14. THE GOVERNOR'S OPENING SPEECH.—Mr Speaker reported that the House had this day attended the Governor in the Legislative Council Chamber, when His Excellency had been pleased to deliver an Opening Speech to both Houses of Parliament. For greater accuracy he had obtained a copy, which he laid upon the Table of the House, and ordered that it be recorded in the Votes and Proceedings, as follows:

HONOURABLE MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT HERE ASSEMBLED—

During the Second Session of the Forty-Sixth Parliament my Government will seek your approval for measures to advance its programme of reform and progress for the welfare of the people of New South Wales.

The continued success of that programme has required the most rigorous review of priorities and a sustained effort to marshal the State's financial resources.

The financial and legislative measures for this Session have been prepared against a background of severe financial restrictions imposed by the Federal Government, particularly in the fields of capital works, health, housing, and education.

Despite these impositions, my Government is determined to maintain undiminished the quality of the State's services and to protect the employment of the men and women who provide these services, so vital to the welfare of the people of New South Wales.

Further, my Government believes that the elections of October, 1978, give it a clear mandate from the people to continue to resist the pressure from the present Federal Government for the introduction of a State income tax.

That task, together with the Government's policy of holding down State taxes which it has successfully pursued in three successive budgets, has made it urgent to find additional sources of revenue, such as that approved by this Parliament last session in the Lotto Act, 1979.

The Government's financial measures and economic management have enabled New South Wales to lead Australia towards a partial economic recovery.

Major economic indicators show the New South Wales' economic performance continues to be stronger than that of the other States.

For the first time in five years, employment has shown a sustained upturn despite the stringent measures adopted by the Federal Government which have inhibited confident economic growth. However, unemployment remains at levels totally unacceptable to my Government.

The development of the State's industrial capacity remains a high priority for the Government.

My Government has actively and successfully encouraged private investment, from both Australian and overseas sources.

Overseas loans have recently been arranged to help finance two major projects, the Balmain-Port Kembla Coal Loader Project and the Eraring Electricity Project.

The international energy crisis lends new significance to the vast coal deposits of New South Wales, in terms both of export and industrial development.

Considerable progress has been made in the assessment of the State's coal resources.

Tenders have recently closed for exploration on five coal areas. An encouraging number of substantial tenders were received, and are presently being assessed by the Government.

A million dollar drilling and assessment programme in Denman-Scone and Muswellbrook is now half complete and a bulk sample of coal will be sent to Germany within one month as part of the joint feasibility study on the establishment of a project for the conversion of coal to liquid fuel.

The Electricity Commission is negotiating for joint ventures in export oriented coal mines in New South Wales. The successful completion of these negotiations will prove of vital importance to the development of coal resources.

14 August, 1979

The Government is ensuring maximum use of coal for electricity and is encouraging development of industries which require large amounts of electric power.

Arrangements have been made for the supply of electricity to two new aluminium smelters in the Hunter Valley and to a significant expansion of the Alcan aluminium smelter at Kurri Kurri. These developments will provide many jobs in construction as well as many permanent jobs when the smelters are operating.

Through the restructured Energy Authority, my Government is continuing to pursue an integrated energy policy.

Construction has commenced on a $55 million pipeline to extend natural gas from Sydney to Newcastle. Negotiations initiated by the Government have also led to an agreement for the early extension of natural gas from Young to Wagga Wagga, Cootamundra, and other country centres.

The Government has entered upon a joint venture to extend the TOTAL Matraville Oil Refinery. This expansion will markedly increase refining capacity in New South Wales.

The Government is also examining as a matter of high priority the capacity of storage facilities for transport fuels.

The Government is giving strong support to research on the development of solar energy.

A pilot solar power station is to be constructed in western New South Wales. A solar energy display centre is being established at The Rocks in Sydney.

The Government is developing a comprehensive programme for the uses and the conservation of energy in all its forms. The Government is determined to encourage research and experimentation in respect of alternative fuel sources.

Tenders have been invited for the first phase of construction of the Port Kembla Coal Loader, to be commissioned in 1982, with an annual export capacity of 14 million tonnes of coal.

Other major capital works include the deepening of the main shipping channel in Newcastle Harbour; continuing development of Port Botany; a $25 million dam on Mangrove Creek, near Gosford for domestic water supply purposes; and a new dam to be constructed at Glennies Creek, near Singleton, to augment present water supplies and for power generation in the Hunter Valley. Legislation to authorise the construction of Glennies Creek Dam will be introduced this session.

My Government has recently established Decentralization Advisory Councils to advise on the development of regional resources and investment opportunities.

My Government has already progressively upgraded its decentralization programme to encourage industrial development in country areas.

For the first time, the Government is proceeding progressively to establish "shop front" decentralized offices in the regional centres of the State.

My Government places the highest importance on the contribution of the rural sector to the prosperity of New South Wales.

A good seasonal outlook faces New South Wales rural industries. Sheep numbers are increasing, and there is every indication of a larger area being sown to wheat this season.

The Grain Elevators Board is currently completing additional storage at eight sites spread throughout the New South Wales wheat belt, adding total storage capacity of approximately 110 000 tonnes.

With a view to rationalizing the dairy industry, the Government will restructure the Dairy Industry Authority, redefine the roles of the Department of Agriculture and the Dairy Industry Authority, and constitute the Authority as the marketing authority for dairy produce.

My Government believes that strong industrial growth and a prosperous rural sector are basic to the implementation of its broader programme for betterment of the social condition of New South Wales, particularly in the fields of housing, transport, health, education and welfare.

14 August, 1979

The reduction in housing funding by the Federal Government will result in a decline of the number of new dwellings constructed by the Government this year.

This action by the Federal Government will bear with especial severity on the low-income earners who are the majority of applicants for Housing Commission homes.

The Government has stretched its own financial resources to the limit in an attempt to compensate for the drastic cuts by the Federal Government. The Government has already announced that it will defer the planned abolition of Death Duties for one year and that it will apply the resultant saving in revenue to welfare housing.

The Government has scheduled for release nearly two thousand Crown Land home blocks this financial year and a further two thousand home sites will be released through the Land Commission.

The Government will establish a Home Purchase Advisory Service to provide the general public with information on all aspects of home purchase.

My Government maintains its firm commitment to a modern and efficient public transport system.

Legislation to restructure the Public Transport Commission will be introduced.

The Eastern Suburbs Railway began operation in June this year and passenger use is currently well in excess of expectations.

Major work will be carried out this year on the electrification of the Gosford-Newcastle line and the electrification to Waterfall.

A contract will be let this financial year for the construction of a modern ferry to serve the City-Manly route.

A number of important works are being undertaken to construct new bridges and upgrade existing roads and highways and freeway construction is making good progress.

My Government is deeply concerned about the implications of Federal Government policy for the future of the health and hospital services of this State.

The Federal Government recently announced its intention of conducting a National Inquiry into the Efficiency and Administration of Hospitals. My Government has agreed to take part in this Inquiry. The Federal Government initially proposed that, pending the Inquiry, it would freeze its share of the costs of running the public hospital system at the 1978-79 level. As a result of protests by the New South Wales Government, the Federal Government has now agreed to provide sufficient funds to enable existing services to be maintained. However, no allowance has been made for new services such as the opening of major new facilities under construction at Westmead, Gosford and Wyong.

The Government is apprehensive that the cost of hospital and medical services is rapidly moving beyond the reach of the average family. Currently the Government has instituted inquiries in this State in relation to health fund rates and doctors' fees.

New hospitals are under construction at Mt Druitt and Wyong, and major extensions are under way at Liverpool, Newcastle, Gosford and Camperdown.

Significant progress has been made in the prevention and treatment of drug and alcohol related problems.

The Health Commission has established Sexual Offences Referral Units in eight public hospitals in metropolitan Sydney, Newcastle and Wollongong. An additional facility at Westmead Centre, Parramatta, is being planned. In country regions, informal arrangements are being developed to use existing counselling and hospital facilities. A publicity programme to inform the community about these services is being prepared.

Further progress has been made in the development of the School Dental Scheme.

My Government has approved the establishment of an Education Commission to provide a more effective administration for the provision of education and the employment of teachers. Legislation to establish the Commission will be introduced as soon as possible.

14 August, 1979

The Government proposes to continue its programmes in the multi-cultural education area to provide intensive classes in English for newly arrived children of secondary school age.

The Government proposes to restore progressively the State living away from home allowance to parents who qualify for the Commonwealth isolated children's allowance.

The Ethnic Affairs Commission Act, to be proclaimed shortly will give a statutory basis to the Commission and define its objectives and functions. The new Act will enable the Commission to play a key role in the integration of migrants into the community.

My Government has established an Aboriginal Affairs Advisory Team whose primary aim is to allow a truly representative voice of the Aboriginal people of New South Wales to be heard by the Government.

My Government will legislate to appoint a Director for Equal Opportunity in Public Employment to co-ordinate the activities of the public sector in eradicating discrimination in employment.

The Anti-Discrimination Act will be further amended to bring it into line with the Government's original intentions. It will be recalled that the original Bill was drastically amended in the last Parliament.

My Government will maintain its special concern for the welfare of persons who are handicapped, and has substantially increased financial assistance to community organizations for this purpose.

The Government allocated almost $1m a year for the next three years to the Youth Work Co-operatives Programme, and has established the New South Wales State Council of Youth, to advise the Government on the needs, attitudes and aspirations of the young.

The Government has funded the recently established Youth Worker Training Services which provides training courses for Community Youth Workers.

My Government has established a Division of Animal Welfare within the Department of Services to implement its undertakings on animal welfare. An Animal Welfare Advisory Council has also been established. Legislation will also be introduced during this Session to further protect animals against cruelty.

In accordance with its undertakings to protect consumers, legislation will be introduced this session to reform the law relating to the provision of consumer credit. A new enactment will give the courts great discretion to void very harsh or unconscionable contracts.

Consumer advice centres are being established in suburban and country locations to provide, among other services, credit counselling.

Each month demonstrates the growing importance of the machinery established by the Government to protect consumers and the Government will continue to monitor the situation to ensure such changes as may be necessary to safeguard the interests of consumers.

The Government will re-introduce the new environmental planning legislation which has been the subject of extensive public explanation and review.

These Bills will improve the quality of planning decisions and devolve significant responsibilities to local government.

Already this year—the Centenary of National Parks in New South Wales—more than 700 000 hectares have been reserved or announced for reservation as National Parks.

My Government proposes two other major initiatives to commemorate National Parks Centenary Year.

A proposed Nature Conservation Policy to guide future expansion to the year 2000 will be the subject of a Green Paper.

My Government is also considering appropriate areas of the territorial sea for reservation as Marine National Parks.

The Government will continue to promote the arts, particularly in outer urban and country areas and among ethnic communities and disadvantaged groups.

14 August, 1979

The Government has leased land in the Sydney Haymarket to a company which will construct the Sydney Entertainment Centre. Work on the project has commenced.

Capital grants will be made for a wide range of cultural initiatives, including galleries, museums and theatres.

The Government will assist the Australian Museum to develop its collections and activities by supplementing gifts to the Museum on a $1 to $2 basis.

Admission charges to the Art Gallery of New South Wales will be abolished.

The Government is expediting the restoration of the Mint and Barracks Buildings in Macquarie Street and will utilize these historic buildings for Museum displays of materials associated with the early history of New South Wales.

The Government intends to establish a Children's Museum.

The old power house and tram depot buildings at Ultimo will be recycled to provide a visally exciting and greatly enlarged new home for the valuable collections of the Museum of Applied Arts and Sciences.

The Government is committed to continuing its policy of encouraging health promotion through sport, and of upgrading the State's sporting and recreational facilities.

A major Sports Stadium will be constructed at Homebush Bay. A new grandstand at the Sydney Cricket Ground should be completed by February, 1980.

My Government has initiated a review of the structure of the Police Force to recommend any necessary improvements to the administration of the Force and the Police Department. This is the first such review in the history of the Force.

At the same time, the Government of New South Wales has joined with the Federal Government in establishing a Joint Task Force specifically entrusted with the duty to bring before the Courts those persons engaged in drug trafficking.

My Government will legislate during this Session for additional benefits for Police who retire or die in service as a result of injuries received in the course of their duties.

The Government has adopted a positive approach to prison problems since the Report of the Royal Commission in April of last year. The Corrective Services Commission and the Corrective Services Advisory Council, established by legislation late last year, have assumed a much more responsive role in the difficulties experienced by custodial officers and by prisoners. Industrial and prisoner unrest has declined.

The Government is also determined to upgrade prison facilities. Several major prison building projects are in hand, including reconstruction of Bathurst Gaol and major alterations and additions to the Mulawa Training and Detention Centre for Women. My Government will construct a maximum security prison at Parklea.

Regional remand and assessment facilities for juvenile offenders in the outer western metropolitan area and the Hunter Region will be completed during the year, and construction has commenced on a new Metropolitan Remand Centre at Glebe.

My Government recognizes that the foundation of its ability to provide stable and progressive government and to implement its programme of reform is an efficient and dedicated Public Service.

The Review of the New South Wales Government Administration is drawing to a conclusion. The Review has covered the whole public sector and will soon be making its final report to the Government.

The Public Service Act, passed during the last Session of Parliament, significantly restores the place of Ministerial responsibility in the public decision-making process, and lays the basis for a more efficient and responsible administration. The Act will be proclaimed shortly.

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

14 August, 1979

During this Session, my Government will introduce legislation to give effect to the recommendation of the Committee of Inquiry into the appeal rights of government and quasi-governmental employees. The bill will rationalise the rights of appeal of employees in promotion and disciplinary matters.

MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY—

In accordance with your constitutional role as the House of Parliament to which the elected Government is wholly and solely responsible, the Budget for 1979–80 seeking the necessary appropriations for the State's public services will shortly be placed before you.

Estimates for expenditure from the General Loan Account will also be submitted for your consideration, together with amounts proposed to be voted from that account to meet the requirements of a wide range of capital works currently in progress and new works to be commenced this year.

HONOURABLE MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT—

A comprehensive programme of legislation has been prepared for your consideration during this Session.

In addition to the Bills I have already mentioned, the legislative programme for the Session includes other important measures.

A Bill will be introduced to invest in the New South Wales Government the sole responsibility to recommend to Her Majesty the Queen the appointment of the Queen's representative. This will effectively end the colonial status which still attaches to New South Wales even 78 years since Federation and 48 years since the Statute of Westminster.

A Bill will be introduced to abolish appeals from New South Wales Courts to the Privy Council.

The Government will introduce proposals to provide for the public disclosure of pecuniary interests of Members and their families.

Legislation will be introduced to abolish road maintenance charges.

Substantial amendments will be made to the Workers' Compensation Act, including provision for protection for members of the meat industry coming into contact with Brucellosis.

Legislation will be introduced for maternity leave for all employees, whether presently covered by awards or not.

Legislation will be introduced to implement certain of the recommendations of the Parliamentary Committee on licensing laws.

The first two of a series of Bills relating to uniform Securities and Company law and Company takeovers will be put before you.

Substantial amendments will be made to child welfare legislation to give effect to the recommendations of the Child Welfare Legislation Committee.

A trust will be established to administer the Royal Botanical Gardens and Government Domain.

HONOURABLE MEMBERS—

I commend for your consideration the wide-ranging and constructive programme of legislation I have outlined.

There can be little doubt that the remaining years of this Forty-Sixth Parliament will present challenges and great difficulties, especially on the economic front.

But my Government is confident that given unity of purpose to make our beloved country an even better place and a reasonable degree of goodwill and co-operation on the part of all governments, and between the varied interests which make up the Australian community, we shall together surmount those problems, as we approach the Bi-centenary of the foundation of New South Wales and Australia.

I now leave you to carry out the important duties entrusted to you by the people of New South Wales.

14 August, 1979

Mr Keane moved, and Mr Britt seconded the motion, That the following Address in Reply to the Speech which His Excellency the Governor has addressed to both Houses of Parliament on opening this Session of the Parliament of New South Wales be now adopted by this House:

ADJOURNMENT UNDER STANDING ORDER 49.—Mr Speaker stated that he had received from the Honourable Member for Barwon, Mr Murray, a notice, under the 49th Standing Order, that he desired to move the adjournment of the House to discuss a specific matter of recent occurrence and of sufficient public importance to warrant urgent consideration, viz.: "The failure of the Coonamble Freight Centre as a Public Transport Commission goods service to Walgett."

Mr Murray moved, That this House do now adjourn.

And the motion for the adjournment of the House being supported by five other Honourable Members—

Mr F. J. Walker submitted that the controversy and disputation concerning the Coonamble freight area had long raged in the public arena. Innumerable opportunities had been available to members of the opposition to exploit the standing orders and to ventilate the matter. This night they had the right to speak on the adjournment debate which was the appropriate vehicle by which to raise the matter.

Mr Murray said that the matter was specific and of recent occurrence.

Mr Speaker said that when the member for Barwon had raised the matter with him in his chambers, he had intimated to him that he was concerned about the probability of it being brought before the House in a reasonable time by other means. He intimated also that he was concerned whether the matter was of sufficient public importance to warrant urgent consideration.

Mr Speaker went on to say that it had been ruled many times that matters of a local nature should not be raised under Standing Order 49. That standing order should be used to raise matters of public importance affecting large areas of the State. Certainly the matter affected Walgett and areas around Walgett, but it was of a regional nature. Mr Speaker said that the motion was not of sufficient public importance to warrant urgent consideration and therefore ruled the motion out of order.
