least.

8475. He was quite indifferent? Yes, except that he used to be a little indignant at first at the talk about the rings.

8476. Has Constable Beadman always been in the habit of wearing rings? Yes; he has been wearing those rings he has now for a considerable time past.

8477.

- Sen.-constable 8477. He has not left off wearing jewellery lately from any cause? No; he always wears a diamond ring, and gold guard with medals, and a diamond pin. I think they were nearly all "presentations"—the medals in connection with boating.
- Carson. 8478. Or he bought them? Yes. I think I heard him say he purchased the ring from some person.
- 26 Oct., 1891. 8479. He is fond of jewellery, apparently? Yes.
8480. You have never received a present of jewellery, such as a diamond ring, for instance, from anyone down there? No; I never wear a ring myself.
8481. You have no other property save that which you mentioned in reply to Mr. Abigail? No. My wife is in receipt of £100 a year.
8482. And if anyone has credited you with being a wealthy man it is a mistake? Yes.
8483. You bought the equity of redemption of a house for £100? Yes.
8484. And are paying back the principal and interest of the balance to a Building Society? Yes; £3 18s. 6d. a month.
8485. Where do you live? In Cumberland-street. I live convenient to my beat.
8486. With regard to the Chinese gambling-dens in Queen's-place;—do you say that you and Constable Beadman have not been inside, either to smoke opium or anything else? I have been in, but not to smoke opium.
8487. You have not been in to lounge about or waste time;—do you go in there officially? Yes, to see what is going on. To see if there are any women there, or characters of bad repute. We might have a chat with the occupants on such occasions.
8488. And you say that on no occasion did Mr. Nock confront you and Beadman and tell you it was a shame for you to be in there making free with those people? I am positively certain he never said such a thing.
8489. It is utterly untrue? Yes.
8490. Mr. McKillop.] You said in reply to Mr. Abigail a short time ago that the gambling-dens in Lower George-street were decreasing in number? Yes.
8491. Would you be surprised to know that there are upwards of thirty-three houses in Lower George-street similar to those shown on the photographs before you? I should be surprised, certainly.
8492. I suppose you have noticed that a large number of those houses had notices stuck up which have latterly been taken off? I have noticed them, yes.
8493. Do you know at whose instigation those placards were taken down or obliterated? I cannot say, unless it was something that appeared in the Press about a month or six weeks ago, which caused them to be torn down.
8494. Do you know of any communication having been sent from the Inspector-General of Police lately to your office? Yes.
8495. Do you know the nature of that communication? It had reference to these notices.
8496. Did Inspector Atwill immediately act upon that communication? Yes; he sent for an interpreter.
8497. Was it owing to a communication from the Chief of Police that these notices were washed off the walls of the Chinese houses? I cannot say that.
8498. Are you aware whether Inspector Atwill went round with an interpreter? I cannot say. I know a senior-constable went round with an interpreter.
8499. Who was the senior-constable that went round with the interpreter? I think Beadman went there. I do not recollect the particular day; but Beadman met the interpreter, who explained some of the notices to him, I think.
8500. You and Beadman generally knock about together, do you not? Yes.
8501. Then on that day you were not with him? No; we were separated for a short time.
8502. In the course of your rounds in that portion of the town you must have noticed a large number of these placards on the Chinese houses; and since you have ascertained their meaning, does it occur to you what a large number of such notices used to be exposed outside the doors of the Chinese houses? I remember a few houses having the notices posted outside, but I took no interest in them, being in Chinese characters. But I know that something appeared in the Press about them, and that they were torn down from some of the houses.
8503. Did you ever visit any of the gambling-dens in Lower George-street for the purpose of playing dominoes? No.
8504. Never at any time? No. Chinese dominoes are different from the European game.
8505. I mean the European dominoes? I have never played in the Chinese places in my life.
8506. Have you had oyster suppers with those gambling-house-keepers? No, not with the gamblers; I have had once or twice with a respectable man.
8507. Do you know a one-eyed Chinaman—a notorious gambler—down there? Yes; they call him "Canary"—he is a cook, I think.
8508. Did you ever enter a refreshment bar with this Chinaman called "Canary"? I may have done.
8509. Is he not a notorious gambler? I do not know him to be.
8510. Is he a respectable man? I never knew him to commit a breach of the law, and he always keeps himself decently dressed. He often gave us information about people that we wanted.
8511. And you emphatically deny having gone into an oyster-saloon with any of these low-class Chinamen? I do not remember having been into one of them.
8512. You say that in your experience there have been two or three raids made on the Chinese gamblers in Lower George-street? Yes.
8513. Do you not think it was quite possible to have made many more raids than you did? Well, I do not think they would have been attended with much success. I know that on several occasions Mr. Atwill has contemplated raids, and owing to the way the places were barricaded, and the difficulty of getting anyone inside to prove the case from personal observation, they fell through from time to time.
8514. Do you not think that the effect of making raids upon these places, even if you had no chance of catching them red-handed, as it were, would be to offer a check to the gambling down there—would it not tend to prevent them opening these places and playing with impunity? The difficulty is that you have no justification without a warrant.
8515. You can act on suspicion? Yes; but you must get a warrant.
8516. Very well, having got your warrant, you proceed to take action;—could you not in that way harass

- harass them? Yes; but I am afraid if we carried on that line of conduct it would only frustrate the object in view by making them more alert.
8517. You are of opinion that if raids were made to harass them no good would accrue? That is my opinion. Mr.
W. H. Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.
8518. Do you consider the present law sufficiently stringent to deal with the evil? I do not think it is.
8519. Have you given the subject thought or study? I have not made a particular study of it, but I do not think the present law is quite stringent enough.
8520. Are you in favour of a law being passed to give the police greater power to enter these places at any time? Yes.
8521. And that in the event of gambling implements being found on the table that ought to be sufficient evidence upon which to found an indictment against the occupant for being the keeper of a common gaming-house? Yes.
8522. Do you think the landlords of these places should also be held responsible after receiving due notice that their tenants are carrying on gambling? Yes; I think it would have a very healthy effect.
8523. You have considered that point? Yes.
8524. You stated a little while ago that there were a large number of Chinese going home to China, and that Chinese gambling had decreased very considerably? Yes.
8525. Now has it not considerably increased so far as the Europeans are concerned? Undoubtedly not, so far as my observation has gone.
8526. Are you on that beat during the day and night? I may be there at any time in an emergency; but I am mostly there during the forenoon, and any time after 9 o'clock at night, up to 12 and 1 o'clock.
8527. Does Constable Beadman have the same hours as yourself? Yes.
8528. And the other two plain-clothes constables are Sergeant Higgins and Senior-constable Adair? Yes; they have similar hours, with the exception of Sundays.
8529. Have you not seen Europeans going into these Chinese gambling-dens very frequently? Yes; I have seen them about the shops.
8530. Do you think the pawnbroker Foster has any connection with these gambling-dens? No; I do not believe it.
8531. Do you think it increases the trade to have these gambling-dens in close proximity to an establishment of that kind? I do not think so.
8532. Are you aware that gamblers pawn their jewellery when they lose all their ready cash at fan-tan, so that they may continue the game? I do not; but I know that Foster is a respectable man.
8533. Have you had any conversation about these matters with anyone previous to coming up here? I had a conversation with Beadman. I asked him the other day, after he had been here, what was said, and he declined to answer me. He said he had made a strong declaration, but he would not divulge what he had said.
8534. Did you have any conversation with anyone else? No.
8535. I suppose the question of the Royal Commission has been a general topic of conversation at the police station? At one time it was talked about, but it is a dead letter now.
8536. It has formed the subject of conversation or discussion? Oh, yes; all down George-street. The people used to chaff us about "diamond rings," and so forth.
8537. You know the night the Commission came down there to make an inspection of that portion of the district? Yes.
8538. Did you get any rews of the intention of the Commission to visit that locality? Not the least. I was surprised when I saw them. I saw a crowd collected when the Commission was in the lane near Foster, the pawnbroker's, leading into Queen's-place; that was the first intimation I had of the visit.
8539. Have you ever entered these gambling-dens when gambling has been in full swing? Not in the fan-tan rooms. I have been in the outer rooms, in front.
8540. Have you ever dispersed crowds from those places, kicking and buffeting them? I have never done any kicking or buffeting. I have put them out and frightened them.
8541. Have you never seen money on the table when you have been in those places? Never.
8542. Have you never been in when the lights have been put out and a scramble has taken place? No; only on the night when the raid was made.
8543. What amount of money was on the table on that occasion? I cannot swear positively. It is on record. I do not think there was much money on the table. I think it must have been in their pockets. It took us some time to enter.
8544. Were you one of the first to enter? Yes; I knocked the partition down. Another constable was sent to get through the skylight.
8545. If anybody has stated that you and Constable Beadman have entered one of these places when gambling has been in full swing, and that you started kicking and buffeting the people there, that would be untrue? Yes. I never did so, nor did I ever see Constable Beadman do so.
8546. Are constables in uniform authorised to enter these places? Yes, in the execution of their duty; but as a rule they do not go in the same as we do.
8547. Did you ever see young children—girls or boys—in these Chinese dens? No.
8548. You do not know, of your own knowledge, of Europeans gambling in these places and losing very heavily, and of working-men losing all their earnings there? I have heard of men of the working class losing £2 or £3; but they win sometimes again. They indulge principally in pak-ah-pu tickets, and sometimes strike something good.
8549. Do you not think if Europeans kept fan-tan tables, and ran these lotteries, and gambled to the same extent, as openly as the Chinese do down there, action would have been taken by the police force much sooner than has been the case with the Chinese gambling-house keepers? I cannot say that. I think it would be more easy for the police to succeed in the case of Europeans than with the Chinese.
8550. Who arranges these raids? Mr. Atwill swears the information, and gets the warrant for the house concerned.
8551. Does he make it public at all;—does he tell all the members of the force in his division? No. For instance, we made the raid on Moy Ping's and knew nothing about it until the last moment. I knew that a raid was contemplated some time previously, when we got the crow-bars, but he did not tell me on that occasion until the party was organised to surround the place, some in the front, and others in the rear.

- Mr. W. H. Carson.
26 Oct., 1891.
8552. Do you think it would have been possible for others to know it? No, I do not. Mr. Atwill is a very shrewd man. We plainclothes men would be the most likely ones to be told; and he did not even confide in us.
8553. Do you think that if this evil were checked it would mean a great benefit to a large number of people who are now induced to go to these places for the purpose of gambling? I cannot say.
8554. I am asking your opinion on that point;—would it not be far better for the community in general to have a stop put to the gambling in Lower George-street? I dare say it would have a beneficial effect upon the community.
8555. Do you not know, as a matter of fact, that a large number of these places, where gambling is carried on, actually do no legitimate business whatever, and that they only keep some fusty old tea or other things in the window for show, and by way of a blind? Yes. I have noticed tea in the windows of places where a lot of Chinese gardeners and hawkers come and mess together.
8556. Would you be surprised to know that some of these places are assignation houses to which European girls are brought from Woolloomooloo and other places? I would be surprised to hear that.
8557. You would be surprised to learn that we have evidence of a reliable character that such is the case? Yes, I should.
8558. Have you ever seen any young girls being brought into these Chinese dens? No, indeed. In fact I have never seen any women in the gambling-houses in Lower George-street at all.
8559. Have you seen any in the houses about the Rocks? There are women about the Rocks who go with blackfellows and Chinamen, and the lower class of Europeans.
8560. Have you seen any young girls decoyed in there? No.
8561. Have you ever seen any disgraceful scenes enacted among those women? No.
8562. Are they quite orderly then? They are sometimes disorderly about that locality.
8563. Have you power to make arrests in such cases? Yes; if they commit themselves in our sight, we run them in for riotous behaviour or disorderly conduct. The police have that power.
8564. Has Senior-constable Adair any property? Not to my knowledge.
8565. He has been a long time in the service, has he not? Ten or twelve years, I think.
8566. Has he always been well thought of by his superior officers? Yes, he is a reliable man.
8567. He is a very respectable man? Yes, strictly abstemious.
8568. Have you at any time received any presents in the shape of preserved ginger, tea, or anything else from Chinese residents of Lower George-street? Not at all.
8569. Have you ever had a present sent to you at Christmas or the New Year, not knowing where it has come from? No.
8570. Do you know any of the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Yes.
8571. Do you know Mr. Armstrong? Yes.
8572. Is he a respectable man? Yes.
8573. Do you know Mr. Kelly? Yes; I have heard he went insolvent lately.
8574. Do you know Mr. Buchanan, the publican? Yes.
8575. Has he always kept his house well-conducted? Yes, very well.
8576. You have said you are intimately acquainted with Mr. Nock? Yes.
8577. Have you always found him a very respectable man? I have.
8578. Do you think, in giving his evidence here, he had any ill-will against you? I never did him any harm.
8579. Do you think it probable that Mr. Nock took an interest in this matter through the large amount of injury done to the business of his firm by the extension of the Chinese gambling evil down there? Yes; I think he always takes an interest in matters of this kind. He took an interest in the strike.
8580. Is he a man of excitable temperament? I never saw him excited.
8581. Do you think he took action in this matter from pure motives? I can't say; I have always found Mr. Nock a highly respectable young man.
8582. Mr. Abigail.] During my examination of you you said that you had not seen very many Europeans visiting these Chinese gambling-houses? Not so many Europeans in the fan-tan shops.
8583. Now, listen to this in Mr. Nock's evidence: "I have seen as many as 500 white people turned out of the gambling-houses situated between our place and the corner of Argyle-street";—could an event of that kind occur, do you think, without the police being aware of it? I do not believe that.
8584. Could a thing of that kind take place without the police being aware of it? I should think not. I was never aware of it, at all events.
8585. Then Mr. Nock was asked (Q. 163): "Whom are they (the gambling-houses) frequented by generally?" and he answers, "Mostly whites";—but you do not sustain that statement? No; there are only a few houses frequented by whites.
8586. Do you know that there are over thirty Chinese-kept places down there, and that twenty-four of them at least are reported to be gambling-houses? No; I should say about sixteen or eighteen. I may say that the whites who visit these places probably indulge in pak-ah-pu.
8587. President.] In your estimate of the number of gambling-houses do you include the lottery proprietors? Yes.
8588. Then, according to you, the maximum number of gambling-houses of all kinds would be eighteen? Yes; about sixteen or eighteen.
8589. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you ever heard of a Chinese secret society among the gamblers? I have not heard of a secret society. I have heard of societies in existence in China, for revenge, or something of that kind, but not in Sydney.
8590. Is there much crime amongst the Chinese in Lower George-street? No; a very small percentage.
8591. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know ex-Constable Quealy? Yes.
8592. Used he to be on that beat? Yes.
8593. Was he not in any of these raids made upon the Chinese gambling-dens? I do not remember that he was.
8594. Is he a man of any means? He had the reputation of having a few hundred pounds. I know nothing about his private affairs.
8595. He had the reputation among his comrades of possessing some means? Yes; it was said he had a few hundred pounds the time he was discharged from the force.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr.

Mr. Thos. Quealy recalled and examined:—

8596. Mr. Hawthorne.] Was it to you that Sibthorpe showed the printed evidence taken before this Commission, which you have referred to in the course of your examination here? Yes; he showed me a copy.

Mr.
T. Quealy.
26 Oct., 1891.

8597. He handed you a copy of the evidence? No. He showed me himself something where Armstrong had made a statement about me.

8598. He allowed you to read it? He read it for me, and I looked over him.

8599. I thought you stated on the last occasion that you took it in your hand and read it? I might have done, but I believe I did not.

8600. What did he do with it after showing you what Armstrong said? He took it away.

8601. Did you see the copy later on? No.

8602. Are you quite sure on that point—just refresh your mind;—did not you ask Sibthorpe to get you a copy? Yes, I think I did.

8603. Did he produce it at a later stage? No. I got no copy.

8604. Did not you see any evidence after that? No; I only saw Armstrong's evidence.

8605. Did not you get a copy left with you after that? No.

8606. Are you quite sure? Yes, quite sure.

8607. How did Sibthorpe say he came to get hold of it? First of all he came into the house and asked for Mr. Quealy; I am stopping with my brother.

8608. What Mr. Quealy did he refer to? I believe he referred to my brother at the time.

8609. What is your brother's first name? John.

8610. And yours is? Thomas.

8611. How is it you interviewed him when he wanted to see your brother? I asked him what he wanted, and then we went into an inside room, and had the paper containing what Armstrong said about my applying for a license for a hotel at Balmain, and being refused, and applying for the "Shannon Hotel," and getting the license. I was the person referred to.

8612. He handed you the evidence to read for yourself, which, of course, you did? I do not think I had the copy in my hand—I just looked over it.

8613. You did not have entire possession of it? No.

8614. Is Sibthorpe a customer of the house? Yes; he was always a customer there; at least up to a fortnight ago he was a regular customer.

8615. How do you account for his knocking off coming there a fortnight ago? I cannot say.

8616. You cannot think of any reason for his discontinuing his visits to the house? No.

8617. How many weeks ago was it that he showed you the copy of the evidence? I think it was the early part of this month, as well as I can remember. I know it was this month early.

8618. About the first week in October? Yes; I think it would be about that.

8619. What reply did he make when you asked him to get another copy? I know he made the reply that he had no right to show it to me.

8620. He said he had no right to show you? Yes; he also said something about reconstructing the evidence, or something to that effect.

8621. What was it like—a couple of pages like this [showing two pages of foolscap printed matter]? I think there were more leaves than that.

8622. About four pages? Yes; it was about that, I am sure.

8623. There were more leaves or pages than the one containing the particular statement affecting yourself? Yes.

8624. You are quite certain on that point? Quite certain.

8625. Did he inform you where he got it from? I understood he got it from where he worked.

8626. Had you told him previously to look out for the evidence? No; I was not concerned about it.

8627. Did you shout for him that day? No.

8628. If he stated that you shouted for him on that occasion, it was between 7 and 8 o'clock? I did not shout for him.

8629. Is he a man of steady habits? He has been on the booze.

8630. Did he appear to be on the spree at that time? No, not at that time.

8631. Was he quite sober, so far as you could judge, when he showed you the evidence? Yes.

8632. Were you quite sober? Certainly.

8633. I suppose you would be able to tell whether Sibthorpe was sober? Undoubtedly, he was sober. He might have had two or three drinks for all I would know.

8634. He called to see you in the early part of the evening? Yes; it was between 7 and 8 o'clock.

8635. And then he showed you the evidence? Yes; he asked me if I was the person referred to.

8636. You are quite sure he told you he had no right to show you the evidence? Yes.

8637. Do you feel in your own mind that he was guilty of a misdemeanour so far as showing you this evidence was concerned? Well of course he might be if he had anything to do with it.

8638. Did he not ask any consideration for having shown it to you? No.

8639. You must have been on tolerably intimate terms with this man for him to volunteer to do you such a service? He did not volunteer; I knew nothing about it until he brought it and asked me if I was the person referred to.

8640. So that the production of this portion of the evidence was voluntary on his part, and was not brought about by any action on your part? Quite so; I never knew anything about it.

8641. Up to that time you were quite ignorant of your name having been brought before the Commission? Yes; I may say that I thought this man was an engineer, or something of the sort, up to that time.

8642. You had no idea that he was a compositor in the Government Printing Office? No.

8643. Up to that time you thought he was an engineer? Yes.

8644. Have you discussed the matter with him since this question arose, in any way? I do not think I have spoken to him since or seen him until to-day.

8645. You have not discussed this question at all? No.

8646. Has any friend of his been to interview you with regard to the matter? No.

8647. You are quite sure the slips of printed paper he showed you were perfectly clean and tidy-looking in every way? Quite sure.

- Mr. T. Quealy.
26 Oct., 1891.
8648. Will you inform the Commission what amount of money you withdrew from the bank when you left the police force? If it is necessary I will.
8649. It is necessary, if you please? I drew £300 out of St. Joseph's Building Society, and £50 out of the Barrack-street Savings Bank, as near as I can remember. There might be a little more or less.
8650. Would that be about the maximum amount? Yes.
8651. You drew no other moneys out of any bank at about that time? No. It was £350 or £360 all told.
8652. Could you fix the maximum at £400? No, it was not £400, I am quite sure. The £300 was in St. Joseph's Building Society at fixed deposit for twelve months, the interest being 6 per cent., or £18.
8653. You drew your deposit of £300 and £18 interest, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum? Yes.
8654. Do you remember having had a conversation with Mr. Armstrong? I do not think I have had a conversation with him since I left the police. I saw him one day in Sussex-street.
8655. Were you ever asked if you had anything to say about the police having received bribes from anyone? No; I never spoke of such a thing.
8656. Did you ever say to him, or anyone else, that you would have something to say on that point to this Commission? No.
8657. Do you know nothing whatever to implicate the police in any way in regard to receiving presents or bribes? No; and I do not believe in my own mind that they are guilty of anything of that kind.
8658. You know of nothing suspicious having taken place in the conduct of the men who were associated with you in the service? Certainly not.
8659. And you swear positively you never received anything in the shape of a present yourself? I never received a shilling from anyone.
8660. And the money you have is the result of your savings for years past? Yes; I can show you what I have saved every year. I was a first-class constable for four years.
8661. Mr. McKillop.] Did you ask Mr. Sibthorpe to supply you with a copy of the evidence referring to you at any time? No.
- 8661½. Did not I understand you to say that he (Sibthorpe) told you, in answer to your application, that he would try to get it? That was in reference to a copy of it. I asked him to show it to me, and he did.
8662. And the first time you knew anything about it was when he brought it to you as you have related? Yes.
8663. During your connection with the police force, Mr. Quealy, did you ever make any raids, or were you ever present when any raids were made upon the Chinese gambling-houses? I was.
8664. How many raids during the time you were in the police force? To the best of my recollection, five. I can remember five.
8665. How long were you in the police force? I joined in January, 1884.
8666. You were in the force about six years? Yes, six years and six months.
8667. And there were five raids made during that time? To the best of my knowledge, yes.
8668. How many were you concerned in personally? I think I was connected with two or three of them.
8669. When you have made a rush inside, have you seen Europeans gambling—playing fan-tan? Yes.
8670. In large numbers? I think there were twenty or thirty Europeans on the last occasion.
8671. Have you been in any of these places in the execution of your duty when the gas has been turned out, and a general scrimmage and scramble has taken place? Yes; that is the rule.
8672. Have you been in a scrimmage when there has been money on the table, and a scramble made for it? I have heard it, but have not got near enough to see.
8673. You never assisted at a scramble for the money? No, never in my life.
8674. And if anyone has said that you with others have on occasions been in one of these affairs, and have kicked and buffeted the people there, and put the money in your pocket, it would be untrue? It would.
8675. You have noticed that gambling has been on the increase in Lower George-street? Yes, before the last strike, but since that it has been wonderfully on the decrease. Two years ago gambling was in full swing there.
8676. I suppose all classes of Europeans go into these places up to 11 and 12 o'clock—you have seen them? Yes, anybody can go in and see.
8677. They walk in and out as they would at a public-house? Yes.
8678. Do you not consider that this evil could have been checked if steps had been taken by the inspector in charge of the district in the earlier stages of its growth? Well, I cannot say the Inspector is to blame, because I believe the law is not stringent enough. The police are not given enough power. If they had the power it could be suppressed in six months.
8679. Kindly give us the reasons on which you have formed that opinion? As I have said, the police have not power at the present time; and to suppress it I would increase their power, and make any Europeans liable that might be found on the premises.
8680. If any gambling implements were found on the premises you would punish the occupants or tenants of the houses? Yes, and I would also hold the landlords responsible.
8681. Immediately, or would you give them notice? In the cases of the landlords I would give notice.
8682. Then you would give the police power to walk in, and, as long as they were observed to be playing inside, lock them up without more ado? —
8683. And make both tenant and landlord liable? Yes; I believe it is the only way to check it.
8684. Who gets up these raids;—is it the Inspector-General of Police or the Inspector of the district? The Inspector of the district might, of course, get his orders from the Inspector-General or the Superintendent, but he always organises the raids himself—that is, Mr. Atwill.
8685. Now, if he could organise one, or two, or five, in the course of six and a half years, is it not quite possible to organise fifty in a like period? He could organise one for every night for that matter. But they are not always successful. Sometimes an appeal is made to the Upper Court, and the Chinamen get out of it, and that is discouraging.
8686. But by harassing them continually might they not be made to clear out? In my judgment it would not be justified unless the law was made more stringent.
8687. Do you think if imprisonment were imposed as the penalty, instead of a fine, it would help to cure the evil? Well really I do not think so, because these gambling-houses are run by syndicates, and the employees would suffer and not the real proprietors, who pay the employees so much per week. 8688.

Mr.
T. Quealy.
26 Oct., 1891.

8688. The employer walks about and enjoys himself, whilst the unfortunate fellows who run these dens are the victims? That is my opinion.
8689. Has the system ever been explained to you by any of the respectable Chinese merchants? No.
8690. You have not formed your opinion on any conversation you have had with respectable Chinese merchants down that end of the town? No; but I have been told so by other Chinamen who keep the gambling-houses.
8691. You have been told so by the Chinese gamblers themselves? Yes.
8692. And you came to the conclusion that the members of these syndicates behind the scenes were the men who reaped the benefits of the traffic? Yes.
8693. Did you at any time ever have any oyster-suppers in any of these gambling-houses? No; never in my life.
8694. Have you seen Senior-constables Carson and Beadman enter these dens at any time? Yes; I have seen them enter.
8695. Were they on intimate terms with some of these gamblers, do you know? Not to my knowledge.
8696. You have not seen Carson and Beadman hobnobbing with them? Never.
8697. Do both of these officers bear good characters in the police? Yes.
8698. Have you ever heard of any presents being made to any members of the police force at any time? No; I never heard of it.
8699. Not in the shape of chests of tea, or anything of that kind? No.
8700. Have you seen boys going into these Chinese gambling-houses to buy pak-ah-pu tickets? Yes.
8701. Any girls? No; I have only seen the girls that live with the Chinese.
8702. Prostitutes? Yes.
8703. But you have seen boys enter these places? Yes; boys, of from 14 to 15 years of age, or perhaps a year or two older.
8704. Is it not a fact that a number of larrikins are employed by the Chinese down in that quarter? No; they do not like them.
8705. Is it not a fact then that they employ Europeans to give them the office when the police are coming? Yes; I think it is.
8706. They live on the Chinese? Yes.
8707. And through that the police are often baffled? Yes.
8708. They go up near to where the police are and overhear conversations, and give the Chinamen the tip? Yes.
8709. Is there a large amount of prostitution carried on in the lower Chinese quarters of that portion of George-street? I do not think so.
8710. Is there much on the Rocks? Very little.
8711. Have you known of any respectable young girls being decoyed by the Chinese down there? No.
8712. You did not enter their places very often, did you? Sometimes, when looking after sailors.
8713. Were the sanitary conditions of these places fairly good? Yes; they were pretty clean.
8714. Did you see much opium-smoking on the premises? Oh, yes; a great deal of opium-smoking.
8715. Have you ever seen any Europeans lying on the Chinese beds, under the influence of opium? I have.
8716. Any women? Yes; I have seen some women.
8717. Have you seen any disgraceful scenes or orgies going on in these opium-dens? No.
8718. How many gambling-houses are there in Lower George-street, to the best of your knowledge? I think I counted twenty-four or twenty-five.
8719. Were there that many when you entered the police force in that part of the city? Yes; I should think there would be.
8720. In how many of these dens, to the best of your knowledge, do Europeans gamble? In all of them.
8721. You think there are the same number of these places now as there were when you joined the force? Yes.
8722. There might be a few more or less? Yes.
8723. Do you think, as a man of the world, that if Europeans were to carry on gambling as openly as the Chinese have done there, the police authorities would have taken action long before such a time had elapsed, and checked it? I should think they would.
8724. Have you had any conversation with any of the police since this Commission was appointed, or since you left the police force, relative to the Commission? Not to my recollection.
8725. Did no one ever speak you in a casual way about it, such as to say, "I see your name is also one of those who have received bribes";—did anyone speak to you in that strain? They might have said so; I cannot exactly say. I have met a few of them. In the course of conversation they probably did say it, but I cannot recollect.
8726. To whom did you have a talk on the subject? A few of the men who came in to see me.
8727. Of the police force? Yes.
8728. Belonging to the same district? Yes.
8729. You cannot recollect whether any conversation of the nature I have described took place? I cannot say. In fact I never took any particular interest in the thing myself. I never thought I should be called as a witness.
8730. Have you noticed any large numbers of people going into these gambling-houses on Saturday afternoon? Yes, hundreds. About two years ago the various houses were very much frequented.
8731. Previous to that, large numbers used to go in and out there regularly—it used to be like a fair down there, was it not? Yes, sometimes.
8732. Do you not think if this evil were suppressed the effect upon the community, and especially those who frequent these dens, would be highly beneficial? I do.
8733. The effect of the gambling mania there has been to reduce many families to destitute circumstances, I believe? Yes.
8734. Have poor women appealed to you whose husbands have been spending their time and substance in these dens? They have sometimes complained to me about their husbands going there.

[The witness withdrew.]

Gerald Sibthorpe recalled and examined:—

- G. Sibthorpe. 8735. Mr. Hawthorne.] (Pointing to Thos. Quealy.) Is that the man you referred to in your evidence? Yes.
 26 Oct., 1891. 8736. Whatever you stated had reference to him? Yes.
 8737. Mr. Abigail.] With reference to the production of the evidence to Thos. Quealy, did he ask you to bring a copy? I would not be sure—he might have done so.
 8738. How long is it since you brought the evidence down to him? It is about four or five weeks ago.
 8739. Do you think the early part of this month would be about the time? Before that I should say.
 8740. Are you quite sure upon the point that he never asked you to bring it down? No; he may have done.
 8741. Did you think you were doing wrong in bringing down that evidence? No; I thought it was all worked off.
 8742. Where did you get it? In the water-closet.
 8743. Was it a dirty-looking copy? No.
 8744. Do they usually take documents of that kind for use in the water-closets? It may be sometimes the sheets are spoiled, and they are thrown out.
 8745. What size was the printed paper you took down to him? The size of a sheet.
 8746. What would you call that in printer's phraseology? Foolscap.
 8747. Did you hand him the paper to read when you went down with it? No; I only showed it to him.
 8748. Did you ask for Thos. Quealy? He was there. I said to him, "Is this you?" referring to the evidence, and he said, "Yes; can you get me a copy?" I said, "I do not know whether it is printed off or not."
 8749. Did you make any remark as to whether you were justified in doing what you did? No.
 8750. You did not admit that you were doing wrong? Not to him.
 8751. How is it that you did not leave the copy with him if you thought there was no harm in it? I thought when he wanted it that perhaps it had not been laid on the table of Parliament.
 8752. Then, was it not until he asked you to give him a copy of the evidence that it struck you were producing a document that ought not to have left the Government Printing Office? I suppose so.
 8753. What did you do with the copy? I tore it up.
 8754. You did not leave a copy with him? No; in fact I only showed him one line.
 8755. Did he take it in his hand and read it? No; it was lying on the table. I had heard a lot about Quealy from people on the Rocks.
 8756. How came you there? I had friends there.
 8757. And how came you to talk about him? They had been down to his hotel, and asked me if I knew Quealy. I said "Yes"; and they then said he gave his own brother six months.
 8758. Was that the policeman? Yes.
 8759. This conversation took place when you visited the Rocks? Yes.
 8760. You were discussing the evidence you had been setting up in type? No.
 8761. Are you now aware that you committed a very great act of indiscretion in showing this evidence as you did? I am now, yes. It did not occur to me at the time.

[The witness withdrew.]

TUESDAY, 27 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY McKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Senior-sergeant Bartholomew Higgins called and examined:—

- Sen.-sergt. 8762. President.] You are a senior-sergeant of police? Yes.
 Higgins. 8763. How long have you been a senior-sergeant? Eight years, I think.
 27 Oct., 1891. 8764. How long have you been in the police force altogether? I have been in the New South Wales police twenty-seven years and three months.
 8765. When were you first located in Lower George-street? Twenty-five years ago this week. I came from Cockatoo Island there.
 8766. And you have been a senior-sergeant for eight years? Yes; I believe I have been a non-commissioned officer for eighteen years altogether.
 8767. I suppose you are familiar with your district generally? Yes.
 8768. What particular part of it do you specially patrol? Generally in George-street, because the station is there; but I am not confined to any part.
 8769. Lower George-street being the principal avenue, you patrol that more than any other part, as a rule? Yes; more particularly in the early part of the night.
 8770. In the course of your duties, sergeant, you will have discovered that there are a number of Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes, there are.
 8771. When did you first make that discovery? Well it has been off and on, as it were, for some years.
 8772. I suppose it would be five years, at least? Yes; I dare say.
 8773. Do you think there were as many of these places in existence five years ago as there were (say) six months ago? Well I think we had more gambling then, but not in Lower George-street.
 8774. There were not so many gambling-places in Lower George-street? No.
 8775. They were situated in other parts then? Yes; on the Rocks and in Queen-street. I may say that new houses have been built in Lower George-street, and these have been a considerable time to let before the Chinese occupied them, and then some of them became gambling-houses.
 8776. Then it is within your knowledge that within the last five years gambling-houses have increased in number in Lower George-street? Yes; in the way I have explained to you.

8777.

8777. Now, do you receive any instructions from your superior officer with regard to these gambling-houses? Yes; I have received instructions with regard to them.
8778. Will you state to the Commission what those instructions have been? On some occasions we have got out warrants for them.
8779. Were any instructions given you to visit these places, that is what I want to know? Yes.
8780. And you did visit them? I may tell you, sir, that we did get direct instructions with regard to the gambling-houses, and I got general instructions with regard to immorality or whatever it might be that was carried on in that quarter.
8781. Then, in consequence of these instructions, and in the exercise of your duty, you did visit these places? Yes; I visited the houses in the back streets at least twice a week, and the places in George-street I visited more frequently.
8782. And I suppose you reported to your superior officer when you discovered that any gambling was going on? Yes.
8783. What action did he take upon your report? He procured warrants to enter the houses.
8784. Who is your superior officer? Inspector Atwill.
8785. He procured the warrants? He did on several occasions.
8786. How many times, within your knowledge, during the last five years has Inspector Atwill applied for warrants to enter these houses? I cannot say how many.
8787. Can you not give an idea? No, sir. You see this is a police matter, and it would not be well for it to go forth to the world. It is a very delicate duty we have to perform, and we want to keep our method of operations as private as possible. If I give you all the information about these warrants I suppose the evidence will be published, and the persons affected will know that the warrants are in existence.
8788. That is a matter of public policy with which you have nothing to do; for the purposes of this inquiry it is necessary that you should answer the question I have put to you? You will excuse me, sir, if I point out that there are some things in connection with the operations of the police which to let the world know would frustrate the ends of justice. For instance, say I am in search of a man suspected of having committed a criminal offence, and I have a warrant for his arrest, if that becomes known it will be harder for me to get that man.
8789. I am talking about the warrants issued in respect of gambling-houses only;—how many times, within your knowledge, has your superior officer obtained warrants to enable you to make visits or raids upon any of the Chinese gambling-houses in your district? Well, I think I could safely say about ten times within the last five years, and perhaps more. Not having the record with me, I do not like to state the exact number.
8790. You think probably ten? Yes, but several on each occasion.
8791. How many raids were you present at during the time mentioned? I was present at every one of those, with the exception of one, and that was made without a warrant.
8792. Is it legal to make a raid without a warrant? No.
8793. Are you quite satisfied of that? I am.
8794. Under what circumstances was the raid made without a warrant, and, therefore, as you say, illegally? Well we had a few inexperienced constables on the beat, who went in one evening, and seeing a few Chinese playing amongst themselves, brought them to the police station.
8795. How many raids were you present at? At least nine.
8796. Were they all successful? Yes; in all what I call raids we have been successful. But several times we have attempted to make raids and were not successful, but we did not show ourselves. In making these raids we have to be very particular. The police station is watched, and they have a very good idea when they see any strangers about. It makes them careful. The men have to be disguised to get into these places, and then it is with the greatest difficulty we can obtain an entrance. On one occasion we had to go from Queen-street through an unoccupied house, and from that through an old window on to a brick wall, and in that way crawled on hands and knees to the roof of the gambling-house. When I gave the signal my mate came down through the skylight and jumped on to the centre of the table where the men were gambling. We had a great deal of trouble that night.
8797. What raid was that? It was at Sam Kee's, in Lower George-street. We made two raids on that house.
8798. You are sure that not less than nine raids have been made during the time you have mentioned? Yes; I am quite sure of that. Of course I am not confining myself to a month either way in the statement, as I am speaking from memory.
8799. What has been the direct result of those raids;—how many people did you apprehend, for instance? In some cases we caught ten or twenty, or perhaps thirty, and on the last occasion fifty.
8800. Did you secure convictions against all of them? Yes; in all but one. In that case the defendants proved to the satisfaction of the magistrate that the house was a club, and so the prosecution failed.
8801. Then your experience went to show that once having obtained access there was no difficulty in securing a conviction? Yes.
8802. In those cases you have mentioned were the defendants fined? Yes.
8803. Were they fined heavily? The fines, I think, ranged from £2 up to £20 or £30. The croupier and the banker were fined the same.
8804. The others who were present were fined £2 each? Yes.
8805. So that those raids were in all cases successful, inasmuch as prosecutions and convictions resulted from them? Yes; they were very successful, considering all the difficulties we had to contend against.
8806. When was the last raid made? A couple of months ago.
8807. When was the raid before that made? There was not one before that for a considerable time; but I must tell you this, that we had several warrants, not less than ten, I suppose, in readiness, and in several instances the men were told to be in readiness at the station at a certain hour, although they were not told for what particular business. I was sent along with Constable Adair to find out if the coast was clear for us to get in, or to find men to assist us in getting in. But circumstances were not always favourable, and when I would report the matter to Mr. Atwill he would simply let the men go without telling them the business that had been in hand.
8808. You had to get witnesses? Yes.
8809. You had to prepare some one to gain access to the gambling-house and give you the signal? Yes.

Sen.-sergt.
Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.

8810. And it was because you could not complete your arrangements in that way on the occasions you have just referred to that the projected raids were abandoned? That is the case.

8811. Coming back to the main question, when was the second last successful raid made? Nearly two years ago.

8812. About two years elapsed between the last raid and the previous successful raid to that? Yes. I may say at that time we had several warrants out, for the purpose of making raids if possible; and that raid would not have been successful but for the assistance of certain civilians whose names I am not at liberty to mention.

8813. It is always necessary to have the assistance of a civilian to ensure that the raids shall be successful? Yes; either a civilian or a policeman in plain clothes who has never been seen about the neighbourhood. We have great difficulty in getting into these places, for the Chinamen are continually on the alert, and they watch the police station very closely. In many cases the watchmen are Europeans. Cases have come to my knowledge where Europeans have been paid to watch the police station.

8814. Follow me for a moment;—you have already stated that you procured convictions against a number of these people, and that fines of £2 were inflicted upon the persons who were present in these places when you made the raids? Yes.

8815. Now can you show me the necessity of a civilian being inside to give you a signal when you have a warrant to enter these places and arrest the people you find there and get them fined, as you say, £2 for being present, that is, whether they play or not? It is necessary, because we must prove that the game was being played in the house. We are not allowed to trust to imagination. We must produce evidence to prove that it is a gambling-house, and that gambling was going on at the time.

8816. And being played when the people were assembled there? Yes. It will not do to give hearsay evidence; you must swear it on oath.

8817. If you broke in, having no assistant or confederate inside, and found the people assembled there, would that not be evidence sufficient to secure a conviction? Not in my opinion.

8818. In organising these raids your superior officer has always endeavoured to have sufficient evidence to procure convictions as the result of the raids? He did in all cases.

8819. How many times between the second last and the last successful raid do you think warrants were in the hands of the police to make contemplated raids, which raids had to be abandoned? We had warrants all the time.

8820. What is the life of one of these warrants? I think during the reign of Her Majesty, or the life of the magistrate who signs it.

8821. I thought they were limited in their duration—that they must be executed within a certain time from date of issue? I am not aware of that. If it is so I do not know of it. It may be so of course. I have not charge of the warrants.

8822. Have you any reason to believe that the Chinese gambling-housekeepers have procured information from members of the police force as to projected raids upon their establishments? No. I cannot say how they get their information. But unless they do get information from some source they must be prophets.

8823. They are generally alive to the fact when a raid is projected? Yes; they always seem to know it.

8824. Can you account for that knowledge in any way? No; it has often puzzled me, and annoyed me very much.

8825. Do you think they could have known anything in the case of the last successful raid? I think not, because we had men in there and they came out again. We tried to get men in disguised in plain clothes. I was disguised myself, watching some little distance away, and I saw our men refused admittance; they were pushed back.

8826. Does not that go to show that the Chinese there must have obtained some information of the projected raid on that occasion? Well I have not that impression. At all events if they had they must have been prophets, as it was certainly not from the police.

8827. Do they generally grant admission to the civilians who wish to enter? No, not unless they are known. I have seen civilians turned out.

8828. Supposing I were to go down there at night do you think it probable that they would allow me to enter? They might, or they might not.

8829. You know they do refuse admission to civilians sometimes? Yes. In twenty or thirty instances at least; I have seen it myself. I have gone round those places with gentlemen sometimes.

8830. But, generally, I suppose Europeans have no difficulty in obtaining admission? Their customers have no difficulty of course.

8831. Cannot wharf labourers and seafaring men, and people of that class, obtain permission easily? Generally speaking, yes; but I have seen some of these even refused.

8832. Have you ever sought to ascertain why they refused these particular people admission? Yes. I have asked some of them, and they have said they will not let them in—that is all. I suppose they have suspected them.

8833. How many gambling-houses are there in Lower George-street to your knowledge? There are four or five where Europeans are admitted. There are other houses used as shops of various kinds where the Chinese play amongst themselves. In this class of house they are exclusively Chinese. They play there perhaps a sociable game merely, and perhaps also for money.

8834. Including the shops where they sell lottery-tickets with the ordinary gambling-houses where the Europeans play and those confined to Chinese gamblers, in Lower George-street, how many shops would you say there are devoted to gambling? I think there are about fifteen or sixteen altogether.

8835. Are you quite sure you could not count twenty? Yes. I am quite sure there are nothing like thirty. I had a list of them made out not long ago. I can almost count them over now from memory.

8836. In the fifteen or sixteen you have in your mind I suppose you do not include certain shops that carry on a legitimate business, and yet have a room in which they do practice gaming? I do not think there are many shops in Lower George-street carrying on a legitimate business in which gambling is allowed. We have some very respectable merchants down there.

8837. Yes we know that, but it is possible that some shops may combine trade with gambling? Yes. There are some shops which sell fruit, and cook-shops, in which there are rooms where the Chinese gamble amongst themselves. There is no doubt of that.

8838. Have you ever seen any women go into these gambling-shops? Very seldom.

8839. Any children? No children. But I have seen young lads go into these places to buy tickets, and I have turned them out.
8840. Have you ever attempted to prosecute the keepers of these places for selling lottery-tickets? No.
8841. Why not? Because, so far as I can ascertain—and inquiry has been made about the matter—there is no law to meet the case.
8842. Do you not know that a conviction has recently been sustained against a person for selling lottery-tickets? I do not know that as regards lottery-tickets.
8843. Pak-ah-pu tickets? No, I never knew that.
8844. The general impression in your mind, and in that of your superior officer, is that a prosecution will not succeed as against anyone for selling lottery-tickets? Yes, sir; that is my impression.
8845. Has your superior officer expressed to you an opinion of that kind? No.
8846. Has he ever instructed you to proceed against these people for selling lottery-tickets? No.
8847. Has he ever had a conversation with you on the subject? Well, I suppose he must have; but I cannot remember particularly.
8848. What is the impression on your mind? My impression is that Mr. Atwill has been under the impression that the law will not reach them.
8849. As a matter of fact you yourself have never instituted proceedings against the proprietors of places where lottery-tickets have been sold? No.
8850. And for the reason you have stated? Yes; I may say there are a number of these lottery-shops, where people go to buy tickets, and not to play fan-tan, and the Chinamen may be gambling in some back-room where we can't see them.
8851. Do you say positively that there are only sixteen shops in Lower George-street, where they have the lottery as well as fan-tan? There might be more, perhaps seventeen or eighteen.
8852. There would not be thirty in your opinion? No, sir; it is a mistake.
8853. Do you know Yee Sang Loong, No. 126, Lower George-street? I know the number.
8854. Is that a gaming-house? I cannot say from memory.
8855. Do you know Doung Lee, No. 164? Yes; I know the place.
8856. It belongs to Way Kee? Yes; on the lower side of Way Kee. I should know, for I nearly got killed there.
8857. Under what circumstances? In making a raid.
8858. How long ago was that? About two or three years ago; I was holding two Chinamen on the stairs, and they were trying to get away from me, and I was hanging over the banisters—a drop of 10 or 12 feet. I do not say they assaulted me, but they struggled to get away, till Adair came to my assistance. I got hurt a little on that occasion, but it might have been worse.
8859. That was a rough gaming-house? Just among themselves. No Europeans were allowed in these to gamble. I never saw a European.
8860. Do you know Han Kee's, No. 166? Yes, well.
8861. Is it a gaming-house? Among themselves. I never saw Europeans gambling there.
8862. Is that one of the gambling-houses you have in your mind, when you quote sixteen as the number of such places in Lower George-street? Yes.
8863. Is there any gambling done at Way Kee's own place? No.
8864. Do you know Pun Num's, next to Parker's? Yes.
8865. Is that a gaming-house? They may gamble among themselves, but it is not what I would call a gambling-house.
8866. There are two houses there? Yes; I have been over them frequently. There is a cook-shop down-stairs in one of them.
8867. There are four houses there adjoining Felton and Nock's; do you know them? Yes; I know them well.
8868. Are they gambling-houses? Yes; for gambling amongst themselves; but I think there are some of them to let now—one or two. One of these houses I tried several times to enter to make a raid. On different occasions I went to the place with my mate, and found it in darkness, and no gaming going on at all.
8869. You are quite sure that the number of gambling-houses in Lower George-street would not exceed sixteen in number? I cannot swear that.
8870. But you do not believe there are thirty? No; I do not.
8871. Did you read the account of the deputation that waited upon Sir Henry Parkes on the 30th July last? I read a little of it, and some of it was read to me.
8872. Did you notice that it was stated by one of the deputation that there were thirty-six houses in Lower George-street occupied by Chinese as gambling-houses? Yes.
8873. Did you ever seek to check the statement, and see if it was correct? I have nothing to do with the statements made there. Some of them were so extraordinary that I would take no notice of them.
8874. What particular statements do you refer to? One statement, that the police were receiving 2d. from every 1s. in these gambling-houses, or something to that effect; and another about the police being presented with diamond rings and watches, and that sort of thing.
8875. You admit that the Chinese gambling-houses have increased somewhat during the last five years? Well they have in Lower George-street; but they have not increased in number in the district.
8876. Not in other parts of your district? No.
8877. But in Lower George-street they have, you say? Yes.
8878. Does not that imply that the practice of gambling must have been on the increase—the number of gamblers must have been greater? I cannot think that they have been on the increase.
8879. I did not mean the number of houses but the number of gamblers? Well I would not say it has increased, because, in the first place, there are not nearly the number of Chinese in the district that we had at one time. There are only 500 there now, and I can recollect when we had over 800.
8880. Have you heard that as many as 500 Europeans have been turned out of the gambling-houses between (say) Way Kee's place and Argyle-street? I have never heard it, nor do I believe it.
8881. Would you be surprised to know that some one has sworn to having seen 500 people turned out of the gambling-houses between Felton and Nock's shop and Argyle-street? I never heard or saw such a thing.

- Senr.-sergt. Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.
8882. If such a thing had occurred it would have come to your ears, I suppose, as a matter of scandal, in the course of conversation, or otherwise? I would have seen it, or known of it. I do not believe there have ever been so many people in these places gambling at one time. The only people I have seen turned out of these shops have been young people, those whom I and my mate have turned out.
8883. Tell us the largest number of persons you have seen in one of these gambling-houses which are frequented by Europeans—the largest number assembled in a room at one time? In the front shops I have seen as many as ten or twelve; I cannot speak as to the back-rooms.
8884. Have you not been in there when they have been playing fan-tan? Only on one occasion accidentally. They are exceedingly cautious.
8885. They do not allow you to enter? No.
8886. Other policemen have been allowed to enter, have they not? No. The only constables I ever knew to gain admission were new to the neighbourhood.
8887. Plain-clothes constables would be allowed in, would they not? No; they must go in disguise, or be strange to the district.
8888. You only got admission to the inner room on one occasion, you say? Yes; and that, as I have said, was quite accidentally.
8889. How many did you find assembled there? I found ten or fifteen there, and they all bolted as soon as they saw my face—they ran up-stairs, and down-stairs, and everywhere. I had no warrant on that occasion.
8890. You have been present at a number of raids? Yes; I have been present at all the raids but one.
8891. Have you ever made a raid when they have been disturbed in the game, and you have disturbed them? Yes.
8892. What becomes of the money on the table? The officer-in-charge—that is Mr. Atwill—would take the money, or tell me to. The money is gathered up, and placed in a handkerchief, and it is afterwards counted in the office, and placed in the safe at the station. The money is produced in Court, and confiscated. The personal property found on the prisoners at the time is returned to them.
8893. The money has been taken off the table by the officers on each occasion? Yes; and that money has been confiscated. I have always had charge of the money myself. Mr. Atwill has said to me: "You take charge of it, and take it down to the station."
8894. The money is taken direct to the police-station and counted? Yes.
8895. Can you give any idea of the sums of money that you have taken off the table on the occasion of any of these raids at which you were present? I dare say from £5 to £20, or perhaps more. But I think £20 would be the largest amount.
8896. You do not think it exceeded £20 on any occasion? No, I do not think so. If I had known you would require the information I could have come prepared, because we have all the records of these things at the police station.
8897. Do you know anything about the rents paid in Lower George-street? Well I have not any knowledge as to what each man pays.
8898. You have some general idea? Yes.
8899. Comparing the present time with the state of things down there five years ago do you think the gambling-houses have increased much? I should think they have decreased in the district generally.
8900. As a matter of fact the shops are not so readily let at the old rentals now? No.
8901. Do you attribute that to the fact of so many of these shops being used as gambling-houses? That might have an effect, but very slight, I should say.
8902. Or would you consider it reasonable to suppose that the rents generally have increased by reason of the Chinese wanting to obtain possession of the houses for gambling purposes? Well I believe the Chinamen pay more rent for the places occupied by them than the European tenants.
8903. Would that have the effect of increasing the rents generally? No, I should say it would only affect the particular house.
8904. Is it not a fact that they fancy these houses because they are well adapted for gambling purposes? I suppose it is because they occupy a good stand in the neighbourhood; but it is a mistake to say that they have increased of late years. Business has gone out of that end of the town altogether.
8905. Would it have decreased to a greater extent by the Chinese generally occupying that part of the city? It would, of course, if the place became a Chinese town altogether, because our people would not settle amongst them.
8906. When, five years ago, people went to catch the Manly Beach steamers was it not their custom to pass down that part of George-street? Yes.
8907. Do they do so now? Well some do, and others go down Pitt-street.
8908. Have you noticed much diminution in the passenger traffic in that part of the city during the last five years? Not so much of foot passengers as the vehicular traffic. This may be accounted for by the shipping business being more scattered and removed to a large extent from that end of the town. When I first went there the shipping nearly all came to Circular Quay and Miller's Point, but now it nearly all goes up Darling Harbour. Circular Quay is used almost entirely by the ferry-boats from different parts of the harbour, and the passengers who arrive and depart by them use the trams or 'buses and go up Pitt and Castlereagh-street. Then at one time the people on North Shore used to come across to deal with the shops in Lower George-street, but now there are large shops on the Northern Shore which supply all the wants of the local residents; and, consequently, this trade, which was considerable, has almost entirely disappeared from Lower George-street.
8909. You think the business traffic has largely fallen off by reason of the development of trade in other parts of the metropolis? Yes, that is the principal cause.
8910. What class of Europeans generally frequent these Chinese gambling-houses and buy lottery-tickets? Generally labouring men, mechanics, and seafaring men.
8911. Is it within your knowledge that a great deal of distress occurs among the families of these men as the result of their gambling habits? Yes; indeed I have often cautioned them not to go to these places. For instance, I have known a man to make a big win—say £50 or £60, and I have said to him, "Now be satisfied and do not go back there any more." Then he has said, "Oh, I will go back and try another 5s.;" and I have met him in a month's time without a penny. There are plenty of cases like that.
8912. In order to bring about the suppression of this gambling evil do you think that the police should be be clothed with greater powers than they have at the present time? I do; it is now only half a law so to speak.

Sen.-sergt.
Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.

8913-14. In what direction would you recommend an amendment of the present law? I think, where the police are in a position to show that any particular place is a gambling-house, that they should have the power to arrest on sight, without a warrant. There are so many difficulties in the way of getting into these places at present. We have to get men and fit them up—disguise them, and we have to break through the doors and windows with crow-bars. The last time we made a raid my mate had to go up a ladder and break a window, and get through that way. He might have lost his life.

8915. Was Kearney an associate of yours? Yes; for some years.

8916. Was he present at any raids? Yes.

8917. Did he sustain an injury at any of them? No; not at a raid.

8918. How was he injured? We were after a burglar in Lower George-street. We knew that the robbery was planned from the roof of the house, and we kept watch for him. He came, and we chased him along the roof of the house; we had kept our boots on, and when we came to a slippery part of the roof Kearney lost his hold. I tried to grab him, but missed doing so, and he fell a distance of 30 feet, breaking his leg. After pursuing the fellow some distance further I came down to Kearney, and had him conveyed to the hospital.

8919. You found great difficulty in getting into the gambling-houses at that time? Yes; it was as hard as it would be to enter a gaol almost.

8920. You have had to make entrance to these places from the roofs and windows? Yes.

8921. And that is attended with great danger? Yes; my mate had to get through the skylight on one occasion, and carried away the gas fixings with his legs in his descent.

8922. And you think that when you find people assembled in these places the fact of there being there when gambling is going on should be sufficient to convict them? Yes; imagine that we take a number of these persons to court to-morrow. The three principals—the doorkeeper, banker and croupier, will be disposed of right away, but the others have to be discharged, and we have to get summonses ready to serve upon them to appear at a certain time. You cannot legally detain these people in the meantime—they are in the yard, and can walk away. If we lay hands on them they can charge us with assault.

8923. You have to summons them after? Yes.

8924. And in your opinion that is a roundabout proceeding? Yes; undoubtedly. In one case we had thirty men in the yard of the police court, and their lawyer came and told us to let them out. We nevertheless kept them there till we served them, but we did wrong in doing so.

8925. Is there any immorality between the sexes practised in these Chinese habitations? No; they are free from that.

8926. Is the sanitary condition of the places down there fairly good? Yes; most of them being new houses, I think it is fairly good.

8927. In your district is there much prostitution brought about by the presence of the Chinese there? Not directly. I am prepared to say that of my own knowledge of the Chinese there. There are women, tired of their lives on the streets, who go to the Chinese, and live among them for a kind of asylum, or home.

8928. Then in your opinion, there is no connection between the Chinese gambling and any immorality that exists in your district? Not the slightest in the world. I am in a position to speak on that point, because it is a part of my duty to visit these houses for the purpose of ascertaining if any immorality is carried on there.

8929. You have been a long time in Lower George-street;—have you ever heard of the existence of Chinese secret societies? I have.

8930. Did you ever hear anything with regard to the objects of the societies, or what they were? Well, I heard they were a kind of Guild, and I have also heard that they have a kind of Masonic order amongst them.

8931. Did you ever hear that the object of one of these societies was to maintain a fund to defend its members against the police? I have heard of that, but I would not call that a society.

8932. You have heard of a combination of Chinamen for that purpose? I have heard that there was so much kept back from every £ of the winnings in these gambling-houses to pay the lawyers in such cases, and I think it is the case.

8933. Did you ever hear that the money was used for the purpose of corrupting the police—making them valuable presents? I have heard that within the last fortnight or a month, and I was very much astonished, too. As it's false.

8934. It came upon you as a surprise? Yes. I felt very uneasy, and anxious, too. I am now twenty-five years down in that division, and I felt it very much.

8935. You read the account of the deputation that waited upon Sir Henry Parkes in relation to the Chinese gambling question? I read a portion of the paper, and threw it away in disgust.

8936. I suppose the police come and go in your division—that is, they are shifted from one division to another from time to time? Yes; I do not suppose we have four men in the division who have seen three years service there.

8937. The ordinary length of service in the present force is three years? Yes; about that. It may be more or less.

8938. In the course of your twenty-five years' service has it ever occurred that a policeman has been dismissed for neglecting his duty in not prosecuting the Chinese for any offence whatever? No; not to my knowledge.

8939. Has any constable or police officer ever been dismissed or removed for accepting presents of any kind from the Chinese? I have never heard of it, and I do not think such a case has occurred.

8940. In no case has any member of the police force been dismissed for neglecting his duty in reference to the Chinese residents in your district? I never knew of a case.

8941. What was Constable Quealy dismissed for? Drunkenness.

8942. Is it within your knowledge that the police prefer the Lower George-street division to any other district in Sydney? No; it is quite the reverse.

8943. Is it within your knowledge that the ordinary constables on that beat have become possessed of jewellery, or expensive watches and chains, that would appear to be inconsistent with their position as wage-earners

- Sen.-sergt. Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.
- wage-earners of the class? That would be a private matter entirely. I have heard statements made about that, but it has never come to my knowledge, nor do I believe it.
8944. Is it the custom for the Chinese to make presents to their neighbours about new year's time? Yes; I believe so.
8945. Have you received presents from them? I have not.
8946. Such as a chest of tea, for instance? I had one brought to my place by Mr. Moy Mow's son some ten or twelve years ago. He was a merchant in Lower George-street. I think I did some slight service to his father-in-law, and the next Christmas a little boy brought a chest of tea, and, I think, a jar of ginger to my place. I did not accept it.
8947. What was the value of the chest of tea? I do not know—I never bought one in my life. I may say, sir, that from the day I joined the police to the present time I have kept my hands entirely unfettered so far as receiving an obligation from anyone.
8948. Who was it that sent you this tea? Mr. Moy Mow. He is now dead.
8949. Was he in any way connected with Chinese gambling? No; or if he was I never knew of it.
8950. Have you ever waived your duty in regard to that man or anyone else as a police officer? Never in my life.
8951. What was the service you say you rendered him? I scarcely remember; but I imagine I chased away a number of boys who were pelting stones at the old man, or something of that kind. The old man used to live in Harrington-street; he died there—he was 80 or 90 years of age when he died.
8952. Was that the only case in which a present was made to you? There was some tea left at my place afterwards—a half-chest, and when I got home my wife asked me if I had bought any tea. I said no, and asked her who left it. She replied that some Chinaman had brought it. I reported the matter at the time to my superior officer.
8953. To whom did you report it—name the officer? Mr. Atwill. He said if it was not claimed to bring it down to the police station. I brought it down and left it there.
8954. Were those all the presents you ever received down there? Yes.
8955. And you never received any that you did not report to your superior officer? No.
8956. Have you brought all your personal jewellery with you? No, sir.
8957. You have no diamond rings with you? I never had one in my life.
8958. Have you got any jewellery? No; I have a watch and chain, and that I bought.
8959. Then the statements made by members of the deputation to the Premier about presents of jewellery being made to the police, so far as you are concerned, were entirely without foundation? Yes, entirely.
8960. And that is so with regard to the police generally, so far as you know? I think so, undoubtedly.
8961. You have not observed any of your men becoming rich out of proportion to your salary? No.
8962. Now, Sergeant Higgins, I understand you are a comparatively wealthy man? I wish I was.
8963. But you have acquired some means? I have a good deal of stock.
8964. What kind of stock? I have nine children.
8965. You have some houses have you not? Yes, I have some houses.
8966. Would you mind telling me what property you have? It is well-known I have ten houses.
8967. Ten houses altogether? I have also a couple of little shanties over at Lane Cove; but you would not call them houses.
8968. Let us first deal with the houses you have in Sydney;—where is your property situated? In Gloucester-street and Playfair-street.
8969. What is the total gross rent of them? I think about £8 per week.
8970. Out of that you have to pay the taxes, I suppose? Yes; but I am scarcely able to pay them just now.
8971. What other property have you? I have land over at Lane Cove.
8972. How many acres? About 5 acres.
8973. What did these ten houses in Sydney cost you? They cost me a good deal, some of them, and others very little.
8974. How long have you had them? I have had some fifteen or sixteen years, and others less than that. I built some only a few years ago.
8975. Will you please to tell me how you acquired that property? I bought the Playfair-street property from Richardson and Wrench—that is the Playfair-street frontage, the land running back to Gloucester-street, and I built two houses there, borrowing the money to do so. I may tell you that I had about £160 when I came to No. 4 station.
8976. You had £160 twenty-five years ago? Yes.
8977. And you bought some land in Playfair-street? Yes, running back to Gloucester-street.
8978. Did you buy the land cheap? Yes, I gave £6 a foot for the one frontage.
8979. But the land really had a double frontage? Yes.
8980. How many houses did you build on the land? Five.
8981. Had you enough money of your own to build the houses? No.
8982. You had to borrow the money? Yes, all the money.
8983. Can you tell us what firm lent you the money? The firm of Billyard & Co.
8984. I lent you the money? Yes; and I think, sir, you know well how I got every shilling I have almost.
8985. It is necessary that we should have it in evidence, Mr. Higgins—you say you borrowed the money? Yes; I did.
8986. Did you work at the buildings yourself during your spare time? Yes; I worked when off duty by candle light, and before daylight in the morning.
8987. You never had a charge of neglecting duty preferred against you? No; never.
8988. The first enterprise you entered on was the building of those houses fronting Playfair-street? Yes.
8989. And after that you built in Gloucester-street? Yes.
8990. And you borrowed the money, and gave a mortgage over the property? I did.
8991. Is the mortgage paid off yet? No.
8992. This land—5 acres—you have at North Shore;—how much per acre did you give for that? I bought some of that land for £200, and £90 for the remainder.
8993. What was the cost of the 5 acres? Nearly £800.
8994. Is that unencumbered? Yes.

Sen.-sergt.
Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.

8995. Did you buy any property at auction for £3,000 or £4,000 within the last twelve months? No.
8996. Did you buy any property at all within the last twelve months? No; it is about fifteen months ago.
8997. What property is that? A piece of land at Lane Cove.
8998. Is that part of the 5 acres you have mentioned? Yes.
8999. And that is all the property you have got? Yes; that is all.
9000. It is not true that you paid Richardson and Wrench £3,000 or £4,000 for a terrace of houses? Certainly not. It's false.
9001. What is the age of your eldest child? Twenty-two years this week.
9002. Has your family been assisting you in your battle of life? They have done the best they could; but they are not able to do it. Most of them are little girls. I have six daughters.
9003. Is your wife alive? She is.
9004. And all your children are at home? Yes.
9005. You have no servant in your household? No; my wife has done all the work of our house, and brought up nine children, without any servant.
9006. I suppose the value of your houses has increased considerably, seeing that you bought the land cheap? Yes; in Playfair-street it has trebled in value.
9007. What is your pay now? I receive 10s. 6d. a day.
9008. How long have you had that? Eight years.
9009. What was your pay before that? Nine shillings a day.
9010. Were you married before you entered the service? No.
9011. How long after you joined was your marriage? Five years.
9012. And I suppose you added to your savings every year? Yes.
9013. When you commenced your building operations you had some money I suppose? I had enough to buy the land.
9014. You are paid for seven days in the week? Yes.
9015. Is the house you live in your own? It is.
9016. Where is it situated? In Gloucester-street.
9017. It is one of a block of houses? Yes.
9018. Mr. Abigail.] Is it a fact that anyone can go into these gambling-houses where fan-tan is being played—that they can obtain admission without any trouble? It is not a fact.
9019. Is it a fact that the Chinese will not gamble with fan-tan if they get Europeans to play there? There are houses where they will not admit Europeans at all; and there are houses which are patronised exclusively by Europeans.
9020. Is it true that it was only when the police saw the Anti-Chinese League moving in a determined manner that they determined to make a successful raid, and asked the League to assist them? Not at all; we had warrants in existence at the time.
9021. Is it true that the police said they were afraid to act because the houses occupied by the Chinese were owned by Members of Parliament and other influential citizens? I never heard it; and if it was said it was not true.
9022. Then any statement of that kind is opposed to the truth? Yes.
9023. Has anybody ever spoken to you about the ownership of those properties, for the purpose of influencing you in the discharge of your duty? No; no one ever did. No property-owner or anyone else ever tried to influence me against doing my duty. I have no recollection of anything of the kind.
9024. The Mayor asked you a question as to whether members of the police force looked upon that part of George-street as being a very good beat? Yes.
9025. Have you never heard any member of the police say that? No; I have always heard the reverse. They do not like it.
9026. How is that—because of the duties they have to perform there? Yes.
9027. Do they object on account of the association of Chinese down there? No; it is in consequence of the numbers of sailors and people of that class who used to be there. Some of the police look upon them as dangerous, although I have not found them so. When I went there first, the sergeant who transferred me to that station said, "God help you, poor fellow," meaning that I had come to a troublesome quarter.
9028. You also gave some evidence about selling the pak-ah-pu tickets, and I understood you to say that the police did not consider it an unlawful pursuit? I beg pardon. What I said was that we had no law to reach it, as far as I knew. Personally, I think all gaming ought to be put down.
9029. The impression on your mind, and that of your superior officers, is that we have no law to reach it? That is our impression.
9030. Do you not know that on the 19th of March this year three Chinamen were arraigned at the Quarter Sessions before Judge Backhouse for playing this game, and his Honor put to the jury the question whether pak-ah-pu was an unlawful game, and the jury found that it was an unlawful game, and the Chinamen were convicted? I am sorry to say this is the first time I have heard of it.
9031. Then you saw nothing of another case, tried at the Central Police Court on the 21st December, 1890, before Captain Fisher, when a number of Chinese were brought up and convicted of the same offence—that is, selling pak-ah-pu tickets? No, sir.
9032. These two cases never came under your notice? No; I am afraid I must plead ignorance.
9033. You have also given some evidence about the business or trade departing from Lower George-street;—is not that falling off largely the result of the Chinese congregating in that neighbourhood? I do not think so.
9034. Will respectable people go down there among the Chinese to make their purchases the same as they will in other parts of the city? I do not think they would.
9035. Do you not think that the large number of Chinese congregating as they do down there has a tendency to lower that neighbourhood? It has, no doubt. It is quite true; but I think I am right in saying that the Chinese are not the principal cause of the trade leaving that end of the town. I have explained that the trade has left there naturally by the scattering of the shipping trade, and so on.
9036. Have you noticed those placards on the fronts of a number of the Chinese houses in Lower George-street? I have.
9037. Do you know what they announce? I do not.
9038. Do you not think it is the duty of the police to make themselves acquainted with notices put up in front of business places, more especially when such notices are in a foreign language? It never struck me in that light.

Sen.-sergt.
Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.

9039. Supposing I took one of these places in Lower George-street, and put up a notice over my door that gambling was carried on there day and night, how long would you leave me there undisturbed? Well, we should stop you as soon as we could.

9040. Would you be surprised to know that no less than twenty-five of these places in Lower George-street have notices stuck up announcing that fan-tan is carried on there day and night? I am surprised to hear it if such is the case.

9041. Every one of these notices announce that fan-tan is carried on in those places day and night. Now that you know that do you not think there must have been some dereliction of duty on the part of the police in not making themselves acquainted with the meaning of those notices ere this? Well, perhaps in that particular thing there might have been, but so far as trying to put a stop to this gambling is concerned, and making raids, there has certainly been no dereliction of duty there; and I think you would say so if you knew what difficulties we have to contend against.

9042. With reference to the suggestion you made as to the amendment of the law, I think I understood you to say that you would make the finding of implements of gambling in a house sufficient evidence against the owner of that house? Yes.

9043. As a preventive measure, do you think it would be well to make the landlords of these places responsible after due notice being given that the house was being used for gambling purposes? I think it would be a very good idea if due precautions were taken to prevent abuses, so that no one could take action to gratify a private spite against a landlord.

9044. Do you think there are a number of houses carrying on gambling even now in that part of George-street? I do not think there is much of it now.

9045. It has been stated to this Commission that gambling is being carried on down there now, and is just as rampant as ever, in fact;—do you think that is correct? No; I do not think that is a fact.

9046. You think such a statement is absolutely opposed to truth? Yes, I do not think it is the case, as I have said, because within the last fortnight or three weeks we have had warrants in our hands to arrest them, and we have failed in doing so. I think it was Saturday night week I had two warrants, and went to the houses, and we could not find anyone there.

9047. It has been stated in evidence that there are thirty of these places in Lower George-street, and that out of that number only five carry on any legitimate business:—do you know that? I do not think there are so many as thirty. There may be sixteen or eighteen.

9048. I suppose you know there are houses there where the shutters are not taken down? I do not think there are any houses there where the shutters are not taken down some part of the day.

9049. Look at this photograph of a little house on the right-hand side going down George-street;—do you know that? Yes; it is a shanty opposite Parker's.

9050. You notice that the shutters are not down there? Yes; but I have seen the shutters down.

9051. Then there are a number of houses down there that have no merchandise of any kind inside? That is so.

9052. Now should not that fact challenge the suspicion of the police;—do not you think it your duty to acquaint yourself with how people live who are carrying on without giving evidence of doing any legitimate business whatever? We have visited these places, and found a lot of men there, and when we ask what they are doing there the answer is that it is a lodging-house. There are numbers of gardeners and hawkers in the suburbs, who come into these places and occupy a bed for the night, and then go away about their business. I make no doubt that they play fan-tan on the quiet.

9053. At the deputation to the Premier, in July last, it was stated, among other things, that the police were not content with getting a gold watch within three months of their joining the force, but they must have diamond rings also; and further, that it was a well known fact that the police were paid to keep their eyes shut to the illegal practices being carried on in Lower George-street;—have you any knowledge that would sustain a charge of that kind? All I can say is, that the man who said that did not know what he was talking about.

9054. You have never heard anything to sustain a charge of that kind in the remotest way? I only heard of it when I heard that such a statement was made on that occasion.

9055. Did you ever hear of Inspector Atwill receiving a bribe of any kind? No; except that I have heard some talk lately about some one having said in the street that he had received a present of twenty sovereigns.

9056. Who told you that? I cannot tell who it was; I just heard some remarks about it.

9057. Can you not think who said it—whether it was a friend of Mr. Atwill's, a Chinaman, or a European;—can you not trace the statement in your mind at all? I imagine it was Mr. Atwill himself—yes, I am sure it was now; I recollect.

9058. Then he had evidently heard something about it? Yes; he called my attention to it, I think. He said what a cruelty it was, or something to that effect. He seemed to be very distressed in his mind.

9059. He had heard some remarks about it? Yes; remarks which are false.

9060. And was that the first you heard of it? Yes. I do not believe a word of it.

9061. Did you ever hear anything about his getting furniture, or anything of that kind? Yes; I think I did hear something about some furniture he bought from Ah Toy.

9062. Has Mr. Atwill been anxious about this Chinese business? Yes; he told me to do what I could to try and get some one into these houses.

9063. Have the business people complained to you very frequently about the Chinese nuisance down there? Just a few of them.

9064. Have they spoken to you personally, and begged you to take action? They have, some of them; but at the same time we had warrants in the station ready for when we could get an opportunity to use them.

9065. Did you tell them you could not do anything? No; I do not think so. I may say we have to do everything in connection with these raids very secretly. We have warrants ready in the station, and could not execute them. The difficulty is in getting into these places.

9066. You fear, I suppose, breaking into these places, and then not finding what you are looking for? We do not do it because it would be illegal to do it without justifiable cause. I may say that we had warrants for certain houses which have been pulled down and other houses erected in their places, and the warrants are no good now.

9067. You seem to have some doubt as to the attendance of Europeans at these gambling-houses. It has been stated that they are frequented by Europeans much more than by Chinese up to all hours? That is not the case. Anybody that goes along there can see that it is not the case. Senr.-sergt
Higgins.
9068. Do you ever visit the respectable Chinese merchants' places in Lower George-street? Yes; I have visited several Chinese merchants in Lower George-street. 27 Oct., 1891.
9069. You have been in there to have a cup of tea with them? No; at one New Year's time, I think, some ten or fifteen years ago, I went into Mr. On Chong's place, and I had a glass of wine there, but I have made it a rule never to go into the Chinese houses at New Year's time.
9070. Have you heard of any Chinamen making complaints to No. 4 Station, or to the Inspector-General of Police, of the extent to which Chinese gambling was carried on in that locality, and being hunted away from the place? That is not so; but I have known Chinamen to come and complain when they have lost money themselves. That is out of spite.
9071. Would not that sustain a conviction—have you to consider whether a man has lost money or not in that way when he complains of a breach of the law? Well it all depends upon the man who tells you; we have been deceived by Chinamen.
9072. Do you mean to say a Chinaman can deceive a policeman? Oh, yes; I remember once one of them came to the police station one Sunday night to tell us of some smuggling that was going on. My mate and myself took a couple of blankets and went to the North Shore, and on to the head of Middle Harbour, and laid there in the bush all night. At daylight we searched the whole place for the evidences of smuggling that we were told we should find, but there was no more smuggled goods there than there is on this table at the present moment; and that same man came to the police station frequently to complain about the Chinese.
9073. What do you think was the object of this man in giving you that information about the supposed smuggling—do you think he was paid for it? I do not know what his motive was, unless he was trying to do a little smuggling on his own account at the same time.
9074. You think it possible that he might have wanted you out of the way in order that something else might be done in the city? Very likely.
9075. Have you ever known any constable down there to neglect his duty in connection with these gambling-houses for any reason whatever? I have not. I may say that Inspector Atwill does not let the constables generally know when a raid is to be made.
9076. Have you ever heard it stated that if the police turn the Chinese out of these houses that the owners will not be able to get respectable tenants for them, and that they would not be losers in consequence? No, I never heard any such thing in my life, but I do know that where a Chinaman has lived in a house for years it is not very lettable afterwards.
9077. Have you known the police to be dining and fraternising with the Chinamen down there? No; and I have not the slightest doubt that they ever have done so. I have given some of them a drink, and had a drink in return, but I have had a motive. I might do that to the worst characters in the street.
9078. Is it not a fact that some of the police in that street are in constant communication with the proprietors of the gambling-houses down there, and knowing that the law is violated the inference is that they must be influenced in some way to shut their eyes;—does it occur to you that that construction might be put upon it? No, it could not be. The men on the beat have nothing to do with the matter; in fact they might be told to go into the station at 9 o'clock to-night, to prepare for a raid.
9079. Is it a fact that Inspector Atwill continually neglects his duty from some cause or other? It is not a fact; it is a cruel falsehood. There is not a stricter officer in the City of Sydney. I know that myself well.
9080. Then so far as these charges about bribery and presents of diamond rings being made to the police are concerned, you have no evidence whatever that would sustain such a charge? It is quite untrue. I do not say it with any disrespect to this Commission, but it is a lie.
9081. Of course you will understand why I put these questions, Mr. Higgins. The police are on their trial in this matter. Statements have been made by Members of Parliament and business-people in the city, with regard to the police, of a very serious nature, and it is the duty of this Commission to investigate these charges and make a report to the Government—you understand that, of course? Yes, sir. I am very pleased to see it investigated. I have been thirty-two years a policeman—with the exception of a break of eight months—and I never was reprimanded or reported in my life.
9082. Mr. Quong Tart.] How many years have you been on duty in Lower George-street? Twenty-five years.
9083. During that time to what extent has gambling been carried on? For some years they have been playing a good deal amongst themselves, but I would not call that gambling.
9084. What is the principal game they play down there? Fan-tan, and dominoes and pak-ah-pu.
9085. Do you consider pak-ah-pu a fair game, or is it a dangerous game? I do not know sufficient of it to explain it, but I think the gambling spirit is dangerous in every case. I have tried as far as I could to persuade people to keep away from it.
9086. I called your attention to fan-tan and pak-ah-pu, because I want you to tell me which in your opinion is the worst? I think fan-tan is the worst, because it chains a man to the table all day, whereas with pak-ah-pu a man may go and buy a ticket, and then go away about his business.
9087. Do many Europeans take part in pak-ah-pu? Yes, a good many.
9088. Have you seen many women or girls in the Chinese places down there? No.
9089. What class of people mostly go in to buy the pak-ah-pu tickets? The residents of the neighbourhood chiefly, and seafaring men, labourers, mechanics—men of that class.
9090. Do any respectable Europeans go in for that game? Yes.
9091. Any merchants, or people of that class? I have never seen any merchants. The class of people who patronise these places most are working men, many of them strictly upright men so far as I know. I never knew anything against their private character.
9092. Have any Europeans or Chinese complained to you about gambling being a nuisance down there? Some have complained, as I told you before, but they are not always to be depended upon.
9093. I mean the business people, the neighbours? Yes, they have; Mr. Nock has complained to me.
9094. How long ago? Oh, we might have conversations off and on like that for a considerable time. He might say they were a great nuisance for instance, or something of that sort.

- Sen.-sergt. Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.
9095. Cannot you remember how long ago it is since you had a conversation like that with him? It might be five or six months perhaps.
9096. Was there nothing more than a conversation—no noise about it? Oh, no.
9097. Did he not tell you that it was not only a nuisance but was stopping the trade also? He may have said something to that effect in conversation. And I may say that I would be very glad to stop the nuisance, but there are many difficulties in the way, as I know too well. Passers by may say, "I do not know what the police are doing," but those who have to carry the law into effect know well enough.
9098. You say that the gambling-houses in that neighbourhood have decreased in number? Yes; and the number of Chinese in the district have decreased.
9099. Since when have you noticed the decrease in the number of Chinese in the district? A number of Chinese left that district about five years ago. We had 800 Chinese there at one time. There were three or four cabinetmakers' shops there, and now there are only two.
9100. What kind of a man is Ah Toy? He is a respectable man, as far as I know.
9101. Is he a gambler? No. I have seen him play what I should call a social game, but I would not call that gambling.
9102. Do you know of any Chinese informers? We had a man down there at one time named Lee Wood, I think, the fellow who brought me down to Middle Harbour one night. I would not believe a word that man might say. When one of these men come to give information as they say, they may, at the same time, be on the look-out for information themselves, and may go and tell the Chinese we are prepared to make a raid upon them.
9103. In your opinion what is the greatest source of crime among the Chinese as a community? Fan-tan gambling, I should say. Otherwise they are a law-abiding people. That is their principal fault, I should say.
9104. Do you think any policeman down there has purposely overlooked the existence of any of these gambling-houses after having it pointed out to him? I must explain that a policeman may be told that there is gambling going on, but all he can do in the matter is to report to the officer in charge; then he is done with the matter, so far as he is concerned individually.
9105. I asked you the question, because it has been suggested that some of the constables down there have overlooked their duty;—do you believe that? Not to my knowledge. If you go by reports, there are few public men in Sydney in any capacity that you will not hear something about, which is probably false. It is only idle talk.
9106. You have said that you went into one of these gambling-houses accidentally on one occasion, and that the people there scattered as soon as they saw your face? Yes.
9107. What place was that? That is more than I can tell you now, but I know it is some house between Queen's-place and Power's hotel. It is near Moy Ping's.
9108. How long is that ago? It is within three months, I think, but I did not take much notice. We have several duties to perform. For instance, I and my mate had charge of twenty-four cases of burglary, and that occupied us two months. Then there were robberies in other places to look after. It may appear to the public that we have nothing to do but walk up and down the street, but that is not the case. Our men have been out in Leichhardt, Burwood, and Ashfield for several months, so that gambling may be going on in George-street for some time, then we cannot interfere with them. If there was gambling going on there we had enough to do without that. We cannot be constantly watching the Chinamen's places, to the neglect of the whole city. There might be gambling going on inside those places and we would not know it.
9109. Mr. Hawthorne.] And, I suppose, if you had nothing else to do but to watch those places, it would be impossible to keep it down entirely? It would be impossible.
9110. In how many cases have you made raids on these gambling-houses? About nine, I think—successful raids.
9111. You say you have heard of a secret society that collects funds for the defence of the gamblers? I would not call that a secret society—it is more a defence society.
9112. What have you heard about that society? I have heard that they keep 1d. or 2d. in the £ for the purpose of defending themselves against the police.
9113. Can you tell me who the Chinese are that collect money for this purpose? No. I have been told they do, but I cannot tell where they are.
9114. Do you know if any of those who have been mentioned here to-day act in that capacity? I cannot say. There is a general belief that money is collected for that purpose, but how true it is I cannot say.
9115. There is no certainty about it? No.
9116. Regarding immorality among the Chinese, we have heard complaints about the Chinese decoying young girls away from their homes, do you know whether that is true? I never saw or heard of it. It has not occurred in our district—at least very seldom indeed. Years ago, before the law passed giving us power to arrest children under age, there may have been some cases of girls frequenting these places. But since we have had the power we have been in the habit of going through these places day and night, and we take care not to allow anything of the kind to happen. I think some few women live amongst the Chinese, but they have been of the unfortunate class for years.
9117. That is the last place they go to? Yes. The Chinese treat them kindly, and they live there.
9118. Have you seen them smoke opium? Yes.
9119. How many have you seen? A few. I have seen one here and another there.
9120. Do you know whether the Chinese merchants—the respectable Chinese—have endeavoured to put down the evil? I know they would rather the gambling were done away.
9121. Can you give the Commission the names of a few respectable Chinese down there? I know On Chong, Way Kee, Ung Quong, Tin War, and others.
9122. Can you suggest a means of putting down this evil, the gambling? Well, I think the law should be made more clear, and the powers of the police should be extended.
9123. Mr. McKillop.] You have been acquainted with Constable Adair for a number of years, Mr. Higgins, have you not? Yes. I took him at my own request as a plain clothes constable.
9124. He is a good man? Yes; there is no better anywhere.
9125. A man of high character? Yes; he is most trustworthy.
9126. You are in constant communication with him, are you not? Yes, both day and night, we are on duty together.
- 9127.

9127. Now, supposing you got some efficient constables from the suburban districts, and arranged your raids in Lower George-street, independently of the local men, who are known there, do you not think you would have a better chance of being successful? Quite so. They would not be known, and would be in disguise.

Sen.-sergt.
Higgins.
27 Oct., 1891.

9128. Would you be in favour of recommending that course if your opinion were asked by your superior officer? Yes, most undoubtedly.

9129. That is the only way in fact that you can make successful raids? That is so.

9130. Do you know of any heavy losses being sustained by persons playing fan-tan down there? I have heard of men losing money there, but I do not know that I heard any amount mentioned. I may have heard such a thing as a man losing his week's wages.

9131. You never heard of any heavier losses than that? Well, I did hear of a sea captain losing a lot of money there one time, but it may have been false.

9132. Did you hear of a stevedore that lost £1,000 or £1,500 on one occasion, the man that was committed for manslaughter? I never heard of it, and I do not think any of them that goes there can afford to lose that amount.

9133. Have you known of any big wins being made at any time? One man told me that he made £50 at one sweep; but he went in again and lost more.

9134. Would you be surprised to hear that a clergyman of long-standing in the district has given evidence to the effect that the immorality in some of these Chinese dens was very gross indeed? Well I do not know what he may say in the matter. All I can say is this, that it has never come within my knowledge, and I do not think he could have a greater knowledge of these places than I have. There is no clergyman in Australia but I have visited these places ten times to his once.

9135. You have greater power to enter these places? Yes. I have never met three clergymen in my time going through these places.

9136. Have you had any conversation with any of your comrades in the force relative to the inquiry being conducted by this Commission? Yes.

9137. Recently? Yes.

9138. What was it—a general conversation? Yes, merely a general conversation.

9139. Do you remember the Commission paying a visit to Lower George-street some weeks ago? Yes, I saw them.

9140. Did you know of their intended visit previous to their making their appearance on the scene? No; I saw Mr. Atwill hastening up the street, and the only ones I knew in the crowd were Mr. Manning and Mr. Abigail.

9141. Did you hear it spoken of by the other constables in the station before the Commission arrived? No; they did not know of it.

9142. You say there are frequent changes in the personnel of the force in your district? Yes; very frequent.

9143. Is it possible, do you think, that you have some traitors among the police? Well that I cannot say; but they are simply human nature, like other men.

9144. You have said in your evidence that when these raids have been arranged a knowledge of them has leaked out, however discreet you may have been? Yes; they have leaked out certainly. As I have told you, it has come to my knowledge that Europeans have been employed to watch the station, and it may be that they have given the information. I know three such.

9145. Do you object to mention their names. I think it is necessary to have them? I think not.

9146. We are here for a specific purpose, and that is to see whether the law has been put into effect in this matter, and to suggest any amendments that may appear to be necessary in the interests of the community, and we must of necessity have the names of these men? Well, I heard that a man named Scott was so employed, and another named, or rather known as 'Possum'; but I never saw them get the money.

9147. You only know it from hearsay? Yes; it may be false or true.

9148. Do you know of your own personal knowledge that some of these gambling-house keepers have shipped large sums of money home to China? No; I would not have any chance of knowing that.

9149. Have you entered these places in your official capacity along with Constable Adair, when the lights have been put out, and a general scrimmage has taken place? Well that might be so; and I will tell you how it might occur: Sometimes we might happen to see some youngsters in there and go in to rush them out to the street, and that might be the cause of a stampede. I believe it has been. On such occasions we have heard a lot of running about on the stairs.

9150. I suppose you have always accompanied Adair to these places. Has he ever gone in there by himself? He might have done so, but, as a rule, he does not.

9151. You are never far away? No; and if anything occurs when we are apart we inform one another when we meet.

9152. You have stated that a large number of Chinese have left that portion of the city? Yes.

9153. Do you think it likely that such a large number of Chinese leaving has caused the gambling-house keepers to offer special inducements to Europeans to patronise those establishments? No; I do not think there is much European gambling going on down there at all. The fewer the houses occupied by Chinese the less gambling goes on.

9154. You have no hesitation in saying that you have never accepted a present in money or kind from anyone down there? No; I have never received a present, either from a Chinaman or a white man in my life.

9155. Mr. Hawthorne.] If anyone has made the statement that you purchased £4,000 worth of property some eighteen months ago, that is untrue? It is false.

9156. Did you purchase any property during the last two years? I did; I purchased 2½ acres of land in Lane Cove.

9157. How much did you pay for that land? £200.

9158. You have not purchased any other property during that time;—you are quite positive? Quite positive; I have not had the money.

9159. Then the statement is not true? It is a falsehood.

9160. You had to draw on your other property, I suppose, to purchase that? Yes. I have never been able to purchase any property but what I have had to mortgage other property to get it.

- Sen.-sergt. Higgins. 9161. You have never obtained any of your property in any improper way? Certainly not. I have paid for it out of my savings. I should say that I have received rewards in connection with my police duty.
- 27 Oct., 1891. 9162. Your rise in life was obtained through purchasing property cheap which has now become valuable? Yes; I did that at Ashfield at one time.
9163. Your fortune, whatever it may be, has been the result of hard work on your part, together with fortunate circumstances, such as the rise in value of the property you have purchased? Yes; but particularly by my own hard work. I have quarried down rocks and worked by candlelight, as I have said, to improve my position. I have worked in that way during my spare time for months together.
9164. And you were living rent free, I think you said, during a great part of the time you were building up in this way? Yes; I was living rent free for eleven years, and the money I got in the shape of rent went to pay off the mortgage.
9165. And during the whole of the time you have been in the force you have never had anything reported against your character? No; I was never reprimanded or admonished in my life.
9166. You never heard that Inspector Atwill, during the time you served under him, accepted a bribe of any kind whatever? No; and I may say that unless I saw it I would not believe it. He is the wrong man to do such a thing.
9167. Inspector Atwill has a large family, has he not? Yes; but he has been more fortunate than me; he married into a rich family, and got property through that.
- [The witness withdrew.]

WEDNESDAY, 28 OCTOBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq.,

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Hugh Adair called in and examined:—

- Mr. H. Adair. 9168. President.] What are you, Mr. Adair? A senior-constable in the Metropolitan Police Force.
- 28 Oct., 1891. 9169. Where are you stationed? At No. 4 Station, Lower George-street.
9170. How long have you been a policeman in that district? It is twelve years this month since I was appointed to that station.
9171. How long have you been in the police force altogether? About twelve years.
9172. Then the whole of the time you have been in the police force you have been down in Lower George-street? I have been attached to No. 4 Station.
9173. Mr. McKillop.] Mr. Adair, do you remember ever having a conversation with Mr. Nolan about the large amount of gambling that is carried on in Lower George-street—Nolan is employed by the firm of Felton and Nock—he is a salesman in their Lower George-street shop? I never had any conversation with Mr. Nolan in my life—that is, with the man at Nock's.
9174. He did not say to you, "How is it that this gambling cannot be put down?" and you replied, "Oh, well, I cannot help it. If police officers will go bumming round there all day long it is not my fault?" I never said anything of the sort to the gentleman, and if he says I did it is a falsehood.
9175. It is untrue? It is untrue.
9176. You know that there are a number of gambling-dens down there? Yes; there are a good many; but some of them are described as not being really gambling-dens.
9177. Can you give the Commission the number to the best of your knowledge? Well, to the best of my belief, I think there are between sixteen and seventeen—that is, sixteen or seventeen places where gambling is carried on.
9178. Are they all frequented by Europeans? No; they are not.
9179. What is the number that Europeans are generally in the habit of frequenting? Well there are about four there in the other terrace. That is near the "American Exchange" Hotel, abreast of No. 2 Coffee Palace, and there is one down below, next to Foster, the pawnbroker's. There are about five altogether, I should say.
9180. Five to the best of your knowledge? To the best of my knowledge.
9181. Do they carry on any work there? Well we cannot see it.
9182. Have you at any time, in the course of your official duties, witnessed a good many Europeans going in and out? I have seen a good number going in and out to buy pak-ah-pu tickets.
9183. But you would not swear that they went in to play fan-tan? I would not, because there are some houses in which they would not be allowed to play unless the proprietors knew them.
9184. Are the gambling-dens on the increase? During my time they have decreased. There might be more in Lower George-street, but when I joined the force they were in Queen-street and Anson's buildings, and they are all done away with there now. There may be a few more in Lower George-street—about three more.
9185. Then they have decreased in Anson's buildings but increased in Lower George-street? Yes; there may be two or three more in Lower George-street.
9186. Do you know the class of men who visit those places? All classes go there.
9187. Any of the labouring classes? Yes; the coal-lumpers are the worst. There are some wharf labourers and the coolies from the ships.
9188. Do men of respectable appearance frequent the place? Well, there are some men who seem to be respectable; they have a good suit of clothes on their backs, but we cannot say anything as to their character.
9189. How is it that the coal-lumpers go there so much;—is it that they make better money than the others? Well, I speak of them particularly, because I know most of them.
9190. Do you think it is because they make more money than men in other avocations? Well, they used to make good money, but they have not been doing so of late years.
9191. Whose is the chief gambling-den in Lower George-street? That would be hard to say.
9192. You do not know of your own knowledge? No.
- 9193.

9193. Have you been in the habit of entering these gambling-dens by virtue of your office? Yes; sometimes looking for witnesses in cases, and sometimes for the thieves who frequent them. Mr. H. Adair.
9194. Are criminals in the habit of secreting themselves there? A good many are. 28 Oct., 1891.
9195. Have you ever noticed, during your visits to these places, that Europeans have been playing fan-tan at the tables whilst you have been inside? No; I have never seen any in of late years.
9196. Did you some years ago? Some years ago you might see them, but not of late years—not since we made the raid about four years ago.
9197. Is it because you are so well known in the district now? Well, we are all pretty well known to them. There is generally a look-out man about the doors.
9198. Did you, some three or four years ago, enter a gambling-house when a scrimmage took place and the light was turned out? I may say that I have been in every gambling-house raid that has been made. On account of my being a seaman at one time I am a pretty good climber, and I have made an arrangement myself, what I call a Jacob's ladder, for getting over fences 24 or 25 feet high. I catch it on the fence and get down into the places through them.
9199. Did you at any time, in making a raid, scramble for the money that was on the table? No; I do not think I did.
9200. You are sure that at no time, when gambling was going on, and when there were Chinese and Europeans together, did you lean over the banker's shoulder and take a certain amount of money that was on the table? I did in one instance. It was when a raid was made at the Kang Too Club. I think that I got £13 on that occasion.
9201. Were there any Europeans present? No; there were no Europeans frequenting that place. It was kept as a club, and at the Water Police Court, where the case was tried, it was sworn that each member had to pay £2 to join it. They bested us on that occasion.
9202. Then, if any one has stated that about six years ago you put your hand over the banker's head and seized as much silver as you could lay your hand on, would that be true or false? It would be false, because I generally entered the place from the top, and I had no occasion to be near the banker or the croupier.
9203. On the occasion to which you refer did you enter through the proper channel? I never entered through the proper channel at any raid.
9204. Did you at any other time than a raid, at any time when you have been seeking witnesses or thieves? I have always, on those occasions, entered through the front door. We are always admitted on those occasions.
9205. Have you ever on those occasions seen gambling in full swing? No; I have not, because they throw all the doors open on those occasions and let us go in and get whoever we want.
9206. Did you hand that £13 to your superior officer? Yes; I handed it to Mr. Atwill. There was more than £13, because there were some shillings and 2s.-pieces on the table.
9207. Have you ever seen any children in those places? Well, in Harrington-street I have seen a few youngsters, not big, but pretty well on in years, 16 or 17 years old—dwarfs I call them.
9208. You have never seen any children of tender years going in for pak-ah-pu tickets? No; I have never seen any children going into those places. I can give you the names of the four boys I refer to if you want me to.
9209. I think it would be just as well for you to do so, and the shorthand-writer need not take them down? (Witness gave the names accordingly), and added: They are all about from 16 to 18 years of age. On one occasion I arrested one for breaking a window. That is how I know them so well.
9210. Are you possessed of any means, Mr. Adair? Well, I have got a few little bits of ground.
9211. You have some ground? Yes; I have two allotments at Rookwood to my sorrow, and one in Queensland.
9212. Not in the Rookwood Cemetery? Yes; in the cemetery.
9213. And one in Queensland? Yes; where I buried a brother.
9214. That is the only land that you possess? It is the only property that I possess.
9215. I hope you do not think we are asking these questions to hurt your feelings;—we are asking them in justice to yourself, on account of the accusations that have been made;—have you any large sums of money in the bank? I have no money.
9216. You are a married man, are you not? I am.
9217. And you have a family? Yes.
9218. With the amount you receive as salary for your services it takes you all your time to keep your family respectable? Yes; my pay is 8s. 10d. a day.
9219. And that is barely sufficient to keep yourself and family in a respectable condition;—how many children have you? I have got four, and one dead, and two orphans I fetched out from England, belonging to my wife's brother.
9220. That is seven children you have? Well, I have six, as my brother-in-law in Melbourne took one of them. My wife gets a little money out from home, about £19 a year. It is a little property that was left her.
9221. Then you receive no other money from any other source but your wages? That is all that I have had ever since I have been in the police force, except rewards.
9222. You are always in company with Sergeant Higgins, are you not? Most of the time, except that I may go to the suburbs on some inquiry or other.
9223. And with those exceptions you are always on duty together, day and night? I have been on duty with him for the last five years.
9224. You have had every opportunity of knowing Sergeant Higgins for a considerable time? I have. I do not think there is anybody in Sydney who knows him better than me.
9225. You have always found him to be a most upright, honest, and straightforward man? There is not a more straightforward, honorable, upright man in New South Wales. He has got a few enemies down there the same as I have.
9226. Did you at any time ask any shopkeeper in Lower George-street when you were going to make a raid for the loan of a crow-bar? I did not.
9227. Did Sergeant Higgins? I do not know what he did. I was in there the night that they made the last raid. I had my own bar, and I did not require a bar for the place that I entered from. I went through the front window.
- 9228.

- Mr. H. Adair. 9228. That is over the verandah ;—you ran along the verandah and smashed the window? I had a small ladder.
- 28 Oct., 1891. 9229. How many raids have been made during the last four or five years? To the best of my belief there have been about ten.
9230. Were you successful in all? We were successful in all but one, and I was not present at that one. It was made by Senior-constable Wright.
9231. You got convictions in nine? Yes; I think so.
9232. What were the fines, to the best of your recollection? Well, the principals were fined £25 or £30, I think, and the people in the gambling-house were fined £1 and costs, except in the case of the last raid, and they were fined £2 and costs.
9233. Who organises these raids? The officer-in-charge.
9234. The sub-inspector in charge of the district? Yes.
9235. During the time that you have been down in the district have you noticed bills similar to those [shown to witness] stuck up at the doors of the various Chinese shops? There are Chinese characters stuck up at the doors, but it would be hard for us to understand them.
9236. You never made it your business to inquire what they were? Well, I have asked sometimes about them.
9237. Did you ever get a satisfactory answer? Well, I think a Chinaman told me on one occasion that it was about some meeting that was going to be held amongst the Chinamen.
9238. But it is possible for you or your superior officer to get the true interpretation of what the bills mean, is it not;—there is a Chinese Government interpreter? Well, we do not know what these things mean unless we are told by the Chinamen who place them there.
9239. Have you not got a Chinese interpreter at your command? He is paid by the Government, and when we want him for anything he is paid so much a case.
9240. Would it not have been quite possible to have come round and got the Chinese interpreter to have come round and interpreted the meaning of these placards? I do not know that it would. Who is going to pay him?
9241. Well, if the police employed him the Government would have to pay him? No doubt we could have got him if we had thought there was anything in it.
9242. Was not the sub-inspector of your district authorised lately to go round and say what the posters were about? I did not hear anything about it.
9243. Have you noticed that a large number of these notices have been washed off the doors and walls where they have been posted up? No; I have not.
9244. Do you know what the notices mean? I do not.
9245. Well, they mean that gambling (fan-tan) is carried on there day and night. Do you not think that if a European had had such notices up in English the police would not have taken action against him for keeping a common gaming-house? Well, if they had known that it was a gaming-house they would have been bound to have taken action.
9246. Is it very difficult to get into these gambling-dens? Yes, it is.
9247. Is it because they have a great number of outlets? There are not a great number of outlets if they open the doors, but it is the way the places are barricaded against the police.
9248. In one of the raids you made you came in through the skylight, did you not? In several of the raids I came in through the skylight.
9249. And in making these raids did you ever endanger your life? Well, some might call it endangering my life, but it is nothing to me, because I know how to get round.
9250. Is it not often dangerous to get into these places as you have to do? Well, I have been three nights getting into places where I could not get others to follow me.
9251. But is there any danger attached to it? Well, for some people it would be, but I would not call it dangerous to get down from this ceiling to the table if I had got my gear to lower myself down with.
9252. President.] But Mr. McKillop means—is there no danger from the Chinamen? Oh, no; I do not think so. They only fight to make their escape.
9253. Mr. McKillop.] None have ever threatened you with iron crow-bars, have they? No; a few have threatened me, but there is nothing in it.
9254. Are there a great many prostitutes down there? We have got very few prostitutes living in the district. There are a few come from different parts of the city at 9 or 10 o'clock at night. They come mostly after the seamen and men-of-war's men.
9255. Have you noticed in any of your visits any young girls who have been decoyed by the Chinamen down there? Well, I do not think that the Chinese decoy any young girls. They often come to the police-station complaining of the girls.
9256. In what way do they complain? Well, there is one Chinaman comes. They may be jealous-minded of one another. He may have got no girl himself, and the other may have a girl, and he may want her turned out.
9257. That is only jealousy? I call it jealousy.
9258. Do you consider that the laws existing at present are stringent enough to check the gambling evil? That I cannot say.
9259. Have you given it any thought at all? Well, they might give the police a little more power in some cases.
9260. At the present time you have to procure a warrant? There has to be an information laid in reference to the house, that we know it to be a gambling-house, and the warrant gives the number of the house, and the street in which it is situated.
9261. But you must be armed with the warrant before you can proceed? Yes; or else what good would it be, because the conviction would fall through.
9262. Seeing that you have got so much trouble in entering these places, would you consider that if the law permitted you to enter the houses where you thought that gambling was going on without a warrant, it would enable you to check the evil? Well, if we get in we must see the game being played before we can convict anyone, or else the case will fall through when the lawyers take their objections.
9263. Are you of opinion that, in the event of any gambling tools being found on the premises, the keeper of the house ought to be indicted for keeping a common gaming-house? Well, there is not many gambling gambling implements there. There is only a table and some chairs, and the coins, and the croupier's stick. Mr. H. Adair.

9264. But do you not think that if these things are found on any premises, that fact alone ought to lead to a conviction? I do not know. It would not stand in the Court. 28 Oct., 1891.

9265. What is your opinion of the landlords of these places where gambling is carried on? Well, I cannot say. The landlords, I suppose, like to get as much for their places as possible.

9266. Do you think it would be a good thing to hold the landlords responsible? Yes. If the Chinese gambling laws were altered, I think it would be a good thing to hold the landlords responsible after giving them due notice.

9267. Did you at any time receive any presents? No; never in my life whilst I have been in the force.

9268. No diamond rings or gold watches? No diamond rings or gold watches.

9269. No chests of tea nor jars of ginger? No; nothing at all.

9270. You have never received any presents from a Chinaman? Yes; I have received a present from a Chinaman—from the Chinese steward of a ship, the captain of which was a school-mate of mine, and a chum of mine at home. It was the ship, "Bay of Cadiz." That is the only present that I have received.

9271. Was it the steward or the captain who made you that present? It was the captain's wife who presented me with it.

9272. But it was the steward who was the Chinaman? Yes; he was the steward employed on board ship, and he was sent with it to me.

9273. Well, then, that was not a present from a Chinaman at all—the Chinaman only acted as the porter? That is the only present that I have received.

9274. Do you know whether any of your comrades in the force have received any presents? I never heard so.

9275. This gambling that is carried on in Lower George-street has been the means of bringing about a great deal of destitution amongst the families of those working-men who frequent the dens, has it not? Well, it might have done, because I know there are some of them who spend nearly the whole of their earnings there. Several women have complained to me about it.

9276. Their wives have complained to you personally? Yes; there is a lady called Mrs. ———, who has complained to me on several occasions, and who went to Mr. Atwill on one occasion with a child in her arms.

9277. And you are of opinion that if this evil was stamped out it would be the means of bringing about a better state of affairs amongst the class who frequent the gambling-dens? Well, there are some who frequent them who do not care for much hard work at all. I do not think they would take work if they got it.

9278. Do they live on the game? They live on their wits or what they borrow from others, and pay nobody back.

9279. Do you know of any large sums lost there? Well, I daresay some men lose their week's wages.

9280. Do you know of larger sums than that being lost? Well, I think the captain of a ship complained of losing £30 or £40. That was the largest sum—as far as I remember—that I ever heard of being lost.

9281. Do you remember a stevedore who was committed some time ago for manslaughter losing £1,500 down there? Not the man ———, was it?

9282. I do not know what his name is? I think it must be the man if he was committed for manslaughter.

9283. Did he ever lose £1,500? No, I do not think he was ever possessed of that much because he used to keep a sailor's boarding-house in Eager-street, off Kent-street.

9284. Used he to frequent those gaming-places? Yes.

9285. To a pretty large extent? Yes, he used to frequent them pretty often. I have turned him out of them several times.

9286. Do you know whether these gamblers live on the premises or do they live anywhere in the vicinity of the Rocks? I cannot say about all, but in most of these places there are a good number of Chinamen living on the premises.

9287. Are there any of them living in Harrington-street? Yes.

9288. Do they keep European women? Yes; and there are a good many of them married to European women.

9289. Have you ever seen any disgraceful scenes where they are living with these women? I have not seen any disgraceful scenes such as those described in the morning papers, although I am living in the midst of it all. I live in Harrington-street myself.

9290. I suppose it is very difficult to make a successful raid on these places? Well, sometimes it is, but at other times if you have got a friend who can assist you you can get in easily.

9291. Would it not be better in organising these raids to get men from the suburbs than to employ men from your own beat? I do not think we ever made a raid but what we had a strange constable—sometimes four or five—but we cannot get them in.

9292. Is it a fact that the secret that these raids are going to be made gets out before they are made? Well, I have heard the secret myself, but I do not think many could because they would not know that the officer in charge had received a warrant. Sergeant Higgins might know, because he was well up in the force.

9293. But I am speaking of the public? No, I do not see how they could know anything about it, because I have gone up to the station and been told of a raid when I have known nothing at all about it; and then we have had to come in the back way.

9294. Has the business decreased among the European shop-keepers in Lower George-street, owing to the large number of gambling-dens down there? I do not think it has much.

9295. Are there the same number of Europeans carrying on business there now as there were five years ago? No, I do not think so, because the A.U.S.N. Co. has removed its office from that end of the town, and they employed 300 or 400 men. That kept up that part of the town very well, because all those men used to get their tucker down there. They lived in the suburbs, many of them.

9296. Then you think that the fact that the A.U.S.N. Co. has removed to Sussex-street has helped to take the trade away from that end of the town? Yes, partly, and there were a number of steamships that used to lie round the Circular Quay that now lie up Darling Harbour.

9297.

- Mr. H. Adair. 9297. And you think that accounts for the falling off of trade in Lower George-street? Yes.
9298. Do you know what the rents are there now? Well, I know them to be pretty good rents. There was a pawnbroker who told me that he paid £5 or £6 a week.
- 28 Oct., 1891. 9299. Do the Chinese pay higher rents than the Europeans, owing to the fact that they carry on an illegitimate business bearing large profits? Well, I am not aware of it.
9300. Do you know any members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? Well, I have heard that there are several people belonging to it.
9301. Do you know any of them personally? Yes, I do.
9302. Do you know Mr. Jack Armstrong? I do.
9303. Is he a man of good character? Well, I cannot say myself.
9304. You know nothing against him? I have heard some curious things.
9305. But do you know anything as a positive fact against him? No.
9306. Do you know Mr. Kelly the grocer? Well, I have spoken to him on two or three occasions. He came to me one time about a warrant.
9307. You have known him to be a respectable man since he has been residing in your district? Well, I know nothing against him.
9308. Do you know anything against any of the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No.
9309. Do you know Mr. Dawson personally? I believe that there is a man of that name lives near the old Quay.
9310. Is he a respectable man? As far as I know he is.
9311. Have you read any of the newspaper reports about the doings of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League, or this Commission? I never looked at a newspaper report since the affair was started.
9312. But do you remember a deputation from the League waiting upon Sir Henry Parkes? Yes, I heard the officer-in-charge read out the report of the deputation from the daily papers, I think it was to Sergeant Higgins and myself.
9313. Who was the officer to whom you refer? Mr. Atwill.
9314. Do you think there is any truth in the charges reported to have been made by the deputation against members of the police force? No, I do not think there is a single word of truth in them.
9315. Have you any idea as to who supplied the information to the four Members of Parliament for West Sydney who addressed the Premier on that occasion? I cannot say where they got their information.
9316. Do you know any of the Members of Parliament for West Sydney personally? I know two of them well. I know that Mr. Kelly is as respectable as any man who stands in Sydney—that is Andy Kelly, and I know Mr. T. M. Davis too. The other two members I do not know.
9317. Mr. Abigail.] You do not know Mr. Black or Mr. FitzGerald? No, I do not know them at all, but the other two men I have known for years.
9318. Mr. McKillop.] Was it from their personal observation that they spoke on that occasion, or from information supplied to them? Well, I fancy it was from information given to them by a certain class of persons down there. They could not have gone and spoken it on their own account. They must have got it from somebody.
9319. Have the charges made against the police caused a great deal of conversation amongst members of the force down there? I daresay some felt it, but personally I paid no more attention to the charges than I should to a lump of dirt stuck to my foot.
9320. Was that because you felt yourself guilty or innocent? It was because I was not afraid of any man in New South Wales. I said to some of the men in the police force that they ought to be ashamed of being seen speaking to some of the members of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League.
9321. And you have had no conversation with any of them? No, not with any of them except Mr. Nolan who told me that Mr. Nock had gone up, and I said to him that I did not care who went up.
9322. Was that all the conversation that you had with him? Yes, and then I followed a man whom I had been watching on the other side of the street.
9323. Do you know Mr. Nock? Yes.
9324. How long has he been in Lower George-street? Well, he was there before me.
9325. You know nothing against him? No, nothing, I only know that he is a partner in the firm of Felton and Nock.
9326. Did he work himself up to that position? I dare say he did. He has always been a respectable man since I have known him.
9327. Do you know any of the respectable Chinese residents down in Lower George-street;—are there any respectable ones? Yes, there are some of them that are more respectable than some of the Europeans.
9328. Can you give us their names? I do not know the names of many of them. There is one called Sun Hing Jaig; and there is old Way Kee and his relations there. They are a most respectable family.
9329. Do you ever go into Way Kee's to see if you can find any stolen property in his place? Yes; on many occasions I have been there for that purpose, and on many occasions he has sent to the police to inform them of things which he had his suspicions about, and he always sends to Sergeant Higgins and myself.
9330. Therefore he has materially assisted the police? Yes, materially in the discharge of their duty. He buys old brass and copper.
9331. Mr. Abigail.] Before you pass away from that matter, tell me whether you have ever heard that any member of the police has ever received money from Way Kee to pass over any stolen property? No, I have not; I do not think he is a man of that kind.
9332. Then if a witness has made the statement that the police are bribed by Way Kee to pass him over when he has stolen property in his possession that would be inaccurate? It would be a falsehood. I have waited there hours myself, at his invitation, to see whether thieves would come back for goods. On those occasions I have been concealed on his premises.
9333. Then he has kept the goods and not paid for them? Yes, he has told them that he would have to get the money from the bank, and on many occasions I have been sent for, and once I was concealed in the house for three hours to see whether the man would come back. He did come, and he got two years.
9334. Mr. McKillop.] What has become of the stolen property in those cases? Well, it was produced in the police court at the time the case came on, and if it was old lead, and was not claimed, it always went to the Superintendent's office.

9335. You do not know what became of it in the end? I believe there is a yearly auction sale of un-claimed property at the Inspector-General's office. Mr. H. Adair.
28 Oct., 1891.
9336. Mr. Abigail.] None of it has ever been left with Way Kee? None, to my knowledge.
9337. Mr. McKillop.] Do you know of any cases in which any of the police officers whatever have received any presents? Yes; ex-Sergeant Dawson, after he was pensioned off, had a gold watch and diamond ring given to him.
9338. Were you at any time invited by any Chinese residents to partake of oyster suppers? I may say that I have never tasted an oyster in my life, although I was reared on the sea-shore.
9339. Have you ever had any oyster suppers in Sydney? Oh, my mate, Sergeant Higgins, has sometimes had a plate of oysters and I have had a plate of fish with him at that shop in Hunter-street.
9340. But never with the Chinese? No.
9341. You know Senior-constable Beadman? Yes.
9342. He was presented with a gold watch on one occasion? I know that in Balmain he was presented with a watch by some gentlemen for rescuing a boy who had fallen off the ferry-boat.
9343. He seems to be rather fond of jewellery, is he not? He seems to have a taste for it. For my part I would not wear jewellery.
9344. Do you know anything about a diamond ring that he wears? Well, I think he does wear a diamond ring.
9345. He is a straightforward man? Yes, he and his mate too are straightforward men.
9346. Mr. Abigail.] You have been a long time in that district? It is twelve years this month since I went there.
9347. You have a thorough knowledge of what takes place in the Chinese gambling-dens? Yes.
9348. You have been particularly instructed to pay attention to what goes on there? Yes; especially during the last five years, since I have been in plain clothes—more so than a constable in uniform.
9349. During that time you have seen a wonderful increase in the number of Chinese gambling-dens, have you not? Increase! I have seen a considerable decrease.
9350. Have you not seen a large increase among the Chinese gambling-dens in that part of the town? No, it is not near as bad as it was some years ago.
9351. Now, if a number of business men down in Lower George-street have said that the evil is worse than it was, and is getting worse and worse, that would be untrue, would it? Yes.
9352. How many gambling places would there be now in Lower George-street? Before the inquiry commenced there would be sixteen or seventeen, but since this Commission began its work there would be fewer, because some of them have shut up.
9353. Oh, they have; do you believe that there were thirty-three before the inquiry began? No; there were not so many.
9354. And are they mostly frequented by whites? Well, there are four or five frequented by whites, but they are in Queen's-place.
9355. Who is the owner of that property? That I cannot say.
9356. Is that the terrace where Moy Ping's place is? Yes.
9357. Were you in the raid at Moy Ping's? Yes; I happened to be the man who went in through the window.
9358. They were mostly Europeans there, were they not? There were forty Europeans and eight Chinamen.
9359. Is not the proportion in most of the places five or six Europeans to one Chinaman? There might be five or six, or there might only be two or three Europeans to one Chinaman. On Saturday nights there are always more Europeans than on any other evening, because it is pay-day.
9360. Have you ever seen as many as 500 Europeans turned out of these Chinese gambling-dens between Felton and Nock's shop and Argyle-street? Never in my life.
9361. Could such a thing occur without the police being aware of it? No; I am sure it could not. There was one night when Sergeant Higgins and myself turned out a lot of Europeans buying pak-ah-pu tickets. There were eighteen in Moy Ping's place, and three or four in several of the other places.
9362. Were there 250 altogether? There were not; but people came over from the other side of the street to see what was the matter, and of course there was a crowd then.
9363. Do you know at what hours of the night the most gambling is carried on? Between 8 and 9 at night, and after half-past 10 o'clock there is no playing till the next day, I am sure.
9364. Then if a statement has been made to the Commission that the gambling is as bad now as ever, Sundays included, would that be correct? It would not.
9365. Have you ever heard the charge that the police on that beat connive at the gambling? I have heard it through the Press, but never up to that time.
9366. Did no business people ever stick you up when you have been walking about the street and complain that you did not stop the gambling? There may have been some people stopped me, but I cannot recollect it.
9367. Is it not a fact that business people frequently stop the police—the private clothes men particularly—in the street and complain of the gambling evil, and ask them why they do not stop it? I cannot say about the other men, but I can say that there are very few who know that I am a constable. Coal-lumpers and wharf labourers and sailors know me, but not people from the other end of the town.
9368. Have you ever said that you were afraid of performing your duty because the owners of these places are members of Parliament? I am not afraid of anybody. Would it frighten a policeman from doing his duty because the owners of the places were Members of Parliament?
9369. Well, I am simply asking the question? Well, it would not frighten me.
9370. And you have never been told by any resident down there that you connive at this evil? No; I do not think so.
9371. Have you never been stopped in the street and asked, "Do you not think it is a mistake that this evil should be allowed to go on?" I think I was stopped on one occasion by Mr. Swinnburn, the boot-maker down there, and told that it was getting rather bad. I said that we were trying to get into them as well as we could.
9372. But none of the residents of Lower George-street have ever gone to the station and offered to give you assistance to get into the place? No; not to my knowledge. Of course they may have been to Mr. Atwill, but if they have I know nothing about it.
9373. But they have never been to you personally? Nobody ever came to me personally except Mrs. ——— who came with her child. 9374.

- Mr. H. Adair. 9374. What did she come to you for? She said that as soon as her husband came back he was always gambling.
- 23 Oct., 1891. 9375. Did she indicate the place where he gambled in? I think she said that it was in No. 64. I went in there to satisfy the lady, but I did not see him there. A woman often makes a great complaint, you know, before she has got any occasion to.
9376. But do you not know that the gambling that is being carried on amongst the Chinese and Europeans down there has been a great curse to the whole of the district. Has it not spread and involved many families in great misery? I know one thing—that work is very scarce down there, and it makes things miserable amongst the families of working men.
9377. But you do not think that a large portion of the misery that exists amongst the workers is the result of gambling their wages away in these dens? No; I do not think that that has been the case of late, at all events.
9378. And you are perfectly certain that it has not increased during the last four or five years? Oh! it has decreased, because in Queen's-street and Anson's-place there used to be some gambling-dens, and they are done away with now.
9379. But in George-street has it increased? There may be three more in Lower George-street.
9380. And how many have been closed in the other places? Every one of them has been closed.
9381. So that in the aggregate the number has been actually reduced? Yes; because there was one in Harrington-street, and that has been done away with.
9382. Has Mr. Atwill ever told you to be very active in looking after these places? Yes; always. Sergeant Higgins and I have had strict orders to keep our eyes upon them.
9383. Five years ago were there many women or girls round there? Round the Chinese gambling-shops?
9384. Yes, or in any of the other Chinese places? There were only three women round the gambling-shops in my time. One was Mrs. Moy Ping, another was Nellie Hassell, who was a servant of hers, and the third came down from the country with her husband, and went to China with him. Those are the only women that I have seen in the gambling-houses.
9385. Are there not a good many women living with Chinamen down there? Yes, there are on the Rocks, in Gloucester-street, Harrington-street, and Queen-street.
9386. Are these women general prostitutes for different nationalities? Well, I have not seen them except with Chinamen.
9387. Do you know how the Chinese treat their women? I believe that they treat them well. They give them lots to eat, and lots to drink, and good clothes. Those women are what I call respectable prostitutes. They do not get drunk like those that come down from the other end of the town.
9388. Do you know anything about Goulburn-street? No; I do not.
9389. Then in your opinion there is not a large amount of female immorality occasioned by the presence of the Chinese in your district? No; there are not more than seven or eight women altogether living with the Chinese, and I know that very well, because I live in the heart of it myself.
9390. Do they smoke opium? None of the women that live with the Chinamen.
9391. Do you know any women in your district who smoke opium? Well, there is one in the Suz Canal who smokes opium.
9392. But are there not forty or fifty women down there who regularly smoke opium? Well, I have never seen them, and I have been about at all hours of the day and night.
9393. The Chinese use it? Yes; some of them do.
9394. Your beat includes the whole of Miller's Point? The whole of Miller's Point from the north side of Hunter-street to the north side of Margaret-street; but as a matter of fact plain clothes men can go anywhere in the division that they like.
9395. So that you are thoroughly acquainted with the whole of the district in which the Chinese live? Yes; with the whole of the division.
9396. Mr. Josephson has a good many houses occupied by the Chinese in Queen-street? Yes; but I think that Mr. Anson and Mr. W. A. Long own most of that property.
9397. There are a good many Chinese living there are there not? They are all Chinese living in Queen-street.
9398. Are they gamblers? They are all most respectable hawkers, and there is an old Chinaman living in Anson's-square who sells to all these hawkers.
9399. Are there not a number of women living in that street? No; there is only one white woman living there with a Chinaman, and she has been living there for years.
9400. Are there no Chinese women living down there? Yes; there are two or three living with their husbands.
9401. You say that Mr. Atwill read the charge made by members of the deputation who waited upon Sir Henry Parkes out to you from the newspapers? Yes; to Sergeant Higgins and myself.
9402. Did he make any remarks to you about the matter? He asked us if we had ever received any of those bribes mentioned in the paper, and I told him "No."
9403. Did he point out this statement made by Mr. Kelly in the course of his speech? What statement?
9404. This: "That as soon as a question on the matter was asked in Parliament the police made a successful raid. If they could do this once they could keep on with it, and not make a raid once in twelve months merely"? Is that Mr. Kelly, the M.P., or Mr. Kelly, the grocer?
9405. It is Mr. Kelly, the grocer? I would not believe a word that that man said myself.
9406. But would that be a correct statement of your actions? No; it would not.
9407. Were you influenced in your duty by the organization of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? No; we were not. The warrants were out a week before that for the raid upon Moy Ping's place. I got a friend to assist me in it, or else I do not think it would have come off.
9408. But the raids were all successful, were they not? All but two. One was dismissed, because the parties were arrested without a warrant, and in the other they bested us on a point of law when the case went to the appeal.
9409. Then the others were all successful? Yes; I dare say there were nine successful raids.
8410. How long did they spread over? Five or six years.
9411. Well, if nine raids in the course of 5 years were successful, and the gambling has been carried on as actively in spite of them, why did you not make it ninety? Because the places are barricaded up so much. There is some timber there, hardwood—about 3 by 2, and the police cannot force their way through that very well.

9412. Have you ever made reports to your superior officer about the difficulty of getting into the places, and the unwisdom of allowing those barricades to go up? Yes. Sergeant Higgins and I have done so, and explained to Mr. Atwill how the partitions were arranged, and that we should consequently have some trouble in getting in. Mr. H. Adair.
28 Oct., 1891.

9413. You do not know whether he made any report to the Inspector-General about it, do you? That I cannot say.

9414. Have you ever known any individual worker lose large sums of money down there? Well, I know that men have complained to me that they have lost their weeks wages.

9415. And have you ever heard the statement made by the police, or anybody else, that Lower George-street is one of the best beats in the city for a policeman? Well, I heard that Tom Davis, the present member, I think it was, had made some such statement through the press. Personally, I may say that I have applied to be removed several times.

9416. Why? Because our rents are pretty high. I pay 16s. for a four-roomed house.

9417. And your duties are very arduous? Yes, they are. I should be glad at any time to get a transfer from that district.

9418. You have not heard it stated that it is the easiest thing for a policeman in the Lower George-street beat to get not only diamond rings and gold watches, but a house or two? Well, they have not come round my way; I have no diamond rings or gold watches. I have a silver watch.

9419. Have you ever heard that Mr. Atwill is afraid to carry out his duties? No; and I do not think he has much occasion to be afraid. He is a most straightforward man.

9420. Has his conduct ever led you to suspect that for some reason or other he was afraid to carry out his duty in respect of these Chinese gambling-dens? No; because he is always on to Sergeant Higgins and myself to get on to these Chinese gamblers.

9421. Has he ever complained to you that you are not energetic enough in the matter? No, because I do not think he has had any occasion to do so.

9422. Has anybody ever complained to you of the difficulty of going up Lower George-street without molestation? No.

9423. Nobody ever complained to you about women being mawled about and insulted? I do not think it would be true if they did. I have been there twelve years, and never known of a woman being mawled about.

9424. Then the Chinese residents of Lower George-street are a law-abiding people? Yes; They are thoroughly law-abiding people. They may get drunk once in a way, but on the whole they are a most peaceable class.

9425. Do they not fight with you? Oh! Europeans fight with me sometimes.

9426. Have you ever heard of Chinese gambling-house proprietors making as much as £60,000 out of the business carried on down there? £60,000! No; I do not think they have all made that together.

9427. Then you do not think that Chinese gambling is an extensive evil? I do think that it is an extensive evil, but not as extensive as you seem to think by mentioning such sums as £60,000.

9428. Suppose that you were to compare it with the "totes" and the sweeps, how do you think it would come off? Well, I should say that the "totes" and the sweeps were the best paying thing of the two.

9429. But would the Chinese gambling bear a favourable comparison with them in its extent? No, it would not.

9430. Do you think that in order to suppress this thing that the police should have the power of entering the houses without a warrant? Well, if some of the police got the power they would abuse it I think. There are some men in the force who would rush at anything without sufficient grounds. It would be a good thing if there was a non-commissioned officer with them for them to have the power of entering at sight.

9431. Do you think that the Chinese gamblers should be compelled to keep their houses in the same condition as others, and knock down their barricades? Well, that I cannot say.

9432. Would not that facilitate the entry of and observation by the police? Judging from what I see of the barricades when I visit the place, I should say that they ought to make them pay rates for each room created by the partitions.

9433. Yes, but supposing they paid rates for them that would not assist the police in observing them or gaining admission when the gambling was going on inside? No, that is true. If these barricades were away the police would not have much trouble.

9434. That is the point I wish you to give me your opinion about. Do you not think that they should be compelled to keep the house free from those barricades? Yes; I think that they should be compelled to do so. I do not think that the landlord should allow them to be put up because it knocks their walls about.

9435. And do you think that after due notice had been given to the landlord that his place was being used as a gambling-den, he should be held responsible? That would be a good way of putting it down.

9436. And do you think that the possession of gambling implements—tables, coins, and so on, should be taken as evidence of a breach of the law, and help to sustain a charge? Well, in fan-tan there is very little of that sort of thing used, because you could take a packing-case and a few coins and a pencil, and that would do.

9437. But they have a regular table for the game, have they not? Well, this table would make two, and in most cases they have a Chinese mat over it, and there is a piece of iron or lead or perhaps paste-board paper to place the money on.

9438. Do you think that anybody being found on the premises whilst the gambling is going on—the fact of his presence I mean—should be evidence against him without having to summon him as you have to now? Well, there might be some respectable people in the house who had gone there for the purpose of making inquiries, and it would be very hard upon them if their presence was enough to convict them straight away. It was very hard on one man in the last case I think.

9439. Well, but their statement could be given, and the Court could convict them or not according to the value they set upon his word. It would act as an additional preventive, and after all very few people go in for the purpose of making inquiries? Well, on the occasion of the raid at Moy Ping's, one man was there who, I believe, had never been in a gaming-house before in his life. I felt very sorry for him, but he had to be charged like the others.

- Mr. H. Adair. 9440. How is that they are allowed to sell pak-ah-pu tickets openly about the streets to you or anybody else? Well, in one case there was a conviction, and I think that it went to the appeal, and we won it.
- 28 Oct., 1891. 9441. No, I think you must be mistaken, because Judge Backhouse has just given a decision that pak-ah-pu is not an unlawful game? Well, some Judges uphold it and some do not. To my knowledge there was one conviction in a case of pak-ah-pu, and one Judge upheld it, and another dismissed it.
9442. Have you ever heard of Mr. Atwill receiving any presents of any kind whatever—chests of tea for instance? Not up to the last week.
9443. What did you hear last week? I heard that someone had been saying that they had seen Mr. Atwill receive 20 sovereigns. I think Sergeant Higgins mentioned the matter to me. He said that Mr. Atwill had told him about it.
9444. Do you know who made the charge? That I cannot say.
9445. Do you know anything to justify the charge? I do not believe that there is a word of truth in it.
9446. Do you think he is that kind of man who would refuse 20 sovereigns? Well, I think he would refuse hundreds of sovereigns, not only twenty. I have been under him nine years.
9447. And the result of your being under him now would not influence your opinion in his favour—would not cause you to give him a good character? No.
9448. Not for the purpose of getting into his good graces? No; I think not, because I believe that he and I have had more growls than anybody else at the station. It would not influence me in the least because I think he is a good officer, as good an officer as any in Sydney.
9449. You have never heard of him receiving any tea or ginger? No.
9450. You are quite sure? Quite certain.
9451. Is it not a custom of the Chinese at one time of the year to send presents round to police officers and others? Well, none of them have ever come to my place.
9452. And they could easily send them up to your place? Yes, easily, because there are Chinamen living within a few paces of me.
9453. And you have never been in the position of Sergeant Higgins, having had things sent to you, and having returned them? On one occasion after we had been making a raid some things were left at my gate. I was living at Lower Fort-street then.
9454. What were they? Some of them were tea-boxes, I think—there were two chests of tea and some other things. Sergeant Higgins and I came up and fetched them down to the police station to Mr. Atwill, and then Sergeant Higgins and I took the 'bus and carried them up to the Superintendent's.
9455. Was that the only occasion on which you were the recipient of any presents? Yes; that was the only occasion.
9456. You never had a small bag of sovereigns sent to you? No; I am sorry to say I have not. They would have come in very handy.
9457. You do not mean to say that you have never had a bag of sovereigns sent to you? I found a book full of sovereigns on one occasion—400 odd, and I returned them; they belonged to a man who I locked up.
9458. Oh! you found the owner? Yes; he was locked up for being drunk.
9459. Did he give you anything? Well, I do not know whether he did or not; a letter came from Mudjee some time afterwards for constable 311 (that was me) containing £10.
9460. What did you do with it? I gave it to my wife.
9461. Did you report it? Yes, to Inspector Johnson who was my superior at that time, and he said, "Does anybody owe you the money?" "Yes;" I said, "there are lots of people owe me money, but I do not think I shall ever get it." "Well," he said, "you are constable 311."
9462. Summing the whole thing up do you think it would be an advantage to that locality, and would restore the business to it if the Chinese gambling-places were cleared out from there altogether? I do not think it would, because the business has removed to the other end of the town.
9463. But is not that largely the result of the presence of the Chinese up there;—we have been told that respectable people will not on that account pass along Lower George-street? I do not think there is anything in that because some people go down Lower George-street to the Quay now, and some go down Pitt-street. My opinion, as I have said before, is that the difference in the business done there now in comparison to what used to be done is caused chiefly through the A.U.S.N. Company removing its offices to the other end of the town.
9464. But is not the objection on the part of respectable people to the Chinese so strong that it lowers the district altogether? Well, I see a good many respectable people going down to the Chinese shops and making purchases. There is one shop down there kept by a Chinaman in which you will see respectable people all day long.
9465. But you think that the falling off of business at that end of the town is principally due to other causes? Yes; to the shipping going up Darling Harbour.
9466. Mr. Quong Tart.] I have listened to your evidence and think that by the way you get into these places you bear out your name very well? I am afraid of nothing myself. I have a little hot temper, that is all.
9467. Of course you are aware that there are great complaints about the Chinese gambling? Yes.
9468. That it has been carried on especially in Lower George-street lately—more during the last six months than at any other time? I do not believe it, because we have had so many strikes lately. Sergeant Higgins and I have been out in the suburbs for three months, and another month and a half we were somewhere else.
9469. What is the principal game that they carry on down there? Only fan-tan and lottery-tickets as far as I know.
9470. Do you understand the game of fan-tan at all? I have a pretty good idea how it is played.
9471. And what do you think of the game—do you think it is a fair game? Well, as much as I have seen of fan-tan, and I have seen several different games in my life played in different countries, I think it is as fair a game as any that is played. It is the percentage that cooks the men.
9472. You think that there is no cheating in it? No; I think the percentage would do it.
9473. You have not heard of many people winning large sums of money? I heard of one or two men connected with the coals, having done rather well; but most people are more ready to tell us when they lose than when they win.
9474. Who win most—the Europeans or the Chinese? Well, some of the Chinese get hit pretty often, especially in the lottery business.
- 9475.

9475. Who stands the best chance in the long run—the gamblers or the proprietors of the gambling-houses? I think the gamblers. Mr. H. Adair.
9476. Do you mean the bankers or the Europeans who play? If the banker is struck he is bound to go broke, and I have heard of cases in which the bank was broken. 23 Oct., 1891.
9477. Supposing you were the banker (they are mostly companies), and I came in to gamble at your place, who would be the best off in the long run? The banker would be the best in the long run, if they only played long enough.
9478. What does the banker do between the times that he is gambling? Well, I think there are certain people control the bank for an hour or an hour and a half, or perhaps two hours.
9479. Suppose you are a gambler, and I am a banker, and we are shut up together in a house for a week, who would come off best? Well, I think that the gambler would come off the best in the end, because the percentage would break the other man.
9480. How many Europeans have been in the habit of frequenting these places? A good many.
9481. A hundred, or fifty, or how many? Oh, there must be more; because there are some Europeans who will never go to them, and there are others who nearly live there. If you are in the habit of visiting them you see nearly the same faces there always.
9482. Mr. Hawthorne.] You do not notice many fresh customers? Well, one of the regular visitors may bring a fresh customer now and then to initiate him into the game.
9483. But on the whole you generally see the same company there night after night? Yes; generally the same company.
9484. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you ever seen any respectable Chinese merchants visiting these gambling-houses? No; I never have.
9485. And you do not think they are connected with them in any way? Well, I do not think there are any Chinese merchants there who would mix themselves up with the gamblers—that is to the best of my belief.
9486. Have you ever known any member of the police force to guard the houses, whilst the gambling was going on inside? No; I have not.
9487. And if anybody has said that it is done, that is untrue? Yes; it is.
9488. Have you known any of the police to accept any bribe to not interfere with the gambling? It has never come to my knowledge.
9489. You never heard of any member of the force doing so? No; I never heard of such a thing.
9490. If anyone has come here, and said that any of the police have accepted bribes, you would not believe them? Well, there are some people down there who would say anything, but it is all hearsay.
9491. When is the gambling in full play? It generally starts about 10 o'clock in the day, and then they knock off for dinner, and go back in the afternoon; but the easiest time is between 8 and 9 at night.
9492. Mr. Hawthorne.] By that, we are to understand that when men have knocked off work and cleaned themselves, they came out for the purpose of gambling? Yes; they might take a stroll down, and take out a ticket, and then come back again when the bank was drawn, and see whether there was anything in it, and perhaps buy another ticket.
9493. What are the times for drawing the banks? Some of the banks are drawn at all hours.
9494. Do you know how many lottery-banks there are? I daresay there is one in every house. There are a good many. There are places where they only sell pak-ah-pu tickets. There is no gambling—no fan-tan—carried on in them, although some of them are classed as gambling-houses.
9495. How many of these places are there? Oh, a good many; because there are some private houses in Harrington-street where pak-ah-pu tickets are sold.
9496. Give us a rough guess at the number? Oh, there may be five or six in which only tickets are sold.
9497. Do you know anything at all about this game of pak-ah-pu? No, I do not, because they will not show the police or white men at all how the bank is drawn.
9498. If I told you that pak-ah-pu was a hundred times worse than fan-tan you would not believe me, I suppose? Well, I could not say, because they screw the tickets up in a basin, and draw them in that way. I saw them doing it some years ago, but I have not seen them lately.
9499. You were speaking of a pak-ah-pu case being heard in Court;—when was that? That I cannot say. I know it was sometime ago.
9500. Would it be four, five, or six years ago? It was whilst I was in the police force. I know that there was a conviction in one case, and another case was dismissed.
9501. Mr. Abigail.] Was the case that you refer to tried as recently as March last? Oh, it was before that.
9502. But do you know that three men were convicted as recently as March last, by Judge Backhouse, and no appeal made against the decision? No, I was not aware of that.
9503. Mr. Quong Tart.] How many people does it take to carry on this game of pak-ah-pu? I think there are three men in the rooms where they draw the bank.
9504. One drawing the tickets, and how many inside? I think they pass the tickets on from one to the other, and I think there is one inside. To the best of my belief there are altogether three Chinamen engaged in the transaction.
9505. What kind of a place is it that they draw the lottery in? Well, there is a room in wooden partition, and bars up it, closed fenced to a height of about 5 feet, and then bars and openings.
9506. And what coloured paper do they use inside—red, green, or blue? Well, they have a red ticket that is the bank ticket, and then the ticket you mark will be white and black.
9507. Do you see any white paper stuck inside on the walls? Yes, there is some white paper stuck inside on the walls.
9508. Do you know the meaning of it? No, I do not know what it means.
9509. You say that the ticket is rolled up;—where do they get it from? I think they take it out of the book—the book that is sold, and the tickets are all initialled beforehand.
9510. You say that there was a case against a lottery-bank dismissed in the Court;—do you know who the solicitor was? No, I do not.
9511. We should like to know how he got the case dismissed? Well, sometimes they manage to get the man off on a point of law, and sometimes on a technicality.
9512. This notice says, “Fan-tan carried on day and night inside,” and it also says, “Cash business—no tick?” No, I do not expect they would give them any tick.

- Mr. H. Adair. 9513. So, that, presuming you had understood the notices in Chinese—supposing that you had got the interpreter to read them, would you have taken any action? I do not think we should, because you must see the game and summon the people before you could get a conviction.
- 28 Oct., 1891. 9514. The mere notice is not sufficient? No, I do not think it should be.
9515. Mr. Hawthorne.] But supposing that a similar notice announcing that gambling was carried on within night and day appeared outside some of the tobacconist shops in George-street, what would be your course of procedure then? We should try and catch them gambling.
9516. But you did not know that this notice had any reference at all to gambling? No, I did not.
9517. And it is only during the last few weeks that you have been informed that this white notice on many of the buildings in Lower George-street stated that gambling was carried on day and night? It is only during the last fortnight, because there are notices of several different colours out.
9518. Mr. Quong Tart.] Did you notice white paper stuck outside any of the really respectable merchant's places? Yes, I think I have.
9519. White paper? Well, I think it was white. It was a large placard.
9520. Yes, but was it red or white? I cannot say which, but I know that it was a large notice.
9521. Well it cannot have been white if it was outside a respectable merchant's place. Only the gamblers put white paper notices outside their shops. I may tell you for your future guidance, that if you find any white paper notices outside Chinese houses you should take notice of them, but if they are red paper notices they are merely business advertisements? Yes, I know the red paper is stuck up principally during the Chinese New Year.
9522. Yes, that is to wish you a happy New Year, but if you saw the other notices up, and knew what they meant, could you not take action? I do not think that a magistrate would grant a warrant on those grounds, because there might be people bad-minded enough to go and stick some up on another man's door. There are some people who even break the windows of houses occupied by anyone who gives information to the police. If anyone gives information to the police his windows are bound to be broken.
9523. Mr. Hawthorne.] Are you speaking of information given in reference to gambling carried on by the Chinese particularly? No, not particularly. If a man gives any information to the Chinese his neighbours will break his windows.
9525. I suppose we could say that there is no worse district in the metropolitan division than your district? Oh! the district is all right as far as the district is concerned, because the working-classes help the police; but what we have to contend against are the seamen of all nationalities who come into it.
9526. But amongst the police themselves is your district considered the worst? Well, some say that it is the worst, but I do not. I can do my duty very well there. I have no trouble with anyone—either coal-lumpers or wharf-labourers.
9527. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have either Europeans or Chinese ever complained to you of the nuisance of this Chinese gambling? Mr. Swinburne is the only one who has complained to me.
9528. Nobody has complained to you that the Chinese gambling has interfered with their business and stopped the traffic? No; I do not see how it could interfere with Mr. Swinburne's business, because he is a boot-maker. I have never seen any traffic stopped there, although there may be a row occasionally.
9529. Nor complained of the necessity of something being done to stop the evil? Well, sometimes there is a smell of opium. Strangers would smell it, perhaps, but not people living down there for years.
9530. Opium has a peculiar smell? Yes.
9531. Do you think there is much smoking in the gambling-shops? I do not think there is much smoking of opium in the gambling-shops myself.
9532. What do you think of the gambling at the present time in Lower George-street;—is it increasing or decreasing? It is decreasing.
9533. Amongst the Chinese, against whom you had to proceed for breaking the law, what is the principal offence—gambling, stealing, or what? Well, there are some Chinamen like some Europeans—convicted of stealing.
9534. Yes, but of all the cases that are brought against the Chinese generally, what, in your opinion as a policeman of long standing down there, is the principal charge against them? Well, in a good many cases that have come to my knowledge, it is cases against the Chinese arise principally in connection with these gambling-dens. A man might go in and play, and then claim a shilling, and the Chinaman would not give it to him, and there would be a row. The man who, perhaps, started the row, might have 6d. or 1s. when he went there, and having lost that would want them to give him a start again.
9535. Mr. Hawthorne.] Then the principal charges against the Chinese, I understand from that, arise through the disappointment of Europeans in connection with losses contracted in these gambling-places? Yes; I know myself that there used to be several men who levied black-mail on the Chinamen. If they did not give money they would go and knock them around.
9536. Have you found any of those cases arising in the places of respectable Chinese merchants? No; I have not. There may have been one case, in which a person was charged with beating a man in On Chong's. I arrested that man myself. It was some years ago.
9537. Now, there is a great complaint about this; it is said, "Why do the police allow gambling to be carried on so openly among the Chinese?" I do not see how you can see it at all unless you get into the back rooms.
9538. It is not true that you can see it from the street? No, it is not. If we could see it from the street there would have been a great many more raids made, but we cannot see it unless we get into the back rooms, and that is such a very hard matter, I do not call pak-ah-pu gambling at all. They merely go in to buy tickets.

WEDNESDAY, 11 NOVEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., | QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Henry Ah Wah called and examined:—

H. Ah Wah.

11 Nov., 1891.

9539. President.] What are you? I am a grocer by trade.
9540. Where do you live? I live at my cousin's place, in Harrington-street.
9541. Where are you working now? I am not working at the present time.
9542. Where were you working last? I was working for my cousin.
9543. Where at? Ah Sue's.
9544. Where does he carry on business? At 229 and 185, George-street North.
9545. What is he? A general storekeeper, or merchant.
9546. How long have you been in the Colony? About twelve or thirteen years.
9547. About what age were you when you first came to the Colony? I was about 5 years of age.
9548. That would make you about 17 years of age now. What is your exact age? Nineteen years.
9549. Have you remained in the Colony ever since you came here? No; I have been home to China since.
9550. And how long did you remain in China? Nine months.
9551. How long is it since you have been back from China? About two years, or more.
9552. What was your object in going back to China? I went to see my mother.
9553. Is your father living? No.
9554. Was that the only object you had in going to China? That was all.
9555. Whom have you been employed by since you came back to Sydney? I was at my uncle's. I was educated at his place.
9556. Who is your uncle? John Ah Sue.
9557. And have you been with him since you came to the Colony? Yes.
9558. You are in the fancy goods business? Yes.
9559. Does your uncle do any other kind of business? He is also an agent for portrait painting in oils.
9560. He keeps a general fancy store, I suppose? Yes.
9561. Does he do anything in the way of gambling? No.
9562. Are you quite sure? Yes.
9563. Have you ever been to Tingha? Yes; I was there.
9564. How long is it since you were there? About eight or nine months ago, I think.
9565. How long did you stop there? About three or four months.
9566. What were you doing at Tingha? I was tin-mining there—prospecting.
9567. Did you work at it? I went out with a party—there were four of us. I took the money out for them to work; but I also did some work occasionally.
9568. What do you mean by taking the money out for them to work? I got all the tools and things necessary to go prospecting.
9569. Where did you get them from? From the storekeepers.
9570. Had you money of your own to pay for those things? Yes; I paid for some of them, and got others from my cousin's place.
9571. Did the other three of your party subscribe anything? Yes; some. But I put the most towards it, and if we got any tin I was to get the largest share proportionally.
9572. In consideration of your providing more money you had to get the largest share of the proceeds of your mining venture? Yes; in proportion to the share contributed.
9573. How long is it since you gave up prospecting? About eight months ago, I think.
9574. And you then came down to Sydney? Yes.
9575. What have you been doing since you came to Sydney? I have been interpreting, and sometimes writing letters, and doing other things for my countrymen.
9576. Have you had any other means of living besides that? I was working at Bow Sing Tong's for some time.
9577. How long have you been with him? I was working for him for about three months and a half.
9578. How was it you came to live there? I left there because the master did not need me.
9579. Who was the master? Jas. Ung Quay, of Tin War & Co.
9580. Jas. Ung Quay is the proprietor of the place? He is not the proprietor, but he employed me.
9581. Now you appear to be a very intelligent young man, and you can give the Commission a lot of information, on this question if you like; I want you to speak out? Yes, I will tell you all I know.
9582. What is the name over the door of the place you worked in—Bow Sing Tong? Yes.
9583. Is that name only a blind to conceal the real name? No; that is the name of the firm.
9584. Then how does Ung Quay become a proprietor if it is the name? There are several in the firm.
9585. Is Ung Quay the principal? They all have shares—every one of them.
9586. Who are in the firm besides Ung Quay? Lee Sow, Sue On, Ah Chin, and Ah Hook.
9587. Are there no other members in the firm? No; those were all that had shares when I was there.
9588. Now, what business do they carry on in this place? Well, it is a gambling-place—a fan-tan house for the Chinese to play amongst themselves.
9589. The shop is kept entirely for playing fan-tan? Yes, for gambling amongst themselves.
9590. Any one that likes to go in there to gamble can do so? Oh! yes.
9591. Europeans as well as Chinese? No; no Europeans go there.
9592. Are you quite sure that no Europeans go there? Quite sure.
9593. It is maintained exclusively for Chinese? Yes.
9594. Is it frequented by large numbers of Chinese? No; not so very many.
9595. I suppose there is no distinction made—that is to say, any one that likes can go in there so long as they have money? Oh! yes; they can go whether they have money or not.

- H. Ah Wah. 9596. Do any of those men you have mentioned who have an interest in the place play themselves? Yes, they play, now and again.
- 11 Nov., 1891. 9597. Does Ung Quay play there? No.
9598. Have you never seen him play at all? I have not.
9599. Are you quite sure? Quite. I have not seen him. He does not give his name or anything. He gives the money to other people, who let their names appear, and he keeps his name out of it.
9600. Are we to understand from you that Ung Quay is connected with the gamblers, but does not want the public to know it? Yes.
9601. And he works on other people's names, although he himself is one of the partners? Yes. He has other people like Lee Sow to take up his share for him; and it goes under Lee Sow's name, although at the same time it belongs to Ung Quay.
9602. Other persons put up their names, but the business really belongs to Ung Quay? It is not his altogether—the others have a share each; but Ung Quay does not allow his name to appear.
9603. But you knew when you were there that Ung Quay was one of the partners? Yes.
9604. How often used he to go there? Perhaps once a week, or once a fortnight, or something like that. Sometimes he would come, and other times he would not.
9605. But you are positive that Ung Quay is one of the firm trading as Bow Sing Tong? Yes; he is one of the partners, but does not allow his name to appear; I know it because I was employed there.
9606. And you looked upon Ung Quay as one of your masters? Yes.
9607. Did Ung Quay pay you? He did not pay me. He employed me, and the man outside in charge of the money paid me my wages. It was Ung Quay who asked me to go and take up the job.
9608. Jas. Ung Quay asked you to take the job, and work in this gambling-house? Yes.
9609. And he goes there once every week? Sometimes he goes once in the week, sometimes twice a week, and sometimes he would not be there for a month, perhaps.
9610. He goes there at different times, but always keeps up his connection with the place, and is in reality one of the masters? Yes.
9611. When you saw Jas. Ung Quay come into the place you always looked upon him as one of the masters employing you, and treated him as such? No. When he came in he was just the same as an ordinary man. But at the same time he had a share. He told us not to put his name forward. But I knew he was employing me; and if I was employed by him he must have a share in the place. I know he has one share, because it was his share I was working for like.
9612. Do you know whether Ung Quay is interested in any other place besides that? Well, I have heard he is in a place called Wang War, but I am not positive. I have heard people say he is.
9613. You are not sure on that point? No.
9614. Do you know if he is interested in any other house used as a gambling-place? He might have in a lot of them for all I know, but he does not let it be known. The only place I know in which he has an interest is Bow Sing Tong, and I know that because he employed me.
9615. In this place, you are referring to, did they carry on the gambling-business openly? No; they did not carry it on so openly.
9616. Has it a shop front? Yes.
9617. Are there any goods displayed in the shop? When I was there they had medicine and cigars, and cigarettes, and all that kind of things to be sold.
9618. Did they do much business in any other way besides the gambling-business? No; not much.
9619. Did they do any business in the chemist's line? Very little, just about enough to pay the rent.
9620. Would they have been able to carry on but for the gambling-business? I do not think so. They might have been able to clear the rent perhaps.
9621. What is your impression—that the chemist's business was put forward in the front shop as a kind of blind to the public? No; it was not a blind. They imported the medicine, so that they could make something out of that at the same time.
9622. Was the gambling-place at the back of the premises? No; it is in the next room to the shop.
9623. That is, behind the shop? Yes.
9624. Did they declare any dividends while you were there? No. They did not make anything while I was there. When I left they had lost about £40 or £50.
9625. Did they supply people with medicine there? Yes; customers came in occasionally.
9626. Chinese customers? Yes. The Chinese doctors would give prescriptions, and they would come in there and get them dispensed.
9627. Did they keep a dispenser on the premises? Yes; one man was kept there for that.
9628. He did nothing else but dispense medicine? He did all the shop work.
9629. How much a week do you think they took in the chemist's shop? Including tobacco and other things together, they would sometimes take £10 or £12 in the week.
9630. What rent did they pay? I do not know what the rent was exactly.
9631. About what amount per week would it be, do you think? I think about £3 a week, but I am not positive.
9632. Did the shareholders in Bow Sing Tong divide the profits of the gambling? There was no division of profits while I was there.
9633. You have been in other gambling-places, I suppose? No, sir.
9634. Whom did you apply to when you got your engagement with the firm of Bow Sing Tong? I did not apply to anyone. Ung Quay asked me if I would like to take the job, and I told him yes.
9635. What was the job? To be in the shop.
9636. What were your duties? I was to stop in the place and look after it; and if any Europeans came in—especially disorderly Europeans—I was to tell them they could not come in, and to go out. Ung Quay employed me for that purpose, because he said I could speak English.
9637. Did you know that you were to take part in a gambling establishment when you went there? Yes.
9638. You knew that perfectly well? Yes.
9639. Did Ung Quay give you to understand that you would have to look after the gambling portion of the premises as well? I was to look after the place; to keep the Europeans from entering the inside part; and then, of course, if any Europeans came in to buy tickets, I was to mark them for them. I did not take any other part such as the banker or croupier, or anything like that. I was simply in the shop to to look after the place, and see that the other employees did their duty; to mark the tickets, and keep the Europeans from coming in. H. Ah Wah.

9640. Ung Quay knew what he engaged you do? He did.

11 Nov., 1891.

9641. Supposing the rent was £3 a week and the takings, say, £10 a week, would there not be five shares in that? Yes.

9642. How would they divide that, do you know—there would be so little to divide among them? Yes, but they let off some of the rooms.

9643. They let them out the same as a lodging-house? Yes.

9644. For gambling purposes? No; simply for lodgings.

9645. Are the upper rooms in the house provided with beds? No; they provide beds themselves.

9646. Are there any families living there? No.

9647. There are no women there at all? No.

9648. How long have they been in the house where they are now? When I came from Tingha it was running then, but different people had it that time.

9649. Had Ung Quay an interest in it at that time? Not that I know of.

9650. How long is it since Ung Quay has had an interest in this particular business? About five or six months to my knowledge. I was living up in Harrington-street, and Ung Quay came one day to me and asked me if I would like to take the job, and I told him yes. He did not tell me that the place was his, or anything like that.

9651. But he was the first to ask you to go and be employed there? Yes; it was he who employed me first, and afterwards one of his cousins came and asked me to go over.

9652. Is the cousin you refer to among the names you have given of those having an interest in the business? It was Lee Sow—not a cousin exactly, but of the same community.

9653. So it was Ung Quay who saw you, and made arrangements for you to go and be employed at Bow Sing Tong's, and you saw Lee Sow? Yes; he is in the firm.

9654. Was Lee Sow there when you lived in the place? He came there at the same time as I did—he started to work at the same time.

9655. What did he do? Well, he has a share in the place.

9656. But what did he do during the day? He did work in the place.

9657. What kind of work? Playing fan-tan.

9658. He used to look after the gambling? Yes. Of course the place is for the Chinese amongst themselves.

9659. Did Ung Quay come in while they were gambling? No; he came at night-time, or early in the morning, when the play had ceased.

9660. Did he never go in while they were playing? No.

9661. What was his object in not going in when they were playing;—did he not want anyone to imagine that he was connected with it? I think so. He told me not to let his name appear.

9662. Do you know the firm of Cheang Ah Chang? Yes.

9663. Are they gamblers? No.

9664. Are you quite sure? Yes.

9665. Do you know Goon War Koon? Yes—at least there is no Goon War Koon now—it is Sue Hing Loong.

9666. Who owns that? I think there are two or three in it.

9667. Does Ung Quay own it? I cannot say; he never lets anyone know.

9668. What is his object in not letting anyone know? Well, I suppose, because it does not look well to the public.

9669. Is Ung Quay considered a respectable Chinaman? I think so.

9670. Are you not sure;—what was the reason of your leaving that firm? The reason was that there was a quarrel between one of my cousins and one of his men—that is, one from the same country as himself.

9671. A kind of family quarrel? My cousin hurt one of his countrymen, and he said that I had put him up to do it.

9672. Was that the reason you left;—did they discharge you? Yes, afterwards they did. My cousin was cook at Tiy War Tong's. Lee Sow was at the place, and he was grumbling about there not being sufficient food, and meddling with everything. My cousin told him not to go in the kitchen, and an altercation took place, the result being that they had a fight, and my cousin had the best of it—he hit him in the nose.

9673. Your cousin hit Lee Sow in the nose? Yes.

9674. Who began the fight? Lee Sow hit my cousin first—he put up his hands first, but he (Lee Sow) afterwards gave my cousin in charge. It was on a Sunday, and I went down to the station and asked the inspector if I could bail him out.

9675. Did the inspector allow you to bail him out? I got my uncle to bail him out.

9676. Was your cousin brought up and tried? No.

9677. Did not they proceed with the charge? Well, I suppose the other side found out that the case would be dismissed if they went to Court, and they made it up with us.

9678. Was it Ung Quay or Pow Chee got the matter settled out of Court for you? It was Ung Quay said we had better make it up.

9679. What did they do;—did they pay you anything? No; we paid them something to buy some grub, to have something to drink, and settle it that way.

9680. Your cousin gave some money to provide refreshments for the man he had assaulted, so as to make friends, and the matter was settled out of Court in that way? Yes; and Ung Quay gave me the sack after that.

9681. You are quite sure that Ung Quay is one of the proprietors in Bow Sing Tong's? Yes; he has got a share.

9682. He is one of a firm that carries on gambling as well as this chemist's shop? Yes.

9683. And any Chinaman can go in and gamble at this place? Yes.

9684. If there is any profit in the business, Ung Quay shares in them—he participates in the dividends? He gets his share if there is sufficient to divide.

- H. Ah Wah. 9685. What were you supposed to do in that establishment? I was in the shop looking after the place and keeping the Europeans out.
- 11 Nov., 1891. 9686. But I suppose you had something else to do besides that, did you not? I had to mark the tickets in the shop.
9687. And Ung Quay engaged you to mark them? Not Ung Quay himself—that is to say, he did employ me at first, but he did not pay me my wages. The company paid me.
9688. And Ung Quay is one of the company, although his name does not appear? Yes.
9689. Do you know any other gambling-places down there? No; I do not go in much.
9690. All that you have stated to the Commission now is not hearsay, but actual facts? Yes.
9691. Facts gained by you during your four months' experience at Bow Sing Tong's? Yes.
9692. And the only cause of your leaving was the row that took place between your cousin and the other man? Yes. Ung Quay suspected that I was at the bottom of it, or something like that, because I went down to the station and asked for bail for my cousin, and interpreted for him. You see I was a mate of Lee Sow at this time, and they said I was taking the part of my cousin instead of my mate.
9693. You knew fan-tan was an unlawful game, I suppose? Yes.
9694. Were you ever troubled by the police;—did they visit your place? No.
9695. Did the police not visit Bow Sing Tong at all? Not that I know of. I was only there three or four months.
9696. You never saw any police come in while you were there? No.
9697. Are they still carrying on there? I have not been in since I left the place.
9698. Have you seen Ung Quay lately? No.
9699. Have you not met him since you left that place? No. I have been up the Parramatta district lately.
9700. Did the firm ever tell you that if you were caught by the police your expenses would be paid by the firm? Oh, yes; the company pays.
9701. Do you say the police never came in while you were there? Not that I know of.
9702. Who used to take the part of banker and croupier in your business? Those that I have mentioned; they used to take it in turns.
9703. The four persons you have mentioned used to take the part of banker and croupier alternately? Yes.
9704. Did you ever see Ung Quay take one of these positions? No.
9705. Did Ung Quay ever say anything in your hearing that it was wrong to engage in gambling, or that you ought not to do so? He never said anything of that kind to me.
9706. Do you come from the same district in China as Ung Quay? Yes.
9707. Do you belong to the same clan as Ung Quay? No.
9708. Is Ung Quay very much respected among his own people? Yes.
9709. He is looked upon as a very respectable Chinaman? Yes. He provided the money for our wages whether there was anything doing or not, and when any of his countrymen came there, there was a place for him to stop at. For instance, if the gardeners came, they could stop there, and go away the next day if they liked.
9710. The people working out in the suburbs would go in there? Yes.
9711. And would he make no charge? No.
9712. He would allow them to stop there free? Yes. He would keep a place ready for his own people.
9713. Used he to provide them with food? No.
9714. They would pay for their own food? They would get their food somewhere else.
9715. Mr. Abigail.] But they got their lodgings free? Yes.
9716. Mr. Quong Tart.] Who acted as chemist in that place—Bow Sing Tong? Sue Hoon.
9717. He understands chemists' work? I think he does. I do not understand it myself.
9718. Did you ever hear Ung Quay stop the people gambling? No; in fact I did not see very much of him.
9719. How much per week did they pay you? They gave me £1 a week and my keep.
9720. Now, I want you to give us an idea of the position occupied by Ung Quay among his countrymen in Sydney;—do you think the Chinese merchants look up to him? I do not think so—not now.
9721. They used to? Yes.
9722. Can you tell us the cause of the change? I think it was on account of a law-suit between Sam Choy and another, some time ago.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. Thos. Nock recalled and examined:—

- Mr. T. Nock. 9723. Mr. Abigail.] We have summoned you to appear before us to-day, Mr. Nock, in reference to some matter which, it appears, cropped up in conversation between you and Mr. Lindeman with regard to Mr. Atwill. Will you kindly state to the Commission what took place on the occasion referred to? Before I proceed further, sir, I should like to mention a matter bearing on what I said when I was here last about my fear of the police, and the difficulty that there was in getting men to give evidence for fear of the police. It is a difficult matter for me to explain, but you will see in this newspaper [produced] an account of a matter in which a constable is concerned, who has been to a large extent on duty at our end of the city, and which has a direct bearing on what I have said as to the fear in some men's minds if they say anything to the prejudice of the police. If such a policeman has a "set" upon a man he will "have" him at no matter what cost. You will see from the case that a man has no law to appeal to against the persecution of a policeman if he has determined to put him away. [Paper referred to by the witness handed in.] 9724. President.] Is this apropos of Mr. Lindeman? Only in so far as it bears on the difficulty of getting people to give evidence which may reflect on the police.
9725. But you have some special information to give the Commission, I understand, in which Mr. Lindeman and Inspector Atwill are concerned? Yes. Mr. Lindeman came into our shop to see if he could sell a line of goods that he had had in stock for a considerable time. I told him there was no business doing in our end of the town; that things were getting worse instead of better, and that I would not spend spend another shilling on the place. Mr. Lindeman said, "No, I was glad to get out of the neighbourhood, for I lost some money when I was in it." I said, "Yes, and Inspector Atwill does not give us any redress in the Chinese matter at all." Then Mr. Lindeman said, "You are quite right: He (Atwill) put me to no end of expense when I was applying for my license for the 'Ropemakers' Arms Hotel.'" He made it necessary for no less than three magistrates to go and view the premises, and Mr. Lee, one of them, asked what was the meaning of asking him to come and look at the place, saying that it was good enough for him to live in, and he would not mind putting up there. Consequently I got my license in spite of Mr. Atwill, but yet he had the cheek to come to my place immediately afterwards, and say to me in the presence of my wife and the barmaid that I ought to make him a present of £100 on account of my getting my license—(although he had opposed me in every possible way)." I then said to Mr. Lindeman, "Well, there are a great many of these statements made by men who are afraid to come and repeat them before a properly constituted authority, because they are afraid of the vengeance of the police, these men being of obscure positions in life, who never would be missed if the police were to nail them, as assuredly they would. But you are a man of some standing in the community here, and I am not afraid to go and make the statement myself, and lay this matter before the Commission." He (Mr. Lindeman) made no objection. Our accountant was in the shop at the time, and I drew his attention to what Mr. Lindeman had said. Some reference was also made to the power exerted by the Masonic element down there, and Lindeman said, "Oh, I have got over that part of it, and have become a Freemason myself, and shall have no difficulty in getting the next license I may want."

Mr. T. Nock.
11 Nov., 1891.

9726. President.] Your accountant, you say, heard the statement made about Mr. Atwill and this £100? Yes; Mr. Chambers, that is our accountant, was present, and heard what passed, and also what I said about bringing the matter before this Commission. Lindeman also stated that Inspector Atwill made the remark in the presence of his wife, and barmaid, and that if he could prove it independently of her he would have had Mr. Atwill for it; but that he could not do so under the circumstances, fearing that they might charge him with conspiracy, and he would not venture accordingly.

9727. Do you know anything about an application that is said to have been made by Mr. Atwill for some cigars or tobacco on one occasion to Mr. Dawson, the fruiterer? Yes; I will tell you how that matter came up. You must know that since the Commission started, some of the houses alongside my place have not been able to pay the rents, and Mr. Beale has closed on them.

9728. Mr. Abigail.] So that there has been a reduction in the number of gambling-houses there since the Commission started? On that side there has been, certainly; but —

9729. President.] Kindly keep to the point you have started on? Well, Dawson it appears called Mr. Atwill's attention to the increasing nuisance of the gambling-dens on the other side of the road. Inspector Atwill told him he had better mind his own business. Dawson said, "I think it is my business; it is a d — fine state of things if I cannot call your attention to a breach of the law when I see it." Mr. Atwill asked him "Do you know who you are talking to?" "Yes," replied Dawson, "I believe I am talking to Mr. Atwill." Inspector Atwill then said: "If you talk to me again that way I will find you another billet." He (Dawson) came to me and gave it to me straight. He said after I got out of that place his shop being part of the "Ropemakers' Arms," which Lindeman had occupied, Atwill came to him and said, "I say Dawson, you are serving the warships, and I understand they keep good cigars and tobacco on board. You might get me some of that tobacco and a few cigars." Dawson told me he got the first lot and gave it to Mr. Atwill, and the second lot he left in charge of the watch-house keeper for Mr. Atwill.

9730. Was that given without payment? Yes.

9731. Did he say what quantity of tobacco or cigars there was? No; but I should think he would not undertake to get too much.

9732. Did Dawson say that Mr. Atwill requested him to obtain from the warships tobacco and cigars? Yes; I told Dawson I should give this matter to the Commission. He said well, if you do so, I shall state the truth about it.

9733. Were you in your shop on Saturday night week? I was.

9734. Was there a concourse of people near your premises that night? Yes.

9735. Were they Chinese or Europeans? Europeans.

9736. About how many were assembled? From 300 to 500 I should say. They had my pavement blocked, and the best portion of the road.

9737. What extent of the road did they cover? Nearly across to the other side.

9738. How long were they assembled there? For about half an hour.

9739. And what caused them to assemble there? Well, on going over to inquire, I saw a man with blood on his neck, and I asked him what was the matter—had he met with an accident? He replied "No, we have been gambling in a Chinaman's shop; we had a dispute, and one of the fellows jumped on my neck."

9740. Was he assaulted by a European? Yes.

9741. What shop were they gambling in? I cannot say.

9742. Were there no police there? I saw some there, but they made no arrest.

9743. Did they not attempt to disperse the mob? No.

9744. What time of the night was it? About 9 o'clock.

9745. Did the mob disperse itself? Yes; the police left them to.

9746. The row was over a gambling dispute? Yes.

9747. In a faa-tan shop? Yes; I saw the man who was injured talking to some policemen at the corner of Bridge-street half an hour afterwards.

9748. Who were the policemen? Constable Whelan; and afterwards Sergeant Higgins and Senior-constable Adair came along.

9749. Was Inspector Atwill there at all? No, I did not see him.

9750. You say you do not know the quantity of cigars that were given to Inspector Atwill by Dawson? No; I know nothing further than what Dawson told me. He said he held his commission for supplying the warships from Admiral Tryon, and he dare not bring off too much.

9751. Would he not have to purchase them there? He might have purchased them, but he did not tell me he did so.

9752. What reason would there be for Mr. Dawson making a present of tobacco and cigars to Mr. Atwill? Well, I understood it was because he gave Dawson the straight tip to move out of his place rather than remain to have the place taken from him, as he (Atwill) was going to oppose Lindeman's license for the hotel, and the shop Dawson occupied formed part of the premises of the hotel.

- Mr. T. Nock. 9753. But Dawson having a separate business, apart from the hotel, how would Inspector Atwill's taking action against Lindeman, the licensee of the hotel, affect him, Dawson? Because Dawson was a tenant of Lindeman's, and I suppose the reason was that Dawson would have had to shift if Lindeman lost his license; he would have had to go immediately, that is.
- 11 Nov., 1891. 9754. Would that have seriously embarrassed Dawson? It might have done, if he could not get another place. But at that time there was a place vacant in the immediate vicinity which the inspector told him he could get.
9755. Your idea is that Dawson made the present to Inspector Atwill because the inspector told him he was going to procure the condemnation of Lindeman's license? Yes; that is what Dawson told me.
9756. Do you think that is sufficient reason for Dawson making a present to Inspector Atwill? That is the impression in my mind.
9757. If that were so, how came it that the present was not voluntarily made—I understood you to say in the course of your statement that it was Mr. Atwill himself who suggested that Dawson should bring the cigars or tobacco to him? Yes.
9758. Then should not it have been the other way about—that is to say, that Dawson, desiring to make a present to Inspector Atwill should himself have suggested it in the first place? Well, I suppose Dawson did not see it in that light until the matter was put to him.
9759. Mr. Chambers is your accountant? Yes.
9760. And you say he was present when this statement was made to you? With regard to Lindeman, yes.
9761. And also with regard to the cigars? No.
9762. Only with regard to Lindeman and the £100? Yes.
9763. Did you ever speak to Inspector Atwill on the subject? No.
9764. Mr. Abigail.] Is it a fact that Chinese gambling in Lower George-street has decreased of late—say within the last two months? Well, it seems to have fallen off at times, and then it begins again. They appear to know when the police are coming, and then they knock off, but begin again afterwards, and so on.
9765. Is it not true that a number or several of these gambling-shops have given up business because of the falling off in attendance of late? Yes, that is so; but other shops have gained in consequence, so that it is as broad as it is long for the matter of that.
9766. That is, when one place is closed up the people who have been in the habit of attending there, go into other shops whose business perhaps is thus largely increased;—is that what we are to understand? Yes.
9767. You think the gross number of those who attend the gambling-houses is the same as before, although the number of shops may be less? Exactly so.
9768. Is it not a fact that the attendance of Europeans at these places has greatly fallen off compared to what it was, say, six months ago? The falling off has not been so large during the last six months as the last twelve months.
9769. Then you think the Chinese gambling in that quarter has fallen off during the last twelve months? Yes, it has done so. I know that Mr. Beale used to receive £38 a week from those houses near my place, and I do not think he gets £14 now.
9770. After the Chinese have vacated the premises I suppose great difficulty is experienced in getting European tenants for them? Yes. I recommended a person to take one of these shops, and he said he could not do so until they cleared the whole lot of the Chinese out of them, and made the places fit to live in.
9771. What is the matter with them? They are in such a filthy dirty state.
9772. Are they not comparatively new houses? So far as the buildings themselves are concerned, but it would cost £20 at least to do each of them up.
9773. Mr. Hawthorne.] You stated in your evidence before that you saw Constables Beadman and Carson leaning over the counter in one of these gambling-shops, smoking opium—that you corrected, I think? Yes. They could not smoke opium leaning over the counter.
9774. You stated also that you went up to them, and spoke to them about being in these places, and you suggested that they were there to serve their own ends;—what are we to understand from that particular part of your evidence? Well, it means that they were not seemingly there to serve the public interests. I may say that this question bears on what the President said to me when I was here previously, being examined on this subject, and which does not look very well in print. I refer to the remark of the President, on some evidence of mine about the police, that "every man has his own form of delights." But I take it that a police officer is not supposed to have any form of delight but doing his duty; he is not supposed to be found mixing up with gamblers when he is on duty.
9775. Do you think it is possible for the police to discover what is going on in these gambling-dens for the purpose of proceeding against the proprietors of them unless they make use of objectionable characters for the purpose of working up evidence to that end? If that was so how came they to say that "nothing could be done," as they had Members of Parliament at their backs, and that the properties were owned by influential citizens. That does not look very much as if they were bent on doing their duty.
9776. Are you positive that you saw those constables go up to Chinese gamblers and slap them on the back, and ask them who won the last game, or words to that effect? I have given my evidence here on oath, and from that I will not go back.
9777. But I want you to be quite sure now, after reflection. We have had witnesses here since you were under examination, and I want to give you an opportunity of thinking over the matter as to whether you really had substantial foundation for the statement that you had seen those policemen clap gamblers on the back in a friendly manner, and ask them who won the last game;—have you seen them do that? I have.
9778. And you have heard them ask, "Who won the last game"? Yes; or whether it was Dick, or some other man, won the game, and how much he got out of it.
- 9779–80. If any one has denied the accuracy of a statement such as that which you made to the Commission on a former occasion, and have now repeated, he has not spoken the truth? Certainly not. I should say it was false. I may say that the conversation which I had with Beadman was repeated in the presence of a third party; that is the conversation in which I asked him to let me make use of the statement made by him as to the ownership of the Chinese houses, and he said I must think him a fool to do so.
9781. Who was the third party on that occasion? One of my men serving at the counter.
9782. Was that since you first gave evidence here? No; before that. The first conversation I had with him was twelve months ago, if not more; and as we were alone my statement would not go for more than his. But on the occasion I am now referring to I saw my man serving him in the shop, and I asked him why why he still continued to go to the Chinese gambling-shop in question in the face of my caution. He gave me exactly the same answer as before, which I have told you; and when I asked him—as he had now repeated it twice—whether he would allow me to make use of the statement, he said, “You must think me a b— fool to let you do that.” I said in answer to that, “Well this man has heard what you have said anyway.”

9783. And what did he say in reply? He said nothing; but simply turned on his heel and walked out.

9784. Have you met either Beadman or Carson since you gave evidence here on the first occasion? I have passed them scores of times, but have not entered into conversation with them. I have heard them pass unkind remarks about me.

9785. You do not salute each other when you meet? No; I have looked them straight in the face, and they have pointed at me as I passed them.

9786. You have not had any conversation with them at all? No.

9787. Have you had any conversation with Inspector Atwill? None whatever.

9788. Have you met him in any way whatever? Yes; I met him the other day as I was going out of the shop, and he acknowledged me and said, “Good day”; but he said it as if he would have been glad to escape doing so if he could.

9789. You expressed your opinion to the Colonial Secretary that many more arrests would have been made on the occasion of the raid but for warning having been given? Yes.

9790. Now, were you in a position to state that warning had been given, or did you know any person who had heard that warning had been given before the police arrived on the scene? Those men are afraid to state were they get their information from.

9791. What men do you refer to? The European gamblers.

9792. They are afraid to say what they know? Yes; I have proof of it. A man came to me about three weeks or a month ago, at 10 o'clock one Saturday morning, and said, “You people are fools; you think you are going to have us to-night; but we have got the office, and you will see how we shall walk out when the police come in.” I think he mistook the League for the Commission.

9793. That was three weeks ago, you say? Yes; probably more than that.

9794. And did this man state to you that he had information that the police would be round on that occasion? Yes; he said that they heard that the police would be round at 9 o'clock.

9795. Who was the man? I would rather not give his name.

9796. I think you must? But the Commission will not protect me or —

9797. President.] The law of the country will? I think not, sir.

9798. Well, we cannot enter into a debate with you on that point now; if the Commission think it necessary that the man's name should be revealed, I think you should reveal it, the question raised being of such an important character? That may be, Mr. President, but the Commission will not protect me, or that man.

9799. You might just as well reason that way with regard to Lindeman, or any other man; but the Commission are not going to enter into a debate with you as to what you are going to state or to withhold in giving your evidence here; if we think it necessary to know the man's name you will have to reveal it. So far we have had too much hearsay evidence, and we have tried to get at the truth with regard to statements that have been made here, we have been met with, “Oh, So-and-so told me,” or something equally as intelligible or convincing.

9800. Mr. Hawthorne.] You must see that your evidence is really of little value at this stage unless you give us an opportunity of verifying the truth of what you state; for the sake of preserving your own reputation for veracity you should give the man's name;—can you not see that? Well, it appears to me that I have given my evidence here on oath, and that ought to be sufficient. Besides, as I have said, the Commission will not protect me or the man whose name I may drag into the affair.

9801. Mr. Abigail.] Here is your protection clearly defined in the Act (44 Vic. No. 1), by which we derive our authority to examine you; it says: “Any witness appearing before any such Commission shall have the same protection, and be subject to the same liabilities in any civil or criminal proceedings, as a witness giving evidence in any case tried in the Supreme Court.”

9802. Mr. Hawthorne.] I think, Mr. Nock, you had better make up your mind to give us the name of this man; you have given us information in connection with Mr. Lindeman of a far more serious character? That is a different matter. Mr. Lindeman would be missed if anything happened to him, but if they (the police) got hold of a wharf labourer on whom they had a “down” and ran him in for nothing at all, nothing would be heard of it very likely.

9803. That is only an opinion you are passing? I am stating what I believe to be the true facts.

9804. President.] So far as I am personally concerned, I do not attach any importance to the name being revealed as a means of throwing any light on the subject; nevertheless, the question has been put to you, and I would like you to answer it freely, and then we can summon the man to attend or not just as we please. You must understand that any weight to be attached to your testimony will depend upon some of your statements being corroborated;—now I want to get a corroboration of the statement you have made here with regard to a warning being given? Mr. Bowker said it to me in the presence of Mr. Chambers.

9805. Mr. Bowker is the man who made this statement to you about a month ago? Yes. I asked him to tell me where he got his information from, and he refused to tell me, on the ground that he would be a marked man if he did so. I know that I have to put up with insults now that I would not submit to if I could get at them.

9806. Mr. Abigail.] Have you made a complaint about this to the Inspector-General of Police? It would not be much use until we get somebody at the head of the Department who is fit for the position.

9807. Are we to infer from that that you think the Inspector-General is not fit for his position? Certainly; the whole Department is demoralised.

[The witness withdrew.]

[NOTE.—Mr. Nock appeared at a later stage and informed the Commission that since he had been in giving his evidence Mr. Lindeman had complained of the statements which he had made with respect to him (Lindeman), that they were calculated to do him harm, and that consequently he should withdraw his custom from the firm of Felton and Nock. Mr. Nock made this explanation with a view of showing the difficulty he laboured under as a witness giving his evidence before this Commission.]

To the President, Chinese Gambling Inquiry Commission,—

Sir,

194, George-street, 20 November, 1891.

In the course of my examination before your Commission on Wednesday last you remarked that my evidence had not been substantiated in all cases. I would therefore like to state that, though such may be the case, it does not necessarily follow that my statements are not true, and cannot be substantiated, for if I myself had had the slightest idea of

Mr. T. Nock, of the punishment my telling the truth has imposed upon our firm I would have hesitated to have come forward in the way I did. Having seen many of the witnesses who have given evidence, I find that in some cases they have withheld facts which could have borne me out, and they have explained to me that they have held by the police, through the sacredness attached to a constable's oath in Court, and they being without influence, and liable to be arrested at any moment on a false charge (such as the recent sailor's case), has prevented them from divulging all they knew, and I must say my sympathies are with them.

11 Nov., 1891.

As regards this Chinese gambling business and other forms of gambling, say that if the police did their duty (as in some cases they are now doing) the evil would soon be stamped out, and injustice on other people, as in the case of the tenants in this neighbourhood, by increased rent on their leases, combined with loss of trade by money going into illegitimate channels, would, in a great measure, be reduced. Now, sir, I would ask you the question who will recoup us our loss, say even the excessive rent paid to the landlord, which is, indeed, no small item during the last ten years?

During the passing of the Chinese Restriction Act we, who are sufferers by the loss of the genuine Chinese trade, to the extent of £500 per annum, knowing that the stoppage of the emigration was for the good of the public generally, made no complaint, although such stoppage has caused those Chinese who still remain to be independent, and, consequently, seeing their opportunity, take up fan-tan as an easy mode of living well without any hard work; for those merchants who, at one time, did their business through encouraging immigration, now employ these men who are left to carry on this gambling business. I would instance the case of my neighbour, who is a cabinet-maker, carrying on a legitimate business, he having frequent quarrels with his men; upon my inquiring the cause he informed me that, as no more Chinamen were coming into the country, his men were lazy and independent, and, on being remonstrated with, they have told him they could get an easier living by assisting at one of these fan-tan shops, and in fact some of them have left him to do so, making those still remaining working for him demand increased rates of pay, and, knowing his position, do less work.

The "boycott" placed upon our establishment by the Chinese (who form a considerable portion of the population down here), and the police, whose interest in this neighbourhood is very great, has nearly ruined our business, and we, who had hoped for speedy relief, find that we are simply punished for taking the steps we did.

Trusting that this letter will be attached to my evidence given before you,

I am, &c.,
THOMAS NOCK.

Mr. Chambers recalled and examined:—

- Mr. Chambers. 9808. President.] I believe you were present at an interview between Mr. Nock and Mr. Lindeman last month? Yes, I was.
9809. Can you state what was said in the course of that conversation relative to the matter which this Commission is investigating? Well, nothing much was said about the Chinese while I was there.
9810. Were you present when Lindeman told Mr. Nock that Mr. Atwill had come to him (Lindeman) and told him that he should give him £100 as a reward for allowing him to get a license for the "Ropemakers' Arms Hotel," or something to that effect? Yes; I was present when that was said, and Lindeman also said that had there been anyone else present besides his wife and the barmaid he would have brought it before the proper authorities.
9811. Was that the whole of the conversation? I cannot say whether that was the whole of the conversation between them.
9812. Was anything said about anyone obtaining cigars or tobacco from the warships free of duty for Mr. Atwill? I did not hear that said.
9813. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you remember a man named Bowker coming into your shop about a month ago and saying to Mr. Nock that it was no use the Commission thinking to catch the gamblers—that they always had the office? Yes.
9814. Tell us the exact words that were used if you can remember them? Bowker said that they never would get at the bottom of this Chinese gambling, because the word went round when raids were going to be made, and I think he also said that there was to be a raid made that night.
9815. Do you think he meant you to infer by that that some members of the police force gave information to him? Yes; that was my impression.
9816. Did he say so? I am under the impression that he said so.
9817. He was speaking to Mr. Nock at the time? Yes; and I overheard that part of the conversation. I am usually upstairs, but I happened to be in the shop at the time.
9818. Did Bowker say that he had been a witness before the Commission? No. He did not say anything to me at all—not at that time. I have only seen him twice to speak to.
9819. You do not know whether it was before or after he came up here? I should say it was after.
- [The witness withdrew.]

Mr. C. H. E. Lindeman called in and examined:—

- Mr. C. H. E. Lindeman. 9820. President.] What is your name in full? Charles Henry Edward Lindeman.
9821. What are you? I am a restaurant-keeper at present—I have been a hotel-keeper.
9822. Were you a resident of Lower George-street at one time? I was, from 1888 to 1889.
9823. What business did you carry on there? I was the licensee of the "Ropemakers' Arms Hotel."
9824. When you took the house I suppose you had to apply for the license in the ordinary way? Yes; I got a transfer of the license.
9825. Did you experience any difficulty in getting the license? Before I go any further I should like to say this much, with regard to the person that I am to give evidence about, that if he remains in his present position, my chances of obtaining another license are very remote, and I would therefore beg to be excused from saying anything which would further endanger my position in that respect, especially as I intend to apply for another license shortly.
9826. What you have said now will be recorded in evidence, and it amounts to this—that you are afraid to give evidence, lest when you apply for a license a certain police officer will be your enemy, and prevent you getting the license. But I may tell you now that it is imperative that you should give this evidence, and there is no escape for you. If you do not give the evidence we shall have to proceed against you in the ordinary way. You are aware, I suppose, that the Commission is clothed with the same power as a Supreme Court Judge, and if you render it necessary we shall have to take steps to compel you to answer the questions which are put to you. Now, when you applied for the license of the "Ropemakers' Arms," had you any difficulty in getting the license? My application was opposed.
9827. Who was the officer of the police who opposed the license being granted? Mr. Atwill.
9828. And what grounds did he give for opposing your application? Simply that I was not a fit person to hold a license.
9829. But what particular objection had he to you—did that come out in evidence? It was in this way: When I first came to this Colony I was employed in a club, and I afterwards took a private hotel in Princes-street, which I kept till last June. While there on one occasion my wife gave a bottle of stout to a certain individual, who happened to be an informer, and as a consequence I was fined for sly-grog selling.

9830.

Mr. C. H. E.
Lindeman.
11 Nov., 1891.

9830. That was one of the grounds? Yes.
9831. What other grounds did he state in the Court at the time? Simply that I was not a fit person.
9832. That was for the reason alleged. Was there any objection to the house? Not at that time.
9833. But you got the license? Yes; I got the license.
9834. You obtained your license in the teeth of the opposition from Inspector Atwill? I did.
9835. Did you bring any evidence as to character when you made your application for the license? No; I simply engaged Mr. Slattery to appear for me.
9836. Did you have any conversation with Inspector Atwill when the license was granted? Not at the time.
9837. Did Inspector Atwill strongly oppose your getting the license in the Court? In the first instance.
9838. Was it adjourned then? That is when the transfer was granted. The evidence really bears on the second occasion at the time of renewal. You must understand the hotel had a 61-foot frontage to Lower George-street. The property changed hands, and on a new landlord coming in he said he would take one side of it for a shop, and that was done. I went to Inspector Atwill and told him about it, I being the licensee, and he would not believe it. He said it was my doing.
9839. He objected to the accommodation being reduced? Yes; I told the landlord, but he took no notice, and went on with the alterations.
9840. Who was the owner? The owner was Mr. C. C. Scarrett, Mr. Kelso King being the agent. When the alterations were complete, Mr. Atwill told me I would not get the license. I asked him why, and he said I had acted against his orders. I said, "Look here, Mr. Atwill, I am in an unfortunate position. The landlord wants the rent, and I cannot stop him from coming in." When the alterations were completed, the shops were let. On the annual licensing day coming round, that is, the 30th June, 1889, I had to apply for a renewal of the license, and I had a notice of objection sent to me by Inspector Atwill.
9841. What was the objection? That the house had not got sufficient accommodation.
9842. Then it came on in Court again, and Inspector Atwill again opposed the license? Yes.
9843. And was it granted again, notwithstanding the objection? It was adjourned for a week, and the magistrates visiting the premises in the meantime. Then, there being only two on the Bench, the case was adjourned again to get a third magistrate, and the application was eventually granted by a majority of the Bench.
9844. Inspector Atwill never withdrew his opposition then? No, he did not.
9845. And is that the whole history of your connection with this public-house, so far as Mr. Atwill is concerned? Yes; excepting that after I got the license, I sold out right away, being anxious to get out of it. I sold four hours after I got the license. Meantime Mr. Atwill came to me in the evening, and said, "You ought to give me at least £100 for letting you get that license." This was in the bar.
9846. What did you say to that? I said, "I have nothing to thank you for, Mr. Atwill."
9847. As a matter of fact, you say he violently opposed you getting the license under any circumstances? Yes.
9848. Did you think he was serious in saying you ought to give him £100 for getting the license, seeing that he so strongly opposed your application? I can give no opinion as to that. All I know is that he never was very friendly to me.
9849. Do you think any sane man would expect you to give him £100 under the circumstances you have related to the Commission? No; I certainly would not.
9850. What further conversation, if any, did you have with him? I never spoke to him further than that.
9851. You simply pooh-poohed the idea of giving the £100? Yes.
9852. Who was in the bar at the time this occurred besides yourselves? My wife and the barmaid.
9853. What is the name of the barmaid? She is a Mrs. Dickenson now. Shields was her maiden name, and at that time she was unmarried.
9854. Where does she live now? I cannot say exactly; I think she lives at Pymont.
9855. Can you find out? Yes; I dare say I can; she called at my restaurant a few days ago.
9856. What is her husband? He was a fireman; but he is now working in a store in Sydney, I think.
9857. Do you know what store? I do not.
9858. We would like to know this person's address;—you say she lives at Pymont? Yes.
9859. Does she come to your place frequently? Not frequently.
9860. Do you know any one who is acquainted with her address? I do not.
9861. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Noek as to Mr. Atwill obtaining some cigars, duty free, from one of the warships? No.
9862. You have been carrying on business as a hotel-keeper in Lower George-street for twelve months? Yes.
9863. Were you ever prosecuted by the police for any offence during the time you carried on business in Lower George-street? No. I may say that Inspector Atwill, who is in charge of that district, has got a general down on foreigners. He has been heard to make the remark several times.
9864. May not that account for the large amount of Christian charity by which you are animated towards him? I do not know about that.
9865. You have no feeling towards him on that account? No; but I know he has slandered me in every way. After I left Lower George-street in June I applied for a license for the "Labour in Vain Hotel" in the central division, and Mr. Atwill told me that he would go up there and oppose me. I told him it was not in his division. I got the license, and held it till last July.
9866. Did he give you any reason when he said he would oppose your application, as to why he would do so? No.
- 9866½. When was that? The license was transferred to me in July, 1889, and I held it for two years all but a few days.
9867. Do you think it likely that he considered you acted rather sharply, having first represented to him that you were helpless in the matter of getting a license for the house in Lower George-street, and then selling out four hours after you got the license;—do you think he was annoyed at that? I do not see why he should.
9868. How long did you stay in the "Ropemakers' Arms" after getting the renewal? I got the renewal on the Friday, and sold out the same afternoon, and it was on the evening of the same day he was in there—that is Inspector Atwill. The transfer did not come up till the next Thursday.
9869. But he knew you had represented to him that you were helpless as regards your relations with Scarrett, the landlord, and that you had sold your license immediately you had got the renewal, notwithstanding his opposition? Yes.

- Mr. C. H. E. Lindeman.
11 Nov., 1891.
9870. Might he not have been incensed at your having outwitted him in that respect? I think not. It was the owner who was mostly concerned. Under the circumstances I do not think I would have got the license on my own merits, considering the opposition there was against me.
9871. But Inspector Atwill never withdrew his opposition, so that the owner could have no effect in that case, and you, having got your license in the teeth of the police opposition, sold out four or five hours after you got it;—he knew that you had done that probably? Certainly.
9872. Very well, then, might not that account for his apparent hostility to you which you complain of? I cannot say that.
9873. Then you accuse him of having acted in determined opposition to you because you are a foreigner? Well, I have been living in Church-hill, next the Fort-street school, since 1883, and he frequently said he would come and have me again for sly grog-selling.
9874. Do you not think he had sufficient against you as an applicant for a license on the ground of sly grog-selling? Yes; but it would only disqualify me from holding a license after a lapse of five years.
9875. I suppose you know it is the custom of the police to inquire into the character of a person applying for a publican's license? Certainly.
9876. So that his opposition might have been simply an act of public duty? Yes; but he might be far exceeding his duty, as I contend he was in my case.
9877. It was the duty of the inspector to place on record what he knew to be the facts. Did he appear in Court when you applied for the license for the "Labour in Vain Hotel?" No.
9878. Did he not openly oppose the application? No.
9879. Did you hear that he made any statement in writing, in the ordinary course of his duty, as to your character? No.
9880. Did you get your license on that occasion? Yes.
9881. And the inspector in charge of that particular district did not bring up anything against you? No.
9882. Does that look like persistent opposition on the part of Mr. Atwill;—do not you think your accusation against him is baseless? No; I do not.
9883. Is there not some anger or resentment left in you on account of his having brought a charge of sly grog-selling against you? I do not think so.
9884. You think your mind is quite free from any feeling of annoyance at his treatment of you on the occasion you have referred to? I go by his general conduct.
9885. Mr. Abigail.] How many licenses have you held in Sydney? Two.
9886. And you have sold out of both? No; I have not sold out of the "Labour in Vain Hotel."
9887. Does the license stand in your name? No; I only hold the hotel. I transferred the license after holding it for two years.
9888. Did you do so from fear of the police? No.
9889. Did you get paid for it? No. My intention was to remove to the Imperial Arcade (the Castle-reagh-street frontage), the owners of which were applying for a license.
9890. You meant to transfer your license to a better place? No, the license could not be removed, and there is no lease of the house. The owners of the "Imperial Arcade" were applying for a new license, and I had made arrangements with them to take over the place.
9891. They would have transferred to you? Certainly.
9892. Now, about the premises in Lower George-street, where Inspector Atwill made the remark to you about the £100;—did you sell out of that house? Yes.
9893. Did you make a profit on the transaction, or did you lose by it? I did not exactly lose by it. It was an insolvent estate, and I bought it at auction from the Official Assignee. I would have stopped there but that Inspector Atwill always seemed to have a down on me. First, the furniture was not right, and then something else was found fault with.
9894. What I want to know is, did you lose or make a profit on the transfer? I made a small profit.
9895. But your real reason for wishing to get away from that hotel was that Inspector Atwill appeared to be generally opposed to you? Certainly; but for that I might have remained there.
9896. Have you suspected any other member of the police force of having any animus against you? There is one, I think, but I cannot name him.
9897. Did the police watch you closely for Sunday selling in connection with the house in Lower George-street? No, because I made it a rule not to open on Sunday. I had a big place in Princes-street—a private boarding establishment—where I was engaged in looking after the place.
9898. That was the place in connection with which the police laid an information against you for sly-grog selling, was it not? Yes. It happened in this way: One of the boarders wanted a bottle when he came home, and my wife went to get it for him. A man came in afterwards, and said, "Can I have this bottle of stout?" My wife said, "It belongs to another gentleman, but we will get another one," and she let him have it. That man was an informer, and that is how I came to be charged with sly-grog selling.
9899. Did you have a solicitor in Court? Yes.
9900. And he put these facts before the Court? Yes.
9901. And the Court would not believe the statement? No.
9902. Did you sell the bottle of stout? Yes.
9903. Has any other member of the police force ever suggested to you at any time that you should give him money or a present of any kind? No.
9904. When Inspector Atwill suggested that you should give him £100, did he laugh, or seem to speak jestingly? I do not think he did.
9905. Do you really think he was serious about the matter? I thought so at the time.
9906. Why not have offered him the £100? Well, he might have taken me before a magistrate, and charge me with offering him a bribe.
9907. Did that suggest itself to you at the time? It may have done. I know he has done something of that kind once—at least, so I have heard.
9908. In what case was that? I cannot give the names, but I heard that certain Chinese offered him a chest of tea or something, and when he prosecuted them, he said, "Here is a proof of it; they tried to bribe me."
9909. You raised some objection to giving evidence before this Commission? Yes, I did.
9910. Why did you do so? Because what I say here will be remembered against me when I apply for a license again.
- 9911.

Mr. C. H. E.
Lindeman.

11 Nov 1891.

9911. Do you think your telling the truth will have any effect upon a Bench of Magistrates in the direction of inducing them to refuse you a license? Well, if Inspector Atwill came to hear of it he would use all his influence against me, and I know he is an influential man down that quarter.

9912. Apart from this one case, do you know much of Mr. Atwill's general conduct as a police officer? No, I do not.

9913. Have you ever heard of him as a man of bad character, or as being untruthful, or dishonest? I have not.

9914. You have never heard of him receiving bribes from anyone? No.

9915. Or asking for anything in that way? No.

9916. Then, apart from this one instance, in which you are concerned, you never heard anything detrimental to his character? No.

9917. Have you heard it stated that Inspector Atwill is an efficient officer? I have.

9918. While you were conducting that public-house down there, did you notice that the police generally on that beat under Inspector Atwill's control performed their duties efficiently and conscientiously? Yes, so far as I know; I have no fault to find with them.

9919. I think you stated that your wife was present, as well as the barmaid, when the inspector made that remark to you about the £100? Yes.

9920. Was the barmaid thoroughly honest and truthful? Yes; I had her in my employ three years, and gave her £1 a week; in fact I kept her six weeks when I had no hotel because of her good character.

9921. Will you endeavour to obtain her address? Yes.

9922. Mr. Quong Tart.] Regarding that £100, what hour of the day was it that Mr. Atwill came to you? It was about 7 o'clock in the evening.

9923. Was he accompanied by anybody? No; he came in alone.

9924. How did the subject come up in the first place? He simply said, "You got your license after all, and you ought to give me at least £100 for that."

9925. Would you say from his appearance on that occasion that he was speaking seriously to you? Well, Inspector Atwill is always serious. You will very seldom see a smile on him.

9926. You say your wife and the barmaid were present on that occasion? Yes.

9927. Mr. Hawthorne.] Would it appear to you, as a man of common-sense, at all reasonable for an inspector of police, who has been a great number of years in the service, to come into an open bar, and in the presence of two witnesses ask in an audible manner for a present of £100? I did think it was a bit out of the way.

9928. Did you not think it very much "out of the way," as you put it? Well, yes, I did.

9929. It appeared to you unreasonable that a man occupying such a responsible position should make a suggestion to you of that kind? It did.

9930. Have you as a general rule found Inspector Atwill to be a man of common-sense? Well, I have had very little dealings with him except to the extent I have told you.

9931. Have you generally found him to be a man of good judgment? I can only speak of him from what I have had to do with him, and that I have told you.

9932. Did he ever approach you previously in the same way, that is, to ask you for a present? No.

9933. Did Inspector Atwill ever meet you when you were alone? Yes, frequently.

9934. Then, if he was really serious in what he said about this £100, it would have been more reasonable had he asked you when you were alone—that is, in the absence of witnesses? Certainly. I may mention that I never met him after that occasion.

9935. Did Inspector Atwill often come to your place in Lower George-street? He was there three times previously, inspecting the place; that is all.

9936. Did Inspector Atwill come in for a drink on that occasion? No.

9937. What did he do when he first came in? He said to me, "So you got it (meaning the license) after all, then."

9938. And what was your reply? He also said, "You ought to stand me at least £100 for it," and it was then I replied that I did not think it was through him I got the license.

9939. Was no further remark passed? No.

9940. Do you not think if Inspector Atwill had been in earnest on the matter he would have gone further than that? Well, he might have said something further; but it is two years since this took place, and I cannot remember everything that took place in detail.

9941. At a near guess, how many times do you think you have met Inspector Atwill since then? I do not think I have met him once to speak to, only when I met him in George-street shortly after, when I was applying for the license for the "Labour in Vain Hotel."

9942. Did he oppose you? No; he said he would, but he did not. It was not in his division.

9943. Did he ever make any reference to the question of the £100 after that? No; as I have said, I think the only time I spoke to him afterwards was when he stopped me in Lower George-street, and said he would oppose me in my application—that is, report against me—in the central division.

9944. Have you had a conversation with your wife in regard to this matter of the £100 since you were summoned to give evidence here? No.

9945. Did you know what you were called to give evidence upon before this Commission? Yes. It arose in a conversation in Mr. Nock's shop concerning the trouble there was about the Chinese being in that neighbourhood, and as to the effect upon the rents down there.

9946. Were you then induced to state to Mr. Nock, in the presence of other witnesses, about this £100 which you say the inspector asked you for? Yes.

9947. Had you ever mentioned it to anyone previously? No.

9948. How long is it since you applied for a transfer of the license for the Imperial Arcade? I did not apply, and there was no transfer. These are new premises. The manager applied for a license for the Castlereagh-street frontage. The police did not know that I intended to take the place.

9949. It was your intention to have taken it if they had procured the license? Yes; they would have transferred to me.

9950. You sold out of the "Ropemakers' Arms Hotel" four hours after obtaining a renewal of the license? Yes.

9951. Had you been in treaty before with the person to whom you sold out? Yes.

9952. Then you sold out conditionally on your getting the renewal? Yes.

9953.

- Mr. C. H. E. Lindeman.
11 Nov., 1891.
9953. Was the price and everything fixed? Yes. It was done through Ivan Henry, the hotel-broker.
9954. It was scarcely reasonable to expect that you could sell the license of a house that had no lease to it? I had a written promise of eighteen months.
9955. The landlord would not give you a lease? He wanted more rent, and I would not give him more.
9956. Could you have got your lease if you had paid more rent? Yes. The man I sold to treated behind my back for a lease of five years.
9957. After you were spoken to by Inspector Atwill on the occasion when he suggested you ought "to stand £100" was any remark made to you by Miss Shields, the barmaid, on the subject? No; it was not spoken of.
9958. Now, would it appear likely that a man in Mr. Atwill's position, having consistently opposed your getting a license for the hotel, should come and ask you for £100 as a kind of reward after you had succeeded in getting it in spite of his opposition, to say nothing of the fact that he must have known if such a thing were discovered against him it would have resulted in his expulsion from the force? I cannot say anything on that point. I certainly thought it very strange when he went to the person (Dawson) who was renting the shop and told him that he had better clear out of the shop, as, the original lessee of the hotel, I would not get my license again.
9959. It was after that you got your license? Yes, but before the renewal.
9960. How long after you got your license was it that he came to you and said you ought to give him £100? It was about six hours afterwards.
9961. Did he have anything to drink? No.
9962. Did he seem to be in a jovial mood;—did he laugh when he spoke to you? No; I never saw him laugh, I think.
9963. But he might crack a joke without laughing, I suppose? He might.
9964. Did you take what he said to you quite seriously? Yes; I thought he really did mean it. I asked my wife afterwards if I should give him something, and she said I had better leave him alone, as he would only have me up again.
9965. Did you ever approach Inspector Atwill again in any way after that? No; I thought it best to let him and the whole matter alone.
9966. Then you let it rest for two and a half years, and then mentioned the matter publicly in a shop in the neighbourhood? I first spoke about it to Mr. Nock. I have known him nine years.
9967. Did you not think it was a serious matter to speak about in a shop in that way? No; it did not strike me as being out of the way to do so when it was the truth.
9968. Did you not tell him you were prepared to give evidence on the subject? No, I did not; I asked him not to speak of it afterwards, because I was afraid of Mr. Atwill's influence being used against me if I applied for another license.
9969. Did you know what you were called to speak upon when you were summoned to attend this Commission? Yes; Mr. Nock wrote me a letter. [Letter, dated 30th October, 1891, handed in and read, as follows:—"Mr. C. H. E. Lindeman. Dear Sir,—As I told you the other day that I would lay what you told me before the Commission, I have now done so, and no doubt they will summon you; and as the statement you made is an honest one, I trust you will, when called upon, give them the exact facts as stated to me. I may mention that yours is only one out of a good many like statements, and as the Commission is held with closed doors you will have nothing to fear, and I am sure they will compensate you for your loss of time. As I have no doubt you will have to give them my version of the affair, I trust you will give them all you know.—Yours truly, THOMAS NOCK."]
9970. Did you make any reply to that letter? I did not.
9971. You stated just now that you intended what you said to Mr. Nock to be a confidential communication? Yes.
9972. Did Mr. Nock tell you he would bring the matter before the Commission? Yes; he did so after this conversation passed in the shop. He said he would bring it before the Royal Commission. I said, "You had better not; I will not have my name brought in there." But he said he would do so, and I then left.
9973. You evidently did not feel very much about it, or you would have pressed him further;—did you speak to Mr. Nock to-day just before you came in here? Yes; I told him that it would injure me.
9974. Did you say anything about withdrawing your custom from his shop? I said I would never go near him any more.
9975. If it was a truthful statement you made to Mr. Nock, do you not think you were justified in exposing the action of a man so high up in the police force as Inspector Atwill? Well, I do not think I would gain as much as I might lose.
9976. Mr. Abigail.] You take it more in the light of a personal matter, and fear that in making a statement of that kind you will be in danger of bringing the police down upon you? Certainly.
9977. Mr. Hawthorne.] Have you been in conversation with any of the police force since you received notice to attend here? No, I have not.
9978. You are really afraid of the police injuring you? Yes, in this matter of applying for a license.
9979. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you ever been summoned for any breach of the law as a publican in Lower George-street? No; I have never been summoned for any offence since I have held a license.
9980. When Inspector Atwill came into your bar and stated to you that you ought to give him £100, did he speak in a subdued tone, or in an ordinary tone, so that anyone in the immediate vicinity could hear him? Just in an ordinary tone. He came up to the counter.
9981. He did not speak so that only you could hear? No.
9982. Did he address his conversation to the whole of you—that is, your wife and the barmaid and yourself? Well, no; the counter is 20 feet long, and they were, I think, at one end of it.
9983. Then he must have spoken in a loud tone for them to hear him? He spoke in the ordinary way.
9984. Did it not strike you that if the inspector wanted to make a request for £100 to you seriously, he would have called you to one side so that only you could hear? Well, yes, he might have done so.
9985. Supposing that you were going to ask anyone for £100 under similar circumstances—that is, if you risked so much by the fact of your asking it in the event of it becoming known,—do you think you would be likely to seriously make such a request in the presence of third parties? No; personally I would not.
9986. How was it that you kept this matter penned up, as it were, for two and a half years, and then let it out in the course of a general conversation in Mr. Nock's shop? We were speaking about things in general, as I have stated before; and I was speaking of Mr. Atwill's attentions to me. There is a house, the "Blue Anchor Hotel," close by which was frequented by the blue-jackets day and night, and which did a wholesale Sunday trade; and yet no complaint was made about that, although he was always down upon me about the furniture or something.

9987. Inspector Atwill passed there frequently, and yet did not molest them in any way? No.

9988. And you concluded that as he treated you differently he had a down upon you? Yes.

9989. Did it strike you that he was bribed in any way? That I cannot say.

9990. But you think he treated you with exceptional harshness? Yes.

9991. On the face of it do you not think Inspector Atwill must have had a very high opinion of you to ask you for the sum of £100? That I cannot say.

9992. Well, you appear to be pretty well up in the Licensing Laws; did it not strike you that Mr. Atwill was doing a rather dangerous thing in asking you for this £100? It did.

9993. How did the conversation arise in Mr. Nock's shop;—were you the first person to start on the Chinese question, or was Mr. Nock? It came up in this way: Felton and Nock have two shops. Mr. Nock was saying that he took the lease of a shop next to him simply to keep the Chinese away. Then he let to a person who found he could not pay the rent, and so Nock had to take it again—all on account of the Chinese; and he said the Chinese nuisance ought to be done away with. Then the question of Freemasonry came up, and I said I was not a Freemason, but Mr. Dawson was, and then Mr. Nock mentioned that Dawson had told him that Inspector Atwill advised him (Dawson) to clear out of his shop, in the building for which I had held a license as "Ropemakers' Arms." It was when the conversation reached this point I told Mr. Nock that Inspector Atwill had actually come to me for £100, on account of my getting the license, and Mr. Nock then said he would inform the Royal Commission.

9994. Did your wife or the young woman in the bar say anything to you about Inspector Atwill asking you for the £100? No. I think I made the remark that if anyone else had been present besides ourselves I would have taken the matter up. But not much credit would have been given to a barmaid—just because of the name, although she might be of excellent character—and my wife, of course, would not have been taken as evidence.

[The witness withdrew.]

THURSDAY, 12 NOVEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

RAMSEY MCKILLOP, Esq., QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Cheang Ah Sang called and examined:—

9995. Mr. Abigail. Where do you live? I live at Sing Suen's, 198, Lower George-street.

9996. What occupation do you follow? I am doing nothing now. I was in Tiy War Tong's for about a week.

9997. What were you doing in that employ? I was cook. I was also in Bow Sing Tong's, carrying on a chemist's shop.

9998. What other business is carried on there besides the chemist's shop? Gambling inside.

9999. Both fan-tan and the lottery? Yes.

10000. Who are the owners of the gambling part of the premises? Nug Quay, Ah Tong, Lee Sow, and Ah Mow. Those are all I know of.

10001. They formed a syndicate? Yes; a company.

10002. Who is the chief of the firm? They are all equal.

10003. The profits are equally divided? Yes.

10004. Now do these men run gambling-houses in other portions of the city and suburbs, or country parts? I believe Lee Sow has several other places, but I do not know about the other partners.

10005. Is the gambling in connection with this place particularly extensive? No; it is not very large.

10006. Do Europeans as well as Chinese frequent it? There are no European gamblers there—only Chinese.

10007. Do you take any part in the gambling? No.

10008. Have there been any prosecutions against that place? Not since I have been there.

10009. Have the police ever visited it while gambling has been carried on? Yes, several times.

10010. What did they do? They simply came inside and warned them not to gamble.

10011. Has there ever been any quarrelling or fighting in that place? Not since I have been there.

10012. How long have you been there? Only one week.

10013. Have you heard of money being paid to settle disputes that occurred through gambling? No.

10014. Have you a very intimate knowledge of Ung Quay? I have known him a long time.

10015. How does he make his living? I know he has a merchant's place in Lower George-street for one thing.

10016. Do you not know that he is connected with a number of gambling-houses? I know that he is in the Bow Sing Tong and Tiy War Tong.

10017. Have you ever held shares in any of these places? I have had a share in the Yun War Goon—that is, late Suen, Long, & Co.

10018. What amount of profit did you derive from that? We received no profits—nothing was divided.

10019. Who were you associated with? Lee Sow and Ah Chung.

10020. Was there no gambling carried on while you held your share? No.

10021. Have you ever heard of a portion of the winnings in these places being set apart for the police? No.

10022. Have you never heard of the police receiving sums of money or presents in kind from one or the other of these gambling-houses? No, I never heard of it.

10023. Were there proper accounts kept, of receipts and disbursements in connection with your establishment? Yes, books were kept.

Mr. C. H. E.
Lindeman.

Cheang
Ah Sang.

12 Nov., 1891.

- Cheang
Ah Sang.
12 Nov., 1891.
10024. Where are the books;—who has them? The books are burnt when they are finished.
10025. When a number of persons start a gambling-place they have to put down so much money, do they not? Yes.
10026. Well, what becomes of that;—how is it disbursed? Each man puts in so much, and one man holds the bag (that is, the funds), and books are kept, in which are kept all the expenditure—everything is put down in the book.
10027. In your particular case it was not a successful partnership, since you did not divide any profits? It was not successful. It did not pay, as we merely kept the premises, and there was no gambling.
10028. Do you mean to say there was no gambling carried on during your partnership? No, it was more of a lodging-house than anything else.
10029. Was there no fan-tan gambling carried on there? There was fan-tan gambling.
10030. To what extent, and who were the parties that participated in it? It was just a few of the Chinese gambling amongst themselves, for a few pence.
10031. Why did you say previously that there was no gambling? I thought you meant now—at the present time.
10032. How long is it since it stopped? Over ten weeks.
10033. Do you know of any of your countrymen or Europeans losing large sums of money at fan-tan gambling? No, I have not heard of it.
10034. Do you ever visit Goulburn-street? Yes; sometimes I go there.
10035. Do you know that gambling among the Chinese is carried on largely there? I visit the stores—I do not go among the gambling-houses.
10036. Mr. Quong Tart.] You remember a row that took place at Tiy Wortong's;—do you remember the cause of that? I remember a row occurring there at the time I was cook.
10037. Who employed you at that place? Lee Sow engaged me to cook at that place.
10038. How much per week did you receive? I got £1 per week.
10039. Now tell us very shortly about the row that occurred there? The row arose over the food—the quality of the food—and Lee Sow came down stairs and spoke to me about it, and at first I just allowed him to go on, and took no notice of him. But one Sunday he came down to the kitchen and we had some more words, and he struck me in the chest, and I fell. I got up and struck him on the nose. I had a ring on my finger on the hand I struck him with. And he went out and got a policeman to arrest me.
10040. He took a warrant out for you? No, there was no warrant—the policeman came into the kitchen and arrested me. I was bailed out by a countryman of mine, Ah Wah, and on the following day some of my countrymen came together and advised me to settle it, Ung Quay being among the number.
10041. Had Ung Quay any connection with Tiy Wortong;—did you ever see him in there? No, I never saw him at Tiy Wortong.
10042. Have you seen him in Bow Sing Tong's? Yes, I have seen him there.
10043. Do you know of any respectable Chinese being connected with gambling in Lower George-street? I do not know of any Chinese merchant connected with gambling in Lower George-street.
10044. Do you know who owns the place you described as Yun War Goon;—who pays the rent? I do not know who pays the rent. It is paid by the company.
10045. Do you know who pays the rent of the Bow Sing Tong? I do not.
10046. Do you know who owns the place called Ting Sing? Yes; Ting Sing is a gambling-shop, and is owned by Lee Sow and another.
10047. Do you know who backs up Lee Sow with money? No.
10048. How long have you known Lee Sow? Only for about a year.
10049. Where did he come from? From Vegetable Creek.
10050. Do you know any other gambling-houses that Lee Sow is connected with? No; that is all I know.
10051. Is Lee Sow a particular friend of Ung Quay's? Yes; Lee Sow is a very great friend of Ung Quay's.
10052. Did Ung Quay know you were employed at a gambling-house? Yes.
10053. Do you know whether Ung Quay has ever endeavoured to put down gambling or not? I could not say.

[The witness withdrew.]

[NOTE.—The question 10016, witness in correcting his evidence makes a note to the effect that he does not know whether Mr. James Ung Quay has a share in Tiy War Tong or not.]

Mr. Dawson recalled, and examined:—

- Mr. Dawson.
12 Nov., 1891.
10054. Mr. Abigail.] We have called you a second time, Mr. Dawson, to inquire about the statement you made on a former occasion, as to Mr. Atwill and the presents of cigars and tobacco you made to him on certain occasions. We should like you to state to the Commission in as brief and clear terms as possible the whole of the circumstances connected with that? Well, sir, when I made that statement I did not intend it to come to—but I made the statement, and I cannot deny it. In explaining the circumstances I shall have to go back two and a half years.
10055. Is it two and a half years ago since it took place? It is about that. I was living next to the "Ropemakers' Arms Hotel," in Lower George-street, when I came to Sydney. I had been there some months when Mr. Atwill came to me and said, "Dawson, you had better get another place; I am going to oppose the license of this place"—meaning the "Ropemakers' Arms," of which my shop formed a part. I saw a shop empty about two months after, and I took it. I thanked Mr. Atwill for telling me about the matter at the time. "Well, Dawson," said he to me, "You are supplying the men-of-war in the harbour, and you might get me a good piece of tobacco, or a few cigars now and then." I told him I got it from the men on board; and I said if he was anxious to have a piece of ship's tobacco I would get him a piece. I afterwards did get him some, and also a few cigars from the captain's steward (Richards), of the "Opal."
10056. How many did you get? I think I got about twenty-five cigars, and 1½ lb. tobacco.
10057. What advantage was there in asking you to get it in that way from the men-of-war? Well it cost him nothing. I did not pay anything for it, and I did not charge him anything.
10058. Did you tell the steward of the "Opal" that the cigars were for an inspector of police? No. I asked him to get me a few cigars for a friend, and a prick of tobacco. Of course every man on board can draw his own tobacco if he chooses, and do what he likes with it.

10059. Was that the only occasion on which you got tobacco or cigars for Inspector Atwill? Yes.
10060. When you gave the tobacco and cigars to Inspector Atwill did he ask you if there was anything to pay? No.
10061. When you promised to get him some cigars and tobacco did you tell him that it would cost you nothing? I said I would get him a bit, that is all. Nothing more passed. I dare say it was a week after that I got them.
10062. Did he come to your shop to get them? No; I took them to the police station. I gave them to an old man who waits on him.
10063. Mr. Atwill was not there? No.
10064. Then you did not give them to Mr. Atwill direct? No. There is an old man there at the watch-house, and I gave them to him.
10065. Had you spoken of this circumstance to anybody else prior to speaking to Mr. Nock? No. I will tell you how it came out: Three weeks ago last Monday I had been down to Manly, and came home by the 6 o'clock boat. I went into the "Commercial Hotel" to have a drink, and on coming out I saw a crowd of Europeans at a shop a few doors below—No. 199. At first I thought there was a free fight going on, and then I found that the Europeans were gambling there. I walked up and down till I saw a policeman, and I then told him that the place I have mentioned was crowded out; remarking at the same time that, "You chaps cannot see it seemingly." This constable said he would have to go up and report it. I afterwards met Mr. Atwill, and mentioned the thing to him, and he told me to mind my own business. I said, "I think it is my business," and added, "It is a d— nice thing to tell a man to mind his own business when he knows that a breach of the law is being committed. I consider that is my business." He said to me then, "Do you know who you are talking to?" And I replied, "Yes; I believe they call you Mr. Atwill." He then told me if I spoke like that to him again he would find me another billet. I told Mr. Nock the following morning, and said I was surprised at the conduct of Mr. Atwill, especially as he had asked me to get him some cigars from the man-of-war.
10066. Mr. Atwill did not seem to thank you for supplying information that gambling was being carried on? No; he threatened to find me another billet—in other words to run me in.
10067. Did Mr. Atwill ever show any ill-feeling towards you before that? No. We were very good friends before; but he scarcely looks at me now.
10068. He has never asked you for any tobacco since? No.
10069. Did you think Inspector Atwill was really serious when he told you he would find you another billet, or did you think he was simply chaffing? I do not think he was ever more serious in his life; and I felt very small I can tell you. I am over 58 years of age, and if he carried out his threat it would have been the first time in my life that ever I was locked up.
10070. He did not laugh when he said it? No.
10071. Did he say he would find you another billet, or that he would run you in—what were the exact words he used? He said, "If you speak in that way to me again, I will find you another billet."
10072. Might not he have meant a better one? I am afraid Mr. Atwill has no better billets to give than I can find myself.
10073. Mr. Quong Tart.] Regarding the tobacco and cigars you gave to Mr. Atwill, about how much would it be worth to buy in the shop? At a rough guess I daresay it would cost about 10s. in a shop.
10074. At what hour of the day was it that you gave them to Inspector Atwill? I cannot say now whether it was in the forenoon or in the afternoon. I know I gave it to an old man who looks after the Police Station.
10075. Mr. Hawthorne.] Did you tell the man what you had brought for Mr. Atwill? I said there was a bit of tobacco and some cigars for Mr. Atwill when he came in—that was all.
10076. The old man made no inquiry about particulars? No.
10077. Mr. Quong Tart.] Did you see Mr. Atwill afterwards on the subject? Yes; he thanked me a few days afterwards.
10078. That dispute you had with Mr. Atwill about the crowd of people in No. 199 occurred about three weeks ago? Yes. That place was crowded with Europeans, and I called the Inspector's attention to it.
10079. Do you know the name of the place? It is Sue Hing Long I think—three doors from the "Commercial Hotel," on the left-hand side going down George-street.
10080. And when you reported the matter to Inspector Atwill he told you to mind your own business? Yes; I said it was my business; and then he threatened to "run me in."
10081. Before that you were good friends? Yes; I had no grievance against Mr. Atwill.
10082. Did he on any other occasion ask you to get him tobacco or cigars? No; if I were to get tobacco and cigars in that way to any large extent I should be getting myself into trouble.
10083. Mr. Hawthorne.] How was it that you kept this information to yourself for two years and a-half if you really thought you were doing a wrong thing in getting the tobacco and cigars for Inspector Atwill? I did not consider I was doing wrong in getting the tobacco, because the men on these boats can draw a certain amount if they choose, and do what they like with it; as I have said it did not cost me anything; but I was surprised at Mr. Atwill asking me to get him some; and I told Mr. Nock so.
10084. Did you go to Mr. Nock's place on business, or simply to have a chat? I went in to have a chat; to tell him about Atwill threatening me.
10085. Is Mr. Nock's shop a kind of meeting ground to discuss the Chinese question in Lower George-street? Not that I know of; I never saw any meetings there.
10086. How came you to go there? Well we are neighbours; his place is near to me; and I went in, as I say, to have a chat.
10087. Did you go there to make this statement to Mr. Nock with a view of having the matter brought before the Commission? No; I did not; and I am very sorry it was made known. I would sooner have given £5 than come here this morning.
10088. Did you think you were doing a great favor to Inspector Atwill, when you gave him the tobacco and cigars? No; he asked me, as I have said, and I got them for him.
10089. Did Mr. Atwill owe you any money for what you got for him? No; he simply thanked me.
10090. Did he ever ask you to get any more? No.
10091. Did he ask you how you procured the tobacco and cigars? No; he made no inquiries at all.
10092. Did it strike you that he might have had some ulterior object in view—say in trying to ascertain whether the crews of these vessels were trading in dutiable goods, without paying the duty? No; it did not strike me in that way.

Mr. Dawson.
12 Nov., 1891.

- Mr. Dawson. 10093. I suppose something occurred to your mind in the shape of a reason why Inspector Atwill should ask you to get these cigars and tobacco? Well, I thought he asked me to do it as a return for the kindness he had done me in telling me to look out for a new shop, as he was going against Mr. Lindeman's license for the "Ropemakers' Arms."
- 12 Nov., 1891. 10094. I suppose we may fairly estimate the value of the cigars and tobacco, as you say, at not more than 10s.? Yes; I would not give more for it.
10095. So that in giving that tobacco and cigars to Mr. Atwill you thought you were recompensing him for the information he had given you in reference to the shop you rented from Mr. Lindeman, of the "Ropemakers' Arms"? I was renting from Lindeman's agent. But I thought if they took away Lindeman's license they might call upon me to quit, as the shop I occupied used to be part of the hotel premises.
10096. In other words, your shop formed part of the original hotel, and if Lindeman lost his license you would not be in a position to pay the rent required for the whole of the premises? No.
10097. Does the nature of your business in any way necessitate you keeping on good terms with the police, to prevent your being proceeded against by them for any breach of the law? No; I am quite independent of any police under the canopy of heaven.
10098. So that your doing a favour, as you say, for Mr. Atwill, was not prompted by any idea of the police being lenient towards you in their treatment—that is to say, you had nothing to fear from their attentions in the ordinary course of your business? No; I have no cause to fear the police.
10099. So that Inspector Atwill could not possibly have had any object in asking you to present him with these things under the idea that you were under his control in any way whatever? No; I am certain of that.
10100. And when you made the present of tobacco and cigars it was not done with the view of escaping police supervision in any way? No; I am entirely independent of the police. They have nothing to do with me so long as I conduct the myself properly as a private citizen.
10101. You are simply a fruiterer? Yes; and I also supply the vessels in port with vegetables.
10102. How did it arise in the first place that you were commissioned to get tobacco and cigars for Mr. Atwill; had you been discussing the subject of getting such things from the men-o'-war or other vessels in port? No.
10103. How did Inspector Atwill know that you could get them? I do not know. I had thanked Mr. Atwill for the information he had given me, as I have already told you, when he said, "Well, Dawson, you are supplying the men-o'-war, and you might get me a bit of tobacco and some cigars," and I said, "I will, Mr. Atwill."
10104. Did you take it that you were to make this present as a return for the information he had given you? Yes; I took it that it was to be a return for the kindness he had done me in giving me the information about the shop.
10105. When you went into Mr. Nock's and made this statement, were you induced to do so by your wounded feelings at what had taken place the previous night? Yes; it had never been mentioned by me before.
10106. Did you see Mr. Nock afterwards about this? No; I went to his place last night, as soon as I got your summons, and if I had seen him I would have given him the length of my tongue. I told him that I did not want to be brought into it.
10107. Did you think it was right of you to make such a serious charge against a police officer, and ask that it should be treated as a confidential communication? Well, I did not think when I let that statement fall from my lips that it would travel another inch.
10108. Are you a member of the Anti-Chinese Gambling League? I am.
10109. Did you not go to Mr. Nock in his capacity as an officer of the League to give that information? No.
10110. Did he not tell you some time after you informed him of it that he intended bringing this matter before the Commission? No; not long after.
10111. How long after? About a week after. He was standing at the shop door one morning when I was coming up from the boats, and I told him he must not think of mentioning it—that I never intended it.
10112. Did you go up to Mr. Atwill in an offensive manner when you informed him about the gambling in this house you have referred to—No. 199? No; I would not go up to any man in an offensive manner.
10113. Were you civil and peaceable in your demeanour when you drew his attention to it? Yes, sir.
10114. Had you ever drawn his attention to any matter of gambling in that or any other house previously? No.
10115. Was that the first time you ever approached Mr. Atwill to ask him to perform his duty in connection with the gambling-places in that locality? I spoke to him many times before I came before this as a witness; but since then there has been a coolness between us.
10116. How did Inspector Atwill know you had been a witness? That I do not know.
10117. Had you been discussing it with the neighbours? No; I have no neighbours.
10118. Then how do you think he would know that you had been before the Commission? I do not know. These things get about somehow. For instance, I heard the other day that Beadman and another constable had been up here, and I did not know of that until I heard of it in George-street.
10119. Have not you discussed the evidence you gave here with any of the residents of Lower George-street? No.
10120. Or with any of the police? No. I do not speak to them further than to bid good-day to those I am acquainted with.
10121. Previous to this circumstance you have related, were you on good terms with Inspector Atwill? We were on friendly terms enough. For anything I know we might be on friendly terms now; there has been a coolness, that is all.
10122. Had you been taking refreshments that evening when you had the difference with Mr. Atwill? I had only one glass of beer.
10123. Had you not had any drink at Manly? No. I cannot get a good glass of beer at Manly. I had one at the "Commercial," in George-street.
10124. Is there only one place in George-street that you patronise for your beer? I go to the "Commercial" and another house in George-street sometimes.
- 10125.

10125. If you felt, as I suppose you did, that you had given utterance to a statement for the benefit or in the interests of the community in general, with regard to Inspector Atwill, what was your disinclination to come and give evidence before this Commission on the matter? Well, I did not think that a paltry matter like that of a few cigars and a bit of tobacco would go forth to the world, and that is a fact. I did not expect it would come to you when I said it. That was the first time it escaped my lips, and I would not then have mentioned it, but that I was smarting under the insult that Inspector Atwill had put upon me.

Mr. Dawson.
12 Nov., 1891.

10126. Has Inspector Atwill ever asked you for tobacco or cigars since then? No.

10127. Did he complain or speak about their quality at all? No.

10128. He never spoke to you at all about them, except to thank you for getting them? No.

10129. Mr. Abigail.] He admitted having received the present? Yes; he thanked me.

10130. Mr. Hawthorne.] In what way;—did it simply terminate in his thanking you for the tobacco and cigars? He merely said, "Thank you for the tobacco and cigars, Dawson"; and I said, "You are welcome, Mr. Atwill."

10131. And nothing further transpired? No.

10132. He did not ask you whether the officers of the vessels were in the habit of supplying other people with tobacco? No.

10133. Were the articles you got supposed to be supplied on board for the use of the officers? Yes; the tobacco is. The cigars I got from Captain Bosanquet's steward, of the "Opal."

10134. Would it be possible to take a box of cigars off? No; I would not try it.

10135. Are you never searched by the officials? No.

10136. Then it would be possible for these men to have dutiable goods on board, and you could take them off and sell them, or give them to your friends without paying duty on them? No. In the first place, I never go on board the men-o'-war.

10137. Then how did you get these things off? The captain's steward of the "Opal" brought them to my shop.

10138. You admit having got them off a man-o'-war? I asked the steward to bring me a few cigars and a bit of tobacco, and he did so.

10139. And where did you imagine he was getting this stock from? The tobacco was his own drawing. Each man draws so much, and the cigars he got from Captain Bosanquet. He asked the captain for a few for me.

10140. Had you ever got any previously in that way? No; I have never brought any ashore.

10141. There must have been some conversation that led up to his asking you to get him the tobacco and cigars? I tell you there was not.

10142. Then how did he know about your being able to get them? I do not know.

10143. Mr. Abigail.] You are not a tobacconist? No; but I have smoked ship's tobacco for many years. I cannot smoke the other tobacco.

10144. Did not you state some time ago that you wondered why Mr. Atwill had asked you to get him these things? Well, I did think that I being new there, he might have wanted to try me perhaps. But I had no fear on that score, because I have had no dealings in contraband—there is not that much to be made out of it.

10145. But since the time you made this present of tobacco and cigars, I suppose you have had many and frequent opportunities of intercourse with Inspector Atwill, had you not? Yes.

10146. And he never asked you for any other favour? No.

10147. You were on good terms with Inspector Atwill? Yes; I would bid him "Good morning," and perhaps shake hands when we met; or he might stop to have a chat at my shop-door.

10148. You had no altercation with him? No; the coolness sprang up after he had been in my shop one day to ask about the commission.

10149. What was the nature of the inquiry? He asked if I had been up to give evidence.

10150. Was that since you gave your evidence here? No; I had not been up here then.

10151. Mr. Quong Tart.] Is there much gambling going on down there now? Well, it is decreasing slightly now.

10152. There are three places above Felton & Nock's that used to be gambling-houses, are there not? Yes; all of those houses were. There are three to let now.

10153. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do the members of your League go about supervising, as it were, the Police District under Inspector Atwill's control? Not that I am aware of.

10154. Did you consider it your duty, in the interests of the League and the general well-being of the community, to go up and down the street to see whether gambling was being carried on or not? I did not consider it my duty.

10155. You did not go up to Inspector Atwill in a bumptious or officious manner that night? No; I said, "Good evening," and he said, "Good evening, Dawson." And I then told him that I had sent him word down about the Europeans gambling in No. 199. He then said, "Dawson, you had better mind your own business, and you will have as much as you can do to do that."

10156. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you know of any new places being opened for gambling lately? I do not know of any.

10157. If any one has said that there have been some new shops opened would that be untrue? I would not say that.

10158. Mr. Abigail.] What county of England do you come from? I come from Huddersfield, in Yorkshire.

[The witness withdrew.]

Mr. James Macintosh called and examined:—

10159. Mr. Abigail.] You are a senior-sergeant of police? Yes.

10160. Now stationed at Manly? Yes.

10161. And you were formerly connected with No. 4 Police Station? Yes.

10162. How long were you connected with that district? At No. 4 station I was about four years.

10163. And, I suppose, while you were stationed there you had a pretty intimate knowledge of what was taking place in connection with Chinese gambling and so forth? Yes.

10164.

Mr.
J. Macintosh.
12 Nov., 1891.

- Mr. J. Macintosh.
12 Nov., 1891.
10164. Did you make any raids upon the Chinese gambling-houses during that time? I assisted to make them.
10165. How many raids did you assist in during that time? Well, I think there was only one successful raid. We attempted to make raids in some cases, in which we failed to get into the premises.
10166. Did you experience any great difficulty in obtaining admission to these places? Yes; they would have men continually watching for us.
10167. And barricades? Yes. For instance, they would have a door inside locked, and a little trap-door which they could see through, and watch for anyone coming, and when they would see the police, a stampede would take place, and they would be cleared out before we could get in and see anything to justify us taking action.
10168. During your time were these places visited largely by Europeans? Yes, a good many Europeans used to frequent them.
10169. You had complaints brought to the police station that men lost all their wages there and so forth? Not exactly brought to the police station. I have had complaints made to me by individuals occasionally.
10170. Did you receive any complaints with regard to the insanitary or immoral features of these places? No, I never received any complaints about that.
10171. Used you to visit these gambling-houses in Lower George-street? Yes; we used to visit them night and day.
10172. And during your visits did you find them clean and wholesome, and so forth? Well, yes. I never saw anything to complain of.
10173. You never noticed any bad smells, for instance? Only the smell of opium.
10174. Now, did you ever hear any statement made about the police neglecting their duty in respect of these Chinese quarters? About five years ago, I think, Mr. Maguire, a photographer down there, wanted me to communicate to Mr. Atwill that a question would be asked in the House of Parliament if something were not done. I said that, as it was put in that way, he had better do it himself. We were trying in every way to put the evil down.
10175. That was in reference to the gambling? Yes; it was in reference to gambling, more particularly in a house nearly next door to Maguire's place. I think it was immediately before or after that a successful raid was made on that place, and they were fined.
10176. Was that raid made in consequence of the communication made to you by Mr. Maguire? No. I did not say anything about it, as I thought it might be the means of upsetting what there was to do. The raid we made there was contemplated some time before.
10177. When you contemplated these raids did you carefully keep the knowledge of your intentions to yourselves, or did the police go about telling the shop-keepers in the vicinity what you intended to do? Not at that time. In fact the men we brought to assist us never knew anything about it beforehand. Mr. Atwill would tell one or two of us to get the things ready, and to have the men placed in certain positions to be in readiness for the raid.
10178. Then, in reference to Maguire, his was the only complaint you ever heard as to the police neglecting their duty in dealing with the Chinese question? Yes.
10179. Has it ever been brought under your notice that the police, as a body, have neglected their duties in Lower George-street? No.
10180. Did you never hear it stated down there that the police were bribed by presents of gold watches and chains, and diamond rings, to wink at certain breaches of the law in connection with the Chinese residents of the locality? During my time I never heard a single word of the kind. It is four years since I was there.
10181. Did you ever hear it stated that the inspector received presents from the different gambling-house keepers? Just before I left I heard something of the kind insinuated. I think it was Maguire passed the remark to a sergeant who was in company with me on the occasion, and I said I did not think that could be so.
10182. What remark was passed? I did not hear distinctly what Maguire said, but I understood from what passed that Maguire had said that Inspector Atwill must be receiving presents, or something like that, and I said I did not think that could be true, because I recollected Mr. Atwill being offered something that a Chinese merchant was wanting to give him, as I thought, in the way of a present; and I heard Mr. Atwill say, as I was passing, "No, thank you, I do not want it; please do not send it."
10183. Did you know what it was? No; I did not hear what the Chinaman said; I was simply passing at the time.
10184. Have you ever heard it stated that private clothes constables were bribed? No.
10185. Have you ever heard anything to the effect that the police constables regarded the George-street beat as a good beat to be on? No.
10186. Have you heard that a constable on that beat can obtain a gold watch and chain within three months of starting there? I have never heard it; but I have seen it in the papers.
10187. You saw an account of the deputation that waited on the Colonial Secretary? Yes.
10188. Having been a sergeant on duty in Lower George-street, you have a pretty accurate knowledge of that district? Yes.
10189. Would you say that the people there are liberal, kind, and considerate to the constables on that beat? I never experienced anything of the kind.
10190. They never chased you with presents? No.
10191. Were you ever offered a present while you were down there? No, I never was, either from a Chinaman or anyone else.
10192. Is it a fact that you were considered a strict and almost harsh officer in the discharge of your duty down there? I daresay I might have been so considered by some. I may say I was Sub-inspector under the Licensing Act, and being the only one there all the duty fell on me, and as I tried my best to keep drunkenness down I suppose I was considered harsh by some people.
10193. Were any complaints made to the Inspector-General about your harshness while you were down there? No.
10194. It did not influence or bring about your removal in any way? No; I have been promoted since.
10195. Did you give special attention to the Chinese gambling in Lower George-street? Yes; I did so, in

Mr. J.
Macintosh:
12 Nov., 1891.

in consequence of complaints received from women about their husbands losing their money in those places. If I could catch them there I used to chase them out as much as I could.

10196. Is it a fact that you were afraid to take action in connection with these places because of the premises being owned by Members of the Legislative Council and other influential citizens? No. As a matter of fact I never knew that they did belong to any person in the Legislative Council or the Assembly either.

10197. Well, now, when you were trying to detect this gambling and put a stop to it, did it ever occur to you that an amendment of the law was necessary to enable you more effectually to deal with the evil? Yes, I often thought there should be some special law to deal with the Chinese, owing to the peculiar way in which they conduct their business. For instance, as the law stands, if you make a raid on one of these places and find a number of people there while the game is going on, you cannot proceed directly against those persons as in the case of the banker or croupier, but you have to procure a summons.

10198. You regard that as a great hindrance? Yes, to a certain extent.

10199. And do you think that the imposition of fines is not a sufficiently severe form of punishment in these cases. That the fear of fines such as are imposed upon them is not calculated to act as a deterrent. In other words, would you suggest imprisonment on conviction for offence of this nature? I should think so myself.

10200. Do you think the landlords—that is, the owners of these houses—after receiving due notice, should be held responsible if gambling is still allowed to be carried on in their houses? Yes, I should think it would have a tendency to stop the evil if the landlords were cautious as to who they let their houses to. For instance, they might have a stipulation to that effect when letting the premises, and then, after due warning, if the tenant would not stop the gambling they could break through the lease. I think it might be very easily put down in that way.

10201. Are the owners of public-houses held responsible for the respectability of their tenants, or of the houses? No. But if a landlord finds he has got a man in his house who is likely to injure the property by losing the license for that house, he can make application to have him removed, and get another man put in.

10202. Have you heard, or do you know, that the keepers of these Chinese gambling-houses pay a higher rent than other people occupying houses in the same neighbourhood? Yes; I have heard that.

10203. Do you know anything about the general question of rentals down there? No.

10204. Have you heard of any of these Chinese gamblers paying a bonus to get into houses down there? No.

10205. Do you know whether the Chinese gambling-houses have increased in number during the last four or five years? I cannot say that, because I have not been down there for some years regularly, and have only just passed up and down occasionally, sometimes in a 'bus.

10206. How many gambling-houses were there in Lower George-street when you were on duty there? I think there were only two regular gambling-houses.

10207. Would you be surprised to learn that there are at least eighteen or twenty in Lower George-street now? Yes, I would.

10208. Well, if that increase has taken place with the knowledge of the police, do you not think there must have been some neglect of duty on their part in allowing such a development of the evil to occur in the division? I cannot say, I am sure, not having been there.

10209. You feel some hesitation in giving an opinion as you have not been there to see what action the police have taken in the matter? Yes.

10210. Have you remarked these placards outside a number of these Chinese-kept places? Yes.

10211. Do you know what they signify? Yes; I understand that they give the successful numbers in some of the pak-ah-pu lotteries.

10212. Now suppose I were to open a shop in your district of Manly, and I were to put up a notice outside to the effect that gambling was carried on there day and night, how long would you allow me to remain without police prosecution? I should look into the matter at once.

10213. Would you be surprised to learn that twenty of these places in Lower George-street have had these placards exhibited, notifying that gambling is carried on day and night, and that those notices have been up for a long time without any interference from the police? Well, these notices [referring to photograph produced] are written in Chinese characters, and I question if the police would know that they were anything different to those which indicate the successful numbers in the pak-ah-pu lottery. I should not.

10214. Do you not think it is the duty of constables to make themselves acquainted with all notices put up outside business places in the city, more especially when they are in a foreign language? Probably so.

10215. You admit that if Europeans put up these notices in English they would not be allowed to carry on very long without police interference? Certainly not; but I would like to point out that in these Chinese places they put up notices directed to their own countrymen, and Europeans would not be aware of the meaning of them.

10216. You have a Chinese interpreter at the disposal of the police, I suppose? Yes.

10217. And you admit that it is the duty of a constable to make himself acquainted with public notices, especially when they are in a foreign language? Yes.

10218. Do you think a knowledge of what these notices announce would have enabled the police to have moved with a greater amount of freedom than what they have done? It might.

10219. During your time, if you had known that announcements of the kind were made, do you think it would have induced you to pay more attention to these places? I cannot say that exactly, because I used to go and see these places for myself.

10220. Did you ever walk in and find them playing fan-tan? Well, at one time the police did not pay so much attention to the Chinamen playing amongst themselves, but I never went in where the Europeans were playing with them without finding the doors locked, and as soon as they knew of our approach there would be a stampede, and they would clear out the back way before we could get in amongst them.

10221. Did you ever get in so as to see the money on the table? No.

10222. Did you ever hear of a constable going into one of these places when a scramble took place, and he took the money up and put it in his pocket, and went away with it? No.

10223.

- Mr. J. Macintosh.
12 Nov., 1891.
10223. Did you ever know of any feeling to be exhibited on the part of the police against a shop-keeper in Lower George-street for making complaints about the Chinese gambling there? No.
10224. Do you think it would be an advantage to have the Chinese confined to one locality instead of being spread over the city as they are at the present time? I do not think so. I think if they were confined to one district it would increase their facilities for carrying on gambling.
10225. From your extensive experience do you think the Chinese are generally of bad character, riotous, and altogether undesirable people to have located in this country? No. I may say that I have seen more gambling carried on among the Chinese in Lower George-street than anywhere else. In other places I have not found them undesirable as a class.
10226. You find them a law-abiding people, who do not give the police much trouble? Yes. It is only in regard to gambling that I have found anything against the Chinese.
10227. President.] They have given you trouble in that respect? Oh, yes; they have given us trouble there, certainly.
10228. But they always respect the law; you can go into their places at all times; they respect the uniform of authority? Yes.
10229. Have you never known any cases of violence, or riotous behaviour, or squabbles among them? Not as a rule. There was one case I heard of where a man was said to have got struck with a bar of iron. I made inquiries and found that he had received a knock from some of them, and they made a scramble for his money after knocking him down. I went to the place where the man was; the doctor said it was not a very serious case, and the man did not want to take proceedings. That is all I know about it; and that is the only case I ever heard of. The Chinese generally are very quite and law-abiding if they are left alone, and very seldom retaliate when abused indeed.
10230. When you read that report in the papers of statements having been made that the police received bribes, what was your impression? I did not think there was a word of truth in it at the time, nor do I now.
10231. How long have you been in the police force? About thirteen years altogether.
10232. Has your police experience been confined to this country? No; I was in the Lancashire Police in England, for five years.
10233. Have you any property Mr. Macintosh? I have got some land—three allotments.
10234. Where is your land situated? I have one allotment at Botany, one at Croydon, and another at Ashfield.
10235. Is all the land paid for? Yes.
10236. How long have you had that property? About seven years.
10237. Can you say roughly about the amount they represented in value at the time you bought them? I paid about £400 for them altogether.
10238. What is the amount of your police pay? £4 10s. a week.
10239. Are you a married man? No.
10240. That is your present pay of course? Yes; I have been a sergeant for the last nine years. I was a sub-inspector under the Licensing Act, and got £15 a year additional for that.
10241. Then the money with which you purchased this land was the result of your savings during a course of years, and not from any gifts or presents made to you? No; it was entirely my savings, up to that time, about six and a half years ago. I never drink anything or spend my money foolishly. I should say that I had £150 when I came to this country.
10242. Mr. Quong Tart.] How many years were you under Inspector Atwill? About eight years.
10243. How long were you on duty in Lower George-street? I was about four years down there, and I have been under him four years at Manly.
10244. Now, can you tell us whether the Chinese are worse than any other class of the community in the matter of gambling? Well, if it were not for the Chinese down Lower George-street, I do not think there would be any gambling there at all.
10245. But take any other part;—what is your experience of the Chinese generally? In other parts, at Manly, for example, I have found them a very quiet and industrious class of people in every respect.
10246. How many different nationalities do you think are represented by the people who frequent the Chinese gambling-dens of Lower George-street? They are a mixed class—people from the old country and other parts, and generally of the working class—wharf labourers and coal-lumpers and sailors, for instance.
10247. Do you know many cases, or to what extent, Europeans have been ruined through visiting the Chinese gambling-shops? I cannot say to what extent they may have suffered through gambling. I know wharf-labourers' wives have complained to me about their husbands spending their money and losing it in these places.
10248. From your experience as a police officer, which do you think is the worst, opium-smoking or the drinking habit? I have no doubt that the Europeans suffer more from drink than opium-smoking.
10249. Mr. Hawthorne.] Yes; but do you think opium-smoking among the Chinese is more injurious to them as citizens than drink is among the European population;—which is the greater evil of the two considered generally from that point of view? I should think the drink was the greater evil. At the same time I cannot speak with authority as to which is the more injurious physically, because I have not the necessary medical knowledge.
10250. During your time in George-street did any of the Chinese or Europeans complain to you about the gambling as a nuisance to the neighbourhood? No; they did not complain to me.
10251. Can you tell us some of the chief gambling-houses that existed in your time in Lower George-street? I forget their names now. There is one near M'Guire's shop, further down—Sun Sam Kee; then there was another where they used to play pak-ah-pu—several of them in fact, but I forget their names.
10252. Do you understand the game of fan-tan? Yes.
10253. Do you think it is a fair game? No; it is a game of chance, and I do not think any game of chance is fair.
10254. What is your opinion of pak-ah-pu? That is about the same; I do not think there is much difference. Only there is a greater chance of winning.
10255. Do you know any Chinese informers? There were no Chinese informers then.
10256. Mr. Hawthorne.] Had you not, during your experience in Lower George-street, occasionally to make use of Chinese informers to give you information respecting the gambling-houses, to assist you in your

your investigations? No. We never could find the Chinamen to give us information. As a rule, if you asked them anything they would look at one another and say "No savee."

10257. Mr. Quong Tart.] Do you think any of the police have overlooked the existence of this gambling evil, even after having been told of cases down there? No, not during my time; not that I was aware of at any rate.

10258. If anyone has made a statement to that effect would you say it is untrue? No, I would not say that, because I do not know what ground of complaint that they might have.

10259. If you were told that gambling was going on in a certain house in Lower George-street I suppose you would think it your duty to make an inspection of the house, to ascertain if it was true or not? Yes; and I have done it on several occasions when I have suspected houses; when, for example, I have seen people going in and out of a house frequently where there was no appearance of a legitimate business being carried on.

10260. That is what I want to know—whether constables have, to your knowledge, ever neglected such houses when they have been informed that they were gambling-houses? A constable could only report to his superior officer; he could not lay an information. The public might see him walking by a place and think he was taking no notice of it; but the constable, as a matter of fact, can do nothing except to report to his superior when he came along.

10261. What do you think is the feeling of the Chinese merchants in Lower George-street with respect to gambling? I have heard that some of them would like to put it down; on the other hand, I have heard that some of the merchants were concerned in keeping the banks up.

10262. Mr. Hawthorne.] During your intimate connection with Inspector Atwill in Lower George-street division, have you ever heard or seen anything yourself that would lead you to believe that Inspector Atwill himself or any of his officers were receiving presents that might be construed to mean bribes to keep them from prosecuting Chinese in that locality who were engaged in pursuits contrary to the law? No, sir; I never saw the least sign of anything of the kind. I never heard of a present being given to Mr. Atwill, or any other officer, or any constable on the beat.

10263. And you yourself have never accepted or been offered a bribe by the Chinese residents of Lower George-street? No.

10264. And you think any statement that the police have received bribes in the way I have stated would be untrue? From my knowledge of Mr. Atwill and the other officers there, I should say it was, certainly.

10265. Were you in that division during the engagement of Constables Carson and Beadman? Beadman came when I left. Carson was there.

10266. Did you always find him an upright man? Yes; he was a reserve man, and always in the station when I was there.

10267. Now, with regard to this bribery question, to make bribery effectual, Mr. Macintosh, would it not be necessary to bribe every constable on the beat? I should think so. It would be useless to make presents to a couple of them—especially to Carson, or his mate either, because they have nothing to do with the inspector getting a warrant to make a raid.

10268. So that the gamblers concerned in that division, in choosing Constables Carson and Beadman, would be choosing probably the weakest men in the force to suit their purposes under the circumstances? Yes, I should think so, although they might have more power to inform upon them than a man in uniform, because they can go in and out of these places with greater facility.

10269. A man in uniform has his beat prescribed, and cannot go outside that beat? No; except in a matter of urgency.

10270. In the district of Manly, is there any gambling carried on among the Chinese? No; not in any way whatever. They are employed working the gardens there.

10371. Mr. Abigail.] Are you in charge of the Manly district? Yes.

10272. Mr. Quong Tart.] How many Chinese are there in Manly? About sixty or seventy.

[The witness withdrew.]

FRIDAY, 13 NOVEMBER, 1891.

Present:—

THE MAYOR OF SYDNEY (MR. ALDERMAN MANNING, J.P.), PRESIDENT.

FRANCIS ABIGAIL, Esq., J.P., VICE-PRESIDENT.

QUONG TART, Esq.,

JOHN STUART HAWTHORNE, Esq.

Constable Phillip Sweeney called in and examined:—

10273. Mr. Abigail.] You are a police constable? I am.

10274. And you are attached to No. 4 police station? Yes.

10275. How long have you been stationed there? Thirty-three years on the 25th June last.

10276. All the time in connection with the same district? Yes.

10277. Mr. Hawthorne.] You have never been attached to any other district? No.

10278. Mr. Abigail.] Then you have a very intimate knowledge of what has taken place in connection with the police supervision of that district? Well I have been principally on reserve duty in the station itself during that time.

10279. You were never engaged on outside duty? No; I have been on reserve duty for thirty years.

10280. Then as a matter of fact you have not an intimate knowledge of the Chinese gambling that is carried on in the neighbourhood of Lower George-street? I have no knowledge of it whatever.

10281. I suppose that anybody going down to No. 4 station to see Inspector Atwill comes in contact with you when the inspector himself is not in? The sergeant on duty—there is always a sergeant on duty there—attends to him.

10282. Do you go on messages and so forth? I generally go a message in the afternoon to the Superintendent's office for orders.

10283. Did not you on one occasion go down to Mr. Ah Toy's for Inspector Atwill to get an account for a cabinet that he had had from him? No; your worship, I did not.

272—2 L

10284.

Mr. J.
Macintosh.

12 Nov., 1891.

Constable
P. Sweeney.
13 Nov., 1891.

Constable
F. Sweeney.
13 Nov., 1891.

10284. Do you know anything about an account for anything of that kind? No; I don't.
10285. Did you not receive a parcel from Mr. Dawson on one occasion for Inspector Atwill? No.
10286. Didn't you once receive a parcel of cigars and tobacco from Mr. Dawson? No; I didn't.
10287. Have you never received any parcel for Inspector Atwill? No; I never received anything of the kind.
10288. Is there any other lockup-keeper down there beside you? There is the station sergeant and a reserve man to look after things when I am not there.
10289. And you are not aware of any parcel of cigars and tobacco being left at No. 4 station for Inspector Atwill? No; I do not remember ever seeing anything of the kind there.
10290. Are you aware of any member of the Police Force attached to No. 4 station ever having received anything—any present of any kind at any time? No; I am not aware of such a thing.
10291. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you remember, about two and a half years ago, a Mr. Dawson, a fruiterer, in Lower George-street, coming to your quarters in Lower George-street for a parcel which he said was something for Mr. Atwill? No.
10292. Of course if you have been at the station for over thirty years you were there two and a half years ago? Well, I am not in the station at all times. I get the place cleaned up in a morning, and then I go home for dinner and get myself cleaned; then I come back and go to the Superintendent's office for orders.
10293. The parcel to which we refer would not be a large one. It would be about the size of that book, only square? I do not recollect either receiving or seeing anything of the kind left for Mr. Atwill at No. 4 station.
10294. You know Mr. Dawson? I know the shop, and as I have passed I have seen an elderly man and woman there—Mr. Dawson and his wife.
10295. So you know them by sight? I know them by passing up and down the street, that is all.
10296. But at all events you are positive that you never received a parcel from Mr. Dawson which he said was for Inspector Atwill? Yes; I am positive of that.
10297. Have you ever heard during the whole of your residence down there of any of the police in your district receiving presents from the Chinese or from any other class of the community? No, never.
10298. You have never seen or heard of any Chinaman coming into the station and charging the police with having received bribes or presents of any kind? Never.
10299. And during the whole of the time you have been down there you have never heard anything against any of the police on duty in that division? No, never.
10300. You are quite sure that you have never heard anything said about Inspector Atwill or Senior-constables Beadman or Carson receiving bribes? Never.
10301. You have found them on the whole straightforward and upright men? Yes.
10302. Of course you know Senior-constable Beadman very well? Yes; I have known him since he joined the force in Balmain.
10303. He is rather given to wearing jewellery, is he not? Well, yes, he wears jewellery.
10304. Rather more than the general run of policemen? Yes; he seems to have a taste that way.
10305. Has Mr. Beadman ever told you where he has got his jewellery from? He got it for saving life I believe. Of course I have never looked at his jewellery myself more than just seeing his watch, chain, and a few ornaments on it.
10306. And you have never heard him charged with having received this jewellery for neglect of duty? Never.
10307. Can you call to mind whether you ever saw Mr. Dawson the fruiterer inside your station for any purpose whatever? I don't recollect ever seeing him there. Of course he might have been there and me not having seen him.
10308. Who takes charge of the station when you go away? The station sergeant is always on duty when I am out, and there is a reserve man there too. There are always two of them there, one of them to look after the prisoners and the cells, and the other to attend to anybody who may come in for information and so on.
10309. Do you live on the station premises? No; I live in Cumberland-street.
10310. Who lives on the station? There is only the station sergeant and the reserve man.
10311. And they are relieved at stated periods? They come on duty at 10 o'clock one morning, and remain on until 10 o'clock the next morning. They are on duty altogether twenty-four hours at a time.
10312. Has that been the case always during the last two years and a half? That has always been the case.
10313. Well, do you remember any of the men who have been doing duty at the station during your absence ever saying that a parcel was received for Mr. Atwill? I never heard of it.
10314. And if a person said that he had left a parcel at the station for Mr. Atwill, and further said that he had left it with you, that would not be correct? Quite so. I recollect nothing at all about it.
10315. Do you recollect any statement being made about Mr. Ah Toy, a Chinese cabinet-maker in Lower George-street, having presented Mr. Atwill with a piece of furniture? No; I never heard that said.
10316. Are you sure? I am quite certain.
10317. Were you ever sent down to Ah Toy's to get a receipt for an article of furniture? I do not recollect going there for anything of the sort.
10318. Do you not remember Ah Toy going into Felton and Nock's, the ironmonger's place, next door, and getting them to write out a receipt? No, I don't.
10319. Are you quite sure of it? Yes, quite.
10320. Were you ever in Felton and Nock's establishment? Oh, yes, often. I have been there when I wanted nails and the like.
10321. But whenever you have been there it has been on private business? It has been on business connected with the station.
10322. But you never went there on any business connected with Mr. Atwill? No, never, as far as I can recollect.
10323. Is there any other very old policeman connected with the station? Well, there is Sergeant Higgins; he is getting on in years.
10324. Yes, but he would be well known to Mr. Nock? Yes.
10325. Mr. Abigail.] Do you clean out the cells in No. 4 police station? I clean out the cells every morning, and look after the prisoners coming in when I am there. 10326.

10326. Mr. Hawthorne.] You are quite positive that you never went down to Ah Toy's place for a receipt? I recollect now. I am mistaken. I am just bringing it to my mind that I went down to Ah Toy's place on one occasion for a receipt, I think. It was for Mr Atwill. I have just been turning it over in my mind.
10327. It is a most important matter, and you ought to be exceedingly careful what you say? Yes, it was some time ago, and it was something for Mr. Atwill. I remember now.
10328. What message did Mr. Atwill give you on that occasion? He told me to go to Ah Toy's and get a letter for him, but what the letter was for I cannot say.
10329. Had Mr. Atwill previously spoken to Ah Toy on the question? That I cannot say.
10330. But, from the way in which he told you what to do, should you think that he had? I understood that Ah Toy was aware of it.
10331. And when you went to Ah Toy's did Ah Toy appear to understand the object of your visit? He said that he had not time to make it out.
10332. And did you not get it? No.
10333. You came away without it? Yes; I never received it.
10334. If anyone has said that you went there and obtained the receipt would that be stating what was not a fact? Yes, it would be stating what was not true.
10335. When you went down to Ah Toy's did he tell you that he had not time to make it out then? He did.
10336. But what did he say in addition to that;—he must have said something else too? I went on two occasions to his place, and each time he said that he hadn't time to make it out, and, as a matter of fact, I never received it.
10337. So that if any receipt was given it did not pass through your hands? No.
10338. You are quite certain on that point? Quite.
10339. Mr. Abigail.] Carry your memory back now for two years and a half to the circumstance connected with the tobacco and cigars from Mr. Dawson. You have admitted to making a mistake about the receipt. Think if you have not made a mistake about the tobacco and cigars too? No, I am quite sure about that. I never received a parcel of any kind from Mr. Dawson.
10340. Not two years and a half ago. Did you not at that time receive a parcel for Mr. Atwill? No.
10341. Suppose Mr. Dawson has said that you did? I never did. I never received anything from Mr. Dawson that I am aware of.
10342. What age are you? I am over 60 years of age.
10343. Is your memory very good? Yes, it is very good; but I did not think of that receipt when first you mentioned it.
10344. Well, you see as you forgot about going down for the receipt you might easily forget about the tobacco? Well, you see after you had been asking me about it for a while I had a chance of thinking over it. There are so many things happening in the course of two years; but I am sure that I never received any tobacco or cigars for Mr. Atwill.
10345. Mr. Hawthorne.] But you would not know what was inside the parcel? No, quite so; but I never received any parcel from Mr. Dawson as far as I can recollect.
10346. Mr. Abigail.] Is it not a customary thing for several parcels to come to the station for the inspector? Yes, several parcels come at different times, but I do not recollect Mr. Dawson leaving a parcel there.
10347. Mr. Hawthorne.] As you know Mr. Dawson you would probably notice him coming in with a parcel if he did so, and recollect the incident? I know both the old lady and the old gentleman.
10348. So that if he has said that he left a parcel containing tobacco and cigars in your keeping that would probably not be true? No.
10349. Mr. Quong Tart.] Have you had any conversation with any member of the police force since you received the summons to attend as a witness before this Royal Commission? No, I have not.
10350. Can you tell us about how many parcels have been received at the station for Mr. Atwill during the last three years? No, I cannot say.
10351. You have received some, you say? I have seen parcels coming there at different times, but I cannot say what was in them.
10352. Have you received any during the last six months? There may have been some left there; they may have come when I was in or they may have come when I was out.
10353. At all events you cannot say how many? I cannot say how many.
10354. What is the size of the largest parcel that you have received for Mr. Atwill? I cannot say. Sometimes they are large parcels and sometimes they are small ones.
10355. Have you ever heard any conversation amongst any of the men attached to your station about large boxes of tea being left at their houses and of their not being able to tell whom they were from, bringing them back to the station? I did not hear anything about it.
10356. In your time have any Europeans or Chinese complained to you that the police have not done their duty in looking after the Chinese gamblers and putting a stop to fan-tan and pak-ah-pu? Sometimes women and children will come to the station and complain of their husbands spending their money in the gambling-houses and leaving them without food.
10357. Did the women seem in great distress? Yes, the woman I am talking of said that herself and children were starving.
10358. How often have women come to you with that story? I cannot say.
10359. And when they have come what have you done; have you passed them on to Mr. Atwill? Of course the sergeant on duty saw them, but could not do anything for them.*
10360. Did the sergeant say to them that he could not do anything for them? Yes; the sergeant would be there when they came and Mr. Atwill would be out.
10361. Mr. Abigail.] Did the sergeant inquire from them the house in which their husbands were gambling? No, they did not mention the house.
10362. And no inquiries were made from them as to what it was? No, I did not hear any, your Worship.
10363. How long ago is it since these circumstances occurred? It might be three or four months ago, or it might be longer.

Constable
P. Sweeney.
13 Nov., 1891.

* NOTE (on revision):—These women came with dinners for their husbands, who were locked up for being found in Moy Ping's gambling house. It was then that I heard the complaints.—P.S.

- Constable P. Sweeney.
13 Nov., 1891.
10364. Are there many cases of that kind, or have there only been a few? There have not been very many.
10365. And the complaints have mostly come from-women? Yes, women complaining about themselves and their children.
10366. Young women? Middle aged women.
10367. With families, I suppose? Yes.
10368. Have any Chinese come to you to complain of the gambling? Well, you see they would not address themselves to me; it would be to the sergeant on duty. I have seen Chinese there on some occasions, however, complaining of gambling.
10369. What kind of Chinese;—informers or merchants or what? I cannot say what they were, but I do not think they were merchants.
10370. Do you think they were Chinese informers? I think so.
10371. You must have come across a good many Chinese informers;—what do you think of them;—what kind of characters are they? Well; they seem to want to put a stop to the gambling.
10372. Mr. Hawthorne.] Mr. Tart wants you to convey to the Commission your impression from your own experience as to the class of men these informers generally are;—do you think they inform the police of the crimes of their countrymen, more for the sake of making money for themselves than for the public good? I do not know; it may be more out of spite that they come on some occasions. They do not appear to be able to agree very well among themselves.
10373. Mr. Quong Tart.] You do not think that they are Chinamen of very high class character then? Well, of course, I cannot say what their character might be.
10374. Have you ever had anybody complaining to you of much opium-smoking down there? No; I have never heard anything about it.
10375. Did you ever hear of any of the business people down there going to the lock-up, and complaining about the Chinese injuring their business? No; I never heard of it.
10376. Have you heard of anyone coming to the lock-up about three weeks ago, and drawing the attention of the officer in charge to the large amount of Chinese gambling going on? No; nobody came that I am aware of. They might have come; but I did not see them.
10377. How many police are there in charge of that district? Well; there are about sixty under Mr. Atwill; at No. 4 station—sixty men.
10378. Now there is one matter that I want to ask you about again. I want you to think over it again very carefully. Both Mr. Abigail and Mr. Hawthorne have asked you about the parcel that we have been told Mr. Dawson brought to you about two years and a half ago. I want you to try again to remember whether he brought it to you or not? Well, as to whether the parcel came to the lock-up or not, I cannot swear either one way or the other. A parcel might come and be received by somebody else when I was away.
10379. You said at first when you were asked about the receipt, you forgot it? Yes; I could not think of it at the time, but when I had turned it over in my mind, it came to me again, and I recollected that Mr. Atwill did send me for a letter to Ah Toy's place.
10380. How long ago would it be? It might be a couple of months ago.
10381. At all events it was after the Commission was appointed? I do not know about the Commission, but I think it was after the raid was made on Moy Ping's gambling-place.
10382. Have you no idea why Mr. Atwill sent you down there particularly to get a receipt? No, I have no idea. I never heard.
10383. He sent you down there twice? Yes.
10384. Did he send you down in the morning of one day, and then again the same day, or was it the day after that you went down the second time? I think the first time he sent me down was in the forenoon, and the second time in the afternoon of the second day, but I cannot be sure. Ah Toy was out.
10385. What has been your experience of Mr. Atwill. Have you always found him a respectable and upright man? Yes; always.
10386. Have you ever heard of any member of the police force taking any bribes, on condition that they would not interfere with the gambling? No; I never heard of anything of the kind.
10387. If anybody has said that the police have been in the habit of receiving bribes, it would be untrue? Well, so far as I am concerned, I should say so.
10388. That is all I want to ask you about? Of course you will excuse me forgetting about that account, I did not think of it at the time; but I am glad that I thought of it afterwards, so that you will not think that it was wilful on my part.
10389. Mr. Abigail.] Yes, that is all right. We accept your statement as quite satisfactory? As far as the gambling by the Chinese is concerned, I do not know much about that. I have never been in the way of finding much out; but with regard to Mr. Dawson, he may have left a parcel at the station, and I know nothing about it. I do not know whether he did or whether he did not.

[The witness withdrew.]

Constable John O'Sullivan called in and examined:—

- Constable J. O'Sullivan.
13 Nov., 1891.
10390. Mr. Abigail.] What rank do you hold? I am a 1st class constable.
10391. And you are attached to No. 4 police station? Yes.
10392. How long have you been in that district? About five and a half years.
10393. Where were you before you went there? I was living in Sydney for some time before that. I was in Sydney before I joined the police force.
10394. But you have been under Inspector Atwill ever since you have been in the police? Yes.
10395. Do you do duty in Lower George-street? Yes.
10396. And you have a good idea of what goes on amongst the Chinese down there? Yes.
10397. Do you know many of the European shopkeepers in that part of the town? Yes; I know most of them.
10398. Do you ever have any conversations with them? Very seldom.

10399.

Constable
J. O'Sullivan.
13 Nov., 1891.

10399. Do they ever make complaints to you about the Chinese gambling-houses and say how it demoralises their business? I believe that some of them have said so lately.
10400. When they have made those complaints, what have you done? Well there is only one thing for me to do, and that is to clear the street if anybody complains that traffic is being intercepted.
10401. But I am referring particularly to what goes on inside these places? Supposing complaints are made to you about a number of people assembling in the Chinamen's houses for the purpose of gambling what is it your custom to do? Well, nobody has ever made a direct complaint of that kind to me.
10402. You have visited these places pretty often, have you not—you have been in the habit of walking in and out to see what is going on? Yes; I have been into those places on duty.
10403. Have you ever seen them engaged in playing fan-tan, and so forth? No; I have not.
10404. Have you never been present when a raid has been made, and there has been a scramble for the money on the table? No; I have not.
10405. Are you sure of that? Yes; I am positive.
10406. Have you ever been in any of those places when there has been a fight on? I have been in several times to quell a fight. I have been called in.
10407. Do you remember being in a shop one day and saying to a Chinaman, "Do you want to fight?" Then taking him by the arm and walking with him to the back part of the premises? I do not remember that.
10408. Well is it likely that an event of that kind would take place without your remembering it? No.
10409. Did you ever receive a present of any kind from any Chinaman? I have not.
10410. Did you ever refuse one? I was never offered one.
10411. Not even a gold watch or a diamond ring? No.
10412. Are you in the habit of going into these Chinese gambling-places and leaning on the counters there and talking to them for a considerable time? I am not, sir.
10413. And you say that if it has been said that you went into a shop and said to a Chinaman, "Do you want to fight?" in a jocular manner, then took his arm and walked with him into the back part of the premises, that would not be the truth? It would not, sir.
10414. Do you know Felton and Nock, the ironmongers, personally? I know Mr. Nock.
10415. There are Chinese gambling-places near their shop, are there not? Yes.
10416. And I suppose Felton and Nock's business suffers very considerably in consequence, does it not? I do not know.
10417. Do you not think it very likely that the assembling of a number of Chinese in gambling-shops as they assemble in Lower George-street would have a tendency to injure legitimate European tradespeople? I do not know. I cannot say.
10418. Have you been connected with any of the raids that have been made by the police upon the Chinese gamblers down there? Yes; I was in one of them some time ago.
10419. How long ago is that? I really forget the date.
10420. But at all events it was some time ago? Yes; it might be a couple of years ago—perhaps more.
10421. And how many did you arrest on that occasion? I think we arrested about thirty as near as I can tell.
10422. Were they all convicted or fined? I quite forget though; I think they were.
10423. Can you give us any reason why raids have not been made more frequently? I cannot.
10424. Do you not know, as a matter of fact, that Europeans assemble in those places now, as they did formerly, for gambling purposes? Well, I do not know. They may do so, but I really do not know whether they do or not at the present time, because I have not been on duty in that street for some months. Except on one or two very rare occasions I have not been there at all.
10425. Then what part of the district are you in? My beat is round Miller's Point now, and has been for some time past.
10426. Twelve months ago, however, when you were on the Lower George-street beat, you used to see a great deal of gambling going on? Yes; there was a good bit then.
10427. Can you see any reason why raids were not more frequently made, then? No; I cannot.
10428. [Showing a photograph to the witness]. When you were on that beat; did you see a good many white paper notices like those stuck up outside the gambling-houses? Yes; I did.
10429. Did you ever make yourself acquainted with the meaning of them? No; I did not.
10430. Are there any Chinese gambling-shops at Miller's Point? No.
10431. Supposing I was to start a gambling-house down there and put up notices saying, "Gambling carried on day and night," what would you do? I would report the matter to the inspector.
10432. Do you know that when you were on the Lower George-street beat there were eighteen or twenty shops with notices stuck up outside saying, in Chinese language, "Fan-tan (gambling) carried on day and night within"? I did not know that. They might say that, but as they were in Chinese we did not know what they said.
10433. But do you not think that it is your duty to make yourself acquainted with every public notice appearing on your beat? Well, to tell you the truth, I never thought it was worth while to take any notice of them.
10434. Do you not know that there are Chinese interpreters employed by the Government from whom you could have found out the meaning of the placards? I know there is a Government interpreter.
10435. And could you not have found out from him the purport of the notices? I should have had to bring the matter under the notice of my superior officer.
10436. And could you not have done that very easily? Yes, I dare say I could, but I did not think that the notices were of sufficient importance.
10437. Have you got any property? No.
10438. Are you a married man? Yes. I have no property, but I have a little money in the bank.
10439. How much money have you in the bank—you must understand that we do not wish to be inquisitive, and it is only from a sense of duty that I put the question—indeed it is in your own interest to answer it—have you £1,000? No.
10440. Five hundred pounds? No.
10441. How much have you? About £200.
10442. Is that, or any portion of it, the result of gifts or presents? No.
10443. The result of your own savings? No, it is money that belongs virtually to my wife. 10144.

- Constable J. O'Sullivan.
13 Nov., 1891.
10444. And you positively state on your oath that you have not received any presents of money or anything else from anyone in Lower George-street? Not from anyone anywhere.
10445. Have you ever made the statement that you were afraid to perform your duty because some of the properties occupied by the Chinese gamblers in Lower George-street were owned by Members of Parliament? I have not.
10446. That fact never influenced you in the performance of your duty? No.
10447. Do you know a man named Bowker—a carpenter? No. I do not know any carpenter of that name. There is a Dr. Bowker.
10448. Yes; but this man is a carpenter—a young fellow? I do not know him.
10449. Is there one individual whom you are in the habit of coming down on, more especially when he is in the company of a young woman? No.
10450. And you do not know a man named Bowker? No, I do not.
10451. Have you ever heard the police say that it is a very fine thing to be on duty in the Lower George-street district? I have not.
10452. Never heard of them scrambling to get hold of that beat? No, I have not.
10453. Have you ever heard that a man on that beat must be very inactive if he does not get a gold watch and chain in three months? I have never heard it amongst the police.
10454. What is your impression of the Chinese as a class—are they orderly or disorderly? They are far more orderly than many of the Europeans who frequent their places.
10455. Europeans of the same status? Yes.
10456. Do they get drunk very often? Who, the Chinamen?
10457. Yes? I do not think they do. It is not my experience.
10458. Is the amount of immorality with women very bad down there;—do you ever witness any outrageously indecent or immoral scenes in the places inhabited by Chinamen, and frequented by European women? No, I have seen nothing of the kind. There are a lot of Chinamen married to European women down there, but otherwise I do not think there is anything in it.
10459. So that your opinion is that apart from the gambling there is nothing to find fault with in the Chinese as citizens? There is not.
10460. Was any complaint ever made when you were on the Lower George-street beat about Chinamen insulting females as they passed along the street? Yes; a woman complained to me once that she had been assaulted by a Chinaman, but as there were no evidences of injury at all about her—and as there was some doubt about it—we could not arrest the man, but I got his name and address for her, and told her that she could summons him; so that really after that the case was out of our hands altogether. As a matter of fact we never heard anything more about the affair.
10461. What was her complaint;—did she say that the Chinaman struck her? Her complaint was that she called there (it was a gambling-house) for her husband, and that the Chinaman struck her.
10462. But have you ever received any complaints from women that they had been insulted as they were passing up and down the street? Never.
10463. In the instance to which you have referred, the woman had been to look for her husband, who was losing money inside? Yes. She had no injuries whatever, so we should not have been justified in locking the man up, but I took him to the station, and got his name and address.
10464. Did Inspector Atwill ever give you special instructions about the Chinese? No, he did not.
10465. Constables have a set of rules for their guidance, have they not? Yes.
10466. And suppose a European shopkeeper gave you information to the effect that gambling was being carried on at some particular shop could you go in at once and stop it, or would you have to report it to your superior officer? I should report it to my superior officer. As for going in it is almost an impossibility.
10467. But have you not power to go in? I do not know. My impression is that without a special warrant for the purpose a policeman has no right to go in. If there is a disturbance inside of course he can go in if he is called.
10468. Did you read an account of a deputation that waited on the late Colonial Secretary about three months ago? I read a portion of it, I think.
10469. That deputation made very sad and serious charges against the police, did it not? Yes; there were some very serious charges made.
10470. Do you believe there is any truth in the statements? I do not think there is a particle of truth in the matter.
10471. You are not in a position to make any suggestions, as far as any alteration in the law, for the more thorough suppression of these gambling-houses is concerned, are you;—you have not given the matter any thought, I suppose? I have not.
10472. Mr. Hawthorne.] Do you know Moy Youk, in Lower George-street? I do not know Moy Youk personally.
10473. But you know the establishment kept by Moy Youk, do you not. Do you know the number? It is No. 202. I know the place, that is all.
10474. Do you remember on one occasion going into Moy Youk's? Well, I suppose I have been into that shop. I have been into all of them, I think, several times.
10475. And what would you go in for—just to make an ordinary inspection? No; I went in when I was called.
10476. Do you remember, on any occasion, going in with the master of the house, and walking through to the back with him? No; I do not.
10477. Have you ever partaken of any refreshment with the proprietors of any of the Chinese gambling-houses in Lower George-street, or, indeed, with any Chinamen at all down there? No; I do not think that I have.
10478. Are you positive? Yes; quite. I recollect, now that I come to think of it, being called in one day to a Chinaman's house, at the back of which there was some new building going on. I was told that a man on the buildings was insulting the proprietor of the gambling-house, and I told him that if he did not conduct himself properly he would very likely suffer for it.
10479. So that the only time you went to the back of the premises of a Chinaman was on one occasion when you went to tell a European who was insulting a Chinaman that he must conduct himself properly? Yes; that was the only time.
- 10480.

Constable
J. O'Sullivan.
13 Nov., 1891.

10480. And you have never been on friendly terms with any of the proprietors of Chinese gambling-houses down there? No.
10481. Never partaken of their hospitality—had drinks or plates of oysters with them? No.
10482. You say that you do not know Mr. Bowker? No; I cannot call him to mind.
10483. Mr. Abigail.] Do you live in Princes-street? Yes; I have lived there for three years, if not more.
10484. Did this occurrence that you have referred to happen six months ago—was it not more like twelve months ago? No, it is more than twelve months ago. I cannot tell the exact date. The new building was begun in the street behind about eight or nine months ago.
10485. Have you ever heard any charges made against your superior officers—any charge of receiving bribes or anything of that kind? No, sir.
10486. Never heard it hinted during your rambles about the place? No, sir.
10487. You know Senior-constables Beadman and Carson? Yes.
10488. Have you ever heard anything against them—anything to lead you to believe that they were receiving presents from anybody? No.
10489. You have found them, on the whole, very straightforward men? I have found them rather too straightforward sometimes.
10490. What do you mean by too straightforward? That they would tell a man what they thought of him.
10491. They are men who are not given to concealing their feelings—regular Jack Blunts, eh? Yes.
10492. Mr. Quong Tart.] How long have you been stationed at Lower George-street? About five years and a half.
10493. Have you been under Mr. Atwill all the time? Yes.
10494. What instructions have been given to you about dealing with gambling? No special instructions have been given to me, but the usual course of procedure is this: The officer in charge of the station gets a warrant at the police court, and he details men to make a raid on a certain place. If they can get in it is all right. If they cannot get in then they have to go away again, and I have heard that on two occasions when Mr. Atwill got warrants to make raids on places the places were closed when he got there.
10495. You have told the Commission that you took part in one raid;—did you have any trouble in getting in on that occasion? Yes; we had a great deal. In fact I did not get in at all. I met the others on the steps. They were strangers in the district who got in.
10496. How long ago was that? It might be two or it might be three years ago. I cannot remember exactly.
10497. Whereabouts was the house that you made the raid upon? Somewhere near where the old "Royal Albert Hotel" was. I think it was one of those places that has since fallen down.
10498. Do you think that the gambling in that part of the town is increasing or decreasing? It is decreasing, decidedly.
10499. How many places are there down there now? I do not know. I have not counted them, but there are very many fewer than there were then.
10500. What kind of a woman was it who was insulted by that Chinaman? Her husband was secretary to the Coal-lumpers' Union.
10501. She went to the place to look after her husband? Yes.
10502. And you know the Chinaman she referred to? Yes; I saw him not very long ago. He lives in the buildings nearly opposite to Mr. Swinbourne, the bootmaker.
10503. You know Moy Youk? He is a brother of Moy Ping's, I believe.
10504. Would you know him if you were to see him? No; I should not, but I know Moy Ping.
10505. Do you not know Moy Youk? No; I do not know any man of that name.
10506. Did you ever hear any complaints from the business people down in that quarter to the effect that Chinese gambling was a nuisance to the neighbourhood and injurious to their business? Not until very recently.
10507. How recently? Oh, after the Anti-Chinese Gambling League and this Royal Commission had been formed.
10508. And who complained to you first? Well, I cannot say. I have heard a good many complaints. It is now the general opinion that they are a great nuisance, but until recently, from what I could see, the Chinamen and the European citizens of Lower George-street seemed on the best of terms.
10509. If any complaints have been made by Europeans to the effect that the gambling among the Chinese has caused their business to fall off, is that the truth? Well, I am not in a position to say.
10510. Mr. Hawthorne.] How long have you been stationed in that part of the metropolitan district? About five and a half years.
10511. Do you think that business is not so good now as it used to be? Yes; I think there is less business doing down there than there was.
10512. How would you account for the change in business in that locality;—what do you think it is due to particularly? I do not think it is due to anything in particular. Business is very dull everywhere in the Colony at present.
10513. Do you think that the presence of the Chinese in Lower George-street is enough to account for the falling-off in business? No; I do not think it is.
10514. Or do you think it is more likely to be the moving of the A.U.S.N. Co. from that end of the town to Darling Harbour? I dare say that has been the principal cause. You could see ships two and three deep all along the Quay when first I went down there, and about 1,300 or 1,400 men were employed in connection with them, and there was also a good deal of traffic; but now the traffic is comparatively small.
10515. Mr. Quong Tart.] Did you ever know any Chinese merchants in favour of gambling? No; I did not.
10516. Well did you ever know any of them trying to put a stop to it? No; I never did.
10517. Did any Chinese informer ever come to you to complain of the gambling-house keepers? No; in fact, until recently, as I say, I never heard a word against the gambling.
10518. Did any constable ever tell you that he had had a chest of tea left for him at his house by some one unknown, and that he had had to return it? No; I never heard anything of it.
10519. Do you know Mr. Dawson, the fruiterer? Yes; I know him.

10520.

- Constable J. O'Sullivan. 10520. What sort of a man is he? Well, I know very little about him. I have never had anything to do with him.
- 13 Nov., 1891. 10521. Mr. Abigail.] Well I suppose you can tell us what his character is;—is his conduct good or bad? Well I have never heard anything against him.
- 10522-3. Mr. Quong Tart.] When were you married? On the 15th April last.

Mr. Edward Keatinge called in and examined:—

- Detective E. Keatinge. 10524. Mr. Abigail.] You are a detective in the metropolitan police force, and are attached to No. 2 district? Yes.
- 13 Nov., 1891. 10525. You have some considerable knowledge as to what has taken place amongst the Chinese places in and about your district? Yes.
10526. Do you visit them very frequently? Yes; I visit them daily and nightly almost.
10527. Where are most of the Chinese at your end of the city located just now? Principally in Wexford-street and Goulburn-street, and there are some houses in Campbell-street inhabited by Chinamen.
10528. Has the gambling evil increased of late? No, it has not.
10529. Has it decreased? Yes, it has decreased.
10530. Why is that? Well, for some years past we have prohibited Europeans associating with them in their games.
10531. By-the-bye, you were present at a raid made by the police in Goulburn-street the other day, were you not? Yes; the raid was under my direction.
10532. And they were all Chinese who were convicted in connection with it, were they not? Yes; and we got a conviction in every case except that of one man, a cook, who was there by accident. He had only just come there.
10533. But as far as the Europeans are concerned the evil has fallen off amongst them? Oh, it has fallen off altogether.
10534. Is that only since the Commission has been sitting? No; it is during the last two years.
10535. And you attribute that to the action taken by the police? Yes; but as a matter of fact the Chinese do not want the Europeans there. They have always told us that they are a nuisance.
10536. You remember that soon after the Commission was appointed we visited the Chinese gambling-houses in Goulburn-street and Wexford-street; apparently someone had been round to the proprietors of the places previously and warned them that we were coming; we were told that that was done by the police;—do you know of any notice of our intention to visit the places being given to them? No; I am not aware of any.
10537. Up to his retirement from the force, Mr. M'Kay was your superior officer, was he not? Yes.
10538. He was in charge of the district at the time to which I refer, was he not? Yes.
10539. Do you think he cautioned them? No; I do not think so.
10540. At all events you did not? No.
10541. From your knowledge of the Chinese in that district are they not rather liberal men? Liberal in what way?
10542. Liberal in giving to people to whom they may take a kindly feeling? No; I am not aware that they are.
10543. Have they never offered you anything? No.
10544. Not even a gold watch and chain? No; I do not think that any Chinaman in Goulburn-street, except perhaps a Chinese merchant, would be worth a gold watch and chain.
10545. Do you know that some of these Chinese gambling-houses are run by wealthy syndicates? No; I never heard that. I do know that there is some rivalry between the Chinese who run pak-ah-pu and fan-tan houses.
10546. But do you not know that these gambling-places are carried on by syndicates—we have information to the effect that they are—that four or five men club together and run gambling-places in different parts of the city? It may be so; I daresay it is.
10547. Have you ever seen fan-tan carried on? Yes; several times.
