Comments and Feedback

This publication has been prepared with reference to the electoral maps and enrolment data published by the Electoral Districts Redistribution Panel. However, without access to registered voter lists indicating where people cast their vote, re-allocating polling places to new districts is an imprecise science, especially when polling places need to be split between districts. The increase in pre-poll votes recorded at elections also makes redistribution calculations more difficult. Comments and suggestions on the transfer of polling places is most welcome. ## INTRODUCTION

This publication assesses the political impact of the finalised electoral boundaries for New South Wales released on Thursday 26 August 2021. The final boundaries included only minor adjustments to the draft boundaries released in November 2020. The new boundaries will apply from the 2023 state election.

This publication does not provide predictions for the 2023 election. The estimated margins provided are best thought of as possible results of the 2019 election had the election been fought on the new boundaries. The estimates cannot take account of the difference in candidate and campaign effort that would have occurred had the 2019 election had been fought on the new boundaries. The difficulty of splitting polling place catchment areas to match new electoral boundaries, as well as allocating declaration votes to new electorates, means the estimated margins in this publication should be treated as approximations.

CALCULATIONS AND METHODOLOGY

To calculate the political impact of the new boundaries, the results of the 2019 election by polling place have been re-assigned to align with the proposed electoral boundaries. Several assumptions have been made as part of the calculations.

Candidate versus Party Vote

It has been assumed that votes are cast for parties rather than candidates. This is a reasonable assumption but ignores that popular candidates or members can increase a party's level of support. New electoral boundaries can see areas added to an electorate where the party vote was not influenced by the presence of the popular candidate.

The roll of sitting Independent members is even more difficult to take into account. None of the Independents elected at the 2019 election contested the areas added to their electorates by the redistribution, making it difficult to calculate reliable new margins.

Transferring Booths to Match the New Boundaries

The Redistribution Panel released detail on the number of electors transferred from old to new district. The transfer of polling place has been guided by these enrolment transfers and the published maps of old and new districts. Where the transfers and maps suggest the catchment area of a polling place should be divided, an estimate has been made to divide the results of a polling place between new electorates.

Dealing with the Declaration Vote

For calculation purposes, all pre-poll votes and declaration votes (postal, absent, iVote etc) have been accumulated into a single total and transferred to new electorates. The exceptions to this are Auburn and Upper Hunter where early voting centres in different parts of the electorate have been transferred in full.

The accumulated declaration vote totals have been transferred to new electorates in proportion to the transfer of enrolment from old to new electorates. However, the vote by party in the declaration vote has been weighted to reflect the vote by party in polling places transferred between electorates.

For example, a part of the Maitland district was transferred to Upper Hunter. The polling places in the area transferred to Upper Hunter had a weaker vote for Labor than the polling places that continued in the re-drawn Maitland district. Reflecting this, the pre-poll and declaration votes transferred to Upper Hunter had a weaker Labor vote than the votes that remained in Maitland.

Two-Party Preferred versus Two-Candidate Preferred Results

The two-candidate preferred count for an electorate is the final tally of votes for the two remaining candidates after the exclusion and distribution of preferences from all other candidates. At each step of the preference distribution, the candidate with the lowest tally of votes is excluded and their ballot papers distributed by the next preference for a candidate remaining in the count. If no further preference is available, the ballot paper is said to 'exhaust'. The winning candidate will have more than 50% of the remaining vote at the end of the exclusions. Where a candidate achieves more than 50% of the vote before the final distribution, the two-candidate preferred count is continued for information purposes.

The two-party preferred count represents a distribution of preferences between candidates representing the Labor Party and the Liberal/National Party Coalition. Candidates are again excluded based on lowest progressive vote, though at some point the second lowest candidate is excluded to retain candidates representing Labor and the Coalition. Alternative two-party preferred counts are carried out for information purposes only.

In most cases, the two-party preferred result will be the same as the two-candidate preferred result. At the 2019 election, 74 of the electorates finished as two-party preferred contests between Labor and Coalition candidates. Separate two-party preferred counts were calculated in the other 19 districts that finished as two-candidate preferred contests.

In this publication, two-party preferred margins are provided for every new district, and where appropriate, a separate two-candidate preferred margin has also been calculated. This includes for the nine districts won in 2019 by minor parties and independents, Ballina, Balmain, Barwon, Lake Macquarie, Murray, Newtown, Orange, Sydney and Wagga Wagga. Separate two-candidate counts have also been provided for Coffs Harbour, Dubbo, Manly, North Shore, Pittwater, Tamworth, Vaucluse and Wollondilly.

Polling place and count centre two-party and two-candidate preferred results can be found in my publication "NSW Legislative Assembly Election 2019: Two-Party Preferred Results by Polling Place", Background Paper No 1/2020, NSW Parliamentary Library Research Service.

Changes Between the Draft and Final Boundaries

Only minor changes were made to boundaries at the final stage, most involving fewer than 100 votes. Three changes involved greater numbers. The transfer of Lord Howe Island from Port Macquarie to Sydney was reversed, creating an adjustment to the boundary between Sydney and Newtown. There was a further adjustment to the proposed boundary between The Entrance and Wyong. The proposed boundary between Londonderry and Penrith was re-arranged and an adjustment made to the Londonderry-Mount Druitt boundary. All changes made at the final stage have been incorporated into tables in this publication.

Acknowledgements and Disclaimer

All estimates have been calculated based on the actual results of the 2019 election published by the NSW Electoral Commission, and with reference to enrolment transfers and maps published by the Electoral Districts Redistribution Panel.

However, responsibility for all calculations, and the assumption underlying them, must rest with the author.

Summary of the Political Impact

Party Composition of Legislative Assembly based on Old and New Boundaries

	Seats Held By Party						Total
	LIB	NAT	ALP	GRN	SFF	IND
Old Boundaries	35	13	36	3	3	3	93
New Boundaries	34	13	37	3	3	3	93

Note: Table does not take account of members resigning from or changing party.

The above table reflects the following changes in party status –

- In inner south-west Sydney, the very safe Labor seat of Lakemba (ALP 22.3%) has been abolished, though it could be argued that Lakemba has been re-named Bankstown and the former electorate of Bankstown abolished.
- A new notional Labor seat called Leppington (ALP 1.5%) has been created on Sydney's south-west fringe.
- Heathcote (LIB 5.0%) becomes a notional Labor seat with an estimated ALP margin of 1.7% on its new boundaries.

Four districts have adopted new names –

- Baulkham Hills becomes Kellyville, though based on enrolment transfers, it could be argued that the new Castle Hill replaces Baulkham Hills and Kellyville replaces the old Castle Hill.
- Ku-ring-gai is re-named Wahroonga
- Mulgoa is re-named Badgerys Creek
- Seven Hills is re-named Winston Hills

Other politically significant changes in district margins are –

- The Labor margin in Coogee rises from 1.6% to an estimated 2.3%.
- The Liberal margin in East Hills slips from 0.5% to an estimated 0.1%.
- The Labor margin in Kogarah, held by Labor Leader Chris Minns, slips from 1.8% to 0.1%.
- The Labor margin in Lismore increases from 1.3% to 2.0%. On first preferences the National vote slips from 39.7% to 39.1%, Labor slips from 25.6% to 25.4%, and the Greens rise from 24.3% to 25.1%.
- The Labor margin in Londonderry slips from 6.5% to 3.0%
- The Liberal margin for Oatley slips from 10.5% to 6.8%.
- The Liberal margin in Parramatta slips from 10.6% to 6.5%.
- The Liberal margin in Penrith, held by Minister Stuart Ayres, slips from 1.3% to 0.6%.
- The National margin in Upper Hunter falls from 2.6% to an estimated 0.5%. This estimate does not take account of the May 2021 by-election.

The following eleven districts had no boundary changes involving change of enrolment: Balmain, Barwon, Bega, Coffs Harbour, Cronulla, Kiama, Monaro, North Shore, South Coast, Terrigal, Tweed.

The following five electorates had boundary changes involving fewer than 100 electors: Clarence, Orange, Pittwater, Port Stephens, Wagga Wagga.

DETAIL OF NEW LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS

Format for Listings

For each new district, a summary table of total vote by party is provided, as well as detail of transfers between old and new districts brought about by the redistribution.

The summary table includes an entry for all parties that contested polling places within the boundaries of each new district. The table includes a first preference vote total and percentage, a two-candidate preferred vote and percentage, and a two-party preferred vote and percentage. In most electorates there is no difference between the two-candidate and two-party preferred vote, apart from minor rounding errors.

Where a new electorate includes transfers from electorates where the party composition of the two-candidate preferred contests were not the same in 2019, more than two two-candidate preferred totals may appear. (e.g. Cabramatta). In some districts (e.g. Manly), it has been possible to calculate a new two-candidate preferred total.

The final line of each summary table shows the calculated total votes transferred to the new district as a percentage of the total enrolment at the date of the redistribution.

After the summary table, a series of totals are provided that correspond to transfers of enrolment between old and new districts. There is a separate listing and total for each transfer that involved polling places. Transfers in from an old district are listed first, followed by transfers out of the existing district into a new district. Enrolment transfers that did not involve polling place transfers have been excluded from most listings.

This is best explained with reference to the listings for Albury and Auburn on the next two pages.

For Albury, two transfer totals are provided, one for the polling places that remain in the new Albury, and a second representing the transfer of Jerilderie to Murray. There is also an entry representing a minor boundary adjustment that moved one elector from Wagga Wagga to Albury.

The listing for Auburn includes two transfers into the new electorate of Auburn, one from the old Auburn and one from Bankstown. There are two totals for transfers out of the old Auburn, one to Granville and a second to Parramatta.

Each transfer entry shows the total number of enrolled voters transferred, as well as the calculated number of votes and the total transferred votes as a percentage of the enrolled voters.

The polling places included in each transfer are also shown. Where a polling place has been split, a percentage indicating the proportion of the booth transferred is shown. A percentage of declaration votes transferred is also shown. Totals of two-party preferred and first preference votes are shown with each transfer. Where a transfer includes an area that finished as a two-candidate preferred contest in 2011, a separate two-candidate preferred total is also provided under the party transfer totals.

The following areas have been transferred out of Lismore

To: Clarence (80 voters, 32 last election votes, 40.0% of enrolment)

Note on margin: In Lismore at the 2019 election, at the point in the distribution of preferences where only three candidates remained, the party percentages were National 44.2%, Labor 28.3% and Greens 27.5%. The exclusion of the Green then produced a Labor 2-party vote of 51.3%. According to the NSWEC's National-Green preference count, Labor's exclusion would have delivered the Nationals victory with 53.3% after preferences due to the higher rate of leakage and exhaustion with Labor preferences.

The three-party count on the new boundaries produces National 43.5%, Labor 28.1% and Greens 28.4%. This would result in Labor being excluded. Based on the 2019 National-Green preference count, the new boundaries would make Lismore a Nationals seat with a 2-candidate percentage versus the Greens of 52.4%. This contrasts with the 52.0% Labor percentage after preferences produced by the exclusion of the Greens candidate.

Legislative Requirements

Redistribution take place after two elections on the same boundaries. The Redistribution Panel is required to draw boundaries so that all new districts have enrolments within 10% from the two specified state-wide quotients. The first quotient is based on current enrolments at the start of the redistribution process, in this case 23 March 2020. The second quotient is based on projected enrolment on 17 April 2023, one month after the first state election on the new boundaries. The above table shows the total enrolment, projected enrolment and variations from both quotas for all new districts. As required, all districts lie within the permitted 10% variation.

Variations Before Redistribution

At the redistribution's base date on 23 March 2020, five old districts varied from the state quota by more than 10%. These were Shellharbour in the Illawarra, Londonderry and Riverstone in north-west Sydney, and Macquarie Fields and Camden in south west Sydney. Camden was more than 30% over quota and projected to be more than 50% over quota by the 2023 election. There were eight districts more than 5% under quota, and in total 10 districts more than 5% over quota. Much of the work of the redistribution concerned dealing with the enrolment growth hotspots on Sydney's edge.

New Districts Varying by more than 5%

The above table has highlighted the new districts where enrolment varies from quotient by more than 5%. There are 13 districts where 2020 enrolment is more than 5% away from quota. Most of these seats have been set above or below 5% based on expected relative enrolment growth or decline. Only two districts have been set more than 5% from the projected quotient, the two vast western districts of Barwon and Cootamundra.

Prospects for a Redistribution under Section 28A of the NSW Constitution

Redistributions take place after every second election, but Section 28A of the Constitution Act requires a redistribution take place where "more than one-quarter of the number of electoral districts has been malapportioned for a period of more than 2 months". Malapportioned is defined as being more than 5% from average state enrolment. The projected enrolments in the above table do not indicate that this provision will be triggered ahead of the next redistribution due to begin in 2028.
